WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The State Department has published a report on labor conditions in Hawaii, secured by Agent Sewall from Wray Taylor, the Secretary of the Hawaiian Board of Immigration. Mr. Taylor's statement is devoted chiefly to contract labor, and he evidently considers free labor as an unimportant factor in Hawaii. He states that usually laborers are held under contract for three years when coming direct from foreign countries under agreement, and for the same or a shorter period when contracting after a previous sojourn in Hawaii. The laborers are chiefly Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese, Italians, Hungarians, and Hawaiians.

The free laborers receive higher pay than the contract men, but may be discharged at a moment's notice. The contract man has steady work at a fixed sum, and receives an unfurnished lodging for himself and family, fuel, water, medical attendance, and other privileges. Contract laborers are recruited by immigration companies, authorized by law. The Government pays not over $130 for each family to cover recruiting expenses and passage of women and children accompanying the immigrants, other expenses being paid by the planters.

The companies supplying Japanese laborers are chartered by the Japanese Government. The men are shipped from the recruiting offices to the immigration company, which then bears all expenses for maintaining them, etc., until they are delivered to the planters. The companies exact security from the laborer to an amount equal to all expenses. Each male immigrant is examined by a physician in Japan and again in Honolulu, for the protection of the company and the planter. Any ailment "sufficient to incapacitate a man for labor, or which might reasonably be pleaded as probable excuse for idleness" is cause for rejection. If his ailment is discovered in Honolulu he is sent to a hospital. If incurable but able to work he is "assigned to easy employment." If incapable and incurable, he is sent back, at the expense of the immigration company.

"His stay here," says Mr. Taylor, of the contract laborer, "is comfortable and not extended, although he is strictly confined and under control. A good bath is the first matter attended to; then a thorough disinfection of his effects, and he is housed in large, open barracks. His photograph is taken for identification, and he is then assigned to a particular corporation."

The quarters furnished by the plantation are grouped together in camps. The kind of building varies with the class of labor. European labor has for a family, or for two single men, two rooms in a four-room cottage; Chinese are housed in barracks, with from six to forty men in a room. The Japanese are often provided for in the same way, but sometimes only two Japanese occupy the same room. Married Japanese have a small room for each family. The houses are "rough frame buildings," most of which have walls 8 to 10 feet high, from the floor to roof plate. Beneath the roof there is no ceiling.

"In barracks where many single men are collected," says Mr. Taylor, "a platform six to eight feet wide and raised two feet above the floor runs the length of the building, and each man has about three feet in width of space for himself to sleep on. The floor space is common property. Again, tiers of shelves three feet wide along the sides of the room, sometimes three or four tiers high, with some slight, low partitions, give about three by six feet for a man." The Japanese with families have in their rooms platforms two feet above the floor, taking up about two-thirds of the floor space. On this the family sleep and live. The European families often have rude box bedsteads.

Many plantations provide central cook houses, "with or without ovens, and large caldrons." The staple article of food among the Orientals is rice. Between one-third and one-half the women work in the field and about the mill, "at the lightest kind of labor. They have many ways of earning money in the camp," adds Mr. Taylor. "After attending to their household duties, which are few and simple, they find time to wash, cook, and sew for others, and these ways the women often can earn more than the husbands. The Chinese and Japanese frequently save money, and at the expiration of their three years' contract have been known to go away with as much as from $100 to $300. It is the reverse with others; they have not a cent, and are always in debt, and when they wish to return home they have to borrow their passage money from friends."

The hours of labor are usually ten hours in the field and twelve in the factory. The contract price is now $15 per month for Oriental and $18 for European laborers. Women receive $7.50 to $10 per month. Only actual time spent in labor is paid for. A man receives no pay for enforced idleness, whether caused by sickness or anything else. The pay roll is made out from the time keeper's report. The men work in gangs, supervised by an overseer, who "instructs the ignorant and stimulates the lazy." The character of the overseer frequently determines whether there is contentment or trouble among the laborers. "The use of force," Mr. Taylor says, "is fast giving place to other methods," among which he mentions legal fines and imprisonment.

When there is an outbreak among the laborers, it is generally the result of an assault by the overseer, an unjust fine, "a compulsion used to obtain unwilling work, or a privilege withdrawn." The grievance is to the individual, and the crowd make it their own. In such cases the alarm is given at night by the beating of a tin pan, and the mob rises. Generally, however, the laborers are contented. "The happy chatter of women's tongues does not evidence discontent," says Mr. Taylor. "There is food enough and a place to eat and sleep and live in, equal in comfort to that which they have left behind." The Japanese live on from $4 to $6 per month, the Chinese on from $9 to $11, the Europeans $11 to $13.

The Old Guard Ball.

The date for the Old Guard ball has been set for Thursday, Jan. 25, and the acceptances to invitations already include a great many well-known persons. Capt. James Kent Mason will again have charge of the decorations in the Metropolitan Opera House. Some novel features will be introduced in the treatment. American flags will predominate. The stage will be made to represent the reception room of an ancient castle, with old-fashioned fireplace and antique furniture, draperies and oak-paneled walls. Major S. Ellis Briggs, the commanding officer, will here hold a reception. Ascending two steps from the ballroom floor, the guests, after being introduced, will move forward to a doorway, disclosing an exquisite moonlight scene. Promenading to the right, they will again enter the ballroom. The grand military march, in which all army, navy, and other men, in uniform, will participate, will take place at midnight.

Found Dead in Village Hall.

Richard W. Borman of Stapleton, S. I., was found dead in an unoccupied office in the Village Hall yesterday by the janitress. He had called on one of her daughters Friday night, and left at 9:30 o'clock. That was the last seen of him until his body was found. He is supposed to have taken carbolic acid. The body was removed to the home of his parents in Broad Street, Stapleton, by permission of Coroner Tranter. Borman was nineteen years old. His brother, who was in the United States Army, died in the Philippines two months ago, and grief over his death is believed to have led the young man to take his life.

Hinsdale (N. H.) Town Hall Burned.

HINSDALE, N. H., Jan. 6.—The people of Hinsdale saw their town hall, which was one of the finest in the State, completely burned this evening. The firemen summoned aid from Brattleborough, Vt., and Winchester, and both places sent fire engines. By the time of their arrival, the local firemen had succeeded in saving the surrounding buildings, but the town hall had been burned to the ground. The town library, books, and most of the furniture, though somewhat damaged, were saved. The hall was built in 1878 at a cost of $25,000. The insurance on it was $15,000.

HOME RULE IN TAXATION.

J. C. Levi Advances Reasons for Favorable Report on Bill to Senator Stranahan.

State Senator Nevada N. Stranahan, Chairman of the joint legislative committee appointed to revise the tax laws, has received a letter from J. C Levi urging the committee to report favorably the bill for home rule in taxation by counties. The letter is as follows:

Dec. 12, 1899.

The Hon. Nevada N. Stranahan, Senate Chamber, Albany, N. Y.

My Dear Sir: I take the liberty of writing you, as Chairman of the Committee on Taxation, to respectfully urge that your committee may see its way to report favorably the bill for home rule in taxation by counties. In my humble judgment (and I have given some thought to the subject for years) there is no bill of greater importance nor one that will give more satisfaction if it once finds a place upon the statute books. It is difficult to see what objection, for instance, St. Lawrence or Oneida County can find should New York, Erie, or Kings be permitted to raise and pay its quota of taxation in a way most satisfactory to its own residents and property owners.

When the subject of the abolition of the liquor traffic agitated the people of this State, all conflicting interests were at once reconciled by a local option law, and a similar provision applied to taxation will forever settle and quiet this difficult and perplexing problem.

If certain counties prefer to abolish all taxation on personal estate and a majority of the people of those counties are satisfied to do so, and find that it works to their interests, and if a majority of the people of certain other counties find it equally to their interests to adopt a diametrically opposite principle, then let us have home rule in taxation and let everybody be happy. I have never yet seen a single objection to this theory that would stand a thirty minutes' discussion.

We believe it would be for the satisfaction of all the people of this State to abolish the tax on personalty for a variety of reasons, but there are many of our citizens who think just the other way and whose opinion is entitled to just as much respect and consideration as ours. Why not, therefore, permit each community to carry out its own views within its own limits?

Why shall the citizens of our large cities compel suburban communities to adopt the views of the city man, and why should the agricultural community insist that the residents of the large towns shall be governed by the same rules of taxation in their own localities as may seem best in the government of the smaller communities? I heard an argument advanced by a representative of the farming interests that if this or a similar bill became law it would injure them in the country.

"And why?" I asked.

"Well," was the reply, "all capital and loanable funds would gradually flow down into New York, and in the country we could not borrow money on our farms except at ruinous rates."

If this would be the result, it affords the strongest argument in favor of a uniform law throughout the State to abolish taxation on personalty. If it could be demonstrated to the property owners in rural localities that money could be borrowed by mortgage on the country farms with greater facility and at a lower interest if this bill became a law, it could probably be passed in ten days. The argument of the additional burden on real estate will not bear a moment's consideration when we see what a very small proportion of the total tax is raised from personalty.

But as part of this subject a uniform bill to abolish taxation on mortgages should be passed, if for no other reason than because the only class who can be reached and who pay this tax is the very class that under any circumstances should be entirely exempt from its application and payment—the widow and the orphan. No listing system of personalty has ever been devised and none ever will be devised that can fully reach the great aggregate of personal property.

The various ways in which the assessment of personalty can be and is avoided during a man's lifetime are well known and are obvious, but when he dies whatever personal property he possessed must pass through the Surrogate's office, and the machinery for the collection of the transfer tax, and so necessarily is discoverable and is assessed, and the consequence is that nineteen-twentieths of the mortgages that are taxed are the mortgages that come to the knowledge of the Tax Assessor in this way, because the great bulk of a man's property is by his will usually directed to be invested on mortgage for the benefit of his widow and children. Good first mortgages yield now about 4½ per cent., and there are often deductions from this percentage for legal commissions or expenses connected with collection.

The tax in New York County for 1899 was 2.4804 per cent., so that if a New Yorker had left $100,000 on mortgage for the benefit of his widow and children, the income from it would average $4,500 per annum, subject as above, and if the tax were honestly paid upon this estate it would result that the State and the county would take more than half of this annual income, and the widow and orphan, who are usually non-producers, might live on the balance if they can, and if they cannot, then they may starve, in order that an antiquated theory, impracticable of execution and barren of adequate results, may still remain on the statute books of the great Empire State!

Let us therefore enact:

1. A law for home rule in taxation.
2. A uniform law exempting from taxation all moneys invested on bond and mortgage. Or, at all events,
3. A uniform law thus exempting the estates of deceased persons so invested. Respectfully yours, J. C. LEVI.

PROPOSED TAX ON MORTGAGES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I see by to-day's paper that the special joint committee of the Legislature appointed during last session to investigate conditions and suggest reforms in the tax laws will recommend a plan of taxation the main features of which are: Abolition of State taxation of real estate; direct State taxation to be levied upon mortgages and upon capital stock of trust companies, and real estate to be subject to taxation only for local purposes.

The bill which is now being drawn by Senator Stranahan provides for the levying of a tax of 5 mills upon all mortgages. It is strange that this should be considered "an abolition of State taxation of real estate," because the enactment of such a law would simply add the burden of 5 mills to the taxes already paid by the unfortunate property holders.

One of the first results of the passage of such a law would be the enforcement of the so-called "Brundage clause," which is part of many of the real estate mortgages. This clause, which I have invariably inserted in the mortgages drawn up by me, provides that "if the Legislature of the State of New York shall pass any law taxing mortgages in the hands of the holders thereof, or the debts secured thereby, the mortgagee shall be entitled, upon payment of such tax, to add the sum so paid, together with the interest thereon from the date of payment, to the moneys secured by the mortgage, and the same shall become a lien on the premises secured by the mortgage, and the mortgagor will repay to the mortgagee any such tax so paid, with interest at 6 per cent. per annum from the date of its payment, and that after default in the repayment of any such tax by the mortgagor for twenty days from the date of its payment the whole of the principal sum and all the moneys secured by the mortgage shall become immediately due at the option of the mortgagee."

Now, the immediate results of the passage of the law taxing mortgages containing this clause would either be a calling in of the loan by the mortgagee or an agreement on the part of the mortgagor to assume the burden of the mortgage tax. In either event the unfortunate property owner is the injured person. If the loan is called in he will be put to the expense of negotiating a new loan, and in all probability will find that the lender who wants 4½ per cent. for his money will insist on getting that net sum, and if there is a tax of one-half of 1 per cent. on the mortgage, that the additional expense will be added to the burden of the property holder, who will, perforce, have to pay 5 per cent. for his money instead of 4½ per cent. under present conditions.

A plan of State taxation on mortgages in the hands of the holders will operate in increasing the present double taxation of real estate—that is, first, taxation of the value of the real estate; then taxation on the value of the real estate plus personal taxation on the mortgage indebtedness—to a triple taxation, by adding the State tax of one-half of 1 per cent. on the mortgage.

If the owners of real estate should refuse to assume this extra burden of 5 mills on their mortgage indebtedness, millions of dollars will undoubtedly be invested in gilt-edge railroad securities, which will then pay a much better return than real estate mortgages, and will enable many large owners thereof to escape taxation entirely.

There is one class of people who pay a small tax, and who could well afford to contribute a substantial part of both State and city taxes. I refer to thousands of businesses conducted in New York and other large cities, doing hundreds of millions of dollars of business annually, where the taxes paid by concerns other than corporations are simply nil. It is true that the men composing the firms pay personal taxes, but it takes only a slight knowledge of the situation to realize how inadequate and ridiculously small these personal taxes are.

A system by which business houses would be taxed a very small percentage, say, one-tenth of 1 per cent. on their annual net sales, would form a part of the business expense which would be hardly felt, and which would make in the aggregate a very large contribution to our tax budget. Such a plan would be really turning up new soil and getting a fair contribution to State and city expenses from a class of people (including foreign houses selling millions of dollars here annually) that to-day practically do not bear any part of the public burden.

The expectation that the mortgagee will pay the 5 mills tax on the mortgage is about as reasonable as the statement that has often been made in connection with the tariff "that the foreign manufacturer pays the tax." MEYER D. ROTHSCHILD.

New York, Jan. 5, 1900.

B. J. GUERRA A SUICIDE?

Man Supposed to be Treasurer of Cuban Junta Found Dead in Philadelphia Hotel.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—A man registering as Benjamin J. Guerra of New York was found dead in the Lafayette Hotel today. By his side was found a half-emptied laudanum bottle and a revolver, which had not been used. The man arrived at the hotel on Friday afternoon. Nothing is known of him here, and he left no clue to show why he took his life. The police are inclined to believe that he was at one time connected with the Cuban Junta in New York. No reason is known for the suicide.

In Cuban circles the belief is expressed that Guerra was the Treasurer of that body. He had a dress-suit case with him and some money. He was described as about forty years of age, dark-complexioned, with a dark mustache, and was about 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighed about 160 pounds.

It was impossible to-night to learn whether or not any letters or other papers were found on the dead man.

The widow of Guerra was found at 104 West Sixty-first Street early this (Sunday) morning, where she lived with her husband and a family of seven daughters and sons.

The woman said her husband was a cigar dealer, with an office at 192 Water Street. He was also interested in a Cuban tobacco plantation. He had been in this city for many years. When asked if Guerra had any business trouble that she knew of, Mrs. Guerra said that his business was in a prosperous condition, and she knew of no reason why he should have wished to end his life.

The woman last saw her husband on Friday morning, when he left home to go to his office. He left his office at noontime. It was not known where he had gone and nothing was heard of him or from him till yesterday, when he was found in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Guerra admitted that her husband was a member of the Cuban Junta.

RUSSIA AND AFGHANISTAN.

Movements of Troops on Afghan Frontier Were to Test Capacity of Central Asian Railroads.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—On the Stock Exchange to-day prices were weak at the opening, partly due to stories of Russia massing troops on the frontier of Afghanistan.

A semi-official explanation of these movements comes to-day from St. Petersburg, to the effect that they were merely to test the capacity of the Central Asian railroads to transport troops. The experiment, it is added, is regarded as highly successful, as it proves that in case of necessity troops from the Caucasus can reach Kushka in eight days.

The explanation is hardly regarded as entirely satisfactory, but official circles discredit the idea that Russia's present movements in any way threaten Afghanistan or India.

TEACHERS' PORTRAIT GALLERY.

Order that Candidates for Teachers' Training Schools Must Furnish Their Photographs Is Criticised.

City Superintendent Maxwell apparently is collecting a photograph gallery of the public school teachers of this city. One of the qualifications for the examinations for admission to training schools for teachers held the past week in Brooklyn and Manhattan was that each applicant should file with the Board of Examiners a photograph of himself or herself. This order created considerable comment and some criticism among the two hundred-odd candidates, the great majority of whom were women. Some of them said that they could not imagine why they should be obliged to furnish their pictures, and that they could not understand why that should be a requirement of their admission to the training school.

Other qualifications required were that each applicant should be at least seventeen years of age, that each should report when notified for a physical examination to one of the physicians authorized by the Board of Education, and that each should subscribe in good faith to the declaration that his or her object in seeking admission was to prepare for teaching and to engage in teaching in the public schools of the State of New York at the conclusion of such preparation. Each applicant, moreover, had to hold as a minimum qualification either a diploma of graduation from a High School or an academy having a four years' course of study, approved by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, except in the case of an applicant who was graduated from a three years' course prior to July 1, 1898, or a diploma from an institution of equal or higher rank, approved by the same authority.

The examinations were on the following groups of subjects, each applicant being required to pass in five of them: English; mathematics, including arithmetic, algebra, and geometry; history and civics, including Greek, Roman, English, and American history; geography, drawing, science, including botany, zoology, physiology, and physics; Latin or French or German. The subjects of examination in English comprised grammar, rhetoric, and literature, founded on the following works: Dryden's "Palamon and Arcite," Pope's "Homer's Iliad," Addison's "Sir Roger de Coverley" papers in The Spectator, Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield," Scott's "Ivanhoe," De Quincey's "Flight of a Tartar Tribe," Cooper's "Last of the Mohicans," Tennyson's "Princess," Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal," Shakespeare's "Macbeth," Milton's "Paradise Lost," Burke's "Speech on Conciliation with America," and Macaulay's essays on Milton and Addison. The examination in one of the foreign languages includes grammar, prose composition, and translation into English of any passages.

These examinations took place last Wednesday and Friday at the training school for teachers, One Hundred and Nineteenth Street and Second Avenue, and at the Brooklyn Training School for Teachers, Ryerson Street near Myrtle Avenue. Further examinations will be held to-morrow.

BOY CONFESSES TO ARSON.

Says He Was Paid by Agent to Set Fire to a North Dakota Elevator.

CARRINGTON, N. D., Jan. 6.—A sensation has been caused by the confession of a seventeen-year-old boy named Forsythe that he set fire to the Monarch Elevator, which burned a week ago, having, he says, been hired to do so by the agent, Sundahl.

There should have been 7,000 bushels of wheat in the elevator, but the company claims to have discovered that Sundahl was 3,000 bushels short. He has been arrested, charged with arson and embezzlement. He was in Fargo at the time of the fire. The boy claims to have received $35 and a bicycle.

New York Clipper Annual.

The New York Clipper Annual is out in attractive style, and contains, in the usual convenient form, theatrical and sporting chronologies, a list of deaths in the amusement professions, the aquatic and athletic doings of the last year, racing and trotting, baseball, cricket, and wheeling records, and lists of the best performances in all departments of sport. The stage and the field of sport are extensively illustrated in half-tone portraits.

DELVING IN FAMILY HISTORY.

The Demand for Books of Genealogy Increasing at the Libraries—Historical Society's Work.

Interest in family history is by no means on the wane, if the statements of librarians, who have ample means of judging, may be believed. At the Lenox Library the call for genealogical works is constantly increasing, and numerous seekers into family records are inquiring for information almost daily at the rooms of the New York Historical Society. Robert H. Kelby, the librarian, gave some interesting statements on this subject in his annual report last week.

"The growing interest in genealogy has occasioned more demand for volumes in that line than has been seen in any other department of the library," he said. "Our collection now contains 2,826 genealogies and 841 works in heraldry. The department of State, county, and local history embraces 6,992 volumes, chiefly of Eastern and Western States."

Most of this large collection is a portion of the Phoenix Library of Genealogy and Heraldry, and over 100 new titles were added last year from the fund left for its maintenance. This collection is the most complete of its kind in the city, and is only exceeded by one or two in the country.

The library of the Historical Society amounts now to over 100,000 volumes, being particularly rich in early Americana, Indian history, biography, and Revolutionary and civil war records.

It was in 1858, when the present building at Second Avenue and Eleventh Street was made the home of the society, that the library was started. The additions up to 1878 were only 12,000 volumes, but from that time to the present the accumulations have been 55,759 volumes and 54,662 pamphlets, irrespective of prints, autographs, and curiosities.

Mr. Kelly reports that the additions in 1899 were 4,878 volumes, 8,403 pamphlets, 436 manuscripts, 92 maps, 234 broadsides, and 250 engravings. One of the notable additions last month consisted of 47 volumes of early newspapers and 614 separate numbers chiefly of the period since 1800. That the society needs a new building is acknowledged by all.

"We are literally crowded," added Mr. Kelly. "The rapid increase of the library alone presents an exceedingly difficult problem to solve, as to arrangements within the present space. During the past year temporary relief was provided for the overcrowded condition by the erection of six additional alcoves, holding 2,000 volumes. These are now entirely filled, the books being placed in double rows, at that."

A series of papers that will be particularly interesting to lovers of old New York has been arranged for the regular monthly meetings during the coming year. It is the idea to present in each one some phase of New York life in 1800, just one hundred years ago. The first paper of the series will be read at the February meeting on "Physicians and Medicine in New York a Century Ago." Other papers will be on architecture, newspapers, theatres, and amusements.

TREATING DIPHTHERIA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The close of the past year shows, according to the Health Department report, that 1,600 deaths have occurred from diphtheria. In view of this fact, and the further fact that the Board of Health now contemplates the building of another diphtheria hospital in Brooklyn, to be known as the Diphtheria Pavilion—to be in conjunction with the Kingston Avenue Contagious Disease Hospital of Brooklyn—I am prompted to make some very relevant remarks on this subject.

If it be at all desirable to save human life, or, if that be the object to be secured through the expenditure of money by the New York Board of Health, then let me say that, in my judgment the present course taken by said board indicates that it has a poor way of showing such object. There has not been a single day while the 1,600 lives were being snuffed out by diphtheria that the Board of Health has not had in its possession the remedy by which, if the same were properly and timely applied, the whole 1,600 lives could have been saved.

We have a distinct recollection of the claims made by the city bacteriologist during the past three years of the wonderful decrease he was causing in the death rate in the City of New York through the use of his much-boasted remedy, anti-toxine. If it be true that there has been such a decrease in this disease, then it seems strange that such decrease should call for the increase of more diphtheria hospitals. The new building proposed is to be 37 feet wide and 73 feet long, and to cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $20,000. Many bids were received, ranging from $22,000 to $25,000, all of which were rejected by the board because they exceeded the present appropriation available for such purpose. I do not object to new buildings, I do not object to progress, but I do maintain that all useless and unnecessary buildings, if built, only cause an extravagant waste of the public funds and constitute an additional burden upon the taxpayers.

All will admit that prevention is better than cure, as, when applied to diphtheria, it costs less and is never followed by post-diphtheritic paralysis or other unfortunate sequela.

Several years ago Dr. F. M. Bracelin of Iowa discovered that chlorine gas could be so directed as to be capable of inhalation without producing suffocation, and, when thus inhaled, it would not only cure diphtheria, but absolutely prevent the disease, no matter how much one is exposed to it. With a knowledge of the existence of this remedy, and of its inestimable value, I became familiar, through a personal and intimate acquaintance with the doctor, and through a personal knowledge of its clinical application in several hundred cases. I have never known a case where it was used in proper time where death resulted.

Through my efforts, persisted in for a period of at least fifteen months, the New York Board of Health finally consented, in April, 1898, to test the merits of this remedy in the Kingston Avenue Contagious Disease Hospital of Brooklyn. The complete and detailed working formula was supplied, at my request, by Dr. Bracelin to the Board of Health, and the two liquids which constitute the remedy when combined were made by the city chemist of this city for use in the said hospital. It was there tested under the supervision of the present New York Board of Health in thirty-five consecutive cases of true diphtheria, bacteriologically proved to be such, and such tests resulted in thirty-five complete recoveries. In other words, it never failed in a single case, and that, too, covering a period while seventeen died in the same hospital, where anti-toxine was relied upon. As soon as it was discovered that this remedy gave such remarkable satisfaction, an order was issued by the present Board of Health to discontinue the use of the chlorine remedy in said hospital.

Now, the question arises, if the remedy were so good as is claimed for it, and, if it saved a human life in every instance in which it was used, then why or for what reason was its use discontinued? Explanations would seem to be in order. While I feel satisfied that I can give the reasons which prompted the board to take this course, yet I would prefer to have the gentlemen who are responsible for it give their reasons first, if they will but do so. I have given the facts, and, in the absence of an explanation, the public may draw its conclusions.

The Bracelin method is administered by inhalation only. Under its influence the membrane quickly disappears, the temperature rapidly goes down, and the patient recovers. It is cheaper than anti-toxine. It is better than anti-toxine. It is more easily administered and is absolutely free from danger. Besides this, it is not a new and untried remedy, as the Board of Health itself used it successfully in thirty-five cases, and Dr. John L. Feeney, Health Inspector of the Borough of Richmond, in more than fifty cases. Dr. Bracelin himself reports having used it in 105 cases in succession with but one fatal termination. In addition to this, it has been used with unfailing success by more than 150 other physicians throughout the country. I have never known, nor heard, nor read of a second case of diphtheria occurring in any household where this remedy was inhaled for five minutes three or five times daily during exposure, as a preventive. The remedy is administered through the aid of a small two-ounce inhaler bottle, with tubes attached, and which are cheaply made.

I confidently state that the 1,600 lives that have been lost during the past year from this disease could have been saved, and at their own homes, at a cost of not to exceed $1 per individual case, if the remedy had been applied on the first appearance of the disease. It will be seen that, if these statements are true, we are not in need of any more diphtheria hospitals. The Board of Health could supply the little inhaler, with the liquids, to the afflicted families as they now supply the "culture tube," through the use of which they learn whether the suspected case is or is not diphtheria.

On the first appearance of sore throat, if the chlorine is inhaled, at home or while at school, in a room set apart for this purpose, the suspected case would be well before the Board of Health could, in the usual course of business, get a report back to the family physician as to the nature of the disease.

I confidently assert that I cannot be charged, successfully, with being the promoter of some patent medicine, or the vendor of some secret remedy, in view of the fact that the Board of Health has the formula and is at liberty to use the remedy for all of its patients, without any profit or royalty to either Dr. Bracelin or myself—although it cost him ten years of labor and experimentation to find out how to use chlorine successfully at the bedside.

JAMES J. RUSSELL.

New York City, Jan. 2, 1900.

FIREMAN, NOT A PORTER.

McCabe Doesn't Mind Saving Human Beings, but Draws Line at Trunks.

Fire Patrolman Charles McCabe doesn't insist that all of his rescues be spectacular. He is willing to forego the slim heroine of Bowery melodrama and in her stead carry a fat colored woman down five stories. All this he will do and more, but when it comes to acting the porter for a colored star boarder and rescuing his trunk by the same method he does object.

In the early hours of yesterday morning McCabe was on watch in the quarters of Fire Patrol No. 3, in West Thirtieth Street, when he heard cries of "Fire!" issuing from the tenement house, 241 West Twenty-ninth Street, occupied by colored people, and to the rear of the patrol's quarters. He turned in an alarm and roused the members of the patrol. Then he ran around into Twenty-ninth Street, followed by the other members of the patrol. The fire was in an unoccupied room on the fourth floor, and didn't amount to much, but the smoke was serious.

The patrolmen soon had the occupants of the lower four floors in the street. But something seemed to be the matter on the fifth floor. Three men, three women, a baby, and a trunk occupied the fire-escape at that point. The trunk stood over the ladder opening, blocking up the way, but nobody seemed to notice it.

McCabe clambered up the fire-escape and swung himself into the group. William Harper held the baby, Ursuline.

"Take the baby," he said.

"No, take me," his wife interjected.

McCabe rolled the trunk to one side and saw that Mrs. Harper was too large to go through the ladder opening. He instructed the others in the use of the fire escape, and then, with Mrs. Harper on his back, got down to the street. Harper had followed with the baby, but his wife did not see him. Once safe on terra firma her maternal instinct asserted itself.

"Oh, save my child, brave fireman!" she wailed.

McCabe returned to the fifth floor. A man who boarded with the Harpers stood alone there with his trunk. The others had followed McCabe's instructions.

"Oh, you've come back for the trunk," the boarder said. "well, here it is. The child's below."

McCabe didn't take the trunk. The boarder went without it.

TRAP SHOOTING HANDICAP.

The annual meeting of the Inter-State Association was held yesterday at the offices of the organization. J. A. H. Dressel, Irby Bennett, Edward Banks, A. W. Higgins, and J. L. Lequin were elected members of the Board of Directors.

It was decided that the conditions of the grand American trap-shooting handicap for this year should remain the same as last year, when the entry list was regarded as too cumbersome. This year there will be a handicap at clay birds, which, it was decided, will be known as the Inter-State Association's first annual target handicap tournament. The event will be decided on the new trap-shooting grounds on Long Island, probably about the week commencing June 11.

The Board of Directors elected these officers for the ensuing year: President—T. A. H. Dressel; Vice President—Irby Bennett; Manager—Elmen E. Shaner; Secretary and Treasurer—Edward Banks.

SHAREHOLDERS' LIABILITY.

From The Tacoma (Washington) Ledger.

Judge Hanford has rendered a decision having an important bearing on the final settlement of the affairs of the several National banks in this State which closed their doors several years ago.

The case in point is that of the receiver of the First National Bank of South Bend against Adolphus F. McClain, an action to collect on a shareholder's assessment.

The State Statute of Limitation was raised as a bar to the action, and the Court holds that such liability comes within Section 4,805 of Ballinger's Code, and collection is barred unless suit is begun within two years from the cause of action.

There is no provision in the United States laws fixing a limitation of time to actions for collection against National bank shareholders, and Judge Hanford says the State law must apply. The liability of a shareholder he holds to differ from a liability based upon a contract or promise to pay to a certain party, and it does not therefore come within the meaning of the statute fixing three years as the limit for contracts of that nature. The action must be begun within two years of the date of the order of controller fixing the assessment.

DEWEY WILL GO WEST.

The Admiral Accepts the Invitation to Visit St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6.—Admiral Dewey has accepted the invitation to visit St. Louis, which was extended to him several months ago by the Mayor and the leading business organizations of the city. He will be here the first week in May. Following is the letter of acceptance sent by him to C. P. Walbridge, President of the Business Men's League:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo, transmitting the invitation of the Mayor and other officials of the City of St. Louis to Mrs. Dewey and myself to visit St. Louis in May next. I have already arranged to be in Chicago on the 1st of that month, and it will be quite convenient to come to St. Louis immediately after the Chicago visit, say, about the 3d or 4th of May."

MORTGAGE FOR $6,500,000.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Jan. 6.—Acting through their attorneys, Wallace, Edwards & Bumstead of Jersey City and the Hamilton Trust Company, the East Jersey Water Company to-day filed a mortgage in the Morris County Clerk's Office for $6,500,000. The mortgage is made on all rights and privileges of the Jersey City Supply Company, a corporation doing business and owning property in four counties of the State. The mortgage is given to secure bonds of $1,000 each, maturing on May 1, 1924, and bearing interest at 4 per cent. per annum. The revenue stamps placed on the document represent $3,250.

Canadian Woman Has Visions.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 6.—Miss Lizzie Baxter, a young woman residing with B. Baxter, a farmer of Marlborough Township, near Richmond, says that she had two visions of the Blessed Mary. She states that a few months ago, when at the well on the grounds of the place where she is living in Marlborough, the Blessed Virgin Mary appeared to her. The Virgin, Miss Baxter asserts, told her that in view of the good life she had led anything she desired would be granted her through prayer. A few days later she again saw the vision, and the promise was repeated.

Odd Names of Postmasters.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The record of Postmasters commissioned to-day by the Post Office Department contains an extraordinary list of names. Among the Postmasters are persons rejoicing in the names of Darius Kunkel, Cliff Augustus, Will Fish, Upton Blickenstaff, Old Tolin, Glendora Honeycutt, and Amanuel Reed. There is a Harper of many strings, and the initials of the new Postmaster of Jaydee are "J. D."

Sewing School Classes.

Announcement is made of the conferences and classes of the New York Association of Sewing Schools for 1900, to be held in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Communion, 49 West Twentieth Street. The classes in sewing and basket weaving will be held on Tuesday afternoons, commencing Jan. 9. The first conference will be next Wednesday afternoon, when James Earl Russell, Dean of the Teachers' College, will speak on "The Aim of Education."

American-Irish Historical Society.

The American-Irish Historical Society will hold its annual meeting and banquet at Sherry's on the evening of Jan. 18. Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana will be one of the speakers. There will be present as guests a delegation of the New York Knickerbocker Transvaal Committee.

INSTRUCTION—BUSINESS COLLEGES.

The PACKARD COMMERCIAL SCHOOL
101 EAST 23d STREET, NEW YORK (Corner 4th Ave.)
Founded 1858 by S. S. Packard. Nearly 20,000 Students prepared for business. FORTY-SECOND YEAR.

42 years in close touch with the business community. Nearly 20,000 young men and women prepared for business. Thousands of these leaders in the commercial world to-day.

Individual instruction in all commercial branches. Those who enter now have six months for business preparation before vacation.

"The School that Makes a Specialty of Each Student."

BOOK-KEEPING Stenography, Arithmetic, Penmanship, etc., thoroughly taught day and evening. We always secure positions for graduates of complete commercial course. Catalog free. Address EASTMAN, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., or the NEW YORK BUSINESS INSTITUTE, 81 East 125th St., New York, N. Y. CLEMENT C. GAINES, M.A., B.L., Prest.

INSTRUCTION.

LANGUAGES.
The Berlitz School of Languages.
1,122 Broadway, New York. 73 Court St., B'klyn.
Special advantages for Visitors to Paris Exposition.

HOW TO GET STRONG.
Handball, boxing, fencing, baths, &c. Wood's Gymnasium, 6 East 28th St.; entrance, $5; monthly dues, $2.

LADY, JUST FROM EUROPE, WISHES LIMITED number pupils in German; speaks perfect English; $1 hour. GERMAN, 112 Pacific St., Brooklyn.

FRENCH ACADEMY, 853 BROADWAY; PROFESSOR BERGER, from Paris; French conversation; book free; no advance payment; trial.

PRIVATE TUTOR—Experienced in collegiate instruction and recommended by well-known families. Address YALENSIS, Times office, up-town.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

CHRIST CHURCH, 71ST ST. AND BROADWAY. Rev. Dr. J. S. Shipman, Rector.—Morning service at 11; evening at 8; Sunday school at 9:45 A. M.

FIVE POINTS HOUSE OF INDUSTRY, 155 Worth St., William F. Barnard, Superintendent.—Service of song on Sunday at 3:30 P. M. Singing by the choir of children of the institution. Public cordially invited. Donations of clothing and shoes solicited.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, N. Y., Lenox Av. and 122d St. Rev. H. P. Nichols, Rector.
11:00 A. M.—Service, sermon, and holy communion.
3:45 P. M.—Evensong.
8:00 P. M.—Service and sermon.

MEMORIAL BAPTIST, WASHINGTON SQUARE South.—The pastor, Edward Judson, will preach 10:45 and 7:30. Week of prayer service every night. Dr. Judson will preach beginning Monday. The subjects will be:
Monday evening, Jan. 8, "Repentance."
Tuesday evening, Jan. 9, "Faith."
Wednesday evening, Jan. 10, "Baptism."
Thursday evening, Jan. 11, "Unction."
Friday evening, Jan. 12, "Resurrection."
Saturday evening, Jan. 13, "Judgment."

SOCIETY FOR ETHICAL CULTURE, SUNDAY, Jan. 7, 1900, at 11:15 A. M., at Carnegie Music Hall, Corner of 57th St. and 7th Av.—Lecture by Dr. Felix Adler; subject, "The Last Year of the Wonderful Century." Musical exercises begin at 11:15 A. M. Sunday school 9:30 A. M. at 109 West 54th St. All interested are invited.

TEMPLE EMANU-EL, 5TH AV. AND 43D ST.—On Sunday Dr. Silverman will lecture on "Justice to Christian and Jew"; (second lecture;) service begins at 11:30. All are invited.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

A FINE OPPORTUNITY FOR INVESTMENT and business in a first-class shirt manufactory, capacity 100 dozen a day, at low prices for good workmanship; equipment complete and up to date. Now in the hands of a well-known and thorough manufacturer of excellent reputation needing additional capital to produce profitably at least $200,000 worth of well-made men's and boys' shirts and women's shirt waists yearly. Address, giving full particulars and amount would invest, PROFITABLE OPPORTUNITY, Box 185, Times Office, New York.

CUBAN INVESTMENTS.
Railroad, Mining, Agricultural, and Commercial, examined and reported upon by expert, with 30 years' experience. Address WARNER, 166 West 22d St., City.

SHIRT MANUFACTURERS WANTING TO INcrease their outfit might make a fav

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

General Market Overshadowed by the Big Deals in the Bronx.

THE WEEK'S OTHER FEATURES

Latest Sales by Brokers—Present Outlook at Auction Not Brilliant—This Week's List of Offerings.

The gigantic deal in the Bronx, although, strictly speaking, not a part of the week's business, has for the time being completely overshadowed other transactions, and would doubtless have had the same effect even in a period of more active dealing than the present.

The full significance of such a purchase as that just made by the American Real Estate Company does not appear with the mere signing of contracts by which the property changes hands, but lies rather in the fact that over $1,000,000 worth of land is to be opened up for improvement, and has, in a certain sense, been brought into the market.

It may be said that in the hands of a single corporation the property is not on the market any more than it was in the hands of its original owners. This may be true for the moment, but the Hoe and Simpson tracts of eighty-six acres will have completed about three-quarters of their journey to the market when they pass from the hands of the two estates into the possession of a concern which cannot afford for any considerable period to sit down in front of the property and hope that something will turn up.

Another feature of this transaction, which will work to the advantage of the surrounding section, as well as to the property itself, is that the purchaser is a single corporation, which is prepared to go ahead with the development of the two tracts as rapidly as future conditions may warrant, and much more rapidly than the same work would be accomplished had the property been parcelled out either by private sale or public auction to various individual buyers or syndicates.

The Orphan Asylum block continues to be a centre of interest, and last week witnessed the resale of a substantial portion of it—the Fifty-first Street and Fifth Avenue corner to the Union Club, and 150 feet on the Fifty-second Street front for residence sites to Robert Olyphant, H. G. Trevor, R. T. Schieffelin, Lansdale Boardman, and James C. Colgate. Other buyers are now negotiating with the syndicate, and it is safe to assume that every week now will develop some changes in the ownership in that block.

Frank Jay Gould's purchase of two lots on Fifty-seventh Street, adjoining the Fine Arts Building, occasioned considerable comment, because it was wholly unexpected. Speculation as to Mr. Gould's idea in taking the property would seem to be useless in view of his own statement that he does not know what he will do with it.

The assessment rolls for 1900 will be opened to-morrow. That this happening should have any effect on real estate dealing is, indeed, hardly to be considered. The increase in valuation for this year amounts to nothing in comparison with the $400,000,000 jump that was revealed by the tax books of 1899, and the influence of which on the market, as shown in the lively business of last Spring, was practically nil.

Latest Sales by Brokers.

Rosenberg & Feinberg have sold to Hyman Adelstein and Abraham Aveutine the three new six-story tenements at the northeast corner of Stanton and Cannon Streets, 100 by 75, at a reported price of $133,500.

Abraham Silverson has sold the new six-story tenement, with stores, 40 and 42 East Third Street, southeast corner of Second Avenue, 40 by 50.

Herbert B. Rexer has sold for George J. Law to Kate Johnson the three-story dwelling, 611 West One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, 16.6 by 99.11.

The American Distributing Company has sold to Max Bendick the five-story tenement, with store, 99 Tenth Avenue.

The Devine estate has sold to O. Dearborn, for $20,000, the three-story dwelling 29 Mount Morris Park West, 20 by 80.

Burrill Brothers have sold to David Mayer, for $13,500, the three-story brownstone front dwelling 224 Garfield Place, Brooklyn.

The Auction Room.

From offerings at present in the field, it is evident that the auction market will have at best a delayed awakening this Spring. At this time last year a number of large and promising sales had been announced, including the first offerings by the Eno estate and those by the King and Bathgate estates. At present there is no such bright outlook, and the sales—the sales of the holdings of the Whitfield and Contoit estates—seem to be the only ones that will attract any considerable attention at least for a month to come.

The Whitfield properties, to be sold by Auctioneer William Kennelly on Wednesday, include a number of flats and dwellings on both the east and west sides between Seventieth and Thirty-fourth Streets—some of them desirable corners—and seventeen flats and dwellings on Third Avenue, One Hundred and Forty-second and One Hundred and Forty-third Streets.

The holdings of the estate of Charles H. Contoit, the sale of which is announced by Auctioneer Meyer for Feb. 6, are valued at well over $1,000,000, and if they are well received will afford some interesting figures relative to values in the wholesale dry goods district. In addition to 353 to 357 Broadway and 70 and 72 Franklin Street, there will also be put up several parcels on Walker, Prince, Crosby, and Church Streets.

Of less valuable properties, several will be offered this week. The leasehold, 69 by 80, at the southeast corner of Washington and Little West Twelfth Streets, is covered by a partition sale, down for Tuesday, and on the following day William Kennelly will sell at public auction 130 to 136 Park Row.

There were recorded last week 351 mortgages, for $5,032,306; of which 111, for $1,647,275, were at 5 per cent.; 121, for $1,131,031, were at more, and 119 for $2,254,000, were at less. In the corresponding week last year there were recorded 395 mortgages, for $6,188,222; of which 104, for $1,843,770, were at 5 per cent.; 151, for $1,089,152, were at more, and 80, for $2,675,300, were at less.

AUCTION SALES THIS WEEK.

To Take Place at 111 Broadway, Unless Otherwise Specified.

MONDAY, JAN. 8.—By Bryan L. Kennelly & Co., foreclosure sale, Otto Herwitz, referee, 61 West Ninety-first Street, north side, 255 feet east of Columbus Avenue, 20 by 100.8, three-story stone-front dwelling. Due on judgment, $3,218; subject to other mortgages for $15,000.

By McVickar & Co., foreclosure sale, Thomas F. Donnelly, referee, 35 Broome Street, and 13 to 19 Goerck Street, being the southwest corner of those streets, 97.2 by 100, five-story brick tenement, with stores. Due on judgment, $41,597.

By Herbert A. Sherman, foreclosure sale, Daniel P. Ingraham, referee, 257 West End Avenue, west side, 19.5 feet south of Seventy-first Street, 17 by 82.10, three-story brick dwelling. Due on judgment, $23,496.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, D. C. Calvin, referee, 384 Audubon Avenue, west side, 35.10 feet north of One Hundred and Eighty-fourth Street, 18 by 60, two-story brick dwelling. Due on judgment, $5,531.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Francis B. Delehanty, referee, Jennings Street, north side, the block front between Longfellow and Boone Avenues, being 200 feet on Jennings Street, 100.2 on Longfellow Avenue, and 162.5 on Boone Avenue, vacant. Due on judgment, $6,193.

TUESDAY, JAN. 9.—By Philip A. Smyth, foreclosure sale, Slyvester L. H. Ward, referee, 619 West One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, north side, 270 feet west of the Boulevard, 15 by 99.11, three-story stone-front dwelling. Due on judgment, $9,206.

By Herbert A. Sherman, partition sale, William J. A. Mekim, referee, 832, 833, and 834 Washington Street and 32 and 34 Little West Twelfth Street, being the southeast corner of those streets, 69.2 on Washington Street by 81.10 on Little West Twelfth Street by 32.11 by 60.2, leasehold, two-story brick buildings.

By Richard V. Harnett & Co., foreclosure sale, Maurice Leyne, referee, 46 to 52 West One Hundred and Seventeenth Street, south side, 225 feet east of Lenox Avenue, 100 by 100.11, four five-story brick flats. Due on judgment, $4,136; subject to other mortgages for $67,500.

By Richard V. Harnett & Co., foreclosure sale, W. Usher Parsons, referee, 939 and 941 Kelly Street, north side, 200 feet east of Robbins Avenue, 50 by 143.7 by 58 by 115.1, two four-story brick flats. Due on judgment, $3,400, subject to other mortgages for $20,400.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Sidney J. Cowen, referee, 348 East Sixty-sixth Street, south side, 133.4 feet west of First Avenue, 16.8 by 100.5, three-story brick dwelling. Due on judgment, $6,010.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 10.—By William Kennelly, public auction sale, 130, 132, and 134 Park Row, north side, 177.11 feet west of Pearl Street, 56.6 by 108.10, three three-story brick buildings, with stores; 136 and 138 Park Row, north side, adjoining the foregoing on the east, 19 by 111.5 by 17.9 by 112.7, three-story brick building, with two stores.

By William Kennelly, executor's sale, 111 East Seventeenth Street, north side, 200 feet east of Fourth Avenue, 25 by 92, four-story brownstone-front dwelling; also,

319, 321, and 323 Seventh Avenue and 137 West Twenty-eighth Street, being the northeast corner of those streets, 49.4 by 70, three four-story brick flats, with stores on Seventh Avenue, and a four-story brick flat on the street; also,

441 Second Avenue, northwest corner of Twenty-fifth Street, 25.8 by 100, five-story brick and stone flat, with store, and a five-story brick flat at the rear, fronting at 245 East Twenty-fifth Street; also,

235 and 237 West Thirty-fourth Street, north side, 380 feet west of Seventh Avenue, 25 by 100, two four-story brick dwellings; also,

2,685 Third Avenue, west side, 25 feet south of One Hundred and Forty-third Street, 25 by 100, three-story brick flat, with store; 2,673, 2,675, and 2,677 Third Avenue, west side, 50.8 feet north of One Hundred and Forty-second Street, each 16.8 by 100, three four-story flats, with stores; 550 to 556 East One Hundred and Forty-third Street, south side, 140.6 feet west of Third Avenue, each 15 by 100, four three-story frame dwellings; 558 East One Hundred and Forty-third Street, south side, 125 feet west of Third Avenue, 15.6 by 100, three-story brick building; 560 East One Hundred and Forty-third Street, south side, 100 feet west of Third Avenue, 25 by 100, five-story brick and stone flat; One Hundred and Forty-second Street, north side, 100 feet west of Third Avenue, 25 by 100, vacant; also,

551 to 561 East One Hundred and Forty-third Street, north side, 100 feet west of Third Avenue, each 16.8 by 100, six four-story brick and frame flats.

By Herbert A. Sherman, foreclosure sale, Randolph Hurry, referee, 235 East One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Street, north side, 230 feet west of Second Avenue, 16.8 by 99.11, three-story brick tenement. Due on judgment, $7,175.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, W. Benton Crisp, referee, 2,766 Decatur Avenue, east side, 155.4 feet south of Travers Street, 37 by 100.7, two-story frame dwelling. Due on judgment, $4,767.

By John T. Boyd, executor's sale, 312 East One Hundred and Twentieth Street, south side, 177.7 feet east of Second Avenue, 19.3 by 100.11, three-story brownstone-front dwelling.

THURSDAY, JAN. 11.—By D. Phoenix Ingraham & Co., foreclosure sale, Reuben H. Underhill, referee, 1,644 to 1,648 Park Avenue, west side, 50.5 feet north of One Hundred and Sixteenth Street, 75.3 by 90, three five-story brick flats, with stores. Due on judgment, $5,618; subject to other mortgages for $57,000.

By Herbert A. Sherman, foreclosure sale, Lansing W. Walsh, referee, 53 East One Hundred and Twentieth Street, north side, 283.5 feet west of Fourth Avenue, 16.6 by 100.11, three-story stone-front dwelling. Due on judgment, $13,717.

By Richard V. Harnett & Co., foreclosure sale, Sidney J. Cowen, referee, 34 West One Hundred and Nineteenth Street, south side, 600 feet east of Lenox Avenue, 15 by 100.11, three-story stone-front dwelling. Due on judgment, $10,960.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., partition sale, John A. Straley, referee, 362 Washington Street, west side, 21.8 feet south of North Moore Street, 22 by 75, two-story brick tenement; 362 Washington Street, west side, adjoining the foregoing, 22 by 75, three-story brick tenement.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., sale by order of the Sheriff, 321 and 323 Third Street, north side, 120 feet west of Avenue D, 40 by 96, seven-story brick building; all title and interest of Jacob Osnowitz on May 20, 1898.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Edward H. Patterson, referee, 331 East Fifty-seventh Street, north side, 240 feet west of First Avenue, 20 by 100.4, three-story stone-front tenement. Due on judgment, $10,248.

FRIDAY, JAN. 12.—By Samuel Goldsticker, foreclosure sale, Robert O'Byrne, referee, 100 and 102 Oliver Street, east side, 55 feet north of South Street, 40 by 50, six-story brick tenement. Due on judgment, $7,693; subject to another mortgage for $8,000.

By James L. Wells, foreclosure sale, Edwin C. Hoyt, referee, 3326 Mott Avenue, east side, 692.2 feet south of One Hundred and Forty-fourth Street, 25 by 152.6 by 25.6 by 147.4, four-story brick flat. Due on judgment, $1,193; subject to another mortgage for $12,000.

THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

List of Plans Filed for New Structures and Alterations.

One Hundred and Seventeenth Street, north side, 275 feet east of Eighth Avenue, for a seven-story brick storage warehouse, 50 by 96; John J. Timmins of 265 West One Hundred and Seventeenth Street, owner; Henri Fouchaux, architect; cost, $88,000.

Alterations.

No. 818 Broadway, to a four-story brick store, 25 by 80; Annie E. Allen and Mary Morse, owners; Hugh L. Weber, architect; cost, $400.

No. 613 West Forty-sixth Street, to a five-story brick factory, stable, and dwelling; Max and Bernard Heinrich of 528 East One Hundred and Seventeenth Street, owners; Henry Neus, architect; cost, $2,300.

One Hundred and Ninety-fifth Street, south side, 50 feet east of Decatur Avenue, to a one-and-a-half-story frame stable; Michael Donahue, owner; W. C. Dickerson, architect; cost, $15.

Seventieth Street, northwest corner of First Avenue, to a four-story brick public school; city, owner; C. B. J. Snyder, architect; cost, $10,000.

Ethical Culture Society Purchase.

Adolphe Openhym conveyed yesterday to the Society for Ethical Culture the block front on Central Park West between Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth Streets, extending 100 feet in depth on either street. Mr. Openhym is the Treasurer of the society, and the deed filed yesterday simply marks the formal transfer to the society of the plot purchased by it last Spring from Justice F. Henry Dugro as a site for a new school and meeting hall.

Brewery Company Takes Title.

John and Mathias Haffen have transferred to the J. and M. Haffen Brewing Company, for a consideration of $400,000, title to the brewery property on One Hundred and Fifty-first and One Hundred and Fifty-second Streets and Melrose Avenue, with its machinery and franchises. The company has made a mortgage in favor of Louis F. Haffen, as Trustee, for $200,000, securing gold bonds due in ten years.

Recorded Real Estate Transfers.

Saturday, Jan. 6.

AMSTERDAM AV, w s, 80 ft s of 150th St, 19.11x100; James F. Instone to William H. Cowl..... 30,000

AMSTERDAM AV, w s, 80 ft s of 150th St, 19.11x100; Frederick Haas to James F. Instone..... 30,000

CENTRAL PARK WEST, s w corner of 64th St, runs w 100x s 100.5x e 0.3x s 100.5 to 63d St x e 99.9 to avenue x n 200.10; Adolphe Openhym to Society for Ethical Culture..... 1

COLUMBIA ST, 79, w s, 25x100; Morris Levy to Rosa Levy and another..... Gift.

LOTS 396 and 397, map of Van Nest Park; John R. Day to Grace G. Day..... 1

MELROSE AV, n w corner of 151st St, runs w 100x n 114x w 50x n 115 to 152d St, x 150 to av x s 229.4; 152d St, s s, 250 ft w of Melrose Av, 45x115; 152d St, n s, 50 ft w of Melrose Av, 50x100; J. & M. Haffen to J. & M. Haffen Brewing Company..... 400,000

PEARL ST, 168, s corner of Pine St, 20.7x —x20.7x47.3; Henry Elias Brewing Company to Katherina Elias..... 100

SHERIFF ST, 118, e s, 25x100; Adolf Mandel to Isidor Leipzig..... 44,100

SOUTH ST, 76, s w corner of De Peyster St, 26x56x26x80; Edward S. Savage to Union County Bank of Rahway..... 1

ST. NICHOLAS AV, n e corner of 115th St, 118.6x115.8x100.11x53.10; Winslow E. Buzby to New York Building Loan Banking Company..... 1

WELLESLEY ST, 25.1 ft e of Kirkside Av, 50.2x94.8; Emma L. Schroeder to Herbert Schroeder..... 1

WESTCHESTER AV, s s, 48.5 ft w of Marion St, 48.5x103.3; Columbia Piano Company to William H. Greenhaugh..... 1

3D AV, e s, at centre of block between 111th and 112th Sts, runs s 25x e 100x25x 100; Pincus Lowenfeld and another to Richard Allen..... 21,000

5TH AV, w s, 40.11 ft n of 133d St, 50x 110; Thomas J. Jenkins and wife to Ward Cunningham..... 1

5TH AV, 557, e s, 25x100; James K. Atkinson to Matilda E. Goodwin..... 1

7TH AV, s e corner of 28th St, 78.1x57.5 x78.2x56.11; Benjamin Sire to William H. Johns..... 1

104TH ST, 202 East, 20x50.5; Michael Haas to Rosa Althelmer..... 7,000

115TH ST, n s, 170 ft e of 1st Av, 25x 100; Maunsell B. Field, referee, to Clara Kreischer..... 7,000

23D ST, s s, 156 ft e of 10th Av, 22x 98.8; Camille C. Roumage, Jr., executor and trustee, to Aimee M. Rhodes and others..... 21,000

23D ST, s s, 178 ft e of 10th Av, 22x98.9; Francis G. Roumage to Victor E. Roumage..... 1

23D ST, s s, 156 ft e of 10th Av, 22x98.8 Camille Roumage, Jr., and another to Aimie M. Rhodes..... 1

43D ST, s s, 300 ft e of 2d Av, 16.8x 100.5; Max Frank to Carrie Frank..... 1

58TH ST, 146 West, 19x100.5; Mary K. Tifft and another, executors and trustees, to Charles M. Brooks..... 36,000

77TH ST, n s, 200 ft w of Amsterdam Av, 50x102.2; John L. Miller to Cornelia Jay..... 75,000

85TH ST, 21 West, 19x100.8; Charles Spiro and wife to Sarah C. Doty..... 26,500

97TH ST, n s, 200 ft w of 1st Av, 50x 100.11; Carlo Luckes to William J. Hinton..... 1

98TH ST, 156 and 158 West, 40x100.11; Cornelius A. Loughlin to Nettie M. Roe. 1

133D ST, n s, 300 ft w of Lenox Av, 99.10 x99.11; Aimee R. Lecour to Louis Lecour..... 1

Recorded Leases.

FISHER, Edwin A., and others to Frank Richards; Laundry Supply Company; 24th St, 344 West, 3 5-12 years..... $1,100

HUSSEY, William H., and another to Lucas R. Williams; 34th St, 165 West, 10 years..... 2,000

STUHINSKY, Coppel, to Louis Morgenbesser; Suffolk St, 127, 1 6-12 years..... 480

Recorded Mortgages.

ALLEN, Richard, to Pincus Lowenfeld and another; 3d Av, e s, centre line of block between 111th and 112th Sts, runs s 25x e 100x25x100, demand..... 5,000

ARMSTRONG, Sarah C., to the New York Savings Bank; 37 West 87th St, 3 years; 15,000

BADER, Henry, to Frederick Schuck; 90th St, s s, 135 ft e of 5d Av, 3 years..... 10,000

BROOKS, Charles M., to Henry N. Tifft and another, executors, &c.; 146 West 58th St, 3 years..... 30,000

CUNNINGHAM, Ward, to Thomas J. Jenkins; 5th Av, w s, 74.11 ft n of 133d St, 1 year..... 2,000

CUNNINGHAM, Ward, to Thomas J. Jenkins; 5th Av, w s, 49.11 ft n of 133d St, 1 year..... 2,000

DONNELLY, Mary A., to Empire City Savings Bank; Robbins Av, s e corner of 151st St, 1 year..... $2,500

FRANK, Carrie, to Conrad Hotter; 43d St, s s, 200 ft e of 2d Av, 3 years..... 6,000

GOODWIN, Matilda E., to James K. Atkinson; 557 5th Av, 2 years..... 20,000

HAVANAGH, Bernard, to Bertram H. Fancher; Brook Av, w s, 73.1 ft n of 169th St, demand..... 24,000

HUNTER, Stephen C., to Alfred J. Taylor and another, trustees; Andrews Av, w s, 250.10 ft n of 183d St, 3 years..... 5,000

J. & M. HAFFEN BREWING COMPANY to Louis F. Haffen, trustee; Melrose Av, n w corner of 151st St, extending to 152d St; also 152d St, s s, 250 ft w of Melrose Av, and 152d St, n s, 50 ft w of Melrose Av, with machinery, franchises, &c., 10 years..... 200,000

LEIPZIG, Isidor, to Adolf Mandel; 118 Sheriff St, 2 years..... 3,000

MORGENBESSER, Louis, to Monroe Eckstein Brewing Company; 127 Suffolk St, saloon lease, secures note..... 600

MEEKS, Hamilton Y., to National Savings Bank of Albany; 12 Barclay St, 1 year..... 10,000

McMANUS, James, to Henry Weilbrock & Co.; 511 6th Av, leasehold, installments. 2,000

SINGHI, Carrie J. and Henry U., to John L. Thomas; Jerome Av, s w corner of 184th St, 5 years..... 2,300

STERN, Esther, to Max Danziger; 133 East 80th St, 1 year..... 5,000

STRAUSS, Joseph, and wife to the Cosmopolitan Realty Company; 150th St, n s, 205 ft w of Amsterdam Av, demand.. 1,250

VOLETSKY, Abraham, and Harris Hellman to the American Mortgage Company; 30 and 32 Monroe St, 1 year..... 22,000

VOLETSKY, Abraham, and Harris Hellman to the American Mortgage Company; 30 and 32 Monroe St, 1 year..... 3,000

VON ELTEN, Augusta C., and another to Mary Keckeisen; 157 West 106th St, 2 years..... 3,000

WEBER, Conrad, to Franz J. Grein; Park Av, s e corner of 91st St, 2 years..... 15,000

WHITE, Henriette K. and Thomas R., to Frank Lugar; Columbus Av, n w corner of 80th St, ¼ year..... 50,000

WHITE, Henriette K., to Orlando V. Norcross; Columbus Av, n w corner of 80th St, ¼ year..... 4,500

WHITE, Henriette K., to James Rogers and another, trustees; Columbus Av, n w corner of 80th St, 3 months..... 10,000

WIGAND, Charles F., to Frank Dudenshefer; 1,746 2d Av, 1 year..... 3,000

WILSON, Max S. A., to the State Bank; 13th St, n s, 150 ft w of Avenue A, 3 months..... 10,000

Assignments of Mortgages.

BAUMANN, Marcus, to Amalia Schellenberger..... 1,500

BRAMAN, Hiram V. V., and another, trustees, to Georgiana C. Stone..... 25,000

CHISOLM, George E., to American Mortgage Company..... 25,000

EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY to Edward D. O'Brien..... 7,500

GREIN, Peter, executor, &c., to Peter Vollmer..... 15,000

GREIN, Peter, executor, &c., to Peter Grein..... 7,000

GREEN, Lucy M., to Andrew H. Green... Nom.

HAMILTON TRUST COMPANY to Eugene E. Seaman..... Nom

JENKINS, Thomas J., to Max Borck..... Nom.

LOWENFELD, Pincus, and another to Henrietta Kahn..... 3,500

MARCUSE, Minnie, to Mayer Michaels.. Nom.

O'BRIEN, Joseph L., to Thomas D. O'Connell..... 4,044

PARSONS, William H., Jr., executor, &c., to David B. Ogden..... 23,000

PHILIPS, Frederic D., administrator, &c., to Jessie T. Philips..... 13,000

RECKE, Charlotte, executrix, to William H. Stelnkamp..... 6,000

SEAMAN, Eugene E., to Virginia T. Seaman..... Nom.

TITLE GUARANTEE AND TRUST COMPANY to Bertha C. Fridenberg..... 4,000

TITLE GUARANTEE AND TRUST COMPANY to New York Institution for the Blind..... 30,000

Mechanics' Liens.

AMSTERDAM AV, 45 to 59, s e corner of 62d St; Ralph H. Reed against Julia A. Moore, owner; Bernard Traynor, lessee and contractor..... $32

BERGEN AV, n e corner of 148th St, 137.6x100; W. P. Duffy & Co. against Albert Rothermel, owner and contractor.. 268

CENTRAL PARK WEST, w s, 75 ft n of 92d St, 50x100; Nathaniel Wise against Samuel Quincy, owner; Mary A. Colleran, contractor..... 718

COLLEGE AV, s e corner of 143d St, 25.1x 95; J. P. Duffy & Co. against Albert Rothermel, owner and contractor..... 188

CONVENT AV, n w corner of 150th St, 25x99.11; Nathaniel Wise against John Walker, owner; Mary A. Colleran, contractor..... 729

LENINGTON AV, 1,248 and 1,250, and 133 East 84th St; Francis L. Becker against John Volz, owner; J. V. Schaefer Company, contractor..... 125

PARK ROW, 21; Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company against Rudolph M. Haan and Park Row Construction Company, owners; J. V. Schaefer Company, contractors..... 235

PARK ROW, 13 to 21; Theodore W. Morris & Co. against Park Row Construction Company and R. M. Haan, owners; J. V. Schaefer Company, owner and contractor 450

WESTCHESTER AV, s s, 90 ft w of Eagle Av, 90x95.6; J. P. Duffy & Co. against Albert Rothermel, owner, and contractor..... 96

3D AV, n e corner of Wendover Av, 37x 100; Bornstein Brothers against Smith & Co., owners and contractors..... 300

28TH ST, 332 West; Ralph H. Reed against Emilia A. De La Rua Y Angalica; owner; "Doctor" Castroverde, contractor..... 97

84TH ST, n w corner of Lexington Av, 41.7 x102.2; Pittsburg Plate Glass Company against; John Volz, owner; John V. Schaefer Company, contractor..... 125

105TH ST, 311 East; Alberene Stone Company against Eniering & Spalckhaver, as contractors..... 70

115TH ST, 50 to 58 West; Nathan Saperman against Hartmann and Henry Schmidt, owners; Frederick Schaefer, contractor..... 240

115TH ST, 33 and 35 West; Bornstein Brothers against Max Katz and Morris Abelman, owners and contractors..... 185

BUILDING LOAN CONTRACT UNDER CHAPTER 418, LAWS OF 1897.

3D AV, e s, at centre of block between 111th and 112th Sts, runs s 25x e 100x25x 100; Pincus Lowenfeld and William Prager, with Richard Allen, 9 payments...$12,000

ORDER UNDER CHAPTER 418, LAWS OF 1897.

COLUMBUS AV, e s, 25.2 ft n of 107th St, 75.9x100; Edward McCann on Abraham Voletsky and another to the J. L. Mott Iron Works..... $800

Lis Pendens.

118TH ST, s s, 340 ft w of 4th Av, 60x100.11x60x 100.10; Henry I. Beers against Myer Hellman and another, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, J. D. Taylor.

97TH ST, n s, 50 ft w of Madison Av. —X—; Department of Buildings against Morris Mandelstein, (violation of building laws;) attorney, E. Otterbourg.

ELIZABETH ST, 84; Department of Buildings against Hannah M. Vermilyea, (violation of building laws;) attorney, E. Otterbourg.

PLOT 122 on revised map of the Givan homestead, Westchester; William Z. Larned against Mathilda J. Callahan and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, J. Marks.

SPRING ST, 118; H. P. Read Lead Works against Gustav T. Smith and others, (foreclosure of mechanic's lien;) attorney, E. F. Driggs.

SULLIVAN ST, e s, 39.9 ft s of Prince St, 20.7x 62x irregular; Oliver W. Buckingham, trustee, against Sarah J. Wigton, individually and as executrix, and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorneys, Ormiston & McCormack.

8TH AV, n e corner of 112th St, 25.8x100; H. P. Read Lead Works against Gustav T. Smith and others, (foreclosure of mechanic's lien;) attorney, E. F. Driggs.

36TH ST, n e corner of 10th Av, 100x98.9; also 438 West 23d St; George E. Phelan against Maggie E. Newhall and others, (action to impress trust, &c.;) attorneys, Jeroloman & Arrowsmith.

71ST ST, n s, 100.3 ft e of 3d Av, 18.9x102.2; William H. Slocum and another, executors, &c., against Adolph Abrahams and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorneys, Greene & Stotesburg.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

New York City.

R. PAURA & CO.—An attachment for $927 has been obtained against R. Paura & Co., Italian bankers, formerly at 129 Mott Street, who disappeared in September last, by Luigia Scanga, for money deposited with the firm by various persons, to be transmitted to Italy.

FRED. OPPENHEIMER.—Fred. Oppenheimer, importing and commission merchant at 52 Broad Street, has made an assignment to Oscar A. Weinberg. Davis & Kaufmann, the attorneys, said that the liabilities are about $15,000, but they could give no idea of the value of the assets until an inventory had been made.

D. E. ROSE COMPANY.—The D. E. Rose Company, manufacturer of cigarettes and cheroots at 286 Elizabeth Street, made an assignment yesterday to Ambrose G. Todd. Judgment was taken by default against the company on Friday for $37,112 by A. Cohn & Co., who had assisted the company heretofore. When the D. E. Rose Company made an assignment on Jan. 17, 1899, a settlement was made with the creditors at 33 1-3 cents on the dollar, and it was understood at the time in the trade that A. Cohn & Co. put up the money to pay the settlement. Since then the company has been struggling along, but the business did not prove profitable, and A. Cohn & Co., it is said, declined to render any further assistance, and thought it was time to stop. The liabilities of the company outside of the amount due to A. Cohn & Co. are reported to be about $5,000.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

JOSEPH NEWWITTER.—Joseph Newwitter, resident buyer at 513 Broadway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $64,946, due to 275 creditors, mostly in this city, and no assets. He was formerly of Snitzer, Newwitter & Co. of Vicksburg, Miss., prior to 1895, and the debts are on account of that firm.

H. H. WARNER.—Hulbert H. Warner, who resides at the Hotel Endicott, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $2,319,027 and no assets. Mr. Warner has been prominently identified with the patent medicine business in years past and was also interested in mining schemes and other enterprises. All the debts were contracted at Rochester, N. Y., prior to 1893, when he made an assignment on May 8 of that year to Job E. Hedges. There are many creditors mentioned in the schedules, scattered all over the United States. The debts are for notes, money loaned, and services. There are thirty-three judgments against him. Of the liabilities, $1,391,631 are unsecured, $657,678 secured, and $260,718 notes of other parties which he indorsed. Fifty-four of the notes were made by A. G. Yates. Among the secured creditors are H. H. Warner & Co. of London, $375,000; Bank of Monroe, Rochester, $55,000; Traders' National Bank of Rochester, $25,000; Muir's Trust Company, London, $48,500; Carl F. Kreyer, Berlin, $15,000, and Francis M. Tomkins, $15,000. Among the unsecured creditors are John Griffen, receiver, Hudson, N. Y., $500,000 subscription to stock of the Seven Star Gold Mining Company; William B. Duff, as assignee of A. G. Yates, $68,895 in judgment; Lehigh Coal and Iron Company, West Superior, Wis., $66,037, on fifteen notes; the Molson Bank of Toronto, $73,832, two judgments; First National Bank of Easton, Penn., $17,787, in judgment; Thomson-Houston Electric Company, $20,271, in judgment; George Crawford, $22,500; Crescent Coal Company of Ohio, $19,630, and Edwin S. Moody of Binghamton, $11,694.

VASILIOS ELIADES.—Vasilios Eliades, confectioner, residing at 25 Roosevelt Street, formerly in business at Paterson, N. J., has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $1,568 and no assets.

SAMUEL NAFEW COMPANY.—A petition in involuntary bankruptcy has been filed against the Samuel Nafew Company, manufacturer and dealer in novelties at 392 Broadway, by the following creditors: Sittman & Pitt of Brooklyn, $2,960, for check punches; Gustave Sittman, $1,500, cash loaned on May 1 last, and Samuel D. Mott, $81, salary as salesman. They allege that the company is insolvent, and admitted in writing its inability to pay its debts and willingness to be adjudged bankrupt on that ground. Sittman & Pitt wrote to the company on Dec. 21 last that if it did not make a reasonable payment before Dec. 30 they would protect themselves by legal proceedings, and intimated that they would be compelled to have the company adjudged bankrupt. President Samuel Nafew replied, under date of Dec. 29, as follows: "We regret that after the extensive business dealings we have had with you, amounting probably to over $100,000, you should feel that you ought to consider throwing us in bankruptcy for an unpaid balance of $2,960. We owe you this amount and owe your Mr. Sittman the $1,500 he claims. We do not see where we can raise any money for you. The holiday trade upon which we counted has been a dead failure, and as we have already been sued and others are threatening, and we have had to let claims go because of our inability to meet them, we hereby consent in the interest of all that we be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt." The company has heretofore done an extensive business, has a branch in Chicago, and formerly had a factory at Bridgeport, Conn. Among the specialties which it manufactured and sold are check punches, the Nafew perforator, Samson nailpuller, and nickel-in-the-slot machines for the cigar and liquor trade. Last Fall it opened a store at 1,209 Broadway for the exhibition of slot-machine pictures. The company was incorporated in April, 1895, with a capital stock of $10,000.

Judgments.

The following judgments were filed yesterday, the first name being that of the debtor:

DINGELMAN, Anna—A. Ulman and another..... 117

DOELGER, Peter—Nils Worm..... 99

FARLEY, John—E. L. Sampson and others 32

FARLEY, John—Moses Crystal and another..... 276

GRENING, Paul C.—A. J. Taylor and another..... 143

GOBBER, John—Hyman and Henry Sonn. 765

GILL, John—C. T. Wills, costs..... 23

GETTINGS, James—George Vassar & Son, costs..... 23

GUNTHER, George, and Edward Sheridan—Henry Zubiller and another..... 762

HODGSKIN, Adolph H.—Patrick F. Murphy and another..... 351

HODGSKIN, Adolph H.—Patrick F. Murphy and another..... 404

HARNETT, Lazarus—Manhattan Pie Baking Company, costs..... 23

JUST, Thomas W.—C. Guy Weser..... 537

LA FORGE, Hudson K., Jr., and John B. Watson—George R. Storm and another.. 144

LEVIN, Louis H., receiver—S. Levinson.. 70

MAGNUSSON, Theodore—Acker, Merrall & Condit..... 281

MURRAY, James C.—Harlem River Lumber and Wood Working Company..... 110

MOWILLIAMS, Charles G.—Amrhein, costs 28

McARDLE, Harry E.—D. Ledwith..... 320

McMAHON, Sarah—J. J. McMahon, costs. 89

FOSTER, Arthur J.—R. Gibson..... 581

NIEMITZ, William H.—F. H. Leggett and others..... 198

POWELL, Harry W.—Lorenzo Terwilliger and another..... 373

POWELL, Harry W.—Alfred Boote..... 1,577

RUDOLPH, Theodore A.—A. Schloss and another..... 500

SCHULLENBERG, Zenaide D.—H. Goodwin..... 286

SUGERMAN, William—H. P. Wilson and another..... 99

SEDGWICK, Theodore—R. C. Black and another..... 445

THOMPSON, James K.—John Duer and another, costs..... 35

THE NEW YORK STEAM POWER COMPANY—The Falls River and Machinery Company..... 110

THE DRY DOCK, EAST BROADWAY and Battery Railroad Company—Antonio Malmone..... 1,209

GRAND CENTRAL REAL ESTATE AND Investment Company—Beakes Dairy Company, costs..... 27

THE CITY OF NEW YORK—J. J. Haiduven..... 414

METROPOLITAN STREET RAILWAY Company—J. A. Nathan, costs..... 28

WATSON, John B.—Aspell & Co..... 183

WHITE, Charles C.—S. Isear..... 144

WELCKER, John—J. Schuback..... 1,027

WELL, Isaac—J. M. Burr and another.. 70

YOUNG, John—G. A. Dewan, individually and as administratrix..... 95

REAL ESTATE. | REAL ESTATE.

Realty Trust OFFERS YOU A HOUSE

Within a short distance of City Hall, New York, a house beautiful in design, superb in finish and replete with every modern convenience, allowing you to occupy and pay for it at not more than your present rent. Absolute ownership, most refined neighborhood.

Lots for safe investment; small payment down; will double in value soon.

Call or write us for tickets

60-62 Liberty St., Manhattan.

BROOKLYN REAL ESTATE FOR SALE. | BROOKLYN REAL ESTATE FOR SALE. | BROOKLYN REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

New 2 and 3 Story Modern Stone Houses

LOW PRICES—TERMS TO SUIT.

LOCATED ON MIDWOOD STREET, NEAR FLATBUSH AVENUE, TWO BLOCKS FROM WILLINK ENTRANCE TO PROSPECT PARK, 30 MINUTES FROM NEW YORK; TROLLEY CONNECTIONS TO FERRIES AND ALL POINTS OF THE CITY.

THESE HOUSES ARE MODERN IN EVERY PARTICULAR TO THE SMALLEST DETAIL. A CALL WILL CONVINCE THE MOST FASTIDIOUS THAT HERE THE HOUSEKEEPER WILL FIND EVERYTHING SHE COULD WISH FOR.

TWENTY-FIVE TWO-STORY AND SIX THREE-STORY SOLD DURING PAST SEASON.

FOR FURTHER PARTICULARS REGARDING TERMS, ETC., APPLY TO—

W. A. A. BROWN, Owner { BROOKLYN OFFICE: CORNER MIDWOOD ST. AND FLATBUSH AV

NO MOTIVE FOR MOLINEUX

Mr. Osborne Admits Failure to Show a Cause for Murder.

CRIME NOT A RATIONAL ONE

The Prosecution Now Endeavoring to Prove Intent by the Expert Handwriting Evidence.

After spending five weeks in examining witnesses for the prosecution in the trial of Roland B. Molineux, charged with the murder of Katherine J. Adams, Assistant District Attorney Osborne admitted yesterday that he had not been able to bring to light any motive for an attempt by the defendant on the life of Harry S. Cornish. Mr. Osborne said that there was nothing in the relations of the men as disclosed by the evidence that would cause a rational man to commit or to attempt murder.

The use of the word "rational" immediately raised a storm of questions about Mr. Osborne's ears. "I only wanted to say," he remarked in reply, "that a man who would send poison to his friend was not apparently in the best state of mind." Mr. Osborne, when asked for a further explanation said that he did not by any means intend to be understood as intimating that Molineux was not of sound mind, but that not being able to find a motive, he thought such a crime as the one under investigation could more readily be traced to an irrational being. He would not admit that the absence of apparent motive might be a point in favor of the defendant, but, reiterating his conviction of Molineux's guilt, said again that without motive only an irrational person would attempt the life of a human being. When pressed for a further statement, Mr. Osborne laughed the matter off, and declared that what he had said was of no importance whatever.

This failure to prove motive, which Mr. Osborne admits, was the feature of the eighth week of the trial which closed on Friday. Molineux's friends and persons who were known not to be friendly to him were put on the stand in a vain attempt to bring out something that would show a motive for the alleged attempt upon the life of Cornish. Mr. Osborne switched back to the handwriting expert testimony again on Friday, to prove by tellers of various banks that Molineux had written the Cornish and Barnet letters to patent medicine companies as well as the poison wrapper address.

Mr. Osborne has said that his object in trying to strengthen this part of the testimony is twofold. Under the law, he says, he does not have to prove motive, only intent, yet he admits that it will be hard to get a conviction unless the jury sees some light on the question of motive. He therefore returns to the opinion written on the case at one stage by Justice Pardon C. Williams of the Supreme Court, who said that if it could be shown conclusively that Molineux wrote the letters signed "Cornish" and "Barnet" there would be a legal motive established. So Mr. Osborne put on a lot of experts, not paid and professional ones, but bank tellers, to get before the jury their reasons for believing that Molineux wrote the letters in dispute.

Mr. Osborne's other object, as expressed by him, is to show the jury that reliable men of affairs, holding high positions in banks, where their duties call on them to examine thousands of signatures, hold the same opinion as the paid experts, and he has sought to impress upon the jury that this class of evidence is the more sincere, in that it is given with no hope of gain or employment. Yet the bank tellers have not gone to the lengths of the paid experts. Two of them on the stand admitted to Mr. Weeks that there might be other persons in the world whose writing is as much like the defendant's hand as the writing in the disputed letters. The professional experts would not admit this. In every instance they said that it was impossible that any other hand in all the world than Molineux's could possibly have written the disputed letters and the address on the poison package.

In spite of Mr. Osborne's assertion yesterday that his case was about complete, he had a number of witnesses in his office, and several subpoenas were sent out for others to appear to-morrow, when the ninth week of the trial will open. Several of Mr. Osborne's handwriting experts, notably Mr. Hagan of Troy, Dr. Persifor Fraser of Philadelphia, and Col. Hay of Washington, have not been called to the stand, although all of them testified at the Coroner's inquest and have since been studying the writings. There are also numerous amateur experts whom Mr. Osborne may call to the stand. Other probable witnesses are Nicholas Heckmann, who swore before the Coroner's jury that Molineux had rented a letter box from him on Forty-second Street in the name of Barnet; Emma Miller, who sold the silver bottle holder, and Dr. Witthaus, the chemical expert. Altogether, it is expected that the ninth week of the trial will not see the close of the prosecution's case.

It was said yesterday that Molineux was anxious to take the stand in his own behalf and that he would have an opportunity to do so. It was also said that Mrs. Blanche Chesbrough Molineux would take the stand for the defense. She cannot be called by the prosecution. When asked about these reports, Mr. Weeks said that the defense was not prepared to say anything in advance about its case, either as to the identity of the witnesses or the time that might be consumed in presenting its evidence. Mr. Weeks said that his client was well and as contented as possible under the circumstances. Molineux takes plenty of exercise, and this helps to keep him in good mental and physical condition.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE EXTENSION.

Some Residents Say Proposed Grade Will Leave Them in the Air.

Some of the residents in West One Hundred and Fifty-second Street object to the grade established by the map which was prepared in pursuance to a recent law extending Riverside Drive, and have asked the courts for an opportunity to go before the Board of Public Improvements before the Commissioners are appointed to condemn certain parcels of land lying in the path of the proposed extension.

John Henry Hull, attorney for John L. Wall and Michael Kelly, owners of property in that vicinity, says that the proposed grade will make a sixteen-foot defile through the hill at One Hundred and Fifty-second Street and leave the residents there up in the air, high and dry. Robert J. Hoguet who lives at the foot of West One Hundred and Forty-first Street, and who was influential in getting the proposed grade established, denies that it will work the injury to the property owners there that they fear. He said:

"That grade won't affect the people on the east side of the drive at all. After it's gone through, they'll be just where they are now. And as to the people on the west side, they won't be there. They've no complaint to make."

The order restraining the Corporation Counsel from appointing the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment obtained by Mr. Hull is returnable to-morrow.

A NEW EAST SIDE MISSION.

To Supply Luxuries for the Sick Poor and Aid the Destitute.

The East Side Fruit and Flower Mission, which was opened last Tuesday in the basement of the Second Avenue Baptist Church, between Tenth and Eleventh Streets, will make distributions regularly on Tuesdays and Fridays. Donations of fruits, jellies, fresh eggs, clothing, and money are requested, and letters of inquiry may be addressed to the Secretary, Mrs. W. L. Elseffer, at the rooms of the mission.

The mission is unsectarian, and the object is to supply fruits, flowers, and other luxuries to the sick poor, and also to provide clothing, groceries, and other comforts to the destitute in the tenements. The supplies are to be distributed through trained workers of missions already established, representing all denominations. Cases of destitution will also be investigated and relieved. Mrs. J. A. Francis is President of the mission.

Holds Schmidt's Killing Justifiable.

The inquest held by Coroner Delaney, at the Court House in Jersey City Friday evening, resulted in a verdict that Theodore Brunnert was justified in killing Nicholas Schmidt in self-defense early New Year's morning in the latter's saloon. Brunnert was one of the members of the Seventy-first Regiment who made the charge up San Juan Hill.

Horner's Furniture.

IMPORTANT PRICE REDUCTIONS

Having finished our annual inventory, we have reduced the prices on many pieces in all lines to effect a clearance of same. The reductions apply to

SIDEBOARDS,
BEDROOM SETS,
PARLOR SETS,
DRESSING TABLES,
CABINETS, BOOKCASES, &c.,

and are well worthy the attention of all who wish to secure fine Furniture away below regular prices.

R. J. HORNER & CO.,
Furniture Makers and Importers,
61, 63, 65 W. 23d Street
(Adjoining Eden Musee.)

LEGAL NOTES.

RELATIVE RIGHTS OF WAGONS AND STREET RAILROAD CARS.—Richard Warren, sitting in a grocery wagon, the back and sides of which were inclosed by oilcloth curtains, was driving along White Plains Avenue, in this city, in the centre of which was the track of the Union Railway Company of New York. Each side of the street was either out of repair or incumbered with rubbish, so that the passable part of the roadway ran so close to the railroad track that the wheel of Warren's wagon nearest the track was only about a foot from it. As he was driving in that place, a trolley car came up rapidly from behind, without any warning, struck the wagon in which he was seated, threw it over, and inflicted serious injuries upon him. A dismissal by the trial court of Warren's complaint in his suit against the railroad company for damages has just been reversed by the First Appellate Division, which holds, in an opinion by Justice Rumsey, that the plaintiff was under no legal obligation to look behind him in order to detect the approach of the car, which gave no signal of such approach, the rumble and noise of which he heard only just as he was struck by it.

***

IMPROPER EVIDENCE IN ACCIDENT CASE.—A judgment recovered by Louis Bellemare against the Third Avenue Railroad Company for injuries claimed to have been caused by negligence in managing a cable car on which plaintiff was a passenger, has been reversed by the Appellate Division of the First Department, because of errors in ruling upon evidence respecting the permanency of the injuries. Among these injuries were fractured ribs and an overlapping of one of these ribs. The accident occurred on March 12, 1894. A physician testified at the trial that he first saw the plaintiff on Nov. 14, 1897. He was allowed to testify, from his observation, to the opinion that the injuries were likely to result in a permanent loss of strength of the affected side, that danger existed in complications that might arise from chronic pleurisy, and that such complications were liable to occur. The court holds, by Justice Patterson, that "all this testimony was conjectural and speculative, and the opinion expressed by the witness was not based upon that which is required for the allowance of expert testimony of this character, namely, that the anticipated consequences will result with reasonable certainty from the injuries sustained by the sufferer. What the witness was permitted to testify to was not what would happen in the future with reasonable certainty, but as to what would be likely to happen or might supervene."

***

ALIGHTING FROM A MOVING CAR.—George Steuer lost his life by stepping off from the front platform of a moving car of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company with his back toward the horses. The First Appellate Division yesterday affirmed judgment in favor of the company, on the verdict of a jury, in Samuel Steuer's suit as administrator against the railroad company for damages. Presiding Justice Van Brunt, giving the opinion, said the evidence showed the deceased attempted to get off the car not only while it was in motion, but without giving any notice whatever of his intention to alight, either to the conductor or the driver. "It is undoubtedly true," the Presiding Justice said, "that the car had stopped and some people had alighted, but when the deceased attempted to get off the car it was in motion, and he had given no notice whatever to the persons in charge of the car of his desire or intention to alight. Neither the driver nor the conductor had any reason to suspect any intention upon the part of the deceased to leave the car, and he stepped off the car with his back toward the horses, with the usual result, even when a car is moving quite slowly. Under these circumstances, it is difficult to see upon what negligence of the defendant can be predicated. If parties attempt to alight from a car, having given no information to the person in charge of their intention so to do, there is no negligence upon the part of the driver of the car in increasing its speed to the rate at which it can ordinarily proceed with safety. While conductors and drivers of street railway cars are bound to use diligence in looking after the safety of their passengers they have no reason to anticipate that passengers will attempt to alight from moving cars."

***

A FERRYBOAT ACCIDENT.—In Anna Mueller's suit against the Tenth and Twenty-third Street Ferry Company for damages for injuries she received while going from a bridge to a boat of the company, at Greenpoint, L. I., on her way to New York, a judgment of dismissal directed on the trial has been reversed by the First Appellate Division. The plaintiff testified that while walking along the bridge she observed on reaching the boat that it was a little higher than the bridge, but nothing else. While in the act of stepping from the bridge to the boat, one of her feet was caught and pulled down. "The boat went to and fro. As the boat took this action, my left foot came from the boat; my foot had gone between the boat and the bridge." Justice Patterson, giving the Appellate Division's opinion, said this testimony indicated that the boat was not properly secured to the bridge, and that there was a space in which it played to and fro, as well as rose and fell with the action of the tide. "From her statement," he said, "the inference is to be drawn that as she looked at the boat she observed nothing but the difference in height between it and the bridge, which, observing, she could regulate her step to meet," and the testimony was held to be sufficient to allow the inference that there was negligence on the part of the defendant's servants in failing to properly secure the boat to the bridge. Mrs. Mueller called as a witness an employe of the company to give a description of the mechanism used by the company. On cross-examination, this witness testified that the boat, at the time of the accident, was securely fastened to the bridge, and that it did not move, and could not move. Justice Patterson holds that plaintiff could not be bound by that testimony, nor be precluded from showing or contending that the witness was mistaken. The discrepancy in the statements of the plaintiff and this witness, the Court says, should have been submitted to the jury, to determine which they would believe. Justice Ingraham dissented, holding that plaintiff was charged with knowledge that the boat was subject to be moved by the action of the water, and that the only fact which the jury would have been justified in finding was that in some way, by the movement of the tide, the plaintiff's foot was caught between the boat and the dock, and that she was at that time injured, and this did not justify a finding of the defendant's negligence.

Jersey City Water Contract Attacked.

Col. Samuel W. Phillips, the President of the Passaic Valley Mutual Protective Association, has given notice that he will for his association begin a suit in the United States Circuit Court against the East Jersey Water Company and Patrick H. Flynn, to restrain them from diverting water from the Passaic River. Mr. Flynn has begun work to construct a water supply plant for Jersey City.

S. Koch & Sons

24 West 23d Street.

The Koch "Pulley" Belt.

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

The most practical and graceful of all Bodice Belts.

Made of highest grade ribbon, strengthened and shaped by fine and flexible bone specially prepared for it.

Holds skirt and waist in position without pins, hooks or buckles.

Makes the waist line two to three inches lower in front than in back, thereby giving the desired long-waist effect.

By the novel arrangement of a ring at each end, forming a "pulley" combination, the Belt can be tightened or loosened at will.

In Black and Colors.

PRICE $1.25 EACH.

MAIL ORDERS must be accompanied by money orders. Specify waist measure.

WARNING!

Every article of merit is imitated. So with our Bodice "Pulley" Belt. But the imitations bear about the same relationship to it as the Copper Penny to the Gold Coin. The genuine "Pulley" Ribbon Belt can be had only at our two establishments—

West 23d Street, N.Y.
Fulton St. & Elm Pl., Bklyn.
S. KOCH & SONS.

SHOT WIFE, THEN HIMSELF

Mrs. Rose Died in Her Home, the Husband Later.

STRUGGLED TO SAVE HERSELF

Woman's Father, Threatened with Death, Fled—Rose, Once Insane, Said He Would Commit Murder.

After shooting his wife dead yesterday afternoon, Philip W. Rose fired a bullet into his temple, inflicting a wound from which he died later in the Harlem Hospital. He went to her father's home, at 284 Lenox Avenue, where she had been living since she separated from him July 4 last, and after pointing a pistol at his father-in-law's breast, intimidating him, rushed to another room and killed his wife, then shooting himself. He was taken to the hospital.

The woman was Rebecca Rose, daughter of Nathan Rose. She and her husband were first cousins. She was thirty-two, very small, and weighing only 100 pounds. They had a boy five years old, named Paul, who lived with the mother. Rose was a salesman. He had prospered before the marriage, six years ago, and for a couple of years afterward, but then he became insane, and he spent some time in an asylum at Jacksonville, Ill. Then he came to New York, where his wife was, but they separated in July. He was out of work, and, as alleged, did not support his wife.

The woman's father, who is nearly seventy years old, said that Rose used to write his wife threatening letters saying he would kill her if she did not live with him, and she became fearful that Rose would commit murder. The letters became so frequent that the father says he burned them and would not let his daughter read them. She became so afraid of Rose that she seldom went into the street, fearing that he might injure her.

Mrs. Rose and her father were sitting in the front room at 5 o'clock yesterday. The child was out. A knock came to the door, and Mrs. Rose said she thought it was the baker for whom they were waiting, and her father opened the door. It was Rose.

The woman shrieked and said in a fright: "Oh, my God, father! It's Philip!"

Rose pushed the door aside and tried to brush past the father as the wife rushed into the kitchen. The old man stood his ground. Rose kept pushing, but the father grappled with him. He attempted to force him out through the doorway, but Rose quickly drew a revolver. The old man said at first that Rose pulled the trigger after pointing the weapon at his breast, and that the cartridge failed to explode. Later, when less excited, he said Rose pointed the revolver at him and told him he would kill him if he were not left alone. Mr. Rose said he dared not attempt to restrain the man further, and Rose, the husband, turned and went back toward the kitchen while the father ran into the street in a fright.

The old man hurried to the corner of One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and Lenox Avenue, where he met Policeman Herrlich of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Station. He could not tell what was the matter because of his intense excitement, and he grasped Herrlich by the coat and pointed to the flat. Herrlich considered that something important must be the matter, and he let the old man lead him to the rooms. They were too late.

There was evidence that the woman had not died an easy victim. Her body was in the kitchen. There was a bullet in the right temple, another in the left jaw, and another in her breast.

Rose was in the next room, alive. But he was dying with a bullet in his head. His clothes were covered with blood, and they were disarranged, showing that the woman had rushed at him when he first fired and that she had torn his clothing in an effort to prevent him from shooting her or to get possession of the revolver.

Rose was unconscious, and Herrlich sent a "hurry" call for an ambulance. One soon arrived with Dr. Blackmar, who hurried back to the hospital with the dying man.

The father-in-law was so excited about the murder of his daughter that he hardly knew what he said at times. He declared at first that he thought Rose had been seized with a fit of insanity, but he said later that Rose was apparently rational and sober. He thought he had lived in West Twenty-second Street and that he had been employed in a department store in Sixth Avenue.

A. W. Rose, a brother of the murdered woman, met Rose in a saloon about a month ago and took a revolver away from him, it is said, with which he declared he was going to kill his wife.

Big Arrears for Secretary Jussen.

Justice Nash, in the Supreme Court, yesterday handed down an order directing John J. Scannell, Fire Commissioner of this city, individually, to pay to Carl Jussen, who has been restored by the Supreme Court to his position as Secretary of the Fire Department, $9,666.66, being the arrears of salary due him since his dismissal on Jan. 1, 1898. Jussen was discharged to make room, as alleged, for a Tammany appointee. He claimed that he was a veteran, and could not be removed except for cause shown. He obtained a writ of mandamus to try the question as to whether his office was a confidential one or not. The jury which heard testimony before Justice McAdam found in his favor. Justice Nash made the writ absolute.

Those alarming catarrhal fevers to which many children are subject can be prevented or cured with timely doses of Jayne's Expectorant.—Adv.

Stern Brothers

Special Sales
To-morrow, Monday

Fur Departments

Ladies' Persian Lamb Coats, Extra quality,	at	$114.50
With collar and revers of Blended Baum Marten,	at	$135.00
Alaska Sealskin Coats,	at	$159.50 & $175.00
Cloth Capes, Fur-lined and Trimmed,	at	$18.50
Electric Seal Collarettes, Yokes of Astrachan Paws,	at	$6.25
Alaska Sable Scarfs,	at	$7.38
Dyed Blue Lynx Scarfs,	at	$21.50

With the remainder of their imported

Fur and Fur-Lined Garments
at
Great Reductions From Previous Prices

Corset Department
Annual Sale of

Genuine French Hand-Made P. D. and C. P. Corsets	$1.25
in black sateen, gray, white, pink and blue coutil, stripped with sateen, trimmed with lace,	$1.65
and bones finished with silk flossing	$1.95

Values $2.25, $2.75, & $3.50

Dress Goods Departments
An extraordinary offering of 24000 Yds. All-Wool
French Challies at 23c
in desirable colorings and designs,
Regular Price 50c a yard.

Ladies' House Gowns

Of Cashmere,	at $3.95, $5.25, $6.80
Regular value $6.00 to $10.00
Of India Silk, elaborately trimmed with lace and ribbon,	at $9.25
Real value $13.50

Continuation Sale of High Class Household Linens

Bleached Damasks,	per yd.	73c, 95c, $1.25
Dinner Napkins,	per doz.	$2.25, $3.25
Hemstitched Huck Towels,	" "	$2.38, $2.95
Huck Towels, hemstitched and initialed,	per doz.	$2.50
Satin Marseilles Bed Spreads,		$1.45, 1.75, 2.15

Also a purchase of fine
Double Damask Table Cloths, 2½ to 5 yds. long, with Napkins to match, in three sizes
Very Much Below Prevailing Prices

Misses' and Children's Winter Garments

Girls' Reefers, 4 to 14 years,	$4.95 & 7.95
Heretofore $8.50 to $15.75
Misses' Jackets, 14, 16 and 18 years,	$6.75 & 9.75
Heretofore $10.50 to $19.75
Girls' Box Coats and Gretchens, 4 to 14 years,	$7.95
Heretofore $12.90 to $17.50
Misses' Ulsters, 16 and 18 years	$12.90
Heretofore $19.75 to $25.75

Upholstery Departments

Bobinet Curtains, ruffled, with lace inserting and edge,	at $1.40 & 1.75 pr.
Irish Point Curtains,	$2.50, 3.75, 4.95 pr.
Heretofore $3.25 to $8.75
Irish Point Bed Sets,	at $3.95, 6.75, 8.75
Formerly $6.75, $9.25 & $11.25
Imported Tapestry Curtains,	$2.50 & 6.75 pr.
Reduced from $4.95 & $10.50
Double-faced French Velour Curtains,	at $19.75 pr.
Reduced from $31.50

West Twenty-third Street

JEALOUS WIFE UNDER ARREST.

Mrs. Julia Keefe, wife of Dr. C. Keefe of Kingston, for nearly a year has been jealous of Mrs. Lillie F. Parish, the widow of Martin Parish of Rondout. Anthony Comstock, after an investigation lasting over a month, decided that there was no foundation for Mrs. Keefe's suspicions, and two days ago he decided to have her arrested on the charge of sending improper letters through the mails, so as to save Mrs. Parish from further insult and persecution.

The warrant, signed by United States Commissioner Shields, was executed by Deputy United States Marshal Cook yesterday, and late in the afternoon the prisoner was brought to this city. Mrs. Keefe, through her counsel, ex-Mayor W. D. Bruinier of Kingston, waived examination, and she was held in $2,500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The bond was signed by Cornelius H. Gallagher of 131 Fair Street, Kingston, and Mrs. Keefe was released and allowed to return to her home.

Anthony Comstock says that the accused woman admitted to him that she had written the letters complained of, but justified her conduct by saying that she was in the possession of evidence to prove that her husband had been too attentive to Mrs. Parish. He questioned the alleged witnesses, and discovered that there was no foundation for Mrs. Keefe's suspicions.

John Daniell Sons & Sons

Special Sale in Cloak Department.

TAILOR-MADE SUITS—

At	$7.75	$11.75	$14.00
Worth	15.00	18.00	25.00

SEVERAL HIGH-CLASS SUITS—

At	$28.00	$35.00	$45.00
Reduced from	60.00	75.00	125.00

JACKETS—Ladies' tailor-made Jackets, rough and smooth cloths, Black, Tan and Oxford,

For	$4.98	$6.75	$9.95
Sold at	10.00	13.00	18.00

PETTICOATS—Quilted Mohair of very fine quality, 98c. Were sold at $2.50.
Also, Black Sateen, lined throughout . . . . 95c.
SKIRTS—An extensive line of Colored Silk Skirts, well made, good quality silk . . . . . $5.00; were $8.00
A lot of plaid and striped silk accordeon plaited, graduated ruffle for $13.00 and $16.00; were $20.00 and $25.00.
WAISTS—200 Ladies' and Misses' Waists, a fine quality serge, tucked and lined throughout, for $1.50; sold at $2.98.
EIDERDOWN DRESSING SACQUES—Embroidered edge 98c., $1.25
EIDERDOWN WRAPPERS—IN SOLID colors, $2.50 and $3.50; FIGURED AND STRIPED, $3.98 and $4.25
Also a few Ladies' Flannelette Zephyr Negligees, slightly soiled, at . . . . . $1.98 each; were $5.00
We advise you to take ADVANTAGE of our Muslin Underwear Sale, if not, you are the loser.

Broadway, Eighth and Ninth Streets.

Arnold, Constable & Co.

Ladies' Furnishings.

Shirt Waists.
SPRING 1900.
Chambray, Dimity and Linen Waists.
Fancy Trimmed White Lawn Waists.
French Flannel Waists.
Paris Lingerie.
Silk Petticoats.
Dressing Sacques.
Corsets.

Broadway & 19th Street.

PILOTS' COLLECTOR MISSING.

Joseph Drew Had the Confidence of His Employers—Examining the Safe and Books.

Joseph Drew, agent, bookkeeper, and collector for the New Jersey Sandy Hook Pilots, whose offices are in the Chesebrough Building, in State Street, is missing. He was last at the office on Tuesday. He went to his home in Hoboken as usual that night after leaving the office, and left ostensibly to go to the office next morning. His wife and mother have not seen him since, and are distracted.

The pilots on Wednesday notified the American Surety Company, which was on Drew's bond, and the company instituted an investigation. It was necessary to have safe men come in to drill the safe to get at the books, and expert accountants have been examining them. The pilots say that Drew, who is about twenty-eight years old, had been in their employ since he was a boy, and four years ago, when their old bookkeeper died, he was appointed to fill the vacancy. He had always been regular in his methods, and implicit confidence was placed in him.

It has not been discovered, they say, that there is any shortage in his accounts, and it is not believed that there is. Should there prove to be, however, the amount, it was said, would be very small, for under the system employed in the office any peculations could have covered but a short period.

After the safe had been opened the office and safe keys were found on the hat rack at Drew's Hoboken home. That fact was the only incident, it was said, that put the disappearance in an unpleasant light. It would otherwise have been thought that Drew had met with foul play or with accident. The Surety Company's detectives report that they find that Drew, so far as their investigations go, had always led an exemplary life, and his reputation he enjoyed among his neighbors, as well as among the pilots and business men with whom he came in contact. His mother lived with him and his wife, and only two months ago a baby was added to the household.

SIGNALS EXCITE BELLEVUE.

Dr. O'Hanlon Gives Many Alarms in Illustrating an Argument.

Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon was in the telegraph operating room at Bellevue Hospital, talking with Drs. Rogers, Edgerton, Christian, and others. The subject of conversation was the effect of telegraphing on the nervous system. Dr. O'Hanlon, as an illustration to bear out his contention, cited the scene in the play "Secret Service," where the operator keeps on telegraphing after being shot. His description was graphic.

On the wall of the operating room there is a button. One pressure summons an ambulance, two pushes summon all the ambulances, three the dead wagon, four the fire force, five the reserve force, and six all the employes for a great emergency. In the course of his illustration Dr. O'Hanlon reached over and began pushing this button, sounding all the signals. He was going on with his description when there was a rattle at the door, followed by another rattle and much confusion outside. Then men came into the room with hose dragging after them, and finally all the employes rushed pell mell for the office.

"You've done it," shouted Registrar Gleason, as he rushed in out of breath.

"What's the matter?" gasped Dr. O'Hanlon.

"You've touched off all the signals—fire, murder, ambulance, and everything."

Dr. O'Hanlon apologized to every one and said he would never do it again. It was fully half an hour before tranquillity prevailed.

Moody Memorial Service.

At the Moody memorial service, to be held to-morrow night at Carnegie Hall, William E. Dodge will preside, and among the speakers will be the Rev. Drs. Wilson Merle Smith, David H. Greer, J. M. Buckley, A. C. Dixon, D. J. Burrell, and Theodor L. Cuyler, John Wanamaker, and John R. Mott. Ira D. Sankey will have charge of the singing. Admission will be by ticket, and tickets will be sent to those applying to W. E. Lougee or F. H. Jacobs, 3 West Twenty-ninth Street, until the supply is exhausted.

FLINT'S FINE FURNITURE

A Cheerful Room Maketh a Cheerful Diner.

What! Put all the comfort into the living rooms and leave the dining room cheerless? Surely not! when such artistic furnishings are here now below even factory prices.

Wall hangings and draperies of the softest tones and most delightful textures. Carpets and rugs in correct colorings now reduced.

Oak Tables, 6-foot extension, at $7.00; others of Dutch and French designs, whose polished tops will give the keynote for artistic luncheon decorations.

Colonial armchairs with rush seats, exquisite little China Closets, side tables, carrying tables, plate and spoon racks. For the latest ideas you must

"BUY OF THE MAKER"

GEO. C. FLINT CO.
43-45 AND 47 WEST 23D ST
NEAR BROADWAY
FACTORY: 154 AND 156 WEST 19TH STREET

Bulfinches

Whistling many songs, including "Bridal Wreath," "America," "So Let the Wide World Wag," "Mousetraps, Who'll Buy?" "How Can I Leave Thee?" "Let's Be Merry, Comrades," "Prince of Wales," "Where the Blue Waters Sparkle." These are the most tame, affectionate, and beautiful birds. Prices, $40, $50, $75, $100, with 2 or 3 having extra-long songs at $150, $200.

The Campanini Holden Canary is the great song canary, very soft and varied trills, bells, and flute notes, $8, $10, $15, $20, $25. Hartz Canary, extra grade, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00; guaranteed to sing to suit. Breeding females, $1.00. Birds sent everywhere by express. Holden's new Book on Birds, all about mating, food, and care, by mail for 25 cts., stamps.

G. H. HOLDEN, 240 6th Ave., (15th St.)

Hurt in a Collision Down the Bay.

In a collision late yesterday afternoon in Gravesend Bay between the schooner Hattie T. Burns of Bath, Me., loaded with lumber, and the tugboat James A. Miller, two men were injured. The schooner under full sail had just passed the Government Pier at Fort Hamilton, and was about to make a tack, when the tugboat crashed into her. John Kelly, a coal passer on the tugboat, living at 210 Graham Avenue, Brooklyn, was thrown up against the hot boilers and badly burned about the head and body. Andreas Swensen, forty-one years old, a seaman on the schooner, was struck by a flying piece of wood and received a gash on the top of his head that required eight stitches to close. The damage to the sailing vessel amounted to about $2,500.

Festival of the Little Mothers.

The Little Mothers' Aid Association held its annual Christmas festival yesterday afternoon at Webster Hall, 125 East Eleventh Street. The festival began at 2 o'clock, and lasted till 5. Two hearts of five hundred little east-side girls were made glad. There was a delightful luncheon served, and this was followed by a musical and dramatic programme. Then came the distribution of gifts. Each girl received a doll and a stocking containing candies, nuts, fruit, and articles of wearing apparel. The committee from the Little Mothers' Aid Association, which had the entertainment in charge, was composed of Mrs. Clarence Burns, Mrs. A. T. Harms, Miss Schroeder, and Miss Kiddle.

Flushing Home for ex-Convicts Open.

The home for ex-convicts established at Flushing by Mrs. Ballington Booth of the American Volunteers was opened yesterday. There were only three men at the home, but one of them said more were ready to join them when the place is put in shape.

Sunday
January 7-1900

Daily, 1 Cent.

The New York Times.

Sunday, 3 Cents.

Part Two Pages 15-28

NAVY'S WORK IN THE EAST

The Surrender of Zamboanga to Commander Very.

NATIVES FACED STARVATION

Rice Was Brought Them by the Manila and Joy Followed Woe—No Trouble Anticipated.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

ZAMBOANGA, P. I., Nov. 19.—The long-looked-for event has at last happened, and Zamboanga has fallen into our hands as easily and quietly as if there had not been a bitter, murderous war raging here for the past six months. The navy did it, and to Commander Very of the Castine the credit is due. To the rigorous blockade he instituted, his untiring vigilance, and his uncompromising manner of dealing with the many vexed subjects of international importance that have arisen, we owe it that the place was finally surrendered without a drop of American blood being spilled.

While rigorous in all demands of a military or administrative nature, Commander Very's way of always courteously treating those of our enemies with whom he has come in contact has won him many warm and admiring friends among the "enemigos" as well as the "amigos," and has prepared the way for what followed.

About a week ago Manilio Calixo, the acknowledged leader of the military faction most extreme in its antipathy to us, was assassinated by the Tetuanites, as the friendly natives at Tetuan, a town some four miles or more from Zamboanga, are called. When the news was reported to Commander Very, he at once grasped its important bearing on the subject and stated most emphatically that the rest of the solution of the question was now very easy indeed.

STARVATION BEGINS.

This leader had been associated with President Alvarez, the head administrator of the province and the political leader, and two or three others, whose efforts alone had been sufficient to keep the tottering fabric from crumbling. There are one or two other points that added to this somewhat unstable equilibrium, and these were the want of money and munitions for the troops and food for the soldiers and populace. The sinews of war were supplied by Aguinaldo until two or three months ago, when their absence became decidedly conspicuous, and the unfriendly forces dropped from thousands to hundreds, with but little comparative enthusiasm in those who remained. This shows the effects of Gen. Otis's policy around Manila, and how much real solid headway he has been making in putting down the rebellion.

The scarcity of food and the minimum exchange of commodities with the neighboring islands are due to the ever-watchful eye of the commanding officer of the Castine, who succeeded in stopping all traffic with the insurrectos, and reduced the people to the verge of starvation. Rice is the great staple of food, and at this season the local supply runs short, and dependence has to be placed upon other islands. Such supplies then must of course come by water, and must also come to the nearest possible point to the centre of distribution, owing to the almost impassable state of the roads. Lookouts at the man-of-war's masthead by day and the continuous use of her searchlight at night, added to her continually shifting her berth from one place to another, and constantly turning up at unexpected times and places, effectively put a stop to all but the most venturesome traders. The amounts of food that were landed were an extremely small percentage of what was required, as later events have proved, so the blockade may be considered as effectual.

READY TO GIVE UP.

With the death of their military leader the forces of our enemies became so reduced that representatives of the element that had for a long time been wishing for a return to the pursuits of peace at once called upon Commander Very and informed him if he would take his squadron—composed of the Castine and Manila—and anchor off the city early the following morning the forces friendly to the Americans would approach the city from the rear and hoist the Stars and Stripes on the fort to the eastward of the city. Assurance was given that there would be no active opposition, as those in command of the city only wanted an excuse to withdraw with honor, which of course they could not do unless a show of force on our part was made.

Accordingly, on the 16th, at early daylight, the United States squadron got under way without waiting for three hundred or more auxiliaries, in the shape of Moros, to appear in their canoes, and act in concert with us. After taking up positions to command the town and fort, soldiers were seen running from the houses and disappearing in the palm groves back of the city. Soon the large Government house was hidden by flames and smoke, and it looked as if we were to lose the town through the incendiary acts of the fleeing enemy. The Chinese population left behind, not caring who their master might be as long as money were forthcoming, ran to the rescue and succeeded in keeping the flames from spreading, notwithstanding the fact that the floors and woodwork were all soaked with petroleum.

Just about this time cheers from the crew of the Manila showed that they had discovered the American flag flying from the flagstaff on the fort, and the Castine's men jumped into the rigging and made the echoes jump along the hills with their cheering. The friendly forces were now seen on the ramparts, where salvo after salvo was fired in honor of the capitulation. The signal to prepare the landing forces from the squadron to land was now made from the flagship, and the Captain of the Manila, Lieut. Commander A. P. Nazro, was put in command of the entire force. The Manila's men were first at the landing, and were received with the utmost cordiality and every expression of friendship; and relief by the few hundreds grouped about the dock, and who were about all that remained of the population.

When Commander Very landed later he was hailed as a deliverer. Women crossed their arms over their breasts and bowed submissively as he passed, while the men uttered their vivas until they were all but breathless, and on all sides could be seen every sign of relief and a faith that something was about to be done to aid and help them out of their distressing condition. "Rice! Rice!" was heard everywhere. "We are hungry; we are starving. Our children are suffering. Do help us and keep us from dying," were the appeals coming from every direction.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY.

The fort and commanding places in the town were at once garrisoned, and the work of settling affairs and improving the condition of the people begun. As an attack from the five or six hundred enemies was momentarily expected the arrival of Datto Mandi and his Moros was most opportune. As long as the Americans were there and peace could be kept between the friendly factions, all seemed to promise an extremely satisfactory state of affairs. The Manila was sent that evening to Iloilo for troops and rice, from which trip she returned on the 18th with a company of the Twenty-third Infantry, commanded by Capt. Nichols, and with six or seven tons of rice.

The intervening day had shown a great change in the situation. People had been pouring in from the outlying towns in such numbers that the plaza and market place were crowded, while about the landing wharf was a densely packed mass of women, clamoring for the rice they knew the gunboat had brought them. Like so many ants, these half-famished creatures gathered about the sacks until it was almost impossible to deal the rice out fairly. However, one by one they left, each carrying on her head a bundle of the food of which the exigencies of the times had deprived them for so many weeks.

Later in the day a band from the neighboring town of Santa Maria came in and discoursed lively airs on the plaza. Then what a change! There were but few troubled faces, no supplicants for food with piteous, heart-rending stories that were enough to bring a shower of tears to the eyes of the Statue of Liberty. Everything was bright and gay, and the women, with their clean white dresses, with a bit of color here and there, were moving about talking and laughing as if war had never been. Now and again, when a dance tune was started by the band leader, the soldiers and the jack tars were dancing together, very much to the amusement of the dark-eyed Señoritas, who, if I mistake not, will not, in the near feature, allow two men to dance together, while they calmly act the spectators' part.

These gay promenaders kept up their fun and frolic until one, in spite of his belt stuffed full of cartridges and his rifle close at hand, could not stifle a feeling that a time of unbreakable peace and profound security was at hand. All was so radiant that sunset, with all its wonderful coloring to set off the scene, came far too early, for before it had quite turned its glories into the deepening gloom of night, orders from headquarters required the streets cleared and all strangers out of the town, as no one may pass the line of sentries between dark and daylight, and no armed man may pass at any time.

NO MORE DANGER EXISTS.

Everything considered, as far as a very limited experience with these people is concerned, there seems nothing to fear from them. They are as careless and indolent, and probably as nervous, as cats. The common people, or rather the Moros, are restless and look much more treacherous than they really are. I should say from their average size it would take about two of them to make one of New York's "finest," especially the Broadway grenadiers. And while one is glad there is no roaming about the streets allowed at night, the crowd seemed like a very good-humored rabble. I dare say the cat is capable of being transformed into a lion, and that very brave things have been done by them. Set glory beyond them, give them a gun and plenty of cartridges, and they are prone to frenzy, and from their breasts may come a whirlwind to blow the new fabric to the four quarters; but we are not giving them guns; on the contrary, we are taking away all that we can get from them.

The good luck of the gunboat Manila in getting into all sorts of "scraps" with the insurrectos and doing excellent service among the Islands of the Philippines is proverbial in the Asiatic Squadron, and she is kept busily at work going about from one place to another, managing very often to get in just in time to be mentioned in the dispatches which throw additional lustre upon her proud records. It was so recently at Zamboanga, where she went to relieve the Castine, the latter having had six months of most arduous duty. She arrived in time to be in at the death when the province fell, and her drudgery all done, and her battalion had an opportunity to do excellent service in holding the fort and preserving order.

Apropos of all this, the following free translation of what the Manila's crew say they really think led to the capitulation comes to hand directly from the ship's shining coppers, over which one Ridell, ship's cook, presides most efficiently.

"THE COON AGAIN COMES DOWN."

President Alvarez to his Chief Signal Officer—What ho, without there! What battleship is that I see approaching with guns bristling and colors flying?

Chief Signal Officer—'Tis the Manila, Sire, with National colors at the mastheads and the signal for battle flying.

The President—Gather together the Commissioners and send them to the warship with your largest flag of truce. Further resistence is impossible. Our last hope disappears.

Chief Signal Officer—Sire, we cannot be too prompt in obeying!

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

Will Be Notable for the Number of Its Young Members—Principal Measures They Will Consider.

TRENTON, Jan. 6.—The new Legislature of New Jersey comes into existence next Tuesday afternoon. The most distinguishing feature about it is that it is a "young man's Legislature." Three-fourths of the members of the entire body are under fifty years of age and one-half are under forty.

The majority of the men in the House of Assembly are between thirty and forty. The Speaker, Benjamin Franklin Jones of Essex, is only thirty years of age, and the leader of the Republican majority, Edmund W. Wakelee of Bergen, is of the same age. Allan Bebny of Hudson, the leader of the minority, is thirty-three years of age. Eight of the eleven Democratic members of Hudson are young lawyers less than forty, while the Republican delegation from Essex are young men of thirty-five to forty-five.

There is much young blood in the Senate, too. The Republican leader is ex-Congressman Mahlon Pitney of Morris, who is just forty-one. He is backed by Senator E. C. Stokes of Cumberland, who is thirty-nine; Senator Thomas N. McCarter of Essex County, who is thirty-five; Senator C. Asa Francis of Monmouth, forty-two, and Senator Francis A. Read of Somerset and Senator Richard C. Miller of Salem, who have just turned forty-one.

Another distinctive feature of the incoming Legislature is that the Democrats have the smallest representation in both branches than at any time during the history of the State. There are seven Democrats in the Senate and sixteen in the House, eleven coming from Hudson County and the others coming from Hunterdon, Sussex, and Warren Counties.

The Republican leaders have declared that the session will be short and businesslike, and that there will be no partisan legislation, but this promise is not likely to hold good because of the character of the legislation that will be considered. The most important bill that will come up is to change the election laws of the State. It is a scheme conceived by the Republicans of Hudson County for the purpose of patching up the broken fortunes of the party in that county. The principal feature of the proposed bill is that all elections are to be held at one time, the municipal, State, and National elections to be held in November. It is argued that the large percentage of citizens who commute to New York and Philadelphia cannot be made to interest themselves in the Spring elections, and the Democrats, they claim, get their strength because of the lack of interest of the commuting Republicans. The November election day is a legal holiday, and many are at home and attend to their duties as citizens.

The Railroad corporations will be placed on the defensive. The representatives from the more populous counties, like Hudson, Essex, Passaic, and Union, will stand close together, notwithstanding political differences, on a bill to secure a franchise tax from all corporations getting public privileges. The passage of the bill means an increase of the taxes of all the corporations in the State. The united energy of the corporations, both railroad, electric light, gas, and telephone companies, will be employed to oppose it.

The Democrats, for the purpose of making a record, will endeavor to get the miscellaneous corporation laws amended so as to remove the objectionable features of protecting the names of the stockholders and the dummy incorporators, as furnished by the corporations whose business it is to incorporate.

A fight is expected on the new School bill, which has been prepared by a special commission appointed by the Governor to codify all the existing school laws and to secure such reforms as are needed to perfect the school system. The principal difference of opinion is over the method of creating School Commissioners and Trustees.

The pollution of the rivers of the State, a problem too gigantic for other Legislatures to grapple with, will be considered.

Gov. Voorhees's message will be short and contain about 8,000 words. His principal discussion will be on franchise taxation, and he will present a scheme which he thinks will be both beneficial to the municipalities and to the State.

LEAPED FROM A ROOF.

George Gran, fifty-two years old, of 306 Sixth Street, yesterday, jumped from the roof of his home, which is five stories high. So far as the man's family know there was no motive for the act. Gran has a son who was to depart yesterday for the South. The son called in the afternoon to bid his father and mother good-bye. While the mother and son were talking about the impending trip, Gran left them and went up two flights of stairs to the roof. He climbed over a five-foot guardrail and leaped to the yard of 100 Second Avenue.

Gran was badly injured, both legs being broken, the fractured ends of the bones projecting from the flesh. He was removed to Bellevue Hospital. Gran has been prosperous as a manufacturer of horseradish.

FRANCE BECOMES UNEASY

Feeling Aroused by the Conspiracy Trials Causes Unrest.

THE SULTAN INVOKES THE LAW

Declares He Has Been Libelled by Writers on the Aurore—M. Clemenceau Leaves the Paper.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—The hostile fury against England provoked by the Transvaal War shows signs of wearing itself out. It was always limited to a small band of Nationalists who cannot forgive the English for their championship of Dreyfus. The government has no inclination whatsoever to be otherwise than on good terms with the greatest naval power in the world. Just at present the Ministry is completely absorbed in matters of home policy, to the exclusion of all other questions even of pressing importance. Several deputies, who are interested in special departments of statesmanship, in foreign affairs, colonial matters, naval and military questions have said it is a hopeless task to get any member of the Ministry to pay any attention to facts or proposals which do not immediately concern the situation of the government, and the general state of the country.

The reason of this doubtless is that the High Court proceedings have taken a turn wholly unanticipated by those who originated them. The trial is proving to be an inordinately long affair in which judges, prisoners and lawyers alike behave themselves with a total lack of dignity and self respect. Of course the public will never believe that a legislative and political body such as the Senate can comport itself like judges should and show nothing but the strictest respect for law and justice. Their feelings must in some manner find vent. Their personal convictions and the political faith they represent forces them into a position for or against the prisoners. They are prejudiced in one sense or the other from the very start. Their sentence cannot be considered otherwise than as an expression of political bias.

Moreover, Parliamentary manners in France are not consistent with the traditional calm of a judge. Justice in the French Senate, so far from being blindfolded, has as many eyes as Argus, all flashing bloodthirstiness, hatred, and derision at one another, her countless hands so far from holding the scales in steady clutch are waved in hysterical gesticulation, pointed in fiery denunciation, or balled in the wild melée of fisticuffs.

PAUL DEROULEDE.

Under the circumstances, it is not altogether surprising that M. Déroulède, tortured by rheumatism, should have made such a wild outburst as he did a couple of days ago against the Senators who are his Judges. What he said about them and about the President of the Republic, M. Loubet, was pure personal abuse, and there is no interest in reproducing it. It resulted in M. Déroulède being sentenced to two years' imprisonment for insulting Magistrates when in the exercise of their functions. These two years M. Déroulède will have to work out in one of the central prisons. It is probable that he will be pardoned after the Exposition.

Paul Déroulède is certainly one of the most curious figures of the nineteenth century. He is what the French call a raté, that is to say, a man who may have both talent and ability, and yet fails in everything which he undertakes. All his life Déroulède has been the champion of lost or losing causes. And his own cause, his own personal cause as a man of letters, a dramatist, a poet, a public speaker, a political agitator, is more hopelessly lost than any of the others. He has never managed to acquire real popularity. His songs for soldiers are sung by regiments on the march, but mostly in the form of parodies of questionable taste. In the House of Deputies his oratory, though poetic and high flown, is marred by a sputtering lisp and is so rapid that even the shorthand writers are unable to follow him. In spite of real literary talent and an undoubted dramatic sense, he overloads his plays with patriotic declamation to such an extent that no audience can sit them out. All his political dreams have been shattered before even they began to materialize. Eleven years ago he said that if Alsace-Lorraine were not given back and the treaty of Frankfort destroyed by 1900 he would hand in his resignation as a Frenchman. Whoever it was to whom this resignation should have been addressed is still waiting for it.

After the Norton fiasco which brought about a quarrel with Rochefort, Déroulède declared that he would retire from public life. But back M. Déroulède came in a few month's time with his curious chevaline face and high thin nose more hatchet like than ever, his long Robespierre-cut coat with flying lapels and straight-brimmed stove-pipe hat. Now in the solitude of his cell he doubtless thinks that the public will rise like one man and demand the great Tribune's release. In this it is known he will be mistaken. His condemnation causes him to lose his Deputy's mandate, and it is of course possible that he will be re-elected. Otherwise this last coup de théâtre on the part of a very amiable, quite sincere but egregiously vain man must also be characterized as raté, like all those that have preceded it.

None the less, scenes of excessive violence such as those raised by M. Déroulède before his Judges of the Senate account for the extreme preoccupation of the Government, and their fear that if the High Court trial lasts much longer their position in the Chamber may become untenable. The French people are the quickest in the world to tire of a bad joke.

SULTAN SEEKS REDRESS.

The Sultan of Turkey has been amusing his enemies by his curious excursions into the domain of French criminal law. It is a strange and almost pathetic thing that this old tyrant, who is supposed to have no respect whatever for the law of God or man, should be the person to show a blind faith in French justice. He was libeled some weeks ago in that clever little Dreyfusard paper, Aurore, by three of the principal members of its staff, MM. Urbain Gohier, Pierre Quillard, and Charles Malato. Puns were made upon his name and title, and these seem to have irritated him more than anything. What horrified him completely was that the French journalists showed no respect for a man of his age. In Mussulman countries age is usually held in great reverence. The Sultan therefore wrote to Munir Bey, the Turkish Ambassador in Paris, to express his astonishment than an old man of sixty should be insulted in this way, and that nothing could be done to stop it. His Majesty pointed out that the three journalists in question were liable to a year's imprisonment. The Ambassador aptly replied by forwarding to the Sultan a bundle of the obscene caricatures recently published here against the Queen, some of which, by the way, are now selling for 30 francs apiece. He also pointed out that the Queen was considerably over sixty, and yet the French press considered her a fair target for their insults.

The Sultan—"Le Grand Saigneur," as Malato had called him—carefully examined the caricatures, but held to the original views. The consequence is this criminal prosecution, which is now being commenced against three writers on the Aurore. When the trial comes off some fun will be expected. One of the accused says that his chief argument will be that when a French murderer is tried in open court some very hard things are naturally said about him, but it is rare for him after his condemnation to bring an action for slander against the prosecuting counsel. The Sultan is in a similar situation, having been condemned on the score of the Armenian atrocities by public opinion.

There have been rumors that the Sultan has shown signs of insanity of late, and certainly the peculiar line of action which he imposes on his Ambassador here would tend to support such a theory. His brother-in-law, Mahmoud Pasha, having managed to escape from the bowstring which awaited him at Constantinople, is now in Paris, and the Turkish Ambassador has attempted to have him arrested. So far, however, M. Delcassé's replies on this subject to Munir Bey have been of an evasive character. Mahmoud Pasha is said to have stolen his wife's jewels, but the real accusation against him is of belonging to the Young Turkey Party. Paris is the centre of Young Turkey's aspirations, and Ahmed Riza Bey, editor of the Mechveret, a little, four-page paper published here, is the acknowledged leader of the Turkish liberal movement. Some years ago poor old Mourad Bey was its chief, but he listened to the Sultan's blandishments, went to Constantinople, and was promptly bowstrung.

MALATO'S NEW PLAY.

Charles Malato, by the way, is bringing out an extraordinary satirical drama entitled "Barbe à Poux," the hero of which is M. Edouard Drumont of the Libre Parole, the leader of the Anti-Semitic Party. Barbe à Poux is M. Drumont's nickname among the Dreyfus party, and is supposed to cause him more chagrin than any of the other titles which his enemies give him. All the other characters in the Dreyfus case figure under laughable and easily recognized nicknames in this drama. The chief female character, apart from Gyp, to be played by Mlle. de Meyer, is the symbolical figure of Public Opinion. M. Malato's outspokenness is such that already no less than three Public Opinions have thrown up their parts. The piece will be privately played on the 26th inst. at the Bouffes du ord, and a riot is expected at the exit.

That ancient revolutionist Mlle. Louise Michel has been over here and has been giving lectures at the Bodinière on her souvenirs of many exiles, principally spent by the way at Cayenne. Notwithstanding her penchant for petroleum, Louise is quite an "old dear" now, and it is said has not an enemy in the world. She usually lives in London on a pension of £4 a month, which Rochefort pays her.

NEW PAPER FOR CLEMENCEAU.

M. Clemenceau has left the Aurore, in which paper he made so valiant a fight for Dreyfus, and is about to start a paper of his own. He will have a co-editor in M. Bernard Lazare, and the funds for the new venture are being supplied by M. Mathieu Dreyfus. The Aurore will probably become much more Socialist in its tendencies now that M. Clemenceau has left it. But the new paper which he will found will insist with even greater vigor than has been shown hitherto by any organ upon the necessity of a complete rehabilitation of Dreyfus.

The death of Charles Lamoureux, the eminent conductor, has been a great loss to music. He was a most domineering man; and but for his iron will would never have imposed Wagner upon the taste of the French public. "Tristan and Isolde," his last Wagnerian triumph, was an absolute success, and though the number of performances was limited, it could easily have had a long and popular run. The effort of bringing this performance to perfection killed Lamoureux. His own passionate will wore him out. Members of his orchestra adored him, but few of the great stars could stand him at any price. His word was law, and any attempt on their part to have their own way entailed insult and humiliation.

TROOP A IN THE SPANISH WAR.

History of the Work of the New York Cavalry Organization.

"The History of Troop A, New York Cavalry, United States Volunteers, from May 2 to Nov. 28, 1898, in the Spanish-American War," is the title of a handsome volume just issued by R. H. Russell. The book is published primarily for private circulation, and only 500 copies have been printed, but a small number of them will be obtainable from the booksellers.

The entire volume is the work of members of Troop A. The letterpress was written by troopers; others took the photographs with which the volume is plentifully illustrated, while numerous clever pen-and-ink sketches were supplied by Trooper Franklin B. Morse. William C. Cammann, F. Lawrence Lee, Edward Liddon Patterson, Stowe Phelps, and Irving Ruland were the editors.

The volume is full of entertaining narrative, and can be read with interest by others besides the members of the troop. And in spite of the fact that the work is in no sense an attempt at a military history of the campaign in Puerto Rico, it contains much material which throws light on that campaign, and which cannot be overlooked by future historians.

The plan used in preparing the book was to assign each writer to describe a certain period between the troop's departure from and return to this city or a certain detail of camp life. A. Rene, Moen begins the narrative with "Ordered Out." F. C. Huntington describes Camp Black, F. Lawrence Lee, Camp Alger, and Stowe Phelps writes on "From Camp Alger to Puerto Rico." "Unloading Horses" is the title of the chapter contributed by Leonard S. Horner. Irving Ruland describes the camp at Ponce, G. O. Redington the Ciales expedition, and John C. Breckinridge the capture of Coamo. William R. Wright contributes a chapter entitled "The Second Invasion of Santa Isabel," and Henry M. Ward one on "Some Experiences of the Commissary Department."

MIGHT HAVE KILLED CONDUCTOR

Angry Mob Wanted to Lynch Prisoner Accused of Kicking a Boy.

A mob of angry citizens yesterday, on the upper east side, got after a car conductor who was charged with kicking a boy in the face, and tried to take the prisoner away from the policeman. The nerve of the crowd was not great enough, however, and the policeman escaped to the station house with his prisoner, having to hurry the bleeding boy along with him without waiting to summon an ambulance.

The boy is John McKeon, twelve years old, living at 870 First Avenue. The conductor is William Hogan, thirty-two years old, of 911 Boulevard, Astoria.

The story as told by the policeman to the Sergeant on duty in the East Fifty-first Street Station House is that the boy was about to steal a ride on a First Avenue car at Forty-sixth Street, of which Hogan was conductor. Policeman McAuliffe said the boy was running after the car when the conductor kicked him in the face. The boy's left cheek was laid open, his jaw was so badly hurt that it was feared it was broken, and he was knocked down.

Policeman McAuliffe was near by, and he hurried to the corner when he saw a crowd gathering about the car. According to the Sergeant, the policeman said the crowd closed in on the conductor when they saw the bleeding boy. They cried out that he ought to be lynched, and made for him with the evident intention of doing so.

The policeman said he got Hogan by the arm and told him to come along with him. He also seized the boy, and, seeing the attitude of the crowd, tried to hurry them both away. The Sergeant said the policeman declared he had a difficult time in keeping the mob off, and that they wanted to lynch the conductor. He did not dare wait for an ambulance to dress the boy's injuries, but had to get down a side street and then hurry to the station house. The conductor was then put into a cell, and the boy was sent to Flower Hospital.

New York Contractors Successful.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Henry C. Dubois Sons & Co. of New York were the lowest bidders for 60,000 yards of dredging at the New London Naval Station, at 9 cents per yard. There were seven other bids, ranging from 9 to 14¾ cents.

Le Boutillier Brothers

ANNUAL SALES

NEW INDIA SILKS,
LADIES' FRENCH LINGERIE,
HOUSEHOLD LINENS,

NOW GOING ON

West Twenty-third Street.

AMERICAN TRADE IN CHINA

Field Is Open to Enterprising Manufacturers.

EUROPEANS ARE MORE ALERT

One Drawback to This Country's Commerce Is the Lack of a United States Bank in the Orient.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 12.—It seems impossible that the American manufacturer can understand the state of trade in China, for if he did, and could comprehend the amount of foreign goods brought annually into the country, it is quite certain that he would cater more to it. When one thinks of the amount of trade done by England, Germany, France, and Belgium, and then compare it with that of America, there is a tremendous difference in favor of the other countries. Of course, there is a steady demand for American goods such as drills, sheetings, cotton, flannels, and jeans, as also for flour, condensed milk, cotton duck, hardware, nails, scales, and a few other things, but take, for instance, the imports of England and Germany in candles, paints, soaps, cheap hardware, glassware, tinware, shirts, socks, umbrellas, &c., it seems really too bad that America does not have its share of this trade.

Other countries make strong endeavors for this business and are willing to do so much more for the commission agent in China that even American commission houses are doing a great deal of business with these countries in preference to America, and in some cases concerns composed entirely of Americans do about seven-eights of their business with the above mentioned countries.

One great drawback here in China is that there is no American bank or banking agency, consequently all banking business is and has to be done through either English, German, French, or Russian banks, all of which have their branches here. In case of an American bank starting a branch here there would be no doubt of the amount of business that it could do, as there is not only the import business to be looked after, but also the immense exporting done to the United States.

It would not be out of place here to give a few figures showing where America really has a good hold on this market. These figures are on what are commonly called piece goods or domestics. The figures are for the last quarter, July to September inclusive, and are given in comparison to English business, which ranks next, that of other countries being of absolutely no comparison:

American drill	469,705 pieces.
English drill	54,168 pieces
American jeans	47,200 pieces
English jeans	17,751 pieces
American sheetings	1,016,715 pieces
English sheetings	224,200 pieces

Now, from these figures, if America is able to do so well in these goods, it does seem a pity that it is not able to do something in other lines.

On account of the present state of the market in American goods, (prices being very high,) the Chinese are afraid to order, for fear that when their goods arrive the market will be much lower, and as their price is settled when they place the order they would consequently lose. As an outcome of this orders are not being given for more than the actual demand.

The outlook for the coming year seems to be very promising for American goods, but in China we are unable to look far ahead.

Chinese prefer American goods to those of any other nation, as they usually are of a much steadier and superior quality, and were it not for the high prevailing prices we would be able to do many times more business than at present.

In former years many and in fact most all of the clocks, watches, and lamps sold in China were of American make. Now other countries have come in with a cheaper article and cut America out, we making almost no endeavor to meet these reduced prices.

As to terms and payments on goods shipped to China, England holds out much better advantages. When buying goods from England, firms there draw at at least sixty days' sight, with the privilege of renewal, whilst from America a longer paper comes through at three or fifteen days' sight, or some such very short time, with no privilege of renewal, and as goods take from one to two months longer in arriving than the mail, the concern may have to have their money out for thirty to sixty days before the goods arrive, and even then the local buyer has usually thirty days to take up same, and is not compelled to finish that shipment before that time expires, so the advantages to be gained by commission agents in dealing with English houses is clearly seen.

What is most essential for the enlargement of American trade in the East is that the manufacturer should familiarize himself with the needs and demands of the Chinese market and the ways of doing business there, the system being quite different from home methods.

With the acquisition of the Philippines we trust that China will not seem so far away, and in the near future her trade with America will not be surpassed by that of any other nation.

A New Catholic Parish.

The Rev. Edmund Cronin has been appointed by Archbishop Corrigan to establish a new Catholic parish in the vicinity of Ninety-fifth Street and First Avenue. The church will be known as St. Lucy's. The parish is for the benefit of the Italians who moved from the section at One Hundred and Fifteenth Street and First Avenue, torn down to make room for a new park. Father Cronin was chaplain of the Convent of the Sisters of St. Dominic, at Blauvelt, N. Y., when it was burned. Seven new Catholic parishes have been formed in this city in the last six months.

Vassar Alumnae Election.

The New York City branch of the Vassar College Alumnae met yesterday afternoon at 19 West Forty-fourth Street. The only business transacted was the election of officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. William Reynolds Brown of this city was elected President, Mrs. Chester Loomis of Englewood Vice President, Miss Harriett N. Jenks of this city Secretary, and Miss Jean C. Palme of Brooklyn Treasurer. The annual luncheon of the alumnae of Vassar will be held at Sherry's Feb. 3 at 1 P. M.

New York-New Brunswick Steamships

ST. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 6.—N. L. Newcomb and Richard Morrell of New York are considering plans to establish a steamship line between New York and ports here. There has been no direct line from New York since the steamship Pentagoet was lost in November, 1898.

"Buy China and Glass Right"

HIGGINS & SEITER.

FINE CHINA

RICH CUT GLASS.

Great Annual Plate Sale

On Monday, January 8th, we will inaugurate our eagerly looked for Annual Plate Sale. The popularity of these sales, which we have held each year for several years past, is owing to the exceptional values which we offer at this time. The sale this year will be notable for two special features. First, the magnitude of the stock which we offer, and second, the price at which we shall sell plates during this week. This sale is not a clearing out of odds and ends, but the result of matured plans which we have been months in consummating. All Europe has been called upon to contribute to this sale. Many of the plates can be classed as works of art, and whether you purchase or not it will be a pleasure for you to see these goods. Several thousand dozen will be arranged for the convenience of selecting and selling on special tables at 25c, 45c, 75c, $1.00, $2.00 and $3.00 each, and from our entire stock of rich English and French plates we offer for this week only a special discount of 10%. In some instances we have made a special reduction which is even more.

ON THE 25c TABLE. One especially attractive plate is a bread and butter plate in Bavarian china, cream body with border in lustre effect, gold edge and gold shoulder, centre decoration of Cupid, and flowers and cloud effect.

Another is an English porcelain dessert or fruit plate with assorted tinted borders and flower decorations.

Another is an Austrian china plate with border of flowers and scattered flowers in centre, gold lace on edge and shoulder of plate.

ON THE 45c TABLE. Plates with assorted centres, tinted border with flowers in delicate green, stippled gold edge.

Ice cream plates, Cobalt blue edges, portrait centres.

Austrian plates, cream body with lustre effect on edge, gold edge and gold shoulder line, Vienna centres.

English serving plates, 10 inch size. Edges in either maroon, celadon, blue, pink, or turquoise, with flowers on edge.

ON THE 75c TABLE. On this table is to be found a very rich assortment of Limoges, Austrian, and English plates in assorted shapes and sizes.

ON THE $1.00 TABLE. Limoges china plate, cream border with rosebuds on border, small line of blue forget-me-nots below shoulder of plate, maroon edge with gold. Also soup plates same general style.

Austrian plates with solid color borders and gold lace, portrait centre.

English Cauldon plates, violet decoration, gold edge

Limoges china bread and butter plates, assorted tinted borders with festoons of flowers below shoulder of plate, gold lace on edge.

ON THE $2.00 TABLE. English Doulton plates, assorted flower centres.

Limoges china plates, panels of flowers with turquoise rim around centre, heavy gold border.

Cauldon plate with border decoration of pansies in natural color, traced gold edge. We have this plate also in soup size.

ON THE $3.00 TABLE. English Cauldon plate. Fancy decoration of pink with clusters of flowers and bouquet of flowers in centre, gold decoration throughout.

Minton plate. Scattered rose bud decoration, with border of green holly, gold edge.

Copeland plate with border in either green, maroon or Ivory, with raised jewels in turquoise, gold tracing throughout with hanging rose decoration in centre of plate, gold edge.

Doulton Plate. Very handsome flower centres, assorted designs, fancy colors, gold edge.

DEWEY HISTORICAL PLATE. This plate, as shown in illustration, is made of English Cauldon ware, decorated in underglazed dark blue, with cable edge, and is a truly historical souvenir plate. The design was originated by us and the plate is not to be found anywhere else in this country. Owing to the very large orders given for these plates, we are able to sell them at the extremely moderate price of 50c each.

RICH ENGLISH AND FRENCH PLATES. Our assortment of rich English china plates is conceded to be the largest and most complete to be found anywhere in this country. Several sets of rich plates have recently been received from the celebrated Doulton factory. Our entire stock will be subject to 10% discount.

WELSH RAREBIT PLATES. For several years we have been trying to get something in the way of a Welsh Rarebit plate which would be a decided novelty, something that would be unique and yet inexpensive. So we had a plate made from our own designs. They come in six assorted subjects similar to those shown in illustration. The plates are artistically colored and are priced at only, $4.50 per dozen.

We have also two other novelties in Welsh Rarebit plates selling at 35c and 25c each, respectively.

GAME AND FISH PLATES. One especially desirable lot of fish and game plates is to be found of finest Limoges china with border decoration in either green, maroon, or ivory, with gold edge and gold lines on shoulder of plate, centre fish and game subjects, ordinarily $24.00 per dozen, at this sale, $1.00 each.

GAME SETS. Finest Limoges china game sets with assorted game centres, tinted borders, gold edge, instead of $30.00..... $18.00 per set.

FISH SETS. Finest Limoges china fish sets, cream body china with fish in natural color, background very light purple and seaweed effect, delicate gold lace border and solid burnished gold edge, 1 dish, 12 plates, and 1 sauce tureen, instead of $25.00, $18.00 per set.

DOULTON FISH SETS. We have one celebrated English Doulton fish set, painted by the well-known fish and game painter Wilson. Each plate has different decoration, and the platter has a magnificent centre decoration, with gold throughout. This set was moderately priced at $356.35. If purchased during this week our price will be $250.00 complete.

Another very rich Doulton fish set is decorated by the celebrated artist Hancock. This set was moderately priced at $270.00, if purchased during this week, 13 pcs., $190.00 complete.

ENGLISH CAULDON GAME SETS. Celebrated English Cauldon game sets, painted by Birbeck, one of England's most famous game painters. This set is a work of art, price $124.75 complete.

THE 10% DISCOUNT The 10% discount referred to above will apply to all the plates in our stock which are not specially priced above. Of course it will not apply to any of the plates on the special tables or marked at special prices.

Anticipate your plate wants and save from 10% to 50%.

50, 54 West 22d Street.

WEDDING GIFTS A SPECIALTY.

SALOON BOND FORFEITED.

Ernest Brucker Pays Penalty for Maintaining a Slot Machine.

ALBANY, Jan. 6.—State Commissioner of Excise Lyman reports that he has received a draft from the Title and Guaranty Company of Rochester for $1,346.70, the amount with interest to date of the judgment recovered by him against Ernest Brucker, and the surety on the latter's liquor tax bond. This was the first of the cases commenced by the Commissioner to suppress the nickel-in-the-slot machines.

Brucker violated the conditions of the bond filed with his application for a liquor tax certificate by maintaining a slot machine on his premises. The Commissioner's contention that the maintenance of such machines in premises for which liquor tax certificates had been issued forfeited the bond was upheld by the Fourth Appellate Division.

Four Children Burned to Death.

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Jan. 6.—Four children of Michael Kerrick, a farmer, were burned to death last night in a fire that destroyed the house. The remains cannot be identified, and will be buried in one grave. The children were from seven to fifteen years of age.

Kentucky Bank Cashier Shot.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6.—Edward Sinclair, cashier of the Deposit Bank of this city, was shot at a late hour last night at Keysburg, and to-day is reported to be dying. It is claimed that the shooting was done by Will Elliston, a brother-in-law of Mr. Sinclair. Mr. Elliston resides in Nashville, Tenn., and is a son-in-law of Gen. Jackson of that city.

Toronto Girl Killed by Highwayman.

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—While Miss Rachael Ferguson was opposite the jail yard on her way home last night she was knocked down by an unknown man and robbed. The man used a club or sandbag, and the blow was so severe that Miss Ferguson died from the effects of it. Her assailant has not been captured.

Safe Blowers Get Little Booty.

CARLSTADT, N. J., Jan. 6.—At an early hour this morning burglars blew open the safe with dynamite in the office of Depken & Son, coal dealers, near the railroad station. The door of the safe was blown off, and the office badly wrecked. The thieves secured only a small sum of money, as the firm yesterday made a large bank deposit.

At the Play and With the Players

Perhaps the most beneficial influence now working for the stage in this country is the new stock company system which has lately gained much strength because of the comparatively small number of touring companies now presenting serious plays. Twelve of these organizations are enumerated as "important" by The Dramatic Mirror. There are many others in smaller towns which are relatively of some importance. A few of the actors now associated with the stock companies in the larger cities have won more or less distinction in New York; many middle-aged and elderly actors of sound artistic ability are in these companies, and their example must be of value in the development of the powers of expression and artistic aptitude of their younger associates.

The aim of the managers of these companies is not too high. Their repertories are composed of plays that have been successful in the last twenty-five years, with an occasional new piece which does not generally survive more than a few performances. It is not often that the gentlemen who control these organizations have a chance to bring out new plays by authors so practiced and clever as Francis Powers or Augustus Thomas. But both "The Meddler" and "The First Born" were made known in this way, and Powers's newest drama in little, "Mother Earth," produced in San Francisco by a local stock company, seems to be a work of uncommon interest.

It is not, however, to these troupes or to this theatrical system that ambitious authors will generally look for encouragement in the present hour. Good new plays demand a higher price in the open market than a theatre in which the bill must be changed at least once a week and the prices of admission must be small can afford to pay. The system of frequent changes of bill, however, is good for the development of new actors. The mental and physical routine is the best thing in the world to cure them of the vanity their admiring intimate friends have helped to cultivate, to endow them with flexibility, and to strengthen and develop their sense of effect.

It is perfectly true that the very best conditions never can obtain in these stock theatres. Art is not spelled with a capital A in their lexicons, or very clearly defined. But, first of all, the student who would become an actor must have practice in the technic of his craft. He must study and learn parts with some idea of so acting them as to create an illusion of reality in the minds of plain folks who have paid hard-earned money for tickets and do not care a rap for the actor personally or for the praise his friends gave him when he recited a part in one of Ben Jonson's plays at the public exhibition of a school of acting.

The things this youth did at the school of acting were good things to do then, but they are no longer the things to do now that he has become an actor. Calisthenics are not to be tolerated in the drawing room, but the grace and freedom of motion imparted by a course of calisthenics are invaluable to one who would appear to good advantage in a drawing room. The student of acting, while he is at school, always regards his calisthenics as an end rather than as a means. He insists upon them when he tries to act a part in an exhibition. He zealously clings to them when he gets a small part with a touring company. An old-fashioned stage manager who chews tobacco and uses swear words knows well how to break a youngster of bad habits, but one small part for a whole season, with the stage management growing laxer each week, and the student, in his lack of experience, still confident that he knows it all, is a poor sort of post-graduate course.

The value of the contemporary dramatic schools is not to be disputed. In them the small proportion of their pupils who have any sort of fitness for the stage are taught the necessary rudiments. They get vocal and bodily training, an idea of the art of make-up, and a knowledge of the stage, and, although much that they are taught could be learned in half the time under the proper discipline in a well-ordered stock company, yet the time spent by a youth of talent in one of the academies is not wasted.

On the other hand, the conditions under which most of the existing stock companies are conducted are probably further from the ideal than those obtaining in a touring troupe of good repute. Still, the one great advantage is in the hard work, the inevitable variety of parts, the lack of factitious enthusiasm in the audience. What is good in the novice will be sure to come out under this sort of training, though he may require a season or two of finer work after his abilities have gained recognition to smooth away the roughness of his work and acquire subtlety and finesse. Of course, nine-tenths of the novices in acting are sure to fail of reaching any lucrative position. But this is true of novices in all the arts and professions.

I believe, therefore, that the American theatre will gain by this re-establishment in a modest way of the stock company system. It is also certain that the system of local theatres, once re-established, will develop in time to the good of all forms of dramatic art, but that is another story. Of a new race of actors, more flexible in expression, more sensible of the effects of their speech and actions on impressionable spectators, more at ease in many varieties of drama than the actors of the present hour, there is a crying need. Twelve important stock theatres in various large cities and many more of less importance performing one or more plays every week may in time help to supply the demand.

Meanwhile, there is a great deal of nonsense talked in public places about the training of actors. One might derive the idea, from some of the talk one hears, that acting can be taught by folks who do not know how to act themselves, like the woman in Jacob Abbot's "Rodolphus" taught the little boy to draw. The most sensible and suggestive speech reported in the recent London conference on the proposed establishment of a national school of acting, with power to grant degrees, was John Hare's remark that the right men to do the teaching would not become teachers. There was even a suggestion in this that they could not if they would. It is one thing to make the multitude laugh and cry by the simulation of passions and emotions, and quite another to describe exactly and impart the methods by which those desirable effects were produced.

Some second-rate actors have contributed good advice about the employment of symbols, but is it likely that any students closely adhering to those teachings would become better than second-rate actors? On the other hand, the statements of the great Edmund Kean as to the manner in which he secured those effects which amazed Byron and Coleridge and their generation, as recorded by his veracious biographers, are sheer bosh. A novice can be prepared for the art of acting, but he cannot be taught to be a famous actor.

Actors are made, but they must be made of good material, and that always is scarce. The urgent demand on our stage to-day is for well-appearing, well-bred young men of presence, recognizable talent, and good voices. We need the jeune premier and the leading man. We have "character actors" and comedians, of a certain sort, to spare. For this reason it is good news that John Blair has retired from the proceedings in the crypt of Carnegie Hall. I have no doubt of Blair's talent, and he certainly has presence, authority, (when he cares to seem alive,) voice, and a countenance that could be made to mirror the expressions of emotion.

His dawdling way, his habit of talking with his mouth half shut, are abominable habits, yet we must bear in mind that the path of a popular young actor is not straight or smooth, and the beacons that must guide him burn fitfully. Mr. Blair was highly praised for his very bad acting in "Colinette." Blair has in him the makings of a good actor, and he, Robert Taber, and Edward Morgan are the most promising of the younger men on the American stage. It would be good for Mr. Blair to rough it a little. A course in a Western stock company might wake him up.

As for the reported engagement of Florence Kahn for Mr. Mansfield's company, it follows closely upon the suggestion printed in this column that a course of sprouts with that disciplinarian would do Miss Kahn much good. She is far from a competent actress now, but she has unusual gifts, though, after the sickening praise of her youthful efforts that has got into print, one hesitates even to make that admission.

All this has nothing to do with the review of the week, which must begin and end with a word or two about "Chris and the Wonderful Lamp," the new burletta at the Victoria. This has a good subject for such a piece, a story taken from a serial published in The St. Nicholas Magazine some years ago. The original story is not mentioned in the house bill, perhaps because its author does not care to share the uncertain glory of Mr. Glen MacDonough. As a matter of fact, much more might have been made of the ideas at hand. The second of the three acts is surprisingly deficient in incident, motion, and snap. But it contains one of the loveliest terpsichorean divertissements seen in New York in my time, the electric dance, and has a swinging military finale. Sousa's music is singable and is sometimes sung, while Edna Wallace Hopper is sprightly and Jerome Sykes droll in his ponderous way.

EDWARD A. DITHMAR.

THIS WEEK'S NEW BILLS.

Belasco's Comic Play, Return of Maude Adams, Mansfield's Farewell, and Other Incidents.

The principal new play in to-morrow night's theatrical programme will be a farcical comedy by David Belasco, who has been hitherto, except in his attempts at "comic relief," in serious drama, (and these have not been his happiest attempts,) grave, emotional, and "dramatic." But since the day of "La Belle Russe" Mr. Belasco has had very few failures. He understands his art, and is perfectly aware of his own limitations. "Naughty Anthony" is the name of his new piece, which will be produced at the Herald Square Theatre. It has been acted elsewhere with every indication of success. The plot is said to be wholly original. The scene is laid at Chautauqua Lake.

The cast will be of the sort that may fairly be called remarkable. Blanche Bates, Frank Worthing, W. J. Le Moyne, William Elton, Mary Barker, Maud Harrison, and Olive Redpath with have important rôles. Among the others will be Albert Bruning, Samuel Edwards, Charles Wyngate, Catherine Black, Claude Gillingwater, Brandon Tynan, and Fanny Young. In the advance notices much stress is laid on the statement that the play is not indecent. The story is told briefly, as follows:

Naughty Anthony is a professor of moral culture. He is a "faddist." About him he has gathered a number of men and women who not only subscribe to his ideas, but who worship him. They place him on a pedestal. One of his most stringent rules reads like this: "Persons of the opposite sex caught indulging in osculatory pleasure in Lofty View Park shall be heavily fined, and their names and addresses published." It is this rule that the professor himself first violates. He has been happy in his way until a hosiery model, played by Miss Bates, appears upon the scene. He undertakes to ferret out the crime, and in doing so brings all kinds of trouble on one Budd and on the wife of the hosiery importer.

The long-anticipated engagement of Maude Adams will begin at the Criterion Theatre Tuesday night. The play will be "The Little Minister," and no change of bill will be made in the eight weeks of Miss Adams's stay. From its first performance by Miss Adams and her company, in the Autumn of 1897, this comedy by Barrie has drawn crowds. The nightly receipts in Miss Adams's present tour have not fallen below $1,000. Her portrayal of Lady Babbie surely needs no preliminary word of recommendation in the circumstances.

Her company has been changed somewhat lately. Orrin Johnson now appears as Gavin Dishart, while the veteran actress, Mrs. W. G. Jones, has the rôle of Nannie Webster. Mr. Thompson retains the character of Tammas Whamond, while George Fawcett as Rob Dow and Peyton Carter as Andrew Mealmaker will also have their original parts.

Miss Adams, it is announced, is studying Shakespeare's Rosalind, and rehearsals for her production of "As You Like It" will begin during her engagement at the Criterion.

The last week of Richard Mansfield's long and profitable engagement at the Garden Theatre will, as usual, be made noteworthy by his shifts from play to play, illustrating the extraordinary variety of his repertory and the breadth of his talent. Mansfield is one of the greatest of contemporary actors. Like most of the other foremost histrions of this hour, he is, technically speaking, a "character actor." He belongs to the line of Garrick, though, and his talent is clearly akin to that of the actor who could triumph as Hamlet and as Abel Drugger on the same night. He is not, however, of the race of tragedians like Kemble, Kean, and the Booths, though he frequently sounds the tragic note deeply and convincingly.

Mansfield's extraordinary versatility, however, will always be placed first among his gifts by the public, and this will be strikingly illustrated this week, when he will appear as Bernard Shaw's amiable Swiss mercenary, Bluntschli, in "Arms and the Man" one night and as Rostand's Gascon, Cyrano, the next; when his lightsome Prince Karl may be contrasted closely with his gruesome portrayal of the palsied roué, Chevrial; when his faithful portrait of the tender-hearted, impulsive boor, Dick Dudgeon, and his denotement of the aloofness, the sophistication, and the exquisite manners of the fop, Brummell, will follow each other, and the contrast of deep melancholy and grisly horror in his sketch of Jekyll and Hyde will complete the series of portrayals.

A notable incident of the week will be the reappearance on the stage, though for one night only, of Mrs. Mansfield, (Beatrice Cameron,) who will take up her rôle of the romantic heroine in "Arms and the Man." It would be extremely difficult to equal the grace and charm, the studied simplicity, and the humor of Mrs. Mansfield's portrayal of this young woman. The subtle Shaw could not ask for a more appreciative or more skillful interpreter.

At the Casino to-morrow night an English fairy play, or pantomime, divested of its harlequinade and altered and adapted to suit American audiences, will be put forward for a short run, under the management of Edward E. Rice. The principal actors in "Little Red Riding Hood" will be Madge Lessing as Little Boy Blue, Kitty Mitchell as Little Jack Horner, Hallen Mostyn as Granny, Lila Blow as the fairy Queen, Ethel Jackson as Riding Hood, Ida Mulle as Jack and Jill, Mayme Gehrue as Margery Daw, and David Abrams as the cat and the monkey.

There are nine scenes in the new spectacle. In a farmyard ballet a numerous troupe of dancers will appear as poultry. The final scene will represent toyland, with dolls of all descriptions, and soldiers and animals direct from Noah's ark. A May-pole ballet and the dance of the baby elephant are also among the divertissements.

Augustus Pitou will produce at the Grand Opera House to-morrow night a new melodrama called "The Gunner's Mate," written by William J. McKiernan and Hugh J. Gallagher. Mr. Pitou's occasional productions of native melodrama are invariably notable for their pictorial variety and excellence and the thoroughness with which every detail is looked after. The company employed in the new piece includes no actors of great note, but is doubtless competent to fulfill the not too arduous duties imposed upon it. Nestor Lennon, S. K. Chester, Juliet de Grignan, Helen MacGregor, and Marion Berg are among the principals. The scenes will include the main deck of the cruiser New York, between decks on the same vessel, its fire room, and various other pictures. A sketch of the plot is appended:

The first act takes place in a sailors' lodging house on the water front in New York. Clement Carroll, the gunner's mate, has a protégé, Arthur Gladden, a boy known to the inmates of the lodging house as Blizzard. The boy is the son of a shipmate of Clem's who had died on a previous cruise. Before he died the sailor intrusted his son to Clem's care. The boy is heir to a fortune, but between it and him stands Dr. Herbert Quayley, who is anxious to get the boy out of the way. When he discovers him in the sailors' lodging house he undertakes to get rid of him by injecting the germs of a fatal disease. Clem arrives in time to save the boy and frustrate the villain. Foiled in this, the physician decides to shanghai the boy and send him off to sea, hoping that he will never return. Plum Duff, a waif of the streets, and her friend, Brockie Burns, learn of this plan and apprise Clem of it. Once more the hero comes to the rescue.

Incidental to the first act there is a love episode between Clem and Mildred Emerson, a lady of social standing, who in her frequent visits of charity and mercy to the slums has become acquainted with the household of Lukens's Snug Berth. She has formed a high opinion of Clem, and falls in love with him.

The second act takes place on board the flagship New York as she lies at anchor off Tompkinsville. Here is continued the dramatic story of Clem's love for the wealthy young lady and his endeavors to protect Arthur from the machinations of Dr. Quayley and Lukens. The doctor is in love with Miss Emerson. He was formerly a surgeon in the navy, court-martialed, and suspended for cowardly conduct. The period of his suspension has expired, and he rejoins the navy as ship's Surgeon of the New York. The ship has put in for coal and is to leave at once under sealed orders.

A "squarehead," a name applied by sailors to all non-English-speaking sailors, is desirous of having a letter written in English to an American girl whom he has compromised. Brockie undertakes the task of writing the letter, but fails, and Clem is appealed to. He writes the letter, but it falls into the hands of the doctor, who uses it to injure Clem in the eyes of Miss Emerson.

The first scene of the third act takes place in the between decks. The ship is at sea, the sealed orders have been opened, and all hands know that they are hurrying to the Bluefields to protect the interests of Americans there. The discovery is made that something is wrong with one of the boilers; there is a leak in the back connections. The fires cannot be drawn and the progress of the ship impeded. Volunteers are called for to undertake the hazardous task of repairing the leak. The task falls to Clem, and this leads to the fireroom scene.

The fourth act takes place in the home of Miss Emerson a year later. The doctor has succeeded in his villainies to the extent of inducing Miss Emerson to become his wife. This is the wedding day. The preparations for it are all completed, and they are waiting for the clergyman. The New York has put into port that day and the friends of the little heir arrive to present the proofs of his identity. Miss Emerson has locked herself in her room and refuses to see any one until after the ceremony. They resort to a ruse to induce her to appear. Her faith in Clem has been shattered through the wiles of the villain. The lovers are brought face to face for a final interview. Mildred is weak and broken spirited. Clem is strong and proud in the consciousness of his innocence, and he refuses to stoop to the indignity of an explanation to one who should have had faith in him above all men. The sounds of the wedding march are heard in the drawing room below, and the lovers part. A few seconds later is heard the voice of the clergyman uniting Mildred and Dr. Quayley in marriage, when a dramatic climax is revealed.

Mr. Conried has been able to extend the engagement of Felix Schweighofer at the Irving Place Theatre one week. The remaining subscription performances, therefore, will be given next week, when the Austrian comedian will be seen in two new rôles. This week will be given up to repetitions of plays in which he has already appeared. "'s Nulleri" and "Ein Blitzmaedel" will be given, and Thursday night Schweighofer will act in four little plays. His engagement has been very successful.

NOVELS TURNED INTO PLAYS.

The objections to dramatizations of novels are clearly set forth by a correspondent of The London Stage. He suggests that the trouble lies not only in the disillusion that follows the attempt to represent personages for whom our imaginations have supplied ideals in flesh and blood, but in the inevitable failure of the dramatist to carry out the author's conceptions, frequently in his absolute contradiction of them. "If we merely disliked seeing our dreams in flesh and blood before us, I suppose we should rarely go to see Shakespeare acted, for only about once in a lifetime do we find our Shakespeare dreams realized, and they are the dearest dreams of all. But nowadays we don't tamper with our Shakespeare plots; we don't hinder the development of his characters as he received them and in the way that he conceived; we treat his ideas with reverence, and I submit that lesser authors ought to receive a due portion of the same respect.

"For instance, in the case of 'The Christian,' the play opens with the introduction of two characters whom Glory would never have known in her days of country innocence, and the meeting of whom forms part of the development of her life and character in London. When Dumas's famous work was produced last year as a play, Athos the melancholy, the dignified, the reserved, with the sense of brooding mystery about him, was heard blurting out the secret of his life to a man whom he had only known for a few hours, and constantly alluding to it afterward; while the tragic execution scene to which the author leads the way by such distinct and careful steps, the dramatically conceived culmination, was—nowhere. It was replaced by a scene so at variance both with Dumas and history that one can only suppose the dramatist, if handling 'Vingt Ans Après,' would have let the four friends carry Charles I. off safely from the scaffold.

"Once more: In that beautiful play 'The Only Way' one felt a distinct loss and disappointment at the close; the development of plot and pathos were suddenly arrested. The great point in Sydney Carton's sacrifice is its loneliness, its utter unspspectedness. But in 'The Only Way' we have Mimi in the prison with Carton, Mimi who knows everything and who loves him; and the whole idea is spoiled."

THAT COWBOY'S LADYLOVE.

"I am just as sure as I can be," said a girl at the Knickerbocker Theatre the other night, "that Maxine Elliott is a Western girl. She looks likes a stylish Eastern girl, to be sure, as she is supposed to be in the play, and her gowns are charming; but then there is such a delightful breeziness about her, and she looks exactly like a woman who had all outdoors to grow up in. You don't connect such a physique with a city girl, though, to be sure, we have plenty of nice looking girls with fine figures here in New York.

"Then I can just imagine Miss Elliott riding a magnificent horse in that nicely fitting riding habit of hers. I like that part of the play where she goes off the stage with the cowboys to mount her horse, for I half shut my eyes and I can see her as plainly as possible, and you don't know how charming she looks on horseback as I see her. I was disappointed at first because she didn't ride in. 'A fine-looking woman does look so well riding.'

But that was where the girl made a mistake, for Miss Elliott is a New England girl by birth, and she knows the West only from the hotels and theatres as she has seen it while playing there, and it has not proved over and above attractive to her. There is a good reason for that, for at St. Louis, which is West, if not the real cowboy West, they have not treated her dogs with proper respect, and that is one way to get into her bad graces. They did not approve of dogs at the hotels.

Miss Elliott has a host of dogs at her English home, and several which she keeps always with her here, and which undoubtedly assist her in her professional work. At least they assist from the outside, for she has them with her in her dressing room, and if there is anything in atmosphere they ought themselves to develop a strong histrionic talent. That is especially true of six puppies which were born on the road, so to speak; little bull terrier puppies whose mother presented them to Miss Elliott when she was playing in Philadelphia. Human babies could not be more trouble to look after than these.

The mother is a fine terrier with a gentle face and a great fondness for her mistress. She will jump from the floor up into her arms. She has the fondness of those animals for her friends, while her amiable looks belie the savageness with which she attacks other dogs when they meet by some unfortunate mischance.

"And neither will give up until they are forced to, or the other is dead," says Miss Elliott. "And as this dog is still alive, you may know that she has not been the loser. The only way you can stop them is to put your fingers on their throats and press until they can't breathe.

"Hydrophobia!" with a laugh. "There's nothing in it! My hands are covered with scars where I have been bitten. Dogs wouldn't bite intentionally.

"I can't understand why people object to dogs. They don't like them in hotels, and they make as much objection to them in apartment houses as to children. A well-trained dog would not trouble any one. On the steamer when we went abroad I took Sport into my stateroom, and they couldn't get him."

Sport is a fine Boston terrier, with a most amiable smile, and a very aristocratic appearance, from a Boston terrier standpoint. He accompanies Miss Elliott to the theatre with the puppies' mother and a fine little French bull terrier, which was Miss Elliott's Christmas gift. Sport, particularly, is very much in evidence, and gives considerable assistance in the rearrangement of things behind the scenes after the play, when the men are fixing things for the night.

There are a collie, a Skye, and any number of other dogs at Miss Elliott's—or Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin's—English home in Kent, a beautiful place of fifty acres, which belonged to Lord Penzance, with a fourteenth century house covered with queer little gables, and with fourteenth century fittings in the interior.

The house is now getting a reputation for romance, Miss Elliott went there a bride, the coachman at the same time took a bride there, and this last Monday a brand-new bride took possession. The house has been rented for the season and the bride who is to be its mistress is the Countess of Cromartie, quite an interesting woman, for she is the first peeress in her own right since the Baroness Burdett-Coutts.

Mrs. Goodwin does not carry out the theatre girl's idea of her even here, for she does not go in much for out-door sports, and does not even play golf, though there are golf links near.

The gowns Mrs. Goodwin wears in "The Cowboy and the Lady" are interesting for one reason because they are handsome gowns, and for another because of the quiet tones of the colors. The riding habit is of one of the tan shades, though it may have some other name in the tailor's nomenclature, and the ball gown is also of a delicate dull shade, quite different from the conventional blues, pinks, or white gowns. Possibly she wears them on the same principle that the heroine of a romance did, of whom the author related that her complexion was so fine that she was not dependent upon the popular colors to bring out her beauty, but wore always grays and browns. Mrs. Goodwin could easily afford to do that.

Her last gown worn in the trial scene is pretty and appropriate. She is a widow, though she does not mourn over that fact, and the gown is a handsome tailor-made frock of black with a fluffy white front.

There are some other most interesting gowns worn in the play. Miss Minnie Dupree's gown at the dance, the white wash gown, the artificial wreath of flowers in her hair, the sash, and the wonderful stockings—all are charming. Just the kind a nice little girl living in the West and knowing nothing else might have worn. And words cannot express the entire delightfulness of the gown of Miss Prissims, (Miss Estelle Mortimer,) pianiste of the dance hall, her bobbing little bird's nest and the "elegant white satin slippers" loaned by the boarder. The pièce de résistance of her costume, however, is the silk petticoat, which her numerous evolutions reveal, blue silk covered with small cerise bows. It is most fetching, as is Miss Prissime in her entirety.

The stage of the Knickerbocker Theatre is a delightful one upon which to wear low-cut evening dresses, and the "Lady" wears one at the dance. Many stages have a resemblance to cold-storage warehouses, and the cold air penetrates from them to the people in the audience who sit in the front rows. But the stage of the Knickerbocker is warm throughout, even on a very cold night—so warm and comfortable that it makes Mr. Goodwin's dance, wearing the cowboy outfit, with the fur-faced "chaps," or chaparejos, over his own suit, something of a heroic act. But if all theatres are to be as well heated actresses will lose one of the benefits of the hardening process, which some of them say tends to keen them in good health and beauty, the changes of gowns from thick to thin in all kinds of temperatures.

VARIOUS DRAMATIC TOPICS.

Mrs. Langtry will begin her new tour of the United States with Grundy's much-advertised play, "The Degenerates," at the Garden Theatre next week, Jan. 15. The company includes that admirable comedian, Fred Kerr, Harcourt Beatty, Leslie Kenyon, Wilford Foster, Alfred Wigley, George Grossmith, Jr., Lawrence Grossmith, Lucie Milner, Ina Goldsmith, and Ethel Henry. Not many of these actors are known here. "The Degenerates" was first acted in London at the Haymarket Theatre, Aug. 31, 1899. The cast then included only two or three of the actors who will appear here with Mrs. Langtry. Lily Grundy, the dramatist's daughter, acted the character of Una, Mrs. Trevelyan's daughter. Grundy's play is not thought to show his skill at its best, but it had a long and profitable run. It deals with social wickedness, and contains one strong scene of a familiar dramatic quality. Mrs. Trevelyan is one of those dangerously fascinating women whom modern playwrights have so often depicted as leaders of social life. She is cynical and worldly and the cause of much jealousy. Her daughter is a pure creature, fresh from a convent school. Other personages are a jealous wife and her husband, a besotted and slangy young Viscount, and his young wife, a renegade Jew, a light-comedy Duke searching for an ideal woman, and a number of "society" types. The fiction that the play was founded on actual incidents in Mrs. Langtry's own life helped to give it vogue in London.

It is reported that the dramatization of "David Harum," which Charles Frohman will produce in the Spring, with William H. Crane in the title rôle, has been made by Edward E. Rose, the stage manager of James K. Hackett and his company. Mr. Rose used to be an actor of small parts at the Boston Museum, and more recently has been connected with the Castle Square Theatre, in that city, as dramatist and stage manager. He must not be confounded with the English playwright and critic, Edward Rose, who dramatized "The Prisoner of Zenda."

Theodore Babcock, who has tried his hand at everything, including musical farce, has lately been acting in a new English melodrama called "Man's Enemy." A brief account of the piece at hand does not specify whether the title refers to woman or rum. Mr. Babcock has made a hit, however, as the polished villain. He is an actor of good gifts, whose ability was recognized in his earliest efforts. But it seems difficult to place him.

Natalie De Angelis, daughter of the operetta comedian, Jefferson De Angelis, is about to make her first appearance on the stage at the Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco.

The recurrence of the so-called "slippery day stairs" in farce or burlesque always gives new impetus to the old line of anecdotes, almost as old as this nineteenth century, about innocent folks in audiences, who have taken them seriously and lamented audibly the mishaps of the actors. These yarns, including those now told of unsophisticated spectators of "Barbara Fidgetty" at Weber and Fields's, are always fictitious. But there is a true tale to tell about the effect of slippery day stairs on an uninformed and unimaginative spectator. Francis Wilson's entrance in the comic play with songs called "The Merry Monarch," the best piece he has had since he began his career as a star, was in a palanquin amid much pomp. He was a mighty as well as a merry monarch, and his Court was assembled to do him reverence. A portable flight of steps was attached to the palanquin, and the monarch stepped majestically forth, when the steps closed, and he slid pritously to the ground. After the first performance of the play a serious-minded and non-theatrical relative of Mr. Wilson sought the comedian in his dressing room. When asked how he liked the show, he replied gravely that it all seemed very good but that the sad accident at the beginning had so startled and shocked him that his mind had remained unsettled throughout. This is a true story.

Robert Loraine, a young English actor, who has not yet appeared in this country, will support Ada Rehan in her forthcoming tour. Mr. Loraine is the son of Henry Loraine, an English actor of some renown in the last generation, and has been on the stage only a few years. He has been chiefly identified with melodrama, but was for a time in George Alexander's company at the St. James's Theatre in London. Mr. Loraine is tall and handsome. He married Julie Opp, who has lately been suing him for divorce. Miss Rehan's repertory will include one new or relatively new play from the German and some of the Shakespeare comedies and other old English plays in which she appeared at Daly's.

ENGLISH CHRISTMAS PLAYS.

The Christmas pantomime still prevails all over England. Many theatres in the smaller cities which are used only by touring companies in other seasons are given up to an elaborate production of pantomime (which, of course, is not pantomime at all,) at Christmas. There are no fewer than 88 Christmas pantomimes in the cities of Great Britain and Ireland, exclusive of London, this year. In London only two of the centrally located houses are given up to pantomime, Drury Lane and the Garrick. The suburban theatres, however, swell the total to 32.

The most popular subjects this year are Cindrella and Dick Whittington. In the 120 pantomimes each of these subjects is treated of, in the highly unimaginative and conventional manner of pantomime writers, 20 times. There are 17 "Robinson Crusoes" and 13 pantomimes founded on the story of the Babes in the Wood. Cinderella has been an almost equally favored subject for two or three years past.

Pantomime producers cannot, themselves, account for the run from time to time on certain subjects. For eight years, for instance, there has been no pantomime in London or its suburbs on the subject of Bo-Peep, Humpty-Dumpty, or Robin Hood. The London suburban theatres have more than doubled in number within a decade. The 32 pantomimes they produce this year were exceeded in number only once before, last year, when 34 were produced.

These pantomimes give employment for a few weeks, sometimes for six months, to thousands of persons who never get any other foothold on the stage. The principal boy and girl, to use the technical term, and the prominent comedians are, of course, established favorites of the music halls or of operetta and burlesque. But troops of children, demons, acrobatic specialists, singing fairies, and dancers are needed in pantomime. The costumers all over the kingdom reap a rich harvest in pantomime season, musicians are in extraordinary demand for the increased orchestras, and extra stage hands are required. In short, the advent of the pantomime means comfort to many who are not generally too comfortable.

As to whether or not the pantomime is really as popular as it used to be it is impossible to judge. Last year many of the Christmas shows lost money. English taste is conservative, however, and theatrical traditions are cherished. The pantomime of to-day is much what the pantomime of the middle of this century was. Perhaps the burlesque opening has become more elaborate, but it was the principal part of the show then. The harlequinade is now cut down to two or three scenes. Original wit is not tolerated in pantomime books. The comic songs are generally the popular music hall ditties. The serious music in pantomimes, however, is often of a very good quality.

THE BIG DRURY LANE SHOW.

"Jack and the Beanstalk" is the title of this year's pantomime at the Drury Lane. Under the management of Arthur Collins the annuals at this big theatre are as gorgeous and expensive as they were in the consulate of Sir Augustus Harris. Arthur Sturgess wrote the book, and a fortune was spent on the scenery, dresses, and machinery.

The giants are said to be marvelous creatures. One of them is actually 50 feet tall, but he is only seen prostrate. Out of his vest pocket emerges the British army, embodied by scores of children in khaki.

The stage of the theatre has been enlarged since last season, and the effects are therefore more striking and prodigious than ever before in Christmas pantomime, even at Drury Lane. There are real giants in the company, and Grigolati's flying fairies are also employed.

The first scene represents the roots of the famous beanstalk, with elves as the dramatis personæ. Thence the action passes upward and skyward by way of Dame Trot's dairy. The Road to the Market is an ingenious scene, with a novel effect of moving pictures. The panorama seems to move from the back of the stage forward. In the wedding festival of Jack and Princess Pretty there is a ballet symbolical of nineteenth century progress. Nellie Stewart, who was here with "An Artist's Model," is the principal boy. Dan Leno, Herbert Campbell, and J. Danvers the comedians, and Whimsical Walker the clown.

The Garrick's pantomime is called "Puss in Boots," and the old pantomimist, Charles Lauri, is Puss, while the principal boy is Florence Lloyd, also well known in this country, and the principal girl Letty Lind.

MORE ABOUT "THE SNOW MAN."

As already reported in this summary of theatrical doings, in place of a pantomime at the London Lyceum they have a fairy piece called "The Snow Man." Arthur Sturgess took this from a French spectacle by Chivot and Vanloo, while the original music by Antoine Banes has been supplemented by Walter Slaughter. The work is of remote German origin. The costumes were designed by Walter Crane.

The story opens in Fairyland, where the workers

> Good things make
> For the whole world's sake,
> And deliver the following day.

The Queen is called Ariella, while the evil genius of the place is one Crooked Sixpence. Ariella believes in the Earth and its people; Crooked Sixpence does not. "The earth is bad," he says. "They do not like your gifts. You send them sunlight, they long for rain—you send them rain, they buy umbrellas—you send fresh air, they poison it with smoke—you send birds, they wear them in their bonnets." The Queen is in love with a certain Prince Splendid, who has gone to Earth, leaving his heart with Ariella. When he comes back he shows some signs of deterioration from the fairy standard.

"Let him go," say the fairy workers, scornfully; and the Queen, in the bitterness of her feelings, accepts the suggestion. But, says she, "Take this man—turn him into snow, and use him as your own, so that every flake may chill the bodies of those men he loves so well. Let them be as cold as he is. Go!" The third tableau of the first act presents a city square in Flanders, where we are introduced to Catherine, an innkeeper's maid, who nourishes an unrequited love for the learned Doctor Franz. Franz, on his side, is in love with Lisa, daughter of the Burgomaster, who destines her for his nephew Mark. Franz, however, aspires, by virtue of his occult learning, to vivify inanimate objects; and, when three engaging children build up a snow man, he undertakes to make it live. "Do so," says the Burgomaster, "and you shall have my daughter, for if you succeeded she would be the wife of the most famous man in the world." And Franz does succeed in his task, for he has the aid of Ariella, who has come down to Earth, and who, in animating the children's Snow Man is but giving renewed life to her faithless lover, Prince Splendid.

Later on the Snow Man assists in the signing of the marriage contract in the Town Hall. Enchanted as Franz is with his success, there are attendant drawbacks. The Snow Man somewhat resembles Frankenstein's monster, and not a little worries his "papa," as he calls the young doctor. He is much puzzled, too, by his position, and grows sadly confused over what he regards as the various tribes of human beings that inhabit the earth, for one division of them seems to be made up of girls, women, mothers, ladies, wives, and various other descriptions of petticoated bipeds, between which he vainly strives to discriminate. The idea of getting rid of him by making him marry Catherine, the barmaid of a favorite tavern, does not work well; for, though she is persuaded to sit on his knee, the immediate consequences are of the most arctic description. Ultimately the missing heart is restored to the icy image.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

MADISON SQUARE THEATRE.—"Wheels Within Wheels" is being played to large audiences.

DALY'S THEATRE.—"The Manoeuvres of Jane" has thus far enjoyed an uninterrupted career of prosperity.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE.—"Three Little Lambs," with its music and its jollity, has found favor with the public.

MURRAY HILL THEATRE.—"The Wife," by Belasco and De Mille, will be presented by the Donnelly Stock Company.

BROADWAY THEATRE.—"Ben Hur" again broke its record, the receipts of the past week exceeding those of the week before.

FOURTEENTH STREET THEATRE.—To-morrow night's performance ushers in the third week of "The Village Postmaster," which has only two weeks more to run.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—In the "City Club" Burlesque Company, which will be seen this week, the management will present burlesque skits, with incidental specialty acts.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—"Way Down East" will be continued for a considerable time longer. The play has proved to be as popular as it was when it was first seen here.

BIJOU THEATRE.—May Irwin and "Sister Mary" are rapidly forging toward their one hundredth performance, and the attraction continues to maintain its popularity.

KNICKERBOCKER THEATRE.—Nat Goodwin and Miss Maxine Elliott have played so far to crowded houses with their comedy, "The Cowboy and the Lady." They have done a larger business in this city than ever before.

GARRICK THEATRE.—William Gillette's success in "Sherlock Holmes" has prompted Charles Frohman to postpone his star's appearance in London until next season, continuing the melodrama in this country throughout the present season.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—Frank Daniels to-morrow night will enter upon the last two weeks of his New York engagement in "The Ameer." Next season he will play on the Pacific Coast, so that he will not be seen in New York again till the year after next.

HURTIG & SEAMON'S MUSIC HALL.—"Around New York in Eighty Minutes," the burlesque that proved a very successful attraction at another house in this city, will be revived in Harlem, under the direction of William A. Brady, with a large company and new scenery.

HARLEM OPERA HOUSE.—Jefferson de Angelis, in "The Jolly Musketeer," is to make his reappearance, after a tour of the principal cities in twenty-four States. The company will include a new prima donna, Grace Van Studdiford, and Harry Macdonough, Maud Hollins, Hubert Wilke, Lenore Soulier, Hilda Hollins, Edwin A. Tester, Herman Steinmann, and Fred K. Logan.

EDEN MUSEE.—At the request of many visitors a special series of Cinematographe views will be shown at 9 o'clock to-morrow evening. The series will include several comic and mysterious views, and in addition the presentation of "Cinderella and Her Slipper" in six tableaus. During the week there will be new attractions. Among the wax works there will be new groups and new arrangements.

MANHATTAN THEATRE.—Anna Held delights enormous audiences in "Papa's Wife," which enters upon the third month with a change in the cast, Cyril Scott succeeding Henry Woodruff to-morrow night as the strait-laced son of the rakish old Baron. A special matinée, the only mid-week afternoon performance of the season, will be given next Wednesday.

KOSTER & BIAL'S MUSIC HALL.—Another lengthy and varied bill has been arranged for this week. The leading artist will be Vernona Jarbeau, who will return to the vaudeville stage for the first time in two years; the Holloway trio, Charles T. Aldrich, Mlle. Azara, Ward and Curran, Fox and Foxie, McMahon and King, Farnum and Seymore, and Earle and Shepard.

PROCTOR'S PALACE.—The more prominent artists offered this week by Mr. Proctor are the Rossow Midgets in their unique acrobatic act, the three Merkel sisters, equilibrists; Edward Latell, musical comedian; Diana, in the mirror dances; Seymour and Dupree, acrobatic novelty; Charlie Rossow in his imitations, Prof. C. Davies, "The Man from Ireland"; the kalatechne scope, and Marinellis, on the silver rings.

KEITH'S UNION SQUARE THEATRE.—The leading feature will be Kathryn Osterman, who will be assisted by Frederick J. Power, in a comedy called "The Editor." Beatrice Moreland will also appear in a new sketch, "Taming a Husband." Eva Williams and "Jack" Tucker will present a new version of "Skinny's Finish," and Frank Bush, Burton's dogs, the Florens troupe, and others will be in the bill.

DEWEY THEATRE.—The Vanity Fair Burlesque Company will be the attraction this week. It will appear in two travesties. In the olio will be seen Harris and Fields, the German character comedians; Katie Rooney, the comedienne; the three Rio Brothers, aerial acrobats; Williamson and Stone, black-face comedians; Morrissey and Rich, travesty artists, and the Hassan Ben Ali troupe of Toozoonin Arabs.

GARDEN THEATRE.—Though this is Richard Mansfield's last week at this theatre, it can scarcely be called his last in New York, in view of the fact that next week he goes to the Harlem Opera House. The order of plays is: Monday, "Arms and the Man"; Tuesday, "Cyrano de Bergerac"; Wednesday, "

Women Here and There— Their Frills and Fancies

"There is one thing about calendars; you don't care at all how many you have," says the girl who has lots of friends. "Once in a while I have what I call a calendar year, and every one gives me one of some kind or description. But I love every one, and I wouldn't give away the meanest to my dearest friend. You see, you can tack a calendar up anywhere, and it is always convenient, for you never know the day of the month, and it looks comfortable to have hosts of calendars around. Then there is another thing about calendars; you know people never give you those that were given to them last year. People used to do that with Christmas cards until you were almost afraid of showing those you received for fear you would be giving away some of your friends. A calendar has to be up to date.

***

A little before Christmas, when it was exhilarating but not suggestive of Summer days to wander in the fields, a woman hunting for other things found a healthy little violet and was thereby much astonished at the temerity of the little flower. But it seems this was not unusual, and violets are apt to waken at all sorts of unseemly seasons, even with snow on the ground, and make their way out into the open. The following letter, received with some inclosed blossoms, shows that other flowers have the courage of their convictions. This is the letter:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our ambitious friends arbutus, hepatica, and spring beauty will have to yield the palm as early risers to that pretty flowering shub ribes aureum, which I found in bloom to-day in a sheltered corner of Morningside Park.

Score one more, please, to the long list of attractions which go to establish the reputation of New York City as a desirable Winter resort. PRISCA.

New York, Jan. 5, 1900.

The flowers are attractive little yellow blossoms which do not give evidence of following the severe weather we have been having recently.

***

"There is nothing like hanging up one's stocking for Christmas, some people think, and one young woman hung up her stocking this year in spirit with the family, though she was away from home. There was nothing of an immaterial nature about the stocking itself. It was the bona fide article, very solid, and was well filled. Her Christmas presents from home were received by her a few days before Christmas, and she was informed that in the package she would find, among other things, a stocking all ready for hanging. A new pair had been bought for her, one of the useful things among her gifts, and one of them filled as full as it could be with all sorts of things that would go into a stocking—small articles of different kinds—a fancy box of hair pins, a special kind of soap, and other little things with bon bons and handkerchiefs. It is said that she didn't look once at the other things in the box when she took the stocking out. She hung it in her room, and when the family at home were looking at their stockings she was also examining the contents of hers. The idea is not patented, and any one may use it another year for the members of their families away from home.

***

At a men's furnishing store not a hundred miles from the Brooklyn Bridge, on the New York side, a woman can always find a handkerchief. The firm keeps an emergency stock always on hand. Many women have trials and tribulations with their handkerchiefs. How is a woman ever to be expected to keep a handkerchief when she has to carry it tucked up her sleeve, in her muff, in her blouse, or in a little chatelaine bag? Of course she loses them by the dozen, and she has been obliged to depend upon the chance of buying a man's handkerchief when she was down town and out of reach of the regular shops. And what woman could carry a big, man's hankerchief in a tight-fitting sleeve? She isn't obliged to now, for this firm, finding they sold so many men's handkerchiefs to women, have laid in this emergency stock. It has paid them, too, for now the women go to the store to get string ties and occasionally a puffed tie for their own wear, as well as presents for the men of their families.

***

There is one woman in Brooklyn who will never hear a word said against a janitor. She has had an experience with one which will give the whole class a warm place in her heart always. She lived in one of the big apartment houses in the city, which had, of course, a janitor in attendance. He was a good janitor, as janitors go, but the woman did not think much of that one way or another until five or six years after she had left the house.

One of her family treasures was an old copper teakettle, an heirloom, and any one who knows anything about it must know that there are copper kettles and copper kettles, but that there is nothing like one that has been in the family for generations. The woman would not have disposed of hers for any money, but in moving, the kettle cover was lost. Just how things are lost in moving no one ever knows, but they mysteriously disappear, and are never seen again. That was the way with the kettle cover, or the woman came to the conclusion that it was. With a feeling of deep melancholy she put it down to her profit and loss account, resigned herself to the inevitable, and was filled with a new regret every time she chanced to come across the coverless kettle.

But it happened that five or six years after the moving the woman had occasion to go back one day to the apartment house which had been her former residence, and there she chanced to see the janitor.

"Oh, Mrs. Blank!" he exclaimed, smiling in a pleased way at seeing her again.

"Yes," said said, rather pleased herself at being remembered, "how do you do, James?"

"Very well, ma'am," said James, "and I have something that belongs to you.

"Something that belongs to me?" she returned in astonishment.

But James had disappeared, and in a moment he was back, breathless, and in his hand was the cover to the treasured kettle, looking, save for a little loss of polish, as well as when Mrs. Blank had last seen it. Now she believes that janitors not only have good memories and honesty, but a fine sense of the value of things.

***

"It was not always as easy to get Canton china as it is now," says a woman who has known people who wrote the date of their births seventeen hundred and something. "An aunt of mine always used it. I remember, because it was always such a delight to me. When I was a little girl I used to persuade aunt's colored man to get a plate down for me, and I would lie on the floor and look at it, while he told me long stories about the pictures, stories which I imagine were more negro lore than Chinese. The china could not be found at that time anywhere in the country except in Boston, and every year my aunt would go on there, I believe for nothing in the world but to replenish her stock of china."

***

There is a Connecticut woman who has a joke that she is never tired of telling. The joke is on some one who was not brought up to believe that honesty is the best policy and a cardinal virtue. The woman had driven out into the country to visit some relatives. They lived at some distance from her home in Stamford, on a farm, and one object of her visit was to bring home some rich barnyard soil for her plants. It was found, when they started to get the soil, that the most convenient thing to get it in was an old ham bag. This was firm and strong, and with the soil well packed in, would hold a considerable quantity.

"There," said the woman's cousin, when the bag was tied up, "no one will ever accuse you of carting dirt, for that looks exactly like a bona fide ham, and it is every bit as hard and solid. The bag is clean on the outside, and you will not even need to have it wrapped. If your friends see it, they will envy you for having a good, country ham."

The woman was well pleased, the ham bag was put into the carriage, and she drove home. When she reached the house she lifted out the dirt and set it just inside the gate while she drove around to the barn. She was gone only a short time, but when she returned, that ham bag had disappeared and she never saw it again. It was annoying to lose the soil she had taken such pains to get, but the joke was good enough to pay for the loss.

"I think that bag was the heaviest thing I ever lifted," she says in telling the story. "It was twice as heavy as a ham, and that ham bag was the biggest one I have ever seen. Then the soil that was in it. It was just the thing for my plants, but not so agreeable in other ways as some that was less rich. I can imagine the feelings of the man—it must have been a man to carry it any distance—who carried off that bag, hot and perspiring, having to hurry for fear of being discovered, and then to open it and find nothing but barnyard soil. People do get their just dues in this world sometimes."

***

"It is one of the inconsistencies of human nature," says the woman who lives in a boarding house, "and we who know about it can't help smiling a little to ourselves. She is really one of the best women that I ever knew. If there ever was any one who was an exponent of most of the virtues and leading a good and consistent life, she is the woman, and yet this one little thing—and it is such a little thing that it is hardly worth speaking of—she will do, something that not ten women in a hundred who didn't have half her good qualities would think of doing. She is as neat as a pin, among other things, and her rooms are kept in apple-pie order. She never has a speck of dust there, and she would not have the room swept, I think, if there was any other way of keeping the floor clean. She has such a dislike for dust that she will not even have the dust cloth shaken from her window for fear a bit may be blown back again; so what do you think she does? The man boarder next door is, of course, away during the day, so she sends the maid into his room to shake her duster!

"Would he care? Not for the thing itself, but he is a man who dislikes to be imposed upon, and he would surely be angry if he knew it, but of course no one tells him.

"It is something like a girl I knew whose mother was extremely particular about her fine laces. The mother of a friend was less particular, and she and her daughter wore their laces whenever they felt like it. There were to be some private theatricals at one time, and the girl with the particular mother was anxious to wear some fine lace with her costume, so she went to her neighbors, who she knew, in her position, would wear theirs, and who were always most generous about lending.

"Won't you loan me your lace shawl, dear Mrs. Blank?" she asked. "Mother is so particular about hers, and something might happen to it." And she never could understand why her friends, who were usually so kind and generous, refused with something like coldness."

***

In an up-town place in New York, where they find situations for women, they say they always have during the holiday season a run of what they call Christmas tramps. They are women who come ostensibly for work, but who are quite willing to take money or anything else offered them. One of these this year was a big Irishwoman, neatly dressed and wearing a clean white apron and with an attempt at tears evidently intended to obtain sympathy. She asked for day's work at first, but as there was none of this for her, expressed herself as in need of money.

"Why don't they help you where you go to church? What church do you go to?" asked the woman in charge.

"The Piscopal Church," answered the woman.

"Whose church is it?"

"Dr. Blank's," answered the woman, mentioning the rector of a prominent Broadway church.

"Well, why doesn't he help you?"

"Well, you see," explained the woman, confidentially, "I don't go there all the time when I am working. I go to the church the people do where I work."

But why a woman who was doing a day's work could not go to church where she pleases did not seem very evident, and she was dismissed without further consideration.

***

There is often more or less of a feeling of rebellion at fate among women who support themselves, yet most of them keep it to themselves if they do feel that they should be protected from the daily grind, but at this one place they see frequently evidences of this rebellion from women who are not strong enough to go to work uncomplainingly. One woman who came to them would work if she could find just the position she wanted, and she said she could furnish good references. She was of the gentlewoman class. But she was not willing to give her references until a position which suited her could be found, and no one was willing to place her in a position until she had given evidence that she was capable of filling it, and she did not get one. But her chief cry was not for work, but for help. She had come from the South, and she had heard of the great amount of wealth in New York, and it seemed such an easy thing for some one to help her, to give her the little money she needed for support, that she did not see why she could not have it.

"I don't want to work," she said time and again despairingly, "I want to be taken care of." But there are no asylums for helpless people of this kind, and she drifted away after a time.

***

Another of the various people who want help was a palmist. She was willing to go out for companies to entertain the guests. To provide entertainers is a good business nowadays. So this palmist had a good many opportunities. One of the last given her was to go to Brooklyn to exercise her art at a reception there. But unfortunately it rained on the day when the reception was to be given. "I am so sorry it should happen to rain today," said the palmist, "for it being such a distance to go to Brooklyn, of course I can't go." So the people who were providing the entertainer had to make a great effort to find another palmist, and now when there are orders for palmists it is the other one who goes always, because she doesn't mind the rain.

***

Here is a really old-fashioned remedy. It is a grandmother's remedy, and the grandmother who believes in it is alive and recommends it personally. It is for sciatica. Take equal parts of flour and red pepper, and mix with vinegar. Make a paste of it and move it from place to place with the pain. "And if that does not help you, then I am mistaken," concludes the grandmother.

***

The Boston woman's clubhouse seems to be assured. There was an enthusiastic meeting of stockholders recently, and $10,000 worth of stock was purchased in a short time, and the subscriptions for $5,000 more paid. With a few more thousand dollars on hand the work will be begun. The building is to be not more than four stories high and rooms in it have already been applied for by business men. The women have a valuable lot on Beacon Street, for which they have been offered $40,000 more than the purchase price.

FEMININE FRILLS.

The flaring collar, which is to be seen so much upon women's out-door wraps, has reached the canine family at last. A little yellow dog was trotting down Fifth Avenue behind his mistress the other day wearing a collar wide and high and of the proper flare. It must be a convenient fashion for his dogship, at least if he is running before the wind, for the collar stands out on either side of his head and keeps the cold breeze off entirely. It looked as if this dog had small pockets on either side of his little jacket, but this may have been a mistake, for even the most up-to-date dog has not reached the stage of carrying change for car fare.

***

People have been talking for some time about the wearing of earrings, and they really seem to be in now. In the theatre the other evening a number of women were wearing diamond stud earrings, one a pair of turquoise, close to her ears, and some others small diamond drops. One elderly woman wore a pair of black jet balls, relics of earlier days, evidently. The street cars show a good assortment of earrings, chiefly diamond screws, and one woman the other day wore a pair of rather large cluster diamond rings. That isn't Americanism, for people who visit England frequently say they see quite as many jewels in the streets there as they do here, and the woman with the cluster earrings may have been going to a reception.

***

Some of the most charming little French silk waists, the most attractive seen, are simply made with no tucks, but a little design in a vine around the shoulders. The leaves of the vine in a waist of a delicate shade, say, of heliotrope, are set in with silk of a pale corn color and outlined with embroidery. There is a smaller vine also running down on either side of the overlapping front, which is finished with a fancy embroidered scallop edged with fine real lace. The collar, which has a narrow edge turned over, is also edged with embroidery and the fine lace.

***

Wash shirt waists are to be seen in the shop windows, and look cold in this weather. The white ones are made of fancy materials, many with plaids and stripes across rather than running up and down. Some of the prettiest and daintiest waists are made entirely of white lace and fine Hamburg embroidery insertions. They have collars which turn over a little, edged with lace. Some have broad lapels and others have bolero-like pieces fastened in the side seams and crossing the bust, gathered up with a bow. These cost $15 and $16.

***

Some of the wool shirt waists that have a more comfortable appearance at this time of the year are made of alternate stitched box plaits of plaid and plain material, with a tie of the plain material edged with the plaid.

***

A very pretty girl, young, fresh, and a brunette, wore an attractive wrap to the theatre the other evening. It was one of the half-length capes of a bright red velvet, with shirred chiffon of the same color over it. The chiffon fell from the yoke in long, deep points, shirred and edged with ruffles. The yoke was of the shirred chiffon. The outer part of the collar was shirred like the yoke, but shaped and stiff, while inside was more of the shirred chiffon ruffled in to give a fluffy appearance.

***

The same girl wore inside the collar to her gown a bit of soft tulle tied in a big, soft, flaring bow at the back.

***

Pale blue in some way never seems a really appropriate color for an elderly woman. It hardly has character enough, and does not give her sufficient dignity unless used in unpronounced ways in linings, or where it is not much in evidence. One middle-aged matron wore a long, black satin coat edged with a ruffle of white lace over blue, and it was not attractive. There was too much contrast anyway to be agreeable.

***

Another very pretty young girl wore a plain little suit of pale gray with an Eton jacket to match. Her blouse, worn under the jacket, was of a delicate shade of gray brocaded silk, that blended with the cloth, and her furs, when she was ready for the street, were chinchilla. Those one-tone suits are stylish and attractive.

***

The little blonde curls of Miss Prissoms, the pianiste of the dance hall in "The Cowboy and the Lady," are delightfully funny, but they are not at all out of the way as far as actual fashion is concerned. The up-to-date girl is not confined to the tresses nature has given her, and can wear artificial curls tucked into the knot of hair on the top of her head if she likes. It is better if the curls are natural, but there are few women who have hair whose ends will curl up naturally if left to itself, and there is always plenty of hair that will curl to be found in the shops. The natural effect is to be desired, and if that can be obtained, the little curls on top of the head may turn to the face if they like, and they are very pretty and becoming.

***

"You can never make cranberries into candied cherries," says the cook, "though they may tell you that you can. A cranberry is a cranberry, and a cherry is a cherry, to the end of its days, and you can't make one taste like the other. But you can cook cranberries so that they will keep separate, and they are very good for a number of things, and make a change from the ordinary stewed cranberry. You take a quart of cranberries and wash carefully and turn them into the dish in which they are to be cooked. Add butter the size of an English walnut, two cups of sugar, and a pinch of cinnamon, and cook until they are done. That sounds a little indefinite, but it is easy to tell. They must boil, not too hard, and it will be necessary to shake the dish in which they are cooking occasionally, and perhaps stir the berries up from the bottom of the pan, taking care not to mash them. No water is used except that which clings to them after they have been washed. When they are turned out they will look not unlike the candied cherries, though a little darker, and each one will stand out separately like well cooked grains of rice. They are good to eat as cranberries, and they are pretty for garnishing with rice."

***

"We had used oatmeal every morning for I don't know how many years," said the old housekeeper, "and I suppose should have continued to use it and no other cereal if we had not had an invalid in the house at one time and the doctor looked carefully into the matter of our bill of fare.

"'There are too many good cereals,' he said, 'for people to confine themselves to the use of one, and it is not a good thing to use oatmeal so constantly.'

"So now we have a good variety, nine different kinds, which stand in a line on the shelf, and the cook uses them in sequence, so that we have one after the other and the same one only every tenth day. It is a pleasant change, and we have never been sorry that we altered our regimen."

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

THE ANGLO-ITALIAN RAPPROCHEMENT.—The era of good feeling between Great Britain and Italy, brought about by such papers as La Tribuna di Roma and augmented by the increasing attacks of the French press upon the British Government and all things English, has brought about a series of commercial agreements between the two Governments, one of which greatly benefits the Italian colony of Erythrea, in East Africa. Signor Ferdinando Martini, Governor of Erythrea, is now in Cairo for the purpose of signing an Anglo-Italian agreement which practically extends to the Italian colony the scale of tariffs imposed on Egyptian imports into the Soudan. This agreement cannot well be signed by the direct representatives of the British and Italian Governments, it is said, without raising the delicate question of the Ottoman suzeralnty.

The respectable press of Italy is now more than ever Anglophile, and Italians are constantly warned that, at the close of the war in South Africa, Great Britain will administer a deserved rebuke to France; for the present, it is the duty of all Italians to remember the debt of gratitude that they owe the English and hold aloof from the madmen on the other side of the Alps. A recent debate in the Italian Chamber is significant of the growing indifference with which Italy regards her status in the Dreibund and of the increasing desire for closer relations with Great Britain. Signor de Martino, brother of the ex-Minister in Pekin, criticised the management of the Italo-Chinese negotiations, and expressed the doubt as to the value of the Triple Alliance for Italy if it were powerless to prevent surprises like that of the Anglo-French agreement in regard to the hinterland of Tripoli. Thereupon the Marquis Catlo di Rudini, son of the ex-Premier, arose, and, after questioning the value of the Dreibund, made some strictures upon the policy of isolation pursued by Italy, and strongly and eloquently urged the necessity of closer association with Great Britain. Signor Nasi, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs in the first Pelloux Cabinet, continued in the same strain, and added that those who asked why Great Britain damaged Italian interests in the Tripolitan hinterland should know that there exists a note of an Italian Minister to the British Embassy in Rome stating that Italy had no stake in the North African question. This declaration, it is said, produced considerable sensation, and it is expected that a full explanation of the matter will shortly be demanded.

***

FURTHER INFORMATION CONCERNING THE PROPOSED BAGDAD RAILWAY.—A recent number of the Deutsche Zeitung of Berlin contains what is believed to be an article inspired by Drs. Siemens and Zander, respectively the Director of the Deutsche Bank and the President of the Anatolian Railway Company. The article throws considerable light upon the recent concessions made by the Sultan to the German syndicate for the construction of the Bagdad Railway, some details of which have already been given in these columns.

It seems that in order to pacify Russia the line will not start from Angora, but from Konieh, and will thus not come in too close contact with the Russian frontier. It is now declared that British interests in the line have given place to those of the French, which have been formally recognized by the German Ambassador in Constantinople. The French, it is believed in Berlin, will now succeed in securing a concession from the Porte to prolong the Beycot-Damascus Railway to Mesopotamia, and thus to connect it with the new Bagdad line.

Discussion of the Bagdad Railway concessions continue to occupy a prominent position in the political press of St. Petersburg. The Novosti sees in them a new field for German colonization schemes. "Germany," says the Russian organ, "has in view the peaceful conquest of Turkey by a systematic, constant campaign, carried on not by force of arms, but by building railroads and extending her colonies. When in course of time Germany attains her ends and takes possession of Trieste, the Eastern question will assume an entirely different aspect from that which it has borne hitherto." The Novosti then goes on to say that the time has gone by for the settlement of the Eastern question by wars and diplomatic notes. Other means must now be used. So far Russia has only built the high road to Teheran. "It is to be hoped that we shall not wait until the Germans undertake in Persia what they have already achieved in Asia Minor."

***

ABSINTHE THE BANE OF FRANCE.—Dr. L. Jacquet has just communicated to the French Medical Society the results of an inquiry on which he has been engaged into the progress of alcoholism in Paris. At the threshold of his report he boldly declares that the habitual taking of absinthe is responsible for much of the morbid irritability displayed by Frenchmen at the present day.

Alcoholism, continues the doctor, has secured many victims by the increasing craze for appetizers, (apéritifs,) which has spread to all classes of society, while the drinks swallowed under this pretext—absinthe, vermouth, and the various "bitters"—are the most pernicious forms of alcohol in existence. The doctor declares that the increase in the consumption of absinthe, the most deleterious of all these poisons, among the working classes is appalling. Many workmen have now reached the pitch of drinking absinthe with their meals as well as taking it when they get up in the morning and before luncheon and dinner.

To this almost universal habit of taking appetizers, and to the unparalleled facilities for obtaining drink that exists in Paris, Dr. Jacquet attributes the alarming growth of alcoholism. Women, in particular those of the lower classes, are especially influenced to join the ever increasing army of tipplers by the fact that the temptation to indulge in stimulants meets them at every turn. A great number of the smaller coal merchants, grocers, and provision dealers add to their income by selling intoxicants. Druggists, too, are offenders, offering in place of the wine tonics prescribed by physicians a mixture of their own made of cheap, strongly alcoholized wines, sweetened, and with an admixture of kola. Out of 4,744 cases personally investigated by Dr. Jacquet in the Paris hospitals, 1,405, or 29.61 per cent., were found to be persons who habitually drank to excess, and whose malady, if not directly ascribable to alcohol, had been greatly aggravated by the abuse of stimulants.

***

EMILE ZOLA AND THE LATE LIEUT. COL. HENRY.—M. Zola recently wrote a letter to the Minister of War, Gen. de Galliffet, requesting the communication of the famous letters of Col. Combes cited by M. Judet, in his articles in Le Petit Journal of July, 1898, to prove that M. Zola's father had been expelled from the French army for embezzlement. The result of the correspondence is said to confirm the charge made at the time that at least the first letter was a forgery perpetrated by Henry.

In his reply Gen. de Galliffet says:

"In the first place, inquiry has proved that of the two letters of Col. Combes quoted in Le Petit Journal of July 18, 1898, only that designated 'second letter of Col. Combes' figures in the dossier of M. François Zola. There exists no trace of the other letter described as 'first letter of Col. Combes.' Gen. de Galliffet adds without, however, naming Henry, that it was he who in 1894 asked at the Archives Bureau for the dossier of M. François Zola. Lieut. Col. Henry being dead, "it is no longer possible to know his reasons for consulting this dossier, and, therefore, impossible to verify the propriety or otherwise of an operation which nothing appears to justify."

The Minister concludes his letter by refusing communication "as contrary to all precedent."

On receiving the letter from the Minister of War M. Zola at once repeated his request in a letter of the Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau. Unless, argues M. Zola, "the dossier concerning my father's case be communicated to me, how is it possible for me to defend myself in the courts against the action brought by M. Judet?"

IMPERIAL HAIR REGENERATOR

The Standard Hair Coloring For Gray or Bleached Hair.

One application of this MARVELOUS, ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS preparation will RESTORE GRAY or BLEACHED HAIR to its NATURAL COLOR or shade. It is CLEAN, DURABLE, and lasting.

ONE APPLICATION LASTS MONTHS.

Applied at our parlors by SKILLED ATTENDANTS. Samples of hair colored free. PRIVACY ASSURED. IMPERIAL HAIR REGENERATOR is sold by druggists and hairdressers everywhere.

IMPERIAL VIGOROSIS is a marvelous hair grower and tonic. Stops the hair from falling.

IMPERIAL HAIR REGENERATOR PARLORS,

23D STREET, 22 WEST.

Formerly 202 Fifth Ave. Take elevator.

A. Simonson

933 BROADWAY. 21ST AND 22D STS.

Human Hair Goods, Hair Dressing, Hair Ornaments.

A close inspection of our goods will convince you of the superiority of our exquisite assortment. Styles and quality not to be found elsewhere. No branches and no agents.

The novelist then adds: "How is it possible not to suspect that the second letter, in passing through the hands of a notorious forger, has been disfigured? For every loyal mind complete communication of the dossier to the son of the defamed man is obligatory on the eve of the action which the accomplice (M. Judet) of the forger dares to bring against him, by describing as a calumnious denunciation the first effort to throw a little light on these shameful dark corners."

Moreover, continues M. Zola, it results from the reply of Gen. de Galliffet that the double violation of the alleged dossier of François Zola and the silence of the grave did not suffice, and that the author, who disappeared in expiation of a forgery, committed a second forgery by providing a journalist with a letter which never existed in the dossier.

The latest advices are that permission has been "exceptionally granted" to M. Zola to examine his father's dossier in the War Office. The trial of M. Judet's action has been postponed until Jan. 24.

A YEAR'S CHANGES IN HAVANA.

The Streets, Formerly Filthy, Now Scrupulously Clean—Christmas and New Year Entertainments.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Dec. 31.—One year ago to-morrow the American army marched into Havana and took formal possession of the island, as guardians until such time as it could be turned over to the Cuban people. Amid the shouts and cheers of the people the Spanish flag was hauled down and our flag raised. In the streets, now scrupulously clean, it is hard to recognize those that were formerly so filled with rubbish that it was with difficulty that a pathway could be cleared. This general cleaning of streets and buildings is one of the greatest of the changes that have been effected.

Another very noticeable change is in the principal shopping streets on Sunday, where of old there was as much or more business done than on other days. Now they are as deserted as similar streets in American cities, and the shop doors are closed. But the day is still a gala one among Cubans; their balls and dinners are given then, and many of their other festivities. The Battle of Flowers, similar in nature to that at Nice, takes place on Sunday. All Cuban society will turn out to see it.

All the recent innovations are not good ones, but for these the authorities are not responsible. In the wake of the army came many characters with which we could well dispense, and it is thought that they in a large measure are responsible for many of the burglaries committed of late. In broad daylight hats, umbrellas, &c., are stolen from the halls of houses. In the night larger thefts are committed. During the past week more than one house has lost all of its silver. Clothing is taken from houses by passing a long, hooked rod through the bars of the windows. The schoolmaster of one of the English schools intended having a Christmas tree for his pupils, and had all of the presents in his house, when burglars entered and took everything. This promised to be a great disappointment to the pupils, but friends came forward and replaced a great many of the losses, so that the tree and entertainment took place as originally planned, only a little later in the week.

The whole week has been occupied in Christmas gayeties. In Cuban society there has been as much going on as in American. The midnight feast on Christmas Eve was celebrated in many houses. At this an elaborate course dinner is served, and a Christmas is scarcely considered complete without it here. A banquet was given by the Postmaster General to Gen. Wood. To this only gentlemen—sixteen in number—were invited. The guests included Gen. Ludlow, Gen. Lee, Gen. Chaffee, and Gen. Humphrey.

One evening I went to a dancing party, at which there were only a few other Americans, but to my surprise I heard English spoken on every side, and well spoken, too, for the Cubans are clever linguists. Most of the best families send their children either to the United States or Europe to be educated.

Last Summer the Cuban girls used to attend the Seventh Cavalry dances each week, and the officers always danced with them. Later on, when their wives came, the señoritas were somewhat neglected, and they resented this: "The American officers are false," they said. "In Summer they liked us, but now that their wives are here they don't care to dance with us as much as they did," so they remain away from the dances. The Saturday night affairs at Camp Columbia are very popular, and army people from all around Havana go to them.

New Year's Day is a feast day, and, as in the United States, every one wishes every one else a prosperous new year. I am told that it was formerly the custom to call on friends, and receive the open-handed hospitality that was met with in our own country years ago, but this is a custom now honored in the breach more than in the observance.

DOROTHY STANHOPE.

WEEK OF UNIVERSAL PRAYER.

Appeal to Christians by the Evangelical Alliances of the World.

The Evangelical Alliances of the World have issued an invitation to all Christians to join with them in making this week one of united and universal prayer. The letter sent out by the United States branch bears the name of the President, William E. Dodge, and those of many Secretaries. It contains the following notes of alarm and apprehension:

"Beyond question, the need is great. On the one hand, a civilization which gathers to itself increasing luxuries and prides itself on its ever-enlarging dominion, is averse to repentance and prayer, and, on the other hand, many who suffer and are wronged are ready to conclude that God neither sees nor hears nor cares. Even the Church is tempted from the true simplicity and strength of faith. The very advance of the kingdom may appear to some to call for Christian activity rather than for lowly supplication."

Nineteen branches of the Evangelical Alliance, situated in as many countries of both hemispheres, unite in this appeal for a week of prayer. The topics suggested for each day are: Jan. 7, "Christ and the Church"; Jan. 8, "Praverful Confession"; Jan. 9, "The Church Universal"; Jan. 10, "Nations and Their Rulers"; Jan. 11, "Families and Schools"; Jan. 12, "Foreign Missions"; Jan. 13, "Home Missions"; Jan. 14, "Christ and the Individual Members of the Church."

School for Domestics Planned.

The Household Economic Association is hoping soon to make a radical departure in its line of work. It has found that there is a large demand for what is called hourly service by people who have not room enough for a servant or work enough to keep one constantly busy. To supply this need the association is thinking of opening a training school for a good class of domestics near its present quarters, 1,773 Broadway. At the rooms of the association there are now classes for ladies and for servants, and a tenement house class is soon to be opened, and there have been calls for others which cannot be supplied. Something in the nature of an exhibition is to be given in February, with prizes for work, cooking, mending, and laundry work given. There is a free cooking lecture every Thursday at 3 o'clock in the rooms.

H. C. F. KOCH & CO.

125th St. West, between Lenox and Seventh Aves.

Mammoth Silk Sale.

The long looked for annual occurrence at hand. Last January's Silk Sale was the greatest achievement in the history of this house—its enormous success has been the stimulating power to excel our former efforts and we now place before you an aggregation of values impossible to duplicate elsewhere. Every leading foreign and domestic manufacturer represented in this sale:

These from ALEX GIRAUD ET CIE.—
Every yard guaranteed:

BLACK SATIN DUCHESSE,
89c per yd. for $1.25 quality;
$1.09 per yd. for $1.50 quality;
$1.29 per yd. for $2.00 quality.

BLACK CASHMERE GROS GRAIN,
98c per yd. for $1.35 quality;
$1.19 per yd. for $1.50 quality;
$1.29 per yd. for $1.75 quality.

BLACK FLEUR DE SOIE,
69c per yd. for 89c quality;
95c per yd. for $1.25 quality;
$1.09 per yd. for $1.50 quality.

These from C. J. BONNET ET CIE.—
Every yard guaranteed:

BLACK TAFFETA,
69c per yd. for 85c quality;
85c per yd. for $1.00 quality;
98c per yd. for $1.25 quality.

BLACK GROS GRAIN,
$1.19 per yd. for $1.50 quality;
$1.35 per yd. for $1.75 quality.

BLACK SATIN DUCHESSE,
$1.19 per yd. for $1.50 quality;
$1.29 per yd. for $1.75 quality;
$1.49 per yd. for $2.00 quality.

These of American Manufacture:

BLACK TAFFETA,
49c per yd. for 69c quality;
59c per yd. for 85c quality;
69c per yd. for $1.00 quality.

BLACK SATIN DUCHESSE,
59c per yd. for 75c quality;
69c per yd. for 89c quality;
89c per yd. for $1.10 quality;
$1.10 per yd. for $1.50 quality.

BLACK PEAU DE SOIE,
69c per yd. for 89c quality;
89c per yd. for $1.25 quality;
$1.09 per yd. for $1.50 quality.

BLACK GROS GRAIN,
69c per yd. for 89c quality;
89c per yd. for $1.25 quality;
98c per yd. for $1.50 quality.

FANCY COLORED SILKS,
39c per yd. for 65c quality;
59c per yd. for 85c quality of Colored Taffetas, plain and changeable.
39c per yd. for 55c quality of Corded Wash Silks, a large variety of styles.

INDIA AND FOULARD SILKS, a full line in all the new Spring designs and colorings, at correspondingly low prices.

Tempting Prices in Dress Goods.

100 PIECES OF IMPORTED SILK STRIPE PLAIDS, in a large variety of combinations and colorings, costs 45c. per yd. to import, our price 29c

25 PIECES OF 48-IN. FRENCH DRAP D'ETE, in navy, green, brown and heliotrope, costs $1.35 per yd. to import, our price 79c

20 PIECES OF 46-IN. BLACK FRENCH HENRIETTA, silk finish, an extra heavy quality, regularly 75 cents per yd., at 49c

50 PIECES OF ALL WOOL BLACK CHEVIOTS, shrunk and sponged, an absolutely reliable grade, regularly 89 cents per yd. 69c

An Event in Ladies' Jackets and Skirts.

Two fortunate combinations which mean a saving to you of 50 cents on the dollar. A manufacturer's stock of Golfing, Skating or Rainy Day Skirts—all this season's materials—every one correctly made—and a great Clearing Sale of Cloth and Velour Jackets.

$6.75 for $12.50 Skirts.
$3.75 for $6.50 Skirts.
$9.75 for $18.00 Cloth Jackets.
$7.75 for $14.00 Cloth Jackets.

$5.55 for $10.00 Cloth Jackets.
$22.50 for $45.00 Velour Jackets.
$17.50 for $30.00 Velour Jackets.
$12.50 for $21.00 Velour Jackets.

Matchless Values in Dress & Night Shirts:

MEN'S AND BOYS' UNLAUNDERED DRESS SHIRTS of New York Mills muslin, set in linen bosom handmade button holes in neckband, all seams felled, reinforced front and back, at 44c

MEN'S UNLAUNDERED DRESS SHIRTS, our own special make, bodies of Utica nonpareil muslin, 3-ply pure linen bosoms, neck and wristbands, handmade button holes, every improvement 65c

MEN'S NIGHT SHIRTS of standard muslin, extra wide and long, all seams felled throughout, rich, fast color trimming on bosom, pearl buttons, at 35c

MEN'S NIGHT SHIRTS, of good weight Langdon Muslin, extra wide and long bodies, Cash's woven trimming on collar, cuffs, pocket and bosom, felled seams and pearl buttons, an exceedingly good value at 49c

Economies in Notions:

ALL-SILK TAFFETA RIBBON for seam binding, per doz., $1.00; per piece . 9c
DOUBLE COTTON FANCY BONE CASING, per doz., 70c.; per piece . 6c
PRUSSIAN BINDING, per doz., $1.59; per piece 14c
FANCY COTTON BELTING, per piece of 10 yds. 25c
SERGE BELTING, per piece of 10 yds. 39c
DRESS SHIELDS, rubber and light weight, sizes 3, 4 and 5, per pr. . 8c
BLACK SEWING SILK, per doz . . 27c

LADIES' FANCY SILK SIDE SUSPENDERS, per set 21c
KID COVERED CORSET CLASPS, per pr. 8c
SATEEN COVERED DRESS STAYS, per doz. 6c
ASSORTED ENGLISH PINS, per paper 2c
HEAVY RIBBED SILK GARTER ELASTICS, 1 in. wide, per yd. . . . 15c
STAMPED LINEN CENTERPIECES, sizes 18, 20, 22 and 24 ins., each . 15c
STAMPED LINEN DOYLIES . . . 3c and 5c

Cotton Shirt Waists.

An exhibit of all that is choice, dainty and novel in styles for 1900—a most interesting showing, well worth a visit.

125th St. West, between Lenox and Seventh Aves.

LADIES WILL FIND COMFORT AND STYLE COMBINED IN OUR WAVY SWITCHES.

Light, fluffy, and natural, they mingle softly with your own hair, and cover thin patches.

WIGS for Ladies and Gentlemen.

The proper construction of a wig, so that it may be stylish and absolutely proof against detection, is a science that few have mastered. Our wigs are absolute perfection in fit and finish. We never permit work to leave our establishment unless thoroughly satisfactory to our patrons, and perfect in every detail in our expert opinion.

Our HAIR DYES and HAIR TONICS

sold extensively throughout the United States.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE MAILED FREE.

L. SHAW, 54 West 14th, next to Macy's, New York.

BIG SALE OF RARE STAMPS.

Philatelists on the Lookout for Prizes at the Dispersal of the Hunter Collection.

The largest sale of rare postage stamps ever held in this country is to be begun on Wednesday evening in the Assembly Hall of the United Charities Building, 109 East Twenty-second Street. The sale will be continued on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, and on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings of next week. Henry C. Merry will be the auctioneer. The sale has been arranged by the Scott Stamp and Coin Company.

The collection to be disposed of belongs to F. W. Hunter, a lawyer of this city. He has been collecting stamps for about a quarter of a century, and has devoted to this pursuit an immense amount of time, knowledge, and money. A man who began to collect twenty-five years ago was, however, in a far different position to the philatelist of to-day. Specimens which are now so rare as to come hardly ever into the market were then obtainable at reasonable figures. The number of collectors was much more limited than at present, and as time has gone on those who acquired collections of any importance in years gone by have found to their delight that their property has increased in value in a manner which puts the most astonishing increase in real estate values into the shade. It is therefore not surprising that philatelic experts value the 3,321 lots into which Mr. Hunter's collection has been divided for the purposes of sale at in the neighborhood of $50,000.

The most valuable lot in the collection is No. 1,593, a two-cent British Guiana stamp of 1850, and a specimen of the first series issued in that colony. It is one of the rarest stamps known to collectors, this particular specimen having brought $1,010 at the De Coppet sale several years ago.

Another excessively rare stamp

Themes and Topics

In the Musical World

The performance of the Brahms violin concerto by Miss Leonora Jackson at the Philharmonic concerts gave another opportunity to the opponents of the composer to have a fling at him. His violin concerto has long been one of the favorite compositions of his enemies. It is not music for the public, nor is it favorable to the business of the concerto in exhibiting the resources of the solo instrument. It has been called a "concerto against the violin," and, biting as this title is, it is not altogether unjust. Perhaps the fairest criticism of the work is that of Louis Ehlert, which is as follows:

When a man like Brahms writes a concerto for a friend like Joachim, we have before us a combination calculated both to arouse our anticipation of a theoretic musical feast and to increase our expectations to an unusual degree. Inasmuch, then, as we assume that a concerto comprises a sort of exhibition of the instrument concerned from a point of view of its artistic effects, in addition to all the other elements that we expect to meet with in any composition whatsoever, the musical feast we hoped for in connection with the beautiful music was, in this case, unfortunately lacking. The first movement is wonderfully made, and both its parts are beautiful, but it is not a concerto movement. To write a concerto, one would require either the colossal instinct of a Beethoven or the kind, earthly taste of a Mendelssohn, who was always able to discriminate whether a work was at once musically and (how shall I express myself?) socially possible. But it is not Brahms's specialty. He is too much of an idealist; he is too deeply wrapped up in his world of thought to stop to ask himself the question, Is this both tasteful and permissible? If this were not so, he had not written the passages of notes and many others in this first movement and had withdrawn the second movement, for it is not even important in a musical sense. It is a deplorable fact that the hope of finding a third work worthy of the two existing masterpieces in violin literature should have remained unfulfilled.

Brahms's only success in the composition of concertos was in those for the piano, for here he was thoroughly in sympathy with the instrument and was able to make use of idioms which he had learned from Schumann or had himself introduced into the language of piano music. But the fact that his violin concerto is altogether too strained in its working out to admit of a successful public hearing does not remove Brahms from the path of musical progress. Indeed, he is one of the most potent factors in the development of modern music, and his opponents will have a much larger task in getting rid of him as the years go by. The longer the perspective the clearer the proportions of such a figure. A Brahms is much like a mountain, not to be satisfactorily viewed from its own foot. That he will eventually be accorded without dispute a place among the Titans of musical art is one of the things of which I have not the least doubt.

The true significance of Brahms in the development of modern music is not yet recognized. His power is only just beginning to be felt, and even his professed admirers, with two or three exceptions, do not rightly estimate his importance in the scheme of musical history. Mr. Huneker, in his eloquent study of Brahms in "Mezzo-tints in Modern Music," says truly: "For half a century he pursued the beautiful in its most elusive form; pursued it when the fashions of the hour, day, and year mocked at such wholesale, undeviating devotion, when form was called old-fashioned, sobriety voted dull, and the footlights had invaded music's realm and menaced it in its very stronghold."

Form called old fashioned! That is the significant phrase. For the success of the geniuses of the romantic school in writing works not in the old sonata form had led to the belief in the minds of many that the form was outgrown, and that henceforth there was to be some easy method of composing without much attention to the laws of development. Those who entertained such an idea had, of course, not studied the music of Schumann, Chopin, and Liszt closely. The subtlety of Chopin's harmonic schemes alone should have warned them that they were on the wrong path. But ninety-nine out of every one hundred students of music do not perceive the harmonic schemes which underly the compositions they are playing. The simple clearness of Liszt's Hungarian rhapsodies should have warned them, too; but no: disorder became the order of the day, and there were some who proclaimed it as an evidence of lack of ability on the part of a composer to write in the sonata form. These are still trying to prove that Brahms was of no importance. I do not envy them their task.

Brahms was the necessary check to the movement of absolute music toward chaos. He it was who demonstrated, in spite of the saying of Wagner, that there was still something for symphonic music to do. The work of Schubert, Schumann, Chopin, and Liszt was essential to the progress of musical art. They broke the shackles which had fastened themselves on the old forms and showed that form in the abstract, not mere formulas, was the necessary embodiment of art in music. But they went further. They enriched the style of musical composition with new idioms, with a new melodic vocabulary, with new harmonic moods. They opened the wide and fruitful field of romantic imagination, and spread upon the tonal palette of the pianist a thousand new and enchanting tints unknown before their time.

Their imitators ran to riot and folly in the use of the novel material. Music was in danger of descending from the proud heights of her intellectual mountains to wander in the bosky allurements of a valley of purples and greens. Suddenly there was descried sitting afar off on a solitary peak, with his eyes upon the sun, a guide, philosopher, and friend. The sensualists, when they heard the music of this man, said: "Away with him!" but his songs found their way into the hearts of thinkers, and there was a sigh of thanksgiving that music had a new master.

Brahms was thoroughly aware of all that had been done before his day in music. He made himself the master of it all. As Mr. Huneker has said, "He was the greatest contrapuntist after Bach, the greatest architectonist after Beethoven." He is the legitimate successor of these two mighty men. He has remodeled for the use of romantic thought the counterpoint of Bach, and he has shown that the sonata form as left in its highest development by Beethoven is capable of containing the richest fancies of the romantic spirit. He has proved beyond a doubt that the laws of music are immutable, that the long centuries of thoughtful experiment by composers from Ockegehm to Haydn were not wasted. The six centuries in which the laws of polyphonic writing were established were productive of results not to be dissociated from music because of freedom of fancy. The two centuries and a half from Merulo to the activity of Beethoven, in which the melodic architecture of the sonata form was expanded, were not unavailing. It was Brahms who drew together the scattered threads and made us a new warp for our musical art. As Mr. Hadow has well said, "In him converge all previous streams of tendency, not as into a pool stagnant, passive, and motionless, but as into a noble river that receives its tributary waters and bears them onward in larger and stateller volume."

Upon the counterpoint of Bach and the structural completeness of Beethoven he has superimposed the diction of the romantic school. And this tripartite combination he has made the receptacle for the richest and deepest romantic feeling of our time, a feeling chastened by thought and enriched by a profound and beautiful musical philosophy. Because of the serenity of his utterance, because of the fathomless depths of thought and feeling which lie behind it, he has been called cold and unsympathetic. My dear friends, the same thing was once said of Thackeray.

***

In England Brahms has been disposed of by that eminent authority, Mr. J. F. Runciman of The Saturday Review. In addition to his arduous duties as chief denunciator of the savage weekly, Mr. Runciman is the correspondent of The Musical Record, a monthly magazine published in the highly cultivated City of Boston. In his letter in the current number, Mr. Runciman refers to some recent remarks of Vernon Blackburn (also an English critic of music) in this wise:

He loves Brahms as little as I do, but instead of saying "Bah!" to the geese, (excuse me, Messrs. Krehbiel and Huneker,) who do love him, he proceeds to give his reasons for not loving him. That is foolish.

The application of the term geese to Messrs. Krehbiel and Huneker so completely demolishes all that those distinguished Brahmsians have said in praise of the late Viennese master that they must now forever remain silent. Mr. Runciman further on in the same article shows how easy it is to dispose of Brahmns without the employment of reason. He says:

I push Brahms away contemptuously, because he is neither a fine decorative composer nor gives splendid and final expression to noble and original emotions. Taking his music merely as decoration, as sound patterns, how does it compare with Mozart's purely decorative music? Taking it as music in which decoration, mere sensuous beauty of outline, color, and harmony is made secondary to the desire for expression, where does he stand, compared with Bach, Beethoven, Wagner, and Mozart in his expressive music? In either case he stands a very long way off. That is all I say.

To be pushed away contemptuously by Mr. Runciman is probably the worst fate that can befall any composer of music or writer on the subject. I wish Mr. Runciman would give us an honest list of those to whom this dire thing has happened. No doubt it would be most instructive. It has certainly happened to Mr. Krehbiel, because Mr. Runciman says that he has read little of this gentleman's writings. This is a pity. Many things which Mr. Runciman does not suspect are clearly revealed in Mr. Krehbiel's works. I advise Mr. Runciman to read "How to Listen to Music."

***

As for Mr. Huneker, who is quite able to take care of himself, as indeed is also Mr. Krehbiel, I have only to say that he shows a great fondness for the piano music of Brahms, and has little to say about the symphonies and the songs, chiefly because he is a pianist and is therefore possessed of an intimate acquaintance with these piano compositions. This the present writer envies him. These works are so intimate in their nature, so much like private communications from the composer to the hearer, that they are never for the mass of listeners at a great concert. I have never found the true Brahms atmosphere at a recital in Carnegie Hall. Much of Mr. Whiting's success with the interpretation of these works is due to the fact that he always plays before an audience of moderate size in a hall like Mendelssohn. Now Mr. Huneker, who is a philosopher as well as a guide and a friend, understands the comfort of a pipe, a pair of slippers, and Brahms. He is one of the happy few who know how to carry into his study the clear air of the mountain or the field. I can fancy him, when he is smoking and letting his fingers roam over the thoughts of the thoughtful master, saying to himself:

A book of verses underneath the bough,
A jug of wine, a loaf of bread, and thou
Singing beside me in the wilderness—
Oh, wilderness were paradise enow.

Mr. Huneker and Brahms, being both pushed contemptuously aside by the mighty man of The Saturday Review and The Musical Record, will now have no difficulty in retiring to the wilderness together and comforting one another with the thought that they never will be missed by Mr. Runciman. It is not to the discredit of The Saturday Reviewer that he prefers the vast glooms and bottomless furies of the mighty Russian, Tschaikowsky, to the sun-lighted snowpeaks of Brahms. The music of Tschaikowsky is also great, but it is easier for the ordinary mortal to comprehend. Let me hasten to say that I do not mean to insinuate that Mr. Runciman is ordinary. Far from it. He seems to me to be most extraordinary. But, nevertheless, I am sorry for him in that he cannot enjoy his Brahms with his Tschaikowsky. The two gentlemen, to whom with truly parliamentary courtesy he refers as "geese," have a substantial advantage of him in this matter. Both of them are admirers of Tschaikowsky as well as of Brahms. These are two composers in whom there are many contrasts, and in contrasts there is much saliency. Perchance some day Mr. Runciman will be converted. I think that day will come when there arrives another composer who may be condemned in place of Brahms. Musical verdicts are so nearly all in just now that it is really hard work for struggling young critics to find anything to say that will make people sit up and stare. Brahms alone is left to them, and of course they must make the best of him. But they will all come around into the fold as soon as some other mark of sufficient size offers itself to them. I am extremely sorry that they know so little in London about our dear friend Richard Strauss. But, after all, he is hardly a big enough mark. A few years ago they had Wagner; but it is absolutely impossible to get any fame now out of anti-Wagnerism. A hard-hearted public persists in laughing at it, and even English music critics are sometimes forced to bow to public opinion.

***

The opera in the past week did not produce anything that calls for especial comment. The remarks here made upon the Aïda of Mme. Eames cannot now be extended. Another performance of the opera may reveal something not shown in the first. The only thing that seems worth insisting upon at this moment is the utter incorrectness of the public attitude toward the Radames of M. Alvarez. Consistency is decidedly a jewel, but it is one seldom found on the public brow. Why should M. Van Dyck be condemned and M. Alvarez be praised for singing in precisely the same way? If any teacher of singing can find any difference in the fundamental principles of the methods employed by the two men I for one should be glad to hear from him.

It is the opinion of the present writer that in five years it will be impossible to tell the singing of one from the other without the aid of sight. Yet M. Alvarez is applauded vociferously and M. Van Dyck, who sings in German opera principally, is condemned. A few years ago this same public declared that it could no longer stand the bad singing which was heard in the German opera and that it was going to have French and Italian opera, so as to get better singing. If M. Alvarez had sung here in the days of German opera, his style would have been taken as inevitable. But if we are to get better singing by having French and Italian opera, why should we be tolerant of such work as that of the leading tenor of the Paris Grand Opéra? These are fair questions, and they ought to be answered.

W. J. HENDERSON.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR THE WEEK

SUNDAY—Popular concert, Metropolitan Opera House, 8:15 P. M.

MONDAY—"Don Pasquale" and Cavalleria Rusticana," Metropolitan Opera House, 7:45 P. M.
"Iolanthe," American Theatre, 8:15 P. M.

WEDNESDAY—"Le Prophete," Metropolitan Opera House, 8 P. M.

FRIDAY—"Tannhaeuser," Metropolitan Opera House, 8 P. M.

SATURDAY—"Carmen," Metropolitan Opera House, 2 P. M.
Young People's Concert, Carnegie Hall, 2:30 P. M.
"Romeo et Juliette," Metropolitan Opera House, 8 P. M.

THE WEEK AT THE OPERA.

The programme for the week at the Metropolitan Opera House is as follows: Monday, "Don Pasquale," Mme. Sembrich, Signor Scotti, Signor Pini-Corsi, and Mr. Saõgnac, followed by "Cavalleria Rusticana," Mme. Calvé, Mme. Mantelli, Signor Campanari, and Mr. Dippel; Wednesday, "Le Prophete," Mme. Schumann-Heink, Miss Suzanne Adams, M. Alvarez, M. Plançon; Friday, "Tannhäuser," Mmes. Nordica and Gadski, Messrs. van Dyck, van Rooy, and Plançon; Saturday, "Carmen" in the afternoon, with Mme. Calvé and M. Saleza in the leading roles, and "Romeo et Juliette" at night.

THE OPERA HOUSE EVENTS.

The programme for the Opera House concert to-night is as follows:

Overture, "Euryanthe".....Weber
"An Die Hoffnung".....Beethoven
Herr van Rooy.
Aria, "Sapho".....Gounod
Mme. Manteill.
"Lotta Del Bardi," "Tannhauser".....Wagner
Signor Scotti.
"Dich Theure Halle," "Tannhauser"...Wagner
Mme. Nordica.
Dream music from "Hansel and Gretel".....Humperdinck
"Valse Caprice".....Rubinstein
"Kaiser Variations" from Quartet in G..Haydn
"Entr'acte" from "Cricket on the Heath"...Goldmark
Prologue from "Pagliacci".....Leoncavallo
Signor Scotti.
Songs by Mme. Nordica.
"Der Wanderer".....Schubert
"Das Muhirad".....Erk
"Phyllis und die Mutter".....Reimann
Herr van Rooy.
"Noble Seigneur," "Les Huguenots".....Meyerbeer
Mme. Mantelli.
Waltz, "Beautiful Blue Danube".....Strauss

THE AMERICAN THEATRE.

"Iolanthe; or, The Peer and The Perl," in many ways the most meritorious of the operas produced by the collaboration of Sir Arthur Sullivan and W. S. Gilbert, will be sung by the Castle Square Opera Company at the American Theatre next week. Theatregoers are certain to hail with delight the opportunity to hear again the dainty, melodious, and artistic music of this operetta, and to revel in the polished wit and refined humor of this playful satire upon the House of Lords and the English Chancery laws. No light opera in the répertoire of the company has been given with greater artistic results, and next week's cast is a guarantee that the standard established by previous productions of the work will be maintained. The cast has been arranged as follows: The Lord Chancellor, Frank Moulan; Earl of Mountararat, Rhys Thomas; Earl of Tolloller, Reginald Roberts; Strephon, William G. Stewart; Private Willis, Louis Casavant; train bearer, Charles Meyers; Queen of Fairies, Bessie Tannehill; Iolanthe, Gertrude Quinlan; Phyllis, D. Eloise Morgan; Leila, Belle D'Arcy; Celia, Maude Lambert; Fleta, M. Zabelle. The new scenic equipment will display an idyllic woodland and an absolutely correct reproduction of the approaches to the House of Lords and Westminster Hall with the historic "Big Ben" brilliantly illuminated. "Iolanthe" will be followed by Flotow's ever popular "Martha." Then will be heard for the first time in this city Spinelli's great lyric tragedy, "At the Lower Harbour" ("A Basso Porto,") and "Fortunio's Song; or, The Magic Melody," an operetta by Offenbach.

MUSIC FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

The second symphony concert for young people, under the direction of Mr. Frank Damrosch, will be given in Carnegie Hall on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 13, at 2 o'clock. The special feature of these concerts is the short explanation illustrated by orchestral selections which precedes each number. The programme:

Symphony, G major, (Militaire).....Haydn
Melodie.....Rubinstein
Berceuse.....Aimeff
Vito.....Popper
Serenade, (strings, organ, and piano).Saint-Saens
Invitation to the Dance.....Weber-Berlioz

NOTES OF MUSIC.

The Pittsburg Orchestra, founded by the Art Society, was organized in the Fall of 1895, following the dedication of Carnegie Institute. Mr. Carnegie's gift for education of a noble building that should contain a music hall was the incentive that brought the orchestra into life. Though existing in sympathetic alliance with the great work emanating from Carnegie Institute the orchestra is independent of it. For three seasons but ten sets of evening and afternoon concerts were given during twelve weeks by an orchestra of fifty, and during this time the measure of public support was trebled; the fourth season, also of twelve weeks, marked an increase of players to seventy. The present is the fifth season, the players are under contract for twenty weeks, and during that time eighteen evening and eighteen afternoon concerts will have been given in Carnegie Music Hall, Pittsburg. The evening audiences crowd the hall, nearly all the 2,000 seats being sold for the season, while the afternoon concerts are well attended. The expenses of the orchestra are guaranteed by a group of public-spirited men, to whom is due the earnest position in music the City of Pittsburg holds to-day. The conductor of the orchestra is Victor Herbert. The programme of the first concert in this city, at Carnegie Hall on Jan. 23, is as follows:

Overture, "Carnaval Romain".....Berlioz
Aria from "Castor and Pollux".....Rameau
Mme. Marie Brema.
Symphony No. 5, in E minor, Op. 64..
Tschaikowsky
Mephisto Waltz.....Liszt
Songs: "Traume," "Schmerzen".....Wagner
Mme. Marie Brema.
Vorspiel, "Die Meistersinger".....Wagner

Mrs. Granville Snelling announces a song recital for Monday afternoon, Jan. 22, at 3 o'clock, at Mendelssohn Hall. She will be assisted by Mr. Longy, first oboist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Marie Brema arrived from England on board the Lucania yesterday. She will sing in a series of concerts with the Boston Symphony Orchestra during this month, and will also be heard in opera at the Metropolitan Opera House in her special rôles. She will also be the soloist in the first New York concert of the Pittsburg Symphony Orchestra at Carnegie Hall, Jan. 23. During the month of February Mme. Brema will make a Western tour of concerts and song recitals, for which she has been engaged by the leading societies. The artist is under the management of Henry Wolfsohn during her present visit to this country.

Mr. Henry K. Hadley, who will make his formal New York début Jan. 16, at the Waldorf-Astoria, in the dual rôle of composer and conductor, is an American and was born at Somerville, Mass., in 1871. His father, a well-known musician, recognizing his son's talent for composition, placed him when quite young under the best masters. He studied harmony with Stephen Emery, counterpoint with George W. Chadwick, and the violin with Henry Heindl and Charles Allen of Boston. In 1894 Mr. Hadley went to Europe and studied composition with Mandyczewski in Vienna. In 1896 he returned to take charge of the music in St. Paul's School, at Garden City, which position he still retains. He has had experience as a conductor both in Boston and abroad. Mr. Hadley's compositions are already numerous, and are conspicuous for their symmetry of form, wealth of invention, and harmonic beauty. Besides upward of a hundred songs, vocal part writing, and piano compositions, he has written choral and orchestral works, which include three ballet suites, a concert overture, and two symphonies. Two movements of the second symphony, "The Four Seasons" will be given for the first time at his approaching concert.

Arrangements are progressing for a gala concert to be given on Tuesday evening, Feb. 6, at Carnegie Hall, in aid of the Dewey Arch Fund. This concert will be one of the principal events of the season, not only by reason of the great artists who have kindly volunteered their services, but in view of its excellent purpose. The entire proceeds of the concert will be given to the Dewey Arch Fund, and the following distinguished artists have kindly volunteered their services: Mme. Nordica and M. Edouard de Reszke, M. Fetschnikoff and Mme. Gadski. Also a grand chorus from the Oratorio Society and Grand Orchestra. The concert will be conducted by Walter Damrosch and Emil Paur, and will consist of: Part I., "The Manzoni Te Deum," composed by Walter Damrosch in honor of the victory at Manila, and Part II., solos and orchestral numbers by the above-mentioned artists. The concert will be given under the auspices of the Dewey Arch Fund Committee, and invitations will be sent out to the leading society women in New York to act as patronesses. Admiral and Mrs. Dewey and Gov. and Mrs. Roosevelt will honor the occasion by their presence, Admiral and Mrs. Dewey coming expressly from Washington for this concert, and Gov. and Mrs. Roosevelt coming to New York expressly for the same purpose. As the boxes and seats will be put by the committee at a high price, it is expected that a large sum, and certainly not les than $10,000, will be realized for the arch fund.

CALVE AS MARGUERITE.

Did She Read "Evelyn Innes" or Did Moore See Her?

The Philadelphia Press suggests that Mme. Calvé may have read in Moore's "Evelyn Innes" the account of Margaret's new stage business. Here it is:

"Like every other Marguerite, her Prayer Book was in her hand when she first met Faust, but she dropped it as she saw him, and while she shyly and sweetly sang that she was neither a lady nor a beauty, she stooped and with some embarrassment picked up the book. She passed on, and did not stop to utter a mechanical cry when she saw Mephistopheles and then run away. She hesitated a moment; Mephistopheles was not in sight, but Faust was just behind her, and over the face of Margaret flashed the thought: 'What a charming—what a lovely young man! I think I'll stop a little longer, and possibly he'll say something more. But no—after all—perhaps I'd better not,' and, with a little sigh of regret, she turned and went, at first quietly and then more quickly, as though fearful of being tempted to change her mind.

"In the garden scene she sang the first bars of the music absent-mindedly, dusting and folding her little cape, stopping when it was only half folded to stand forgetful a moment, her eyes far off, gazing back into the preceding act. Awaking with a little start, she went to her spinning wheel, and with her back to the audience arranged the spindle and flax. Then stopping in her work and standing in thought, she half hummed, half sang the song 'Le Roi de Thule.' Not till she had nearly finished did she sit down and spin, and then only for a moment, as though too restless and disturbed for work that afternoon.

"And after her brother had cursed Margaret, when he falls back dead, Miss Innes retreats, getting away from the body, half mad, half afraid. She did not rush immediately to him, as has been the operatic custom, kneel down, and, with one arm leaning heavily on Valentine's stomach, look up in the flies. Miss Innes, after backing far away from him, slowly returned, as if impelled to do so against her will, and, standing over the body, looked at it with curiosity, repulsion, terror; and then she burst into a whispered laugh, which communicated a feeling of real horror to the audience."

And now this Marguerite has changed some of this stage business, and has, at the end of the garden scene, introduced a new bit in keeping with certain prevalent fashions of the contemporaneous stage.

A NEW LYRIC PLAY IN PARIS.

Production of a New Musical Work by Edmond Missa.

"L'Hôte," the three-act "lyrical play" which the Théâtre de la Renaissance lately produced, has been heard before at Lyons, which is sometimes ahead of the capital in musical matters, but the work in its present form is a novelty in Paris. The scenario of the book and the chief musical ideas on which the score is built have been already made use of, some years ago, in a pantomime bearing the same title with orchestral accompaniment by M. Edmond Missa. M. Michel Carré has now provided verse dialogue, while the composer, besides adding vocal parts for nine characters, has largely developed his original score. "L'Hôte" as a lyrical play is practically therefore a new work as far as Parisians are concerned. The leading idea followed by the composer in the present score is not far to seek. The work is in very many respects a typical specimen of the modern French "music drama," of which M. Alfred Bruneau has produced, perhaps, the most characteristic examples in "L'Attaque du Moulin." The school of music drama in question is undoubtedly derived from Wagner, and would certainly have never been heard of had "Tristan" remained unwritten. But, on the other hand, it is safe to say that Wagner would have, in a great measure, disowned the priciples of composition on which this style of opera rests. The 'let motiv' method in the music drama of the modern French school is, if not discarded, at least relegated to a subservient place.

The leading idea in this style of composition is not so much the delineation of character and sentiment in music as the picturing of situations. The score of the opera, both vocal and orchestral, thus consists, as it were, in a musical commentary on the story of the play, and the work as a whole is conceived purely with a view to external dramatic effect, and for the sole purpose of expressing situations in music. Of course, Wagner's influence has, to a great extent, developed this instinct of the dramatic in the modern French school, as it is also largely noticeable in the choice of harmonies employed. The fact remains, however, that the music-drama of this school is not essentially Wagnerian. The above style of composition is adhered to in "L'Hôte." The story of the opera holds in a few dramatic situations. L'Hôte is the guest of a patriotic old soldier in Alsace.

He gives himself out to be a botanist on a walking tour through the countryside to gather rare flowers, and he seems a dreamy and poetic youth. He soon wins the old soldier's confidence and the heart of Rozel, the latter's daughter. At a village fête the betrothal is announced. But not a villager present will drink the fiancé's health. He is suspected to be a spy. Rozel's father refuses indignantly to believe the charge. But proofs are found and are shown to him of his future son-in-law's treachery. Rozel, heartbroken, helps her guilty lover to escape, when her father, as he sees the man fly, shoots him down. "Father, you did right!" cries the Alsatian girl. What may be called M. Missa's musical commentary to this story is well suited to its purpose. The score, both in the vocal parts and in the accompaniment, follows each situation closely and continuously, and often expresses them very happily. The dialogue is effectively dramatic and characteristic, and is well supported by a skillfully written orchestral score, which does not lack originality. The work contains some unconnected "morceaux" which are not woven into the general texture of the composition, and would doubtless be described by the new French school as old-fashioned.

MUSICAL MATTERS AT HOME

Prof. Benjamin Guckenberger of Birmingham, Ala., went to Cincinnati last week for the purpose of negotiating with thirty-five members of the Symphony Orchestra of that city to play under his baton at the May festival. The Festival Association has a proposition from the Boston Festival Orchestra, and when Mr. Guckenberger returns from Cincinnati it will have a definite proposition from him as to the orchestral force and the soloists. Should the association decide to close with the Boston organization, among the brilliant virtuoso attractions would be de Pachmann, the Russian pianist. There would be many singers besides. Should the Cincinnati contingent be engaged, instead of the Boston Festival Orchestra, several great vocal stars would be included in the contract. In either event—Boston Festival Orchestra or Guckenberger-Cincinnati combination—Mr. Guckenberger will be the musical director of the May Festival.

***

The programme of the ninth concert of the Pittsburg Orchestra yesterday was as follows: Haydn's E major symphony, Rubinstein's D minor piano concerto, Saint-Saëns's "Danse Macabre," two piano solos, and Svendsen's "Carnival in Paris." Mark Hambourg was the soloist.

***

The Welsh Eisteddfod in Cincinnati last week was a great success. There were many spirited competitions, and the excellence of the choral singing was up to the best traditions of the Welsh.

***

H. W. Parker's "Northern Ballad" was produced last Saturday by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Philip Hale wrote in The Boston Journal: "Mr. Parker's 'Northern Ballad' was first played, I believe, April 17, 1899, by the New Haven Symphony Orchestra, of which he is conductor; or was the Festival of the Hampden County Musical Association, at which it was played, before that date? I do not know. At any rate the work was finished and performed last Spring. I was disappointed in the ballad, for I recognize in Mr. Parker a man who is more than a professor, even at Yale; I recognize in him a musician of uncommon technical facility, one that has triumphed on the battlefield of oratorio, one that in his 'Cahal Mor' has shown high and splendid imagination. There are ample evidences of technical fluency in this ballad; there are interesting passages; but the work as a whole is not authoritative. One reason for this is that the music is reminiscent. Now, do not misunderstand me; I do not hint at plagiarism; and, as some Englishman said lately, 'I don't mind if a man steals, provided he makes good use of his plunder.' Mr. Parker suggests the moods of other composers. There is not enough of his own voice—and there are 'ancestral voices prophesying war' and other things. For instance, the mood of the opening measures of the ballad is singularly like the mood of the opening measures of Tschaikowsky's symphonic poem, or fantasie overture, 'Romeo and Juliet'; it is reminiscent in many particulars. Further on I am reminded of the Dvorák of the 'American' or the Krehbielian period, rhythmically, harmonically, orchestrally; the same mood is in passages of Dvorak's 'American' symphony. The mood of the finale is that of the mood of Gounod's 'Faust,' and there is one ascending passage that is a striking bit of 'gounodage,' as Gautier-Villars puts it."

***

The statement, accepted here from a London paper, that Jeanne Rannay, who triumphed in a recent Parisian revival of "Iphigenie in Tauride," had been hitherto unknown, is thus corrected by the Boston Journal: "She was one of the leading sopranos at the Monnaie in 1896-7, where she created the chief soprano part in d'Indy's 'Fervaal' (March 12, 1897). She sang the same part with great success when 'Fervaal' was first given in Paris at the Opéra Comique, May 10, 1898. She also sang at Colonne and Lamoureux concerts in Paris in 1898-9." Bless Heaven for the Boston Public Library!

MUSICAL MATTERS ABROAD

Mr. Edward Lloyd has, for the past twenty years or more, been so familiar a figure at the London Ballad Concerts that it seemed difficult to realize that at the final performance before Christmas at Queen's Hall, he was making his last appearance at those entertainments. It may fairly be said that more than half of the most successful tenor songs of the present day have been introduced by the great English vocalist at the Ballad Concerts. Early in the new year, however, he starts upon his farewell tour of the provinces, and before the Ballad Concerts are resumed next Winter he will have made his final bow to the public. On Saturday Mr. Lloyd was in his best voice, and he sang some of his most popular songs, the audience, of course, giving him a most enthusiastic reception. Starting with "Lend Me Your Aid," one of the few numebrs which now survive of Farnie's concert version of Gounod's opera, "La Reine de Saba," and for which an encore was declined, Mr. Lloyd next sang Mr. Cowen's "When the World is Fair," and, being vociferously applauded, he gave another old favorite, the late Frederick Clay's "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby." Lastly he sang "The Star of Bethlehem," by "Stephen-Adams" Maybrick; while in response to an encore he repeated the last verse, and, as the public continued their applause, he again came forward and gave Balfe's "Then You'll Remember Me." Mr. Lloyd will, beyond question, be much missed at the Ballad Concerts. Mr. Lloyd has been heard in New York, where his beautiful voice and admirable method met with immediate recognition from both press and public.

***

Herr Siegfried Wagner, who is now, or has recently been, in Vienna with his mother, Frau Cosima, has quite won the hearts of the Austrians by a generous act. The royalties on his opera, "Der Bärenhäuter," down to date amount to nearly £500, and he has presented that sum to the pension fund of the orchestra. Dr. Richter has returned to Vienna, where he is very much wanted. He will remain there some time, engaged upon his duties at the Imperial Opera, though he hopes to return to England to conduct the Manchester Concerts in the course of February.

***

The Incorporated Society of Musicians of London has appointed a committee, including Dr. Prout and Mr. Cummings, to take steps to pass a law for the registration of musicians. The advantages and difficulties of such a scheme have already been well discussed, but the Incorporated Society is a representative body, and its views will doubtless have full weight. The musicians have indeed more than once endeavored to enlist the sympathy of the Government of the day with a scheme which is primarily intended to discriminate between the qualified teacher and the impostor. The proposal which seems to find most favor is that the qualified man shall be registered, and he alone shall be permitted to sue for his fees. This world, it is thought, overcome the difficulty of the nursery governess, who, although not perhaps qualified as a professional musician, is perfectly competent to teach the children the elements of music.

***

The recent death of M. Charles Lamoureux, the noted Parisian conductor, was a serious loss to musical art. He was born at Bordeaux, and entered the Paris Conservatoire in 1850, where, four years later, he obtained a first prize for the violin. After playing that instrument in several Paris theatres, he, in 1873, founded a musical society for the propagation in France of a taste for the great German masters. He, however, became chef d'orchestre at the Opéra Comique, and then at the Opéra in 1877, but he resigned this latter post only a year later, with the object of devoting all his energies to his concerts. He distributed his favors, it is true, unequally between the French Symphony School and the works of Wagner, of whom he became the veritable apostle in France. There is not a single work of the Baireuth master which was not played at his concerts over and over again. Not content with this, he determined to realize in Paris the perfect theatrical performance of Wagner's works. Not only the musical world, but the general public, well remember his first attempt, in 1887, when he produced "Lohengrin" at the Eden Theatre. It proved an utter failure, of course, not on account of the value of the work, but in consequence of misunderstood patriotism. Outside the theatre the rioting was so serious that strong police forces had to be employed to restore order, and it was feared that it might entail a serious diplomatic incident between the French and German Governments. M. Lamoureux's determination to make his fellow-countrymen acquainted with Wagner's works was not, however, to be thwarted. He continued playing them at his concerts, and for several years past the chief masterpieces have been constantly performed at the Grand Opéra. The series of performances of "Tristan und Isolde," which was brought to a close recently, may be regarded as M. Lamoureux's greatest triumph.

***

It is beginning to be realized in English musical circles that the war will have a disastrous effect on the giving of concerts and on the Covent Garden opera season. Until now, except here and there in the provinces, where a few local choral societies have announced that they will not give their usual performances, the effect has not been very noticeable. That is easily explained by the fact that before the tide of war turned so strongly against England most of the ante-Christmas concerts had already taken place. But now concert managers and artists look forward to the coming musical season, which will begin in the middle of this month and will continue, with a break at Easter, until the middle of July, with feelings of dismay.

***

A correspondent in Piccolo, a Trieste paper, states that, in spite of Verdi's denials, he is actually putting the finishing touches to a new work, and that it will certainly be produced at La Scala during the Carnival of 1901. Verdi is said to be at Busseto, and sending frequently for Boito, Giulio Ricordi, and even Tito Ricordi.

***

Mozart's "Magic Flute" was performed by the students of the Royal Academy of Music in London a few days ago, whereupon Truth became thus reminiscent: "Five-and-twenty to thirty years ago "The Magic Flute" was a great card to play at the old Her Majesty's Opera, where Titiens sang Pamina—although even her genius could not make a dramatic character of the rôle—Ilma di Murska was the Queen of the Night, Mme. Sinico (happily still living and represented on the stage by a clever daughter) was the Papagena, Santley the Papageno, and Foli the Sarastro, while some even of the big guns of the operatic troupe were not ashamed to take the smaller parts, such as the three maids of the Queen and the three geni. Not even they, however, could make Schickaneder's libretto otherwise than ridiculous, from the point when that absurd creature Tamino enters pursued by a sand-bag serpent—though why the reptile should attack him has never been explained—to the moment when, amid a profusion of red fire and gauze to represent a waterfall, he and his buxom bride were supposed to go through flame and water to mundane perfection. To excuse the libretto as an allegory, typical of Free Masonry, is equally absurd; for if Masonic lodges really were peopled by such charming creatures as the ladies of the Queen, and were employed (as Tamino and the Birdcatcher use them) for the purpose of securing eligible sweethearts, the Craft would be even still more unpopular with married ladies than it is now."

***

The Chevalier Antoine de Kontski, whose death, at the advanced age of eighty-two, is announced from his native Cracow, was, five-and-twenty years since, a well-known figure in London musical life. Indeed, some of his fashionable pianoforte pieces, and particularly the still recollected "Reveil du Lion," and the "Souvenir de Biarritz," were at one time played in every drawing and school room. De Kontski was a merely superficial musician, but he was an excellent pianist of the brilliant school of which Thalberg was the principal exponent. He was particularly noted for the delicacy of his touch and the refinement of his playing. Born in 1817, he was a pupil at Warsaw of Markendorf; and at Moscow, in 1830, of "Russian" Field. He lived for some years in Paris, and afterwards at Berlin (where he was Prussian Court pianist) and at St. Petersburg. About thirty years ago he settled in London, where he resided for many years, until, at the age of nearly seventy, he emigrated to Buffalo, N. Y. From there he went on several tours in the Far East, being, it is said, the first pianist to give recitals in China and Japan. Even down to a couple of years ago, when he was eighty years of age, he was still touring, and was certainly in the love of his profession. He played in New York a dozen years ago, and was much praised for his smooth technique.

***

The London Daily News says of the first Richter concert: "The Autumn performances, under the direction of Herr Hans Richter, are now given at the Queen's Hall, and the first of those for the present season took place yesterday evening. Not since the memorable Wagner festival at the Albert Hall, in 1877, has the gifted Viennese conductor failed to visit this country once or twice a year, and he invariably receives a hearty welcome. The standard of excellence as regards the general performances in England has been greatly raised within the present generation, and much of the improvement is doubtless due to the magnetic influence of Herr Richter. Another reason for the continued support accorded to these concerts is the commendable brevity of the programmes, for the audiences are not sent away exhausted by too much high-class music, but with a feeling of desire for more at the next concert. Last night's scheme consisted of but four items, but these were all masterpieces in their way. At the head was placed Wagner's Vorspiel to "Die Meistersinger," which Herr Richter has made his own in a special sense. The glorious work served to open his first regular season at St. James's Hall in 1879, and it is well known now that he occupied more than an hour at the first rehearsal in order to impress the orchestra with his ideas as to the manner in which the Baireuth master's ideas could be interpreted. He succeeded, and last night's performance was, perhaps, one of the finest ever heard. The symphony was Tschaikowsky's "Pathétique," of which it would seem the public will never easily tire. Never before, in the history of music has an orchestral work of such large dimensions gained such immediate appreciation, and last night's performance was superlatively fine; indeed, perhaps the best yet given in London.

Vibrations in Middle A.

From the Athenaeum.

From about the time of the Vienna Congress of 1815 dates the commencement of the rise of pitch throughout Europe, the cause from time to time of serious discussion, and also of, in some cases, definite action. In England the Philharmonic pitch for middle A, in double or complete vibrations per second, was in 1813, 423.3; in 1828, 433.2, and in 1854, 452.5. In 1858 the famous French commission decided that A should equal 435, and four years ago the Philharmonic Society decided to adopt that pitch, known as the "French Diapason Normal."

Questions of Pitch.

From the Athenaeum.

The higher the pitch the greater the brilliancy of tone, would seem to be the chief argument of those who are opposed to the movement for reduction. Some, again, are influenced by the practical difficulties connected with any change, notably the expense with regard to the instruments of military bands. And then, of course, there is the natural English dislike to sudden change. The raising of pitch

Some Happenings in Good Society.

Congratulations may be extended this week on the anniversaries of their weddings to—

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. S. Lewis, (Miss Alice Stewart Walker,) Jan. 7, 1890.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Watson, (Miss Eliza Watson,) Jan. 12, 1897.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Myer Greer, (Miss Whiteley,) Jan. 14, 1897.

Count Rechid-Czaykowski and Countess Rechid-Czaykowski, (Miss Edith Lyman Collins,) Jan. 14, 1897.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitney McVickar, (Miss Maude Robbins,) Jan. 10, 1891.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Perkins, (Miss Eliza M. Seymour,) their silver wedding, Jan. 13, 1875.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Barbey, (Miss Mary Lorillard,) Jan. 12, 1865.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wells, (Miss Sarah Remsen Schuchardt,) Jan. 14, 1864.

***

The Winter season may now be said to be in full swing, and although New Year's week, which closed last night, was not nearly so gay as its predecessor last year, there was a good deal going on, and what the week lacked in large and notable entertainments it made up in the number of its small affairs. There was not a morning without a luncheon, an afternoon without several receptions and days at home, and an evening without a dance, even if this was simply the meeting of a dancing class, while dinners and theatre parties were of constant occurrence. The present week has two notable private dances on its calendar—those to be given by Mrs. John R. Drexel at Sherry's to-morrow night and by Mrs. Whitelaw Reid at her Madison Avenue residence on Friday evening. Both these dances are for maidens who are just making their début. Mrs. Drexel is to honor in this way Miss Ellen Drexel Paul of Philadelphia, the most prominent débutante of the season in the Quaker City, and Mrs. Reid, Miss Crocker of California. Miss Gurnee, a maiden aunt of the Misses Bell, Lucy, and Mary Gurnee, daughters of Mr. Walter S. Gurnee, Jr., and whose mother was Miss Bell Barney, will give a dance for her nieces and her nephew, Mr. Walter Gurnee 3d, at the Metropolitan Annex on Tuesday evening.

***

One would have hardly called the past week gay, although there were so many affairs going on. The majority of these, however, were dances, in which the younger people took part. There were several cotillions, but according to the fashion of the day they were as different from the graceful and picturesque form of dancing which was in vogue for so many years as night is from day. There is a very serious question agitated just now apropos of the leading and dancing of cotillions. The younger set do not care for the figures and still less for the favors. The couples will insist on dancing out of their turn, which makes it very awkward for the leader. Some time ago Mr. Alexander Hadden was criticised rather severely for trying to keep up the form and spirit of the dance and insisting upon the couples taking their turns in rotation. There is an element which seems to put the efforts of the cotillion leader to defiance. At the last junior cotillion it was noticed that many couples danced out of their turn and the "cotillion" was one only in name.

***

Speaking of this second junior cotillion, it was certainly a very successful dance. There were a number of very handsome débutantes, charmingly gowned. One of the most noticeable was Miss Ethel Post, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Post, who wore a frock of green satin, over which there was a gown of lace. The bodice was effectively trimmed with white ribbons. Miss Mathilde Van Rensselaer was in blue and gray, and she received perhaps more attention than any other young woman in the room. Miss "Pinkie" Barnes wore blue, Miss Edith Clark red, and the fair débutante, Miss Crocker, who danced with Mr. Phoenix Ingraham, the leader, was in white. Mrs. Arthur Dodge presided at the favor table. These favors were little silk flags, jeweled orders, and garlands of flowers.

***

The opera during the past week has been very brilliant. It was quite a contrast from Christmas evening to find on New Year's night that every box in the parterre and grand tier were filled. As usual the gowns were of neutral tints, but the display of jewels was magnificent. Mrs. Astor has been present at every performance. On Monday evening she had Mrs. Orme Wilson with her, and on Wednesday some of the Schermerhorns. Mrs. George de Forest has worn a succession of very beautiful gowns. Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Jr., was one of the most beautiful women present on Wednesday, and Mrs. George Gould again appeared in one of her Paris dresses, and with a display of pearls and brilliants which seemed almost barbaric. Mrs. A. D. Juilliard wore her beautiful pearls on Monday evening. Her collection is said to be one of the most valuable in this city. Pearls are now the reigning fashion, and for evening are worn much more frequently than diamonds.

***

Friday, properly the last evening of the week, was one on which there were many dances. The majority of these were the meetings of the different classes. The younger set held its second dance at the Metropolitan Club. The Thursday Evening Club meeting was devoted to experiments in wireless telegraphy.

***

The meetings of the dancing classes have become merely repetitions, and have ceased to be of general interest. The Third Fortnightly will take place at the Astoria on Tuesday evening. One of the three Cinderella series of dances will be held at Dodworth's under the chaperonage of Mrs. Van Brunt on Thursday evening; Mrs. Pratt's afternoon class will meet for the sixth time at Sherry's on Friday afternoon; Mrs. Church's class will hold its third meeting at the same place on Friday evening, and the third De Coverly will be danced at Sherry's on Saturday evening. Mrs. Adolphe de Bary will give a dance at Sherry's on Thursday evening for her young daughters, the Misses Leonie and Anita de Bary. These will be the principal dancing events of the week, in addition to the Drexel, Reid, and Gurnee dances mentioned above.

***

The past week brought the first of a series of informal Tuesday evening musicales at Miss De Forest and Miss Callender's apartment, which are this Winter to take the place of the two elaborate affairs which these hostesses have given in previous seasons. The names of the artists who sang and played for Miss Callender and Miss De Forest's guests on Tuesday evening last were variously printed in various newspapers. They really were Mrs. Seabury Hall and not Mrs. "Stuberg" Hall, as was published; Mr. Emilio Gorgorza, and Mr. David Mannes, who was variously announced as Mr. David "Manners," "Manney," &c. It seems a poor compliment to artists of note and reputation that their names should be thus mangled in the press, and it is a pity that the musical conductor of these and other entertainments does not see that the names of the artists employed are correctly given. Miss Callender and Miss De Forest entertained some 75 to 100 guests on Tuesday and will have music on succeeding Tuesday evenings during the next few weeks.

***

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's second child, William Vanderbilt Whitney, so named after Mr. William K. Vanderbilt, was christened at the Whitney residence on Wednesday evening last. The Rev. Dr. David Greer performed the ceremony. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., was godmother, and Mr. Alfred Vanderbilt was the godfather. Mr. and Mrs. Whitney left on Friday for a trip to Tennessee. They will probably stop at Biltmore on their return. Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt are touring in the South. The Vanderbilts have suffered a new bereavement in the death of Mr. David Gwynne, a brother of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., which occurred on Tuesday last in London.

***

The Prince de Croy, who was at Newport last Summer and in Philadelphia last Autumn, is now a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer in Chicago. The Potter Palmers gave last week a floral cotillion in honor of their guest and of their sons, Honoré and Potter Palmer, Jr. The entertainment was one of the most notable Chicago has ever witnessed. The ball opened with two quadrilles, arranged by Mrs. Arthur Caton and Mrs. Hobart Chatfield Taylor. Mrs. Caton's quadrille represented forget-me-nots, and the women who danced therein wore gowns of blue profusely trimmed with these flowers. Mrs. Chatfield Taylor's quadrille was the white rose. After supper there was a cotillion led from the two ends by Mr. Adrian C. Honoré and Mr. Honoré Palmer. All the favors were floral, and the evening ended in a battle of flowers.

***

In the reading of the late Mrs. Walden Pell's will the name of the Panon family was omitted. New Yorkers will remember Marius Panon, the adopted son of Mrs. Pell's sister, who for some years had an art shop on Broadway, and who disappeared from view about three years ago. At one time it was thought young Panon would be one of Mrs. Walden Pell's heirs, but he contracted a marriage which displeased her, and he was disinherited.

***

Among the prisoners captured by the Boers is Capt. Fitz Herbert, who will be remembered by a large circle of friends in New York. Capt. Fitz Herbert is a non-resident member of the Calumet Club, and left New York at the beginning of the South African war to join his regiment. Mrs. Robert Chapin has just returned from the Transvaal, and is now in London. Mrs. Chapin is much interested in the Red Cross nurses, and has had a great many kind things said of her and her work by the English press. Mrs. Chapin is very well known in New York society.

***

The weddings of the week were those of Mr. Wendell Baker and Miss Jeanne Held on New Year's Day, of Mr. Charles Edward Manierre and Miss Elizabeth Hunt Welling on Wednesday, Mr. Clarence Phelps Dodge and Miss Lunt, which was celebrated at Colorado Springs on Monday. Mr. Louis Ogden and Miss Augusta McKim Davies will be married, in St. Bartholomew's Church, on April 25. The wedding of the week that brought the greatest surprise was that of Mr. W. J. Hurst, for so many years Treasurer of the New York Yacht Club, and whose first wife was Miss Jaffray, and Mrs. Alice Gilbert Maxwell, widow of Edward Maxwell and a sister-in-law of Mrs. Rogers Maxwell. This wedding took place very quietly, in Grace Church chantry, on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Hurst will spend the Winter in Bermuda. It appears that Mr. J. W. Brown is engaged to Miss Rebecca Patterson Cooper of Shrewsbury, N. J., and not Miss Emily Cooper, as has been announced. The engagement is announced of Dr. Catherwood, brother of Mrs. Ernest C. La Montagne, and Miss Maude Fiske, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Fiske. The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Le Roy Satterlee and Mr. Wells Catlin Waring, which was celebrated on Dec. 17 last, was announced only on Thursday morning last.

***

Mr. Harold Arthur Sanderson, who married Miss Maud Blood, a sister of the late Mrs. Cornelius Lee, has become the resident member of the firm of Ismay, Imrie & Co., managers of the White Star Line in this city. Mr. Sanderson is a member of the Larchmont and New York Yacht Clubs and of the Union Club.

***

Word comes from New Orleans that Dr. William May and Mrs. May, formerly Miss Amy Draper of this city, are spending the Winter there, and have taken a house in the French quarter. This is, indeed, a departure for Dr. May and his wife, who are so closely associated with Washington's Winter social life. Capt. Rafferty, who married Miss Kilpatrick, a daughter of the late Col. Judson Kilpatrick, is now stationed at New Orleans, and has lately been joined there by his wife and family.

***

Mrs. Albert Barnes Boardman gave Wednesday at her residence, 40 West Fifty-third Street, a luncheon for her daughter, Miss Cecil Boardman. The guests were other young débutantes, all of whom, with the exception of Miss Lottie Miller, who came out some time ago, and of Miss Fashir, who is not to come out until next season, have made their début this Winter. The table decorations were in green, many ferns being used. Miss Boardman was gowned in a pale gray cloth gown, heavily stitched, and Mrs. Boardman was in a costume of black cloth. The guests were the Misses Katherine McClure, Mildred C. Dix, Evelyn Parsons, Helen Dominick, Emily Grugan, Mary Crimmins, Dorothy Edwards, Elsie Ladd, Caterihl Fachiri, Jean Brown, Lottie Miller, Lena Fanshawe, Emily Trowbridge, and Hilda Tiffany.

***

A private concert by the Rubinstein Club was given last Thursday evening at the Waldorf-Astoria. This concert opened the thirteenth season of the club, which is composed of about eighty women, and is under the direction of William R. Chapman. The soloists at the concert were Mr. E. Ellsworth Giles, tenor; Mr. Richard Burmeister, pianist, and Miss Blanche Duffield, soprano. The club sang Czibulka's "Moonrise," (Gavotte Stephanie,) as arranged by Charles Tonteyn Manney; "Oft in the Stilly Night," as arranged by A. W. Lansing; Rees's "The Nightingale" H. Lane Wilson's "Carmena," as arranged by Albert Mildenberg; R. Becker's "Song of the Winds," Hiller's "Evening in the Vale," and Rees's "Oh, Tell It Her." Among the women in the boxes with their escorts were Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, Mrs. Robert Disbrow, Mrs. Joseph F. Knapp, Mrs. Gilbert Jones, Mrs. J. Parker Whitney of Washington, Mrs. Jacob Berry, Mrs. Charles H. Dilson, Mrs. H. F. Dimock, Mrs. S. Carman Harriott, and Mrs. Alvin D. Slaybeck. Among the men in the audience were Mr. William Shakespeare of London and D. Willis James, F. W. Devoe, J. Seaver Page, William H. Porter, George A. Meyer, and J. M. Freese.

***

The week abroad has not been very gay. There was a reaction in England from the gloom of the week before. Charitable entertainments for the benefit of the hospital and orphan funds and war matters generally have the ascendant. Mrs. Arthur Paget is progressing famously with her tableaus, and it is decided that both the Duchess of Marlborough and Lady Essex will appear. The Duke of Marlborough is said to be going to South Africa, but the matter has not been settled. The Duchess has been passing the fortnight quietly at Blenheim, where there were family parties on Christmas and on New Year's. Miss Van Wart's party at Ditton Castle came to an end the day after New Year's.

***

Mrs. Cavendish Bentinck has been entertaining at small luncheons, and the name of Heber Bishop appears occasionally in the list of hosts who are trying to make the Winter endurable in England. There will be quite a number of people going to the Riviera and to Cairo, and before February England will be almost deserted.

***

The Tir aux Pigeons has begun at Monte Carlo. Eugene Higgins has been there recently and is cruising in his yacht along the coast. Mrs. George Law, at last reports, was in Paris, and she has not opened her villa near Monaco as yet. Mrs. Hughes Hallett has taken a party from Dinard to Algeria, where they will pass the Winter. Cannes remains dull, and Pau is absorbed in fox hunting. Nice still is quiet, and there are very few American visitors there for the season

***

At the second of the Thursday evening musicales, held last week at the residence of Mrs. Cowles, in West Seventy-second Street, there was a large attendance of members and invited guests. This club, in addition to its own talent, always secures the services of some professionals. The following programme was rendered last Thursday evening: Trio, Allegro Scherzando, (Gade.) Barcarole, (Gounod,) Rondo, (Haydn,) the Misses Otten; songs, "Death and the Girl," "The Wanderer," (Schubert,) Mr. Meigs, accompanied by Miss Rockefeller; piano solo, Papillon, Au Printempe, (Greig.) Miss Marvin; songs, "Punchinello," (Molloy.) "The Swallows," (Cowen,) Miss Foote, accompanied by Miss Catharine Clark; violin solo, Romance, (Svendsen,) Perpetuum, (Ries,) Miss Anna Otten; song, "My Resting Place," (Schubert,) Mr. Meigs; piano solo, Hungarian Dances 5 and 7, (Brahms,) Mr. Wardwell, and violin solo, "Heije Kati," (Hubay,) Miss Anna Otten. Among the members present were the Misses Alta Rockefeller, Fanny Foote, Miss Catharine Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Meigs, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cowles, and the Messrs. Frederick Woodruff, Allen Wardwell, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Harden Crawford, and Albert R. Gallatin. The next meeting will be held on Feb. 8, and the fourth and last in March.

***

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gibert Thebaud will celebrate their tin wedding at their residence, 158 Madison Avenue, on Jan. 15. They have provided an interesting programme, and will have a band of ten pieces in attendance which will play on tin instruments. The dinner, which will be served later in the evening, will be eaten from tin dishes. Mrs. Thebaud was Miss Matilde Reynal, and was married to Mr. Thebaud on Jan. 15, 1890, at St. Francis Xavier's Church, in West Sixteenth Street.

***

The dance at the Metropolitan Club Annex on Friday night for young people not yet out was a great success. As told in these columns Saturday, it was a fancy paper-dress affair. A few of the girls wore over-dresses of paper, but the majority trimmed their gowns with garlands of paper flowers. Some wore red roses and others violets. White and yelow roses and other flowers were used in profusion. Each of the five hostesses selected a different color to be worn by her party of dinner guests. The cotillion at the dance was led by Mr. Stuyvesant Morris, and the favors were paper flowers. The patronesses, who are Mrs. Louis Q. Jones, Mrs. Pierpont Edwards, Mrs. Dallas B. Pratt, Mrs. Henry F. Morris, and Mrs. Frederic Gallatin, usually invite different young men to each dance and entertain their party of five young women and their escorts at dinner and then take them to the clubhouses in "buses." After the dance supper is served at small tables in the small restaurant of the club annex. Among the young girls who danced Thursday night were the Misses Eleanor Swayne, Helen Olyphant, May Gallatin, Dorothy Edwards, Julia Edwards, Pansy Roosevelt, Katherine G. Pratt, Frances C. Jones, Josephine Williams, Nellie W. Hard, Helen W. Stevens, Marie de Neufville, Mollie C. Lefferts, Edith Greenough, Jane Lewis, Alice de Goicouria, Cornelia Davis, Lena and Julia Fanshawe, Matilde Leverich, Amy Olyphant, Eleanor Morris, Helena Ely, Josephine Atterbury, and the Messrs. Reginald Willets, E. E. Tinker, Goelet Schroeder, and Russell Auchincloss. The next dance will be on Feb. 2.

***

Mrs. Albert Hendricks, who has won an enviable reputation for her musical compositions, has collaborated with Mr. Henry Rothchild, who has written the words in an operetta which is said to be very clever and amusing, and which will be produced very shortly. Mrs. Hendricks and Mr. Rothschild have contemplated this work for some time, but have had time only of late to arrange it. It is now some years since any notable operetta by amateurs has been written, and the production of this new work is eagerly anticipated in social and musical circles.

***

Mrs. Glover C. Arnold of 115 East Thirtieth Street gave a coming-out reception yesterday afternoon for her daughter, Miss Arnold. There assisted Mrs. Arnold and the débutante in receiving Mrs. H. T. Wright, Mrs. Thomas S. Grimke, the Misses Affie McVickar, Louise B. Man, Lillie H. Harper, Agnes Ripley, Amelia M. Radford, and the two younger sisters of the débutante. Mrs. Arnold wore a gown of black lace over pink satin, and Miss Arnold's costume was of white silk with silver spangles. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Another of yesterday's coming-out teas was that given by Mrs. Daniel J. O'Conor of 30 West Sixtieth Street for her daughter, Miss Frances O'Conor. The Misses Kathryn Sterns, Beatrice Roche, Helen M. Rogers, Elizabeth Farrelly, Lauretta Kennedy, Grace Ryder, Lillian M. Keller, Amy Burns, and Elizabeth Driscoll assisted Miss O'Conor in receiving.

***

Mrs. William B. Boulton of 13 East Thirty-fourth Street gave last evening a dinner and theatre party for her young daughter, Miss Anita Boulton. Two boxes were taken for "Sherlock Holmes." Among the young people were the Misses Helen W. Stevens, Mollie C. Lefferts, Nellie W. Hard, and Josephine Atterbury, and Messrs. Russell Auchincloss, S. C. Osborne Wheeler, Alexander Craighead, Harry Dillard of Philadelphia, and William Boulton, Jr.

***

Brokers and speculators were not the only losers by the recent great drop in stocks. The flurry in Wall Street, following the drop of 40 to 60 points in railroad stocks very seriously affected and has made petulant a number of society people, and they are well-nigh inconsolable through their practical realization of the fact that stocks are almost as fickle as young girls themselves. It is officially announced that about $200,000 worth of orders for intended Christmas and New Year's presents placed with a prominent jewelry house before the holidays were suddenly canceled on acount of losses sustained by well-known patrons of the place during the brief financial panic in Wall Street just preceding the festival season. Many wives, daughters, and sweethearts were woefully disappointed that they had to be made parties to the fluctuations of stocks.

***

It was rumored yesterday in Philadelphia, says The Times of that city, that Pierre Deschamps, the young Frenchman who has been spending several days in the city, is engaged to Miss Mary Gibson, who is living in Europe, where she is studying music. This is not the first matrimonial rumor concerning M. Deschamps. When he first appeared upon the scene, as a prominent figure at the Paul ball, it was said that he was the fiancée of Miss Harjes of Paris, though that was denied, and the later rumor could not be confirmed, because M. Deschamps departed for New York yesterday afternoon.

***

The engagement was announced in Philadelphia on Monday of Miss Gertrude Berwind to Lieut. Bocklin von Bocklinsau of Berlin. Miss Berwind is the daughter of Mrs. Charles F. Berwind, whose city residence is at 2010 Spruce Street, and whose country place is Minden, Wynnewood. She is a sister of Mrs. Robert E. Strawbridge and Mrs. Marck, the wife of Capt. Marck of the German Army, and a half sister of Mr. Edward J. Berwind of New York. Miss Berwind made her début into society last Fall. She was educated in Europe, and has spent most of her time for several years past on the other side. Lieut. Bocklinsau is in the Fourth Regiment, Gards du Corps, of Berlin. He met Miss Berwind while she was making a visit in Berlin last Spring.

***

The names of Mrs. Terry, Mr. Francisco Terry, and Mr. Terry, Jr., appeared on the list of the Lucania, but Mr. Francisco Terry and Mr. Terry, Jr., canceled their passage.

Other passengers arriving on the Lucania yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Stearns, Mr. A. S. Hay, Mr. Arthur Horsfall, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hurry, Mr. Hubert M. Hyde, Mr. Anthony Dey, and Mr. C. S. Drummond.

***

The Duchess of Marlborough seems to be much agitated concerning her husband's resolve to go to South Africa, and the Duke has insisted that he is going, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding. The mails were very late this week, and brought very little news. The talk of England and the diversions of the entire country are tinged with the effects of the South African war, and there is nothing on the carpet but the charity entertainment.

***

Melton Mowbray has been the centre of a gay hunting assemblage the past week. The accident to Mr. Foxhall Keene is said by latest cablegram to be not very serious, although painful.

***

The large house party given by the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough at Blenheim broke up the first day of the new year, many of the guests going from there into the hunting country. The Duchess herself intended to go this week to Melton Mowbray for the rest of the season.

***

In the City of Mexico society has been celebrating the Christmas holidays with dances, dinners, and bull fights. The latter take place on Sunday, and the boxes are occupied by the most fashionable members of the Mexican and American aristocracy. Among those present at the Christmas bull fight who are known in this city were Mrs. E. R. Ladew, Mr. F. Reese, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bedford, Mr. and Mrs. John Philip Sousa, Mr. Pedro Echeverria, and President and Mrs. Diaz. The Misses Clayton, daughters of Gen. and Mrs. Powell Clayton, have returned to the City of Mexico from the United States.

***

Among the New Yorkers who are at Florence are Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger, Mr. and Mrs. Bowles Colgate, Mrs. George C. Lucas, and the Misses Lucas, Miss Edith Heyer, Miss Lucia Tunis, and Miss S. A. Berey. Nathan Appleton and Jacob Sleeper of Boston are at Cairo. Mr. and Mrs. Goddard are at the same place, having taken rooms at the Ghezireh Palace for the Winter.

***

There are rumors, not confirmed, however, that Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's second entertainment will consist of a minstrel show by amateurs, and that Mr. Harry Lehr will play a leading rôle therein.

***

There has been much holiday gayety of an informal character during the past week. Perhaps one of the most enjoyable of all the entertainments of a small character was that given by Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence Breese on Wednesday evening, and which has already been described in this column. It was notably a young people's entertainment, and all appeared in fancy costume and domino. Stanford White, who still keeps his arm in a sling since a recent accident, was the life of the party, which engaged in a general romp until the early morning hours.

***

Among the smaller entertainments of the near future will be the luncheon given by Mrs. Bolton Hall on Tuesday and a luncheon for a large number of guests at the residence of Mr. Charles S. Abercrombie Thursday, Jan. 18.

***

Mrs. Charles A. Van Rensselaer has cards for three Tuesdays in January, 55 East Sixty-fifth Street; Miss Frances Isabel Morris and her mother, Mrs. John A. Morris, have cards for Thursdays in January, 200 Madison Avenue.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Misses Price of 19 East Forty-eighth Street recently gave a delightful dance at Delmonico's.

Mrs. Arthur M. King of 61 West Eighty-sixth Street gave the first of her "at homes" in January on Friday afternoon.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Louise Woolner and Mr. Henry B. Stein. At home, 18 West Eighty-fifth Street, to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pfeiffer, who were married on Wednesday in Chicago, are expected here to-day, and will make their home in New York. They will reside at the Savoy.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Monson of Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Meta Monson, to Mr. Robert Clinton Palmer of Buffalo.

Mrs. Louis Stern of 903 Fifth Avenue will give a reception on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 13. The feature of the reception will be the music. The Fortnightly Dancing Class, which Mrs. Stern has organized for her daughter, meets at her house every other Saturday night.

Miss Adam of 13 East Fortieth Street was assisted by the Misses Coote, Miss Laura Low, Miss May Young, and Miss Lucille Weeks on Dec. 27, and on Jan. 3 by Miss Edith Weeks, Miss Mosle, Miss M. Wagstaff, Miss Burgess, and Miss M. Oliphant, at her two teas from 4 o'clock until 7 o'clock P. M.

The Emanuel Sisterhood of Personal Service will give its annual entertainment and dance at the Astoria on Thursday evening next. Some of the patronesses are Mrs. William Winstein, Mrs. Ben Guggenheim, Mrs. Jacob Schiff, Mrs. D. Leventritt, Mrs. Sam Lavanburg, Mrs. M. H. Moses, and Mrs. Edward Wasserman, and the Misses Fisher, Stiner, Wise, and Kohut.

The wedding of Mr. William Thorne Matthews and Mrs. Lillian R. Engles will take place on Jan. 16, at the Church of the Transfiguration. The rector, the Rev. George Clarke Houghton, will officiate. The wedding will be very quietly celebrated and will be witnessed only by the immediate relatives. An informal luncheon will be given at the Astoria, to be followed by a visit to Lakewood.

On Wednesday last Mrs. Joseph T. Low of 57 West Fifty-second Street gave the first of two coming-out receptions for her daughter, Miss Laura Low. The débutante was assisted in receiving by the Misses Charlotte Hegeman, Harriet Delafield, Ethel Jacqueline, and her sister, Miss Low. Mrs. Low's gown was of white brocade, trimmed with lace. Miss Low wore a white lace dress, and Miss Laura Low was in white satin brocade.

Mr. R. A. Powers will long be remembered by the friends he entertained at his residence, 9 West Eighty-seventh Street, New Year's Eve. It has been the custom of Mr. Powers for many years past to gather about him on the last day of the year many of his friends and give them a royal time. In addition to an elaborate entertainment, music was furnished throughout the evening, under the direction of Prof. D. Wormser, zither soloist. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. D. Hollister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goffe, Jr., Miss Franklin, Mr. G. Franklin, and Mr. T. Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Guggenheim and daughters, Mr. James Seligman, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Seligman and daughter, and Mr. William Guggenheim sailed on Thursday last on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse for Southampton. Thence they go to London to visit their English relatives, from there to Paris, where they will remain two weeks, and then they will spend the remainder of the Winter in Italy and on the Riviera. This little family group will return to America early in June, in time to open the season at Long Branch, where they have already secured their cottages for the Summer.

The Bachelor Circle of the Freundschaft gave a ball last evening in the large ball-room of the clubhouse. The room was beautifully festooned and decorated with flowers and leaves. The music was furnished by two orchestras, the one of Mr. Schwab consisting of about thirty pieces, and also the Hungarian Band, under the leadership of Dr. Leo Sommers. There were 250 young people who participated in the dance, which was ably managed by Mr. M. Grossman, who is Chairman of the committee. Among those present were the Messrs. Tannenbaum, Gottlieb, Oppenheim, Stiebel, New, Feder, Pronick, and Herman, the Misses Stiebel, Levy, Einstein, Herman, and Gutman.

Mr. Henry K. Hadley, composer-conductor, assisted by a selected orchestra of sixty players, and Mr. David Bispham will appear in a concert at the Astoria on Tuesday evening, Jan. 16, at 8:15. The patronesses of the concert, which will be under the auspices of Mr. Victor Thrane, are Miss Eloise L. Breese, Mrs. Carroll Beckwith, Mrs. John E. Cowdin, Mrs. Thomas B. Clarke, Mrs. Holbrook Curtis, Miss Calender, Mrs. Joseph Decker, Mrs. Charles Healy Ditson, Mrs. Reginald De Koven, Mrs. George B. De Forest, Miss De Forest, Mrs. Frederick L. Gamage, Miss Nora Godwin, Miss Sarah Cooper Hewitt, Miss Eleanor G. Hewitt, Mrs. George Hoffmann, Mrs. C. H. Knight, Mrs. Henry Marquand, Mrs. Henry W. Poor, Mrs. George G. Stow, Mrs. D. B. Van Emburgh, and Mrs. Stanford White.

On Wednesday evening last a pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, 116 West Seventy-fifth Street, when Miss Jessie Winterton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Judson Winterton, was married to Mr. Harry Arnold Day, also of this city. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. Nathan Day of 19 Park Avenue. Owing to illness in the family, the church wedding, which had been decided upon, was abandoned, and the house wedding, with a small reception following, was substituted. Mr. Day is connected with a number of New York clubs and is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother-in-law, the Rev. Leighton Williams. Mr. John Day Jackson of this city acted as best man.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan of 53 East Seventy-eighth Street, and Mr. Herbert Stanley Connell of Brooklyn Heights, whose engagement was recently announced in these columns, will take place at St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-first Street, at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Monday, Jan. 15. The officiating clergyman will be the rector of the church, the Rev. Edward Walpole Warren, D. D., who will be assisted by the Rev. Spencer S. Roache of Brooklyn. The bride's sister, Miss Annette Morgan, will be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss May E. Corbett and Miss Kate Laimbeer Abbot of Brooklyn, and Miss Elizabeth U. Wardwell of Bristol, R. I. Mr. Howard Viele Brumley of Brooklyn will be the best man, and the ushers will be Mr. H. Ralston Steven, Mr. Frank R. Steven, and Mr. Fred R. Hinchman of Brooklyn, and Mr. Alfred Warner Deter, Mr. Max A. Mosle, and Mr. George S. Connell. A supper will be served for the bridal party after the ceremony, but there will be no reception.

A committee from the patronesses of the National Fashion Show, to be held at the Madison Square Garden for seven days, beginning Jan. 4, 1900, is arranging for a loan exhibit. It will include the fashions of the century selected from our Knickerbocker heirlooms. The patronesses up to date include Mrs. Gouverneur Morris, Mrs. Edgar Van Etten, Mrs. Lovell Hall Jerome, Mrs. Beekman Remington, Mrs. John Vinton Dahlgren, Mrs. Charles Oelrichs, Mrs. Walton H. Peckham, Mrs. George F. Shrady, Mrs. Cyrus Edson, Mrs. Frederic J. De Peyster, Mrs. Jules A. Montant, Mrs. George Clinton Batcheller, Mrs. Eastman Johnson, Mrs. William Alexander Adriance, Mrs. James Grant Wilson, Mrs. E. Ritzema De Grove, Mrs. [illegible] Forest, Mrs. Arthur J. Peabody, Mrs. Edwin H. Low, Mrs. Roger A. Pryor, Mrs. Benjamin L. Ludington, Mrs. Donald McLean, Mrs. John E. Milholland, Mrs. Jules Reynal, Mrs. Edward Lauterbach, Mrs. Mary Kingdon,

A. Jaeckel & Co.,
FURRIERS,
JANUARY REDUCTIONS,

Are offering exceptional inducements in Broadtail, Persian Lamb, and Sealskin Coats, Capes, Paletots, Evening and Opera Garments, Long Cloth Coats, Collarettes, Pelerines, and Furs of all descriptions.

A large collection of Russian and Hudson Bay Sable Neckpieces and Exclusive Novelties at very attractive prices.

37 Union Square,
Between 16th and 17th Sts.

Mrs. C. A. Peabody, Mrs. Walter Stanton, Mrs. J. D. Wing, Mrs. William H. Smith, Mrs. J. Hooker Hamersley, Mrs. Wilbur Bloodgood, Mrs. Frank Q. Barstow, Mrs. George Perkins Lawton, Mrs. Agnus Cameron, and Mrs. Edward Fales Coward.

NEWPORT.

With the new park or Esplanade at Newport completed the yachtsmen will be supplied with a safe and commodious landing place there, which they have wanted in that part of the harbor for some time. The new and so-called "Ten-Foot Anchorage," running through the inner harbor from the spit of the Torpedo Station to the Esplanade, has been in course of completion for the last few days, and when the yacht fleet arrives next Summer this anchorage will be ready for use. In the past many yachts were compelled to anchor in the outer harbor for the lack of sufficient depth of water for safe anchorage.

***

Newport requires more money to run the city without an overdraft every year. The contemplated improvements about the city, such as new sidewalks, another new schoolhouse, the Esplanade, the new City Hall, and the new fire station on Cogeshall Avenue, to be fitted with modern fire-fighting apparatus especially for the protection of the valuable estates owned by the cottagers in the south part of the city, require a large expenditure. The present revenue of Newport from taxes and other incomes has been found insufficient to meet even the ordinary expenses for carrying on the several city departments. Two months ago several of the city departments were found without funds to carry on their work for the balance of the year, and additional appropriations were asked for by the heads of the several departments of the City Council, who were powerless to grant the requests for the lack of the necessary money. It is now rumored in City Council circles that a resolution will be offered during the Winter to have the rate of taxation increased from $11 on each $1,000 worth of property to $12. It seems likely that this will become a law before the Spring arrives. With the change of taxation the long-talked-of revaluation of property will probably also be made.

***

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt paid Newport a flying visit during the early part of the week for the purpose of arranging the removal of the governess of Miss Gladys Vanderbilt from The Breakers to a cottage on the avenue. The governess became very ill, and Mrs. Vanderbilt kept her Summer home open until a few days ago, so as not to disturb the governess, and have her suffer any risk from being removed.

***

The new City Government was inaugurated on Monday, with Mayor Boyle as its Chief Executive for the sixth consecutive term. All of the same city officers with few exceptions, were re-elected. Those who were favorable to the cottage colony were retained. In the Mayor's inaugural address was contained a remark that certain persons who were not taxed, but who should be, would sooner or later be dealt with by the proper authority. Mayor Boyle referred to the deficiency for the year of $73,420, a greater part of the legacy being the fruits of the past local administrations.

PHILADELPHIA.

The week opened with the second of the Monday evening dancing classes under the management of Mrs. Frederic Thurston Mason. The decorations from Mr. Paul's ball remained and added much to the beauty and attractiveness of the scene. Mrs. Mason, in a gown of pale blue velvet, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Henry Brinton Coxe, who wore a gown of white lace over gray. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Gazzam also gave a dinner on Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Twells Tiers. An attractive dinner was given on Monday by Miss Sophy Borie at her residence, in Clinton Street. The dinner was given in honor of her cousin, Mr. Frederic von Bohlen Holbach, second secretary of the German Embassy in Washington.

***

Mrs. Henry Cadwalader Chapman gave the first of her days at home on Wednesday at her residence, on Walnut Street. It was a most successful reception, and Mrs. Chapman's drawing rooms were crowded during the afternoon. Mrs. Joshua Howell gave an elaborate dinner on Wednesday evening, before Mrs. Van Rensselaer's ball, at her residence, on Spruce Street. The table was beautifully decorated with white roses and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harrison also entertained at dinner on Monday evening. A stag dinner was given on Monday evening by Mr. Chandler Hare, in honor of his twenty-first birthday.

***

A "rabbit" party was given on Thursday evening by Mr. C. C. Pinckney Norris in honor of his daughter, Miss Beta Norris. The tea given at the Stratford on Thursday evening by Mrs. Matthew Baird and Miss Baird for Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Baird, Jr., was the most largely attended of any such social function this season. Mrs. Holsman gave a small tea on Thursday afternoon at her residence in honor of Mrs. and Miss Dahlgren of New York. Mrs. Dahlgren, it will be remembered, was formerly Miss Morgan, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Morgan, former rector of St. Thomas's Church, in New York.

***

A dance which, as far as numbers was concerned, more nearly resembled a ball was given on Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gibbs in the ballroom of the Flanders. The room in question is a magnificent apartment of the period of Louis XIV., and on this occasion its effect was enhanced by profuse decor

TRADE IN AUSTRALASIA

Dairy Farming Is One of the Principal Industries.

LITTLE MANUFACTURING DONE

All Colonies Take an Active Interest in the Development of Business with America.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

SYDNEY, Dec. 5.—In Australasia the commencement of the year is during the height of Summer, in the middle of the wool season, and before harvesting operations have started, consequently there is invariably some degree of uncertainty in making industrial or commercial forecasts extending several months ahead. The probable general character of trade operations during the greater portion of the year can, however, be readily estimated by comparison with past experiences of similar seasons and a careful study of surrounding circumstances. That the Australasian colonies, notwithstanding their recent heavy losses through drought and other causes, closely following those occasioned by the disastrous financial crisis of a few years back, are entering a fresh and brighter epoch in their commercial history appears to be the unanimous opinion of all in any way qualified to express their views on the subject. The Presidents of the various Australasian Chambers of Commerce, Consular representatives, leading merchants and shippers, ship owners, and others speak in hopeful terms of Australasian trade prospects during the closing year of the century.

THE PASTORAL OUTLOOK.

The material progress and prosperity of the Australasian colonies are largely based on the development of the pastoral and mining industries, especially the former, which has made enormous strides during the last forty or fifty years, the number of sheep rising from 23,741,706 in 1861, to 49,-773,584 in 1871, 78,063,000 in 1881, and 124,-847,937 in 1891. Then came several years of drought, which reduced the number to 100,-463,502 in 1898, with a further reduction in 1899. The figures for 1900 are expected, however, to show an upward trend. The rapid increase in the number of sheep until within the last few years and the fear of the increase being maintained, led to the development of the export trade in frozen mutton, which has now assumed large proportions, although the conditions of trade are far from satisfactory, so far as the Australian colonies are concerned. New Zealand mutton, being most in accord with British market requirements, naturally commands top prices. The Australasian meat exports during 1900 will show a considerable falling off, but to what extent it is difficult to estimate. There will also be short supplies of skins and tallow. The falling off in wool supplies has been compensated by the advance in prices, some of the highest rates on record being secured at recent Melbourne wool sales. One result of past experiences is that Australasian pastoralists have recognized the necessity for improving their flocks, whether for wool or meat, and do not hesitate to give a thousand guineas for a single first-class stud ram. Vermont rams continue prime favorites in all parts of Australia. So far as Australian wool supplies are concerned, they are likely to continue moderate at advanced prices during 1900.

AGRICULTURAL AFFAIRS.

The rapid expansion of the dairy farming industry has been one of the most remarkable of Australasian industrial developments. By means of a combination of the factory system and co-operative principles, large and annually increasing quantities of butter have become available for export, the rate of production being largest in New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, and New Zealand, the total being over 100,000,-000 pounds per annum. In 1900 it is anticipated that the quantity will be nearer 125,-000,000 pounds. In addition, 13,669,507 pounds of cheese were produced in 1898, the quantity showing an increase in 1899. Considerable quantities of bacon and ham are also placed upon the local market, with a surplus for export. American cheese was at one time largely consumed in the colonies, but has now become considerably displaced by the New South Wales and New Zealand products, but American bacon and ham still command a ready sale. Cereal cultivation is rapidly increasing. In 1898-9 the area under crop was 5,867,708 acres, against 4,540,214 acres in 1890 and 773,350 acres in 1861. The area for 1899-1900 will show a yet further increase, and should the harvest be moderately good, the produce will be sufficient to meet all local requirements, and to spare. Consequently the Australasian demand for American wheat and flour will continue to decrease. On the other hand, the increasing area under agricultural production generally is strengthening the demand for American agricultural machinery and appliances of every kind. American reapers and binders holding the first place in the market. There is always a ready sale for American onions, this being one of the crops in which Australasian farmers are only partially successful.

MINERAL PRODUCTION.

The Australasian annual mineral production is steadily increasing, the value of the output in 1898 (likely to be exceeded in 1899 and 1900) being £18,216,357, against £16,042,-932 in 1897, and £13,844,198 in 1896. The principal metals are gold, which had been raised to the value of £412,234,407 to the end of 1898; silver, silver lead, copper, tin, and coal. The introduction of river dredging machinery will tend to augment the auriferous output, and there is a continual demand for gold-saving and other appliances. At several of the leading mines and mining townships electric appliances are largely used, nearly the whole of the materials being of American origin. In this direction an enormous trade is possible, especially in connection with electric tramways. In 1898 the value of the American imports into New South Wales alone was £40,714, against £8,927 from Great Britain, £163 from Belgium, and £105 from Germany. In miscellaneous machinery America takes the lead, with Great Britain a good second, and Germany a bad third. There is no reason why the trade should not continue to expand during 1900.

MANUFACTURES.

Although each of the colonies, with the exception of New South Wales, has a protectionist tariff, the manufacturing industries generally are of the simplest character, and frequently comprise little more than putting imported materials together. Thus, in 1898, New South Wales imported carriage-makers' materials to the value of £47,947, of which £24,273, or more than half, came from the United States. Consequently a considerable proportion of the Australasian buggies and other vehicles must be regarded as practically American. Among the Australasian imports in which American goods hold a leading place, and for which the demand may remain steady, if not increasing, during 1900, are dentists' tools and materials, drugs and apothecaries' wares, dyes and dye ware, fancy goods, dried fruits, furniture, furniture springs, glassware, glucose, tartaric acid, grindery, hollow ware, hops, India rubber piping and other goods, harmoniums, bolts, nails, angle and other steel, hoop iron, iron ware, galvanized wire, pig iron, lamp ware, leather, steam engines, engine packing, naphtha, kerosene oil, miscellaneous oils, paints and colors, kalsomine, printing paper, photographic materials, plaster, playing cards, preserved foods, printers' materials, railway and other plant, saddles and saddlers' ware, sewing machines, roofing slates, toilet soaps, sarsaparilla, tinctures and fluid extracts, telegraphic and other materials, lumber, (dressed and undressed,) tinware, tobacco, (manufactured and unmanufactured,) tools, typemaking machines, watches and clocks, &c. The bicycle market is so largely overstocked that shipments will have to be carefully made.

THE FEDERAL TARIFF.

So far as the federating colonies are concerned, the fiscal system of each will remain unchanged, unless altered by the local Legislature, until the adoption of a federal tariff, which cannot, however, come into force until 1901 or 1902, and cannot, therefore, influence the trade of 1900 save by encouraging heavy shipments toward the end of the year, with a view of evading, as far as possible, payment of the federal duties, which will, it is almost certain, be fixed on a protectionist basis.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

Taking the trading prospects of each colony in detail, and commencing with New South Wales, it may be remarked that the present colony enjoys the lion's share of Australasian trade, and will certainly maintain, federation or no federation, its position as the leading centre of Australasian commerce. The total trade of the seven colonies in 1898 was £147,287,208, of which £52,-101,677, or considerably more than one-third, was Australasian. The figures for 1899 will show an even more favorable result, so far as New South Wales is concerned. The indications of business revival are everywhere apparent, and there is a boom everywhere in the building trade. Increased confidence is felt in banking and other financial institutions, insurance business is on the increase, and the public finances, notwithstanding all that professional politicians may say, are in a healthy condition. There is some talk of another State loan, but if it is floated it will be in connection with the construction of railways and other productive works. The deposits in savings banks and other forms of investment are rapidly increasing in amount, the deposits in the savings banks alone being nearly £32,000,000, and there is an increasing tendency to settle on the land. In Sydney business is exceedingly brisk, several new wholesale and retail stores being established, and several of the old ones considerably enlarged. Consequently the volume of trade in the colony should become largely augmented during 1900.

William McMillan of the firm of A. & W. McArthur & Co., London and Sydney, and formerly State Treasurer of New South Wales, writes that he has always been convinced that "the great destiny of Australia is to have an immense, indeed her principal, trade with America, China, and all Eastern countries, where I trust the English-speaking nations will predominate."

G. F. Earpy, leading New South Wales merchant and President of the Newcastle (N. S. W.) Chamber of Commerce, writes: "In some lines the development which has occurred in the last year or two is marvelous. In oils for lighting purposes, for instance, America practically monopolizes this market. American lumber for building and other purposes has attained to a very large sale. Oregon redwood, pine, &c.; also doors, sashes, &c., are sold in every centre. The thousand and one articles of manufacture, more especially under the heading of machinery, are daily coming into vogue.

"With the rapid progress of wheat culture in the colonies, especially in New South Wales, the imports of cereals from the States may be expected to fall away greatly in the future, in fact, to cease altogether. Naturally, although it is a truism to say that there is no sentiment in business, the good feeling which has been growing of late between the States and Great Britain and her colonies all tends to help the development of trade relations and to remove prejudices against American goods. We begin to look upon such rather in the light of the products of our kinsmen than of foreigners."

The President of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce writes, through the Secretary of that institution, that "the existing weather conditions of the colony are such as, in conjunction with the high prices ruling for most of our produce, warrant the expectation of a good sound business for 1900."

VICTORIA.

Affairs are not quite so roseate, but they are on the up grade and promise well for the future, if not unduly interfered with by coddling legislation. The trade of the colony is rapidly recovering from the weakening effects of the financial crisis and recent droughts, and the public finances are in a healthy condition. In 1898 the value of the total trade of the colony was £32,641,150, thus placing it second to New South Wales. The returns for 1899 will bring the figures yet higher, and in 1900 it is anticipated they will reach £35,000,000 or £36,000,000. The pastoral industry is fairly holding its own, and great strides are being made in agricultural production, the area under crop, 3,210,445 acres, being larger than in any of the other colonies. There is also a larger railway mileage. Banking and financial business generally is sound, and the savings bank deposits amount to over £8,500,000, with a population of 1,175,643. Although money is less abundant in Victoria than in New South Wales, there are always good openings for business. From a trade point of view, is the coming colony. Its great area, 668,497 square miles, more than double that of New South Wales, with its variety of climate, ranging from temperate to tropical; the immense richness and diversity of its pastoral, agricultural, and mineral resources, combined with its numerous ports and safe coastal navigation, offer the promise of a great future for the colony. At present the great want is more population. At present the whole of the residents in the colony number less than half a million. The sugar and other tropical industries afford a good opening for the introduction of American machinery, and it is possible that some arrangement might be made for the construction of light lines of railway on the American principle in the interior districts. The trade of the colony in 1898 was of the value of £16,863,393, the returns for 1899 showing higher figures. The increase of intercoastal communication, without transshipments, is having a favorable effect on shipping business. The area under crop is limited, but the number of cattle is more than double that in any other colony. The number of sheep is considerable. Hence the exports of frozen beef and of wool are on a large scale. The public finances are in a healthy condition and the general tone of business is of a sanguine nature.

QUEENSLAND

SOUTH AUSTRALIA,

after passing through a period of tribulation, occasioned largely by the failure of successive wheat crops and the vicissitudes of the copper trade, is again coming to the front. Occupying an area of 903,690 square miles, more than three times the size of New South Wales, with a population of only 367,800, less than that of many an American city, the colony has found it difficult to make both ends meet, and has had to practice rigid economy in its public expenditure. Its total trade during 1898 was £13,277,136, being at the rate of £36 6s. 8d. per head of population. The figures will be higher in 1899, and probably about the same in 1900. The local demand for American goods is limited, the high colonial tariff and excessive light dues at Port Adelaide tending to restrict trade. A large share of the export trade is in connection with Western Australia. There are a few firms in Adelaide doing business with American firms, but the heads of these do not care to express their views of the prospects of trade with America.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

This, the largest by far of the Australian colonies, with its immense area of 975,920 square miles, with a population of only 168,129, is, so far as general business is concerned, not over attractive at present to merchant or shipper, there having recently been a marked decline in many articles of import, which has caused many to consider the trade of the colony to be in an unsound condition. The West Australian Collector of Customs, states, however, that the decline in the ports of food products has been occasioned by an increase of local production, and in other commodities by excessive overstocking. Heavy importations of bicycles, for instance, were made in 1897, with the result that the market has become glutted. He states that many of the holders of stocks had to realize at any cost, and that consequently severe losses were sustained. There has been a slight improvement in 1899, but the outlook for 1900 is not too bright.

TASMANIA.

In this colony, the smallest of the Australasian group, the volume of business is not large, the total trade of the colony in 1898 being only £3,453,387, but it is thoroughly sound, and Consul Webster, Hobart, writes: "Speaking generally, I believe the outlook to be good and improving. The season for agricultural and pastoral products has not, with some exceptions, been favorable, and the low prices ruling for wheat leave little or no profit, but the greatly enhanced value of wool cannot fail to stimulate trade in all directions. The fruit industry is thriving, and this is a most important factor in the general prosperity. Mining is, however, the main source of the great improvement in the colony, and in this there is the promise of steady and perhaps infinite development. Business in imports from the United States is considerable, but, being all done either by transshipments from Sydney or Melbourne, or through American houses in those ports, does not appear. There can be no doubt that this trade will share in the general enlargement. Exports to the United States are trifling. Unquestionably Tasmania is prospering, and will do so in the near future, at any rate."

NEW ZEALAND.

This of all the Australasian colonies, with the exception of New South Wales, has the deepest interest in the development of a trade with America, and when the new and improved service between Sydney, Auckland, and San Francisco has become completed, great developments are anticipated. New Zealand, which is the smallest but two of the Australasian colonies, having an area of only 104,471 square miles, with a population of 743,463, is also the most progressive, and one of the most prosperous. Its trade has leaped steadily from £3,-864,058, in 1861, to £18,748,553, in 1898, with a further advance in 1899 and the promise of another in 1900. Its pastoral, agricultural, and mineral resources are great, and it initiated the Australian export trade in frozen meat, maintaining to this day a leading place in the British market. The public finances are in a healthy condition, and the general tone of business is good. The value of the gold raised in 1898 was £1,080,-693, making the total to the beginning of 1899 £54,453,325. There is a good and increasing market for American goods, and the whole colony is exploited by American agents. American agricultural machinery is to be found everywhere, and, with the increase of area under cultivation, fresh orders are forwarded to the States. There is a large direct trade with South Africa and with Great Britain, but that between the colony and Australia is comparatively small. The American goods in most demand are the same as those imported by the Australian colonies generally.

JOHN PLUMMER.

RANDOM NOTES ON MEN'S DRESS

January has come in with a hearty Winter welcome. The weather has been such as to require very heavy clothing and all sorts of protection from the cold. Skating is just now very much in vogue, and the hockey matches at Tuxedo and Meadow Brook occupy the attention of society.

The shops have much to offer in the way of gloves, mufflers, and stockings suitable for Winter pastimes. In one of the leading shops there were seen this week the most gorgeous scarlet wool gloves stitched in white silk. They made a very effective spash of color in the show window, but it would be a brave man who would purchase them. A species of white cape glove was offered for $1.50, while the vivid kind were ticketed at $3. Several of the big shops, however, are just now having a sale of gloves and you can get an excellent article in kid, colors, tan, and red, or again a brown or gray suède for $1.10. Another Broadway haberdasher has been offering suède gloves at 75 cents a pair. These cheaper kinds of gloves have clasps, not buttons. The latter is supposed to be the mark of the last reigning fashion. Very comfortable looking gloves are those made from fur with the rough hair on the outside. They call to mind somewhat the Biblical imposition practiced on the blind Isaac. The fur is said to be taken from the back of the raccoon and the color is a warm brown. These gloves are very expensive. Others not so high priced are lined with lamb's wool and are just the thing for sleighing or any of the Winter sports.

The double-breasted white waistcoat for evening wear is not seen as frequently this Winter as it was last. Some men are even wearing single-breasted waistcoats. The shops are filled with the white waistcoats, double-breasted, with gold and enamel buttons, but so far they do not seem to be very popular. It is very difficult to get a ready-made white waistcoat which will fit, and unless it does, so that there will be not the least wrinkle, this garment is best discarded. The Fifth Avenue tailors charge from $15 to $20 to make a waistcoat which they guarantee will fit, but they always warn their customers against having the waistcoats washed. Thus, they are such an expensive luxury that few can afford them, as they soil in a very short time. Even the ready-made ones never look the same after they have once been through the hands of the laundress.

The white tie for evening wear is never starched, and it can be done up by a careful laundress. Once it is starched and ironed it is useless. The shape has not altered this Winter from last, and the large, square end with a medium-sized knot is the favorite. Although many very clever imitations are placed on the market, it is impossible to make a ready-made bow look like one which you have tied yourself. It is much better to have your bow a bit awry or crumpled than to be seen wearing a stiff, angular affair which is fastened at the back of your collar by a clasp. The price is just the same, and the unmade-up tie has the advantage of not only looking better, but of being able to be restored to its pristine whiteness by the laundress. Very good white evening ties can be had for 25 cents. Always state the number of your collar, as ties are of different lengths.

Many of the shops are now showing the new shirtings for Spring. Some of these are extremely pretty. The patterns which will be most worn are medium-sized stripes up and down, instead of across, on a light background. For instance, there are some very effective light blues, with marine blue stripes. Again, there are some rose pink shirts, which have not only deep pink stripes, but a small pattern figure of the darker shade, in design resembling a sunburst.

One can get an excellent shirt ready made for $2, and the material will neither fade nor wear out quickly. All colored shirts have cuffs attached, and some of the expensive ones have collars attached also. The correct collar to wear with a colored shirt is the all-around turndown, and the correct tie either a long or narrow four-in-hand or a medium-sized butterfly bow. Black four-in-hands are much worn with the brighter-colored shirts, and the other four-in-hands have striped patterns of red or blue or white on a black background.

Two dealers are trying to introduce colored shirts with pleated bosoms. The pleats are in alternate, horizontal stripes, very wide, of course, and of contrasting shades. These have a weird effect, and so far have not been a great success, but are worn by a few men who adopt the extreme style of dressing.

The handkerchiefs of the Winter are plain white, with a narrow hem. Colored handkerchiefs seem to have gone out of fashion, although some of the shops are showing very pretty ones in blues, with white hem, a little wider than the conventional pattern.

Mufflers are in white silk with polka dots. There have been some very handsome ones from London in dark olive-green silk with small sky-blue figures.

The walking-stick of the day is of light wood with a small crook. Very little silver is employed upon it.

Chased silver is coming again into fashion, and a very handsome Christmas present made to a young man was a cigarette case of silver most elaborately chased and with a monogram of the same work. The shape was concave and quite large. It resembled very much the old-fashioned silver cardcases of the first part of the century.

Sets in ebony for the toilet are preferred by men to those in silver. The hairbrushes in such a set should be of the military pattern. They may be with or without monogram or cost-of-arms. Ebony is extremely durable, quiet in effect, and lasts a lifetime.

The new ties the Somerset is one of the latest. It is of narrow satin in solid colors. It is tied in a long narrow knot, and is worn with deep all-around turndown collars. Brown is one of the favorite shades. These ties cost $3 in the fashionable shops.

The turndown collar is only worn with business suits. With a frock coat or an evening coat a straight, standing collar is correct. A few men, however, are wearing these turndown collars with informal evening dress, as, for example, the dinner jacket. The black tie which goes with this costume has square ends and is of silk, not satin. It is tied in rather a small loose knot. These ties can be had at all prices. In the expensive shops they cost $1.50, but ties of like shape can be purchased elsewhere at lower figures.

Denounces Babylon's Sunday Golfers.

BABYLON, L. I., Jan. 6.—Evangelist Needham, who is conducting a series of revival meetings here, has created a stir in the town by denouncing the fashionable set who devote their Sundays to golf playing. The evangelist says some of the young men who attend the church in the morning consider that Sunday ends with the morning service. He says their actions are an insult to the truly Christian element of the community. Some of Babylon's Sunday golf players are of the most prominent families.

Appraisal of Condemned Property.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Supreme Court Justice Keogh to-day appointed John J. Walsh of New York, Senator William J. Graney of Dobbs Ferry, and John H. Van Zehn of New Rochelle Commissioners of Appraisal to ascertain the compensation to be made to the owners of certain property in the town of Somers, Westchester County, taken for the sanitary protection of the sources of the water supply of the City of New York.

Grocer Fired on Armed Burglars.

LEOMINSTER, Mass., Jan. 6.—This town was disturbed early this morning by an encounter between F. N. Lynch, proprietor of a grocery store, and two burglars, who had broken into his place of business. A fusillade of shots was fired. Mr. Lynch did not receive a scratch, and thinks he wounded one of his assailants, although both escaped. After Mr. Lynch had procured a light he found that the contents of his money drawer, about $18, had been taken.

IS WEALTH JUSTIFIED?

What Some Readers of The New York Times Have to Say About It.

An editorial article printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Jan. 3, entitled "The Justification of Wealth," has drawn forth a number of letters from readers who dissent, in whole or in part, from the conclusions reacned. The most characteristic of the letters are subjoined.

"THE GOSPEL OF WEALTH."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial of Jan. 3, under the title "The Justification of Wealth," in which you comment upon the splendid gift of Mr. Andrew Carnegie to the Cooper Union, ends with these words: "Riches justify themselves against all accusers when they are wisely employed by their possessor for the raising up of his fellowmen."

Now, I admire with all my heart the noble benefaction on the part of Mr. Carnegie to the Cooper Union. No institution in this city the result of charity has, so far as I have been able to observe, accomplished so much for the deserving poor, and no gift could be made more wisely than this one made by Mr. Carnegie. But when you attempt to proclaim the doctrine that "riches justify themselves against all accusers when they are wisely employed by their possessor for the raising up of his fellowmen," you announce a doctrine which cannot be sustained and ought not to be sustained for one moment.

The pirate Admirals of Elizabeth ravaged Peruvian cities and returned with their ill-gotten spoils, to gain fame which you would seem to accord to riches, by using a portion of them to found monasteries and religious institutions. The Baron robbers of the Rhine two centuries ago robbed the wayfarers along that river, and then consecrated their plunder to establishing monasteries with a portion of it. The foodpads on Houndslow Heath two hundred years ago robbed the traveler of his watch and pocketbook and trinkets, and then curried favor with the poor by their generosity; but our modern highwaymen put Dick Turpin to the blush, for they bribe a Board of Aldermen and steal the very highway itself, and then, having attained great riches, a portion of which they wisely employ in charity, they justify themselves, in your language, "against all accusers."

Mr. Carnegie, you say, "justifies his wealth by this disposition of it." No man can justify his wealth by the disposition of it if he has obtained it through wrong or injustice, and, though Mr. Carnegie, more than any man of great wealth in this country, probably, has achieved a considerable proportion of his wealth through great energy, intelligence, and business enterprise, still, you know, and every man who is acquainted with the facts knows, that a great proportion of that wealth is the result of special legislation, obtained through high protective tariffs. How has such legislation been obtained? The process is known of all men. Its possessors contribute enormous sums of money to campaign disbursements, and many of them do not scruple, if necessary, to buy legislators.

It is just the doctrine—that a man may atone for any kind of offense against public justice and public morality by the liberal and wise distribution of wealth—that is cursing this country. It is simply the doctrine of the Jesuits, that "the end justifies the means." It is the doctrine of unchristian ministers, with no conception of Christ, or of His example, or of His teachings, who tell us that it is right for a great country to despoil a weak one, because thereby it may establish the blessings of civilization among the weaker classes. William M. Tweed was popular with a large body of people, because he gave so generously to the poor; gave simply what he had stolen.

No, Mr. Editor, Mr. Carnegie is entitled to your praise for his noble benefaction. He is entitled to the admiration of every young man in the country for his heroic struggle from poverty to wealth; and, so far as his wealth is the result of these qualities, it should be as sacred as the dollar of the poorest man in the land. But, so far as it is the result of iniquity, it will not bless him, it will not bless us; but it will be mixed up with the ruin of our country which is as certain as the throne of God, unless the evils for which it too frequently stands are remedied. The real, the dangerous Anarchist, is the man who buys legislation, who corrupts Aldermen, who for his own selfish purposes induces hundreds of people to invest their moneys in some uncertain and speculative venture, wherein they will lose it and he will get it, who simply uses his power and position to rob the poor and destroy the republic.

A noble sentiment, indeed, will this century hand down to the next, if its only legacy is accumulated wealth well bestowed in charity. The hoarse voice of materialism is crushing out the finer and nobler instincts of our people. In "Red Rock" we see a portrayal of the existence of qualities of virtue in our Southern people, which, if preserved, would help very much to save the country, but Mephistopheles is on the ground in the South, and ready to close a bargain. Let us hope, Mr. Editor, that we have something nobler to give the next century than riches alone, even though the possessors thereof may bestow them in wise charity for the benefit of mankind.

FRANKLIN PIERCE.

New York, Jan. 4, 1900.

MILLIONAIRES AND THE PUBLIC.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your justification of great wealth is that the original accumulator had to do some work or service for it, that he employed labor, and in some cases gives some of it away. No one denies Mr. Hewitt's statement that the accumulation of wealth is a blessing. To whom should it go is the question. No one who feels rightly is opposed to the rich man because he is so far the victim of circumstances as to have a great fortune. You say that great public institutions can only be founded by great fortunes. Was the great public school system founded or supported by private fortunes? Are the parks, the new library, the recreation piers private benefactions?

If in a philanthropic desire to civilize the Filipinos we accumulate vast piles of Filipino corpses and spend incalculable sums of money, may we not also found universities and art schools? You say Congress will not do it. In the Western States, where great fortunes are not so numerous, are there not universities founded and supported by the State? It may be a good thing that the rich man founds these institutions, but is it right that we should have to wait for the whim or generosity of a rich man?

I know a city of 25,000 people, where for years rich men were abundant, who have only just started a public library in the City Hall. There is nothing that the rich man can do for the public that it cannot do for itself.

We all know that almost all great fortunes are the result of some form of monopoly. I heard ex-Mayor Grout of Brooklyn, an authority, I believe, declare that if the City of New York had the value of the franchises they had given away there need be no tax rate.

Gen. Grant at the end of the civil war had under his command a gigantic army. In the old days the conqueror would have owned the country, but modern civilization does not hand over a country to a man merely because he has the power to direct and control events.

Is there any more reason why a captain of industry should shovel into his pockets the profits of a great enterprise merely because he has the talent required to run the business? It is true that this man, as in Mr. Carnegie's case, has sometimes a strong sense of responsibility to the public. But how is it with his heirs, who for the most part sit down and watch the fortune grow until in the third or fourth generation even the by-products amount to millions? How is it that the arch fund sticks at $250,000 and that New York with its fabulous wealth is so difficult a place in which to start a fund of this kind?

If the present system of distribution is the correct one, why is it that we have recurring periods of hard times when there is just as much wealth in the country and the undeveloped wealth is limitless? We would all of us like to be one of the unfortunate victims of an unnatural and disordered economic system—a millionaire. But you may depend upon it that the time cannot be far distant when it will be as obsolete in America to depend upon the generosity of a millionaire for a great public institution as it is in England to-day to depend upon a figure-head sovereign for a great public reform.

B. H. NADAL.

New York, Jan. 3, 1900.

MILLIONAIRE AND SOCIALIST.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial in to-day's issue anent Mr. Carnegie's donation to Cooper Union contains a number of statements which have a tendency to mislead the average reader. They invite a refutation from one feeling "hit" wherefore the following:

Your abuse of Socialists and Socialism per se is entirely uncalled for by the general drift of your argument. You know of no Socialist who rails at wealth; nor will you find a Socialist willing to deride Mr. Carnegie or Mr. Carnegie's philanthropy.

You may find some ranters in other fields than the Socialistic who are undeservedly honored (in the public press) by being proclaimed as Socialists, and to whom your remarks may fittingly apply.

The Socialist welcomes wealth; he does not attack it, nor does he attack its possessors. What he does protest against, and which he is now beginning to remedy, is the unjust distribution of wealth and the system of production responsible for it. The Socialist knows that Mr. Carnegie accumulated his wealth by availing himself of opportunity; that his business ability, &c., carried him on to success. We find no fault with him for having done so. The competitive system of production is brimful of "opportunities" for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many. We Socialists blame the many for permitting these opportunities to present themselves.

But Socialists propose nothing retroactive in effect, as is inferred from your article. We labor for the future. Without animosity toward any individual, we wave aloft the banner of Humanity—not that of personal aggrandizement. We take exception to your statement that "only from concentrated capital can institutions (educational) of this nature take their origin." Candidly, are you not mistaken? Have you never vaunted our public school system? Cannot that system be extended without the financial aid of individuals? Can it not be extended at public cost until every child of every citizen in this land shall have the opportunity to receive the education now accorded to but few, and that few the children of the wealthy? Yes, Mr. Editor, it can and will be! Unfortunately, this desideratum will not be reached in the very near future. The poor man's child will still continue, shortly after being weaned, to assist its parents in procuring the necessities of mere existence, instead of acquiring culture. And some few wise, discreet individuals will continue to grow wealthy at an ever-increasing ratio, "furnishing" employment to the laboring masses, young and old, but the former preferred.

Some of your business remarks are in thorough accord with Socialistic teachings. You are undoubtedly on firm ground in saying "there are going to be more great fortunes in this country in the next century than we have seen in this century." "Millionaires and multi-millionaires will be common in coming years." Yes, Mr. Editor, the narrowing down of commercial and financial competition will bring about this result. Owing to our system of distribution, continually increasing wealth will keep on centring in the hands of a few individuals; [illegible] will continue to receive but just enough wherewith to exist and reproduce their kind. And philanthropists will keep on, as at present, conferring "benefits" on humanity and assisting progress in a direction they wot not of—discontent with material conditions, the prime cause of all radical changes in the social fabric.

In closing, we Socialists seek the abolition of a social state in which a few reap almost all the benefits of production—enjoying all the charm and luxury of civilization, while the many, ten-thousandfold stronger numerically, reap as the result of arduous toil material rewards nowhere commensurate with their just due. Christ is one of our standard bearers, but not Mammon. We believe mankind will eventually be constituted of an aggregation of philanthropists, united in the bonds of fraternity, working for the interests of the race and not of self.

PETER MERQUELIN.

Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 3, 1900.

THINKS THE MILLIONAIRE USELESS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial in this morning's TIMES on "The Justification of Wealth" was an able and plausible presentation of this question from the viewpoint of "The Man with the Millions." Will THE TIMES print the other side, as viewed by "The Man with the Hoe"?

If I read history correctly, the advocates of "the divine right of Kings" maintained that God willed it that a few should rule and be responsible for the many—the ignorant many. For the great herd there was nothing but work. They were constantly reminded that a kind Providence had ordained it that theirs should be a lot of toil. He had provided the "good King" and his wise counsellors and advisers who would see to it that everybody should have what he needed.

The King collected taxes, usually the major part of the wealth the workers created. That part not expended in building castles for "his Majesty" and his "wise counsellors" or in wars of "benevolent assimilation" or to "carry the cross to heathen lands," was sometimes used to build hospitals and in latter days some very excellent schools and even universities. Take Germany for example. Her universities are as fine perhaps as exist in the world. When the "good King" was really good the plan did not work so badly.

But after an experience of some hundreds of years the people discovered that they drew a "good King" about as often as a man wins the capital prize in a lottery, and that on the whole the King business didn't pay.

Led by Cromwell, they decided that Charles I. and his divine right had to go. Led by Washington, our forefathers concluded that George III. and his prerogatives had no foundation in justice, and they threw them off. Instead of paying taxes to the King to run a Government the people decided that they—the ignorant, lazy, irresponsible herd—would pay taxes into a common treasury and expend the sum so paid for their own common good. They established the post, the public schools, and in our State Governments great universities.

Now, we Hoe fellows claim that it profits us not to be politically free if we are industrially enslaved. We hold that it is labor which produces all the wealth. We know that the average production of wealth per day is $5. The average wage is about $1. We have begun to ask who gets the other $4. Some of us who have worked in mills and factories know that Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Hewitt have secured a large share of it. Of course they keep the major share of the joint product of labor and capital for labor's good. Labor would spend it for whisky and for prize fights, and the extra dollar a day that the worker might get would do him very little good. He and his children and his wife would waste it. They would not buy books and magazines, and would not save money to send some member of the family to college. Oh, no! The wealth would all be dissipated. So, Mr. Carnegie, through tyrannical foremen and with Pinkerton detectives, and by the importation of thousands of men, "brothers to the ox in fact"—witness his coal and coke industries—has amassed many millions.

He said not long ago that no man should accumulate money after he is a millionaire and sixty years old. He should then "live an honest life and spend his money for the good of the people." Does he admit that his methods before he gets his million and his sixty years are open to question from the viewpoint of morals?

You say we would not have had Cooper Union if Mr Cooper and Mr. Hewitt and Mr. Carnegie had not first made millions. Is it true that a people educated to revere George Washington and the founders of this country, a people generally enlightened through the agency of public schools and other public educational agencies, would allow itself to drift back into barbarism but for the munificence of men who have all their lives been but exploiters of labor? You say we cannot endow a great university by passing around the hat. Why not? You collect hundreds of millions a year for the running expenses of the Governments of Nation and States, and a very large part of it is used for "the endowment of great universities."

You say there will be many millionaires and "the country will be the better for them, better for their wealth, better for the good they will do in giving employment to labor in the industries which produce fortunes, and better for the charities they will found and the schools and colleges they will endow."

That depends. The workers are learning fast that they are not employed by millionaires. It is they who employ the millionaires. If every millionaire were to leave this sphere to-morrow it would not make one worker hungry. They can take nothing with them. The wealth labor has produced would still be here, and labor would quickly find the men to direct affairs.

No, Mr. Editor, from the standpoint of the man who has only his "job," your logic won't hold. Labor will demand the $5 that labor makes. It is growing less content with one-fifth of the product of its toil. It wants it "all." It will get it "all" after a while, and then there will be sounded the death knell of "the divine right of dollars." It is so kind of Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Hewitt to look after the thoughtless, irresponsible masses who are entitled under the Constitution to have a voice in this Government on equal terms with Mr. Carnegie, but who, if he is right, are not to be trusted with their own—the wealth they make. There will not be more millionaires and the country will not be better off for the charity they will bestow. Labor wants not charity. Labor wants justice.

GEORGE H. GORDON.

New York, Jan. 3, 1900.

"JUSTIFICATION OF WEALTH."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial of the 3d inst. under the above title would seem to do more for the Socialistic argument than anything usually advanced by its advocates. You say, "They treat riches as culpable in themselves," but your editorial from the caption given above to its finish is based on exactly that ground.

You say, "Mr. Carnegie justifies his wealth by his disposition of it. A millionaire who uses his money in a beneficent way is no longer on his defense." This implies:

1. That his immense wealth needs justification.

2. That he would be on his defense if he did not use it "in a beneficent way."

3. That the possessor of wealth must give for the public good to justify it.

4. That if wealth is not so applied it is unjustifiable.

A Socialist who was not satisfied with admissions like these would be a most unreasonable fellow. It gives away the whole case against him. Admit that Mr. Carnegie has justified his wealth and is no longer on the defensive, what of the ninety-and-nine wealthy men who have not justified their wealth by munificent gifts pro bono publico? You admit all the Socialist contends for when you show that some rich men have justified their wealth. You admit his theory that immense accumulations of wealth are unjustifiable and that such accumulations should be used for the common good.

Why does wealth need justifying? Why do you imply that a man who, by his brains, skill, and industry, under the competitive system, has accumulated a fortune, is under a moral obligation to share up with those who have not improved the opportunity of free competition to such good purpose? Why should such a man be "on his defense?" Why this assumption that he should bestow his gifts on people who have had the same chances that he enjoyed? Your editorial is a thinly veiled reproach to all those rich men who have left undone those things that Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Hewitt, and some few others have done.

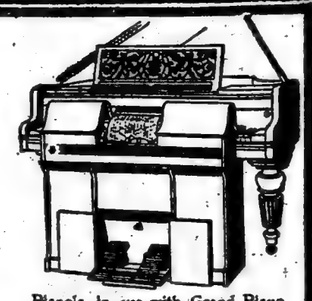
The truth is that these benefactions of wealthy men have no bearing on any economic argument. If the competitive system is a righteous arrangement for the selection and preservation of those fittest to survive, then those who make much money have the same moral right to it that those who make but little money have to their little. While all play the same game, it is childish to pretend that those who win are under any obligation to share with those who lose. The wealthy man, who has played the game and won, has the same right to give Bradley Martin balls that his free competitor at the tag end of the race has to "blow in" his weekly earnings at the corner saloon. If instead he is disposed to help others, he should be credited with generosity, not with justice.

The assumption that the rich man has to justify his wealth is virtually a confession that there is something in the Socialistic argument that these great accumulations are unjustifiable. If it is true, as you say, that "Riches justify themselves against accusers when they are wisely employed by their possessor for the raising up of his fellow-men," that leaves the great bulk of riches and the great majority of rich men wholly unjustified before the accusations of those who do not believe that the competitive system is the best nor ultimate organization of the world's economic activity.

THOMAS CONYNGTON.

New York, Jan. 3, 1900.

THE PIANOLA



Pianola in use with Grand Piano. Price, $250.

is a piano player by means of which any one can play the piano.

No technical knowledge whatever is required on the part of the performer. It is a significant fact that the Pianola is the only piano-player which has been endorsed by musicians.

Unlimited Repertoire — The Pianola brings into use thousands of pianos which are now lying idle. It makes every member of the family a player and master of a repertoire which includes the musical classics both ancient and modern, the latest popular airs, and an endless variety of both song and dance music.

Technic — The Pianola supplies technic, the mechanical obstacle which has heretofore debarred the novice from musical expression and which has been acquired only at the expense of unlimited application by the great musicians.

Touch — The sixty-five fingers of the Pianola strike the sixty-five keys of the piano by means of a pneumatic, according to the technic of the composition, the elasticity of the air producing a pliant, yielding, and remarkably sympathetic attack that is almost identical with that of the human fingers.

Expression — Expression,—that which alone makes a performance musical and gives life and variety to playing, is entirely subject to the will of the performer. He may vary the touch, as a writer in "The Musical Courier" says, "From the feathery touch of a Joseffy to the lion's touch of Rubinstein." In other words, the Pianola, through semi-automatic methods, makes possible an individualized result.

THE PIANOLA CAN BE BOUGHT BY MONTHLY PAYMENTS IF DESIRED.

Our instruments are gladly shown to the merely curious as well as to intending purchasers. If unable to call, send for catalogue.

THE

WHAT INTERESTS VIENNA

Days of the Clary Cabinet Said to be Numbered.

TESTS OF FLYING MACHINES

Strong Feeling Over African War—An Antidote for Nicotine—Pictorial Post Card Craze.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Dec. 19.—For almost two years now the Government has been carried on only by means of one paragraph of the Constitution, the notorious Emergency Clause 14, which provides that if a bill is not passed by Parliament the Government may sanction it. Last Autumn Parliament again was brought into working order, but that brief episode now threatens to terminate. The Czechs-Polish party is continuing its attacks on Count Clary's cabinet, and the Czechs are obstructing. The Austrian Government has promised Hungary that by the end of this year the most important bills relating to the Ausgleich between the two countries will be passed. Should that prove impossible recourse would once more be had to the Emergency Clause 14. But as Count Clary declared he considered its application contrary to the Constitution, the Ministry would have to resign. That is just what the Right is reckoning on, as it demands a Ministry from its own side; that is, a reactionary Clerical one, not a neutral Cabinet like the present one.

All efforts to bring about a reconciliation between the parties seem to have failed. The leaders of the Germans and those of the Czechs, at the Emperor's wish, met several times to try to bring about a compromise, but at the very first meeting there was a conflict of interests between the two national groups, and so the attempt was soon abandoned. The Czechs demanded that, before passing the urgent Ausgleich bill they should be paid in advance by the issuing of an imperial decree ordering the Czech language to be used by the Government offices in Bohemia in communication with each other. Count Clary solemnly declared that a bill regulating the entire languages question had been prepared and would be introduced immediately after the most pressing measures had been passed. But the Czechs demanded prepayment, and so the negotiations failed. A majority is carrying on obstruction, and so it hardly seems as if there would be any other expedient for disposing of the Ausgleich bills than the application of Clause 14. So the days of the Clary Cabinet are numbered.

FEELING OVER THE AFRICAN WAR.

The South African war has distinctly divided the Austro-Hungarian empire into two camps. The Hungarians have always been great friends of the British and Americans. It is a traditional friendship. Their fathers and forefathers when refugees in England and America had sympathy and benefits showered upon them. They learned much there; and when they returned home after the amnesty of the year 1867 they transplanted a touch of the Anglo-Saxon spirit to their native country. Last year the Magyar nation rejoiced at the victory of the United States over Spain, and now all their sympathies are with the British arms in Africa.

On the other hand, all Vienna, like the rest of Austria, is fanatically pro-Boer. The greater part of the population of this capital is anti-Semitic, and the anti-Semites hate the English and Americans just as fanatically as they do the Jews, although the Austrian State as such is on very friendly terms with both those nations. In all associations, cafes and restaurants the news of a Boer victory is always received with jubilation, and exultation. Everywhere, even in the smallest towns, money is being collected for the Boers. The anti-Semite papers glorify the love of liberty and the grand deeds of the Boers; the war is represented as a thieving inroad on the part of the British, they speak only of "England's yoke" and "bondage," at the same time prophesying the imminent overthrow of the British Empire.

The British Ambassador here, daily receives piles of insulting letters. Most of the English residents avoid going into society. If, however, they appear anywhere they are at once surrounded by people whose eyes are beaming with joy at some success of the Boers; then they are jeered at and told that very soon the Englishman will not count for anything in the world. So great is the mental limitation of these people that they do not even perceive of what brutality they are guilty. Only the Jewish section forms an exception to the general Anglophobia. The Jews distinctly sympathize and side with the British everywhere, they feel the Anglo-Saxon race congenial to them, and they are instinctively attracted to it. But the Liberal papers, mostly edited by Jews, dare not give full expression to this feeling, having to reckon with the irradicable ignorance and anti-British rage of the bulk of the population. The Czechs, Poles, and other Slav peoples, mostly ultra-montane and anti-Semitic, are likewise indulging in Anglophobia.

IGNORANCE OF THE PRESS.

A humorous example may be given of the ignorance and utter want of education of the anti-Semitic papers. For some time "The Merchant of Venice" has been having a very successful run at an anti-Semitic theatre. Unfortunately, it is an adaptation that might make the good old Shakespeare turn over in his grave. After the first night the anti-Semitic paper, the Wiener Volksbote, published a criticism, in which in enthusiastic words it called on the Christian public to attend the performances of "The Merchant of Venice" at the Kaiser-Jubilaeums Theatre. The Viennese were told it was their sacred duty to do honor to the author "of this anti-Semitic piece," the popular native poet Grillparzer, (the greatest Austrian poet.) Not content with some dozen times was Grillparzer declared to be the author of the "Merchant of Venice." Some wit, wanting to fathom this unheard-of ignorance to the bottom, sent in the following correction:

To the Editor of The Wiener Volksbote:

I should be very much obliged to you if you would have the kindness in your next number to state that "The Merchant of Venice" is not, as you said in your last number, by Grillparzer, but by me. That milk and water Liberal could never have had the heart to write a piece of such a piously anti-Semitic character. Sincerely thanking you in advance, yours devotedly,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE.

Vienna, Dec. 7, 1899.

Then actually took place the incredible: The editor (who by the way is also a member of the local School Board) printed this correction verbatim. Obviously he had never heard the name of Shakespeare, for he added the following editorial remark: "It certainly was a mistake to suppose that the Freemason grillparzer could have written such a strictly anti-Semitic piece. Now we have done justice to both parties."

ANOTHER FLYING MACHINE.

Another flying machine has made its appearance, from which great things are expected, and which is said to be extremely simple. If only half what Herr Manninger, an Austrian, promises for it is performed, he will be the first to solve the great problem of aerial navigation. He has entrusted his secret, together with his model, to the Military-Technical Committee of the Austrian Army, for it is quite certain that a really practical airship would in the first instance be useful in modern warfare and that the armies would be the first to make use of it. The Military-Technical Committee is now testing the new flying machine, and as long as that lasts the construction will remain a military secret. If what Herr Manninger says as to the capabilities of his invention is correct, he has accomplished very much. He states that by means of his apparatus an object of any weight whatever can be kept suspended anywhere in the air. The second part of the invention, he says, can with a minimum of exertion move it horizontally backward and forward. The third part enables it to rise and sink in the air like a fish does in the water. Regardless of elevation and distance the machine can attain to a speed of 70 kilometres an hour. Finally a fourth part not only overcomes any current of air, but it actually itself creates a contrary current with which to increase its velocity.

Every single part of the apparatus can, if necessary, work alone, and is of surprising simplicity. This invention seems to have brought the problem of the steerable flying machine one step nearer at the least, even though for the present only for military purpos s.

AN ANTIDOTE FOR NICOTINE.

Already I see approaching the golden age in which it will be possible to drink any quantity of whisky, wine, or beer without getting even half seas over. It would be necessary only to discover something that would neutralize the intoxicating effect of alcohol. Just such a thing has been found with regard to nicotine by Dr. Gerold, a learned professor of the Halle University.

It is well known that nicotine, the qualities of which produce the enjoyment which the smoker has, is one of the most powerful vegetable poisons, and if taken into the system in large quantities it produces nervousness, palpitation of the heart, headache, restless nights, indigestion, &c., symptoms of what the doctor calls nicotine poisoning. Many attempts have been made to remove the nicotine from tobacco, in order to prevent the evil effects of smoking. They succeeded, it is true, but also resulted in the tobacco's getting a strawlike character, as the ameliorating ethereal oils were removed together with the nicotine, and such tobacco when smoked dried and irritated the mucous membrane. This drawback Prof. Gerold says he has removed.

In his experiments he was guided by the following theses: Smoking is an adjunct to digestion; without nicotine there is no pleasure in smoking any more than there is in drinking coffee without caffein or tea without theine. Consequently the idea of removing the nicotine as a whole from the tobacco would be fundamentally wrong. The only right thing would be to leave the nicotine in the plant and to destroy only the poisonous part of its composition; this destruction of the poisonous principle in nicotine would have to be accomplished chemically.

The professor has succeeded in attaining this object, that is, in preparing a "nicotine-neutral" tobacco, as it is called. So in future Gerold's nicotine-neutral cigar will relieve the smoker from the pains of the nicotine disease without lessening his enjoyment. Thus will begin a new epoch of smoking from which the phantom of nicotine poisoning has forever been banished.

RAILWAY TRAIN TELEPHONES.

"The telephone in the railway train" Dr. Marib Russo d'Asar calls his remarkable invention, which is just being tried on the Bavarian State Railways. Speaking of the principle of his apparatus, the inventor declares that it will to the greatest possible extent increase the safety of railway traveling, as it will enable trains when running to keep in constant communication with each other, the stations, and the signal men, and thus they would receive information that would prevent collisions which now occur owing to trains running in opposite directions on the same rails, when running through stations, or by one train catching up to the preceding one. The apparatus is complicated, and, as it seems, not yet perfect. It is being tested to see how it would work under divers local and climatic conditions, while at the same time Dr. Russo d'Asar is still improving it.

PICTORIAL POSTCARD CRAZE.

The pictorial postcard craze is still on the increase both here and in all other German countries. By degrees it is becoming an important branch of industry. Not only painters and draughtsmen are pressed into the service of the pictorial postcard and obtain remunerative employment through it, but also authors are now made to do their share. Ten author-cards have been published already, each with a well-executed likeness of the writer with his autograph. For one of them the celebrated and popular Vienna playwright C. Karlweiss has written the following humorous verses:

Denk dir, o Freund-oder Friendin—
Wir beide waeren allein
Auf einer einsamen unsel,
Wie herrlich muesste das sein!
Es gaebe dort keine Zeitung
Und keine Politik,
Es gaebe dort keine Mode
Und niemand wuesste, was "chic"!
Es gaebe dort keine Vereine
Und keinen Saeckelwart,
Es gaebe dort kein Telephon, Telamt—
Und keine Ansichtskart!

ARCHAEOLOGICAL DISCOVERY.

A discovery with regard to Roman archaeology was made near Vienna the other day. Some excavations were being carried out on the site of the ancient Carnuntum, (now Deutsch-Altenburg.) At a little distance from the arena were found remains of some barracks, with magazines for arms and fodder. But the peculiar part is the discovery of greaves. This finally solves a much disputed question. Until now such greaves of the Roman legionaries have been found only on the reliefs of the Trajan pillar, which led savants to the belief that such leg armor was an addition added by the artist from his imagination. Now, however, the finding of several such greaves at Carnuntum has proved this view to be erroneous. These important military relics have been deposited in Baron Ludwigstorf's museum, at Deutsch-Altenburg.

DR. JOHANNES HOROWITZ.

POLITICS IN CONNECTICUT.

Bitter Struggle Going On Between the Bulkeley and Fessenden Factions.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 6.—The approaching Gubernatorial campaign promises to be one of the most exciting ever waged in this State, unless there is a decided change of front on the part of either Morgan S. Bulkeley of Hartford or Samuel Fessenden of Stamford.

The struggle is now fully under way, although the election does not take place until November. In fact, it has been under way for two months. It is doubtful if ever before a campaign was started so early in this State. It is a fight confined entirely to the Republican Party. The Democrats admit that they have no hope of electing their candidate for Governor.

The chief reason for the intensity of the present contest is that Connecticut's representatives in the United States Senate are old men—very old men. Connecticut has two men, one living in Hartford and one in Stamford, who are very ambitious to represent her in the upper house of Congress. Should a vacancy occur in Connecticut's representation the Governor of Connecticut would fill it.

This recalls the old Senatorial fight, which is really the issue at stake. Mr. Fessenden was a candidate to succeed Orville H. Platt in 1896, but withdrew when it became apparent that he had no chance to win.

The three-cornered contest last year between Hawley, Fessenden, and Bulkeley is still fresh in the minds of the people. It may be mentioned, however, that the result did not tend to draw Bulkeley and Fessenden closer together.

The present Governor, George E. Lounsburg of Ridgefield, is a Fessenden man. Should there be a vacancy in the Senatorship now, Fessenden's appointment to the Senate would follow. But the chances of a vacancy occurring in 1901 or 1902 appear to politicians to be far more likely than in 1900. So here is the foundation of the anxiety for landing the Governorship this year.

The contest is not only confined within the party, but is also entirely within the machine. Two years ago John Addison Porter, the private secretary to President McKinley and owner of The Hartford Post, fought the machine and was completely snowed under. This year the struggle is between component parts of the machine. Bulkeley's candidate for Governor is George R. McLean of Hartford, and Mr. Fessenden's is Judge Warner of Litchfield. A few weeks ago there were several candidates in the field, but all have been weeded out now, with the exception of these two, and between them the contest lies.

Ex-Speaker Brandagee of the last Assembly was at first looked upon as Fessenden's choice. His boom had swelled to great proportions, when he withdrew by declaring flatly that he was not a candidate. A few other men were looked upon as available material, but Warner is the only one who appears to have stood all the tests, and to him the Fessenden forces have concluded to pin their faith. Personally, Mr. Warner is qualified for the position.

Mr. McLean is somewhat more of an aggressive man than Warner, and is said to have considerable of a personal following in Hartford. He has been Mr. Bulkeley's man from the first, and several weeks ago he began laying his pipes in the direction of the capital. He has, naturally, the support of The Hartford Courant, Secretary Hawley's paper, and can depend on quite a backing in and around Hartford.

So the next Governor of Connecticut will be, if there is no departure from the natural drift of affairs, either Donald T. Warner of Litchfield or George R. McLean of Hartford. If it is Warner, it will mean that Fessenden will have as complete control of the Republican machine in Connecticut as Platt has in New York, while if it is McLean, it will mean the beginning of the end of Fessenden's influence in Connecticut politics.

Condition of Richard Croker.

The following statement in relation to the condition of Richard Croker was issued from the Mayor's office yesterday: "In answer to a cablegram of inquiry from Mayor Van Wyck, Mr. Croker has cabled the Mayor that he is making good progress toward rapid and complete recovery."

BRITAIN AND THE BOERS

GREAT BRITAIN AND THE TRANSVAAL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I think the letter of Mr. Thomas G. Shearman in your columns should convince any one, even prejudiced Americans, that the Outlanders in the Transvaal needed a champion to sustain them in their just demands, and that Krüger and his associates are tyrants in disguise. His letter is answered by "E. D.," the keynote of whose argument is, The average American could not if he would forget 1776, 1812, and 1861 (?) Yes, I am ashamed to admit that many Americans who are quite ready to forgive and forget their brethren who in '61 tried their best to destroy our Union are not willing to forgive Great Britain for fighting for her own in 1776 and to defend what she thought a right in 1812. As for 1861, if Great Britain had listened to the entreaties of the French Emperor and recognized the South as an independent State, or if she had let the two formidable ironclads built ostensibly—with Southern money—for the Turkish Government, escape, it would have been all up with the North, and our country would have been divided. In relation to the Alabama, she was built by the South, and had to leave England without her guns, and England afterward paid in full for her depredations. And let it be remembered that when England complained—at the time of the Crimean war—that the United States was violating neutrality laws, President Pierce replied that "the United States built vessels for any one, regardless of their destination."

I pity any narrow-minded man who cannot forgive England for the lesser grievance of a century ago, but can readily forgive and try to forget the greater grievance of forty years ago. W. B.

Philadelphia, Dec. 25, 1899.

THE ENGLISH AND CIVILIZATION.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every friend of human progress and civilization in this broad land owes you a deep debt of gratitude for the able and well-timed editorial in your issue of the 19th inst. on "England's Enemies and England's friends." I have been in the habit of seeking my news and views in the pages of other organs of public opinion, but henceforth shall adopt THE TIMES as my standard of honest, manly journalism, and shall buy and read it.

Those maudlin sentimentalists who in your columns call themselves Americans (a claim the truthfulness of which I am in serious doubt) would have us believe that the Boers are fighting for their homes and firesides. This is too transparent a fallacy to need refutation. On the other hand, that they are fighting to maintain and to perpetuate a system of oppression and enslavement against a people who have added wealth and comfort to their homes and firesides should be plain to the least intelligent observer.

The most vehement enemies of England must admit that she has done more for the advancement of civilization than all the other nations of the world combined, and that she has at all times and in every clime insisted that her subjects should be dealt with in accordance with the principles of justice and humanity.

It is sincerely hoped that a chastisement may now be administered to the Boers which, as an example, shall not be lost to this or to future generations.

AN IRISHMAN.

New York, Dec. 23, 1899.

CIVILIZATION INEVITABLE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I contribute two or three suggestions with respect to the controversy now raging in your columns anent the war in South Africa?

1. Any treaties existing between Great Britain and the Transvaal Republic are not, properly speaking, treaties between nations, because no community or people is a nation which has not all the powers, attributes, and elements of nationality, and if the Transvaal be restrained from making independent treaties with any nation or nations it is deprived by that restraint of the very powers, elements, and attributes which constitute a nation.

2. But admitting for a moment that the Transvaal is a political, national entity, and master of its insignificant destinies as such, Great Britain was released from any treaty obligation toward it by its subsequent action in passing disabling and discriminating legislation against British subjects not contemplated at the time of the making of said treaties, and in direct violation of the spirit if not of the letter thereof.

3. But even if the preceding paragraphs have no force, it still remains that you cannot prevent the advancement of civilization by binding it with any treaties whatsoever, and the exigencies of high politics and the progress of those races that speak English are alike impatient of the restraint of treaties that seek to arrest racial development. T. M. JAMES.

New York, Dec. 26, 1899.

Protecting American Interests.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There seem to be some points overlooked in this South African sympathy pie, viz., that England in this war is protecting American interests that would probably have cost this country a war had England not taken up the matter when she did.

The Boers seem to make no distinction between the Americans and the English. Some thousand, more or less, of the Outlanders are Americans. Considerable American money must be invested in the Transvaal. Americans complain of all the injustice that the English complain of; England's case is our case. Americans are now, it is reported, being driven out of the country, leaving their property behind. An American Consul has been forced to retire from the Transvaal in a manner that is strongly suggestive of insult to this country. Is this not enough? A 1776 AMERICAN.

Brooklyn, Dec. 26, 1899.

The Anglo-Boer War.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was very glad to read your admirable article to-day headed "Size and Sympathy." I am very sure that it voices precisely what a good many of the thoughtful and conservative people of this country feel, but which hitherto has had no expression in the daily newspapers. You did not commence well in your attitude toward this deplorable war, but more recently you have amply made amends by a series of really brilliant articles. If I may say so, you have risen nobly to the exigencies of the situation—worthy of the best traditions of THE TIMES; and many of us who have long been among your readers place that "best" very high indeed. You have given us one more evidence that we may always place implicit reliance in at least one great daily newspaper.

New York, Dec. 26, 1899. R. W. D.

CANAL IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED.

A Shipping Expert's View of What Grain Traffic Facilities Would Mean to New York.

Emil L. Beas, manager of the Hamburg American Line, discussing ocean freights recently, gave a shipping man's idea of the questions involved in the matter of canal improvements.

"We have," said he, "a most extraordinary condition of affairs. Usually at this season there is a great export movement and rates range high. Just now the contrary condition exists. The export, especially of grain, which forms the bulk of the traffic, is remarkably small and consequently rates range low. They have reached as low as seven cents for the 100 pounds, while at this season ordinarily the rate is about three times as high. The cause is of course that Europe does not buy more grain of us, and quite likely the Argentine Republic supplies it. What the future will bring nobody knows. We hope for the best.

"New York is suffering, in my opinion, largely because of the inadequacy of the Erie Canal. You have heard of course that a syndicate has been formed for the building of elevators in Montreal—the so-called Conner syndicate of Buffalo. They will build elevators with a capacity of 12,000,000 bushels, and have agreed to deliver inside of three years 105,000,000 bushels in those elevators.

Canada has spent about $84,000,000 on her canals, which, considering that her whole population is only 5,000,000, must appear an enormous sum. They have improved the Welland Canal, giving it a depth of 14 feet, and now they are improving the French River, so that they will have a waterway route from Georgian Bay direct to Montreal. There is also a canal from Georgian Bay to Toronto. New York has practically so far done nothing. Gov. Roosevelt has appointed a committee that will report on the best manner of improving the Erie Canal. The situation is that at present it costs 2.62 cents a bushel for wheat from Buffalo to New York.

"What we should have, to maintain the supremacy of New York, is a canal that will permit the moving of grain from Buffalo to New York at one cent a bushel. The ports that get the outward bound will also get inbound traffic. The merchant in Chicago is not a sentimental man, and he cares more for his rates than he does for New York. We see that the railroads make a lower freight for Baltimore and Philadelphia than they do for New York. Furthermore no wharfage is charged at those ports. The railroads own or control the wharfs and they place them at the disposal of the trans-Atlantic steamships. This is true also of Portland and Boston."

A PLEA FOR FREE SHIPS.

Lewis H. Spence Discusses the Benefits That Would Result to This Country from the System.

Lewis H. Spence of the shipping firm of Simpson, Spence & Young is an ardent advocate of free ships. His firm operates the Arrow Line between here and Dundee and Leith and does a chartering business between the United States and Europe—in connection with the Norfolk and Western and the Southern Railroads from Norfolk to London, Hamburg, and Rotterdam; from Charleston in connection with the railroads there to different European ports, including Liverpool, Bremen, and Hamburg, and from Mobile in connection with the Mobile and Ohio and the Southern Railroads, mostly to Liverpool, Bremen, and Hamburg, and from New Orleans and Galveston to European ports.

Mr. Spence believes that if the bars were let down so that foreign-built ships could be brought under the American flag it would result, not only in the opening of a new field for American capital, but would also result in the establishing of American shipbuilding plants to compete with the foreign builders of freight-carrying steamers.

"The present laws," said he, "have not added one ship to the American flag. You have practically not a tramp steamer, that is, the freighter which is really the steamer that earns the money, and which really constitutes the merchant marine of Great Britain. The British passenger vessels are insignificant in number compared with the tramps. They can't build a freighter here at the cost for which they can be built in England. Here the shipbuilding plants are generally established for building a high class vessel—passenger vessels or war vessels. In the British Isles there are any number of plants which build only tramps, and some of them only the hulls, the engines being built at other plants. These concerns are satisfied with very moderate profits and in dull times are glad to operate without profits simply to keep their plants going.

"There is no reason why we should not have such plants here, once competition is established. The few plants here—very expensive—have sufficient work from the Government and the coastin tgrade which gives them a handsome profit. Suppose, however, the United States Government were to allow vessels to be put under the American flag, no matter where built? This would result in the formation of American companies to own vessels, who would be in the market for vessels, and that would result in plants being established to build in competition with British builders a class of freight steamers, the building of which under present conditions it would not pay our present companies to bid for. You can see that if American capitalists were in the market for vessels, it would not be long before such a manufacturing country as this would develop plants to bid for the work of construction.

"There are plenty of Americans willing to invest in shipping. We have a company to-day in which Americans have invested, but if we could have formed that company under American laws, we could have got a great many more into it. The capital was ready; in fact, in almost unlimited quantities. But we could not form our company that way, and bankers and others are not inclined to loan on British stock. If we were formed under the American law, statements would be issued showing earnings and the condition of the company. Besides, the methods of transferring stock under the British law is so crude and cumbersome as to be forbidding. Here stock is transferred by an indorsement. British stocks are transferred under conditions of so much red tape that the transfer sometimes takes two months. American capital is not inclined to take stock; the negotiation of which is so troublesome.

"There should be no reason why the many charterers here should not make the profits that now go to the foreign owner. American interests in time charters are enormous, but we are like tenants instead of being landlords. Little Norway, with her small population has a larger foreign-going merchant marine than has the United States—a source of large income to Norwegian owners. These vessels are nearly all built in England in British shipyards, and as Norway's trade is not large, they are engaged away from home, many of them between United States ports and the ports of other foreign countries such as the fruit carriers between New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Southern ports, and the West Indies and Central America.

"There is no reason why Americans should not derive the profits of such business, and for reasons which I have shown it would not be long before this country with its progressive manufacturing interests would build its vessels itself instead of continuing as Norway—a non-manufacturing country—in building outside."

HISTORY OF A FRATERNITY PIN.

Interesting Relic from the Field of the Battle of the Brandywine.

A fraternity pin, which was presented by William and Mary's College of Virginia in 1776, and is probably the oldest college fraternity pin in America, was found recently near the Brandywine Creek in Chester County, Penn., and is now in the possession of Joseph Brinton of Thornbury, Penn.

The battlefield where Gen. Washington was outmanoeuvred by Lord Howe 122 years ago, and where the young Lafayette was sorely wounded and only escaped capture by riding eighteen miles before receiving medical assistance, has been in the possession of the Brinton family for five generations and was the property of the great-grandfather of the present representative of the family at the time of the Revolution. Since then the family has acquired a great many relics, of which the pin, which was plowed up by a farmhand and sold by him for $5, is perhaps the most interesting, as it reveals the story of a young patriot who gave his life for his country only to lie forgotten and unknown for nearly a century and a quarter.

The pin is of the old watch-key shape familiar to college men as the insignia of Phi Beta Kappa. On one side it bears the name "John Graham," with the date of the founding of the fraternity—Dec. 6, 1776.

When the college authorities at Williamsburg were notified of the discovery of the pin an investigation was made which showed that a John Graham was graduated there and left to join the rebel army in January, 1777. He disappeared mysteriously about eight months later, and the finding of his pin on the battlefield of the Brandywine makes it almost certain that he was killed there. He was a very young man, unmarried, and had few relations living. His relatives searched for him for some time after his disappearance, but were forced to give him up as lost. These facts are all that can be learned about the owner of the pin. The Phi Beta Kappa Society has made several efforts to purchase the pin, but so far has been unsuccessful.

Mr. Brinton possesses many other relics of the Revolution, among which is a short sword, which was presented, shortly after the battle of the Brandywine, to his grandfather, then a boy of fifteen, by Lord Howe. According to the tradition handed down with the sword in the family the boy had been sent out to look for a herd of cows which had disappeared mysteriously.

The trail of the missing cows ran directly into the British camp, and the boy followed it. After wandering about for some time inquiring for the lost cows, he was brought before Lord Howe, and asked the British General for the missing cattle.

"Why, you little rebel," said Howe, "your cows have been eaten up long ago, but I'll give you a sword in place of them. Take it to your father and tell him Lord Howe gave it to you."

So young Brinton went home grieving over a few lost cows, but carrying with him a sword which his descendants would not sell for the price of a great many herds of cattle.

Succeeds to Husband's $1,200 Job.

The Queens County Board of Supervisors yesterday appointed Mrs. Margaret Conroy janitress of the County Court House buildings, at a salary of $1,200 per year. Mrs. Conroy's husband, Richard Conroy, who died recently, had been janitor of the Queens County Court House for twenty-five years.

A WEEK'S CHICAGO NEWS

Munificent Gifts to the University of Chicago.

DRAINAGE CANAL LITIGATION

Ordinance Introduced Providing that the City Charge Rental for Spaces Under Sidewalks.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—President Harper of the University of Chicago has again demonstrated his remarkable gifts as a money raiser by bringing in all but $315,000 of the sum necessary to secure the $2,000,000 proffered by Mr. Rockefeller. As the time in which he had to raise this money has been extended three months he feels certain that Mr. Rockefeller's gift will yet come to the university.

Among the donations announced at the convocation this week was one of $50,000 from Leon Mandel of this city, which will be used to build an assembly hall, something which the institution has long needed. Charles R. Crane gave $10,000 to found a Lectureship of Russian Literature, and Berthold Loewenthal gave $10,000 for the Joseph P. Loewenthal Chair of Chemistry. Mrs. Anne Hitchcock gave a two-hundred-thousand-dollar interest in a valuable piece of down-town property, and there were many gifts of large sums from persons named or anonymous, who did not specify to what the money should be applied. Marshall Field gave property worth $135,000 adjacent to the campus. There were also some magnificent gifts in the form of collections, one consisting of over 700,000 paleontological specimens.

There has been much criticism of President Harper from certain quarters for devoting his time to the work of inducing gifts which will tempt still larger ones from the great patron of the university, rather than to advancing the institution from an educational standpoint, but he asserts that for its age the university is doing magnificently as a place of learning, and that in the meanwhile he is laying a foundation which will enable it to be one of the greatest institutions of its kind in the world. At any rate, Mr. Rockefeller appears to approve of the President, for he has never countermanded any of the material plans of Dr. Harper, and on the other hand he has doubled and trebled his own gifts and encouraged others to give liberally of their means.

For the evident purpose of forestalling any further adverse litigation, the Trustees of the drainage canal turned the waters of Lake Michigan and, incidentally, those of the Chicago River into the big ditch last Tuesday, and the ice-laden waters of the stream began moving slowly down toward Lockport, at the other end. As the works at the Lockport end are not yet complete, the water is not allowed to go any further than that point at this time. Some of the engineers take an adverse view of this action, and think that it will be viewed as an evidence of weakness on the part of the Trustees, and may prejudice their case when the matter reaches Congress. But the water is filling up the big cut, and it will, as one of the Trustees said, "be a hard thing to bail it out." No serious fears are felt that the Trustees' action will prejudice their case at Washington.

Among the many plans proposed for raising the revenue necessary to relieve the city of its present financial embarrassment is one introduced in the shape of an ordinance which provides that the city shall take charge of all the space beneath the sidewalks and charge those now using it rental sufficient to bring in at least $500,000. It also provides that rental shall be charged for all space under streets and alleys now used for private purposes. This has been threatened before, but it has never been proposed in the form of an ordinance. Some firms, like the retail dealers on State Street, have built out cellar-doors and show windows which extend past the limits on the walks, but many hundreds of thousands of square feet of space underneath the walks and streets are used by private persons and firms without charge.

After a conference with his advisers, Mayor Harrison has concluded that it would not be a wise thing to ask the Governor to convene the Legislature for the purpose of authorizing a bond issue. Instead of that he proposes to have the city mandamus the County Clerk and take the chances on the courts compelling him to give the city more money. The question will be raised whether the County Clerk has given the city a fair apportionment of the money. He has given the other taxing bodies as much money as they received last year. The County Board gets $300,000 more. The city tax has been pared down one-third. The Drainage Board has already mandamused the Clerk for the same purpose. In its suit it demands the full percentage to which the law says the district is entitled. The city will ask to be made a party to the suit.

If the city fails to get the same amount of money which it had last year, the Mayor declares that a system of retrenchment will have to be begun which will mean a serious curtailing of expenditure in every department. The issuance of scrip will only be resorted to as a forlorn hope. If the banks will agree to a reasonable rate of discount in that event, it is thought that sufficient money can be raised in that way to carry on the Government. The Mayor hopes that political bodies, irrespective of party, will take action which will result in a revision of the powers of the State Board of Equalization, and take away from it the right to assess certain corporations.

The Committee on Suburban Housing recently appointed by the Improved Housing Association has been tracing the migration of those who make up the population of this city. In a report made by the committee, the causes which lead to the shifting of the centres of population, the changes in character of neighbors, and the crowding together in city districts of persons who could afford to live in the more open suburban districts, are all set forth. For the shifting of population four reasons are ascribed: First, the great and rapid accessions of population; second, the youth of the city and the consequent undeveloped desire for a settled abode on the part of the people; third, the gregariousness of the foreign element, which accounts for the flocking of a number of people in a certain direction; fourth, the increasing development of rapid transit facilities. According to this report, there has been formed as a result of this shifting a "dead belt," into which few families move, but out of which there is a constant movement. On the North Side this belt extends from the river to North Avenue; on the West Side to Centre Avenue, and on the South Side from Twelfth to Thirty-fifth Street.

R. B. P.

CHRISTIANITY AMONG YALE MEN

Sixty-seven Per Cent. of the Freshmen Church Members.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 6.—The Rev. Dr. McLane, a leading Congregational minister of this city, made an investigation of the number of professing Christians in the freshman class at Yale shortly after they assembled last Fall. He found that 67 per cent. of the students at Yale in the freshman class are church members. It was assumed from this report that the percentage is as high, if not higher, in the other classes.

These young men do not merely attend church, but are extending their religious proclivities toward helping the cause of Christianity within and without the bounds of the university. The students sustain several religious institutions.

To raise funds to carry out their plans the students are engaged in a systematic method of donating. To support the religious work each student who cares to pledges a certain amount to be paid monthly or weekly as his circumstances will allow. The fund is constantly kept at a snug figure.

Out of this fund $500 is paid each year toward the support of the Yale mission. This mission is located in Franklin Street, and was sorely needed. A committee from the University Young Men's Christian Association conducts meetings at the mission every day in the year.

From the fund mentioned $1,200 is sent each year to the support of a mission in Japan established several years ago.

The work of systematic giving was begun by the college Young Men's Christian Association leaders in 1897. The college Young Men's Christian Association, organizations of which there are two—one in the academic and one in the scientific department—are gaining in membership and the interest in the work is increasing.

Dwight Hall prayer meetings on Sunday evenings are largely attended. The meetings are short and addressed each week by a member of the Faculty or some outside minister.

D. M. WILLIAMS & CO.

Annual Sale

LADIES'

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

Embroideries
White Goods
Housekeeping Linens
Unlaundered Shirts

BEGINNING MONDAY, JAN. 8.

125TH STREET AND 3D AVENUE.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES.

The following claim for extra pay for service during the Spanish war will be found of interest to Guardsmen in general who served in the volunteers: When Company K, Second Regiment, of Glens Falls was mustered out of the United States service, after the Spanish war, there was a difference of opinion between the Captain, now Major, Loyal L. Davis, and the Army Paymaster as to the amount due the men. The Paymaster decided against the claims of the privates and non-commissioned officers, but in order to get the matter settled finally Capt. Davis put in a claim to the War Department for the balance unpaid to Private Joseph A. Richardson, making it a test case. In due course of time this claim passed through the various official channels, and a few days ago Private Richardson received a check from the Government for $11.22.

Other members of Company K are now sending in similar claims. Claims will also be made by the other companies of the Second Regiment, which was mustered in from Troy, Cohoes, Schenectady, Hoosick Falls, Saratoga, Whitehall, and Glens Falls.

***

Major Gen. Roe has made some more important changes in his staff. It seems that Major David, who was detailed from the supernumerary list for duty on the staff of the General, was not selected to fill permanently the position of Inspector, made vacant by the appointment of Col. Hoffman as Adjutant General, but was detailed to assist in the Inspector's Department, and to perform such other duty as might be required. Gen. Roe has appointed Col. W. Carey Sanger, Assistant Inspector, to the position of Inspector, and Lieut. Col. William H. Chapin of the Sixty-fifth Regiment has been appointed Assistant Inspector. Both officers are well known and highly esteemed in the National Guard. Col. Sanger's record includes service as Major and Quartermaster of the Third Brigade, Jan. 4, 1886, and the same position in the Second Brigade, Oct., 5, 1887; Major and Inspector of the Second Brigade, Oct. 24, 1888; Major of the Thirteenth Regiment, Oct. 29, 1890; Assistant Chief of Artillery, March 3, 1893, and Lieutenant Colonel of the Two Hundred and Third New York Volunteers during the Spanish war. Col. Chapin joined the Sixty-fifth Regiment as a First Lieutenant in March, 1880, was appointed Adjutant in June, 1889; promoted Major in August, 1893, and resigned in May, 1894; appointed Adjutant in March, 1896, and was elected Lieutenant Colonel in January, 1892. During the Spanish war he served as Lieutenant Colonel of the Sixty-fifth New York Volunteers.

***

The proceedings at the annual convention of the National Guard Association of New York, to be held in Albany, will, it is expected, interest every Guardsman in the State, and those in charge are working hard to this end. The date of the convention has been changed to Feb. 8.

***

A professional boxer who was hired some time since by a certain regiment as athletic instructor found that the men of the command came up to him so fast and that a number of them proved so skillful that he found it necessary to throw up his job.

***

The Sixty-ninth Regiment has broken all records. During the past few months nineteen elections have been held without a row.

***

The following members of Company A, Seventh Regiment, have performed 100 per cent. of duty during the past drill season: Capt. Townsend, Sergts. Scriven, Roosevelt, Fiske, and Hook; Corps. Swinnerton, Budenbach, Nalsawald, Bullwinkle, and Morgan, and Privates Dickson, Green, Geoghegan, Hopkins, Hull, Lockwood, Minor, Muller, Osborne, Quackburner, Sands, Thomas, Paepke, Schenck, Wilson, Wightman, and Curnen.

***

Col. Bates of the Seventy-first Regiment has decided upon Tuesday evening, Jan. 23, as the date when Gen. H. S. Hawkins, United States Army, will review the regiment. One of the interesting ceremonies of the evening will be the presentation of the colors which the Seventy-first carried during the campaign against the Spanish in Cuba to the Regimental Veteran Association. A reception will follow the military ceremony.

***

In rifle practice at Creedmoor the past season the Seventy-first Regiment has made one of the best records in its history. This result is very largely due to the efforts of Capt. A. S. Williams, under whose supervision the shooting was done. The banner companies are D and B. In the aggregate 56 sharpshooters have qualified, against 35 last year, and this season there are seventeen experts, against 16 in 1898; 533 marksmen qualified this season. The result in detail is as follows:

	Marksmen.	Sharpshooters.	Experts.
Field and staff	11	1	0
Non-commissioned staff	12	2	0
Company A	47	6	1
Company B	58	10	3
Company C	55	4	1
Company D	86	11	4
Company E	44	6	3
Company F	46	2	1
Company G	49	6	1
Company H	41	4	1
Company I	41	2	1
Company K	34	2	1
Hospital Corps	9	0	0
Total	533	56	17

The above record is the best of any of the regiments that served in the volunteers.

***

Quite a number of members of the Twelfth who held commissions in the United States Volunteers in the Spanish war are still holding

The New York Times.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

PUBLISHED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR.

NEW YORK, SUNDAY, JAN. 7, 1900.

OFFICES:

NEW YORK:
Publication Office.....41 Park Row
All American District Telegraph Offices.
WASHINGTON.....515 Fourteenth St.
LONDON: Trafalgar Buildings, Trafalgar Sq., W.C.
SWITZERLAND, Geneva: P. Drehmann, Librairie Nouvelle, Rue du Mont Blanc.
GERMANY, Mainz: Saarbach's News Agency, Agency for [illegible] and Austria.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
BY MAIL, POSTAGE PAID.

DAILY, per Month.....$0.50
DAILY, per Year.....6.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Year.....7.50
SUNDAY, per Year.....1.50
SATURDAY, with Review of Books and Art, per Year.....1.00
MONDAY, with Financial Supplement, per Year.....1.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Mohth.....0.65

For postage to foreign countries add 80 cents per month.

TWENTY-EIGHT PAGES

UNIT AND STANDARD.

The speech which Senator ALDRICH made day before yesterday on the Currency bill proposed by the Senate Finance Committee as a substitute for that of the House of Representatives was able and cogent. We commend especially to the misinformed editors and politicians who have been insisting that the gold standard needs yet to be established by legislation, the Senator's explicit declaration that "the act of Feb. 12, 1873, made the gold dollar the sole unit of value;" and that the purpose of the present bill is to declare "anew" that gold is the monetary standard of the United States. The amount of nonsense that has been uttered in contradiction of these facts is little flattering to the intelligence of our people.—The Sun.

A unit is handy for reckoning. A standard is necessary for appraising.

If Senator ALDRICH had gold money in his trousers pocket, silver money in his coat pocket, and paper money in his waistcoat pocket, the unit measure of our currency would, for purposes of enumeration, be perfectly applicable to all three. It would satisfactorily answer the question, How many dollars are there of each kind?

The unit measure does not answer the question, What are these dollars worth, respectively? For that the standard measure must be applied, the measure of value. There is one standard measure of value the world over. It is gold. Even the silver countries, with their units of value reckoned in taels, pesos, rupees, and Mexican dollars, habitually, even if unconsciously, refer to the gold standard measure in estimating the value of their commodities. The daily quotations of the gold premium in the silver standard countries proves that their silver unit is not a final measure or standard of value.

If the Rhode Island Senator turns to the Federal Statutes he will, to be sure, discover that the act of 1873 makes the gold dollar "the unit of value." But he will discover, also, that the act of February, 1878, is entitled "An act to authorize the coinage of the standard silver dollar;" and that the Sherman act of 1890 directs the Secretary of the Treasury to coin silver bullion "into standard silver dollars." His confusion of mind will be further increased by the language of the repeal act of 1893, which declares it to be the policy of the United States "to continue the use of both gold and silver as standard money." Plainly, here are two standards, the one fixed and serviceable, the other fluctuating, delusive, and worthless. Solid ground is reached only in the declaration of the act of 1890 declaring it to be "the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other." That puts the faith and credit of the Government behind each silver and paper dollar in the Senator's pockets. The gold dollars need no backing. They will take care of themselves.

A good many of the lifelong friends of sound money agree with the recent converts that the gold standard has existed in this country since the enactment of the act of 1873. The fact that this position is widely disputed and that the matter is under discussion shows that there is doubt about it. It can be removed only by an explicit and unmistakable statutory declaration establishing the gold standard. Neither the doubt nor the danger can be removed by saying that anybody who differs from you about it must be an idiot.

A GLANCE AT THE TREASURY STATEMENT

The United States Treasury issues daily a statement of its condition at the close of business on the previous day. To this is added a statement of the receipts and expenditures for that day, for the current month up to and including that day, and for the expired portion of the fiscal year—that is, for the year for which the annual appropriations are made, which begins on the first day of July. It is, therefore, quite within the reach of the taxpayer, who is a sort of silent partner in the business of the Treasury, supplying means for its transactions but having only a limited and indirect influence on its management, to know from day to day in a general way how much money is coming into the Treasury and from what sources, how much is going out and for what purposes, and how much remains and of what kinds. Probably very few men follow all these details attentively, but they are all of them extremely interesting, and those that relate to the actual stock of money, its nature and its incoming and outgoing, are often very important elements in the larger calculations of business men.

The statement for the close of the calendar year, which was printed in our ANNUAL FINANCIAL REVIEW, affords a particularly interesting study. The first thing that strikes the reader is the very large amount of money in the Treasury and the very small proportion of it that is in the forms of currency to which we are accustomed in the exchanges of daily business life. We find that the actual "available cash balance, including the gold reserve," is, in round numbers, $300,000,000. When we examine the various items that yield this net amount we find that, in the first place, there is in the Treasury nearly $400,000,000 of gold coin and gold bullion, in the proportion of about five-eighths of coin and three-eighths of bullion. Against this there are outstanding some $186,000,000 of gold certificates, of which the Treasury itself holds some $27,000,000, leaving the net amount of gold at $239,000,000. In other words, the Treasury has fully four-fifths of its available cash balance in gold. Of what is generally known as the paper money of the country the Treasury has less than $17,000,000 in greenbacks, about $6,000,000 in silver certificates, $4,000,000 in National bank-notes, and less than $1,000,000 in Treasury notes of 1890. The item of standard silver dollars is peculiarly curious. Of these there have been coined in all $405,279,020, but the certificates issued against them amount to $395,303,520, leaving a little less than $10,000,000 of them in the Treasury.

The cause of this low balance of the money used in daily exchanges is, of course, the need for this sort of money outside of the Treasury, for though the taxpayer has no choice as to whether he will pay his dues to the Treasury or not he has a wide choice as to the particular kind of money he will pay in. In the past he has invariably paid in the form of money in which he had the least confidence. As late as 1893 and 1894 he paid in the Treasury notes of 1890 and previously he paid in silver dollars or in the certificates representing them. Now he has equal confidence in all, and he pays in that form of money which is least convenient in his business. The forms that he was accustomed to "shove on" into the Treasury, very much as he paid out his smooth quarters first, he now retains and finds advantage in doing so. This state of things throws a good deal of light on the safe use of money based on credit in whole or in part, as were the silver dollars. They can be kept at par so long as their volume is strictly limited to the amount actually required in the daily exchanges of business. It was on this principle that Mr. FAIRCHILD, when he was Secretary of the Treasury, proposed that the coinage of silver dollars under the Bland act should be suspended so soon as they began to accumulate in the Treasury. Had that simple plan been adopted the country would have been saved an enormous amount of confusion and loss.

If we turn from the cash on hand to the statement of receipts and expenditures, we find that so far in the fiscal year everything is going smoothly for the Treasury. The income for the past six months has been from all sources $283,034,181, and the outgo has been only $262,052,000, leaving the comfortable surplus of over $20,000,000 for the half year. This is due to the unexpected yield of both the customs taxes and the internal revenue taxes, the former having increased some $18,000,000 and the latter some $15,000,000 over the corresponding period of last year. But while this is comfortable for the officers of the Treasury it is not permanently desirable for the country, and we have no doubt that it would give Mr. GAGE great satisfaction if he could see the income, and the outgo as well, sharply reduced.

THE PROGRESSIVE STORY OF THE RACE.

The geologist poking about among the boulders or the botanist bending with his microscope over a weed gets no impression of the beauty of the landscape. If you give your time to the study of brush strokes, pigments, and the weave of the canvas, the meaning of the painter's composition escapes you altogether. A knowledge of the facts that GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS spoke four languages and that WALLENSTEIN was gloomy and superstitious does not constitute a sufficient basis for an ethical judgment of the Thirty Years' War.

The bearing of these observations, which lies in their application, will be made clear to the thoughtful by a study of this compact, masterly, illuminating and co-ordinated judgment of certain events in the past and contemporaneous history of the world:

"The River War" was not merely the overwhelming of certain picturesque barbarians in the Middle Nile Valley, it was a logical and an important incident in the progressive story of our race. The British occupation and control of Egypt, the Anglo-Egyptian reconquest of the Soudan, the stand against a French station at Fashoda, the insistence that the British sphere of influence must include the Bahr El Ghazal, the British occupation of Uganda, and of all of the old Egyptian provinces of the Equator, the dashing capture of Rhodesia, the slow development of the South African colonies into English States, and, finally, the war with the Boers, all these are part of one great movement. This movement is centuries old. It has its vicissitudes, but it is the most persistent political phenomenon now visible to mankind. It is the forward movement of the men born to speak the English tongue.

The passage we quote is the opening paragraph of a review of WINSTON SPENCER CHURCHILL'S "River War," published in THE TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW yesterday. It is from the pen of Col. HENRY G. PROUT. In reading it you breathe the air of the mountain tops. It takes you up where, if you have the eyes, you can trace the broad stream of history winding down its valley from the head waters; you no longer have to judge its direction from one reach, or its volume from a single pool or noisy cataract.

In forming a judgment of the Boer war and making an award of sympathies between the combatants it is, to an enlightened mind, quite irrelevant whether your ancestors came over in the Goede Vrouw and bartered gin for peltries with the Indians at Fort Orange, or landed at Plymouth Rock and broke the monotony of an Algonquin Winter in Massachusetts with their flintlocks and long prayers. Even if Westmeath or Tipperary was the ancient seat of your line, there are other sentiments than hatred of the Sassenach which it would become a reasoning mind to entertain. Nor is it enough to know that PAUL KRUEGER is pious and that his country and the Orange Free State are called republics.

The fundamental guiding principle is clearly pointed out in Col. PROUT'S article. "This movement is centuries old. It is the forward movement of the men born to speak the English tongue."

Are you for it or against it?

THE RESCUED PRISONERS.

It cannot be said of LAWTON, as it was said of HAMPDEN, that "this deceased Colonel has left none his like behind him." It is the tradition and spirit of the United States Army that LAWTON embodied. These are embodied also in his survivors. The exploit of Col. HARE in running down the custodians of American prisoners of war and releasing their captives is evidently one of which any man who ever wore the uniform of the army might be proud.

It has been evident throughout our campaign in Luzon that no training could have been better for the work our army has had to do than that which its officers have received in "Indian fighting." The work they have had was work with which they were already familiar. The greater number of the Filipinos was offset by the superior formidableness of the Indian, taken individually. Col. HARE had his training in this best of all possible schools. The French used to say that Algeria was worth more than it cost them on account of the post-graduate course which the small wars that were always going on there furnished to their officers. Certainly that is true of our Indian wars, although the "practice" is likely henceforth to be lost from a failure of subjects. But it was in this school that Col. HARE took his finishing course. His country has now got the benefit of it. The chase of the Filipinos who had the prisoners in charge must have been an awful ordeal for the pursuers. Since officers of the army are not given to recounting their adventures on paper, except through the dry medium of official reports, from which little or nothing of human interest is allowed to escape, we shall not know how awful it was until they return and tell their experiences in conversation. But it must at least be evident to everybody that the rescue of these prisoners has been a very notable feat of arms.

It must be evident also that organized resistance in Luzon is already almost a thing of the past, and that our problems there are henceforth much more political than military. How could it be otherwise? The current number of Harper's Weekly gives two pages of portraits of the military leaders of the insurrection, which ought to be looked at and pondered by all the anti-imperialists. The Generals are all striplings or hobbledehoys, and all immensely conscious of their uniforms. In fact, the uniform seems to be as main an ingredient in their choice of the profession of arms as the gold whistle was in AGUINALDO'S dreams of a dictatorship. To contrast these likenesses of them with the portraits of LAWTON in the same issue is to be reminded anew that "the wolf does not count the sheep."

THE TRAFFIC IN FIFTH AVENUE.

It is to be hoped that Mr. GUGGENHEIMER will not allow to languish the excellent resolution which he introduced into the Municipal Assembly for regulating the traffic of Fifth Avenue. There is really only one side to the question raised by the proposal. If the public opinion of the city could be fairly brought to bear upon the question, it would be settled at once. As things now are, there may be some municipal legislators from the outlying boroughs who imagine that there is some political capital to be made by playing the demagogue on the question and pretending that a reservation of one avenue out of a dozen for the benefit of the great majority of those who use it is "class legislation." In fact, as we have shown, it is "class legislation" to allow a minority of truck and wagon drivers to obstruct Fifth Avenue, when they themselves could move much faster and carry on their own business much better by taking an avenue less crowded than that to the congestion of which they so greatly and inexcusably contribute.

This is the view that has been taken by some of the most important of the brewers whose wagons have been among the most serious obstruction. They have voluntarily ordered their drivers to keep off Fifth Avenue during the crowded hours. If this good example were followed by all the owners of delivery wagons, the question would settle itself. An appeal to such owners would probably be successful.

There is another matter to which the attention of owners of delivery wagons may properly be called. That is the fact that many of them habitually threaten the public safety, if they do not violate a specific ordinance, by putting their vehicles in charge of incompetent and reckless drivers, often small boys. Nothing is more common than to see a horse and wagon standing loose before a door, without even a hitching weight attached to the horse, while the driver is delivering goods inside. A fatal accident occurred not long ago through one of the runaways which such a practice invites. It is not too much to say that the delivery wagon is one of the chief terrors of all our streets, as well as one of the chief obstructions of Fifth Avenue. It is high time that it should be subjected to much stricter regulation.

The ineradicable tendency of human beings to "put their heads together and talk about the weather" is amply justified by the experience of the people of New York so far in this remarkable Winter. Doubtless there are meteorologists in plenty armed with records and statistics, thermometric and barometric, to confound us in our assertion that there is anything at all remarkable in the weather we are enjoying as compared with the weather of other years. But their evidence is not of the slightest interest. What every healthy human creature in this neighborhood is remarking is remarkable, and you can't get away from it. It exists and the enjoyment of it exists, and every drop of coursing blood in the veins testifies to it. If any one is inclined to dispute about it that only adds to the fervor of the discussion. A Winter in which golf and wheeling alternate for weeks together with skating, and, now and then, in favored spots, with coasting, and in which even the semi-dormant citizen who takes his sunshine and his ozone in the most perfect attainable quiet, cannot escape stimulus, is a Winter to be glad of and thankful for. Of course there are in store for us frosts and fogs and snows and rains and ice, but the time in which they can worry us will be short. For the present we can think of them with cheerful incredulity.

The case of HOWE against SKINNER, which has been occupying the attention of Judge TRUAX'S court for several days, is one of a class which undoubtedly ministers to the enjoyment of all those not immediately concerned in it. Their enjoyment may be even heightened, according to the cynical observation of LA ROCHEFOUCAULD, by the sufferings of the parties to the controversies, of whom at least one is not in court of his own volition. Also, it is of indubitable interest to see a respectable household turned upside down and inside out by the judicial Asmodeus, an interest which our esteemed yellow contemporaries occasionally cultivate by undertaking to do the overturning themselves without waiting for the law. Although the verdict of the jury has not yet been "given out," it has been rendered, and the case is by that fact, we suppose, "released" for the comments of a cold and heartless world. We have no intention of availing ourselves of the release to comment upon the merits of the case. We may, however, remark that if a young woman whose capital of accomplishments appears to consist of that proficiency in music and in modern languages which all finishing schools profess to impart is entitled to recover, for the use of these accomplishments, at the rate of $6,000 a year, having already received free board and lodging, there ought to be no further complaint of a want of employment for women. A verdict for the full amount of the plaintiff's claim ought to settle that question forever for young women who have rich and childless acquaintances.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

—Little perspicuity is required to discover the real object of Senator MITCHELL'S bill, introduced at Albany on Wednesday, to create a County of Bronx. Somebody has seen in this scheme the possibility of a lot of new offices more or less well remunerated, and nothing else was needed to win for it the enthusiastic support of the not inconsiderable number of patriots who know from personal experience that there are not at present offices enough to go around. Of course the Bronx statesmen are careful to explain that they do not desire separation from New York City, the rich and generous mother of adopted children with taxes for her to pay and improvements for her to make. No attention is given to the fact that the division of the city by county lines is already a source of frequent embarrassment and unnecessary expense. A further division of the same sort would increase both, but what of that, when it would also provide some more salaried positions?

—President ANGELL of the University of Michigan says in his annual report that the number of women in the institution last year was 674, or about one-fifth the number of men. In the literary department of the university, however, 44 per cent. of the students were women. And President ANGELL notes the interesting fact that more than one-half of the students who were graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, for which work in both Latin and Greek is required, and of those graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy, for which work in Latin is required, belong to the hitherto less scholarly sex. On the other hand, of the fifty-three students graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Letters, for which neither Latin nor Greek is asked, only twenty-two were women. There is nothing to cause surprise in these figures. The girls who go to college, whether in Michigan or elsewhere, are both able and willing to undertake the tasks supposed to be most difficult, and their success in performing them may bear to much of the existing antipathy to coeducation the direct and simple relation of cause to effect.

—Full agreement is expressed by The Boston Transcript with our statement that the Boston City Council was censurable, not because it had denounced the British and praised the Boers, but because it meddled with a matter on which it had no right to formulate an official opinion. The Transcript declares, however, that our censure was too comprehensive. "The City Council," it says, "consists of the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council. We believe the former did not consider the moral aspects of the South African struggle as coming within the proper scope of its functions. It was only the Common Council, or kindergarten branch, that undertook to settle that great question. It considers itself competent to settle any great question. In fact, the greater the question the better it likes it, and the more it chorties over its decisions." Oh, well, it doesn't make much difference, and the undeserved criticism can be applied on some other count. Doubtless the Boston Councilmen go wrong often enough to prevent any waste of blame. Even The Transcript doesn't seem to be quite sure which branch of its local Legislature wasted time in meddlesome folly, and the chances are that we did no serious injustice. New York, too, has a double-barreled nuisance of the same sort, and though one-half of it is a little better than, or not quite so bad as, the other, a stone thrown in the general direction of the City Hall can usually be trusted to guide itself aright.

The Danger of Gas.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Of late there have been numerous instances reported in the daily papers of persons asphyxiated by gas. These statements are usually accompanied by suggestions of carelessnes or of an intention to commit suicide on the part of the persons affected. In particular, the papers of to-day all contain accounts of eleven persons overcome in this borough, two of whom are in danger of dying.

I feel it my duty, therefore, to lay before you an incident which occurred in my own experience. About three weeks ago, upon retiring, two gas jets were left burning at my residence, turned down slightly, so that the light was moderately dim, but the flame left was still large enough to maintain itself in case of any draught of air. In the morning both lights were out, and the gas was turned on in the same way as it had been left the previous evening. Upon sending to the company for an explanation, the meter was changed, but even since this time I have noticed a most decided flicker at times when the gas is turned down. It seems to me that this may explain the occurrences above referred to. It occurs to me that it may be possible that during the night a change of pressure takes place sufficient to put out the gas, and then, upon restoration of the pressure, the light being out, the gas escapes into the room. To my mind, the subject is one well worthy of consideration, as it presents a positive danger to every family using gas for illuminating purposes. MANHATTAN.

New York, Jan. 4, 1900.

TYPEWRITTEN PRIVATE LETTERS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On various occasions recently THE TIMES, with its happy faculty of feeling the pulse of the public to diagnose its needs, has called attention in its columns to the unfortunate prejudice against the use of typewritten letters for private correspondence, with a reasonable plea for the removal of a ban which adds so largely to the constantly increasing burden of a busy man's up-to-date correspondence.

At the same time a suggestion is offered that the use of some accepted word in the place of the business "dictated," to be recognized as meaning "autograph letter," would smooth away difficulty in the cases of those who really do their own typewriting, but are limited in its use by the demands of courtesy.

An eminent oculist further strengthens the contention by the published opinion that the personal use of the typewriter entirely in composing by those of large correspondence would for reasons given be of invaluable aid in saving the eyes.

With these points admitted, it would be well for us to inquire if both writers and recipients are not really separated unconsciously by a mere thin crust of prejudice that is bound in time to break through of its own weight, so that the only question, after all, is how to hasten the relief.

The fact reveals itself that just two difficulties stand in the way of a speedy remedy. If, as suggested by THE TIMES'S editor, the supposed obnoxious third party could be eliminated and some word be substituted for "dictated," as "personally printed," or its abbreviation, "P. P.," or other equivalent to convey such assurance, the first objection would be largely done away with. The second, however, is harder to combat, being a deep-rooted aversion to the idea of "printing" as a medium of personal thought transference.

In a friendly letter the use of an amanuensis might be tolerated; the "pictorial effect" (thank the experts for the phrase) of the chirography being presumptive evidence of individual time and handiwork bestowed; but to be put off, as it were, with a newspaper clipping as expressing the sentiments of the sender, argues to many minds a brevity of consideration—hence a lack of deference—distasteful at first thought.

And yet a little reasoning will show a radical difference between typewriting and printing which ought to reconcile us to the acceptance of the former as the twin of handwriting. It has been held by courts in the United States "that impressions made on paper with a typewriter are written, not printed." The postal authorities also give it the status of handwriting and fix its rate of postage accordingly.

And now three Judges over in New Jersey have clinched the matter by declaring that it is no printing at all, but the most barefaced kind of writing. "Take it away," they cried to the attorney, as he tried to slip the typewritten briefs upon their desks. "We will none of it; it hurts our eyes; there is no warrant in law for it, anyway, and we shall not even look at those briefs until they are presented in printed shape." And the printer chuckled as he pocketed his $200, as one who had come into his own again; and the Judges ruled for once to suit themselves; the attorney made himself good somehow; and the poor client's pitifully thin pocketbook was the Clearing House where it was all straightened out.

So we might as well be reasonable and graciously yield a point which we must perforce concede a little later on. Over and over again does the history of social usage show instances of such evolution as might best be expressed by that quotation which was so nearly worn out in the currency debate last week, (could I but be allowed to patch it up and use it once more): "We first abhor, then endure, and then embrace." Not beyond the memory of the living was the use of an abbreviation for an announcement on a calling card an offense to good taste; as I note by a yellowed card at hand, which yet dates back nearly to the time when they still prayed in church for those who were going down to the sea in ships.

In this case, wherein a "genteel" young lady took leave of her friends, the contraction was all in her own personality, as may be seen in the modestly minute script of the name, "L. L. D. Dix." engraved faintly in the middle, while from the lower left corner starts boldly the legend, "Pour Prendre Congé." The last part of our proposition seems proved as I run over a package of sample visiting cards sent from a fashionable stationers of to-day, and chance upon that of the above-mentioned lady's grand-niece of the same name, by which I see that modern expansion now controls the personality, and "Miss Laura Louisa De Lancy Dix" stretches quite across the pasteboard in bold roman lettering, while unobtrusively down in its corner "P. p. c." explains itself.

But bear in mind that in the days of the first happening no one had yet been assured even in a business way that everything was "O. K." And no man then on earth had ever been bidden to a friend's funeral at "1 P. M. sharp!"

This same roman lettering, moreover, is another proof of elastic powers of adaptability. For two years it hung fire, unaccepted. "Like nothing but printing," it was said; "just like the headlines in a newspaper." And then a society stationer bethought himself to good purpose, and fixed the price of a "roman letter" plate at $6.85, as against $1.75 for "plain script." That settled it! We all knew what was correct thereafter. It is true that I must with pain agree with my friend who took my advice, when he reproachfully tells me that, owing to the way his name is built, it looks like nothing else but "Died in Hoboken," (as though he had migrated with the trusts to the "Orange Free State,") and that for one hundred times will he need to hand out his own obituary notice with a misery for which the extra $5.10 is no compensation.

It seems to me the remedy sought lies with the class for whom your editorial plea is made, and that opposition is now ready to crumble away before a tactful persistence in the use of a convenience that ought to give additional relief to those overburdened with correspondence. Heroic measures on the part of letter writers would doubtless bring about a gracious acceptance of the situation by the other side. The wished-for concession may be ready and waiting.

New York, Dec. 28, 1899. X. Y.

PRESIDENT KELLER'S SPEECH.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Allow me to thank you for the report given in THE TIMES of the speech of President John W. Keller of the Department of Public Charities at the Seventh Assembly District meeting of the Tammany organization. This little speech is the most amusing of any I have read for a long time. Coming from a Tammany politician and office holder, it reminded me of the old saying, "Satan reproving sin." Mr. Keller referred to England as stretching her hands across the sea only for gold and diamonds. If that is so, why does he complain? Did not Mr. Croker assert that the motto of Tammany was "To the victor belongs the spoils"? Did he not say that Tammany leaders were looking after the interests of their own pockets first, and last, and all the time? Has it not been proved, time and again, that Tammany politicians are more greedy for gold and greenbacks than they are interested in public morality, honest government, or the welfare of the people at large? "Hands across the sea!" "Gold and diamonds!" Mr. Keller must either be a humorist or an expert in sarcasm. Why, Mr. Editor, every honest citizen of New York knows that there is more avaricious greed in the Tammany Hall organization, in proportion to their numbers, than is to be found in the entire Government and aristocracy of all England.

There are just two classes of readers, those who read for edification and those who read for pastime. Mr. Keller's speech will certainly fail to edify any of those who heard it or read it, but he is to be congratulated on the excellent pastime which he has afforded to the numerous readers of THE TIMES and other newspapers.

New York, Jan. 5, 1900. M. R. B.

ON RETURNING LOST PROPERTY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I became very much interested in the news item in to-day's issue headed "Thinks Honesty Doesn't Pay."

The right of reward for a service rendered is a fundamental law of social order. In the return of Mr. Smith's ring Mr. Stieglitz rendered a service and was entitled to pay which should be commensurate with the service. A man who returns a "find"—something that was really lost—renders just as much a service as a detective in searching up the article or a lawyer who recovers wealth to the rightful owner. Reward for the return of lost goods should not be loked upon as a bounty, unless it be above an amount commensurate with the service rendered. The detective, the lawyer, and the physician all charge for their services, and the right of charge is deemed legitimate. Now, the fact that the finder of goods has the goods in his possession by virtue of the finding, and is morally bound to yield up that which is another's does not in the least destroy the equally forceful fact that in so doing he renders a service; neither does it free the loser form the morally bounden duty of paying for that service—and anything less than a return in reasonable proportion to the service is not pay.

The physician is morally bound to render service to him whose life is in jeopardy. But that is the physician's business—livelihood, some say. Yes, but the fact that I am a weather prophet does not invalidate my claim to reward when I help to unload the cargo of a ship.

Now to the case at hand: The ring is valued at $75. Stieglitz asked $10, which was perhaps asking too much—13 1-3 per cent. of the value; on the other hand Smith's offer was too small—$2, only 2 2-3 per cent. of the value of the ring; $4.50, which is 6 per cent. of the value, would have been a reasonable amount. But no one could blame Stieglitz for expecting so much, in view of the fact that Smith advertised a "large reward."

Smith's proceeding in calling up the police and charging Stieglitz and his friend with burglary was an outrage against them and decency. The men were at his house; he knew who they were, and could therefore recoved his ring through due process of law. Such dealings as his encourage dishonesty. The "large reward" was only a sham, a trap. But let Stieglitz know, despite all this injustice to him, that honesty does pay.

In conclusion, I have often thought, and take this opportunity to express it, that there should be some legislative enactment declaring the return of lost goods a service entitling the performer of such service to a reward equal to so much per centum of the returned wealth. Anything given above this legal requirement would be considered a bonus. GEORGE F. MILLER.

Brooklyn, Jan. 5, 1900.

A "BACKBITING CONFERENCE."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Administration seems to be having as much trouble with Schley as the late Mr. Macbeth had with the ghost of the departed Banquo. There is no record that Banquo's ghost worried itself about what Macbeth was doing, and the parallel seems to hold even at this late day. Having made the tactical mistake of recommending Schley for promotion for distinguished gallantry in a battle where his ship was hit oftener than all the others together and Sampson for distinguished gallantry in a battle in which he had no part, and both under a statute covering only actual presence and gallantry in battle, the Administration is now seeking to discredit Schley with the American people. Hence, insinuations of "reprehensible conduct," &c., all without tangible basis in fact. The effort, or rather that on the surface, is to get Schley to ask for a court of inquiry. If one may judge of the composition of a court appointed by the present Administration for that purpose from what is reported to have been done at the recent conference of civil and naval officers in Washington, Schley does well not to trust his reputation to such a court. Courts have been "organized to convict" ere this in this land of liberty, (Commodore Uriah P. Levy, Gen. Fitz John Porter.) The conference agreed, so it said, that no one against whom the charge of "reprehensible conduct" remained without explanation satisfactory to a court of inquiry—mayhap "organized to convict"—should ever be made a Vice Admiral. There is something delightfully vague and indefinite about that charge of "reprehensible conduct" anyway; was it being in the right place at the right time while the official favorite happened to be in the wrong place? Anyway, it was an unlucky wight who nipped that scheme in the bud by bringing up the ex post facto clause of the Constitution and so spoiling a fine opera bouffe situation in posse.

Then look at the extreme fairness of waiting until Schley is reported to have arrived at Montevideo with his flagship before holding that conference. Schley is absent, and the absent are always in the wrong, says the proverb. Schley's back is turned, and the conference is held and his reputation is picked to pieces by all, with one honorable exception. All last Summer and Fall Schley was in the United States, and could have attended at any conference on the subject and have defended himself from the charge of "reprehensible conduct"—said to have been made by the only Captain who found the solitude of a conning tower congenial during the battle—but his presence might, and doubtless would, have been decidedly inconvenient to those who find backbiting more to their taste than standing up and taking it, so he is first packed off to South America, where the mails are slow in arriving, say, five weeks or more from New York City. War heroes are decidedly inconvenient to the politician at times, and there is an election next November. But people have been known to overreach themselves ere this, and it may well happen that the covert attempt to discredit Schley in the eyes of the American people may have results even more distasteful to some officials than making him a Vice Admiral with a dozen "unexplained" charges of "reprehensible conduct" hanging over his head would be.

A PLAIN AMERICAN.

New York, Jan. 5, 1900.

LONGEVITY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a paper of yesterday, under the heading "Old Records of Long Lives," after giving the ages of Old Parr, Henry Jenkins, and a few others, it gives "Martha Rorke, who died at the age of 133 in 1840," ending with: "Some others there are who got well past the century mark, but not beyond the age of 125."

Glamorganshire, South Wales, affords many instances of ages exceeding 125, of which a few extracts may be interesting:

"Ienan, the son of Rhys Brydydd, or Rhys the Poet, of Llanharan, had a son called Thomas, the son of Ienan, the son of Rhys, and commonly he was called Ywm Ivan Prys. He was put in prison in the Castle of Oynfig by Sir Mathew Cradock, (for his Lollardism;) after this Sir Mathew gave him his freedom, and put land under his management in some place in that neighborhood; and after this he lived at Margam, and after that at Llangynwyd, and in his old age he came to live at Llandiwg, and ended his days at Margam. He was a good domestic poet and maker of songs; but on account of his being of the new faith he had many against him and was hated very much; he lived to a great age, for he said in a rhyme as follows:

"Un mil chwech cant yn gywrain,
Aphedair blwydd yn gyfain
Dechreu Ionor, cyfrif teg,
Wyf gant a deg ar hugain."

"In one thousand six hundred exactly,
And four years complete,
The beginning of January, (fair computation,)
I am one hundred and thirty."—Iolo Mss.

(Out of the book of Mr. Lewys of Penllyn:)

William Edwards, Aged 108.—"An extraordinary instance of longevity is connected with this place, (Caeran.) On the further side of the dingle, immediately to the east of Caeran Church, appear some vestiges of a house, garden, and orchard, where local tradition says an 'Old Man,' named William Edwards, lived to an extraordinary extension of human existence, having witnessed the entire duration of the sixteenth century and nearly seventy years of the seventeenth. The site of his residence is still called by the surrounding natives 'Ty yr Hen Ddyn,' or the 'Old Man's House.' Many years ago a tombstone inscribed to his memory was to be seen in this church under the south window. Without giving an account of the rubbing, &c., (Malkin's 'Scenery of South Wales,' Volume II., Page 548,) and a diagram of the slab, the following is one of its inscriptions, in capital letters around it:

"'Heare Lieth The Body of William Edwards of The Cairey Who Departed This Life February Anno Domini 1688 Annoque Aetatis Sui 168.'"

Ivan Yorath, Aged 180.—"But a much more extraordinary instance of longevity is recorded in an old parish register of Lanmaes juxta Lantwit Major, where the following entry appears: 'Ivan Yorath buried a saterdaye the XVII. daye of July anno doni 1621 et anno Regni regis vicesimo primo annoq aetatis circa 180, he was a soldier in the fighte of Boswoorthe and lived at Lantwit Major, and he lived muche by ishing.' There are other very remarkable ages recorded in this register of Lanmaes, but Ivan Yorath's, being the greatest, as well as the best supported by circumstances, is the only one selected here. (See Malkin's 'Scenery of South Wales,' Volume II., Page 545, for numerous instances of longevity, supplied among other extensive contributions to that interesting work by Edward Williams.)"—Jolo Mss.

Edward Williams, above named, was an eminent antiquary and poet, who is better known by his bardic appellation of Iolo Morganwg. From his collection of documents was compiled the important and invaluable "Myvyrian Archaiolog of Wales," printed in London in 1801, in three volumes, which was jointly edited by Owen Jones, Dr. Owen Pughe, and himself, and the elaborate historical preface and review of ancient Welsh manuscripts was written by him.

A volume containing selections from his collection was printed by the Welsh Mss. Society in 1849, entitled "Jolo Manuscripts." His life closed on the 18th of December, 1826, he having reached the advanced age of eighty-one.

ANEURIN JONES.

New York, Jan. 1, 1900.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE AND DOG SENSE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The inclosed verses, which have recently come into my possession, may interest those of your readers who, like myself, read with both interest and amusement a recent paragraph on the remarkable intelligence reported of a dog named Leo, and the attempt of one of your correspondents to deduce from it the reasonableness of certain claims of the Christian Scientists. I do not think the author of the verses ever heard of Leo or of your correspondent; the aptness is entirely accidental.

Brooklyn, Jan. 2, 1900. E. HUTSON.

THE APOTHECARY'S TALE.

I will not leave you in the dark;
My little doggie's name is Spark;
He has a queer Peruvian bark
For any insolent remark.
He knows my drugs as well as I,
Of arsenic is monstrous shy,
To see lobella makes him cry,
And if I but to him say, "Hie!"
Straightway he barks, "Oscyamus,"
As if to say, "Oh! die I mus',
If henbane is to be my bean;
Pythagoras was right, I ween,
That time he said, 'Of beans beware!'"
O, yes! my dog's beyond compare,
And if you'll tell the folks who read
The thoughts in mind, 'tis they'll give heed
To what I say about my dog;
They know, most spirits live incog.

C. W. H.

THE MUNICIPAL ART COMMISSION

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that Mr. O'Donovan's letter in your issue of this morning calls for a brief reply, as one statement in it is likely to mislead.

The Municipal Art Commission, it may be presumed, contains the best available expert opinion of the city, as a majority of its members are appointed from a list prepared by the Fine Arts Federation of New York. This federation consists of representatives appointed as such by the eleven leading art societies of the city. The Society of Landscape Architects is not a member of the Fine Arts Federation. This society had in June last only seven members, of whom but a minority are known even to those interested in the subject. Consequently Mr. O'Donovan would seem to be overstating the case when he calls it "the most competent authority."

The above is written without any desire to contradict Mr. O'Donovan's arguments on the subject of the proposed site for the monument, or to discredit a society which has, no doubt, its function in the world, even if it be not "the most competent authority," but solely in the performance of what I conceive to be the duty of every art-loving citizen to uphold the hands of the Municipal Art Commission whenever it is possible against all attacks. No one who is acquainted with the long-continued struggle to obtain such a commission for this city will witness unmoved any attack upon it which can be avoided, more especially one which is based upon a misstatement.

EDWARD HAMILTON BELL.

New York, Jan. 4, 1900.

NUGGETS.

Had a Variety.

Friend—Hello, Jinks, how is your cold?
Jinks (hoarsely)—Which one?—New York Weekly.

Don't.

Do not let a quick-tempered person stand between you and a powder magazine; you might get singed.—Corning Journal.

Chicago's New Spell.

Fonetic speling will hereafter rule in the ufishul publicashuns ov Chicago University.—Chicago News.

Its Sole Defect.

Scholar—Professor, your mnemonic system is wonderful, and I am sure that any one, after mastering the rules, can learn to remember anything. But I am handicapped by one difficulty.

Professor—What is it?

Scholar—I can't remember the rules.—Brooklyn Life.

Always Ready.

Caller—We are trying to raise a little money to help the starving millions in—

Average Man—All right. Just get half a dozen theatrical companies to give a tenicular combination benefit performance for one dollar and a half, and I'll go.—New York Weekly.

TO ARMS!

Alfred Austin in London Telegraph.

I.

Now let the cry, "To Arms! To Arms!"
Go ringing round the world;
And swift a wave-wide Empire swarms
Round Battleflag unfurled!
Wherever glitters Britain's might,
Or Britain's banner flies,
Leap up mailed myriads with the light
Of manhood in their eyes;
Calling from farmstead, mart, and strand,
"We come! And we! And we!
That British steel may hold the land,
And British keels the sea!"

II.

From English hamlet, Irish hill,
Welsh hearths, and Scottish byres,
They throng to show that they are still
Sons worthy of their sires:
That what these did, we still can do,
That what they were, we are,
Whose fathers fought at Waterloo,
And died at Trafalgar!
Shoulder to shoulder see them stand,
Wherever menace be,
To guard the lordship of the land,
And Trident of the sea.

III.

Nor in the parent Isle alone
Spring squadrons from the ground;
Canadian shore and Austral zone
With kindred cry resound:
"From shimmering plain, and snow-fed stream,
Across the deep we come,
Seeing the British bayonets gleam,
Hearing the British drum.
Foot in the stirrup, hilt in hand,
Free men, to keep men free,
All, all will help to hold the land,

Provisions and the Question of Contraband.

Written for THE NEW YORK TIMES

By JOHN BASSETT MOORE,

Professor of International Law and Diplomacy at Columbia University, and late Secretary and Counsel to the American Peace Commission at Paris.

THE reported seizure by a British cruiser in Delagoa Bay of certain ships laden with flour and perhaps other articles of food, and bound to the Portuguese port of Lorenzo Marques, from which a line of railway runs to the Transvaal, has given rise to the supposition that the British Government has taken the ground that provisions, though ostensibly intended for a neutral port, may be seized as contraband of war, if there is reason to believe that they are ultimately destined for a belligerent country. But, apart from the circumstance of the seizure, I am not aware of any fact which would justify us in inferring that the Government of Great Britain has assumed or intends to assume that position. The circumstances of the case, for aught that has appeared in the public prints, have not been definitely ascertained; nor can we be certain as to the manner in which the facts may properly be established, until we are informed as to the course which the captor really has taken. Where a capture is duly submitted to the prize jurisdiction, the circumstances can, in the first instance, be authoritatively determined only by the judicial tribunal before which the ship and cargo are sent, though, for the purposes of provisional diplomatic representation, the statements of the owners, verified in the usual manner, may be received as a sufficient basis. In certain cases during our recent war with Spain, where a capture was made under evident mistake, orders were, before the institution of judicial proceedings, given by the Navy Department for the vessel's release. In this way summary justice was done to the innocent owner, while the Government was saved from heavy claims for damages. But, where the ship had been delivered into the custody of the courts, the claimants, even though they might strongly assert the unlawfulness of the capture, were required to pursue their judicial remedy, securing the release of the ship on bond in proper cases; and the final decision of the Supreme Court in some of the cases has only lately been announced. This rule of procedure is all the more reasonable, because even the final decisions of the courts in prize cases are not necessarily conclusive, except as to the title to the properly transferred under them. After such a decision has been rendered, the Government of the claimant may, on the ground that the judicial judgment is not in harmony with the principles of international law, demand from the Government of the captor a direct response to the diplomatic claim for redress.

At various times during the civil war in the United States excited demands were made upon the British Government to require the immediate release of ships which had been seized as prizes by the American cruisers and taken before the prize courts for adjudication. Such demands were very insistently made in cases like those of the Peterhoff and the Springbok, in which it was alleged that neutral vessels with innocent cargoes bound to neutral ports had been unjustly captured. In a remarkable series of papers in The London Times, known as the "Letters by Historicus," Sir William Vernon-Harcourt ably and eloquently vindicated the principle that, when a question of prize has been submitted to the proper court of the captor, it belongs to that tribunal, as a matter of right, to pronounce, in the first instance, on the legality of the capture, and that a diplomatic demand for the previous termination of the judicial proceedings would constitute a violation of well-settled principles of law, the preservation of which is essential to the maintenance of the prize jurisdiction. In only one case, ostensibly of prize, was a demand made by the British Government for direct and immediate redress. This was the well-known case of Messrs. Mason and Slidell, the Confederate Commissioners who were taken by an American cruiser on the high seas from the British mail steamer Trent. The steamer, however, in that case was permitted to go on her way, and the captured individuals were treated as prisoners of war. No judicial proceedings against the ship or persons were undertaken, and in reality the release of the ship had rendered the usual and regular proceedings impossible. The captor had by his own act withdrawn the case from the sphere of legal adjudication.

It is obvious that if no judicial proceedings against ship and cargo are taken, or if it appears by authentic evidence, such as an avowal of the Government of the captor, that the capture was made under governmental orders violative of the law of nations, the neutral Government may at once assume an attitude of protest.

But, apart from any particular case, the question of provisions, as related to the subject of contraband, is always interesting in time of maritime warfare, because of the important part which it has heretofore played, and which it may yet play, in the conflict between belligerent and neutral rights.

According to the classification of Grotius, commodities may be considered, with reference to the question of contraband, under three heads:

1. Articles "which are of use in war alone, as arms."

2. Articles "which are useless in war and which serve only for purposes of luxury."

3. Articles "which can be used both in war and in peace, as money, provisions, ships, and articles of naval equipment."

Concerning Classes 1 and 2, there is no controversy, except possibly as to the inclusion or exclusion of some particular article; but, in regard to Class 3, there has always been a fierce dispute, and this dispute has often raged about the question of provisions. For the purpose of avoiding dangerous controversies of this character, many well-known treaties of the last three centuries have defined the subject of contraband, both positively and negatively, by an explicit enumeration of the articles which may and of the articles which may not be considered as coming within the category. Nevertheless, the absence of such stipulations between certain powers, and the disregard of them by others, gave rise, near the close of the last century, to the most interesting international litigation of which the question of the contraband or the non-contraband character of provisions in time of war has ever formed the subject. I refer to the controversy between the United States and Great Britain during the first war between the latter power and France growing out of the French Revolution. By a decree of the French National Convention of May 9, 1793, the commanders of French ships of war and privateers were "authorized to seize and carry into the ports of the republic, merchant vessels which are wholly or in part laden with provisions, being neutral property, bound to an enemy's port, or having on board merchandise belonging to an enemy." Merchandise belonging to the enemy was declared to be "lawful prize, seizable for the profit of the captor." Provisions, if belonging to a neutral, were to be "paid for at the price they would have sold for at the port whither they were bound"; the vessels, if neutral, were to be released as soon as the provisions found on board should have been landed, or the seizure of the merchandise effected; freight was in such case to be settled at the rate paid by the charterer, and proper compensation to be granted by the tribunals for the detention of the vessels. From this decree, however, the National Convention, hopefully looking to the United States as an ally in the war, by another decree of May 23 declared American vessels to be exempt. In communicating these decrees to the Government of the United States in September, 1793, M. Genet, the French Minister, declared that the considerations which prompted the second decree were, on the one hand, a disposition on the part of France scrupulously to observe the treaties with the United States, and on the other "the thorough confidence she has that the Americans will not abuse this privilege by carrying to her enemies those productions by which they ought to assist in the defense of a cause as much their own as hers." At the same time, he said he was "informed that the English Government have declared their determination to carry into the English ports all the American vessels laden with provisions for the ports of France." The French Republic expected that the United States would "hasten to take the most energetic measures to procure a recall of this decision"; and if the measures taken to that end should prove to be "insufficient or fruitless," and the neutrality of the United States, as had previously been the case, "serviceable" only to "the enemies of France," France would "exercise a very natural right in taking measures to prevent a consequence so injurious to her."

The determination of the British Government to which M. Genet referred was embodied in an order in council dated the 8th of June, 1793. By this order the commanders of his Majesty's ships of war and privateers were authorized "to stop and detain all vessels loaded wholly or in part with corn, flour, or meal, bound to any port in France or any port occupied by the armies of France, in order that such corn, meal, or flour may be purchased on behalf of his Majesty's Government, and the ships be released after such purchase and after a due allowance for freight," or in order that the masters of such ships might, on giving due security, "be permitted to dispose of their cargoes of corn, meal, or flour, in the ports of any country in amity with his Majesty." It should be observed that the word "corn" is used here in the English sense, comprehending the seeds of cereals generally, such as wheat, barley, rye, and oats, and more especially wheat.

These instructions, though dated the 8th of June, were not issued to the Admiralty till the 28th of the month. The British Government assumed to justify them on the ground that "by the law of nations, as laid down by the most modern writers," and particularly by Vattel, all provisions were to be considered as contraband, and as such liable to confiscation, in the case where "the depriving an enemy of these supplies is one of the means intended to be employed for reducing him to reasonable terms of peace," or in any case but that of a place actually blockaded, was "entirely new"; that reason and usage had established "that, when two nations go to war, those who choose to live in peace retain their natural right to pursue their agriculture, manufactures, and other ordinary vocations; to carry the produce of their industry, for exchange, to all nations, belligerent or neutral, as usual; to go and come freely, without injury or molestation; and, in short that the war among others shall be, for them, as if it did not exist." To these mutual rights, nations had allowed one exception—that of furnishing implements of war to the belligerents, or anything whatever to a blockaded place. Implements of war destined to a belligerent were treated as contraband, and were subject to seizure and confiscation. Corn, flour, and meal were not of the class of contraband, and consequently remained articles of free commerce. The state of war between Great Britain and France furnished neither belligerent with the right to interrupt the agriculture of the United States, or the peaceable exchange of its produce with all nations. Such an act of interference tended directly to draw the United States from the state of peace in which they wished to remain. If the United States permitted corn to be sent to Great Britain and her friends, and refused it to France, such an act of partiality might lead to war with the latter power. If they withheld supplies of provisions from France, they should in like manner be bound to withhold them from her enemies also, and thus to close to themselves all the ports of Europe where corn was in demand, or else make themselves a party to the war. This was a dilemma into which no pretext for forcing the United States could be found. Great Britain might, indeed, "feel the desire of starving an enemy nation, but she can have no right of doing it at our loss, nor of making us the instrument of it." Such were the contentions of the United States.

When Mr. Jay a year later was sent to England on a special mission, he was instructed to demand compensation for the seizures made under the order in council of June 8, 1793, upon the principle, among others, "that provisions, except in the instance of a siege, blockade, or investment, are not to be ranked among contraband." By Article VII. of the treaty which was concluded by him with Lord Grenville, Nov. 19, 1794, it was agreed that the claims for further compensation for the seizure of provisions, as well as various other claims, should be submitted to a mixed commission consisting of five persons. This commission was duly organized and sat in London. Great Britain was represented on the board by Sir John Nicholl, an eminent civilian, who then shared with Sir William Scott the honors and practice of the Admiralty Courts, and by John Anstey. Sir John Nicholl afterward resigned, and was succeeded by Maurice Swabey, LL. D. The American Commissioners were Christopher Gore and William Pinkney. The fifth Commissioner, who was chosen by lot by the other four, was Col. John Trumbull of Connecticut, who had accompanied Mr. Jay as secretary. Among the questions determined by this board, none was more elaborately argued than that of the legality of the order in council of June 8, 1793, in relation to provisions. The order was justified by the British agent, not only on the grounds previously disclosed in the diplomatic discussion, but also on a new ground, alleged to exist in the treaty itself. Article XVIII. of the treaty, after referring to the "difficulty" in agreeing on "the precise cases in which alone provisions and other articles not generally contraband may be regarded as such," stipulated that "whenever any such articles, so becoming contraband according to the existing law of nations," should for that reason be seized, they should not be confiscated, but should be paid for, and that the captors, or, in their default, the Government under whose authority they acted, should pay the masters or owners of the vessels "the full value of all such articles, with a reasonable mercantile profit thereon, together with the freight, and also the demurrage" incident to the detention. By the British agent it was contended that this stipulation recognized the contraband character of provisions according to the law of nations. To this contention the American agent replied that the stipulation in question, since it referred to "the existing law of nations" as the criterion, did not effect any alteration in the rules which previously governed the subject; and that, according to those rules, the prospect of reducing the enemy by famine must be actual and immediate, as in the siege, blockade, or investment of particular places, and not vague and impalpable. In the case before the board there was, so the American agent maintained, no such prospect. While the enforcement of the order was productive of inconvenience to the enemy, there was no possibility of producing an actual famine by it. In urging this argument, the agent of the United States merely maintained the construction which the Government of the United States placed upon Article XVIII., both before and after the ratification of the treaty. The same construction was maintained by Alexander Hamilton, in a series of papers published in defense of the treaty. Indeed, when we consider the importance of the question of provisions and the difficulties encountered in the effort to secure the ratification of the treaty, it may well be doubted whether that effort would have been successful if any other construction had been placed by the Administration upon the article, though its duration was limited to twelve years.

The British Government, in making voluntary compensation for the seizure of provisions under order of June 8, 1793, had allowed the invoice price with a mercantile profit of 10 per cent. The owners who appeared before the mixed commission claimed, as an additional compensation justly due them, the difference between this allowance and what would have been the net value of the cargo at the port in France to which it was bound. This claim was resisted on the part of the British Government, not only on the ground that the capture was lawful, provisions being, under the circumstances of the case, liable to be treated as contraband of war, at least to the extent to which they were so treated in the order under which the seizures were made, but also on the ground that the British Government had at any rate the right to seize provisions and pre-empt them under the circumstances at the time existing. The board, by a majority consisting of the two American Commissioners, Messrs. Gore and Pinkney, and the fifth Commissioner, Col. Trumbull, held otherwise, and allowed the compensation demanded. Formal opinions were not filed by the minority Commissioners. The opinion of the majority, able, learned, and exhaustive, may be found in ful at Page 3,843, Volume IV., of the "History and Digest of International Arbitrations," lately published by the United States. A general history of the mixed commission may be found in the same work, Chapter 10, Volume I., Page 299. In these places the full record of the great litigation in question is, I believe, for the first time rendered accessible to the public. The amount recovered on account of the seizure of provisions was about £720,000, or about $3,500,000.

Although in the war following the rupture of the peace of Amiens many extravagant claims in respect of blockade and other belligerent rights were advanced by the contending powers, England did not renew the pretension put forward in the order of June 8, 1793. The doctrine of her prize courts, as expressed by Sir William Scott in the case of the Jonge Margaretha, 1 Rob., 193, is that provisions, though bound to the enemy's country, are not generally contraband, but may become so under particular circumstances, as when bound to a port of naval equipment or to a naval armament. The same rule has been applied in the United States in the case of The Commercen, 1 Wheat., 382.

In 1885 the French Government, during the Tonquin war, announced to neutral powers that it would, after the 26th of February in that year, treat shipments of rice for Chinese ports north of Canton as contraband of war. Various neutral Governments protested against the announcement, while others seem to have remained silent. Great Britain was among those that protested. The French Government alleged, as a special circumstance justifying its action, "the importance of rice in the feeding of the Chinese population" as well as of the Chinese armies, thus implicitly claiming that articles of food might be treated as contraband in order to put stress upon the non-combatant population. Lord Granville notified the French Government that Great Britain would not consider herself bound by the decision of any prize court that should give effect to this doctrine. The controversy never assumed a practical form. Shipments of rice seem to have been stopped by fear of capture, or else to have been diverted to other quarters, and, the war soon coming to an end, no seizure was made. (Hall's International Law, fourth edition, Page 688; Hertslet's State Papers, Vol. 76, Page 423; Foreign Relations of the United States, 1885, Pages 161, 162, 363, 384.) When we consider the historical position of the United States on the subject, it seems scarcely doubtful that, if a case had arisen affecting the property of citizens of the United States, this Government would have taken the same position as that announced by Lord Granville for Great Britain.

By General Order No. 492, issued by the Navy Department in concurrence with the Department of State during the late war with Spain, for the guidance of blockading vessels and cruisers of the United States, the position of this Government on the subject of contraband was explicitly set forth. Premising its definition with the explanation that "contraband of war comprehends only articles having a belligerent destination, as to an enemy's port or fleet," the order specifies certain articles as "absolutely contraband" and others as "conditionally contraband." The articles enumerated under the former head comprise such things as are directly used in war, such as arms and ammunition. Articles "conditionally contraband" are defined as follows: "Coal when destined for a naval station, a port of call, or a ship or ships of the enemy; materials for the construction of railroads and telegraphs, and money, when such materials or money are destined for the enemy's forces; provisions when destined for an enemy's ship or ships or for a place that is besieged."

If it be true, as undoubtedly appears to be the case, that provisions cannot be generally treated as contraband on the ground that they are bound to an enemy's port, it necessarily follows that they cannot be treated as contraband when bound to a neutral port, simply because they may, forsooth, be ultimately destined for a market in the enemy's country.

The doctrine, familiar to us in the discussion of the subject of "continuous voyages," that the "ultimate destination" of the merchandise, if such destination be belligerent, and not the immediate destination, if the latter be neutral, is the one to be considered in determining the question of contraband, is, unless carefully limited, capable of the most mischievous and destructive extension, as in the case, for example, of implying the ultimate belligerent destination of a certain cargo from the mere fact of the existence, at the neutral port of immediate destination, of more than the ordinary supply of a particular article; but I am not aware that any partisan of the doctrine of "continuous voyages" and "ultimate destination" has ever gone so far as to assert that the allegation of an ultimate belligerent destination may have the effect of actually enlarging the list of contraband, and of making that contraband which would not be so if bound directly to a belligerent port. No doubt provisions bound either immediately or only ultimately to a belligerent country may find their way to the enemy's army. But this does not alone suffice to render them contraband. On such a theory we might logically be obliged to admit the practical inhibition of trade in time of war with neutral countries which happened to border on belligerent territory, and we might even be compelled to witness the starvation of the peaceful inhabitants of those countries in order that the cutting off of supplies to the enemy's army might be rendered certain.

Apparently there are no two nations which have to-day a greater interest in restricting within proper limits the doctrine of contraband as applied to provisions than Great Britain and the United States. Unless the estimates of certain British authorities are very much at fault, the people of Great Britain are singularly dependent upon the renewal from foreign sources of their supply of daily bread. On the other hand, the United States, as a great producer of foodstuffs and of much else, is deeply interested in maintaining all rights which may justly be claimed in respect of neutral trade. Belligerent convenience is not the sole test of right and wrong in time of war; nor is it always expedient for a belligerent to consult its temporary convenience. The rights of neutrals are as real and as important as those of belligerents, and their maintenance may in the long run be as important to belligerents as it is to neutrals themselves. It certainly would be a shortsighted policy which should sacrifice the general and permanent interest of belligerents and neutrals alike to the purpose of gaining a temporary and perhaps illusory military advantage.

JOHN BASSETT MOORE.

The British Tactics Ever the Same.

Written for THE NEW YORK TIMES

By CAPT. LESLIE J. PERRY.

NOTWITHSTANDING the lurid descriptions of "desperate fighting" and "bloody work" in South Africa, it is a fact the British losses in actual killed and wounded in all their engagements up to date do not much if at all exceed their losses in the single battle of New Orleans with raw American volunteers, Jan. 8, 1815, the eighty-fifth anniversary of which occurs to-morrow. Interesting comparisons of these South African battles and their mortality have been made with Albuera, Waterloo, Inkermann, and other British battles of the century, but it is singular that so far in speculations of the sort the tremendous and speedy slaughter of Britons at New Orleans has been apparently overlooked.

There is a curious parallel between the recent Modder River and Colenso battles and that of New Orleans, which will be cited further on. Meanwhile, New Orleans was a far bloodier collision to the British Army than the two fights of Methuen and Buller combined. Moreover, it resulted in the immediate defeat of the enemy's objective and their speedy retreat from Louisiana. Now, as a matter of fact, the Boers defeated neither Methuen nor Buller; they were merely repulsed, though their immediate plans were completely frustrated and their columns brought to a standstill. Nevertheless, they remained in the Boer vicinage maturing other designs and preparing for another onset.

But at New Orleans a force of British veterans of the Napoleonic wars, about equal to that of Methuen at Modder River, in a similar foolhardy attack upon a fortified and well-defended position, was defeated in thirty minutes by half their numbers of Western yeomanry, mainly riflemen, and unerring shots like these Boers. In that awful thirty minutes 700 British soldiers were killed and 1,400 more were wounded. Besides which, some 500 prisoners were captured.

The British journals point with sad pride to the great mortality among officers in South Africa. It has certainly been great; Methuen, slightly wounded himself, is reported to have lost 61 officers killed and wounded at Modder River. But at New Orleans the British commander was killed within 150 yards of the American lines; Major Gen. Gibbs was mortally wounded, dying the next day; Major Gen. Keane seriously wounded, besides which eight Colonels and Lieutenant Colonels, six Majors, eighteen Captains, and fifty-four subalterns were killed and wounded—not during the course of a whole day's leisurely fighting, but in a half hour of what the late Gen. Sherman sententiously called hell. New Orleans was more a massacre than a battle, except in the aspect of results achieved, because Jackson's loss, while doing all this killing, was only eight men killed and thirteen wounded.

One stands aghast at the terrible discrepancy, lost in wonder as to how a combat could be so contrived, even by agreement, that one side should have more than 2,000 men struck down and the other only two dozen. It is almost incomprehensible. In his ten hours' "desperate fighting" against the Boers' intrenched position, Methuen's losses pale into insignificance besides these bloody figures of New Orleans. But it is to be said in Methuen's behalf that, although like Packenham, he attacked at exactly the point where they were best prepared for him, he inflicted more serious losses on the Boers than Jackson's riflemen suffered from the enemy at New Orleans.

In all the various comparisons and animadversions, from whatever source, there is no question of the unblenching quality of the British courage. It has been demonstrated on too many fields. It was just as conspicuous at Modder River and Colenso as at Waterloo and New Orleans. The general idea apparently is rather to show that in the Boer war the English have not yet been subjected to the supreme test, have not been staggered by any great blood-letting episode like a general battle. In their final, concentrated effort a catastrophe like that of New Orleans would wind up the war, and out of the ruins of the British Empire would rise the Dutch Republic of South Africa, perhaps eventually of all Africa. Who knows? But after the moderate lessons they have already received of Boer pluck and efficiency, it is hardly conceivable that the English will repeat the New Orleans tragedy of eighty-five years ago.

The analogy between British operations and generalship in South Africa and at New Orleans lies in the utter disregard of strategy and battle tactics, with a view to success as well as the saving of life, and the hurling of commands with brutal recklessness squarely against impregnable positions, with the inevitable result that men and officers are shot down like pigeons by a concealed foe who comes off comparatively unhurt. That was ever the British way. The parallel lies also in the quality of the foe, and the costly mistake of holding him too cheaply, both in valor and efficiency. The Boers are not drilled soldiers, but irregular militia. Being pioneers in a new land, they are inured to hardships. They are self-reliant farmers and shepherds, and as hunters have been familiar with fire-arms all their lives.

Such, too, were Andrew Jackson's hardy backwoodsmen, reinforced by a few hundred regulars, and the volunteers of New Orleans. With these nondescripts he beat back Wellington's Peninsular veterans, and forced them to retire beyond the limits of Louisiana. These American pioneers were undisciplined, but brave and enterprising. They were dead shots with the rifle. In every fighting desideratum they were similar, and perhaps not superior to the Dutch race which, eighty-five years afterward, is contending on another continent against the same enemy, and meeting him precisely as he was met and vanquished at New Orleans. It may indeed be that Oom Paul and his General, Joubert, have read and are endeavoring to apply the lesson of New Orleans. But in all the other attributes of manhood and civilization Jackson's Tennesseeans, Kentuckians, Louisianians, and Mississippians were far in advance of the slow and thick-headed Boers of our day.

Events have made it certain that in all South Africa there is no Andrew Jackson. Jackson's successes were not the result of blundering accident. He was the next thing to a military genius. His activity in preparation, his intuitive judgment and quick decision, the ready ability with which he "adapted his means of defense most shrewdly to the character of his own forces no less than to that of the enemy," stamp the American leader as the master of any of the African commanders, be he British or Boer. There was an electrical something about his personal presence that made for victory. With the British fleet of transports off the coast and New Orleans bare of troops, and no considerable force within 250 miles, Jackson's mere arrival upon the scene inspired the desponding with confidence. It immediately called into action the latent energies of the loyal people of New Orleans.

Nor again have either British or Boer movements been marked with the fierce energy that characterized the concentration of the little American army. Jackson at the head of the Boers, a people admirably fitted for the purposes of such a commander, would have driven the British to the wall within four weeks after the declaration of war. The very hour the Dutch ultimatum expired, Jackson would doubtless have been ready to strike a decisive blow. In this the Boers have failed. It is almost impossible to grasp the difficulties under which Jackson's defensive campaign was prosecuted, and the quick wisdom of nearly all his measures, or, finally, the magnitude of his victory.

To Gen. Coffee, one of his old and tried Lieutenants, then near Baton Rouge coming on with reinforcements, Jackson wrote in haste: "You must not sleep until you reach me, or arrive within striking distance." Coffee marched 120 miles in two days, and arrived at New Orleans in ample season. Under similar admonitions, Col. Hinds's Mississippi Dragoons marched 230 miles in four days. Gen. Carroll was also urged to hurry forward his division. To Carroll, Jackson used this language: "I am resolved, feeble as my force is, to assail him on his first landing, and perish sooner than he shall reach the city." And he did. Carroll, too, marched with rapidity and arrived in time. These officers were inspired by a chief who knew not what failure was.

Such was Jackson, and such the elements at his command in that crisis. His followers were not veterans, like Packenhams, but they were fighters. Without uniforms, one-third of them unarmed, inadequately equipped and clothed as they were, Jackson was yet confident of success from the first. It is said he believed he could capture the whole British army. At all events his followers were fully convinced that he was thus confident, and this was half the secret of his success. It is recorded as a fact that during the most trying period, although weak and ill, Jackson did not sleep for five successive days and nights.

The American commander was surrounded by a large disaffected element and many spies. It must not be forgotten that the British invasion occurred only twelve years after the Louisiana purchase. The French creoles were true and loyal, but there were some expatriated Frenchmen who were lukewarm, even secretly favorable to a British conquest, because England had overthrown Napoleon and restored the Bourbons. There were also a good many disaffected Spaniards. To these doubtful elements Jackson issued an address in which he said in part:

"Believe not that the threatened invasion is with a view to restore the country to Spain. It is founded in design, and a supposition that you would be willing to return to your ancient Government. Listen not to such incredible tales; our Government is at peace with Spain. It is your vital enemy, the common enemy of mankind, the highway robber of the world, that has sent his hirelings among you to put you from your guard that you may fall an easier prey."

It is true that the English believed they would meet with the sympathy if not the active support of the greater part of the inhabitants. In this they were woefully deceived.

There is no design and no necessity to go into a hackneyed account of the battle of New Orleans in proof that nothing like it has taken place in South Africa, except the same bull-headed English generalship which gives battle exactly at the point the enemy most desires it, and the deliberate coolness of the Boers in defensive battle. But there are a few general observations which may be interesting if not instructive.

Quite recently I read a learned disquisition on the vulnerability of American seaports to the attack of a maritime enemy, in which the writer gravely cited the easy approach of the British fleet to New Orleans by way of the Mississippi River! Now, the British did not come up the river, as is commonly supposed. There was an attempt of some of their shipping to do so, but they were repulsed at Fort St. Philip. They came in barges through shallow Lake Borgne, landing fifteen miles away on Bayou Bienvenu, to which point it is supposed they were guided by Spanish fishermen. On the 23d of December, 1814, they unexpectedly emerged from the cypress swamps, about seven miles below the city, and immediately went into bivouac on the river bank, along which they must move to the attack. There was no chance for manouvring; the ground was merely a narrow, flat plain, hemmed in by swamp and river.

Military experts say the city must have fallen an easy prey had the enemy advanced at once. But there was no Jacksonian energy and nerve on that side. In accordance with the determination expressed to Carroll, Jackson attacked the British advance furiously after nightfall on the day of its landing, on front, flank, and right rear, very nearly stampeding the whole force. After sustaining some loss, but inflicting much heavier losses upon the enemy, he withdrew in fairly good order. The affair raised the morale of his troops, and correspondingly depressed the British, who were astounded at the boldness and cohesion of this remarkable night attack. Through these causes it really won the final victory. Not one General in a hundred under the circumstances would thus have taken the bull by the horns and delivered that night assault on the confident enemy. The sway of indomitable individual will power, confidence, courage, and comprehension over the multitude was never more potently demonstrated than by Andrew Jackson at New Orleans. It was his hour and his occasion.

Jackson's little army now had the faith of victory. The bold operations of an enemy heretofore held in little esteem caused the British to hesitate, and for more than two weeks the final blow was suspended. When delivered it was too late.

Between river and swamp the level bottom was about a mile wide. Jackson's task was easy if the British General persisted in a front attack. He took position across this narrow neck behind an old canal or mill race. Its embankment, on the side opposite the British, was raised and greatly strengthened. It could not be flanked, because an impassable swamp covered the left, and the Mississippi River, the right of the American line. The enemy had no other alternative than to go square at it.

Jackson's breastworks were not made of cotton bales, as is popularly supposed. It was a mud work, with a redoubt on the right, near the river. Some cotton bales were at first employed in their construction, but the enemy's heavy ordnance, in an attack on Jan. 1, knocked these about like ten pins, setting them on fire, and they were perforce discarded. Our destructive artillery fire also played havoc with the hogsheads of sugar in the British defenses, and they were thrown aside, giving place to earth.

Here, then, the English were confronted with an almost impregnable line, with a ditch in front—in itself a matter of difficulty to cross. One military officer said that had it been wholly undefended the heavily incumbered British infantry would have found it serious work to have mounted the slippery breastwork. But behind it were some of the deadliest marksmen in the world, imbued with a burning hatred of the invader, lying in wait for him to arrive within reach of their rifles. Here was exactly where Gen. Jackson desired them to come, just as the Boers desired Methuen to attack their fortified lines at Modder River, and Buller those at Colenso. And just as Buller and Methuen willingly met the enemy's wishes in South Africa, so did Packenham agreeably meet Jackson's invitation to try the strength of that fortified line at New Orleans. He bravely charged the fatal embankment, and his army was literally torn in pieces in half an hour, and he paid with his life the penalty of his ill-advised rashness. Will British Generals never learn anything?

After the sanguinary repulse of Packenham's forces, Col. Hinds asked Jackson for permission to go out and assume the offensive. Hinds and others believed the British army was at our mercy, and could be utterly destroyed. But most singularly, Jackson, the impetuous, declined permission to attack. Of course, afterward, "what could have been done" was fervidly discussed, but the General commanding was unquestionably right. In explanation of his caution he said: "My reason for refusing was that it might become necessary to sustain him, and thus a contest in the open field brought on. From the numerous dead and wounded stretched out on the field before me, I felt a confidence that the safety of the city was most probably attained, and hence that nothing calculated to reverse the good fortune we had met should be attempted."

These reasons were valid. But nevertheless it was curious reasoning coming from such an officer as Andrew Jackson. It was almost exactly the same ground taken by the Federal Gen. Meade at Gettysburg, after the repulse of Pickett, for not assuming the offensive against the Confederate army under Gen. Lee.

LESLIE J. PERRY.

Women Dress to Please Women, Not Men.

Written for THE NEW YORK TIMES

By ROMYN HITCHCOCK.

THE contribution of Emma M. Hooper, entitled "Rational Dress for Women," published in THE TIMES of Sunday, Dec. 24, is an obvious and weak attempt to explain and to defend irrational dress. It is so far from being a reasonable, not to say considerate, reply to the well-timed address of Mr. Bush-Brown, that the present writer is disposed to add a few words in very plain language. While not exceeding the bounds of the highest courtesy toward the author of the communication referred to, it will do no harm for the cause of good dressing to meet misrepresentations with vigorous words, even if their author is a woman. For as much consideration of what a writer may have said is due from a woman critic as from a man.

There is no reason why the subject of woman's dress should be avoided by men, since only by giving expression to their ideas can women be made to understand what men would wish them to recognize and consider. Miss Hooper may regard Mr. Bush-Brown as "an amoosin little cuss" if she will; but he has a rather large companionship among men.

Miss Hooper begins her article with a radically false assumption, excusable only if at all because it is so entirely feminine in origin. Perhaps it is because women so often fail to understand what a man says, whether in plain words or wisely discreet, that our difficulties in effecting changes or reforms are increased. The impression made upon my mind by Mr. Bush-Brown's address was that he advocated the best and most appropriate art and style in woman's dress. Miss Hooper seems to have received a totally different impression, for she writes: "If any of the masculine gender is thirsting for information why women do not dress in a sensible manner, devoid of fashion, art, becomingness, and that quality which we call style," &c. Is not this a typical example of deliberate misinterpretation? There is not a man on earth who would have a woman do any of those things except the first. Mr. Bush-Brown said nothing of the kind. Does Miss Hooper mean to say that fashion, art, becomingness, or style are incompatible with a sensible manner of dressing? It is a very serious admission which women generally will surely resent; but such seems to be her meaning.

Then she goes on to tell us that "if the feminine sex did attire themselves after this advice men would not notice them and would run after the giddy ones, who do not care a farthing for sensible dress." This is rather bad. Evidently, in Miss Hooper's mind, sensible dress is something to be avoided by this day and generation of women. One may question to what extent this notion finds root in the minds of women generally. But with Miss Hooper, and I do fear with some others of her sex—let us hope not with any large aggregate of them—sensible reasoning, sensible regard for what is said, sensible consideration for courteous and well-meant criticism, often meet the same fate. Yet one might suppose that what is most sensible would be regarded as best, for that which is sensible must be so by reason of its qualities of adaptation, appropriateness, and esthetic merit.

Miss Hooper has set up a man of straw to shoot with arrows, and she hits the mark archly, no doubt; but the real man is of a different sort. The old, old story about dressing to please the men may still apply among barbarians and primitive peoples, but with us it is only a persisting fiction brought up to do duty when there is a dearth of facts or reasons. It is possible that some women dress with that end in view. I have no doubt that a considerable number of them try to delude themselves into the belief that they are thus inspired. But the truth seems to be not from psychological studies, but from the tangible results frequently manifested—that men have very little indeed to do with the matter. The women dress for each other. With envy, malice, and all uncharitableness, they strive to outdo each other in elaborateness and costliness of apparel, following the fashion plates of the season without regard to whether they are pleasing to the eye or repulsive distortions.

In writing thus one must rely upon the discrimination of the reader in the application of a statement which, taken literally, would comprehend more than is intended. Space forbids qualifying every point, and my fair readers will, I trust, know that I do not mean to include them all in such an accusation.

To say that a trailing skirt is worn in the street to attract the men is utterly untrue. It is an abomination which men tolerate because they are helpless against the dictates of feminine fashion. To say that the great, awkward, overshadowing hats are made to please the men is just as false. The tight-laced corset, which has given us the constricted waist, has always been deplored by men; but the fashion plates of the day perpetuate it in caricatures of women distorted beyond redemption. The enormous hoopskirts which were worn a generation since were detested by men. High-heeled boots and slippers were never made to please the men, who admire the natural Trilby foot and detest the deformations made by crowding the ball of the foot into a pointed cone of leather.

Then the hair dressing which has prevailed, not so much just now as in the past, but which is liable to return upon us at the arbitrary dictation of the designers of fashions! Monumental pilings up of hair and wire and wadding of some kind, to make woman appear like something she was not born to be—church steeples or towers on her head, or "waterfalls" down her back! Just think of it all—on the pretense that it is to attract the men! The men simply detest the whole business.

Then there are the horrible distortions of birds on hats. Is there not a significance deeper than mere sentiment in this arraignment of gentle, sympathetic, tender-hearted woman, from a lover of birds who, referring to the local slaughter of 40,000 terns in a single season for millinery use, writes as follows: "Is there no appeal from fashion's decree? Woman alone can answer these questions, and the case is so clear that she cannot shirk the responsibility of replying. Aigrettes are decorative, quills difficult to identify; neither bespeak death, and ignorance may lead the most humane woman to wearing either. But with the tern no such excuse exists, and the woman who places its always disgustingly mutilated body on her bonnet, does so in deliberate defiance of the laws of humanity and good taste." Again, it is the men who protest. It is the men who deplore the useless slaughter, and who condemn and never have condoned in the slightest degree the use of plumage, because of its inhumanity and its offensiveness to good taste.

A man's idea of the "common-sense girl" is more complimentary to woman than is Miss Hooper's. His ideal of a woman is one who possesses and who manifests common sense at all times. The frivolous, fashionably dressed woman may serve to while away the time where only commonplaces and gossip, on which she lives and has her being, seem available or appropriate. But the common-sense woman who has ideas of her own, whose influence is felt wherever she may be, whose education and ability make her an honored and loved member of society, is the woman who will attract the men. She may be dressed in the prevailing style, or she may not, the result will be the same; for of this one may always be certain, she will be well and tastefully dressed. Indeed, less of a blind follower of extremes, possessing independence and a cultured taste, she is able to appropriate to herself what is pleasing and suitable. Thus it is that the best women, those who are most thoughtful and companionable, are usually the best appareled. If they follow fashions every season, it is not without protest now and then, but they dislike to appear conspicuous in last year's gowns. On the other hand, Miss Hooper's type of woman glories in the greater notice which her new gown gives her. And a man, above all things, dislikes to be made prominent in any place because of his apparel.

The evil of feminine fashions is far more serious in its consequences than all this signifies. Miss Hooper has brought up the subject of expensive dressing. The age is growing too luxurious for healthy, natural life. The cost of the unceasing competition among women in dress and adornment is inordinate and increasing at a fearful rate. The cost is not in money alone, but far more in the constant strain and nervous energy and worry of the heads of families, who, but for the great and pressing demands of fashion upon wives and daughters, could live in comfort and ease. Men who make fortunes every year have but little to leave in profits when they die. Insurance policies constitute the mainstay of many a family whose wives and daughters moved in high circles of wealth and luxury, while the fathers lived and worked out their lives.

Out of all the costs of living and supporting a family in these days, the sums squandered for clothing the wives and daughters are utterly disproportionate to the total income. And now Miss Hooper would have us believe that it would be almost criminal to restrict these expenses, because so many workers are earning a pittance in fashionable tailoring establishments and sweatshops, who would then be thrown out of work. Such sophistry may pass with the unthinking, but it is not good social economy, and manufactures will not die out because good taste is cultivated.

If this subject is to be treated at all, let it be with honesty of purpose. The men wish the women to dress well, as richly as their means allow, but always in good taste. To pervert their words into a different meaning leads to no useful purpose.

ROMYN HITCHCOCK.

FINANCIAL DIRECTORY.

Chemical National Bank
270 Broadway.

National Bank of Commerce
CAP. AND SUR. $5,500,000.
31 Nassau St.

Hanover National Bank
Capital $1,000,000. Surplus and profits, $2,500,000.
9 and 11 Nassau St.

The Nassau Bank
Corner Beekman and Nassau Streets.

Central National Bank
320 Broadway.

Continental Trust Company
30 Broad St.

Colonial Trust Company
CAPITAL & SURPLUS, $1,500,000.
ST. PAUL BLD'G.
222 B'way.

Washington Trust Company
Stewart Building, 280 Broadway.

PHILADELPHIA.
Fourth Street National Bank
Capital, $1,500,000. Surplus, $1,500,000.

BANKERS' CARDS.

G. Sidenberg & Kraus,
BANKERS,
20 BROAD ST., NEW YORK.
Members of N. Y. Stock Exchange.
Transact a general Banking Business.
Interest allowed on deposits.
Orders executed for cash or on margin.
Investment Securities
A SPECIALTY.
LIST SENT ON APPLICATION.

KOUNTZE BROTHERS,
BANKERS,
Broadway & Cedar St., NEW YORK.
Investment Securities.
Foreign Exchange.
Loans made against approved collateral.
Interest allowed on deposits.
LETTERS OF CREDIT.

HENRY CLEWS & CO.,
BANKERS.
11, 13, 15, & 17 Broad St.
MEMBERS N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE.
Orders executed for investment or on margin. Interest allowed on deposits subject to check at sight. Railroads reorganized and trade combinations effected. Act as Financial Agents for Corporations and Investors.
U. S. Bonds, all issues, bought and sold.
Branch Offices: 1202 FIFTH AV., cor. 25th St. 487 BROADWAY, Silk Ex'ge Bldg 56 WORTH ST. & 39 Thomas St. 87 HUDSON ST., Mercantile Ex. 16 COURT ST., Brooklyn.

DOUGLAS & JONES
Members New York Stock Exchange.
ESTABLISHED 1886.
24 Broad St., New York City.
STOCKS AND BONDS BOUGHT AND SOLD ON COMMISSION AT THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE AND CARRIED ON MARGIN.
Daily Market Letter on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.

Sutro Bros. & Co.,
BANKERS.
56 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Negotiate Security Issues of Railroad, Street Railway, Gas, Electric, and other Companies, and transact a General Banking Business.
Investment Securities.
Private wire connection to Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Atlantic City.
Members New York and Phila. Stock Exchanges.
H. F. Bachman & Co., Philadelphia.

P. J. Goodhart & Co.,
Dealers in
Bank & Trust Co. Stocks.
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
35 WALL STREET.

HAVEN & STOUT
Bankers and Brokers.
Nassau Street Cor Wall St.
Members of
N. Y. Stock Exchange. N. Y. Cotton Exchange,
N. Y. Produce Exchange, Chicago Board of Trade.
Branch Offices:
302 Broadway, cor. Duane St., New York.
84 Broadway, cor. Berry St., Brooklyn.

SIMON BORG & CO.,
BANKERS,
No. 26 Nassau St., New York,
INVESTMENT SECURITIES.

W. C. Ashwell. E. D. Morgan Waterman.
Ashwell & Co.
30 BROAD ST.
MEMBERS { N. Y. Stock Exchange. N. Y. Produce Exchange.

FINANCIAL.

'PHONES—2,702-2,703 BROAD.
L. H. Bailey & Co
STOCK BROKERS,
32 Broadway, N. Y.
Members New York Consolidated Exchange.
Stocks, Bonds, Grain, Cotton
bought for cash or carried on margin.
Branch Office, 467 Broadway, cor. Grand St.
'Phone—1,140 Spring. ISAAC BLUM, MANAGER.

MOFFAT & WHITE,
BANKERS.
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
NO. 1 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK.
Investment Securities.
N. Y. & N. J. TELEPHONE
STOCK AND RIGHTS
Bought and Sold.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.,
NO. 59 WALL ST.,
ISSUE COMMERCIAL AND TRAVELERS' CREDITS, AVAILABLE IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Outside Securities a Specialty.
DAVID PFEIFFER, 18 Wall St.

MONEY TO LOAN on first and second mortgage, as low as 4%, city or country. Any amount, light expenses. KENNEDY, 237 B'way, N. Y.

FINANCIAL. | FINANCIAL.

Application will be made to list these bonds upon the New York Stock Exchange.

We own and offer at 101 and interest

$750,000

HUDSON RIVER WATER POWER CO.

Five Per Cent. First Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bonds.

Dated Nov. 15, 1899. Due Nov. 1, 1914 to 1929.

Principal and Semi-Annual Interest Payable at

TRUST COMPANY OF AMERICA, N. Y., TRUSTEE.

Coupon Bonds with Provision for Registration. Denomination $1000.

Secured by a first and only lien upon four and one-half miles of land on each side of the Hudson River above Glens Falls, New York, constituting the water rights, also by the Dam, Power House, Electrical Equipment and other real and personal property, rights, privileges and franchises, present and future, and by the ownership of the Saratoga Gas, Electric Light and Power Company.

Present bond issue (secured by titles to water power lands deeded to trustee; by deposit of over 90 per cent. of all stock and bonds of Saratoga Gas, Elec. Lt. & P. Co., and by the Dam, Power House and Electric Equipment of the completed property. Interest provided by present actual net earnings of Saratoga Co. of rising $40,000 per annum.)	$750,000
Additional bonds to be issued later for completion of plant. (Interest provided by special deposit of $35,000 with the Trustee)	750,000
Limit of bond issue upon completed plant, including Saratoga Co.	$1,500,000
Capital Stock	2,000,000

SINKING FUND.

The $750,000 bonds herein offered will be retired numerically at the rate of $50,000 per annum, beginning 1914, through the operation of a sinking fund to be maintained from the surplus earnings of the Company. The remaining $750,000 of the issue falls due at the end of thirty years.

DESCRIPTION OF PLANT.

The Hudson River Water Power Co. was organized for the purpose of acquiring the water power created by the fall in the Hudson River between Glens Falls and Palmer's Falls, New York, and for the electrical development of said water power and the transmission and sale of such electricty. The plant will consist of a dam seventy-two feet high, to be constructed just above Glens Falls, upon solid rock, capable of developing at least 10,000 horse-power in the driest portion of the year, which will be increased to from 15,000 to 20,000 horse-power at other times. The present flow of water in the river will be further increased upon the carrying out of the present plans of the Forest Preserve Board of New York State, which has entered upon a system of storage reservoirs in the Adirondack region at the head-waters of the Hudson for the purpose of equalizing the flow of the river. As a part of this plan a large reservoir at Indian Lake has already been completed. A power house will adjoin the dam, in which electricity will be generated, whence it will be transmitted for light and power purposes to Glens Falls, South Glens Falls, Saratoga, Sandy Hill, Fort Edward and Ballston, aggregating 50,000 population, where a demand for such power already exists at remunerative rates. Upward of 5,000 horse-power has already been applied for. No other available site or power exists upon the Hudson River which is not already utilized, hence the Hudson River Water Power Co. will enjoy a natural monopoly in the section of country served.

OPERATIONS OF HUDSON RIVER WATER POWER COMPANY.

Estimated annual receipts from sales of 10,000 horse power at minimum rate of $25 per h. p.		$250,000.00
Gross receipts of Saratoga Gas, Elec. Light and Power Co. for 1898	$80,350.32
Operating expenses	39,893.40	40,456.92
Gross annual revenue of Hudson River Water Power Co.		$290,456.92
Estimated expenses of operation		25,000.00
Net earnings, showing interest more than three times earned		$265,456.92
Annual interest charge on $1,500,00 5% bonds		$75,000.00

William Barclay Parsons, Esq., Civil and Consulting Engineer, and head of the Rapid Transit Commission of New York, has been retained by us, and is taking eptire charge of planning and supervising the construction of the power plant of this Company.

Messrs. Storey, Thorndike & Palmer, Attorneys, have charge of all legal matters pertaining to the formation of the Company and the issue of bonds, and we are prepared to furnish copies of their opinion in evidence of the legality of all steps pertaining to the same, together with mortgage, etc.

Write for special prospectus, giving full particulars.

BOSTON E. H. GAY & CO. PHILADELPHIA
1 Nassau St., New York.

THE
GEYSERITE SOAP MANUFACTURING COMPANY
OF DENVER, COL.
CAPITAL, $1,500,000.

In order to get sufficient capital at once for putting into execution its projects—viz., enlarge facilities for handling of its vast trade, systematize all its departments, purchase of other soap interests, additional real estate and buildings, trademarks, machinery, and Geyserite deposit lands,

OFFERS TO INVESTORS

A.—
FIRST MORTGAGE 20 YEAR 6% GOLD BONDS

to the amount of $500,000, dated Jan. 1st, 1900; due Jan. 1, 1920, in denominations of $100, $200. Principal and semi-annual interest, (January and July,) payable in U. S. Gold Coin at the office of the International Banking and Trust Co., 149 Broadway, New York, which organization acts as Registrar and Trustee of the Bonds.
B.—The 8% Preferred Stock to the amount of $500,000.
C.—Common Stock to amount of $1,000,000.

The payment of the First Mortgage Gold Bonds is guaranteed to holders by a mortgage on the assets of the company; but there is reserved the right on the part of the Geyserite Soap Manufacturing Company to redeem these bonds on any interest day five years from date of purchase at $115.00; ten years from date of purchase at $110.00, or again on any interest day 15 years later at $105.00.

"Story of the Geyserite," price, and prospectus can be had upon application.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS

open January 3d, 1900, at 10 A. M. promptly and close Jan. 20th, at 3 P. M. Investors will find these bonds an exceptional income-bearing security. Correspondence solicited.

KAY, HEALY & HILDRETH,
BANKERS AND BROKERS
41-43 WALL STREET, NEW YORK.

The Colorado Coal and Iron Company,
6% MORTGAGE BONDS.

The Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, successor, by consolidation, to The Colorado Coal & Iron Company, proposes to extend above bonds at the rate of 6% per annum until February 1, 1902, the present security and lien to remain in full force, the principal and interest of the extended bonds to be payable in gold.

Arrangements have been made to purchase the bonds not extended by the holders, and to extend the same. Bondholders who wish to avail themselves of the privilege of extending the bonds may notify the Knickerbocker Trust Company at once of their intention so to do, and must present their bonds at the office of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, No. 66 Broadway, New York, between January 15th and January 27th, 1900, to have the contract of extension and new coupon sheets attached.

Bonds not extended by present holders should be presented to the Knickerbocker Trust Company on February 1, 1900, when par and the last coupon will be paid on the same.

JOHN L. JEROME, Treasurer.

N. Y. SECURITY AND TRUST CO.

46 WALL STREET, NEW YORK.
Capital & Surplus.....$3,000,000
CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD, President.
WM. L. STRONG, 1st Vice-Prest. ABRAM M. HYATT, 2d Vice-Prest.
OSBORN W. BRIGHT, Secretary. ZELAH VAN LOAN Asst. Secretary.
TRUSTEES:
Chas. S. Fairchild, Edward Uhl.
Wm. L. Strong, Frederic R. Coudert
James J. Hill, B. Aymar Sands,
Wm. F. Buckley, John W. Sterling,
Stuart G. Nelson, John A. McCall,
Hudson Hoagland, H. Walter Webb,
James Stillman, James A. Blair,
Edward N. Gibbs, Frank W. Stearns,
M. C. D. Borden, Edm. D. Randolph,
Jno. G. McCullough, Aldace F. Walter.

This company is authorized to act as Executor, Trustee, Administrator, Guardian, Agent, Receiver, Registrar, and Transfer Agent.
Receives deposits subject to sight drafts, allowing interest on daily balances.

BOND DEPARTMENT.
CAREFULLY CHOSEN SECURITIES FOR INVESTMENT ALWAYS ON HAND.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

SINKING FUND NOTICE.
DULUTH, MISSABE AND NORTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY
First Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, dated January 1st, 1893.

The CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY of New York gives notice that in accordance with Article V. of a certain Indenture made by the above Railway Company, dated January 1st, 1893, it will receive sealed proposals to sell the above-described bonds at a rate not to exceed 105 per cent. and accrued interest, the total offer not to consume more than the amount of Seventy-nine thousand two hundred and twenty-two 12-100 dollars ($79,222.12.) The sealed proposals will be opened at the office of the CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, in New York City, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 15th day of January, 1900.

CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK,
TRUSTEE.
By G. Sherman, Vice President.

MORTON TRUST CO.
38 NASSAU ST., NEW YORK.
Capital & Surplus, $2,500,000.
LEVI P. MORTON, Pres't. EDWARD J. BERWIND, V.-Pres't.
JAS. K. CORBIERE, 2d V.-Prest. WM. REDMOND CROSS, Sec.

SAVINGS BANKS.

EAST RIVER SAVINGS BANK
NO. 3 CHAMBERS ST.
103rd SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.
New York, Dec. 11, 1899.

A DIVIDEND at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. per annum has been declared for the six months ending Dec. 31, upon all accounts entitled thereto, from $5 to $3,000, payable after Jan. 10, 1900.

DEPOSITS made before Jan. 7 will draw interest from Jan. 1.

DEPOSITORS are requested to present their bankbooks once every year for the entry of interest.

WILLIAM H. SLOCUM, President.
CHARLES A. WHITNEY, Secretary.

CITIZENS' SAVINGS BANK,
56 and 58 BOWERY, COR. CANAL ST.
79TH SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.

The Trustees have ordered that interest at the rate of THREE AND ONE-HALF (3½) PER CENT. per annum be paid to depositors on and after January 15th on all sums of $5 and up to $3,000 which have remained on deposit for the three or six months ending December 31, 1899, in accordance with the by-laws and rules of the bank. Money deposited on or before January 10th will draw interest from January 1st.

HENRY HASLER, President.
CHARLES W. HELD, Secretary.
HENRY SAYLER, Assistant Secretary.

Union Dime Savings Institution
BROADWAY, 32D ST. & SIXTH AVENUE, GREELEY SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Interest three and one-half per cent. from $5 to $3,000. Credited January 1st, payable January 18th, or any time later.

Money deposited before January 10th draws interest from the first.

CHARLES E. SPRAGUE, President.
GEORGE N. BIRDSALL, Treasurer.
FRANCIS M. LEAKE, Secretary.

FINANCIAL. | FINANCIAL.

High Grade Bonds.

$60,000 Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Consol. 5s	$20,000 C., Mil. & St. P. (Min'l Pt. Div.) 1st Mtge. Gold 5s
$50,000 N. Y. Cent. & Hud. Riv. R. R. Refun'g Mtge. 3½s	$20,000 Chic., Mil. & St. P. (Mo. Riv. Div.) 1st Mtge. 5s
$50,000 Beech Creek R. R. 1st Mtge. Guaranteed 4s	$100,000 Cleve., Col, Cin. & Ind. Consol. (1st) Mtge. 7s
$100,000 West Shore Railroad First Mortgage 4s (Guar. by N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R.)	$100,000 Chicago, Bur. & Quin. (Ill. Div.) 1st Mtge. 3½s
$250,000 New York, N. Haven & Hart. Conv. Deb. 4%	$50,000 St. Paul, Minn. & Manitoba 1st Mtge. Gold 6s
$500,000 Chic. & Northw. R'way Consol. 1st Mtge. 7s	$200,000 St. Paul, Minn. & Man. Con. Mtge. Gold 4½s
$25,000 Chic. & Northw. R'way Mad'n Ext. 1st Gold 7s	$100,000 St. Paul, Minn. & Man. Cons. Mtge. Gold 6s
$25,000 C. & N. W. R'way Menominee Ext. 1st Gold 7s	£25,000 Penn. R. R. General (1st) Mtge. Sterling 6s
$25,000 Chic. & Northw. R'way Sinking Fund Deb. 5s	£25,000 Penn. R. R. Consol. Mtge. S'k'g Fund Ster. 6s
$20,000 Chic. & Northw. R'way Sinking Fund 6s	$250,000 Penn. R. R. Rolling stock Trust Certif. 3½s
$60,000 St. Paul & Sioux City 1st Mtge. Gold 6s (Underlying Chic. & N. W. System.)	$25,000 Balt. & Potomac R. R. 1st Mtge. Tun. Gold 6s (Guar by Penn. and by N. Cent. R. Rs.)
$60,000 Mil., L. Sh. & West. (Mich. Div.) 1st Gold 6s (Underlying Chic. & N. W. System.)	$40.000 Allegheny Valley R. R. 1st Mortgage 7s (Guaranteed by Penn. R. R.)
$75,000 Mil., L. Sh. & West. (Ash. Div.) 1st Gold 6s (Underlying Chic. & N. W. System.)	$20,000 Erie & Pittsburg R. R. 1st Mtge. Gold 3½s (Guaranteed by Penn. R. R.)
$35,000 Chic., St. Paul, Minn. & Omaha Consol. 6s (Underlying Chic. & N. W. System.)	$15,000 United N. J. R.R. & Canal Co. Cons. Mtge. 4s (Guaranteed by Penn. R. R.)
$100,000 Winona & St. Peter Ext. 1st Mtge. Gold 7s (Guar. by Chic. & Northwestern R'y.)	$35,000 Cleve. & Mahon. Val. R. R. 1st Mtge. Gold 5s
$75,000 Syracuse, Binghamton & N. Y. 1st Mtge. 7s (Guar. by Del., Lack & West. R. R.)	$25.000 Clearfield & Mahon. R. R. 1st Mtge. Gold 5s
$25,000 Morris & Essex R. R. 1st Mortgage 7s (Guar. by Del., Lack & West. R. R.)	$15,000 Illinois Cent. R. R. 1st Mortgage Gold 3½s
$30,000 Morris & Essex Consolidated Mortgage 7% (Guar. by Del., Lack. & West. Ry. Co.)	$25,000 Third Avenue R. R. 1st Mortgage Gold 5s
$85,000 New York, Lack. & West. R. R. 1st Mtge. 6s (Guar. by Del., Lack & West. R. R.)	$25,000 Oregon Short Line R'way 1st Mtge. Gold 6s (Underlying Union Pacific System.)
$150,000 Chic., Mil. & St. Paul General Mtge. Gold 4s	$30,000 Nash., Chattanooga & St. Louis 1st Mtge. 7s
$150,000 Chi., Mil. & St. P. (Ch. & Pa. W. Div) 1st Gold 5s	$200,000 Erie Railway 1st Consol. Mortgage Gold 7s
$125,000 Chi., Mil. & St. P. (Wis. & Minn. Div.) 1st Gold 5s	$35,000 Norf. & West. R'y Imp. & Ext. Mtge. Gold 6s
$50,000 Chi., Mil. & St. P. Terminal Mtge. Gold 5s	$15,000 Ches. & O. R. R. (Pen. Ext.) 1st Mtge. Gold 6s

FOR SALE BY

Goldman, Sachs & Co.,
BANKERS,
31 Nassau Street, New York.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

Columbia Bank,
Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street,
New York, December 27th, 1899.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of this Bank for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, and for the election of three Inspectors of Election, to serve for the following annual election, will be held at the banking house on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.

The transfer books will be closed from January 2d, 1900, until the morning of January 10th, 1900. W. S. GRIFFITH, Cashier.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the Astoria Light, Heat and Power Company for the election of Directors to serve during the ensuing year, and for such other business as may come before the stockholders, will be held at No. 32 Liberty Street, on Monday, January 8th, 1900. Polls open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. Transfer books will close on Saturday, December 23d, 1899, at 12 M. and reopen on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900.

FRANCIS R. FORAKER, Secretary.

The Western National Bank
OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.
9th December, 1899.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of this Bank for the election of Directors and such other business as may come before it will be held at the Banking House, No. 15 Nassau Street, on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900. The Polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M.

H. A. SMITH, Cashier.

Lincoln National Bank,
32-42 EAST 42D ST.,
New York, December 23d, 1899.

The Annual Meeting of the shareholders of this bank, for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, will be held at the banking house, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M. W. T. CORNELL, Cashier.

The Hanover National Bank of the City of New York,
NEW YORK, December 8th, 1899.

The Annual Election for Directors of this Bank will be held at the banking house, 9 and 11 Nassau Street, on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 o'clock M. and 1 o'clock P. M. WILLIAM HALLS, Jr., Cashier.

The Bowery Bank of New York,
New York, December 28, 1899.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of this Bank, for the election of DIRECTORS for the ensuing year will be held at the Banking House, Number 62 Bowery, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of three (3) and four (4) P. M. CHARLES ESSIG, Cashier.

OFFICE OF THE EAGLE FIRE COMPANY, New York, December 30, 1899.—The annual election for Directors of this company, and for Inspectors, will be held at the company's office, No. 71 Wall Street, on Tuesday, January 9, 1900, commencing at 12 o'clock M. and closing at 1 o'clock P. M. THOS. J. GAINES, Secretary.

Fourteenth Street Bank.
5 East 14th Street.
New York, Dec. 26, 1899.

The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house on Tuesday, January 9, 1900, between the hours of 9:30 and 10:30 A. M. IRVING C. GAYLORD, Cashier.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

The Importers' and Traders' National Bank of New York,
New York, December 22d, 1899.

The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at its banking rooms, corner of Broadway and Murray Street, Tuesday, January 9th, 1900. The poll will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. EDWARD TOWNSEND, Cashier.

The Mechanics' National Bank of the City of New York,
Dec. 9th, 1899.

The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house, No. 33 Wall Street, on TUESDAY, Jan. 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.

G. W. BARTH, Cashier.

Garfield National Bank,
New York, December 28, 1899.

The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of this Bank, for the election of Directors and such other business as may come before said meeting, will be held at the Banking House, 23d Street and Sixth Av., on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of eleven A. M. and 12 M.

R. W. POOR, Cashier.

The Second National Bank of the City of New York,
New York, Dec. 6, 1899.

The annual election of Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house, No. 190 5th Av., on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900. The polls will be opened from 10 to 11 A. M.

J. S. CASE, Cashier.

THE NATIONAL BUTCHERS AND DROVERS' BANK,
New York, December 7th, 1899.

The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking room, No. 124 Bowery, on TUESDAY, Jan. 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.

WM. H. CHASE, Cashier.

THE ANNUAL ELECTION FOR DIRECTORS of the International Banking & Trust Company, to supply the places of those whose terms expire, will be held at its offices, 149 Broadway, January 17th, at 11 A. M.

JOHN B. DUER, } Secretaries.
T. H. FROEHLICH, }

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST OR STOLEN,

BANK BOOK No. 385,761 of the EMIGRANT INDUSTRIAL SAVINGS BANK. Payment stopped. Please return book to Bank, No. 51 Chambers St.

Lit Brothers Incorporated.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—Lit Brothers of Philadelphia filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State here to-day. The authorized capital is $500,000. The company will conduct a department store. The incorporators are Samuel D. and Jacob D. Lit, and Rachel P. Wadell. This firm was burned out recently.

FINANCIAL.

We offer for Investment
SHARES OF THE
United States Trust Company,
Union Trust Company,
Central Trust Company,
Farmers' Loan & Trust Company,
Guaranty Trust Company,
U. S. Mtge. & Trust Company,
Colonial Trust Company,
National City Bank,
Manhattan Company Bank,
Merchants' National Bank,
National Bank of Commerce,
National Park Bank,
Fourth National Bank,
Western National Bank,
Mechanics' National Bank,
Bank of New York.
ALSO MANY OTHER PRIME
Bank and Trust Co. Stocks.

In view of the high rates of interest that have prevailed during the past six months, and which are likely to continue well into the year 1900, we recommend the shares of the leading New York City Trust Cos. and Banks as most desirable investments.

P. J. Goodhart & Co.
38 WALL STREET.

DIVIDENDS.

United States Rubber Company.
9-15 Murray St., New York, January 4, 1900.

The Board of Directors of the United States Rubber Company has this day declared a dividend of TWO PER CENT. on the Preferred Stock of this Company as the second quarterly dividend from the net earnings for the fiscal year beginning April 1st, 1899, to stockholders of record at 3 P. M., January 15th, 1900, payable January 31st, 1900.

The Transfer Books will close at 3 P. M., January 15th, 1900, and reopen at 10 A. M., February 1st, 1900.

CHAS. R. FLINT, Treasurer.

United States Rubber Company.
9-15 Murray St., New York, January 4, 1900.

The Board of Directors of the United States Rubber Company has this day declared a dividend of ONE PER CENT. on the Common or General Stock of this Company from the net earnings of the Company to stockholders of record at 3 P. M., January 15th, 1900, payable January 31st, 1900.

The Transfer Books will close at 3 P. M., January 15th, 1900, and reopen at 10 A. M., February 1st, 1900.

CHAS. R. FLINT, Treasurer.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIRST DIVIDEND.
Citizens' Insurance Company,
No. 156 Broadway,
New York, Jan. 3d, 1900.

A dividend of four per cent. (4%) is payable on demand.

F. M. PARKER, Secretary.

FRENCH RAILROAD BUYS STEEL CARS.

Large Order Is Placed with a Firm in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 6.—Lucin Marechal, Chief Engineer of the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Railroad of France, who is in this country on a tour of inspection, placed an order with the Pressed Steel Car Company of this city to-day for 500 steel gondola cars of a special design.

This order marks the introduction of American steel cars on the European Continent, and may be considered a new epoch of railway equipment in the Old World.

Tin Plate Plants to Resume.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Jan. 6.—The Pittsburg and New Kensington (Penn.) tin-plate plants, which were closed down by the American Tin Plate Company about six weeks ago, will resume operations on Monday next. The resumption will give employment to 1,000 men.

NOTES OF INSURANCE INTERESTS.

The Inter-State Life Insurance Company of Indianapolis has decided to file articles of reincorporation in accordance with the provisions of the legal reserve law enacted by the Indiana Legislature last year.

The Insurance Field of Louisville, Ky., makes a statement to the effect that about the only States within the jurisdiction of the Southeastern Tariff Association which will show a profit on fire underwriting during 1899 are North Carolina and Mississippi, and possibly Louisiana.

The management of the Home Insurance Company of Nashville, Tenn., announces that its decision to reinsure its business in the Westchester Fire Insurance Company, and then go into liquidation, was a direct result of the prospective enforcement of the graded commission rule of the Western Union in the State of Tennessee.

The insurance on the property of the Dressel Railway Lamp Works, at 3,876 Park Avenue, which was badly damaged by fire Friday night, was distributed as follows: On Building—Commercial Union, $5,000; Hartford, $4,750; Hamburg-Bremen, $4,750. On Contents—Hartford, $11,200; Hamburg-Bremen, $11,200. C. R. Young & Co. will adjust the loss.

The Executive, Arbitration, and Brokerage Committees of the New York Fire Insurance Exchange have decided upon a joint recommendation that Section 18 of the Exchange agreement in regard to the regulation of branch offices be amended so that the words "and to Brooklyn as defined before the union with New York" shall be changed to read "and to the Borough of Brooklyn." The recommendation, which may affect the arrangements of several members, will be presented at the adjourned meeting of the Exchange, to be held on Wednesday.

The London dispatch published yesterday and stating that the competition in the fire insurance business in this country is so hot that it is becoming doubtful whether results make it worth the while of the British companies to try for American business, was commented upon unfavorably in the local offices, and it was generally regarded as an emanation from one of two or three companies, whose American business has not yielded returns at all comparable with those of the other companies during the last ten years.

Boston advices state that a friendly bill in equity has been filed by the Magdeburg Fire Insurance Company of Germany against the State Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner of Massachusetts for the recovery of the company's deposit of $200,000, made in Massachusetts in 1896. The action is brought because of the company's recent deposit of $500,000 in this State. Commissioner Cutting of the Massachusetts Insurance Department ruled that he was not competent to permit the removal of the deposit in that State, unless authorized by a court decision. The case was set down for Feb. 5.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

Wall Street markets at the opening of the year are erratic, sharp advances and equally sharp declines marking the course of prices, and few movements seeming to reflect any well defined business cause. Such a market course is not unnatural, as sequel to the extraordinary disturbance which overwhelmed Stock Exchange serenity during December.

Much is heard of work by pools in various parts of the market and manipulative agencies show in a variety of ways. A market developed under such patronage is not one that may prove altogether satisfactory—is one in which just such erratic movements as have taken place this week are certain to be disclosed.

It is to be said, however, that, though pool manipulation has been a conspicuous feature in Stock Exchange business at the opening of the year, such transactions do not by any means stand for the market as a whole. The very conspicuousness of the work done by manipulators gives it apparent importance beyond the real consequence of it. Throughout the Stock Exchange list there has been in evidence sturdy absorption of securities for investment accounts. It was not a fact at all neglected by wideawake people able to take up stocks that panicky times just before Christmas turned Wall Street into a bargain counter. Prizes could be readily picked up, and that alert contingent which is forever on the outlook for just such opportunities was industrious. Thus, as always follows such occasions, Wall Street oracles have ever since been announcing that stocks have passed into "strong hands." The philosophy of this expression may not be altogether soothing to those interests which, by comparison, are classed as weak handed, and who for some time to come may spend time in dressing financial wounds; but Stock Exchange tests are reflected in the characterization, and in the view of practical Wall Street there is not only warrant for the contrast so made but good reasons for relief, if not gratification, over the fact of it.

Wall Street continues to gossip in free and easy fashion of the affairs of conspicuous men and corporations. Agreement that the upset of last month was "a rich man's panic" seems to be regarded in some parts of Wall Street as giving license for the discussion of the business affairs of interests that have been prominent in a variety of industrial flotations. Authenticity can be attached to not a single circulating tale of the sort which most gets attention and repetition, and most of such representation may be set down to the inventive genius of two kinds of fable makers—one class aiming at being sensational and another having malicious ends to serve. By the latter class a number of active agencies are employed, a fact so easy of proof that it seems curious that there are not criminal court sequels. To the credit of the bear speculative contingent of Wall Street it is easy of recognition by fair-minded observers that 90 per cent. of current scandalmongering comes not from efforts for market effect but from quarters where spite and jealousy are to be served. And some men of millions cut curious figures in examples evident.

In money market matters nothing new yet develops of importance enough to warrant confident calculations upon the immediate course of the loan market. Funds are returning from the West in large volume, as yesterday's bank statement reflected, but European demands for gold extend, yesterday's shipments of $4,000,000 not figuring in the Clearing House showing for the week. In banking circles no marked recession in interest rates is expected immediately, such sentiment being the effect of the gold export movement, and the possible extension of it. It is of record, in fact, that some of the most important bankers in Wall Street have during the past week been advising commercial customers to make sure of accommodation by taking short-time loans rather than depend upon the call money market, which might be affected by a variety of influences apart from the course of business affairs here.

Great Britain's war situation becomes more and more a factor in international finance. They who at the outbreak of the Boer war apprehended financial disturbance because of the suppression of South Africa's gold output add now to their bearish views calculations as to what effects will be exerted upon the money markets of the world by a new big British war loan, and such elaborators of blue views lay stress, too, on nervousness which holders of money may feel over complications between Great Britain and other nations. Several times during the past week forcible efforts were put forth to depress security market values by announcements of English complications with Russia, Germany, and France; but at no time were scarecrow cable dispatches effective. Wall Street has had to submit to tests so severe lately that only actual developments are influential—prophecies, however gruesome, having become matters ordinary.

Two annual meetings to be held this week will get especial Wall Street attention, one being of Brooklyn Rapid Transit and the other of the Sugar Trust. At both of these meetings, so it has been freely promised in Wall Street, detailed statements are expected of essential facts in the affairs of the properties. For the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company it is semi-officially stated now, however, that no such statement is being prepared. The company's fiscal year ends in June, and it is pointed out that any special statement presented for a half year would be unusual, quite different from what corporations generally do. But exceptional conditions just now exist. Enemies of the property in and out of Wall Street have been aggressively assailing its credit. And better than offering rewards for the apprehension of libelers would be the easier process of officially showing precisely what is the company's situation, what its current earnings are, what are its expenses, what composes its assets, and what its liabilities. Under existing circumstances the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company can afford to do something "unusual"—not merely can afford it, but should not hesitate in the performance of duty owed absolutely. Why should there be mystery? Why should mischievous stock jobbers be permitted to make use of opportunities which the corporation itself can cut off?

As to the Sugar Trust, the suggestion that an understandable statement of its affairs will be issued gets credence nowhere. Upon ordinary subjects they who have forecast such a statement would command confidence; but this Sugar Trust promise serves only as text for mockery. Yet why shouldn't the Sugar Trust be candid, why should its business affairs be hidden from its own security holders? Why, indeed, should not those security holders insist upon publicity, insist upon fair treatment? Their rights are outraged, they neither know nor are able to get even hints of anything which can enable them reasonably to determine what real value attaches to their share in the property. Lawyers of reputation say the courts can be relied upon to make corporation records available, but stockholders are so neglectful that no financial manager of a blind-pool Trust feels disposed to give attention to such enforceable rights. The neglectful security owner, meanwhile—whether from apathy or from cowardice—is reckless utterly, is inviting penalties which eventually are bound to come.

SATURDAY.

Stocks irregular.

STOCK TRANSACTIONS.

	Shares.
Jan. 6	232,735
To date this year	2,821,806
Corresponding date last year	3,606,327

BOND TRANSACTIONS.

Jan. 6	$863,700
To date this year	$7,808,100
Corresponding date last year	$25,102,400

Money rate: Collateral loans on call, 3@4 per cent.; at three months, 6 per cent.; at six months, 6 per cent. Commercial paper, sixty to ninety days, 6 per cent.

Net changes in stocks of one-half of 1 per cent. or more were:

Stocks Advanced.

Adams Express	3	Erie Tel. & Tel.	⅝
Am. Ice	⅝	Federal Steel	⅞
Am. Tin Plate	¾	Laclede Gas	1⅛
Chi. & East. Ill.	1	Nat. Lead	1
C., C., C. & St. L. pf.	2½	Pressed Steel Car	1
Cleve., L. & W. pf.	1½	Third Avenue	1

Stocks Declined.

Am. Malt. pf.	1½	Int. Paper	¾
Am. Smelt. & Ref.	½	Laclede Gas pf.	1½
Am. S. & R. pf.	½	Louis. & Nash.	⅝
Am. Sugar Ref.	1½	Manhattan	⅝
Anaconda Copper	½	Met. Street Railway	½
At., T. & S. F. pf.	½	M., St. P. & S. S. M.	2
B'klyn Rapid Tr.	1¼	Missouri Pacific	¾
Canada South.	½	National Biscuit	1
Ches. & Ohio	½	National Steel	1
Chi., B. & Q.	1	N. J. Central	1⅜
Chi. G. W. pf., B.	⅝	N. Y. Air Brake	6
Chi., I. & L.	1⅛	N. Y. Central	⅞
Chi., R. I. & Pac.	½	N. Y., C. & St. L. 2d pf.	½
Col. Fuel & Iron	¾	Ont. & West.	½
Col. So. 2d pf.	½	Norf. & West. pf.	½
Cont. Tobacco	1¼	Northern Pacific	½
Cont. Tobacco pf.	½	Pacific Mail	1⅛
Del. & Hudson	1½	Penn. R. R.	⅞
Del., Lack. & W.	2½	Pressed S. Car pf.	½
Den. & Rio Gr. pf.	½	Southern Pacific	¾
Des M. & Ft. D. pf.	½	Southern Ry. pf.	½
Federal Steel pf.	½	Union Pacific	¾
General Electric	½	Union Pacific pf.	½
Great North. pf.	½	U. S. Rubber pf.	⅝
Hocking Valley pf.	1⅜	West. Un. Tel.	¾
Illinois Central	⅞

Bonds Advanced.

Net changes in bonds of 1 per cent. or more were:

B'klyn El. 1st	1½	Den. & R. G. con. 4s	1

Bonds Declined.

B'klyn R. T. 5s	1	Mex. Cent. 1st inc.	1½
Louis. & Nash. unif. 4s	1¼	St. L. S. W. 2d	1½
		Wabash deb., A	1

LIFE INSURANCE AS AN INVESTMENT.

[FROM A SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.]

The great increase in the volume of life insurance shown by the latest reports, and the large accumulation of resources by the leading companies, are suggestive of the extent to which life insurance is used nowadays as a means of investing savings, apart from the consideration of the protection of families and dependent persons against the loss of their main support by death. Agents, intent upon multiplying their commissions, are apt to magnify this inducement to taking out policies, but the conservative officers of the companies deprecate giving it too much prominence. While they insist that life insurance is really the best and safest form of investment for savings, all things considered, they do not claim that on the average there is an actual profit in it equal to what may be realized from some other investments in themselves safe. They do not like to have the legitimate purpose of "protection" and the necessity of indemnity for death losses overlooked. Insurance for a certain term of years, with a view to profit on the money paid in, may be disappointing if the other considerations of life insurance are lost sight of.

At the rates of the leading companies, a man fifty years of age who takes out a twenty years' endowment policy and lives to realize on the investment at the end of the term, will received over $500 more than he has paid on each $1,000 of insurance. It may be figured out what $1,000 invested at different rates of interest or profit would yield in the same time; but during this term, which the assured person has outlived, other policy holders have been dying without having paid nearly so much as their beneficiaries have received. Every policy holder has been paying for protection against this chance of death, and the companies calculate the cost and the value of this protection per $1,000 for the twenty years' term at over $700, so that they consider that the benefit which the insured gets in excess of his payments is worth over $1,200 instead of $500. This they reckon as part of the return upon the investment, even when one does not die to realize upon it, because he has the satisfying assurance that his family is provided for in case of his death, and that is what in part he pays for.

What might be called the profit of life insurance has been diminished in recent years by the payment of liberal surrender values upon policies which lapse from nonpayment of premiums. Some of the more conservative officers think that in the competition for business these payments have been made too liberal, making it easy for those who are tempted to use their money in some other way to give up their insurance. This is naturally done most by those who have the best chance of life, and who think they can readily reinsure, while those are likely to hold on to their policies who are the "porest risks" for the companies. Hence the encouragement of these surrenders by liberal payments is deprecated as "bad business."

But the chief claim of life insurance as an investment is its certainty, and not its profit. Every insurer is certain of getting his money back and something more, either for himself or for those for whom he chiefly desires to "lay up money." If he dies "early in the game," his family gets the full benefit, however few his payments may have been; if he survives his term of endowment insurance, he gets the full amount and a considerable bonus. It is always a question whether his average chance in any other investment would not have been loss instead of gain. The advantage of the payment of premiums over the most cautious and prudent depositing or investing of savings lies in the greater likelihood of perseverance in saving for the purpose, and the greater difficulty of withdrawing and spending the growing fund. A person feels that he must pay his premiums, when he does not feel bound to add to his deposit; and he will not readily surrender his policy, when a slight stress or temptation would induce him to "draw out" money which he can easily get without seeming to lose by it. A good case can be made out for life insurance as an investment without comparing it with any other as a producer of direct profit. A. K. F.

New York, Jan. 5, 1900.

THE BANK STATEMENT.

The bank statement issued shortly before the close of business yesterday was a surprise to many people who had not followed the movement of money during the week, and who lost sight of the fact that most of last week's gold exports and little of this week's would show in the statement. To close observers, however, the figures presented were about what was expected, the surplus reserve increasing $589,650, the loss in cash due to exports being more than offset by the gain from the Sub-Treasury and the return flow of money from the interior.

The increase in legal tender of $2,311,400 and in specie of $504,800 was considered especially favorable, while the increase in loans of over $4,100,000 was taken to indicate that the banks were beginning to feel that the necessity for their policy of contraction was nearing an end.

***

Following the publication of the statement the market, which had been feverish and, so far as some special stocks were concerned, actually weak, took on a better tone, and much of the loss of the earlier part of the day was recovered.

***

This week's averages of the banks compare with the same period in 1899 and 1898 as follows:

	1900.	1899.	1898.
Loans	$677,797,000	$713,803,800	$609,776,900
Deposits	748,953,100	826,881,700	685,592,500
Circulation	16,341,000	18,858,200	15,571,900
Specie	144,001,700	173,442,100	106,588,500
Legal tend's.	54,994,300	56,808,700	87,074,200
Total reser.	$198,996,000	$230,250,800	$193,662,700
Res. required.	187,238,275	206,720,425	171,398,125
Surplus reser.	$11,757,725	$23,530,375	$22,264,575

LEVI P. MORTON'S VIEWS.

Ex-Gov. Levi P. Morton, discussing the business and financial situation, says little, but what he does say is to the point, as follows:

"Conditions are exceptionally good—in fact, they could scarcely be better; the outlook is most encouraging."

IN THE NEW SOUTH.

Discussing Southern trade conditions, W. G. Macdowell of Roanoke, Va., says:

"You cannot exaggerate the wonderfully good times in the South. We were, perhaps, somewhat slower than the North and West in getting into full swing, but now that we are active our activity is nothing short of remarkable. The talk of a new industrial South is not fancy; it is fact. Our iron and steel industries are showing astonishing development, our manufacturers and merchants were never so active, while in timber, phosphate, and other special lines, we are doing famously.

"Railroads are especially prosperous. Earnings more than keep up, and the rate situation is better than it has been for years."

GOOD TIMES IN OHIO.

J. O. Moss, President of the National Bank of Sandusky, Ohio, and receiver of a number of railroads now in the Baltimore and Ohio group, though still retaining their separate corporate existence, has this to say of the situation in Ohio:

"I do not remember when Ohio was in better condition, financially and otherwise. The situation could not be better, and so far as I can see the outlook has in it nothing but what is encouraging. Money has been easy with us—in fact, we have been lending it in the East.

"The railroads have been making much money, and I know in the systems in which I am interested—the Central Ohio, the Midland, and the Sandusky—our business is simply limited by our capacity, and we are taking the cars as fast as the Baltimore and Ohio—in which system these roads now are—can furnish them.

"Manufacturers are rushed to fill orders, and there is profitable employment for workingmen."

PROSPERITY IN PENNSYLVANIA.

The story of improved business conditions in Philadelphia and throughout Pennsylvania has been told before, but never with more force than in these words of E. V. Douglass of Philadelphia:

"Times in Pennsylvania, and particularly in Philadelphia, were never better. We have no reason for complaint; much reason to be satisfied. Merchants and manufacturers, farmers and artisans—all are doing well, and from present prospects will continue to do so for some time to come. In fact, there is no end of the prosperity in sight.

"Of course we have had a little tight money in Philadelphia, just as you have had it in New York; but it was only temporary, and at no time had sound business interests any difficulty in getting money at reasonable rates."

BROOKLYN RAPID TRANSIT.

The bears who on Thursday and Friday seemed to be less aggressive than usual toward Brooklyn Rapid Transit, took another drive at the stock yesterday and succeeded in forcing the quotation down 1¼ points on sales of some 17,000 shares. The only news concerning the stock was the statement that there still is a very large short interest in it on the Consolidated Exchange, where the stock is loaning at a premium.

In this connection it is announced that the stock of the company, released from the voting trust, will be quoted in the unlisted department of the Stock Exchange on Monday. All transactions in the certificates may be settled by delivery of the new stock.

SUGAR STOCK WEAK.

Sugar Trust stock fell as low as 129 yesterday, though it rallied with the rest of the market on the publication of the favorable bank statement, closing for the day at 130⅝, a net loss, however, of 1½ points.

The annual meeting of the company is to be held this week, and many operators are inclined to await developments.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO.

Discussing a published report that the Baltimore and Ohio is now considering a very comprehensive financial scheme, which may involve the raising of $30,000,000 additional capital in some form or other, to put the road in the best physical condition, William Salomon, Chairman of the board, says:

"I don't know where any such figures came from. Certainly I did not authorize them. The fact of the matter is that a very great deal more is being said about our system than is warranted by the facts. We have told everything that we feel that the public is entitled to know. We have certain ideas as to how we want to handle our subsidiary properties, but we have not formulated any exact plan. In due time, however, all things will be made known."

PRESIDENT FINK'S DENIAL.

Since the stories of important trunk line deals, pending or completed, have been told, many other stories have been put upon the Street which have little or no foundation in fact.

Discussing one of these—to the effect that he had been in conference at the Waldorf-Astoria with President Ingalls of the "Big Four" and President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania—President Henry Fink of the Norfolk and Western said yesterday:

"There is not a word of truth in it. I was at no conference, nor do I know of any. We are going along in our own way, attending to our own business. Our relations with neighboring roads are, and always have been, friendly; but nothing more. As for our joining or being merged into any other system, that is ridiculous. Not unnaturally, inasmuch as rates for the year are made between now and April, we are anxious to get the best figures we can, and so far as we are able to do so without violating the law we are adjusting these matters with other roads.

"Business in the Southern States continues excellent, and we are very active. Our earnings are steadily increasing, and the outlook is most assuring. As is generally known, we take action on the preferred stock dividend in a few weeks."

FOREIGN SELLING.

International stocks again were the heaviest sufferers in the early decline yesterday, thanks to fresh liquidation in Berlin and selling by London of some 10,000 shares, principally Baltimore and Ohio and the Pacifics. The uncertainty in respect to the financial situation in Berlin and the fear of international complications growing out of the South African war were said to be largely responsible for this continued foreign selling, which, so far, at least, as Berlin is concerned, was thought to be over.

DELAWARE AND HUDSON.

Delaware and Hudson shares were weak yesterday, following the announcement by the company of the proposed new bond issue. Previous to the meeting of the company on Friday there had been talk of an increased dividend, which, however, did not materialize.

INCREASE IN WAGES.

The announcement of the 7½ per cent. increase by the American Steel and Wire Company in the wages of its 30,000 employes is referred to by friends of the company as striking evidence of its prosperity and as signifying that the officers of the concern have much faith in the future. President John W. Gates of the company will be in the city this week.

CHANGES IN FIRMS.

The New York Stock Exchange has issued a list of dissolutions of co-partnerships, new co-partnerships, and changes in firms. The changes in firms are given as follows:

Stewart Barr & Co., John Bensinger admitted; Fellows, Davis & Co., E. Bayard Halsted retires; Eames & Moore, Morgan Davis admitted; C. C. Goffe & Co., Charles H. Hilliard admitted; Halle & Stieklitz, Albert J. Erdmann admitted; H. M. Hume & Co., Edward A. Levy admitted; Homans & Co., Robert N. Seney admitted; Jesup & Lamont, John A. Hance and Guy R. McLane admitted; A. W. Kilborne & Co., Robert Stewart Kilborne admitted; Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Solomon Loeb retires, Mortimer L. Schiff admitted; J. P. Morgan & Co., George S. Bowdoin retires, Edward F. Whitney and William Pierson Hamilton admitted; W. D. Moore & Co., J. V. L. Rainhard retires, H. G. Asten admitted; E. & C. Randolph, Hartman K. Evans admitted; White & Wainwright, John T. Wainwright retires, William P. Wainwright admitted; Seymour, Johnson & Co., J. H. Robertson and J. M. Fortier retire, David Webster, special partner, admitted; Winthrop, Smith & Co., Philadelphia, W. Brentwood Smith admitted; Worden & Co., William M. Murray admitted; Winslow, Lanier & Co., J. H. Latham retires.

Dissolution of co-partnerships—new members in the majority of cases being admitted—are noted in the following cases: Curtis & Motley, Boston; H. I. Dittman & Lauer, William H. Hurley, Jr., & Co., Philadelphia; I. Judson & Co., Mason & Smith, Charles Minzesheimer & Co., Price, McCormick & Co., Schulz & Ruckgaber, and Walter C. Taylor & Co.

EARNINGS ARE AUDITED.

It may not be generally known, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that the International Zinc Company, Limited, of Joplin has all its accounts supervised and regularly certified as correct by professional accountants. The firm of Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co. has certified the earnings of the International Company's mines, and will regularly audit the accounts, and certify to shareholders each quarter the earnings and net profits of the company.

HUDSON RIVER WATER POWER.

Announcement is made of the purchase by the Hudson River Water Power Company of all the land for four and one-half miles on both sides of the Hudson River, beginning some five miles below Glens Falls, N. Y. At Glens Falls a water power of 10,000 horse is developed, and at the point where the newly purchased lands begin another 10,000 horse is available. The company has also bought the Saratoga Gas, Electric Light and Power Company, a going concern, with present net earnings of $40,000 per annum. It is proposed to issue $750,000 5 per cent. thirty-year gold bonds to pay for the two properties, and on account of the construction of a seventy-two-foot dam and power and transmission plant. These bonds will be offered at 101 and interest. The total issue is limited to $1,500,000.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call was 3@4 per cent., closing at 3 per cent.

Time money, 6 per cent. for all periods. Mercantile paper, 6 per cent. for sixty to ninety days' indorsements, 6 per cent. for choice four to six months' single names, and 7@8 per cent. for others.

Clearing House statements: Exchanges, $233,302,100; balances, $9,430,881; Sub-Treasury debit balance, $858,803.

Money on call in London at 5 per cent. Rate of discount in open market, 4½ per cent. for short and 4½@4¾ per cent. for three months' bills.

Foreign exchange was dull. Nominal rates were $4.84 for sixty days and $4.88½ for demand. Rates for actual business closed as follows: Sixty days, $4.83@$4.83¼; demand, $4.87½@$4.87⅝; cables, $4.88⅜; commercial bills, $4.82¼@$4.82¾.

Continental exchange was quoted as follows: Francs, 5.21¼@5.22½ less 1-16 and 5.17½; reichsmarks, 94⅝@94 3-16 and 95@95 1-16; guilders at 39 15-16 and 40¼.

Exchange on New York at domestic centres: Boston—10@20c discount. Chicago—20c premium. New Orleans—Commercial, 75c discount; bank, par. San Francisco—Sight, 12½c premium; telegraphic, 15c premium. Charleston—Buying, par; selling, ⅛c premium. Savannah—Buying, ⅛c off; selling, par. St. Louis—25c discount. Cincinnati—Between banks, 10c premium; over counter, 50c premium.

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—American securities fluctuated somewhat after a steady opening and then declined. Prices showed general weakness, following sales for Germany and fears of political complications. The closing was weak, with sellers predominating.

Consols for money, 98 13-16; consols for the account, 98 15-16; Canadian, 93⅛; Erie, 11½; Erie first preferred, 33; Illinois Central, 114¾; Union Pacific preferred, 76¼; St. Paul, 120⅜; New York Central, 130⅜; Pennsylvania, 67½; Reading, 9¼; Northern Pacific preferred, 74⅞; Atchison, 19⅝; Louisville, 80⅜; Anaconda, 6⅞; Grand Trunk, 7⅞.

Bar silver firm at 27¼d per ounce. Money, 5 per cent. Rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 4½ per cent., and for three months' bills, 4½@4¾ per cent.

The amount of bullion taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day was £161,000. Gold premiums are quoted as follows: Buenos Ayres, 128.80; Madrid, 28.55; Lisbon, 44; Rome, 7.17½. Spanish 4s closed at 64¾.

In Continental Centres.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Prices on the Bourse today opened fairly firm, but subsequently eased in consequence of less encouraging London advices, a disinclination to operate, and the uncertainty of war news. Later business was better in sympathy with the improvement in rentes and large investment buying. Kafirs closed firmer. De Beers Mines were heavy.

Three per cent. rentes, 99f. 62½c. for the account. Exchange on London, 25f. 24c. for checks.

Spanish 4s, 66.37½ ex interest.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were weak in consequence of Russian political rumors. Local shares and Americans were particularly affected.

Exchange on London, 20 marks, 52 pfennigs for checks. Private rate of discount, 5⅛ per cent.

FRANKFORT, Jan. 6.—Business opened quiet on the Boerse to-day, but subsequently was depressed on large arbitrage sales.

London Board of Trade Statement.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The statement of the Board of Trade for the month of December, 1899, shows a decrease of £4,625,900 in imports and an increase of £1,060,100 in exports.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Apart from the trading in one or two issues, recently become prominent, transactions in the market for outside securities yesterday were not in very large amount, and most of the day's net changes were relatively unimportant. Variations of a point or more were mostly on the side of advances, showing the market to be fairly strong. Buying of a kind called good continues a feature of the market, and where, a short time since, brokers with selling orders were the more urgent, the disposition now is to procure stock. Pressure has almost entirely disappeared, and in its place is a more or less general expression of confidence as to the course the market is likely to follow in the immediate future.

NEW AMSTERDAM GAS held the position which it assumed on the previous day, and only slight variation in the prices of the several issues appeared. Notable strength was shown by the preferred stock, which seemed in much better demand than the common, and stronger even than the bonds. In this issue bidders find it difficult to procure stock, which, during the past week, has been very firmly held. The steadiness of the New Amsterdam issues is to some degree a further assurance of the correctness of the opinion, which is now fairly general, that settlement of the gas war has been practically accomplished. Many who have been careful observers of conditions affecting the local gas situation and of the relation of the several gas companies of the city say that only details remain to be arranged between the several interests represented in these companies, and they point to the strength of the gas stocks as proof of the correctness of this view. New Amsterdam preferred closed with a net gain of half a point at 47 bid, with no stock offered under 50. Sales amounting to about $30,000 were made in the bonds from 95½ to 95, and they closed at 94¾ bid, a fractional net decline. Disposition was also shown to sell the common stock, which ended the day at 23½ bid, a net loss of half a point.

GENERAL CARRIAGE was a feature of the market. It was actively traded in from 7 up to 8, and closed at 7¾ bid, a net advance over Friday's closing bid of 1½ points. No further information was had in regard to the plans of the company, and most of the talk in regard to the stock is still in relation to the extraordinary course which it followed during the recent manipulation.

AMALGAMATED COPPER opened at 83½, the previous day's closing bid, and on fairly active trading advanced to 84½, gaining 1 point net for the day. Feeling in regard to the stock seems to be generally bullish, and traders now are inclined to work for higher prices, having completely changed their position taken some time since and held until a week or two ago.

DISTILLING OF AMERICA was, as far as reported, not traded in at all, but closing bids showed fractional changes in both issues. Bids for the preferred stock advanced half a point, to 27½, while the common stock declined as much, to 8. Present feeling in regard to the company is of a favorable character, and insiders are quoted as speaking most encouragingly of the earnings of the company. It is said that the net earnings of one alone of the several companies absorbed will be sufficient to pay the full amount of the dividend on the preferred stock of the Distilling Company.

HAVANA COMMERCIAL was notably strong, advancing nearly a point in the common stock, and enjoying a still larger gain in the preferred. Transactions in the former amounted to 400 shares, all of which changed hands at 17½. It closed with a fractional net gain at 17 bid. Trading in the preferred stock was limited to 100 shares, which sold at 60, and this issue ended the day at 59½ bid, an advance of 1½ points.

NEW YORK TRANSPORTATION sold at 12⅞ and closed at 11¾ bid, a quarter of a point recession from the previous day's final figure. None of the transportation stocks were active to a greater extent than 200 or 300 shares.

STORAGE POWER sold at 14 and closed unchanged for the day at 14 bid.

Closing quotations were as follows:

ACTIVE SECURITIES.

Gas Companies.

	Bid.	Asked.
Bay State Gas	1⅛	1½
New Amsterdam	23½	24¼
New Amsterdam pf.	47	50
New Amsterdam 5s, with interest	94¾	95¼

Industrials.

American Agricultural Chemical	31	34
American Agricultural Chemical pf.	76	79
American Bicycle	15	20
American Bicycle pf	45	55
American Bicycle bonds	92½	93½
American Woolen Goods	25	25½
American Woolen Goods pf., ex. div.	80	80¾
American Writing Paper 5s	85	88
Distilling Company of America	8	8½
Distilling Company of America pf.	27½	28¼
Electric Axle Light & Power	5	5½
Electric Boat	24	27
Electric Boat pf	35	40
Havana Commercial	17	19
Havana Commercial pf., ex. div.	59½	61
International Pump	15	17
International Pump pf	63	65
National Gramophone, ex. div.	59	63
National Salt	47	48
National Salt pf	..	80
National Tube	44	45
National Tube pf.	91	93
Otis Elevator	22	26
Otis Elevator pf.	87	90
Royal Baking Powder pf.	94½	96
Rubber Goods Mfg.	28	30
Rubber Goods Mfg. pf.	79	80
Sloss-Sheffield	31	33
Sloss-Sheffield pf	69	72
Standard Oil of New Jersey	488	493
U. S. Pneumatic Horse Collar	¼	½

Miscellaneous.

Amalgamated Copper, ex. div.	84½	85
American Air Power	35	50
American Cotton	..	50
Arizona Lead	10	10½
Asphalt Company of America	12½	13¼
British Columbia Copper	10½	11¼
Chicago & Alton subs.	103	105
Chicago & Alton 8s, (new)	93	96
Electric Vehicle	65	70
Electric Vehicle pf.	85	95
*Electro-Pneumatic, assessment paid	1⅛	1⅜
Pennington Coal & Coke	20	..
General Carriage	6¾	7
Illinois Transportation	3½	4
*Markeen Copper	6	7
Mexican 5s	..	97½
New England Transportation	6¼	7
New York Transportation	11¾	12
Pittsburg, Bessemer & Lake Erie	20	22
St. Louis subs	127½	129
Storage Power	14	15
Tennessee Copper	13¾	15
Trust Company of America	201	204
Virginia Coal, Iron & Coke	28	30
Whipsaw Copper	12¾	13½

*Selling dollars per share. Par value, $10.

LESS ACTIVE SECURITIES.

Street Railways.

	Bid.	Asked.
Broadway & Seventh Avenue	220	240
Broadway & Seventh Avenue 1st	104	105
Broadway & Seventh Avenue 2d	110	112
Broadway Surface 1st 5s	117	118
Broadway Surface 2d	104	105
Brooklyn City Railroad	235	237
Brooklyn, Bath & West End 5s	102	103
Central Park, N. & E. River	108	..
Central Park, N. & E. River 7s	106	108
Columbus Railway	20	24
Columbus Railway pf.	80	86
Con. Traction of N. J.	58	60
Con. Traction of N. J. 5s	106	108
Eighth Avenue Railroad	400	410
Kings County Elevated 4s, (new)	84	86
42d St., Man. & St. Nicholas Av.	65	70
42d St., Man. & St. Nicholas Av. 1st	115	117
42d St., Man. & St. Nicholas Av. 2d	91	93
Nassau Electric 4s	90	94
Nassau Electric 5s	108	112
New Orleans Traction	29½	30½
New Orleans Traction pf.	102	104
Ninth Avenue Railroad	190	205
North Jersey Street Railway	30¾	31
North Jersey Street Railway 6s	88	90
Orange & Passaic Valley bonds	103	114
Steinway Railway Co. 6 p. c. 1st	117	118
Second Avenue Railroad consols	115½	117
Sixth Avenue Railroad	205	210
Syracuse Rapid Transit	13	16
Syracuse Rapid Transit pf.	25	35
Union Railway 1st 5s	115	117
Union Railway stock	190	200
United Traction, Providence	107	111
Worcester (Mass.) Traction	30	32
Worcester (Mass.) Traction pf.	104	106

Gas Companies.

Buffalo (N. Y.) stock	6	8
Buffalo (N. Y.) 1st, with interest	72	75
Central Union 5s, guaranteed	108	109
Consolidated Gas of Newark	..	55
Consolidated Gas of Newark bonds	..	103
Consolidated Gas bonds of N. J.	87½	89½
Consolidated Gas of N. J.	21¾	22½
Consumers' Gas (Jersey City) bonds	102	105
Denver Gas	40	43
Denver Gas 5s	80	81
Essex & Hudson Gas	35	40
Fort Wayne Gas	38	45
Fort Wayne Gas 6s	60	64
Indianapolis Gas	100	105
Indianapolis Gas bonds	101	103
Lafayette Gas Co.	40	45
Lafayette Gas Co. 1st 6s	60	65
Logansport & Wabash Valley Gas	38	43
Logansport & Wabash Valley Gas 6s	60	65
Mutual Gas of New York	300	305
Madison (Wis.) stock	81	83
New England Gas & Coke	22	24
New England Gas & Coke bonds	74	75
N. Y. & E. R. Gas Co. 1st	108	112
N. Y. & E. R. Gas Co. con.	106	109
N. Y. Suburban Gas Co. con.	102½	103½
North Hudson L., H. & P. Co.	75	80
North Hud. L., H. & P. Co. bonds	107	109
Ohio & Indiana	38	45
Ohio & Indiana 1st 6s	60	65
St. Joseph, (Mo.)	40	46
St. Joseph (Mo.) 5s	96	98
St. Paul Gas stock	54	58
St. Paul Gas bonds	89	91

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

Complete Transactions in Stocks—Saturday, Jan. 6, 1900.

Closing. Bid.	Closing. Asked.	Sales.		First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Net Change.
111	115	125	Adams Express	114	114	114	114	+3
13⅞	14	370	Am. Car & Foundry	13⅞	14	13⅞	14	.....
61½	62	175	Am. Car & Found. pf.	62½	62½	61½	62½	.....
35½	36	200	American Ice	35¾	35¾	35¾	35¾	+ ¾
33¾	34¼	950	American Cotton Oil	34	34½	33⅞	33⅞	.....
12¼	13	17	American Linseed	12½	12½	12½	12½	.....
54½	54⅞	377	Am. Linseed pf	54⅝	54⅝	54⅜	54⅜	+ ¼
29	30½	300	Am. Malting Co. pf.	30	30	29½	29½	−1½
36½	37	400	Am. Smelt. & Ref.	36½	36¾	36½	36½	− ½
88	89	335	Am. Smelt. & Ref. pf.	88⅝	88⅝	88	88	− ½
81½	82½	470	Am. Steel Hoop pf.	81½	82	81½	82	.....
46⅞	47	5,470	Am. Steel & Wire	47	47½	46⅝	47	+ ¼
130⅜	130½	39,190	Am. Sugar Ref. Co.	131½	131¾	129	130⅜	−1½
91	97	30	Am. Tel. & Cable Co.	98	98	98	98	.....
31½	32	100	American Tin Plate	31⅞	31⅞	31⅞	31⅞	+ ⅜
80½	83	11	Am. Tin Plate pf.	83	83	83	83	.....
102¾	102⅞	8,910	American Tobacco	102½	103½	100½	102⅞	+ ⅜
39	39½	400	Anaconda Copper	38½	39	38½	39	− ½
19¼	19⅜	1,040	At., T. & S. F.	19¼	19¼	19¼	19½	− ⅛
60⅝	60¾	18,570	At., T. & S. F. pf.	60⅝	60⅞	60⅜	60⅜	− ½
56⅞	57	2,910	Baltimore & Ohio	56⅝	57	56⅞	56⅞	− ⅜
74	74½	2,445	Baltimore & Ohio pf.	74⅜	74½	74	74¼	− ⅜
72	72¼	18,465	Brooklyn Rapid Tran.	72⅜	73	71½	72	−1¼
147	149	400	Brooklyn Union Gas	148	148	148	148	.....
49	50	200	Canada Southern	50	50	49½	49½	− ½
30⅝	30⅜	9,035	Chesapeake & Ohio	31	31½	30⅜	30⅜	− ½
121¾	121⅞	6,740	Chi., Bur. & Quincy	122½	122¾	121¾	121⅞	−1
37	38	200	Chicago Con. Traction	37¾	37¾	37¼	37⅜	− ¼
90	92	100	Chicago & East. Ill.	91	91	91	91	+1
12⅜	12½	400	Chicago Great West.	12½	12⅜	12½	12½	.....
34	35	100	Chi., Gr. West. pf., B.	35⅜	35⅜	35½	35½	− ⅝
15	15½	300	Chi., Ind. & Louis.	15⅜	15⅜	15½	15½	−1⅜
117⅝	117¾	4,000	Chi., Mil. & St. Paul	117⅝	117⅞	117½	117⅝	− ¼
106	106½	1,960	Chi., R. I. & Pac.	106⅝	107	105½	106¼	− ½
63⅞	64	4,395	C., C., C. & St. Louis	64⅜	64½	63⅜	64	− ⅜
108½	110	500	C., C., C. & St. L. pf.	108½	109½	108½	109½	+2½
47	50	200	Cleve., Lor. & W. pf.	48	49	48	49	+1½
42⅞	43	580	Colorado Fuel & Iron	42	42¾	41¾	42¾	− ¾
21¼	22	100	Colorado Midland pf.	22	22	22	22	.....
5½	5⅝	100	Colorado Southern	5⅝	5⅝	5⅝	5⅝	− ⅛
14½	15	100	Col. Southern 2d pf.	14½	14½	14½	14½	− ½
15	16	25	Col. & H. C. & I.	16½	16½	16½	16½	.....
192½	194	1,000	Consolidated Gas	194½	194½	194	194	.....
33	33½	3,370	Continental Tobacco	34	34	32⅝	33¼	−1¼
85¾	86	360	Continental Tobac. pf.	86	86	86	86	− ½
114¼	114½	2,040	Delaware & Hudson	115	115	114	114½	−1½
176	176½	386	Del., Lack. & West.	176¾	176¾	176½	176½	−2½
67	68½	100	Denver & R. G. pf.	68½	68½	68½	68½	− ½
14½	15½	100

74½ closing at 75½. The certificates brought 25, and $6,000 worth of the bonds sold at 94½@94¾. Other prices showed no material difference.

Sales.		High.	Low.	Close.
100	Linseed	13	13	13
365	Linseed pf	54¾	54¾	54¾
185	Tin Plate	32½	31¾	32
20	Tin Plate pf	82	82	82
10	Radiator	50	50	50
50	Radiator pf	103¾	103¾	103¾
865	National Biscuit	35¾	35½	35¾
135	National Biscuit pf	91	90¾	90¾
4	Chicago Edison	157	157	157
70	Metropolitan El, etfs	25	25	25
4,067	Metropolitan El, pf	77	74½	75½
26	Diamond Match	121	119¼	119¼
12	South Side Elevated	101	101	101
50	Street's W. S. C. Line	22	22	22
310	West Chicago	110½	110	110½
100	Union Traction	29½	29	29

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—In the Boston market it was a day of light trading and general steadiness. Sugar was practically the only active stock, and that jumped up and down rapidly. The coppers continue to ignore the general market, and, inspired by the strong showing of Amalgamated, climb on their own account. Montana, Tamarack, and Amalgamated were the feature, although Isle Royale and Parrot had gains to their credit at the closing. Erie Telephone and Pullman were the best stocks outside of the coppers.

At the local Clearing House to-day 6 per cent. was the quoted rate between banks, and New York funds sold at from 20c to 10c discount.

Locally money is easier, and a reduction of Clearing House rates has been predicted within a few days. Money on call runs from 6 to 7 per cent. Time money is offered at 5½ and 6 per cent. There is a good market for commercial paper at 5¾ and 6 per cent.

Closing bid and asked:

Mining Stocks.

	Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked.
Adventure	6	6½	Old Colony	4¾	5
Allouez	3	3½	Old Dom	21	21½
Arcadian	20	21	Osceola	73	75
Arnold	6¾	6¾	Parrot	42	42½
Ash Bed	1		Pioneer	2	3
Atlantic	25½	26	Quincy	148	153
Baltic	18	19	Rhode Island	4½	5
B. & K. Cr. C	30		Santa Fé	6	6½
Bos. & Mont	285	286	Santa Ysabel	7¾	8¼
Butte & Bos	50	53	Shoe	32½	33
Cal. & H	753	757	Tamarack	185	190
Centennial	18	19	Utah Cons	28	28½
Franklin	14¾	15¼	Washington	1	1½
Humboldt	2	3	White Knob	12	18
Isle Royale	25	26	Winona	4¾	5
Mohawk	16½	17½	Wolverine	40	41

Railroad Stocks.

Bos. & Alb.	242	244
Bos. & Low.	241
Bos. & Me.	202
Bos. & Prov.		300
Bos. Elev.	89¾	90
Bos. G&s 5s	80	84
Cent. Mass.	12	13
Cent. M. pf.	61	70
Fitchburg pf.	124	125
N.Y. & N. E.
6s		110	112
N.Y. & N. E. 1st 7s		114
West End	93	94

Miscellaneous Stocks.

Am. Bell Tel.	341	343
Chi. Stk. Yds.	136½	137½
Dom. Coal	44½	46
Dom. C. pf.	115½	116
Erie Tel.	107	107½
Lam. Store		35
Mex. Tel.	3½	3¾
N. E. Tel.	135
U. S. Oil	24½	24¾
West. Elec.	40¾
West. El. pf.	61	63

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—There was a steady inquiry for Union Traction all day, and Cambria Steel found ready buyers, but in Electric Company of America there was an inclination to sag on small transactions. Notably heavy was Pennsylvania Railroad. That stock fell 1½ per cent., to 55½, in response to the weakness in New York, but good buying was attracted at the low level. Philadelphia Electric held steady, but Weisbach Light receded another point on a sale of 100 shares. With a few exceptions, prices closed unchanged from last night. A feature of the dealings was the steady absorption of all offerings.

Money is steadily growing easier in Philadelphia. From the country banks the institutions here have received upward of $500,000 this week and loans have been curtailed by stock market liquidations. This is a point that will tell upon prices, but nobody expects the recovery to be rapid. It will be healthier for its measured progress.

Closing bid and asked:

Cam. Steel	21⅝	21⅞	Phila. Trac.	95⅞	96
Choctaw	34½	35	Phila. Co. 5%	54	55
Diam. Steel	5¾	5⅞	Sus. I. & S.	14¾	15
Darv. Iron	3⅛	3¼	Union Trac.	39	39¼
El. P. Trans.	13½		United Gas.	151	153½
Lehigh Val.	24¾	25	Welsbach	41
Marsden	10⅝	11	W. N.Y. & P.	5½	5⅝

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

Complete Bond Transactions.

U S 3s, coup 1,000	110¾	Wet W S E, Chi. 4s 5,000	95½
Small bonds 200	110¾	Mex Intern con 4s 10,000	87½
U S 3s, registered 5,000	109⅞	Mex Cent 1st inc 10,000	21
Virginia Fund Debt 2-3s 11,000	85	Metro St gen 5s 1,000	119½
Adams Express 4s 4,000	103	Mo. K & Tex 2d 4s 3,000	68
Atch, Top & Santa Fe adjust 4s 20,000	95½	Nash, Chat & St L 1st 7s 2,000	127
2,000	79½	con 5s 1,000	104⅞
5,000	79½	N Y Cent & Hud Riv, Lake Sh col 3½s 10,000	97½
Gen 4s 12,000	99⅝	N Y Gas & Elec L H & P con 5s 2,000	99½
31,000	99⅝	N Y Gas & Elec L H & P cons 5s 7,000	106½
8,000	99⅝	N Y Gas & Elec L H & P gen 5s 15,000	106¾
12,000	99⅝	N Y Gas & Elec L H & P mtg 4s 2,000	93
Balt & Ohio 4½s 8,000	93½	Norf & W con 4s 500	91
12,000	93⅝	North Pac gen 3s 1,000	65¾
Balt & Ohio 4s 10,000	88	6,000	65½
Brooklyn Rap T 5s 1,000	105	North Pac 4s 3,000	103½
Brooklyn Un Elev 1st 14,000	94	Oregon Sh Line 1st con 5s 1,500	110½
Canadian Pac 1st 6s 12,000	106	Ore R & N con 4s 10,000	101¼
Canada South 2d 11,000	108	Pac Coast 1st 5s 1,000	104¼
Cent of N J gen 5s 6,000	118¼	Pac of Mo 1st 4s 4,000	105¾
Cent of Ga con 5s 1,000	90	Peo & East 1st 4s 4,000	86½
4,000	89¾	1,000	86
Cent Pac gtd 3½s 7,000	82	1,000	86½
2,000 55F	82	Reading gen 4s 8,000	83⅞
12,000	82	9,000	84
Cent Pac gtd 4s 21,000	95¾	Rio Gr West 1st 4s 6,000	95
Ches & O gen 4½s 1,000	96	St L, I M & So 4s 25,000	78¼
6,000	96⅜	49,000	78
10,000	96½	St L & S F gen 5s 2,000	107
Chi, Bur & Q, Neb Ext 4s 1,000	109¼	San A & A P 4s 2,000	77⅝
13,000	109½	St Paul, M & M, Dakota Ext 6s 2,000	77½
Chi & N W'n gold 7s, registered 10,000	108¾	So Pac of Ariz 1st 6s 6,000	110¾
Sinking Fund 5s 1,000	109	St L S W'n 2d 4s 1,000	89⅝
Chi, R I & P gen 4s 20,000	104	South Pac 4s 7,000	81¼
Chi Term Tran 4s 7,000	94	5,000	81
Chi, Mil & St P, So Minn Div 7,000	117⅜	4,000	80¾
Chi, St P, M & O 6s 5,000	131½	2,000	81
Col & South 1st 4s 12,000	83	Southern Ry 1st 5s 4,000	106¾
Del, M & M l g 3½s 1,000	21	3,000	107
Den & Rio Gr con 4s 5,000	97½	1,000	106¾
Den & Rio Gr 1st 7s 5,000	102½	Tex & Pac 1st 5s 8,000	111½
Erie 1st con 4s 1,000	85½	Tex & N O con 5s 7,000	102
Gal, Har & S A, Mex & P Div 5s 9,000	101	Ulster & Del 1st 5s 2,000	103½
Hock Val 1st 4½s 9,000	99½	Union Pac 1st 4s 12,000	102¼
Lacledes Light of St L 1st 5s 5,000	109	2,000	102⅜
Lake Erie & W 2d 5s 1,000	108½	Wabash 1st 5s 1,000	113½
L Sh & M So 3½s 25,000	109½	3,000	113½
Leh & W B Coal 5s 2,000	100½	3,000	113⅜
Louisville & Nashv unified 4s 1,000	98	Wabash deb, Ser A 1,000	84
2,000	97	Wabash deb, Ser B 13,000	35¼
3,000	96¾	10,000	35½
Total sales	$863,700	5,000	35¼
		32,000	35½
		Wab, Des M Div 4s 22,000	91½
		West N Y & Penn 1st 5s 1,000	110½
		Wilk & East 1st 5s 1,000	104¾
		2,000	104
		West Shore gtd 4s 2,000	110⅜
		5,000	110⅞
		Wis Cent 1st 4s 1,000	89⅝

IMPORTS FOR THE WEEK.

The imports of dry goods and general merchandise for the week were valued at $10,258,913. The imports of specie were $50,022 and the exports $3,517,633.

NEW YORK CLEARING HOUSE BANK STATEMENT.

Following is the New York Clearing House bank statement in detail, together with the percentage of reserve to deposits of the individual banks:

*Capital.	*N't Profits.	Banks.	Loans.	Specie.	Legals.	Deposits.	Per Cent.
$2,000,000	$1,999,200	Bk. N. Y., N. B. A.	$13,000,000	$2,392,000	$1,099,000	$12,747,000	27.4
2,050,000	2,114,100	Bk. Manhattan Co.	18,867,000	3,581,000	2,808,000	22,271,000	28.7
2,000,000	1,162,500	Merchants' National	11,896,800	1,652,400	1,451,800	13,068,500	23.8
2,000,000	2,197,100	Mechanics' National	10,082,000	2,170,000	936,000	10,493,000	29.7
1,500,000	2,814,200	Bank of America	18,013,900	4,795,500	1,164,700	21,221,700	28.1
1,000,000	252,500	Phenix National	4,961,900	785,000	249,000	5,261,000	24.6
1,000,000	4,938,700	National City	$1,317,200	23,944,000	3,364,900	106,698,100	26.1
300,000	6,360,100	Chemical National	23,093,000	7,536,300	2,348,200	26,511,000	37.3
600,000	207,000	Merchants' Ex. Nat.	4,285,100	727,200	466,300	4,705,900	25.4
1,000,000	1,718,600	Gallatin National	7,795,800	1,110,600	596,700	6,408,600	26.7
300,000	101,600	Nat. B. & Drovers'	1,064,300	283,200	54,100	1,194,500	28.2
400,000	129,800	Mech. & Traders'	2,106,000	264,000	206,000	2,296,000	20.5
200,000	16,500	Greenwich	923,500	306,300	291,600	876,200	35.1
600,000	565,300	Leather Mfrs.' Nat.	4,101,100	1,475,400	354,600	4,813,000	38.0
300,000	200,200	Seventh National	3,125,500	727,000	260,400	4,360,100	22.6
1,200,000	528,000	Bk. State of N. Y.	3,791,500	288,500	459,900	3,261,500	22.9
5,000,000	2,031,800	American Ex. Nat.	27,538,000	3,575,000	1,965,000	22,972,000	25.1
5,000,000	3,778,800	Nat. Bk. Commerce	21,215,400	937,900	2,915,400	17,667,100	21.8
1,000,000	1,624,300	National Broadway	5,808,300	1,155,600	186,700	5,161,200	26.0
1,000,000	1,084,800	Mercantile National	10,086,000	2,387,500	786,700	11,724,300	27.1
422,700	492,200	Pacific	2,773,800	258,300	455,700	3,201,000	22.3
1,500,000	974,100	Nat. Bk. of Republic	16,235,600	4,015,400	1,079,100	17,322,800	29.0
450,000	991,300	Chatham National	5,838,500	637,000	880,200	5,878,700	25.9
200,000	298,400	People's	2,087,700	231,800	373,900	2,783,100	22.4
1,500,000	633,200	Nat. Bk. of N. A.	12,115,300	2,765,800	886,600	13,977,200	26.1
1,000,000	2,711,900	Hanover National	32,723,900	10,934,300	1,850,800	42,230,600	30.3
500,000	412,200	Irving National	4,001,000	378,100	456,000	4,013,000	20.8
600,000	283,200	National Citizens'	2,886,700	521,500	145,300	3,249,900	20.7
500,000	264,800	Nassau	2,415,700	341,000	253,000	2,732,700	21.8
900,000	1,017,900	Market & Ful. Nat.	5,694,900	1,017,600	499,900	5,871,600	25.8
1,000,000	170,100	Nat. Shoe & Leather	3,437,100	795,900	255,800	3,927,200	26.8
1,400,000	1,731,500	Corn Exchange	16,397,800	1,761,800	2,782,000	18,709,300	24.2
1,000,000	531,600	Continental Nat.	4,911,000	1,150,000	372,200	5,945,700	25.6
300,000	393,600	Oriental	2,020,000	477,600	377,600	2,205,000	29.8
1,500,000	5,829,800	Imp. & Trad. Nat.	23,452,900	4,570,000	1,109,000	23,042,000	24.7
2,000,000	3,339,500	National Park	35,749,000	10,473,000	1,553,000	43,359,000	27.7
250,000	148,200	East River Nat.	1,463,400	245,600	167,100	1,532,800	26.9
3,000,000	2,471,800	Fourth National	20,767,600	3,098,800	1,155,200	21,857,700	22.2
1,000,000	534,500	Central National	9,458,800	1,859,300	825,000	12,803,000	21.7
300,000	736,600	Second National	7,543,000	1,408,000	330,000	8,027,000	22.4
750,000	172,100	Ninth National	2,600,400	415,200	207,200	2,726,000	22.8
500,000	7,707,300	First National	31,417,700	5,692,000	1,172,100	29,640,300	23.2
300,000	78,100	N. Y. Nat. Exch.	2,134,100	315,000	310,400	2,310,300	27.1
250,000	382,500	Bowery	3,440,000	505,000	320,000	3,753,000	22.0
200,000	412,000	N. Y. County Nat.	3,215,300	540,600	320,300	3,844,200	25.0
750,000	318,500	German-American	3,552,100	674,100	279,100	3,626,800	26.3
1,000,000	1,596,700	Chase National	28,924,200	5,502,200	4,883,300	30,484,400	29.8
100,000	1,211,300	Fifth Avenue	8,044,200	1,782,500	416,000	8,817,900	24.9
200,000	585,400	German Exchange	2,573,000	291,900	434,100	3,460,200	29.7
200,000	774,600	Germania	2,835,300	403,500	411,000	4,177,300	19.5
300,000	848,200	Lincoln National	8,830,400	2,316,400	561,500	10,170,200	28.3
200,000	979,100	Garfield National	5,868,300	1,422,800	443,000	6,926,200	26.9
300,000	331,800	Fifth National	2,178,100	327,200	189,300	2,242,200	23.0
300,000	911,600	Bk. of the Metropolis	5,752,900	1,110,600	614,000	6,788,900	25.4
200,000	282,300	West Side	2,719,100	474,000	224,000	2,955,700	24.9
500,000	621,500	Seaboard National	6,735,000	1,380,000	1,568,000	11,647,000	25.4
2,100,000	1,292,800	Western National	2,643,300	7,289,000	1,243,700	31,980,800	26.6
300,000	529,900	First Nat., B'klyn	4,113,000	440,000	578,000	4,253,000	23.9
1,200,000	1,301,700	National Union	15,173,800	2,829,500	388,500	13,324,100	24.1
500,000	445,900	Liberty National	4,982,500	774,300	222,500	4,963,400	21.8
1,000,000	629,900	N. Y. Produce Exch.	8,535,300	466,300	327,000	2,970,500	26.7
250,000	397,400	Bk. of N. Amsterdam	3,419,600	659,600	318,200	3,780,800	25.6
250,000	191,400	Astor National	3,665,400	314,200	480,000	3,748,200	21.2
500,000	252,500	Hide & Leath. Nat.	2,259,800	134,900	303,000	1,590,400	27.5
$48,000,000	$66,438,300	Total, National Bks.
11,422,700	14,541,900	Total State Banks..
$59,422,700	$80,980,200	Total		677,797,000	144,001,700	54,994,200	748,953,100	26.6

*As per official reports—45 National banks, Dec. 2, 1899; 19 State banks, Dec. 4, 1899.

STATUS OF NEW YORK CITY NON-MEMBER BANKS.

[SPECIALLY COMPILED BY THE NEW YORK TIMES.]

The following is the statement in detail for the past week of a majority of the banks not members of the Clearing House Association, but which clear through some of its members, the figures having been obtained direct from the banks by THE NEW YORK TIMES:

Banks.	Capital.	Loans.	Specie.	Legals.	Deposits with Clearing House Agent.	Deposits (with Other Banks and Trust Companies	Net Deposits.
N. Y. CITY.
Borough of Manhattan.
Colonial	$100,000	$1,074,439.00	$22,604.00	$99,312	$155,378.00	.....	$1,275,044.00
Columbia	300,000	2,094,000.00	139,000.00	100,000	118,500.00	$5,000.00	2,049,000.00
Eleventa Ward	100,000	1,236,883.50	36,150.16	50,582	142,978.92	.....	1,338,305.58
Gansevoort	200,000	604,208.70	14,120.96	44,425	15,084.90	20,516.13	624,302.41
Hamilton	200,000	1,209,900.00	64,100.00	94,900	97,800.00	.....	1,379,600.00
Home	100,000	903,932.54	40,274.47	75,222	60,491.07	727.48	651,470.02
Mutual	200,000	1,377,146.76	41,733.43	104,618	204,903.89	3,877.15	1,410,992.39
19th Ward	100,000	904,600.00	23,300.00	98,000	215,300.00	670.00	1,338,900.00
Riverside	100,000	816,194.98	14,099.12	58,095	82,422.55	.....	890,952.91
State	100,000	2,662,000.00	234,000.00	117,000	157,000.00	78,000.00	3,243,000.00
Twelfth Ward	200,000	1,130,400.00	34,800.00	184,400	115,600.00	22,000.00	1,625,200.00
Union Square	200,000	2,008,193.32	50,234.03	227,401	220,953.41	.....	2,548,028.58
Yorkville	100,000	1,597,400.00	62,300.00	109,500	68,000.00	26,000.00	1,589,200.00
Borough of Brooklyn.
Bedford	150,000	987,673.00	25,337.00	92,730	163,061.00	100,000.00	1,181,380.00
Broadway	100,000	1,395,148.15	14,104.90	92,321	179,305.00	481.75	1,483,655.18
Eighth Ward	100,000	336,300.00	11,700.00	21,600	47,100.00	1,000.00	279,400.00
Fifth Avenue	100,000	572,300.00	29,500.00	23,100	51,700.00	13,800.00	503,200.00
Mfrs' Nat	252,000	2,470,300.00	238,800.00	382,200	522,300.00	.....	2,941,200.00
Mech. & Trad's	100,000	920,947.27	63,960.00	18,043	67,305.42	7,205.35	851,433.73
Merchants'	100,000	309,081.43	5,016.14	21,035	20,038.86	957.49	314,366.83
Nassau Nat.	1,000,000	3,372,000.00	274,000.00	222,000.00	30,000.00	48,000.00	3,267,000.00
National City	500,000	2,351,000.00	102,000.00	244,000	342,000.00	48,000.00	2,867,000.00
North Side	100,000	670,000.17	13,194.95	54,662	40,062.08	36,082.00	623,609.43
Schermerhorn	100,000	487,637.00	24,150.00	24,056	64,193.00	50,000.00	511,512.00
17th Ward	100,000	480,480.00	10,812.00	35,034	72,470.00	20,811.00	417,112.00
Sprague Nat.	200,000	1,068,500.00	66,300.00	10,000	115,000.00	8,500.00	900,000.00
26th Ward	100,000	433,359.00	10,014.00	26,102	56,785.00	2,313.00	425,761.00
Union	100,000	300,013.00	10,080.00	20,160	38,049.00	4,600.00	214,141.00
Wallabout	100,000	655,200.00	35,300.00	21,600	33,900.00	32,500.00	639,200.00
Borough of Richmond.
First National	100,000	677,110.00	17,280.00	11,400	119,305.00	.....	520,680.00
Bank of S. I.	25,000	460,110.00	15,220.00	22,200	73,252.00	8,000.00
JERSEY CITY.
First National	400,000	5,100,100.00	258,100.00	738,900	738,900.00	92,400.00	5,533,100.00
Hudson County	250,000	2,153,480.00	81,625.00	72,748	291,150.00	139,340.00	2,176,346.00
Second National	250,000	1,306,840.00	64,500.00	34,800	293,700.00	.....	1,200,300.00
Third National	200,000	875,677.81	25,327.48	75,558	93,850.19	84,861.02	907,470.51
HOBOKEN.
First National	110,000	1,522,200.00	118,800.00	28,400	179,600.00	28,800.00	1,651,500.00
Second National	125,000	806,611.00	55,600.00	44,600	74,300.00	28,000.00	816,000.00

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE SALES

STOCKS.

Sales.		First.	High.	Low.	Close.
640	Am. Steel & W	47	47½	46¾	47½
19,650	Am. Sugar Ref.	131½	131⅝	129⅜	130⅝
360	Am. Tobacco	102¾	103	101½	102¾
1,140	Am. T. & S. F. pf.	61	61	60	60¾
9,420	Brooklyn R. T.	73	73⅝	71⅝	72⅝
20	Ches. & Ohio	30⅞	30⅞	30⅞	30⅞
2,040	C., B. & Q.	122½	122⅝	121⅞	122⅛
2,120	C., M. & St. P.	117⅝	118	117⅝	117⅝
130	C., R. I. & P.	106½	106½	106	106
10	C., St. P., S. & K. C.	64½	64½	64½	64½
50	Col. Fuel & I.	41⅝	41⅝	41⅝	41⅝
350	Cont. Tobacco	34⅛	34⅛	32⅞	33
10	Del. & Hudson	114⅝	114⅝	114⅝	114⅝
2,970	Federal Steel	52	52⅜	51⅝	52⅛
480	Louis. & Nash.	78¾	78¾	78¾	78¾
670	Manhattan	94⅝	95¼	93⅝	95
400	Mo. Pacific	40⅞	40⅞	39¾	40¼
10	N. Y. Central	136⅜	136⅜	136⅜	136⅜
70	N. Y., O. & W.	21⅜	21⅝	21⅜	21⅜
40	Norfolk & West.	23⅞	23⅞	23⅞	23⅞
150	Nor. Pacific	22¾	22¾	22¾	22¾
10	Pacific Mail	45	45	45	45
130	People's Gas	103½	104⅛	103½	104⅛
200	Reading	18	18	18	18
120	Reading 1st pf.	51⅝	51⅝	51½	51⅝
1,630	Southern Pacific	30⅞	31⅞	30⅝	30⅝
10	Southern Ry.	11⅝	11⅝	11⅝	11⅝
50	Southern Ry. pf.	53	53	53	53
102	Tenn. C. & I.	84	84	83¾	83¾
720	Union Pacific	46⅝	46⅞	46¼	46⅝
180	Union Pac. pf.	74⅝	74⅝	74⅜	74⅜
830	U. S. Leather	16⅛	16⅜	16	16⅛
42,480

BONDS.

Sales.		First.	High.	Low.	Close.
$9,000	Am. Gas 5s	95½	95½	95	95

BANK STATEMENT.

The weekly statement of the New York City banks shows an increase in reserve of $589,650. The banks now hold a surplus of $11,757,725 above legal requirements.

The following is a comparison of the statement issued yesterday with that of the previous Saturday:

	Dec. 30.	Jan. 6.	Increase.
Loans	$673,393,400	$677,797,000	$4,107,900
Deposits	740,046,900	748,953,100	8,906,200
Circulation	16,042,700	16,234,100	191,400
Legal tender	52,682,900	54,994,800	2,311,400
Specie	143,486,900	144,001,700	504,800
Reserve	196,170,800	198,936,000	2,836,200
Reserve required	185,011,725	187,238,375	2,226,650
Surplus	11,168,075	11,757,725	589,650

The following shows the surplus reserve at this time for a series of years:

1900	$11,757,725	1895	$35,882,050
1899	23,330,375	1894	83,796,050
1898	22,264,575	1893	8,942,450
1897	43,991,450	1892	18,961,125
1896	27,183,100	1891	13,334,250

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

	1899.	1898.	1897.
CENTRAL OF GEORGIA—
Mileage	1,540	1,524	1,524
4th week Dec.	$164,720	$176,447	$175,644
Month	558,219	557,597	579,454
From July 1	3,162,330	3,153,703
CHICAGO TERMINAL TRANSFER—
Mileage	74	74	74
Month of Dec.	94,131	97,081	$3,099
From July 1	618,100	603,885
DULUTH, SOUTH SHORE & ATLANTIC—
Mileage	589	589	588
4th week Dec.	59,478	62,470
Month	203,870	158,745
Year	2,407,439	1,821,808
FLINT & PERE MARQUETTE—
Mileage	657	657	655
4th week Dec.	93,181	94,271	80,615
Month	280,701	299,228	253,214
Fiscal year	3,320,610	3,039,396	2,791,997
OHIO RIVER—
Mileage	224	224	224
4th week Dec.	25,089	19,865	20,525
Month	97,021	76,208	79,533
Year	1,181,422	958,449	965,197
PITTSBURG & WESTERN—
Mileage	348	348	336
4th week Dec.	78,703	77,088	77,170
Month	260,376	250,589	230,509
From July 1	1,764,888	1,668,063
TEXAS & PACIFIC—
Mileage	1,492	1,492	1,492
4th week Dec.	256,327	292,683	299,480
Month	967,249	934,018	933,333
Year	8,288,851	8,006,503	7,588,649
TWIN CITY RAPID TRANSIT—
4th week Dec.	78,103	68,732
Fiscal year	2,476,879	2,145,092

The Gila Valley Globe Nothern Railroad (Southern Pacific system) reports for the eleven months ending Nov. 30 as follows: Gross earnings, $365,597; operating expenses, $121,976; earnings over operating expenses, $243,619; expended for betterments, $41,253; surplus, $202,366; interest charges for eleven months, $89,255; surplus above all charges, $113,111.

MINING STOCK QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—The official closing quotations for mining stocks to-day and yesterday were as follows:

	Saturday.	Friday.
Alta	.04	.04
Alpha Con	.04	.04
Andes	.11	.11
Belcher	.10	.10
Best & Belcher	.23	.21
Bullion	.03	.03
Caledonia	.40	.45
Challenge Con	.11	.09
Chollar	.19	.....
Confidence	.56	.60
Con. Cal. & Va	1.45	1.45
Con. Imperial	.01	.01
Crown Point	.14	.11
Gould & Curry	.23	.23
Hale & Norcross	.38	.39
Julia	.02	.02
Justice	.03	.04
Kentucky Con	.01	.01
Lady Washinton Con	.02	.02
Mexican	.31	.31
Occidental Con	.17	.17
Ophir	.70	.63
Overman	.09	.09
Potosi	.21	.20
Savage	.10	.08
Sag Belcher	.03	.03
Sierra Nevada	.44	.43
Standard	2.60	2.00
Union	.05	.05
St. Louis	.08	.08
Union Con	.27	.26
Utah Con	.04	.04
Yellow Jacket	.23	.22
Silver bars	.59	.59
Mexican dollars	47½@48¼	47½@48¼
Drafts, sight	.12½	.12½
Telegraph	.15	.15

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Jan. 6.—Gardner & Co. report closing quotations as follows:

	Saturday. Bid.	Asked.	Friday. Bid.	Asked.
Acacia	40	41¾	41½	42
Alamo	16	18	16	17
Anaconda	45⅞	47	43	47¾
Anchoria	76	80	76	80
Argentum	18	19	18	19
Bankers'	13¼	14½	13⅝	14¼
Battle	35	36	36	36¼
Blue Bell	11¾	13	12½	13
Coin	245	259	230	259
Columbine	20	21½	20	21
Consolidated	16	16⅜	16	16¼
Damon	28	29

CURRENT LITERATURE.

Selected Extracts in Prose and Verse from Periodicals.

Mater Severa.

Stephen Gwynn in The Spectator.

Where the huge Atlantic swings heavy water eastward,
Ireland, square to meet it, shoulders off the seas;
Wild are all her coasts with stress of cliff and billow,
On her northern moorland is little sheltered ease.

Well is with the salmon, ranger of her rivers;
Well is with the mackerel shoaling in each bay.
Dear is all the land to the lonely snipe and curlew;
Ay, but for its manfolk—a bitter lot have they.

Thankless is the soil; men trench, and delve, and labor,
Black and spongy peat amid barren knowes of stone;
Then to win a living overseas they travel,
And their women gather, if God pleases, what was sown.

Harvesters, a-homing from the golden tilth of England,
Where they sweat to cope with increase of teeming years,
Find too oft returning, sick with others' plenty,
Sunless Autumn dank upon green and spindling ears.

Or a tainted south wind brings upon the root-crop
Stench of rotting fibre and green leaf turning black;
Famine, never distant, stalks nearer now and nearer,
Bids them rake like crows amid mussel-beds and wrack.

Bleak and gray to man is the countenance of Nature;
Bleak her soil below him, bleak her sky above;
Wherefore, then, by man is her rare smile so cherished?
Paid her niggard bounty with so lavish love?

Not the slopes of Rhine with such yearning are remembered;
Not your Kentish orchards, not your Devon lanes.
'Tis as though her sons for that ungentle mother
Knew a mother's tenderness, felt a mother's pains.

Many an outward-bound, as the ship heads under Tory,
Clings with anguished eyes to the barren Fanad shore.
Many a homeward-bound, as they lift the frowning Foreland,
Pants to leap the league to his desolate Gweedore.

There about the ways God's air is free and spacious;
Warm are chimney corners there, warm the kindly hearth;
There the soul of man takes root, and through its travail
Grips the rocky anchorage till the life-strings part.

The Exaltation of the Hohenzollerns.

Prof. Delbruck in The North American Review.

Germany leaves the direction of her foreign affairs to the Emperor and trusts that the sovereign will do the best he can, choose the most able counselors he can find, and that he will be prompt as well as prudent. Since all he does for the nation he does also for himself, for his own greatness and glory, for the splendor of his family, and for the future of his children and posterity, all his interests depend upon and are included in the success of German policy and the welfare of Germany. The house of Hohenzollern never can be separated from the fortunes of the nation. Therefore, the nation may safely confide its fortunes to the house of Hohenzollern; and even now, when public opinion has evidently taken quite a different view of things from that of the Emperor, or at least from that which he seems to hold, no public organ would propose, nor would the Reichstag itself wish, to alter the German Constitution with regard to this particular point.

A Good Guess.

"Reminiscences." By J. Kegan Paul.

Before Wilberforce became a Bishop he had been Archdeacon of Surrey, and his old Archdeaconry became a part of his later Bishopric of Winchester. At a meeting of the clergy at Clapham his chaplain told him that an old Dr. ——, who had been many years in the diocese, was vexed at having been forgotten. "Yes," said the Bishop, "I have not the smallest recollection of him, but I will make it all right, and will go out and speak to him. Which is he?" He was pointed out, and the Bishop made his way to him. "My dear Dr. ——, I have not had a moment for a real conversation with you. I need not ask how you are after all these years. Do you still ride your gray mare?" "Yes, my Lord; how good of you to remember her," &c. The chaplain, who was within earshot, said, when he again came near the Bishop: "Then you did remember Dr. —— after all?" "Not a bit of it," said the Bishop; "I saw the gray hairs on his coat and I chanced the sex."

A South Pacific Princess.

From Blackwood.

The ceremony of dressing is simple when one's garments number one, or at most two, and when neither soap nor water is an available commodity. Under shelter of the grass mat which has formed bed and blanket, the worn tapa vala was exchanged for a fresh one of gaudy cotton print. A loose bodice, so short as to leave a large stretch of warm, sherry-colored flesh visible above the waist, replaced the travel-stained one. A little cocoanut oil rubbed over the face and glistening shoulders, and Madame's state toilet was complete. The Royal Princess, it is true, was possessed of all the luxuries of a dressing-case, in the shape of half a ragged comb and a strip of looking-glass, and with these rudimentary implements she passed half an hour arranging her curly locks.

On the Pronunciation of "Water."

From Notes and Queries.

Mr. Clerk was pleading in a Scotch appeal before the House of Lords. The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk, more Scotico, pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell watter with two t's in Scotland?" "No, my Lord," was the dignified and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two n's."

For a Great Street in London.

From The Spectator.

Sir J. Wolfe Barry believes that the "retardation" of business traffic between east and west, more especially coal traffic, costs the trade interests of London £000,000 a year, the owners of vehicles £1,189,000, and pedestrians £65,000, or a total of £2,150,000 a year. This he would correct by cutting a single mighty street, 125 feet wide and five and one-half miles long, from west to east, and this, with its subsidiary connections, would cost £6,120,000. This had been ridiculed when originally proposed, but when the loss was fully understood it would be found that the saving fairly repaid the cost. The arterial street is, we fear, a brilliant dream for the present, but if London advances for twenty years as it has done for the past twenty something very like it will have to be constructed. We wonder if it would be quite impossible on the great lines to construct underground lines, confining their use to the conveyance of goods. That would enable us to pass a law which would relieve London more than any new openings—namely, a law insisting that all vehicles in motion shall travel at an equal speed. We always speak of the "stream" of London traffic, but it is the absence of streaminess which produces the fretting delays that take a year from the life of every active man.

Khaki for Uniforms.

From Blackwood.

I think it was in the year 1885 that Lord Roberts, who had just taken over the office of Commander in Chief in India, took up the question of khaki in the same energetic manner in which he went into every military question. He was early convinced of the suitability of this color for uniforms in the field, and he went further—he issued an order to have the whole equipment of field and mountain batteries, including even the wheels and guns themselves, painted khaki. This was a striking change from the dark color they had previously been painted, and which presented such a contrast to the usual surroundings of an Indian landscape. The rage for khaki at that time was so general that some wit proposed that all horses should be painted khaki before being sent on service. An excellent idea, but unfortunately unpractical till some one can manage perhaps to breed out a khaki horse.

South African Plagues.

From Ainslee's.

South Africa imports hides, wool, and mohair, and the ranchman would revel in riches were it not for the various pests that decimate his flocks and herds. The most deadly one is the rinderpest, a cattle plague which in the last ten years has been slowly creeping from Central Africa southward, leaving a wake of whitened bones. In traveling through Natal I saw fifty oxen lying dead about a spring where they had tumbled one over the other, so suddenly had the disease attacked them. It was almost impossible then to get an untinged piece of steak at a restaurant, though the proprietor resented any such charge, and a plethoric German traveler who called in a loud tone for "roast rinderpest" in the railroad café at De Aar Junction, Cape Colony, had to be picked up in fragments. Dr. Koch and other eminent specialists tried in vain to stop this plague. The country is now recovering from it slowly.

Another pest is the tsetse fly, an insect resembling our common house fly, but three times as large. Its bite will kill a horse, cow, or any other domestic animal in about ten days, but, strange to say, does not affect a wild animal or a human being. A less dangerous but more troublesome pest is the white ant, which is about one-quarter of an inch long and ubiquitous in many parts of the country. They live under the ground, and can only be routed by killing the queen, which sometimes reaches the size of one inch in length. This insect is particularly harassing in Rhodesia. At Buluwayo my traveling companion inadvertently left his boots on the floor after turning in at night, and he arose next morning to find the uppers carefully separated from the soles. "Lucky you didn't leave your clothes on the floor," was the hotel keeper's consolation. These ants will eat through anything but metal, and for that reason much of the building is done with corrugated iron. The ant hill is one of the conspicuous landmarks in traveling over South Africa.

The Leading Article.

From The Cornhill.

"I know what 'leaders' are, for I have written them," said Benjamin Disraeli in the course of a speech in the House of Commons, and though all of us may not have written "leaders" for The Morning Post and other newspapers, like Disraeli, we all at least know the meaning of the term "leaders." For more than 100 years after the publication of the first daily newspaper, The Daily Courant, which consisted of a small sheet, printed on one side only—and made its appearance in London, March, 1702, the "dailies" confined themselves to what is perhaps the proper business of a newspaper—the publication of the largest possible amount of news, and made no attempt whatever to mold or direct public opinion. At the opening of the nineteenth century "the leading article" first appeared in the morning papers. It was originally called the "leaded article," because of the "leads" or spaces introduced between the lines, to spread out the article and give it an imposing appearance, in order that it might at once attract the eye of even the most casual reader. After a time it was called "leading article" or "leader" or "editorial," names by which it is now universally known in newspaper offices. At the beginning, "leaders" were published only tentatively. Their publication was irregular; in form they were brief—we should call them "editorial paragraphs" now—and they were principally used to direct special attention to some important event recorded in the news columns. But seventy-five years ago they became a settled and regular feature of the daily newspaper, and a potent agency for promoting opinions, political, religious, and social.

The Fate of the Transvaal Mines.

Interviewing John Hays Hammond in The Engineering Magazine.

Will the mines on the Rand suffer destruction, as has been threatened (according to newspaper report)—will they be seized and worked in the interest of the Boer Government—or will they merely lie idle and take only the damage due to neglect? Unfortunately, no direct answer seems obtainable. It is not to be believed, however, that any destruction of equipment could receive official sanction. In the first place, contrary to the generally received opinion, the ownership of the mines is vested chiefly on the Continent. British interests are a minority only, the majority of the shares being held in Germany, France, and other European countries. The large neutral interests involved would deter the heads of the Government from directing or sanctioning any wrecking of property or plant. Whether or not the recklessness and lawlessness of the lower elements of the community could be restrained is quite another matter. Wholesale destruction is not to be apprehended, but more or less vandalism of a desultory character. For the present, it is likely (as reported) that some of the mines (though only a very few) will be worked for the gold needed by the Boer Government, and that such work will be so prosecuted as to yield the largest immediate returns. Only the richest ore is likely to be taken; no attention to maintenance or repairs can be expected; it will, beyond question, be a systematic robbing of the mine and driving of the machinery to death.

Two Women.

She crept into the vacant church
Through empty aisles and bare;
A faint perfume hung o'er the gloom,
Vague as an unprayed prayer;
In robe and crown each saint looked down
And frowned to see her there.

Each gazed upon her from his place—
Peter and John and Paul;
She found nor peace nor pain's surcease,
So coldly looked they all.
As she faltered lone to the altar stone,
Where shone the candles tall.

And there enthroned, immaculate,
Tender and pure and wise,
She saw the grace of a woman's face,
The love of a woman's eyes;
And Mary's smile bent down the while,
Above her mute surprise.

Not hers to know the might that lies
In throned majesty;
She could but guess the tenderness,
The sister sympathy;
She made her prayer to Mary there
With lowly heart and knee.

The tall saints watched her as she went,
Each in his gold and blue.
Aloof from her, a trespasser,
Stern men they stood, and true.
But Mary smiled, and the clasped Child
He understood and knew.
—THEODOSIA PICKERING GARRISON in the New Lippincott's.

The Cafe.

From Scribner's.

Not in Paris only, but all over France, in every garrison town, provincial city, or tiny village, the café is the chief attraction, the centre of thought, the focus toward which all the rays of masculine existence converge.

For the student in Paris, newly arrived from the provinces, living in furnished rooms, to whose modest purse the theatres and other places of amusement are practically closed, the café is a supreme resource. His mind is molded, his ideas and opinions formed, more by what he hears and sees there than by any other influence. His restaurant is of no importance. He may eat anywhere. But the choice of his café will often give the bent to a young man's career. It indicates to his acquaintances his exact shade of politics and his opinions on literature, music, or art. In Paris, to know a man at all is to know where you can find him at the hour of the apéritif—what Baudelaire called de l'absinthe.

L'heure sainte

When young men form a society among themselves, an establishment of this kind is chosen as their meeting place, and thousands exist only by such patronage, as, for example, the Café de la Régence, Place du Théâtre Français, which is frequented entirely by men who play chess.

New Year's Day in Japan.

Onoto Watanna in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

The 1st of January bears the significant title of Gansan, (the Three Beginnings,) meaning beginning of the year, beginning of the month, and beginning of the day. And to this might be added the beginning of a new and better life. What Christmas is to the Occidentals New Year's is to the Japanese, although greetings and congratulations are not confined to the first day of the year, but at any time between the 1st and the 15th.

The Japanese begin to prepare for the new year nearly a month before, and in fact give their houses and possessions a thorough cleansing, just as the good American housewife does in the Springtime. Even the very poorest people do this, laying mats of rice straw, and cleaning every nook and corner with fresh bamboo dusters and brooms, which are said to symbolize prosperity and good fortune. And after the house has been aired and cleaned, it is decorated with pine and bamboo, for the Japanese venerate both of these because they keep green through the entire Winter and symbolize longevity. The Japanese read in the most insignificant natural objects some striking significance, and there is a meaning attached to almost every decoration or ornament in the house. The outsides and gardens of the houses are also beautifully decorated, to say nothing of the streets, which present a most interesting and animated spectacle at this time.

On New Year's Eve the streets and stores, which at all time display their most attractive goods, are thronged with people intent on buying the requisites for the coming year. At night the streets are beautifully illuminated with lines of big lanterns, family crests, flags, shop signs, &c., hung from every store. On this eve many of the people remain up all night and watch the old year out and the new year in, though a few old-fashioned ones prefer the custom of rising very early in the morning to worship the first rising sun of the new year.

A New Year Proposal.

"What resolutions have I vowed to keep
the coming year?
Come, sit beside me, maiden fair, and straightway you shall hear:
I've pledged myself to choose one girl from out the throng so gay,
And love her with an honest love forever
and for aye.

"I'll work for her with brain and brawn,
with all my might and main,
Until I've won her everything that honesty
can gain;
I'll fill her life with all that's good, till life itself is done—
And while we train our minds and hearts
we'll not neglect the fun.

"Now tell me, won't you, maiden fair, what you have vowed to do—
For I've laid bare my inmost soul to no one but to you!"
"I've made no pledges," she replied in so
demure a tone,
"But, if you don't object, I'll try to help you keep your own!"
—WALLACE DUNBAR VINCENT in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

Lawrence, the Infant Prodigy.

In The Century.

Raphael, with genius at his back, did not come to maturity so quickly, nor did Rubens, triumphant at Antwerp, hold popular applause so long; for Lawrence kept his admiring public to the last, and was something of a wonder both as man and boy. His whole career was brilliant, yet not through intrinsic force; his art was successful without being great; he was honored and praised down to his grave, and yet he possessed not genius. There are men who achieve popular success without genius. Lawrence was one of them.

The father was a man of some birth and education, but he had what is called "the poetic temperament," and never got on very well in the world. He was at different times a barrister without a brief, an actor without a part, a keeper of the White Lion Inn at Devizes without guests enough to make it pay. When young Lawrence was three years old his father made a change of base, and moved into the Black Bear Inn. It was here that the boy was placed upon the table to recite Shakespeare for the guests. Here also he developed a wonderful gift of making portraits in pastel of the passing public. A guest could have a portrait painted while he waited, and the speed of the artist was not less wonderful than his age. The Duchess of Devonshire and Lord and Lady Kenyon were among his early sitters, and the record is preserved that Lady Kenyon's likeness was drawn in profile because, as the child artist declared, "her face was not straight." In a short time he had attracted the attention of Garrick, Foote, Wilkes, Burke, Sheridan, and Johnson, and his father began traveling with him about the neighboring country and exhibiting him as one of the wonders of the age.

The Bishop's Dog.

From "The Life of Edward White Benson, Archbishop of Canterbury." By A. C. Benson.

He was often accompanied to church by our collie, Watch, who had a place in the pew in the transept, and whose claws we could sometimes hear pattering in the aisle, if he found his accustomed seat draughty or felt impelled to change it. Watch had also a special place under a window in the chapel, which he always attended, as well as the 8 o'clock matins, and a special rug of his own. It was at Truro that the two adventures of Watch occurred that gave my father such delight. My father was reading the lesson, which was the thirteenth chapter of St. Mark, in which the word "Watch" occurs several times. The dog, who had been slumbering peacefully, became very restless, and as the Bishop ended with the words, "What I say unto you I say unto all, Watch," in a very imperious voice, there followed a great scuffling and scratching, and Watch emerged hastily from his place, and proceeded to the door of my father's stall. The other occasion was on the evening of an ordination, when some twelve candidates were staying in the house. Watch, seeing so many grown, sensible men about, when complins had just begun—it was before the chapel was fitted up—took the opportunity to go and fout in the bit basket, and, selecting a crumpled envelope, he offered it to each in turn, to be thrown for him—then, failing to attract attention, he put it down in the middle of the room, looked piteously at my father, and wagged his tail.

Finding Beer.

From "Aids to Scouting for Non-Commissioned Officers and Men." By Col. Baden-Powell.

I was riding one day across an open grass plain in Matabeleland, with one native, scouting.

Suddenly we noticed the grass had been recently trodden down; following up the track for a short distance it got on to a patch of sandy ground, and we then saw that it was the spoor of several women and boys walking toward some hills about five miles distant, where we believed the enemy to be hiding. Then we saw a leaf lying about ten yards off the track—there were no trees for miles, but there were, we knew, trees of this kind at a village fifteen miles distant, in the direction from which the tracks led. Probably, then, these women had come from that village, bringing the leaf with them, and had gone to the hills.

On picking up the leaf it was damp, and smelled of native beer. So we guessed that according to the custom of these people (remember, as I said before, to study the habits and customs of your enemy) they had been carrying pots of native beer on their heads, the mouths of the pots being stopped with bunches of leaves. One of these leaves had fallen out; but we found it ten yards off the track, which showed that at the time it fell a wind had been blowing.

There was no wind now, but there had been at about 5 A. M., and it was now nearly 7.

So we read from these signs that a party of women had brought beer during the night from the village fifteen miles distant, and had taken it to the enemy on the hills, arriving there about 6 o'clock.

The men would probably start to drink the beer at once, (as it goes sour if kept for long,) and would by the time we could get there be getting sleepy from it, so we should have a favorable chance of reconnoitring their position.

We accordingly followed the women's tracks, found the enemy, made our observations, and got away with our information without any difficulty.

A Mormon Proposition of Marriage.

Mrs. J. K. Hudson in The New Lippincott.

Three men were ushered into the room. One was tall and of strong, well-marked features and dignified presence. The other two were stout and florid and rather nervous in manner, brothers apparently.

Without waiting for a formal introduction, one of these motioned inconsequently toward me and said, "Is she of the Lord's people?"

The woman offered them chairs with a slight inclination of the head, that might have been taken either for answer or for an invitation to be seated.

Was she afraid? I could not tell. The men paid no attention to the invitation for the moment and ignored my presence. They had come upon urgent and important business, they announced, and would state it at once. It was their duty to bear a message to her, one that specially concerned her.

"Yes," said the tall and solemn elder, "it is indeed nothing less than a revelation received by the head of the Church last night. It concerns both you and your daughter."

"My daughter," gasped the woman, in scarcely audible tones, and I saw one hand grasp the back of a chair convulsively.

"Your daughter, who has now grown to womanhood," continued the elder, "and owes her allegiance to the Church."

"What is the revelation?" the woman forced her drawn lips to ask.

"Through the grace of the all-wise Father it has been revealed to his disciple, Brigham Young, that your daughter Clarisse should become the third wife of Elder W——, here present with us."

An awful silence ensued, and then a convulsive movement in the woman's throat, as if her voice refused to utter a sound, attracted the attention of all, and the men bowed their heads that they might not see.

"The Gentle Dove."

"From Wild Animals in Captivity," by Edward Bartelett.

I am almost afraid to say that the great amount of kind feeling, sympathy, and regard bestowed upon doves in general is wasted upon the undeserving. To all keepers of doves and pigeons the pugnacious disposition exhibited by birds of this class is well known, although the means of inflicting injury upon each other is somewhat limited in consequence of the comparative want of weapons. Not being armed with claws, spurs, and a powerful beak like most gallinaceous birds, they not only do battle with a somewhat weak bill, but strike each other with the wing joint. The heavy blows thus inflicted by the aid of the powerful pectoral muscles would perfectly astonish any one who received it, and although they seldom kill each other, they are prone to quarrel, fight, and keep up a very determined disagreement.

Stage Kisses Are Genuine.

From The Ladies' Home Journal.

They must have an impulsive manner. They must look sufficiently fervid. It is a curious sight—that of two players who are to express the ardent love which Shakespeare has written for his "Romeo and Juliet," but who at rehearsal, in modern clothes and no accessories of glamour, practice a kiss as mechanically and unfeelingly as though it were—as it is then—utterly devoid of sentiment. There must be no hesitation nor clumsiness. Romeo is not permitted to decide whether to throw both arms around his sweetheart or only one, or which. Nor may Juliet be shy or forward, yielding or resisting, as she chooses. The director will place their arms for them if they do not themselves make a picturesque exhibit of tenderness. And the kiss? Shall it be delivered by the wooer on the lips of the won, or on brow, or cheek? That question is considered and settled. Are kisses on the stage genuine? Well, not at rehearsals, except, maybe, once or twice in order to show the effect fully. An actress would resent a real kiss at a rehearsal except when necessary. For the satisfaction of natural curiosity on that point, it may be told right here that most of the kisses in the public performances of plays are actual kisses.

Chinese Thrift.

From The Atlantic.

No race of men can surpass the Chinese in habits of industry and thrift, says D. Z. Sheffield in the January Atlantic. With the introduction of Western civilization the vast resources of the country will be developed, the products of the soil and manufacture will indefinitely increase, and domestic and international trade will be multiplied in its proportions. Now, in all this material regeneration of China, the Chinaman will be in evidence. Not a dollar will be gathered from the soil, from trade, from mines, from manufactories, without his securing a due proportion as a reward for his part in the enterprise. He will patiently and faithfully work for a master for half a generation, and in the second half he will appear as his own master, at the head of a thriving business. Thus, in the industries of the future, wherever there is work to be done, there will be found Chinese ready to "sell strength," as working for hire is called in China; and they will sell more strength for the money than will men of any other nation. Again, a dollar in the hands of a Chinaman represents far greater purchasing power than it does in the hands of a European.

In China a dollar will purchase 1,500 pieces of cash composed of copper and zinc. These cash, with a hole in the centre and strung on a cord, weigh seven pounds. A servant or common laborer in Peking is glad to give ten days of labor, and a carpenter or mason six days, to secure this amount of cash. This money would give a comfortable support to an average family. Three dollars a month, or $36 a year, would cover the living income of a Chinese family of the working class. The meaning of this is that the Chinaman will survive and prosper under conditions of life which would discourage and finally overwhelm the European.

In the Cathedral.

The city's burning heart beats far outside
This dim cathedral, where the mystic air
Vibrates with voices of impassioned prayer
From generations that have lived and died.
Calm saints, despairing sinners, here have cried
To Heaven for mercy: myriad lives laid bare
Their secret places, yielding to Christ's care
The burden, where His sacraments abide.
Soft from the jeweled windows falls the light,
Touching the incense-laden atmosphere
To glory, while a deep antiphony
Rolls from the organ to the arches' height.
To soul and sense a Presence liveth here,
Instinct with power of immortality.
—KATHARINE COOLIDGE, in The Atlantic Monthly.

A Dark Hour for England.

Sidney Low in The Fortnightly.

There was a very dark day on "Black Friday," 1745, when the Young Pretender, with the Highland clansmen, was at Derby, with nothing between him and London but Cumberland's half-organized, half-hearted force at Finchley, and when a French invasion, supported by a great Jacobite rising all over England, appeared imminent. Again, there were some gloomy days in the Autumn of 1781, when England, badly worsted on land by the American colonists, had temporarily lost the command of the sea, and was opposed to a coalition of the maritime States of the world. She had the three great navies of the Continent—those of France, Spain, and Holland—against her, at the same time that the northern powers, with Russia at their head, had constituted the armed neutrality, which was mainly intended to hamper and limit the British naval operations. While Cornwallis was playing out the last scene of the losing military drama in Virginia, the fleets of England for once found themselves unable to face the enemy. In spite of Rodney's capture of St. Eustatia, the allies under De Grasse were too strong for us in the West Indies, and in the European waters we were so weak that we could do nothing to avert the surrender of Minorca, the gem of the Mediterranean. Suffren had baffled us in the Indian Ocean, and even in the Channel and the North Sea, after Hyde Parker's indecisive action off the Doggerbank, we could barely hold our own, and had to endure the humiliation of a French attack on Jersey. But the worst of all our bad moments was assuredly that which came upon us in the Spring of 1797, when to many other misfortunes and anxieties there was added the appalling news of the mutinies at Spithead and the Nore. Lord Rosebery, in a recent speech, has called this period the most critical in the whole modern history of Great Britain, and the estimate does not seem excessive.

Never, certainly, since the age of Elizabeth, had such tremendous forces been arrayed against England; never had her rulers to deal with so many simultaneous difficulties, foreign and domestic.

Pitt and his colleagues might well have lost their nerve at the prospect which faced them, when they heard that a naval rebellion at the mouth of the Thames had been added to their perplexities. "Everything," as a historian of the period says, "seemed to be failing at once. Their armies had been defeated, the Bank had suspended payment, and now the fleet, the pride and glory of England, appeared on the point of deserting the national colors." The Three Per Cents, which had stood at 98 seven years before, had fallen to 45. The great edifice of British credit was in danger of collapsing.

Heavy Guns and Ears.

From Blackwood's Magazine.

The stunning report of each gun as it is fired is something that a stranger on the deck will long remember. There is an old saying, "deaf as a post." Now, in the royal navy, this is changed to "deaf as a post Captain." No man can go through a long series of gunnery practices without having his hearing very seriously affected. Some men put cotton wool in their ears, but even this precaution does little to deaden the terrible shock. And if the firing of one or two guns has such a shattering power, what would be the effect if the whole armament were in action together.

It is almost impossible to conceive the strain upon nerve and senses of the rending concussion. If a visitor watches the firing of one of the monster nine-inch guns, and then places himself beside one of the smaller pieces, the report made by the one will not appear much louder than that of the other. The extra distance to the muzzle of the big piece discounts the sound. The only apparent difference between the two appears to be that the small pieces have a sharper, higher-pitched note, and that the six and nine-inch guns speak with more of a bellowing roar. One piece of advice may be given to any one who finds himself in the neighborhood of a gun in action. The noise will not have nearly the same effect if you are watching the gun as if the crash comes unexpectedly. Unconsciously Nature prepares you to resist a shock which is known to be impending.

The Voice o' the Nation.

Leave our furrin frens tu chatter, let 'em flutter roun', an' fuss,
'Tain't their cheerin' or their sneerin' that can help or hinder us;
Let 'em hope we're doomed tu faltigue, let 'em say we're crushed an' cowed:
P'raps they think the sun's extinguished when it's strugglin' through a cloud?
They air hurryin' tu believe us all their hatred can desire,
But the blows they fancy fatal only clinch our courage higher;
Talkin's easier work than doin', yew may take your oath o' thet—
Boys! git on, an' let 'em chatter—but we ain't done yet!

Air their hearts so small an' craven that they cannot understan'
How' we're game tu take a lickin'—an' then lick the cleaner man?
Whut's their gauge fer measurin' greatness, how did they achieve renown,
Thet they think whene'er we stumble we must keep on lyin' down?
Du they dream an Empire's conjured up by easy charms an' sweet?
Ours, at least, was shaped and builded from disaster an' defeat.
An' we've made it whut it is, through all the cent'ries thet hev gone,
Not without a slip or blunder—but by still goin' on!

It is good to git the fust blow in—but best tu hev the last;
An' they'll see us still go forrard es they've seen us in the past,
Fer each loss we hev tu suffer, each defeat thet marks our way
Is a clarion call tu victory, an' we hear it an' obey;
In the end, we hit the bull's-eye, though it's after many a miss;
Ef a lickin' could hev beat us, we'd hev fallen long ere this;
Some may find a knock-down blow es bad es pisen in their cup,
But we never stop tu taste it—no, we jest git up!

Ef our Empire is a-shakin', it's a steadyin' sort uv shake
Thet'll warm our blood an' rouse us till our sleepin' strength's awake;
The storm shall break its might on us, an' when its hour is o'er,
Ye'll find us standin', rock-like, ruther firmer than afore;
An' our furrin frens, I'm thinkin', may look wiser ef they wait,
'Stead of castin' up the total 'fore the sum is on the slate;
They've had cause tu know us better, an' it's strange thet they forget—
Boys! get on, an' let 'em chatter—but we ain't done yet!

HOSEA, Jr., in The Spectator.

Memory, and What Then?

Max Muller in The Nineteenth Century.

I knew Macaulay, of whom it was said and believed that he could repeat a leading article of The Times after having read it once; but I never had the heart to ask him to let me hear him do so. Prof. Conington at Oxford enjoyed the same reputation, but I never heard him either repeat a few pages after he had read them. Still there is nothing so very incredible in this, for when I was at school at Leipsic and the whole class was punished by being kept back till they had learned two or three chapters of Cicero, I generally was off in about ten minutes. I could not do that now for my very life.

I lately read a very interesting book by the Rev. H. C. Adams, a master at Winchester, which was, and is still, famous for its system of "standing up." As it was published in his lifetime, and in the lifetime of the pupils whom he mentions by name, I think he may be fairly trusted. He tells us in Wykehamica (1878) that he knew a schoolfellow who never could learn his repetition, but who could nevertheless go through the whole of the scores in the matches with Eton and Harrow from the very first, giving each player his correct number of runs, and particularly the manner in which he was out.

He knew another, of no remarkable capacity, able to say the whole of the English Bible by rote. Put him on where you would, he would go fluently on as long as there was any one to listen.

When large standings up were said, sometimes 13,000 and 14,000 lines were said, and were said well, too. In Bishop Wordsworth's time, one boy in the Senior part of the fifth took up the whole of Virgil for his standing up, and acquitted himself brilliantly, that being only a portion of his eight lessons. I have made the reading of The Times every morning responsible for the gradual paralysis of our memory, but what shall we say when we are told the late editor of The Times, Mr. Chenery, whose death is still deplored by so many friends, knew the Koran and the Old Testament in Arabic and Hebrew by heart as well as any Ulema or rabbi? Perhaps those who, like myself, knew him well, may feel a little skeptical. He certainly never mentioned this extraordinary power to me. Judging by our own capacity or incapacity, we may perhaps recall to mind the well-known lines of Horace which we learned at school many years ago, and which may still supply some comfort to weaker memories and humbler souls:

Est quodam prodire tenus, si non datur ultra.

Various Incomes.

"Reminiscences," by J. Kegan Paul.

"Not long before her (Mrs. Proctor's) death Mr. Browning, Mr. Matthew Arnold, and I were standing in front of the fireplace one Sunday afternoon, talking about the various incomes made by prominent persons, and Mrs. Proctor was giving her own reminiscences of barristers' and physicians' fees, and the sums obtained by literature by men known to her in her youth.

"Mr. Browning thereupon told how at the house of a distinguished surgeon he had met an exalted personage, who to much bonhomie joins an inordinate curiosity. He said to the surgeon, 'I should like to know, of course I do not speak of present company, what a first-rate surgeon makes in his profession.' 'Well, Sir,' said the host, 'I should say that about £15,000 a year would be the mark.' 'What,' said the Prince, turning to the then acknowledged leader of the English bar, 'what does a great barrister make?' 'I suppose, Sir, £25,000 would hit the mark.' Sir John Millais was also present, and he was the third asked. 'Possibly, Sir, £35,000 a pear.' 'Oh, come, come,' said the questioner. 'Well, Sir,' said Sir John Millais, rather nettled, 'as a matter of fact, last year I made £40,000, and might have made more had I not been taking holiday longer than usual in Scotland.' When he had finished speaking, Mr. Browning put his arms through Mr. Arnold's and mine, and said, 'We don't make that by literature, do we?'"

My Lodging Is on the Cold Ground.

From The Rivals. 1668.

My lodging it is on the Cold ground,
and very hard is my fare,
But that which troubles me most, is the unkindness of my dear,
Yet still I cry, O turn Love,
and I prethee Love turn to me,
For thou art the Man that I long for,
and alack, what remedy?

I'l Crown thee with a Garland of straw then,
and I'le Marry thee with a Rush ring,
My frozen hopes shall thaw then,
and merrily we will Sing,
O turn to me my dear Love,
and prethee Love turn to me,
For thou art the Man that alone canst procure my Liberty.

But if thou wilt harden thy heart, still,
and be deaf to my pittyful moan,
Then I must endure the smart still,
and tumble in straw alone,
Yet still I cry, O turn Love,
and I prethee Love turn to me,
For thou art the Man that alone art
the cause of my misery.

English Soldier's Emergency Rations.

From The London Chronicle.

What are known as "emergency rations," are contained in little tin cases somewhere about the size of a small brandy flask. One half the case contains 4 ounces of pemmican, and the other half 4 ounces of cocoa-paste. Every man in the field carries one of these in his haversack, and whatever happens to the regular commissariat, he has got upon his back enough to live upon for six and thirty hours. The pemmican is lean meat, dried and ground to powder and compressed into a block, and, like the cocoa-paste, may be eaten as it is or dissolved in hot water. It comes into the depot in tierces of 1,000 pounds each, and every tierce is divided into 4,000 rations. It will keep almost indefinitely; so that wherever the British soldier goes on active service, he is well provided.

Corn-Drying and the Ground Squirrel.

Zitkala-Sa in The Atlantic.

From a field in the fertile river bottom my mother and aunt gathered an abundant supply of corn. Near our tepee they spread a large canvas upon the grass, and dried their sweet corn in it. I was left to watch the corn, that nothing should disturb it. I played around it with dolls made of ears of corn. I braided their soft fine silk for hair, and gave them as various blankets as I found scraps in my mother's workbag.

There was a little stranger with a black-and-yellow-striped coat that used to come to the drying corn. It was a little ground squirrel, who was so fearless of me that he came to one corner of the canvas and carried away as much of the sweet corn as he could hold. I wanted very much to catch him, and rub his pretty fur back, but my mother said he would be so frightened if I caught him that he would bite my fingers. So I was as content as he to keep the corn between us. Every morning he came for more corn. Some evenings I have seen him creeping about our grounds, and when I gave a sudden whoop of recognition he ran quickly out of sight.

In the sun and wind mother also dried many wild fruits—cherries, berries, and plums. But chiefest among my early recollections of autumn is that one of the corn-drying and the ground squirrel.

Causes for Suicide in China.

From "The Yang-tse Valley and Beyond," Mrs. J. F. Bishop.

So far as I have been able to ascertain, the causes of suicide in China are not, as in Europe, profound melancholia, heavy losses, or disappointment in love, but chiefly revenge, and the desire to inflict serious injury on another. Suicide enables a Chinese to take a truly terrible revenge, for he believes that his spirit will malignantly haunt and injure the living; and the desire to save a suicide's life arises in most cases, not from humanity, but from the hope of averting such a direful catastrophe. If a master offends his servant or makes him "lose face," or a shopkeeper his assistant or apprentice, the surest revenge is to die on the premises, for it not only involves the power of haunting and of inflicting daily injuries, but renders it necessary that the body should lie where death occurs until an official inquiry is made, which brings into the house the scandal and turmoil of a visit from a mandarin with a body of officials and retainers. It is quite common for a man or woman to walk into the courtyard of a person against whom he or she has a grudge, and take a fatal dose of opium there to insure these desirable results!

Creuzot Guns.

From The Nineteenth Century.

Creusot or "Le Creuzot" is a place in the department of Saône-et-Loire in France which has been long famous for its extensive ironworks. It does not follow, however, that a "Creusot" gun was made at Creusot, because that name is now applied to all the guns that are manufactured by the great French firm of Schneider & Co., who in 1835 became possessed of the works at Creusot, which, after being employed by the State under the Revolutionary Government for the manufacture of guns, were under the Empire handed back to private owners, though still receiving large orders for similar work from the Emperor. After the peace in 1815 the works passed through the hands of various firms which failed in succession, until they were purchased by the predecessors of the present firm. In 1867 Messrs. Schneider made themselves famous by being the first firm fully to apply and adapt to the manufacture of both plates for armored ships and guns various inventions, chiefly English, notably the great invention of Bessemer for the cheap manufacture of steel. From that time onward their works have been steadily developed. They have applied new processes to manufacture, including the use of various alloys—notably nickel, of which in its raw state the British Empire possesses almost a monopoly—to the improvement of the quality of the steel of which they make their guns. They have become the owners of a vast area of ground in the neighborhood of Havre, and have there created gigantic workshops almost on as large a scale as their works at Creusot. Thus, curiously enough, it has come to pass that when we speak of a "Creusot" gun, we mean a gun of whatever size made by the great French firm of Schneider & Co., whether it has in fact been made at Creusot or at Havre

THE ONLY POSITIVE CURE

For Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption.

HYOMEI

The Only Germicide that Can Be Inhaled in the Air We Breathe.

THE FIRST REMEDY

Ever Permitted by Nature to Enter the Bronchial Tubes and Lungs.

IT CURES PERMANENTLY

Because it Reaches the Smallest Air Cells in the Head, Throat and Lungs and Kills the Germ Causing the Disease.

We claim without fear of contradiction that Hyomei is the only positive cure ever known for catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and consumption. This claim is based on the following well-known facts: In order to permanently cure any of the above diseases you must destroy the germs which cause them. That it is absolutely impossible to reach these germs excepting through the air we breathe. That none of the liquid germicides can pass the epiglottis, no matter how minutely divided into sprays or vapors. That Hyomei is the first and only Dry-Air Germicide ever found which can be inhaled in the air we breathe and reach all the air cells of the head, throat and lungs.

It goes to the seat of the disease and destroys the cause, thus making a permanent cure, which cannot be effected in any other way.

What They Say About Hyomei.

DOES IT CURE CATARRH?

One of the Seventeen Thousand Testimonials Received.

BOSTON, Mass. April 20.
Care of Jordan, Marsh & Co.

DEAR SIR—I had catarrh for twenty years, and the last ten years (all of which time has been passed in this great establishment) I suffered fearfully. It ext

Features of Some Seasonable Sports.

For the skater who dislikes the congested condition of the lakes of the city's parks, and who has a little time at his disposal, the Shrewsbury River offers a splendid field for his exertions.

The 11:30 train of the Central Railroad of New Jersey reaches Branchport at 1 P. M., and right opposite the latter station runs a little arm of the river, down which one may skate to the main stream, which offers a magnificent stretch of ice, over which the skater may speed as far as Seabright without fear of jostling or being jostled. Not that there are not many on the river, enjoying the sport, but the enormous expanse of smoothness gives every one upon it plenty of room for either racing or fancy skating.

A party leaving town on the train mentioned could enjoy three or four hours on the ice, have dinner at the Norwood, which is right on the river bank, and return by the 6:30 train, and be back in New York by 8:30 that evening. Or, better still, by putting up at the hotel over night, a moonlight spin might be enjoyed and the early train taken next morning, allowing one to be back in time for business.

Skating is not the only sport to be had there, as the cold snap has brought the ice boats out in fleets, and the same conditions that make the Shrewsbury so charming for small boat sailing renders it equally good for the management of the steel-shod craft.

Seamen of Branchport and other local cracks have their craft in commission already, and are tuning up preparatory to testing their speed against those of Red Bank's ice yachtsmen.

It is a wonderful experience—this lying in the cockpit of an ice yacht, hanging on with one hand to the centre rail and watching the low-lying shores fly past, and part of the time the heart of the novice is in his boots and part of the time in his throat. Straight you dash at express train speed toward the shore or a dock, and it seems beyond any chance that the boat can be turned before a collision occurs. Your hair begins to stand up under your skull cap, and you can feel a strange and rather alarming chill run down your spine; then, just as you have given yourself up for lost, and are faintly hoping that your remains won't be unrecognizable, the skilled hand at the tiller jams it hard down, and the boat goes about with a swing and a swish—you should hold on pretty tightly just at that time—and you are on the other tack, with the shore running away from you as fast as it can go.

To the sailor that change of course is a revelation. No shaking and flapping of canvas, scarcely any stoppage of speed, the slacking up and gathering of way again are almost imperceptible as the tremendous momentum of the boat puts her on the new tack so quickly that one hardly appreciates it before the craft is again at full speed.

It requires a steady hand, a keen eye and a nerve of iron to handle the stick aboard one of these Winter flyers, but it is a sport fit for the gods, and its only drawback is the awful frigidity of it, unless one is properly clad, in sweater, worsted skull cap, and heavy underclothing and arctic overshoes. Wearing a derby or alpine on such a cruise simply means something to hang on to in addition to the rail.

Now that the ball is up, it is to be hoped that the park officials will take means to abate a nuisance that has grown to alarming proportions during the last few years. I mean the use of the long-bladed "speed" skater upon the ice of the city lakes.

These uncouth affairs are a menace to the life and limb, not only of the wearer but to those of every skater who happens to be in their path. The short rocker-blade of the ordinary skate gives its wearer pretty thorough control of his movements, and, touching the ice only a few inches of its length, allows him to make a circle of but few feet in diameter, but the long flat racing blade, lying on the ice, almost from toe to heel makes a quick turn or a circle of small size a physical impossibility. These latter skates were made for long stretches of uncrowded ice, when there is no necessity of dodging or being dodged by other skaters, and their use upon the crowded ponds should never have been allowed.

Their wearers, for the most part, are young men and boys, with loud sweaters and voices, which latter are mostly employed in yelling for everybody to "get out of the way." They go shooting over the ice at just as high a speed as the good nature of the police attendants will allow, and when it comes to the necessity for making a quick turn to avoid a collision they are about as helpless as a steamer with a jammed rudder. What pleasure they find in them no reasonable skater can conceive, and no amount of enjoyment which they may derive from them should be considered sufficient to offset the discomfort and danger with which they threaten the skaters who are content to take their pleasure quietly and safely.

The bicycle scorcher, now happily becoming a thing of rarity, generally hurt only himself or his mount, and either learned a lesson by his mishaps or furnished a living to some hardworking wheel repairer who needed the money. The speed skater, on the contrary, usually knocks down some unoffending individual who is not inclined to give him the entire pond, and should be gently but firmly turned back at all park entrances.

There is a man up at the Van Cortlandt skate house who makes a pretty good thing at sharpening skates at 15 cents per sharpen. He can generally calculate upon having a pair of blades in condition ten minutes after commencing to file them, but he was badly caught the other day. A pair of rusty-looking skates were turned over to him, and he started at his task with a happy smile. Fifteen minutes later the same skate was in the vise, but the smile had vanished and beads of perspiration adorned his brow.

"Yes," he said, returning the skates after half an hour's work, "I was up again it that time, sure. Pretty good steel in them blades. Most of 'em are soft iron. They're easy to file, and need sharpening every time they're used. Yours will last through the Winter."

The owner of the skates ran his thumb along the edges and handed the man a quarter. "I always wondered," said his companion, "why you hung on to that old pair. I think I understand now," and he looked at his own beautiful bright pair, that had been filed down in a very short time.

"Yes," said the owner of the rusty pair, "I paid $6 for them sixteen years ago. You may buy something looking just like them now for 98 cents and spend the difference and lots of valuable time in keeping the 'cheap' ones fit to use."

It may be due either to the passing of the cowboy or education in general in regard to the possibilities of small arms, but we no longer hear of revolver shots being made at distances at which the sight would completely obscure any object much smaller than a flour barrel. While it is undoubtedly true that many of the old-time frontiersmen were extremely handy with their firearms, and did pretty accurate work, we think their deadliness was, to a great extent, due more to the rapidity with which they got their arsenal into action than to any extreme accuracy in fine target work.

As a matter of fact, for effective work at short distances it is much more important that a man be accustomed to extreme rapidity in drawing his weapon than that he should be able to hit an extremely small mark after he has once begun his fusillade. This is something that the average carrier of pocket weapons almost entirely overlooks. Take a New York policeman for example. He carries his revolver in his hip pocket, over which he wears a heavy coat held down by a leather belt. By the time he has gotten his pistol where it will do him any earthly good the chances are greatly in favor of his being too late to use it for any effective purpose.

Of course, the policeman is not a fair criterion. He, like the old Aztec warrior, is not rated by the number he kills but the amount of prisoners he takes in fairly good condition. But the average citizen who applies for a permit and then puts a pistol in his pocket usually manages to place the weapon in just the exact location where it would be hardest to get at in case of an emergency. In wearing the average cutaway coat it is necessary, in order to draw a pistol rapidly, to unbotton the lower button of the coat with the left hand, at the same time drawing the weapon with the right. As a matter of fact, the hip pocket is the meanest place that can be conceived for carrying a revolver, unless a person wears a short coat, in which case the right hand side pocket is a much better place of storage.

Many Westerners wear a holster, which is suspended over the shoulders, and carry the weapon on the left hand side, right over the vest, so that it can be rapidly brought into action. For a man who wears an overcoat it is a good scheme to have a pocket made of chamois similar to the inside change pocket of a bicycle coat sewed in the lining of the right hand lower pocket, where the weapon may be reached easily and quickly. As a matter of fact, if every owner of a pistol would occupy himself for about fifteen minutes each day in practicing drawing the weapon easily he would find it probably more beneficial in the end than twice the amount of time given to target practice.

The only time a man ever needs a revolver he needs it badly, and he also needs it quickly, and this is where the practice in drawing the weapon will be found to pay a pretty heavy dividend, but when the opponent is at a sufficient distance to make accurate shooting a necessity he is far enough away, as a rule, to render the use of firearms somewhat unnecessary.

Speaking of revolvers, the amount of gas which escapes between the cylinder and the barrel renders a bullet from one of these weapons so much inferior to a single-shot pistol in point of hard hitting that for some years past geniuses of an inventive turn have been trying to perfect a repeating pistol which would have all the hard-hitting effects of a single-shot, together with the rapidity of fire of the revolving weapon.

Either they all commenced their investigations at about the same time or the appearance of one has suggested the other, so there are now two or three makes on the market which, like most new inventions, are extremely cumbrous and ungainly in appearance, and in matter of personal beauty are far inferior to the six-shooters as now made. Of course, it is only a matter of time when they will be brought to a state of perfection that will eliminate their ungainly features and make them as graceful in appearance and as pleasant to handle as their older brothers in the small-arms world.

The Bochardt pistol is one of these which resembles somewhat a carpenter's try-square, with the handle a little back of the centre and with the lockwork projecting beyond the stock. This loads with a clip through the handle, and while accurate and hard shooting, would never take first prize in a beauty show. The Mauser is a little better as regards appearance, and handles rather more pleasantly, and can be used like the Bochardt, either as a pistol or a carbine. The Browning repeater is much smaller, and more graceful in outline and has more the appearance of a true pistol. It is rumored that the United States Army will shortly be supplied with a repeating pistol of the Mauser type, in which case the side ejecting Colts will be retired, but it is doubtful if the Mauser is the weapon that will finally be adopted.

Although it is not generally known, the Colts Manufacturing Company have quietly gotten up a repeating pistol which is no more heavy or cumbersome than a service model revolver, and which those who have seen it say is a better arm than any of the repeating pistols now on the market. It is adapted to the use of their thirty-eight fire revolver ammunition. They have kept very quiet about it, however, and beyond the fact that they have succeeded in making it and are satisfied with its working, no one knows very much about the weapon. It is altogether likely that should the contemplated change in the armament of the troops take place they would immediately put it on the market. Of course, it is not to their interest to do so at the present time, as they are pretty well stocked up with revolvers which they would probably prefer to sell at a price much higher than they would receive after a new weapon is put on the market.

This state of affairs explains why it usually takes so long for a new system of firearms to be placed on the market after its desirability and the general need for it have been made manifest. Manufacturers whose unit of product is the thousand, with their expensive machinery all adjusted to turn out products of certain design, are usually stocked far beyond the current demand for their wares. Should a new weapon of better design and quicker selling qualities be placed for sale by them while they yet have on their hands a great quantity of an older and less desirable pattern, it would be almost impossible for them to get rid of these latter goods at anything like a fair valuation, so it is their general practice after they have decided on a new departure in their line to reduce their stock of older goods as much as possible before putting the newer and more desirable upon sale.

This explains why one of the oldest shotgun manufacturers in this country who had a large quantity of the hammer shotguns made up was the last to place on sale his hammerless arm, which had been perfected some years before it could be found in the hands of a single gun dealer. This is one of the unpleasant things that confront the individual known as a gun or a rifle crank. He may have ideas which will just suit many sportsmen, and if the weapons which he advocates were put out by a reliable firm there would undoubtedly be a market for it, but as a rule the manufacturers are chary of producing a new variety of arms that may by diminishing the sale of the stock on hand subject them to financial loss even though the improved article may meet with a ready and flattering recognition by sportsmen in general.

There has been so much said against the slowness of manufacturers generally to accommodate the sportsmen of an inventive turn of mind that it seems only fair that this much be said in their defense, for, like all the rest of the world, they are in business for the profit that there is in it, and not for the benefit of humanity generally.

E. T. KEYSER.

CARTERET GUN CLUB CHANGES.

Position of the House Shifted and Other Improvements Made.

Many important changes and improvements have been made in the house of the Carteret Gun Club, on Hempstead Plains, near Garden City. The building has been moved about fifty yards to the southeast of its former position, which was directly behind the firing point. As situated at present, it is far enough away to keep the spectators entirely apart from the man at the firing point and the trap puller, but still gives an unobstructed view of the entire grounds. The big bay window has also been greatly improved. The entire lower portion of its three sides are fitted with single sheets of plate glass.

Between the house and the traps is a broad space, floored over, which can be used for spectators when a particularly large gathering is present. This space can be roped off so as to keep a clear field for the shooter and still accommodate about two hundred people.

Another innovation that has been suggested by Walter Watrous, who has recently returned from a trip abroad, is the introduction of greyhounds to gather the birds, instead of the setters and pointers that are used at present. Commenting on the advantage of greyhounds, Mr. Watrous said: "They can run much faster and jump higher than any retrieving dogs used in this country, which would mean that many birds that flutter beyond the reach of an ordinary dog and on to the far side of the boundary fence would be captured by the more agile and swifter hound." The plan proposed is that the club obtain some greyhound pups and train them to retrieve with the other dogs in the kennels. This plan has been followed successfully on many trap-shooting grounds in England and France.

Increase in Thread Mill Wages.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 6.—The spinners in the Mile End Thread Mills at Kearny were notified to-day that they are to receive an increase of 10 per cent. in their wages, dating from Jan. 1 of this year. This increase is simply putting the wages back to where they were three years ago.

GREATEST YEAR IN GOLF

Championship for the First Time Won by a Native Player.

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE

Garden City May Be the Scene of the Next Amateur Contest—Inside News from Chicago.

Golf for 1899 is finished, but by no means forgotten. In many respects it has been a red-letter year in the annals of American golf, and its memories will be kept alive long into future seasons. The year, however, was scarcely closed ere preparations began for the coming activities. In official circles the next four or six weeks are as busy as any in the year. Secretary Robert B. Kerr has already sent out requests to the associate clubs in the United States Golf Association, asking them to inform the Executive Committee if they wish to apply for any of the three championships of 1900, giving, in case applications are made, details regarding their links and clubhouses and other matters tending to show their ability to manage a National championship.

Should there be a struggle to obtain these golfing honors, these data would expedite a settlement, and should the delegates do the selecting they would be able to see at a glance just what the rival clubs would provide. It is not at all certain whether last year's plan will meet with approval again, or whether the delegates will assert their former prerogative of naming the championship links. By general consent this important question was referred, with power, to the Executive Committee last year. Although its selections called forth criticisms in some quarters it is generally admitted that the best courses then available for the big events were chosen. Favoritism and sentimental friendships should play no part in the selection of a championship course. In open meeting it is often difficult to keep these influences from asserting themselves, while a committee in whom the delegates have confidence may be able to sift the matter more carefully and satisfactorily.

Notices for the annual meeting, which are required to be sent out thirty days before the event, will soon be issued, and the meeting will be held, as usual, in this city, during the month of February. Predictions are already being made as to the future championships. The Westerners, having had the amateur last year, acknowledge that the East must get the event this year, and thus far no rival to Garden City has appeared. The rebuilt hotel will doubtless be in running order before the next amateur tournament begins, thus making Garden City, in convenience and accommodation, superior to the great majority of clubs. The course itself is conceded to possess all the attributes for a championship test. The college boys, many of whom played in the Metropolitan championship at Garden City last April, were so pleased with it that they chose it for their intercollegiate meeting last Fall. There seems to be a general certainty that Garden City will get the plum of the golf championships.

Differences of opinion will probably arise regarding the open and the women's events. The Chicago Golf Club is said to be ready to ask for the former, and as the open champion is a Chicago professional, "Will" Smith, that fact may have some weight. It would not count, however, if the Chicago course were not eminently fitted for the match.

Myopia, near Boston, and Baltusrol of Short Hills, N. J., have been mentioned as eligible for the women's championship. The Baltusrol Club has always taken an active part in the encouragement of women's golf, and its annual tournament for women is looked upon as one of the features of the year. Further improvements to the links have lately been made. The fourth and fifth holes have been blended into one, the new fourth, with a distance of 510 yards. No. 6 is a new hole, 350 yards from the tee, having the Baltusrol driveway as a hazard. The new seventh hole is an extension of the old seventh, making it now 505 yards long, using the same driveway as a hazard for the second shot. These new holes are laid out over rolling land, which has been made available by the clearing of six acres of woods, and they will be ready for use in June. These extensions to the course will give the eighteen holes a playing distance of 6,003 yards. "Rather a long distance for a women's tournament," some one may say, and justly, too, for it is long.

Baltusrol has two courses, and if the club contemplates asking for the women's championship it will surely devise some scheme so that no fault may be found with distances. Another indication in this direction is the statement that a six-inch water pipe has been connected with the links, giving a pressure of 144 pounds to the square inch, thus insuring the greens against lack of moisture next season.

Unquestionably the most satisfactory event of the year was the winning of the amateur championship by an American-bred golfer. Herbert M. Harriman, in capturing this honor, simply stands forth as the best representative of American players and illustrates the rapid improvement that has been made in the last four years. Findlay S. Douglas, the previous holder of the honor; H. J. Whigham, who held the cup two years, and Charles Macdonald, who won the honor the year before the United States Golf Association was organized, are all foreign-bred golfers, whose game commanded high respect in their country long before their emigration to America. Macdonald and Douglas hail from the famous old St. Andrews links, while Whigham was bred on the English links of Prestwick, near Liverpool.

While the victories of these men were never begrudged, as their golf merited all they won, there was an increasing desire among native players to see one of their own number carry off the National triumph. Many experts regarded Harriman as the man to do it. In the final contest at Onwentsia, the test of skill could not have been better arranged had the opponents been purposely picked for the fray. Findlay Douglas, the representative of the Scotch game, and Herbert Harriman, who has yet to see a course outside of the United States, met for the highest honor, and the home-bred won by 3 up and 2 to play in a thirty-six-hole match. In April last year Harriman won the Metropolitan championship, representative of the New York district, and the only disastrous defeat he met during the year was at the Lakewood tournament, where he failed to qualify in the first set.

Upsets will happen to every golfer, a fact that former champion Findlay Douglas learned, for he was defeated in every tournament he entered until he won the cup at the Thanksgiving event at Lakewood, but two weeks later he was defeated for the chief trophy at Atlantic City by W. H. Davis. It is clear that a champion cannot take any more chances than a more ordinary player can.

Miss Ruth Underhill, by her victory of the women's championship curtailed the triumphant career begun by Miss Beatrix Hoyt, when she won the Cox Cup at its first competition, on the Morris County links in 1896. Practically unknown as a golfer, outside of her Shinnecock circle, Miss Hoyt's game came as a revelation, but, although she started in a meteoric fashion, Miss Hoyt has continued to shine with undiminished brightness. At Essex County, near Boston, and at Ardsley, she repeated her championship victories, holding the leading golf honors of her sex in the United States for the unusual period of three years.

The only parallel to this is found in the three years' successive victories of the women's championship of Great Britain by former Lady Margaret Scott, but she refused to defend her title for the fourth year. Miss Hoyt was less prominent in golf during the past year than ever before, and it is by no means easy to predict who would defeat her when at her best.

Miss Hoyt is one of the youngest of the young element in women's golf. In fact, the history of her sex in the game has shown the decided superiority of the younger women. The competitor with the prefix "Mrs." has yet to win the National honor, but Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of Philadelphia came next to it in the last tournament. Miss Underhill belongs thoroughly to this young and home-bred class, most of her golfing having been done on the Nassau County links, at Glen Cove, L. I. At Morris County the two semi-annual championships were held respectively by Miss Marie G. Bryce and Miss Cornelia G. Willis, the latter the present holder. Miss Elsie F. Cassatt won the championship of the Women's Golf Association of Philadelphia. It will be found that the great majority of club champions belong to the younger element, one of the notable exceptions being the victory of Mrs. W. B. McIlvaine in Chicago of the women's championship of the West. Most of these sectional championships have been confined to the men, but the growth of these divisional organizations will undoubtedly result in contests for women in the future.

"One of the best indications of the real growth of golf throughout the country is the tendency toward sectional associations," remarked a careful observer of the game while indulging in a New Year's chat on the sport at Lakewood last week. "These minor associations were bound to come with increasing golf popularity, and whether President Thomas had called attention to this fact or not in his inaugural address at the annual meeting of the Golf Association last year, it would have been all the same. In doing so Mr. Thomas simply showed his acute observation of the future of American golf."

In this respect New York had really set the example by organizing the Metropolitan Golf Association two years ago. Philadelphia soon after formed a union of its clubs for both men and women, and last year saw the Western Golf Association, one in the South, and Connecticut and California start into life. A desperate effort was made to form one in Boston, but jealousies of certain clubs resulted in the usual failure. Indeed, for a time it looked as though the same fate would overtake the efforts of the Chicago enthusiasts in their Western Association.

What is said to be the inside history of that organization was recently given in The Chicago Inter Ocean, and it is called "a strange combination of enthusiastic perseverance and deceitful opposition." It must be confessed that very little glory rests upon some of the so-called "big" clubs for their part in the affair. A. P. Bowen, Captain of the Riverside Club, was practically the author of the scheme. In April of last year he requested the Captains of several different clubs to meet and discuss plans for a local organization. Walter B. Smith, Yale's former champion golfer, and then Captain of the Onwentsia team, favored the idea at once and gave the influence of his club to it. To the surprise of many Chicago golfers Charles B. Macdonald, one of the enthusiasts in that city and the prime organizer of the Chicago Golf Club, opposed the idea. Smith and David R. Forgan of Onwentsia also, and who won the Western championship a little later, worked energetically toward its success. Opposition did not entirely cease, as is apparent from the following extracts culled from the "inside history":

When the general meeting was called at the Grand Pacific and it was decided that the organization would not down, a few of the so-called exclusive clubs reluctantly sent representatives, and when the meeting was called to order nearly all the local clubs had two or more delegates present. Then the question of the powers of the new association was discussed, and when it was proposed to have it arrange and regulate interclub contests the Onwentsia and Wheaton delegates protested vehemently against giving the association such power. The other delegates immediately understood the reason for the objection, as it was evident that neither club had any desire to be placed in the position of having to meet any of the smaller clubs and abandoning the atmosphere of exclusiveness which had hitherto characterized their associations with the other clubs.

The Wheaton delegates were from the Chicago club, as the links are at Wheaton, a suburb of the city. The organization, however, went through successfully, and the acceptance of its Presidency by H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, who was also President of the Onwentsia Club, brought his club into respectful sympathy with the association's aims. The Western idea of doing nothing small was seen in making the territory for the new body embrace everything within 500 miles of Chicago. Twenty-two clubs are now in the body, Pittsburg and Kansas City being the boundary representatives. Mr. Chatfield-Taylor has declined to serve another year, and George R. Thorne of the Midlothian Club is slated as his successor. Mr. Thorne is one of the crack pigeon shots of the West, and is Captain of the gun club in the Glenview Golf and Polo Club. He has given a magnificent trophy to the association, which will hereafter be the emblem of the Western championship. The Midlothian Club will probably be the scene of the next competition.

In closing his history of the Western association, the writer adds a few lines, the truth of which may apply to every other local organization that enjoys the benefit of management by clear-headed golfers:

The growth of the Western Golf Association is responsible for a healthy development of independence among the smaller clubs, some of whom might formerly be accused of toadyism. The numerous tournaments held under its auspices put all the contestants on an equality, and their invariable success marked the disappearance of the day when any one club or individual controlled the golfing destinies of Chicago, and the new young element which now preponderates promises to materially benefit the game and eliminate the imported snobbishness which has no place among American sports.

The Midlothian Club is rapidly assuming a leading rank among Chicago's Golf Clubs. Its professional, Willie Smith, won the open championship of the United States at Baltimore, and also the Western championship, after a tie game with Lawrence Auchterlonie, one of the Scotch emigrants of last year, whose reputation was somewhat enhanced by the threat of the Chicago labor unions to protest his landing as a violation of the alien contract law. Champion Smith, by the way, has been East recently, and numerous reports were circulated of the big matches he was going to play. Since his unexpected defeat by George Low of Dyker Meadow, these much-talked-of matches are off. Smith is about to start to win golfing triumphs in the South.

Championships in Great Britain are held earlier than in this country. The dates for the amateur meeting have been fixed for the week of May 17, at Sandwich, and the women's championship will be held the following week at Westward Ho. The open event will be played later in the season, at St. Andrew's. H. M. Harriman intends to make a European tour in the Spring, and if so, he will visit the famous golf courses and try his skill against some of the old-country cracks.

Judging from the golf rumors which one hears in various circles, the sport is likely to open with unusual activity in the month of April. In addition to the metropolitan championship and the annual Spring event of the Lakewood Golf Club it is stated on pretty good authority that the Atlantic City Country Club will give a three or four days' contest in April. The Lakewood and Metropolitan events will be arranged without the clashing of dates, but although the Atlantic City Club is outside of the Metropolitan jurisdiction, it is to be hoped that matters will be so arranged that no conflict will occur. Many local golfers will be glad to attend the Atlantic City tournament in the opening month of the golf season, and these three big events will give the players good practice for the games that will rapidly follow.

Atlantic City is taking a more prominent place in the golf world than it has previously enjoyed. The club has been well organized and the improved course has been a great stimulant to the sport. On New Year's Day the home team gained a big victory—27 holes to 5—over a delegation from the Laurence Harbor Club. It was the first of a series of two matches, and the second will be played in February on the Laurence Harbor links, not far from Red Bank. The teams consisted of only eleven men, instead of twenty, and the only Laurence Harbor man to win was M. M. Singer, who defeated the Philadelphia champion, F. H. Bohlen, by 5 holes. Three games finished even. Some of the Atlantic golfers are predicting that the open championship will be held on their links in 1901, modestly declining to make predictions for the present year.

W. H. Davis, one of the leading golfers at Lakewood, and who recently added to his previous fame by winning the chief trophy in the Atlantic City tournament, defeating Findlay Douglas in the final round, left for the Sunny South last week, where he can enjoy warm-weather golf. "This New Year's weather is too much for me," he said, after a round over the snowy links during the club's tournament. "It may be fun for some, but it isn't golf, and I'm going where you can drive a ball and not see it buried in snow." Davis will compete in many of the Florida tournaments.

The Wee Burn Golf Club of Stamford, Conn., held its annual meeting last week, the chief officers being elected as follows: President—John D. Crimmins; Vice President—Charles Stewart Smith; Secretary—Walter N. Capen; Treasurer—Wilson L. Baldwin; Captain—Alfred S. Pitt. Several minor changes were made to the constitution.

BROOKLYN ADVERTISEMENTS. BROOKLYN ADVERTISEMENTS. BROOKLYN ADVERTISEMENTS.

Frederick Loeser & Co.

BROOKLYN.

Plain Colored Taffeta Silks.

28,000 Yards---100 of the Very Best Shades.

At 49c. Instead of 75c.

At 69c. Instead of 89c.

These are just those kind of silks for which you will pay 75c. and 89c. anywhere else for equally good quality. Strong, bright and pretty. If you want a waist you won't pass them by. Or to line a crepe de chine, and then for lining a cloth dress they are indispensable because they never cling. These are the best taffetas in the market, so the experts say, but it doesn't need an expert to tell that. Any one may know it who shops around. Prices are going higher, you know, and taffetas are scarce. We anticipated and arranged for these long ago. Lots to choose from—no end of shades—a hundred of the very best in the 69c. lot—every one pretty, white and black, too—the price 69c. instead of 89c.; twenty cents lower when it ought to be twenty cents higher.

12,000 Yards New Fancy Silks

At 59c. and 79c. Instead of $1.25 and $1.50.

They include silk and satin corded silks, Dresden stripes, jacquard figured silks, chameleon painted warp silks and corded regence in an almost endless variety of evening shades, medium and dark. All new silk; for this reason, of course, fresh as spring flowers.

Then we add 2,000 yards of all silk crepe de chine, evening shades and black, with just enough the matter with them to enable us to sell them at 79c. instead of $1.25.

Our Annual Shoe Sale.

$1.98 a Pair for Five Styles of Women's Shoes.

The shoes at this sale are the kinds that will keep up the reputation of our shoe store or they wouldn't be here. They are not a job lot. We know the history of every shoe. Have followed the making from the tanning of the skins down to the affixing of our name which stamps their worth. They have been made specially for us after our own distinctive ideas on our own improved shaped lasts (now so favorably known). Shoes that will give the best of comfort, satisfaction and wear from the first moment you put them on. Our sale a year ago satisfied thousands, was one of the shoe surprises of the season, but we're not content with what we've done; we must improve on the past, and you'll say we've more than done so. Here are the styles, lots of them, and sizes for every one.

AT $1.98—Kangaroo top, Russian colt skin boxed lace Shoes—full round toes and broad extension soles.

AT $1.98—Glace kid lace Shoes, straight, kid tips, medium full round toes and extension soles.

AT $1.98—Kangaroo top, glace kid foxed tip'd button Shoes, full round toes and broad extension soles.

AT $1.98—Glace kid button Shoes, straight kid tip, medium full round toes and extension soles.

AT $1.98—Same as above with straight patent leather tips.

Greatest Opportunities in Men's Shirts.

Advantages of Our Annual Sale.

To right of Main Entrance.

The natural measure of the advantages of this sale is its resistance of circumstances, the constant advance of the cost of everything. There's not a garment offered at this sale whose purchase won't save you almost half the price you pay for it. Garments which, in almost every instance, cannot be made to-day at the prices, and, in fact, in many instances, lower than the cost of the material alone. Had we not arranged for this sale a year ago it would have been impossible to even duplicate last year's opportunities, to say nothing of their betterment. The facts speak for themselves.

Unlaundered Shirts.

AT 25 CENTS—Splendidly made Unlaundered Shirts for men and boys—sizes 12 to 18 inch neck. Good muslin bodies and splendid wearing cambric bosoms. All improvements, and well worth 39c.

AT 39 CENTS—Men's and Boys' Unlaundered Shirts—bosoms of fine linen and bodies of one of the very best wearing muslins. Sizes 12 to 18 inch neck. The usual 50c. shirt.

THE BEST 50c. SHIRT—The best Shirt ever sold for 50c. We took the size, style and make-up of a 75c. shirt, the best Shirting Muslin made, a bosom of pure Irish linen, and put them all into this Shirt of ours at 50c. It has handmade buttonholes at front of neck and comes in all men's sizes, 13½ to 18 inches neck. Unmatchable under 75c.

SHIRTS AT 75c. OR 3 FOR $2.00—Men's Unlaundered Shirts, better than the usual dollar kind; 3 shapes; open back only. Long or short bosoms, and open back and front, full dress bosom, hand-made buttonholes throughout, bosoms of 1900 pure Irish linen. Incomparably made and the very best wearing shirt we know of.

Men's and Boys' Night Shirts

AT 45 CENTS — Men's Muslin Night Shirts, plain white or with fancy trimmings. Cannot be made to-day to sell under 69 or 75 cents.

AT 45 CENTS—Men's and Boys' Domet Flannel Night Shirts, extra heavy made, full and long. Usual 59c. quality.

AT 69 CENTS — Men's Muslin Night Shirts, the usual 85c. to $1.00 sorts, in two weights—the heavy or twilled muslin in plain white, the regular weight plain or with fancy trimmings.

MEN'S $1.00 FANCY SHIRTS, 59c.—Most of them are colored all over. Some of them have white muslin bodies with colored bosoms. The bosoms come in two lengths—long or short. All are this season's styles. The cuffs are attached or detached, and sizes are 13½ to 17 inch neck.

Pajamas.

AT 75 CENTS—Men's and Boys' Domet Flannel Pajamas, splendidly made, $1.00 quality.

AT 95 CENTS—Men's and Boys' extra heavy Domet Flannel Pajamas, 95c. instead of $1.25.

AT $1.35—Men's fine Domet and Scotch Flannel Pajamas, usually $1.75 and $2.00.

House Coats and Bath Robes.

All little lots of House Coats and Bath Robes are gathered together into one big lot and a quick moving price tag put on every one of them. You can have any one at two-thirds to less than half of regular prices.

MEN'S HOUSE COATS, regular worth $5 to $15, including plaid back cloths, Matelasse and velvets, are marked $2.69, $3.69, $5.95 and $6.95.

Our $1.00 Shirt.

It is as aristocratic as any $3.00 shirt made and is a perfect revelation in shirt making.

More of Muslin Underwear.

We've almost clothed the city in white with our great selling of dainty things in the muslin, the nainsook and cambric garments, but still there are lots of opportunities we've prepared for those who haven't fully replenished their wardrobes.

AT 25c.—Good Muslin Gowns, yoke tucked.

AT 39c.—Good Muslin Gowns, V-shape and square neck, tucked and trimmed neatly with embroidery.

AT 49c., 69c. AND 79c.—Fine Muslin and Cambric Gowns, V-shape and high neck yokes, prettily trimmed with embroidery.

AT 98c., $1.19, $1.39, $1.59, $1.98—Still finer Gowns of Nainsook and Cambric, square and round effects, also some open necks.

AT 12c. A PAIR—Good Muslin Drawers, hem and cluster of tucks, yoke band.

AT 29c.—With embroidered ruffle, regular shape.

AT 59c. AND 79c.—Fine Muslin and Cambric Drawers, regular shape and umbrella, deep embroidered ruffle.

AT 19c.—Cambric Covers, high neck and V-shaped, embroidered and lace trimmed.

AT 29c.—Cambric Covers, low neck, high neck and V-shape, embroidery edge, also lace trimmed.

AT 39c. AND 49c.—Fine Cambric Covers in a variety of styles, high and low neck, embroidery and lace trimmed.

AT 39c.—Good Muslin Petticoats, deep cambric ruffle.

AT 79c., 98c., $1.19 AND $1.39—In fine muslin, deep ruffle of embroidery.

AT 25c.—Good Muslin Chemises, corded band.

AT 59c.—Good Muslin Chemises, embroidered.

AT 79c. and 98c.—Good Cambric Chemises, embroidered and lace trimmed.

FOR INFANTS.

AT 15c. PAIR, REGULAR 25c.—Children's Muslin Drawers, hem and tucks, 6 sizes.

AT 15c., REGULAR 25c.—Canton Flannel Drawers, 4 sizes.

AT 39c., REGULAR 49c.—Misses' Muslin Gowns, 6 sizes, tucked yoke and cambric ruffle, with embroidered ruffle.

AT 98c., REGULAR $1.50 TO $1.75—A variety of styles in fine Lawn and Nainsook Dresses, some with embroidered ruffles on bottom, others round yoke effect, ribbon trimmed.

AT 39c., 59c., 79c., 98c., REGULAR FROM 65c. TO $2.00—A large lot of Colored Dresses, 1 to 3 years, made of percale, lawns and ginghams and dimities, in a variety of styles, lace, ribbon and embroidery trimmed.

New Conceits in Waists. You will find the advance styles of the season, new and pretty, at the easy buying prices, too.

AT $3.98, INSTEAD OF $5.00—200 new stylish Taffeta Silk Waists in black, cardinal, turquoise, cerise, lavender, heliotrope, gray, light blue and pink, front and back corded, shirt waist sleeves in this lot. Some excellent values in Black Satin Waists, corded front.

AT 50c. INSTEAD OF 75c.—An additional lot of Sample Shirt Waists, all this season's make, in sizes 34 and 36 in. Percales, Lawns and Madras, in stripes and figures only; excellent values in this lot. Choice line of new Waists, prominent make, in colors and white, 98c., $1.45, $1.98 to $7.98.

Colored Petticoats and Wrappers. AT 98c. INSTEAD OF $1.50 TO $1.75—An assorted lot of colored Petticoats, consisting of genuine mercerized sateen, black and colors, black sateen lined with domet, Metabic stripes and black Premier cloth Petticoats, lined—all at 98c.

LUCK WITH PLUNGER GRANNAN.

Riley Grannan, the plunger who created a sensation on the American turf some years ago by making one of the largest wagers ever recorded—on Henry of Navarre when the latter ran his famous dead heat with the black whirlwind Domino—has been making matters interesting for the poolroom keepers in this city during the past few weeks. Grannan's luck has been remarkable, for he has been naming winners with startling regularity, and some of the poolroom keepers have been so hard hit that they have grown chary of taking his commissions.

The young plunger has won most of his bets on the California races, and some of the players in New York believe that his persistent winning will result in the keepers of poolrooms cutting off quotations on the California races, as they did last season. Grannan's success has gained for him a big crowd of followers, who dog his footsteps and follow every bet he makes.

IMP TO RUN AGAIN THIS YEAR.

Eastern turfmen had trouble galore last season trying to figure out the true form of Brossman & Harnese's mare Imp, and they believed that when the season ended they had seen the last of her. But now word has reached here that the black mare is to be put into training again, and that she will be prepared for the Metropolitan, Brooklyn, and Suburban Handicaps.

Imp was the mystery, as well as the marvel, of last season. Early in the season she was beaten by ordinary horses, and then later she won the Suburban. Her great speed was erratic, for after she won the big classic she was beaten again; but for the remainder of the season at the most unexpected times, and always at a good price, she would win. Followers of form went almost crazy figuring on her performances, and they welcomed the announcement that the season would be her last on the turf.

The mare is wintering at Chillicothe, Ohio, and her owners are convinced that she will be better than ever this coming season, so they will not place her in the stud. Mr. Brossman will put her into training again beginning next month, and he has entered her in a number of the big stakes and handicaps in the older division. Imp will have two stable companions this year, both colts that as yearlings showed good speed.

DAILY, ONE CENT. SUNDAY, THREE CENTS.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

The New York Times.

THE WEATHER.
Rain, colder, wind southwest shifting to northwest.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.

VOL. XLIX...NO. 15,600. NEW YORK, MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1900.—10 Pages and Supplement. ONE CENT In Greater New York and Jersey City. TWO CENTS. Elsewhere.

TO-DAY, TEN PAGES,

WITH FINANCIAL REVIEW AND QUOTATION SUPPLEMENT.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

FOREIGN.—The situation of Gen. White at Ladysmith is extremely grave. It is believed that the Boers have begun the attack on the place and that Gen. Buller cannot render any aid. Severe fighting is going on, but this is regarded as merely preliminary. Gen. White reports that he has defeated the Boers in a determined attack they made on Ladysmith. Gen. Buller reports a camp rumor that White has taken 400 Boer prisoners. Gen. Clery made a brisk attack on Colenso, which many Boers had left to join the fight at Ladysmith. The British force at that place was hard pressed. Gen. French reports that "a serious accident has happened" to the Suffolk Regiment; one fourth of a battalion which attacked the Boers was left in the latter's hands. The Boers have captured the town of Kuruman, about ninety miles west of Vryburg, in Bechuanaland, taking 150 prisoners, after bombarding the place. The British have been compelled to retreat from Dordrecht. Both British and Boers are making arrests for treason. At Cape Town extraordinary precautions are being taken against a Dutch coup there. Sir Thomas Lipton will defer action on another challenge for the America's Cup. The President of Colombia is dead, and the insurgents are taking advantage of the situation.—Pages 1 and 7.

Page 1.

A man living near Pittsburg, a believer in Christian Science, allowed two of his children to die of maglignant diphtheria, refusing to allow a physician to attend them. A third child is ill.

According to tables issued by the Adjutant General's office the deaths in the volunteer force during the Spanish-American war were 148 officers and 4,356 men. New York lost 417 men.

Page 2.

Plymouth Church last evening celebrated the semi-centennial of the opening of the present edifice in Orange Street.

Mrs. Maggie Van Cott, the evangelist, held a revival meeting last night at the Second Street Methodist Episcopal Church.

Page 3.

A woman caused a great crowd to gather in Broadway by throwing herself in front of a cable car and, when rescued, trying to take carbolic acid.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler of Elizabeth, N. J., has brought a suit for an injunction to prevent the building of the underground rapid transit road on the ground that the plans infringe a patent for safety arrangement of tracks and platforms.

Page 4.

Anson Van Sickle, a former palace car conductor, was arrested on a charge of obtaining railway passes by fraud.

It is said that some of the oldest officers of the Seventy-first Regiment may resign as a result of the clash over the election for Lieutenant Colonel and Junior Major.

Father Sheppard of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Jersey City, yesterday denounced the police from his pulpit for not closing up gambling houses in his parish.

Page 5.

The Speedway was alive with fast steppers yesterday, and a big crowd of spectators saw some good brushes.

Page 7.

Baxter Barker of 33 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, committed suicide yesterday.

The Twelfth Night Club held its annual celebration at the Berkeley Lyceum.

The Senate Prisons Commission in its report recommends radical changes in the management of prisons.

Appraiser Wakeman denied that he was responsible for the opposition to John Sabine Smith in the Republican Club.

Seth Low, in an address before the Central Federated Union, argued in favor of combinations of both capital and labor.

Republicans gave credence to the report that ex-Lieut. Gov. Charles T. Saxton would be appointed to succeed Superintendent of Insurance Payn.

Prof. Morrison of Mount Vernon, who killed one of his wives recently, said yesterday he fears he is going insane. He is a great cigarette smoker, consuming as many as ten packs of cigarettes a day.

Page 10.

The Rev. Dr. John E. Bushnell, co-pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, has offered his resignation.

The Rev. Dr. John D. Wells celebrated yesterday the fiftieth anniversary of his pastorate of the South Third Street Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn.

A fund was started for the erection of a monument to Father Malone, the first contributor being Mrs. Nannette Marks, a Brooklyn Jewess.

Announcement was made from the pulpit of the Brick Presyterian Church yesterday that the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke was too ill to preach a last sermon, and that he had deputed the preacher of the day, the Rev. James M. Farr, Jr., to bid the congregation farewell.

Arrivals at Hotels and Out-of-Town Buyers.—Page 2.
Court Calendars.—Page 9.
Losses by Fire.—Page 2.
Marine Intelligence and Foreign Mails.—Page 5.
Real Estate.—Page 9.
Weather Report—Page 3.
Yesterday's Fires.—Page 2.

COLOMBIA'S PRESIDENT DEAD.

Political Outlook Becomes More Complicated in Consequence.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 7.—Advices from Colombia received to-day report the death of President M. A. Sanclemente, which has created a new situation and greatly complicated the political outlook.

The insurgents are making the most of the changed conditions. Additional calls for men and loans made upon the State of Panama will, it is thought likely, provoke an open adherence to the revolutionary movement, as was the case in 1885, the present situation being intolerable.

MERCHANTS CASH BAD CHECKS.

Supposed Capitalist Victimizes the Business Men of Norwalk.

Special to The New York Times.

NORWALK, Conn., Jan. 7.—The business men of Norwalk were nicely taken in by a man who came to Norwalk representing himself as a Western capitalist, who had purchased a controlling interest in the South Norwalk Beef Company. The man gave his name as William T. Morgan, and was well provided with checks drawn upon the First National Bank of Winona, Minn. He hired a large house in Union Park, one of the most exclusive locations in town, and furnished it from top to bottom in the most expensive and improved style.

The bills were all paid by checks payable to Morgan and drawn by various fictitious persons. In each instance the check tendered was for considerably more than the amount of the bill. Morgan had been such a liberal purchaser the merchants were delighted to cash the checks and pay a snug sum in cash as a balance. To-day the merchants are vainly trying to trace their liberal customer, for nearly all his checks have come back protested and marked "No such person known."

To-morrow the merchants will again visit the house in Union Park, and cart back the goods they so willingly delivered there, but Mr. Morgan and the several hundred dollars he secured will not be there to greet them.

Prof. Mitchell Charged with Heresy.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Charges of heresy preferred against Prof. Hinckley G. Mitchell of Boston University were made public today. The nine students who signed them left the institution, and W. E. Verity, one of the signers, was recently unsuccessful in trying to get into the Drew Theological Seminary of Madison, N. J. President Warren refused to discuss the matter now, but will reply later. Prof. Mitchell says he has left the matter in the hands of the faculty.

RESCUED PRISONERS NOW SAFE IN MANILA

Lieut. Gillmore Tells of the Hardships of Captivity.

FREE WHEN RELIEF CAME

A Filipino Lieutenant, Ordered to Shoot Captives, Leaves Them to the Mercy of Savages.

MANILA, Jan. 7.—Lieut. J. C. Gillmore of the United States gunboat Yorktown, who wac captured by the insurgents last April near Baler, on the east coast of Luzon, and rescued a few days ago by Col. Luther R. Hare of the Thirty-third Volunteer Infantry, sat to-day in the apartment of his sister, Mrs. Major Price, at the Hotel Oriente, in Manila, and told a remarkable story of his eight months in captivity, ending with his dramatic deliverance from death that seemed inevitable.

The steamer Venus came into the harbor last evening from Vigan, Province of South Ilocos, with Lieut. Gillmore and nineteen other American prisoners, including seven of his sailors from the Yorktown.

Lieut. Gillmore, after reporting, came ashore and hobbled along, with the aid of a cane, to the Hotel Oriente, where American officers and ladies were waltzing through the halls to the strains of "Aguinaldo's March." Although tanned and ruddy from exposure, he is weak and nervous, showing the results of long hardships. He speaks warmly of Aguinaldo and very bitterly against Gen. Tino, declaring that, while under the former's jurisdiction, he was treated splendidly, but that after he fell into Tino's hands he suffered everything.

ABANDONED BY THE ENEMY.

Col. Hare and Lieut. Col. Howze, the latter of the Thirty-fourth Volunteer Infantry, rescued Gillmore's party on Dec. 18 near the headwaters of the Abalut River after they had been abandoned by the Filipinos and were expecting death from the savage tribes around them. When the rescuing force reached them they were nearly starved, but were building rafts in the hope of getting down the river to the coast.

Lieut. Gillmore says of the events immediately preceding the rescue:

"The Filipinos abandoned us on the night of Dec. 16. We had reached the Abalut River, near its source, that morning, and the Filipinos rafted us over. We then went down the stream, along a rough trail, guarded by a company of Filipinos. That night we were separated from this guard, and another company, armed with Mausers, was put in charge of us. I suspected something and questioned the Lieutenant in command. He said: 'I have orders from Gen. Tino to shoot you all, but my conscience forbids. I shall leave you here.'

"I begged him for two rifles to protect us from savages, adding that I would give him letters to the Americans, who would pay him well and keep him from all harm. He refused this, however, saying that he would not dare to comply. Soon afterward he left with his company.

FRIENDS TO THE RESCUE.

"We had seen some savages in war paint around us, and we prepared to fight them with cobblestones, the only weapons that were available. The next morning we followed the trail of the Filipino soldiers, feeling that it was better to stick to them than to be murdered by savages; but we could not catch up with them. Then I ordered the men to build rafts in the hope of floating down the river. It was a forlorn hope, but I knew the river must empty into the sea somewhere. I was so weak myself that I did not expect to get out, but I thought some of the men could.

"On the morning of Dec. 18, while we were working on the rafts, the Americans came toward us yelling. One of my men shouted, 'They are on us!' He was lashing a raft of bamboos. I, however, knew it was not the yell of savages, but the yell of Americans. The rescuing troops thought we had Filipino guards, and called to us in English to lie down, so that they could shoot the Filipinos. That was the finest body of officers and men I ever saw."

Lieut. Gillmore could not speak enthusiastically enough of the 140 picked men who had rescued him and his party.

The command spent the day in making rafts. Col. Hare thought Lieut. Gillmore too weak to live through the trip, but there was no alternative. They shot many rapids, the men losing all their effects and Lieut. Gillmore some valuable papers. Only fourteen out of thirty-seven rafts survived the first night's experience, and eighty men were practically unable to walk when Vigan was reached.

THE FLIGHT FROM BENGUET.

Describing the flight from Benguet when the Americans approached, Lieut. Gillmore said:

"The Filipinos, completely terrified, left Benguet on Dec. 7. They hurried the prisoners from town to town, often retracing the trail, not knowing where the Americans would attack. After being almost without food for three days, they killed several horses and we lived on horseflesh for several days. I did not have a full meal from Dec. 7 until I reached Vigan. Indeed, the rescuing party lived largely upon rice without salt. There was one day when I was reduced to chewing grass and bark.

"While we were in the hands of Gen. Tino's men, he issued an order that any person aiding an American by food or money should be treated as a criminal. One citizen of Vigan, Señor Vera, was probably killed for befriending us. We would have starved but for the kindness of some of the Presidents of the towns and some of the Filipino Colonels, but others treated us brutally. Wherever there was a prison we were kept there. When there was no prison they would lodge us in a convent. We suffered greatly from want of exercise, as well as lack of food."

For weeks Lieut. Gillmore was covered with boils and in great pain. When the Filipinos found the Americans were approaching the treatment become better. There was a sign painter in the party and he painted advertisements on the rocks throughout the retreat, with other emblems like a skull and the word "vengeance," by means of which the Americans were able to follow.

"The Filipino treatment of the Spaniards," said Lieut. Gillmore, "was brutal in the extreme. The insurgents had old grudges to wipe out against them. Many talk about the reconcentrados in Cuba, but I have seen Spaniards dying at the rate of two or three per day of starvation in the hospitals in Vigan. I have seen Tagalog officers strike Spaniards in the face with whips and revolvers."

Lieut. Gillmore declined to speak regarding political conditions, except to say that he thought the insurrection would last as long as there were any Tagalogs left.

The members of the party reported to Gen. Otis this morning. They were barefooted, sunburned, and ragged. Some carried rifles, others pet monkeys. They attracted a great deal of attention as they passed along the streets. Those whose enlistments are about expiring will be sent to the United States. The others will be returned to their respective organizations.

BETRAYED BY A PREACHER.

Among the prisoners arriving with Lieut. Gillmore were F. J. Hubert, Edward Burke, and J. J. Farley, sailors from the Urdaneta; Von Galen of the Baltimore, A. H. Gordon and George Sackett of the Third Infantry, Leland Smith and Frank Stone of the Signal Corps, Harry Huber of the Hospital Corps, William Bruce and Edward Honeyman of the Nevada cavalry, Martin Brennan and James Curran of the Sixteenth Infantry, Albert Bishop of the Third Artillery, and John O'Brien and David Brown, civilians.

Brown, who was formerly a preacher in Honolulu, twice revealed to the insurgents plots of the Americans to escape in the hope of gaining the goodwill of the Filipinos. The rest of the party openly accuse him of treachery, and entertain the bitterest feelings toward him.

Charles Baker of the Third Artillery was formerly one of the prisoners, but he became too weak to travel, and the Filipino guards bayonetted him during the last flight through the mountains.

The Yorktown's men who were rescued were W. Walton, Chief Quartermaster; Vandoit, sailmaker's mate; J. Ellsworth, coxswain; L. P. Edwards, landsman; A. J. Peterson, apprentice; F. Anderson, landsman, and S. Brisolese, seaman. At Baler J. Dillon, landsman, and C. A. Morrisey, landsman, were instantly killed; O. B. McDonald, seaman, and E. J. Nygard, gunner's mate, were mortally wounded, and D. W. A. Venville, apprentice, and O. W. Woodbury, seaman, were seriously wounded.

The prisoners of the party who escaped after leaving Vigan were MacDonald of the Twenty-first Infantry, Von Gahn of the Baltimore, and Farley of the Oregon. They were captured by savages, recaptured by the insurgents, who had stripped and prepared to beat them, and ultimately rescued by the Americans.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Navy Department to-day received the following cablegram from Admiral Watson:

"Manila, Jan. 6.

"Secretary Navy, Washington:

"Gillmore, Walton, Vandoit, Ellsworth, Brisolese, Anderson, Peterson, and Edwards arrived. Also Farley, Burke, and Herbert of Urdaneta. Only Venville unaccounted for. Last seen Baler, June 15."

SIXTY FILIPINOS KILLED.

American Troops Encounter Insurgents Near Imus—Lose Three Dead, Twenty Wounded.

MANILA, Jan. 7.—Reconnoissances out of Imus, Cavite Province, this morning resulted in the loss of three Americans killed and twenty wounded. The enemy's loss is estimated at sixty killed and eighty wounded. Col. Birkhimer, with a battalion of the Twenty-eighth Volunteer Infantry, advanced toward Noveleta. Major Taggart, with two battalions of the same regiment, moved toward Perez das Marinas. A part of the Fourth Infantry was engaged south of Imus.

FAITH CURE VS. DIPHTHERIA.

Man Living Near Pittsburg Refuses to Give Medicine to His Children—Two Are Dead, Another Ill.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 7.—Diphtheria and Christian Science have had a bitter battle in a New Brighton family for the past two weeks. Diphtheria has won so far. Two children are dead, while a third child and the father are dangerously ill with the same disease.

Frank Martsolf and his wife have been believers in Christian Science for three years and so confirmed in the doctrine are they that they have seen their two little ones die of malignant diphtheria and were willing to see their remaining child perish rather than take her case "out of the hands of the Lord."

Not until forced to do so by the health authorities would the parents permit a physician in the house. Even then the father refused to give the medicine prescribed, and the health officials were compelled to take the family in charge. When the first child, Nancy, died, Martsolf called on an undertaker to bury her. When asked for the certificate of death, he said there was none, and Coroner Taylor began an investigation. He found the second child, Roy, in the last stages of the disease, and ordered Dr. Boyd to treat him. The father refused to give the boy the medicine, and he died a few hours later. The health officials are now in charge, and may be able to save the third child and the father, both of whom are down with the disease.

Beaver Valley people are very much wrought up over the matter, and it is likely that Christian Science, with its prominent leaders in New Brighton, will be investigated by the courts.

LOSSES IN VOLUNTEER FORCE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—A pamphlet has just been issued by the Adjutant General's office under the title of "Statistical Exhibit of Strength of Volunteer Forces Called Into service During the War With Spain, With Losses from All Causes." The volunteer force consisted of 10,017 officers and 213,218 enlisted men, a total of 223,235, who were engaged in the war. The deaths numbered 148 officers and 4,356 men.

During the war 14 volunteer officers and 4 officers of the regular army holding volunteer commissions were killed in action; 3 died from wounds, 119 from disease, and 8 from other causes, of whom 3 were suicides. Of the enlisted men 190 were killed in action, 78 others dying from wounds received, and 3,729 from disease. There were, further, 159 deaths of enlisted men from various causes, 97 of whom died from accidents, 21 were drowned, 11 were suicides, and 30 were victims of murder or homicide. Desertions from the ranks numbered 3,069. The total losses in the volunteer forces were 1,718 officers, including 8 dismissed, besides resignations and discharges, and 30,588 men, including 23,363 discharged for disability by court-martial and by order.

In the list of officers killed in action, Kansas and South Dakota lead with 3 each, Nebraska had 2, while no other State had more than 1. Of enlisted men killed in action or dying from wounds received in action, Nebraska lost 32, Kansas 30, and South Dakota 24. New York lost 15, while 26 of the States had no losses.

In the total number of enlisted men who died from all causes New York leads with 417, Illinois 281, Massachusetts 274, Pennsylvania 239, Ohio 225, and Michigan 205. Nevada lost but 1 man.

The losses of men from murder or homicide were 2 from Alabama, 3 from North Carolina, 2 each from Florida, Kentucky, New York, and Virginia, and 1 each from nine other States, besides 7 among the United States volunteers. Of the suicides of enlisted men 3 each came from Alabama and New York, and 2 each from Florida, Kentucky, and Tennessee.

In deaths from disease among enlisted men New York had 380 out of about 20,000 enlisted; Illinois had 274 out of about 13,000; Massachusetts 265 out of about 6,800; Ohio 219 out of less than 14,000; Pennsylvania 216 out of less than 17,000; and Michigan 200 out of less than 6,600.

In desertions from the ranks New York is charged with 514, or about 2¼ per cent., while North Dakota and the District of Columbia had none, and Utah had but 1. Tennessee had 219 out of a total of about 6,000, about 4 per cent. One desertion is charged to "general officers and staff."

WEDDING STOPPED BY COURT.

Iowa Judge Enjoins a Man from Marrying a Young Girl.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Jan. 7.—Hugh Babbitt of Mills County, Ia., has secured an injunction to prevent a young man of the neighborhood from marrying his daughter. The application was made to Judge Smith of the District Court and granted promptly.

Lester Shay, who lives on an adjoining farm, fell in love with Pearl Babbitt, who is fifteen years old, and Pearl fell in love with him. Shay succeeded in getting a marriage license and purposed to marry the girl, even if the father was not willing. Seeing no other way to prevent it, Babbitt secured the injunction.

Shay is now debating whether it is worth while to disobey the injunction and spend the honeymoon in jail on the charge of contempt of court, or wait three years until his sweetheart is of age and equity courts will be powerless to interfere with him.

$10,000 More for Ohio Wesleyan.

DELAWARE, Ohio, Jan. 7.—Mrs. Elizabeth Mebarry of Richmond, Ind., who gave $50,000 last week to Ohio Wesleyan University, has added $10,000 to her fund, thus endowing two chairs.

Evening Here, Then Your Trip.
After January 6, boat for Lackawanna midnight train to Scranton, Binghamton, Syracuse, Elmira, Buffalo, Chicago, leaves Barclay Street 11:30 P. M., Christopher Street 11:40 P. M. Sleepers open 9 P. M.—Adv.

ASSAULT ON GEN. GREELY

Chief Signal Officer of the Army Badly Hurt at His Home.

Thrown Down the Steps of His Own Dwelling—Remained Unconscious About an Hour.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Gen. A. W. Greely, the Chief Signal Officer of the army and the well-known arctic explorer, lies in a serious condition at his home, 914 G Street Northwest, as the result of an assault committed on him about 8:30 o'clock to-night by Joseph C. Furnace, a messenger in the employ of the Adams Express Company. Gen. Greely will recover from his injuries his physician says, but he is badly hurt.

Furnace, who lives in Baltimore, spent today in Washington in company with a friend named George Murphy. They were drinking together until late in the afternoon when they started for a disreputable portion of the town. They lost their way and finally reached the Northwestern section of the city beyond the State, War, and Navy Departments.

They first tried to get admission to the residence of E. D. King, but being unable to do so continued on their way up G Street.

Twice they went to the house of Gen. Greely. The first attempt to obtain admission was made on the plea that they were friends of the family calling to pay a visit to the daughter of the General.

Later they made another effort and persisted in ringing the doorbell and otherwise creating a disturbance, until finally Gen. Greely went out to expostulate with them.

They refused to leave the house, and after some words Furnace seized the General and threw him down the long flight of stairs which ascend from the pavement to the house, which stands on a high terrace.

The fall cut a severe gash in the back of the General's head. He was picked up and taken into the house, and medical aid was summoned.

He remained unconscious for about an hour.

Murphy, who was with Furnace, took no part in the assault, but when he saw what his companion had done took to his heels and ran away. Furnace is twenty-three years of age. His run for the express company is between Baltimore and Cincinnati. He offers no excuse for his act. He was arrested and locked up in the police station.

GORMAN MAY GET BACK.

Understood in Maryland He Is Scheming for Re-entry Into the United States Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 7.—Ex-Senator Gorman's controlling influence over the large Democratic majority in the Maryland Legislature already is plainly apparent. A number of members of the Baltimore City delegation, in a desire to form an alliance with Eastern Shore members, to obtain support of the latter for city measures, are advocating re-enactment of the old Eastern Shore Senatorial elections law which required that one United States Senator be selected from the eastern side of the Chesapeake Bay.

Governor-elect Smith has been credited with an ambition to succeed Senator Wellington, who was elected after the Republican Legislature had repealed the Eastern shore law, but Col. Smith and his friends on the Eastern shore will not, it is said, oppose Mr. Gorman should he determine again to become a candidate for the Senate. Mr. Gorman's lieutenants have intimated that he will again be in the fight.

The Democratic Party managers will have the Legislature change the election laws enacted by the Republicans. They want to disfranchise the negro as far as possible. Representatives from the southern section known as the "black belt" are discussing plans for doing this, and they make the startling announcement that according to the decisions of the Court of Appeals they can make an educational qualification in Southern Maryland and such parts of the State as choose to come in that does not apply to other sections.

They talk of establishing the "True Australian Ballot System," and doubtless mean the placing of names on the ballot without emblems or names of parties, and doing away with the ballot clerks entirely. Word also will be passed for incorporated towns where the negro vote is heavy to get acts passed requiring a property qualification in all municipal elections.

Another scheme is to strip the County Commissioners of as much appointing power as possible, or, as one of them puts it, to "take away all hope of political preferment from the negro."

EXCISE LAW AMENDMENT.

Senator Wagner of Brooklyn Will Introduce Two Bills.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—Senator Wagner of Brooklyn has announced his intention of introducing two bills to amend the State excise law. One of these will be to reduce the number of rooms necessary for an applicant for a hotel license to have from ten, as is now required, to five.

The object of the other measure is to require a policeman to secure a warrant before making an arrest for violation of the excise law.

ALBANY POLITICIANS EXCITED.

Reported that Local Republicans Will Make a Clean Sweep.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—Local politicians are stirred up over the manner in which the Republican organization, which is now in control of municipal affairs, has begun to replace old officials with men who are loyal to William Barnes, Jr., and other organization leaders. The prediction is made that it is the intention of the organization to make a clean sweep.

Mr. Barnes has been told, however, by many Republicans that no radical changes should be made in the police, fire, and school systems, notwithstanding the pressure that has been brought to bear.

Commissioner Ham of the Department of Public Safety has certified to the Civil Service Board the name of Howard P. Foster for the non-competitive examination for Chief of Police. The examination will be held next Friday.

Over a Hundred Years Old.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 7.—One of the oldest men in Connecticut is an inmate of the Soldiers and Sailors' Home at Noroton. "I'm 100 years and 5 months old to the minute, and Irish to my backbone," he said yesterday when asked his age. He was then on his way to the dining room fifteen minutes ahead of time, which shows his appetite is not failing. He is in good health.

Improved and Double Daily Train Service Between New York and Atlantic City, via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Commencing January 16th the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will inaugurate a double daily service between New York and Atlantic City on week days on the following schedule: Leave New York, 23d St., 9:55 A. M., 2:40 P. M. Leave New York, Desbrosses and Cortlandt Sts., 10:00 A. M., 2.50 P. M., arrive Atlantic City 1:13 P. M., 6:03 P. M. Returning, leave Atlantic City 9:05 A. M., 2:20 P. M. Arrive New York, 12:28 P. M., 5:33 P. M. Both of these trains will be equipped with standard Pennsylvania Railroad Coaches and Pullman Buffet Parlor Cars. This is not only the best equipped but the most complete service ever maintained between New York and Atlantic City, and it adds greatly to the facilities of travel to that most popular resort.—Adv.

Beautiful, Swift, and Sure.
The "Royal Limited," exquisite in all appointments, leaves New York, South Ferry, and foot of Liberty St., daily, 3 P. M.; arrives Washington, 8 P. M. Unexcelled Dining and Café Car Service.—Adv.

FATHER M'GLYNN IS DEAD

The End Comes After a Long Illness at Newburg.

HE ONCE DEFIED THE POPE

Refused to Go to Rome to Answer Charges Made on Account of His Radical Views.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Jan. 7.—The Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn, rector of St. Mary's Church, died at the rectory shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon, after an illness of six weeks. Death was primarily due to Bright's disease. A minor surgical operation was performed on Dr. McGlynn last night by Dr. Charles E. Townsend, the attending physician, and Dr. Andrew V. Jova, but this did not affect the patient or contribute materially to his death. During the night Dr. McGlynn had several sinking spells, and the physicians were called early to his bedside, where they remained until he died.

At noon it was apparent that the end was near, and Dr. McGlynn received holy communion from the Rev. D. O'Connell, assistant rector of St. Mary's, who later administered extreme unction. After high mass in the morning Father O'Connell anointed Dr. McGlynn.

All efforts toward prolonging life were made by the physicians, but at 4 o'clock the priest lapsed into unconsciousness, his last audible prayer being:

"Jesus, have mercy on me." He passed away without recovering consciousness.

The cheerfulness that characterized Dr. McGlynn was exhibted to the last. Even when the physicians were using salt water to keep him alive a few hours longer, Dr. McGlynn evinced much interest, and finally remarked, "Well, the ways of physicians are wonderful."

The priests announced Dr. McGlynn's death in St. Mary's and St. Patrick's Churches to-night, but the congregations, after being told that there would be no services, remained to pray.

Archbishop Corrigan arrived at 8:10 o'clock, and proceeded at once to St. Mary's Rectory. He expressed deep regret at Dr. McGlynn's death, and said that he was especially sorry that he had not arrived before the end came. He was deeply moved when he entered the chamber of death and looked on the face of the dead, and commented sadly on the dead priest's emaciated appearance. He knelt with other clergy and said prayers. He then returned to St. Patrick's Rectory with Father Salley, after saying that he would call again to-morrow morning.

No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral. Dr. McGlynn's intimate friends Father O'Keefe and Father McCready will decide as to the time when they arrive. The funeral will be held not earlier than Wednesday.

The citizens of the city were preparing a testimonial for Dr. McGlynn, who celebrated his first mass in St. Mary's Church on New Year's Day, 1895, and who had been in the ministry for forty years. People of all denominations were to have united in honoring the priest, and a purse was to have been presented to him. He was beloved by Newburg people, and they purposed to show their affection for him. News of his death caused profound sorrow. Prayers had been offered in both Protestant and Catholic churches for his recovery.

Dr. McGlynn was first stricken with illness on Nov. 16, at the rectory. He was seized with a severe cold and was compelled to seek his bed. Though he was obliged to break engagements to lecture, no alarm was felt by his friends until the following Monday, when he suffered a severe chill. The first serious attack occurred Nov. 26, and a day or two later there was a consultation of physicians. It was announced that Dr. McGlynn was suffering from chronic kidney disease. Early in December Dr. McGlynn suffered two attacks of heart failure, and his relatives were hurriedly summoned. He rallied, and until Saturday night he appeared to be holding his own and gradually recovering strength. He was able to sit by his bedside for a few minutes each day, but was never able to leave his room. When he was stricken he was robust and of fine physique, but he became greatly emaciated by his long illness.

LIFE AND AIMS OF DR. McGLYNN.

A Popular Priest, and Supporter of Single Tax Theories.

The Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn was born in this city Sept. 27, 1837. His parents had come to America from Ireland thirteen years before that date, and his father became a contractor, in which vocation he accumulated a small fortune. The elder McGlynn died in 1847, leaving a widow and ten children.

Edward received his first education at the Thirteenth Street Grammar School. Archbishop Hughes was a friend of the McGlynn family. He was attracted by the bright and studious nature of the boy, and sent him to the Free Academy, now the College of the City of New York, and afterward to the College of the Propaganda, in Rome, it having been determined that Edward McGlynn should enter the priesthood. In 1859, after he had been in Rome eight years, the American College in that city was opened, and he was transferred there. He had received his doctorate after public examination, and in 1860 was ordained a priest.

Soon after his ordination Father McGlynn returned to this country, and was appointed assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church. The pastor of this church was the Rev. Thomas Farrell, who was noted for the liberality of his views and his advocacy of the higher education of children, and his association with this priest at the beginning of his career doubtless had a permanent effect upon Dr. McGlynn's opinions.

From the first Father McGlynn was known as an extremely hard worker, and so little did he spare himself that in 1862 his health broke down, and he was sent to Europe to recuperate. This was a short time after he had been appointed pastor of St. Ann's Church, in Eighth Street. Returning to this country, he was appointed Chaplain of the Central Park Military Hospital, and retained this position until after the close of the civil war.

When, in 1866, the Rev. Dr. Cummings, who had built St. Stephen's Church, in East Twenty-eighth Street, and had organized its large parish, was on his death bed, he asked Archbishop Hughes to appoint Dr. McGlynn as his assistant. The request was granted, and on Dr. Cummings's death, Dr. McGlynn succeeded him in the pastorate. In a short time he had obtained a reputation as one of the most prominent Roman Catholic priests in this city, and as a man of decided, and in those days almost revolutionary, views. His energy effected the enlargement and beautifying of the church, and the introduction of elaborate musical services, while his eloquence in the pulpit attracted immense congregations. But he still, as when he began his work as a priest, was every ready to sympathize with and help the poor and afflicted, and he grudged no time or trouble when called upon to comfort the members of his flock. He received $800 a year salary, and possessed some private means, but the whole of his income, except what was necessary to support his own frugal existence, was devoted to the poor.

The opening of St. Patrick's Cathedral took away a good many of the wealthier members of Dr. McGlynn's congregation, but the church remained crowded at almost every service, and no reduction was made in the sums expended on the various institutions connected with the parish. Among these was the Home for Destitute Children at New Dorp, S. I., in which several hundred little ones were provided for.

Dr. McGlynn first became famous throughout the country through his opposition to parish schools, which brought him into conflict with his ecclesiastical superiors. He declared that the public schools were good enough for all American children, and that Catholic children were perfectly secure in them from the danger of becoming perverts. Another proceeding of Dr. McGlynn's which was looked upon with disfavor by the Roman Catholic hierarchy was his open friendship with Protestant clergymen. On one occasion he even gave an address in Henry Ward Beecher's church.

But it was not until he became an enthusiastic supporter of the late Henry George that Dr. McGlynn actually defied his superiors. When "Progress and Poverty" appeared he was deeply impressed with the views it expressed, and he became one of the chief supporters of Mr. George during the latter's Mayoralty canvass in 1886. Dr. McGlynn would, it was announced, address a mass meeting at Chickering Hall on Oct. 1 of that year, and he was requested by Archbishop Corrigan not to do so. He paid no attention to the request, and in his speech declared that Mr. George was worthy not only to be Mayor of New York City, but President of the United States. For this act of disobedience Dr. McGlynn was suspended from the exercise of his pastoral functions for two weeks.

The suspension had no effect on the active support of Dr. McGlynn for the single tax candidate, and the protests of conservative Catholic priests and laymen were equally futile. A large number of the workmen in his congregation supported him and declared that they would stand by him whatever happened. Archbishop Corrigan, in despair of being able to accomplish his end in any other way, at last appealed to Rome, sending there copies of Dr. McGlynn's speeches in favor of the single tax doctrine. In December, 1886, the recalcitrant priest was ordered to appear before the Propaganda in Rome to answer the complaints against him. These were not only of disobedience to the Archbishop, but also on account of Dr. McGlynn's advocacy of Henry George's views, which were held by Cardinal Simeoni to be at variance with the teachings of the Church.

The more grave his position from an ecclesiastical point of view became the more defiant grew Dr. McGlynn. He paid no attention to the summons from Rome nor to another order to the same effect which, it was said, was sent to him several weeks later by the Pope himself.

Dr. McGlynn had been provisionally suspended from his pastorate, and at the end of December, 1886, Archbishop Corrigan deposed him from the exercise of priestly functions in this diocese and notified the other American Bishops and Archbishops of his action. This was a virtual deposition of Dr. McGlynn from the priesthood.

Thereupon a number of Dr. McGlynn's friends organized the Anti-Poverty Society, and he delivered Sunday evening addresses in connection with this organization. In some of these addresses he went further than ever before, and virtually declared himself an unbeliever in the supremacy of the Pope. He also made a tour of the West, and his followers raised the cry "No politics from Rome." For these and his previous offenses Dr. McGlynn was, in July, 1887, formally excommunicated.

When Mgr. Satolli came to this country as Apostolic Delegate, in 1892, he had instructions from the Pope to examine the case of Dr. McGlynn. The trial was held in the Catholic University, in Washington, and Dr. Burtsell explained Dr. McGlynn's attitude. The proceedings were conducted behind closed doors, but it was afterward reported that Dr. Burtsell was authorized by Dr. McGlynn to promise that the latter would not again promulgate doctrines unauthorized by the church. On Dec. 24 a statement was given out to the effect that Dr. McGlynn had been restored to the exercise of priestly functions.

Archbishop Corrigan, who had all along taken measures against Dr. McGlynn with extreme reluctance, expressed his pleasure at the termination of the conflict, and on Christmas morning the priest was the celebrant at three masses in Brooklyn. In the evening he spoke in Cooper Union before an immense and enthusiastic gathering, including the majority of his old parishioners. He did not utter a word of regret at the course he had taken, but, on the contrary, declared that he intended to continue advocating the single tax doctrines. Then he delivered an orthodox Christmas sermon.

His old parishioners hoped that Dr. McGlynn would be reappointed to St. Stephen's Church, but the Archbishop appointed him to Newburg. He remained a close friend of Henry George until the latter's death.

WALDORF GUESTS FRIGHTENED.

Thought Hotel Was Burning and Rushed from Their Rooms—C. D. Halsey's House Damaged.

There was almost a panic among the hundreds of guests in the Waldorf-Astoria when a few minutes after midnight last night they heard the fire engines dash up in front of the building. The report that the hotel was on fire spread from floor to floor with wonderful speed. That it is fireproof was for a moment lost sight of.

Remembering the Windsor horror the guests proposed to take no chances, and in scores they fled in their night clothes into the corridors, and many rushed down the stairways. Others ran to the elevators and clamored to be taken down.

The staff of clerks knew there was no danger, as the fire was not in the hotel, and the employes were dispatched through the building reassuring the frightened guests. They managed after awhile to quiet the majority.

The fire was in the home of Charles D. Halsey, at 5 East Thirty-third Street, just across Fifth Avenue from the hotel. Mr. Halsey is a banker at 45 Wall Street.

He, his wife and three-year-old boy, and several servants were at home. Mr. Halsey was aroused by the odor of smoke, and alarmed the servants. The coachman was sent to the basement to investigate, and came back saying the house was in danger, as the entire basement was in flames, having caught fire from the furnace.

Mr. Halsey took his wife and child into a neighbor's house, while the servants removed a lot of the furniture, some paintings, the plate, and such property as they could. The coachman sent in the alarm from the box at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street.

The firemen seemed to think it must be the Waldorf-Astoria, as they drove directly thither. The policemen on the adjoining posts made to the scene, and had plenty of work handling the immense crowd which had also gathered with the belief that it was the big hotel that was on fire.

From the first to the twentieth stories almost every window on the Fifth Avenue and Thirty-third Street sides of the hotel was opened, and men and women in their nightcloths looked out.

The fire spread to the first and second floors of Mr. Halsey's house, and for a few moments was spectacular. There was plenty of flame and smoke in quantities until the heavier apparatus was brought into play. Then the firemen easily controlled the fire.

Mr. Halsey was unable to give an estimate of his loss, but placed it at "several thousands." He did not return home with his family, preferring to accept his neighbor's hospitality for the balance of the morning.

Seeing the firemen depart with their engines and trucks, the Waldorf-Astoria guests were reassured, ley Camp, and all the troops in the camp turned out promptly and advanced into the plain.

"A SERIOUS ACCIDENT."

Gen. French Reports That One Has Happened to Suffolk Regiment—Seventy Men Left in Boers' Hands.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The War Office publishes the following dispatch from Gen. Forestier-Walker, commanding at Cape Town:

"Gen. French reports, under date of Jan. 5: 'The situation is much the same as yesterday, but I regret to report that a serious accident has happened to the First Battalion of the Suffolk Regiment.'

"From news just come to hand from them I gather that, with the authority and with the knowledge of Gen. French, four companies of the First Battalion advanced by night against a low hill one mile from their camp. They attacked at dawn. Lieut.-Col. Watson, commanding, gave orders to charge. He was at once wounded. Orders for retirement were given.

"Three-quarters of the force retreated to camp. The remainder held their ground until they were overpowered by greater numbers, when they surrendered. Seventy were taken prisoners, including seven officers.

"Gen. French reports that the Boer commando, which made the attack on Jan. 4, lost fifty killed, besides wounded and prisoners. The commando was dispersed."

In a later dispatch Gen. Forestier-Walker, telegraphing from Cape Town to-day, says:

"There is no change in the situation as regards Lord Methuen and Gen. Gatacre:

"Referring to my earlier dispatch to-day, I have to report that Gen. French reports, under date of Jan. 6, that a medical officer has been sent out to collect all the wounded to the northeast of Colesburg. The exact list of persons missing French has not yet ascertained. Probably about seventy. The First Battalion of the Essex Regiment has been sent to replace the First Battalion of the Suffolk.

"The position of affairs, tactical and strategic, is without alteration. A Boer medical officer admits it was intended to leave Colesburg. The enemy's loss day by day from our fire has been heavy."

THE BOERS CAPTURE KURUMAN.

After Bombarding the Town They Take 120 Prisoners and 70 Natives, with Ammunition.

PRETORIA, Jan. 4.—Field Cornet Visser, under date of Jan. 3, reports as follows from Kuruman, British Bechuanaland:

"I commenced a bombardment of Kuruman yesterday (Monday) morning, aiming at the police barracks. The fight lasted until 6 in the evening, when the garrison surrendered, issuing from the forts and yielding up arms.

"We took 120 prisoners, including Capt. Bates and Capt. Dennison, Mr. Hilliard, the Magistrate, and eight other officers. We also captured seventy natives, together with a number of rifles and revolvers and a quantity of ammunition.

"Fifteen British were wounded. They are being attended by us with the help of Dr. Bearne, an English physician.

"The horses, oxen, "mealies," and flour taken from the prisoners have been sent to Pretoria by way of Vryburg."

Kuruman, or New Litaku, is a town in British Bechuanaland, about ninety miles west by south from Vryburg, on the headwaters of a river of the same name. There is a mission station there, and it is the seat of a resident Magistrate.

BRITISH LEAVE DORDRECHT.

LORENZO MARQUES, Jan. 4.—A dispatch from the Boer headquarters near Dordrecht says:

"The British have been compelled to retreat from Dordrecht. Fighting continues around Colesberg, where the British occupy some of the outside kopjes. Bullets are dropping inside the town."

BRITISH FEAR A DUTCH COUP.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, dealing, in a dispatch dated Jan. 5, with the excitement caused by rumors of a Dutch coup, which the authorities pronounced baseless, says:

"A local paper to-day asks why, if it be 'baseless,' the guards of all the public buildings are trebled every night, that the patrols scour the roads converging at Cape Town, that troops are encamped at Greenpoint, that the volunteers sleep under arms and have orders to rendezvous instantly on hearing guns fired from the batteries.

"To-day the authorities issued notices warning the public of the danger of being fired upon if they approach posts guarded by sentries at night time and do not stop when challenged. The public has also been notified that all boats approaching the British cruiser Niobe, anchored in the bay, must carry a light or take the risk of being fired upon from the cruiser."

ANOTHER BRITISH DIVISION.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The War Office has already decided upon immediate steps for sending an Eighth Infantry Division to South Africa. Some of the regiments for this division will be taken from Gibraltar and Malta. They will be replaced by militia.

BOERS TAMPER WITH BASUTOS.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The Times publishes the following dispatch from Lorenzo Marques:

"I learn on unimpeachable authority that the Free Staters are still actively sowing disaffection among the Basutos. It is believed that some of the minor chiefs have received their advances not unfavorably.

"A Basuto interpreter to the Free State Government recently took the son of a Basuto chief to Pretoria to show him the British prisoners there, as proof of the Boer victories. It is believed, however, that with Chiefs Jonathan and Lerothodi loyal and very desirous of attacking the Boers, these intrigues will not result seriously.

"Although the Boer agents and their foreign satellites have done little during the past week in securing supplies for the Transvaal, they are still very active, the centre of the whole machinery being Consul Fott, who, besides holding the agencies of various Steamship lines, is the manager of the Empresa Africana Landing Company, which is the leading landing agency here. He is therefore able to facilitate the discharge of cargoes intended for the Transvaal.

"There is reason to believe that the controlling interest in the Empresa Africana Landing Company is held by the Donald Currie Company, Stevn & Morrison, and Charles Hutchins of Natal. Similarly the local agency of the Sheba Gold Mine is in the hands of a German firm notorious for persistent efforts to render services to the Transvaal.

"Some local British banks also assist this business of the forwarding agents by the acceptance of Boer drafts for collection, and by issuing the recently minted Transvaal coinage. This is important presumptive evidence that the Boers are securing an important quid pro quo. Already wool to the value of some £15,000 has been exported by the Boer Republic by way of Delagoa Bay."

BRITISH AND BOER ARRESTS.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 6.—Several Colonial irregulars of Dutch extraction have been brought here under arrest. They are suspected of treachery.

The Cape Argus learns from Pretoria that fifty British subjects in Pretoria and Johannesburg have received their passports for "abuses of privilege." The same paper is informed that seven British subjects holding permits have been arrested at Zeerust.

BRITISH CANNON FOR BOERS.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—It is asserted that the customs authorities on the River Thames have detained two outgoing steamers and seized two large guns and six Maxims, packed in piano cases, intended for the Transvaal. It is also said that a quantity of foodstuffs on another vessel have been seized.

A "CORPS OF GENTLEMEN."

LONDON, Jan. 8.—It has been decided, with the approval of the War Office, to raise a corps of gentlemen for service in South Africa as mounted infantry, forming an integral part of the Imperial Yeomanry. The corps will be raised unit by unit throughout the kingdom. Any civilian having the necessary qualifications in respect of riding and shooting will be eligible, as well as any former member of the army.

The scheme of enrollment will enable group of friends to serve in the same corps. Those who have been accustomed to tracking big game in uncivilized countries will be especially qualified.

WARSHIPS WATCH FOR STEAMER

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—A dispatch from Rome says that the British warships Vulcan, Thetis, Astraea, and Hebe have received orders to keep watch for a steamer which recently sailed from the Baltic for South Africa. It is believed that she is carrying contraband of war.

Complaints of Boer Harshness.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail, dated Jan. 6, from Durban, says: "H. M. S. Widgeon brings from Delagoa Bay a number of British ambulance men who were captured at Dundee and subsequently released. They accuse the Boers of harshly treating prisoners taken from the British irregular corps. Several Americans among the civilians complain bitterly that their Consul at Pretoria ignored their representations, although no charge had been preferred against them."

Earl of Ava Badly Wounded.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—According to a private telegram received in London, the Earl of Ava, son of the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, was dangerously wounded in the thigh during a recent assault on Ladysmith.

REVOLT AGAINST BRITAIN?

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—"Lift up your eyes, French-Canadians, for the day of your redemption is at hand." La Semaine Religieuse, the organ of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the Province of Quebec, which is published at the Franciscan Monastery, in Quebec, and under the authorization and supervision of his Grace Archbishop Begin, thus opens a long article in this week's issue on "Anglomania in Canada." Continuing, La Semaine Religieuse says:

You, (French-Canadians,) beaten and conquered by England, ever hated and oppressed by the race which is your enemy, whose children are forced to speak the language of their oppressors in the schools of the United States and Manitoba, you shall at last see the star of your liberty rise for you and your rights respected by those who have so long violated them.

The developments of the war in South Africa lead La Semaine Religieuse to speak in this strain of what it refers to as the approaching emancipation of the French-Canadians. The article is an exceedingly interesting one, as expressing the sentiments of the French-Canadian clergy regarding the loyalty of French-Canadians to Great Britain.

The attitude of the Church in Canada toward the possible annexation of this country to the United States is also set forth with considerable emphasis. After speaking of what it calls the rabid hostility of the English Protestants in Canada to the French-Canadians, the article continues:

The situation would become much more critical for the French-Canadian race if the Anglomaniacs of Ontario and of Canada, instead of being little sympathetic with the Yankees and their Republic, as they are just at present, should become reconciled with them and undertake to bring about the annexation of Canada to the United States. Such a reconciliation is quite possible, for the hatred of the Catholic religion and the French-Canadian race is profound among a very great number of English Protestants in the country; it may easily lead them to forget the secondary differences which divide them and unite them in a firm alliance against the religion and the race which they hate.

Once annexed to the United States, Canada would become rapidly and wholly English. Engulfed in the turbulent sea of American life, swallowed up in the mire of the national schools, immersed in the great swirl of Yankee business, could we long retain our French-Canadian traits and characteristics? What, indeed, would there be left of us at the end of fifty years or so? Would not ours be the fate which was that of our former compatriots of New Orleans? We believe that if Canada became a part of the United States another century would see us without a trace of the spirit, the language, or the customs of our fathers.

Turning next to the outlook with regard to the continuance of Great Britain as a world power of the first class, the article says:

Does not this great colonial empire, which extends over one-half of the earth, resemble Nebuchadnezzar? One single stone loosened from nobody knows where, might it not crumble to powder this colossus which now astonishes the universe? Spain once had immense colonies in the whole world; what has she to-day?

For three centuries has Great Britain sent out her bands of mercenaries to all the isles of the ocean and to all the plains of the continents; will she not some day in turn see hostile armies descend upon her hills and ravage her cities.

The people of the earth have at length awakened from their stupor and their torpor with regard to England and have solemnly branded her the great corruptress of the globe, the unjust dominatrix, the queen of evil and of misfortune; they are preparing now to cast her under the ban of the civilized world.

All the accumulated wrath of three centuries may suddenly and brusquely let loose in a terrible tempest which shall overwhelm and cast down this colossus. At the present moment England carries herself with a superb arrogance which seems to defy not only all the peoples of the earth, but to carry itself to heaven even. Who knows but very soon she may crave mercy of the nations she has so insolently treated and humbly ask that they may leave her some few fragments only of her ancient empire? And when the other peoples shall have burst their yokes shall the French-Canadians continue to endure the oppression? The chances of the fight, so long favorable to the oppressors, are at last with us.

More complete still will be our emancipation if the United States are enveloped in the same punishment with England, as they have shared with her the odium of the same system of oppression and domination of others. We have seen the opposition to the French-Canadian race which has shown itself in Americanism and which is indeed the basis and essence of it.

If this insolent Republic be with England humiliated, and if the English race be stricken in Europe and in America by the justice of man and the justice of Heaven, it will be less insolent to the rest of the world and will leave to French-Canadians to freely develop their own country.

The paper announces a continuance of this article next week. It is unsigned, and occupies the first six pages of the paper, which are always reserved for the special utterances of the Church in Quebec as indorsed by the Archbishop.

HIBERNIANS TO AID BOERS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. — The National officers of the Ancient Order of Hibernians met in this city to-day, and later issued this statement to the public:

"The National officers met in Washington to discuss a demand on the part of a large majority of the representatives of our 150,000 members that the order render some assistance to the Boers in the Transvaal. It was agreed to render any assistance compatible with our loyalty as American citizens, and which would not interfere with the neutrality laws of the United States.

"We are impressed with the splendid precedent shown by the Republic in going to war with Spain to free Cuba from the oppression of that country. We believe that American sympathy is with the Boers, and that we are acting in accord with the principles which urged the United States to carry the flag in a struggle for the liberation of the gallant Cuban. Our people would flock to the armies of America if the Government marched to the assistance of the South Africans.

"It is unnecessary for the Hibernians to proclaim their loyalty to the United States, but it becomes them to state that no act of theirs will be contrary to the laws. Knowing the character of the British Government, its cruelty, its ambition, we are desirous to assist the citizens of a sister republic in their struggle to defeat English aggression. What kind of aid will be given we cannot state at the present time, but certainly it will be of a practical nature and acceptable to the Boer Government.

"Were this Nation the antagonist of England we could from our ranks send fifteen to twenty regiments of the best fighting material the world ever saw. In fact, in any just cause in which the United States may see fit to draw the sword the society would respond as it did in the former wars. The Irish regiments of Illinois, Michigan, Massachusetts, and New York were largely recruited from our ranks, and in some of the regiments of United States regulars recently sent to the front are divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians duly affiliated with the parent order in this country. The order at large is hopeful that the Government will yet rise to the wishes and hopes of the Irish-Americans and extend to the brave Boer the sympathy France gave to this country in 1776."

SEIZES A HAWAIIAN ISLAND.

TACOMA, Washington, Jan. 7.—News comes from Honolulu that Cocoanut Island, the most famous and picturesque bit of sea beach and palm grove in all Hawaii, has been seized by C. D. Pringle, an ice cream merchant of Hilo, and claimed by him upon squatter's rights. The Hawaiian Government lays claim to the island as having been set aside by the old monarchy as the site for a quarantine station for Hilo Harbor.

Minister of the Interior Young has notified Pringle to depart, but instead of doing so the ice cream man has thrown up fortifications within the cocoanut grove and is prepared to defend his claim by force of arms. Pringle will appeal his case to Washington and attempt there to find some law that will sustain him as a squatter.

FINDS FORTUNE IN A BOOK.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 7.—John B. Pankey, manager of the English Hotel, at English, Crawford County, while looking through the wareroom of the hotel to-day found a book with the name of Philip McDonnough of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., written on the flyleaf.

Between the leaves of the book were four $100 bills, one $500 bill, and two $1,000 bills. The book is entitled "Protestantism and Catholicism Compared in Their Efforts on the Civilization of Europe."

Mr. Pankey has no idea how the book came to be in the wareroom of the hotel, nor does he recall ever having had a guest by the name of McDonnough at his hotel.

B. Altman & Co.

LADIES' COTTON SHIRT WAISTS

EARLY SPRING STYLES.

Latest designs in Shirt Waists of Allover Swiss, Embroidery, Plat Val Lace, Embroidered French Revering, Mercerized Zephyrs, Oxfords, Madras, Dimities, Percales and Persian Lawns.

PLYMOUTH'S HALF CENTURY

Fiftieth Anniversary of the Opening of Historic Edifice.

Church Members Affected by Memories of Beecher—Dr. Hillis Recalls Great Men's Tributes.

Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, celebrated last evening the semi-centennial anniversary of the opening of the present edifice in Orange Street. It was a night of reminiscences for the congregation. Not the least interesting part of the programme was the musical service, which had been especially arranged for the occasion by the organist and director, G. Waring Stebbins. Among the hymns sung were several which were favorites of Mr. Beecher.

Gen. Horatio C. King presided at the celebration. Prayer was offered by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, and then papers containing the reminiscences of Mrs. Howard, widow of John T. Howard, one of the organizers of the church, and George H. Day, the oldest living member of the church, were read. There were also reminiscences by ex-Senator Joseph M. Griswold and Thomas G. Shearman. Mr. Shearman spoke on "The Great Revival of 1858."

Frederick W. Hinrichs read a number of extracts from Mr. Beecher's sermon at the opening of the church. Many persons in the church were deeply affected as these were read.

An address by Dr. Hillis followed. He said in part:

"Frederic Harrison has said that every historic structure is an everlasting possession. It is to be approached with such reverence as we give to the painting of an old master, the manuscript poem of some Milton, the statue by Phidias. For these precious possessions are, indeed, heirlooms of our fathers, records of our history, tablets that preserve for us memory of great men and deeds of noblest renown.

"And from this view point the building wherein we stand represents for us holy ground. Of this pulpit, it may be said, 'The altar burned with fire, yet the altar was not consumed.' Of these pews we must affirm that each has been consecrated not by the laying on of hands, but baptized by tears of penitence and aspiration. To Jacob sleeping under the midnight sky came the vision of a ladder let down from heaven upon which angels were ascending and descending. At that place the youth set up altars of remembrance. And sitting in some of these pews some of us have found heaven so near that short, indeed, seemed the ladder required to join earth and skies that seemed so low that they brooded over us. For the true priest is the human heart. Sacred, indeed, are the seats into which we have come with darkened minds to find the clouds parting, and to behold the vision splendid.

"We have come, weighted down with heavy burdens, and lo! at a touch, they have melted and passed away. Long ago John Milton said, 'As well kill a good man as a good book,' and when a few years ago the English nation was engaged in restoring her cathedrals, and often ruining them in the restoration, a lover of those sacred shrines changed the saying to 'Better kill a good man and a good book than injure a historic building.' Through noble associations, sacred forever the Parthenon. Sacred, too, England's old Abbey, in which her noblest dead do sleep. Sacred, too, that window and table in Edinburgh in the room in which John Knox wrote, and that room in Stockbridge in which Jonathan Edwards penned his plea for the liberty of the will. Sacred to the end of time, also are Independence Hall and Faneuil Hall. All these buildings have associations with the history of art and religion and liberty.

"But for us, thrice sacred this room, this threshold, into which for fifty years have come the eager multitudes, to be inspired, while our seer and the later teacher taught of beauty, traced the rugged truth and brought divine stimulus to bear upon the conduct and character. To these doors, through all the years, the eager multitudes have pressed and thronged, and here have found the rock gushing forth its living stream and the heavens raining hidden manna.

"And with the multitude hither have come the sons of greatness and goodness. Hither came Dean Stanley, from his pulpit in Westminster Abbey, and in return for Mr. Beecher's sermons, left upon this platform his own book, and on the flyleaf these words, 'For gold I give thee brass.' Hither came Charles Kingsley, preacher, novelist, social reformer, lover of his fellow-men, and with streaming eyes exclaimed: 'That which I have tried to do for thirty years, and have failed in doing—to interpret the love of God to sinful men—has been here set forth in perfect and final form.' Borne down by his weight of responsibility, hither came Gov. Morton of Indiana, who left this testimony, that his friend, who was a prophet of God seemed to him also the wisest statesman with whom he ever counseled. And hither came Edwin M. Stanton, who in the darkest hour of the war, in his discouragement turned toward Plymouth pulpit, and wrote: 'Let me tell you that often and often in dark hours you have come before me, and I have longed to hear your voice, feeling that above all men you could cheer, strengthen, guide, and uphold me in this great battle, where, by God's providence, it has fallen to me to perform a duty and hold a post beyond my own strength.'"

During the evening a thanksgiving hymn, composed for the occasion by Gen. King, was sung.

CUMMINS MEN STILL FIGHT.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 7.—This was a day of rest among the politicians. Absolute calm has succeeded the storm of the past week. His nomination at the Republican House caucus last night assures the election of D. H. Bowen as Speaker when the House meets to-morrow, and no one can be found to question the re-election of Senator Gear. The Cummins men still maintain an unbroken front.

Mr. Cummins has not withdrawn, and H. W. Byers, speaking to-night for the Cummins forces, declared a count of votes would be insisted upon. No one claims, however, that Cummins will be elected, and it is altogether likely that when the Republican joint Senatorial caucus is held Monday night Gear's nomination will be given him by acclamation.

Some surprise has been expressed to-day that Cummins should remain in the race when his defeat is evident. The reason is readily seen when the true nature of the Senatorial contest is understood. More than a contest between two men for office has been in progress. It has been a fight between factions of the Republican Party for supremacy. The machine which is in power has been fighting for its life. The contest between the machines will be carried into the State Republican Convention next year.

The General Assembly will convene at noon to-morrow, but little will be done beyond the formal election of the House and Senate officers selected at last night's caucuses.

Gov. Shaw's biennial message will be sent to the Assembly Tuesday. It will deal largely with State affairs. Gov. Shaw will "point with pride" to the surplus of $800,000 in the State Treasury, indorse the Board of Control of State Institutions, established by the last Legislature, and recommend liberal appropriations for State Institutions, and especially for the educational institutions. The establishment of more Normal Schools will be recommended.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

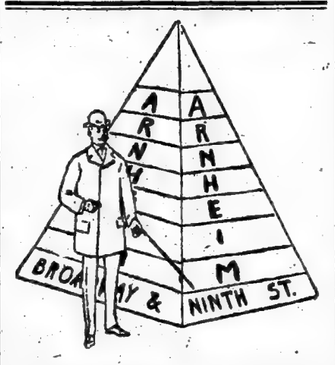
STECK

"THE OLD RELIABLE."

Of 42 Years' Renown.
Standard of Perfect Workmanship.
Independent Iron Frame, Pat., Insures Ideal Musical Tone and Marvelous Durability.
Only Pianos Improving With Use.
Sold, Rented and Exchanged.
Cash or Time Payment.

Warerooms: 11 E. 14th St.

PIANOS



At the bottom of it all is the perfection we spare neither brains nor pains to give you. The goods at our remnant sale, though less in price, are not less in value. Suits formerly from $16.00 to $30.00, now $14.00; trousers, $5.00 to $10.00, now $4.00. Satisfaction insured or money back!

ARNHEIM,

OUR ONLY STORE,

BROADWAY & 9TH STREET.

CLUB'S DEWEY RECEPTION.

Brooklyn Union League Preparing to Honor Admiral and His Wife.

The Union League Club of Brooklyn is leaving nothing undone in its preparations to make its reception to Admiral and Mrs. Dewey on Feb. 8 a memorable affair. The sub-committees for the reception were announced yesterday. Col. Hibbard B. Masten is Chairman of the general committee in charge of the reception. The Dinner Committee is composed of Elihu Dwight, William S. Buchanan, Thomas L. Wells, Horace M. Carlton, and Henry Carson; Committee on Invitations—Marshall P. Davidson, John S. McKeon, and William F. Fuller; Committee on Decorations—James F. Bendernagel, David Thornton, and Thomas Bishop; Music Committee—Warren E. Hill, William J. Gilpin, and A. J. Dudley.

The affair is to be as private as possible. Admiral Dewey will first sit down to a dinner with the Board of Governors, the officers, and former officers of the club. Following the dinner a reception will be held in the parlors.

President Fiske Resigns.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Dr. Franklin W. Fiske, President of the Chicago Theological Seminary, has resigned and will retire from active work next May. He then will have completed his fortieth year of connection with the seminary and will be eighty years old.

AT THE HOTELS.

WALDORF—Ritaro Hirata, Tokio, Japan; Henry H. Townsend, Boston; W. E. Chalcraft, Toronto; G. Shaw Washington; James D. Stewart, Amsterdam; E. L. Whitmore, Butte, Mon.

CAMBRIDGE—Edward B. Hilton, Paris.

PARK AVENUE—Dr. F. S. Bishop, St. Louis; Lieut. J. B. Wilkins, United States Army.

MURRAY HILL—F. Sprague, Chicago; Nelson P. Graves, Philadelphia; Clifford S. Sage, Boston.

HOLLAND—Medill McCormick, Chicago; T. H. Howe, Chicago; C. R. Hudson, Mexico; L. S. Storrs, St. Paul.

GRAND—Ensign L. B. Jones, United States Navy; F. J. Videgaray, Monterey, Mexico.

IMPERIAL—T. T. Lyon, Montana; R. S. Stringfellow, Montgomery, Ala.; A. W. Shaw, Chicago; Miles Fenton, Butte, Mon.

BUCKINGHAM—Murray Nelson, Jr., Chicago.

MANHATTAN—J. W. Deane, Boston; A. M. C. Treadgold, London; C. F. Tiffany, Washington; Henry Mason, Chicago; Milton Clark, Rochester.

PLAZA—Charles M. Van Heusen, Albany; A. Pententone, Chicago; J. Wesley Pullman, Philadelphia.

NETHERLAND—H. H. Hackett, New Haven; Coburn Haskell, Cleveland.

SAVOY—H. M. Watts, Philadelphia; Isaac Schwab, St. Louis.

ALBEMARLE—J. M. Cogswell, United States Volunteers

GILSEY—W. H. Stetson, Pittsburg; F. B. Reece, London; Charles Counselman, Chicago.

HOFFMAN—Gustav Grau, Rochester; Thomas James Meagher, Philadelphia; H. N. Beresford, Boston; A. N. Brady, Albany.

FIFTH AVENUE—Bishop J. L. Spaulding, Pecria, Ill.; A. Bermudez, Barcelona, Spain; Senator J. M. Thurston, Nebraska; ex-Senator H. W. Blair, New Hampshire.

ASTOR—Gen. S. S. Yoder, Washington.

Silver Martelé, as represented by articles made by THE GORHAM COMPANY, Silversmiths, has received the endorsement of art lovers everywhere. These productions make the handsomest and most distinguished Wedding Presents.

Silver Martelé is a renaissance of old methods in designing and working of silver, adopted by THE GORHAM COMPANY several years ago. The term Silver Martelé can only be applied to such products as are the result of original design wrought out by the hand of an artistic craftsman. Let it be remembered that each article of Silver Martelé is a distinct creation of which there is no duplicate.

Beauty of design and excellence of workmanship are the distinguishing characteristics of the articles in Silver Martelé made by THE GORHAM COMPANY, and their possession is a delight to persons of artistic taste.

A WOMAN WINS CONVERTS

Mrs. Van Cott Preaches at Second Street Methodist Church.

The Evangelist, with Her Exhortation, Moves Some of the Congregation to Tears.

Several persons of both sexes declared last night at the Second Street Methodist Episcopal Church that they had been converted in the course of what was the most notable so far of a series of revival meetings by Mrs. Maggie N. Van Cott, the evangelist, whose name is identified with the records of many years of revival and camp meeting work in New York State and elsewhere, and who has just returned from the West.

The meeting opened with a selection of popular hymns from the collection known as "Heart Melodies." The singing was with organ and cornet accompaniment. Mrs. Van Cott is no respecter of tempo. She insists that all tunes shall be sung in quick time and with spirit, wherefore in the deep, powerful voice peculiar to her she repeatedly exhorted the congregation to "sing this hymn with vim. Don't give us the Dead March," and beat the measure with her fan.

The Rev. Mr. Tibbit of Dover, N. J., delivered a prayer with an eloquence that moved the people to give expression to the fervor with which it inspired them with many loud ejaculations of "Amen," "Yes, indeed," "Please the Lord," "Hallelujah." Not a few emotional persons wept. Mr. Tibbit concluded his invocation by praying that God would bless His handmaiden, Mrs. Van Cott, and that she might be the means of saving more souls that night than ever before.

Mrs. Van Cott followed with a prayer, in which she besought God to bless her after He had blessed everybody else. Then, in ringing tones and with dramatic gestures, she preached.

"If God to-night should rise in judgment against those in this city who despise Him," said she, "there would be scarcely a house in which some person was not slain. At this very hour there are tens of thousands of people in dens of vice. There are men walking up and down this city who are members of churches and who claim to be religious, yet who exclude religion from their business and argue that one day in the week is sufficient in which to walk with God. If a man will not stop in his business life to speak of Jesus, he is mighty mean. There are too many who profess religion and do not possess it.

"My whole life was a lie and a shame before God until He opened my eyes. I stood on the brink of the chasm of eternal despair. My feet were slipping, when I saw my awful danger, and cried to God for help in my terror. God heard my cry. He stretched forth His hand to me, and planted my foot upon the Rock of Ages, and put a new song in my mouth.

"Every soul we save is a star in our eternal crown. I am desperately in love with Jesus. I don't want to cast a starless crown at His feet. I want it to be so starred that it shall illumine the Throne of God! There are those who sell their souls for a mess of pottage until they feel death's icy grip about their vitals. Then they cry, 'Lord, save us!' Come, let us settle up to-night, let us be saved now, for we know not when we may be called, and if we be not saved we cannot enter the glory of the Kingdom of God."

More singing followed this address, after which Mrs. Van Cott invited all those who wanted to get to heaven and be soul-gatherers for the Kingdom to come nearer to Jesus by kneeling at the rail in front of the platform. A score of men, women, and children responded, and she prayed for them. At her request the Rev. A. C. Morehouse, pastor of the church, offered a prayer, and while he was thus engaged she went among the congregation, putting her arm around the shoulders of the kneeling women and laying her hand on the shoulders of the men, and inquired about their souls.

Next Mrs. Van Cott exhorted all men under forty years of age who were truly repentant to go behind a curtain. She sought to encourage them by making individual appeals. Three men responded. A similar appeal to women under thirty-five years of age brought a dozen to the brief talk and prayer she held with them.

The exercises concluded with the Doxology sung in quick time several times, and, at the exhortation of Mrs. Van Cott, general handshaking. Mrs. Van Cott will hold services every night this week, including Saturday. To-morrow night there will be a "regular old-fashioned Methodist love feast," and the evangelist, in announcing the fact last night, requested every woman to bring four loaves cut into small pieces and wrapped up in tissue paper.

YESTERDAY'S FIRES.

(From 12 o'clock Saturday night until 12 o'clock Sunday night.)

12:40 A. M.—328 and 342 East Fifty-ninth Street; Franklin M. Wise and others; damage, $50,000.

1:50 A. M.—135 West Seventy-first Street; owner unknown; damage slight.

8:45 A. M.—720 Trinity Avenue; William Hoffmuster; damage, $25.

8:50 A. M.—733 Fifth Street; owner unknown; damage, $25.

9:45 A. M.—344 First Avenue; J. Goldstein; damage, $4,000.

10:00 A. M.—249 Stanton Street; M. Gross; damage slight.

3:40 P. M.—482 Greenwich Street; Max Kusner; damage, $5.

4:10 P. M.—430 West Seventeenth Street; Hugh Johnson; damage slight.

5:45 P. M.—19 East One Hundred and Nineteenth Street; Louis Davis; damage, $500.

5:50 P. M.—240 Fifth Avenue; W. A. Arnold; damage, $1,000.

7:15 P. M.—Oliver Place and Marion Avenue; Mrs. Williams; damage slight.

7:50 P. M.—2,127 Third Avenue; James Cullen; damage, $25.

8:15 P. M.—186 South Street; Edward O'Donnell; damage slight.

8:50 P. M.—135 Orchard Street; Morris Luszfig; damage, $5.

9:25 P. M.—197 Seventh Avenue; A. Gebert; damage, $25.

The Attractions of Our Stores Are Their Low Prices.

Macy's

R. H. Macy and Co

Both sides of 14th St. (Running from 13th to 15th St.), Sixth Ave.

Culled from our yesterday's advertisements—a brief recapitulation—concise, striking, alluring.

Continuation of the Undermuslin Sale—the original variety is still intact: Corset Covers, 14c. to $3.99; Night Gowns, 39c. to $10.42; Petticoats, 29c. to $12.99; Drawers, 9c. to $5.25. And we show a fine assortment of imported handmade Underwear—charming French conceits at modest prices.

Continuation of the Embroidery Sale—Edgings, 5c, 7c, 9c, 11c, 14c and 19c; All-overs, 49c, 69c, 89c, 98c, $1.29 and $1.49 Insertings, 10c. Dainty and elaborate designs on Swiss, Cambric and Nainsook. The values can never be properly appreciated until you see the goods.

Continuation of the Shirt Sale—Men's and Boys' Unlaundered Shirts at 28c, 38c, 44c and 68c. You, who have been paying more, may jump at the conclusion that our lower-priced Shirts are not the kind you want. There's only one way to settle the matter intelligently and justly—compare qualities and workmanship. Our Shirts at 38c, 44c and 68c are sold elsewhere at 50c, 75c and $1.00. Finer Shirts and made-to-measure Shirts relatively as cheap.

The New Cotton Fabrics—Buy now and you secure first choice of the latest and loveliest weaves: Silk-warped Novelty Ginghams, 64c; Novelty Corded Ginghams, 48c; Silk-striped Ginghams, 39c; Silk-warped Madras Cloth, 39c; Mercerized Foulard Sateens, 29c; Scotch Ginghams, 19c; Imported Galatea Cloth, 16c; Striped, Checked and Solid-colored Ginghams, 9c.

Women's Automobile Coats and Capes—Made to retail from $22.50 to $30.00. Because we secured a concession we may you—choice at $14.31. High grade Kerseys and Cordes, beautifully trimmed, lined with plain and brocaded silks and satins. They are splendid bargains.

Decisive and indiscriminate reductions throughout our great collection of Porcelains and Bric-a-Brac. Five bargain tables are in trade array. The aesthete and the economist may revel. Vases and scores of other beautiful things marked absurdly low. For example: Vases from $6.87 to $9.87 marked down to $4.87; Vases from $16.43 to $19.83 marked down to $9.87. Hundreds of others—the richer the article and the higher the price, the greater the reduction.

Gray Steel Enamelled Kitchen Ware—housewives have been engrossed in our recent statements concerning these goods. Their interest and answer keep the business throbbing at high pressure. The selling has been tremendous—violent. And no wonder. Careful women buy kitchen ware of us in order to save money and avoid rubbishy "seconds." Seconds are thick with brittle blisters that easily shiver and mix their small, flinty particles in your food. Can you digest or assimilate enamel? Don't attempt it. Remember, we sell firsts only—every utensil is perfect and safe.

ARRIVAL OF BUYERS.

Porteous & Mitchell, Norwich, Conn.; J. Porteous, cloaks and suits, 57 White Street.
Smith & Murray, Springfield, Mass.; A. Leith, cloaks and suits, 57 White Street.
Field, Marshall, & Co., Chicago, Ill.; J. E. Patterson, dry goods, 104 Worth Street; Hotel Albert.
Whitney, W. M., & Co., Albany, N. Y.; G. E. Perkins, silks, 335 Broadway; Park Avenue Hotel.
Donaldson, William, & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.; A. H. Hopkins, shoes; A. T. Townsend, dry goods; L. S. Donaldson, dry goods; G. F. Donaldson, dry goods; 2 Walker Street; Murray Hill Hotel.
Klein, Lichtenstadter & Co., Cleveland, Ohio; H. F. Klein, furnishing goods, 43 Leonard Street; Murray Hill Hotel.
Lindekes, Warner & Schiermeir, St. Paul, Minn.; R. Warner, Jr., furnishing goods; E. Warner, dry goods; 51 Leonard Street; Hotel Manhattan.
Brown, Thompson & Co., Hartford, Conn.; W. L. Ledger, housefurnishing goods; 2 Walker Street; Hotel Manhattan.
Fox, G., & Co., Hartford, Conn.; I. Fox, dry goods; 45 Lispenard Street; Hotel Manhattan.
Bartel, Adam & Co., Richmond, Ind.; J. M. Coate, domestics, furnishing goods, and manufacturing department; H. W. Watt, dry goods; 61 Leonard Street; Hotel Albert.
Maxwell & McClure Notion Company, Kansas City, Mo.; R. H. Maxwell, notions, white goods, laces, and furnishing goods; Hotel Albert.
Shillito, John, Company, The, Cincinnati, Ohio; K. P. Kincheloe, furnishing goods, notions, and fancy goods, 346 Broadway; Broadway Central Hotel.
May Shoe and Clothing Company, Denver, Col.; D. May, shoes; M. May, clothing; T. May, furnishing goods; 571 Broadway; Hoffman House.
Liener, A., Washington, D. C.; Miss M. Richmond, laces and handkerchiefs; Hoffman House.
Myers, John G., Albany, N. Y.; R. M. Rich, trimmings; S. E. Hyman, dry goods, 487 Broadway; Hotel Albert.
Eliasberg & Brothers, Selma, Ala.; A. Eliasberg, notions and furnishing goods; 43 Leonard Street; Hotel Imperial.
Mahler, Altenberg & Co., Milwaukee, Wis.; E. Mahler, furnishing goods; J. Herzberg, furnishing goods; E. Aarons, piece goods; H. Van Clief, furnishing goods; Hotel Imperial.
Strouse Bros. & Co., Baltimore, Md.; I. Strouse, woolens; Hoffman House.
Wallenstein & Cohn, Wichita, Kan.; H. Wallenstein, cloaks, laces, and notions, 309 Church Street; Hotel Imperial.
Rice-Stix Dry Goods Company, St. Louis, Mo.; L. B. Selveter, white goods, 51 Franklin Street; Hotel Imperial.
Stevens, Charles A., & Brothers, Chicago, Ill.; C. Stevens, silks, 487 Broadway; Hotel Imperial.
Long, Jonas, Sons, Wilkesbarre, Penn.; C. P. Long, dry goods; B. Thomas, notions, 51 Franklin Street; Hotel Imperial.
Grossman, Michaelson & Co., Chicago, Ill.; E. Grossman, woolens; Hotel Imperial.
Rothschild, J., & Co., Chicago, Ill.; B. Rothschild, clothing; Hotel Imperial.
Mann & Auker, Albany, N. Y.; L. Mann, dry goods; F. Auker, notions; Hotel Cadillac.
Hawley, C. R., & Co., Bay City, Mich.; C. R. Hawley, carpets, upholstery goods, cloaks, and suits; Hotel Vendome.
Fox, G., & Co., Hartford, Conn.; T. E. Rourke, cloaks and suits, 45 Lispenard Street; Hotel Imperial.
Mandel Brothers, Chicago, Ill.; J. W. Hunter, furnishing goods, 450 Broome Street; Grand Hotel.
Murray, Blanchard,

TO ENJOIN RAPID TRANSIT

Congressman Fowler Sues the City and the Commissioners.

SAYS A PATENT IS INFRINGED

Claims Exclusive Rights in a Plan for Safety Arrangement of Tracks and Platforms.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler of Elizabeth, N. J., has filed a complaint in equity against the City of New York and the Rapid Transit Commissioners, based on the allegation that the plans for the underground railroad infringe an invention which he controls relating to the arrangements for trackage facilities at stations, and the entrances thereto, and that these features have wrongfully been incorporated in the published advertisements calling for bids for the building of the road. The suit is brought in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York, and copies of the complaint have been served upon Mayor Van Wyck, Corporation Counsel Whalen, Controller Coler, and Alexander E. Orr, as President of the commission.

The plaintiff asks that, in the event of the contract being awarded, he be permitted to make the contractor or contractors a party to his suit. He asks that a perpetual injunction issue restraining the city and the Rapid Transit Commissioners from infringing upon his invention and that an injunction also be granted restraining the further publication of the advertisement in its present form.

Neither the city officials nor the Rapid Transit Commissioners seem to be at all worried over the outcome of the suit. They fail to see, they say, how the building of the road will be delayed or the present plans will be in any way changed by Congressman Fowler's action.

Briefly, Congressman Fowler's device for facilitating traffic relates to curved outside tracks at stations and the arrangement of the stairways leading to them, so that passengers will be free from danger in boarding or leaving trains. His plan is intended to obviate the danger that would result from four straight tunnel tracks for local and express trains, arranged at designated points for the latter to stop. To prevent danger to passengers in crossing tracks, Congressman Fowler's plan contemplates two straightaway express tracks at these points inside the local tracks, which would form an outward curve so as to allow "island platforms" to be so as to allow "island platforms" to be reached by stairways from the street level, leading respectively to north and south bound trains.

James M. Gifford of Hobbs & Gifford, counsel for Mr. Fowler, said last night that Benjamin F. Carpenter of Roselle, N. J., was the inventor of the idea, and that it was not known or used in this or in any foreign country at the time of Mr. Carpenter's invention in 1888. American and foreign engineers had worked on a similar problem, Mr. Gifford said, but they had never succeeded in touching exactly upon Mr. Carpenter's idea, on which a patent was issued Nov. 3, 1896, numbered 570,451, to run for seventeen years from that date.

On Feb. 23, 1897, Mr. Carpenter sold to Melville C. Smith of this city, one-half his patent right, and on Nov. 19, 1897, Messrs. Carpenter and Smith each sold to Mr. Fowler a quarter interest. On Nov. 19, 1898, Mr. Carpenter and the executors of Melville C. Smith transferred all the rights in the patent to Mr. Fowler for the territory within New York and for a radius of fifty miles around the city, thus giving Mr. Fowler, according to the complaint, the exclusive right to bring the suit.

It is alleged in the complaint that the plan was submitted and explained to the Rapid Transit Commissioners, and that they simply appropriated the idea, and afterward incorporated the details in the advertisements for bids.

"Mr. Carpenter, by priority of discovery, had the priority of right to his invention," said Mr. Gifford, "as he published in 1888 a full description of his discovery, thus giving to the world notice of what he had done. Then he kept on making improvements in details and got his patent in 1896, none having been presented in the meantime for a similar device, and no one having made any claim of priority of discovery. Mr. Carpenter submitted his plans to the Commissioners, and now they are using his idea without permission of Mr. Fowler, who owns the exclusive right in this territory."

Albert B. Boardman of counsel to the Rapid Transit Commission smiled last evening when asked what effect the suit would have on the building of the road. "Mr. Fowler," said he, "probably brought this suit in order to state his claim, and thus get it before the world. We do not take the slightest interest in his patent or so-called suit. We think such a thought as he has obtained a patent upon is not patentable.

"It is not new. It is no novelty. It is just as though an architect had arranged some new arrangement of an airshaft for a building or an improvement on an entrance. Does anybody believe he could obtain a patent on that and sell it as his exclusive right, and that no one else could use it without paying tribute? It does not seem so.

"If our engineers had so little skill that they could not think of island platforms and the arrangement of tracks to enable passengers to reach and get off of cars in safety and easily, it would be evident that they were not up to their work. The plaintiff perhaps thought he might get the contractor or the contractors to pay him for this idea, or that some benefit from them might accrue by pushing his claim. It does not cost much to bring a suit. No, we are not at all worried about it. There will be no delay on that score."

Engineer W. Barclay Parsons said: "Anybody can obtain a patent for anything. For instance, a man might get out a patent for rubber shoes for a horse to climb a tree, or some such thing. I do not know anything about Mr. Fowler's suit, but it won't delay our work, in my opinion."

"I have not seen the complaint," said Corporation Counsel Whalen, "but if anything could come of it, so far as I know now, it would be only a suit for damages. We are going right ahead I don't see how Mr. Fowler can make any trouble."

SIGHT OF ACCIDENT FATAL.

A trolley accident occurred in Brooklyn early yesterday morning, which, while resulting in but slight injury to the victim of the mishap, indirectly caused the death of a newsboy.

The accident happened at Washington and Concord Streets. John Goff, forty-two years old, of 77 Gold Street, was attempting to cross the first-named thoroughfare when he was struck and knocked down by trolley car No. 970 of the Court Street line, on its way to the bridge. Goff sustained a scalp wound.

John McDonald, eighteen years old, was standing on the corner at the time of the accident. When he saw Goff knocked down by the car he experienced a sudden shock, and immediately became weak and dizzy.

The boy went to the Kenmore lodging house, at 10 Tillary Street, and told the clerk, William J. Parker, that he felt ill. His condition became so serious that Parker summoned Ambulance Surgeon Fincke of the Brooklyn Hospital. When Fincke reached the lodging house McDonald was dead. The surgeon gave it as his opinion that the boy had a weak heart, and that the shock occasioned by his witnessing the trolley accident had so affected that organ as to cause his death. The body was removed to the home of the boy's mother, in State Street, near Willow Place.

WOMAN TOO MUCH FOR BURGLAR

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 7.—Mrs. Rachel Johnson of New York Avenue had a desperate encounter with a burglar early this morning. She heard a noise in the lower hall of her house, and sat up in bed. She saw a man ascending the stairs to the upper floor and intending to frighten him she screamed. Instead of running away the burglar rushed into the room and grabbed her by the throat. Mrs. Johnson fought him.

She pulled his hair out by the handfuls and tore his face with her fingernails until her hands were covered with blood. The burglar tried to get away, but she held him for a time and screamed. He finally broke away and escaped.

Albany Wants State Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—An effort will be made by the Chamber of Commerce to secure one or more of the State conventions to be held this year for Albany. Both the Democrats and Republicans will hold extra meetings to select the delegates at large to the National conventions. At the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to be held to-morrow evening a committee will be appointed by President J. W. Burdick to look after Albany's interests.

DOUBLE ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.

Woman Throws Herself in Front of a Broadway Car and Then Tries to Take Carbolic Acid.

While the crowd in Broadway was at its height shortly after 8 o'clock last night, a stockily built, shabbily dressed woman about forty years old darted from the sidewalk in Longacre Square, snd, drawing her old cape over her face, threw herself headlong before a north-bound cable car. Her action was seen by William Martin, a Postal Telegraph messenger, who dragged her from the track as the gripman tried to stop the car.

Breaking from the boy's grasp, she ran down the east side of the street, pursued by him and a number of others who had seen her strange act, and just as she was about to cross Forty-second Street she raised a small vial of carbolic acid to her lips and attempted to swallow its contents. Policeman Baxter of the West Thirtieth Street Station, who had been making his way toward her, saw the motion and seized her arm, and the most of the stuff went over her lips, chin, and dress, burning wherever it touched. Enough went into her mouth to make her scream with agony, and her outcry brought thousands of persons running from all directions, until a crowd was formed that reached from curb to curb and blocked all traffic for a few minutes.

The woman fought savagely with Baxter, but with the aid of several other policemen he dragged her into a drug store at 151 West Forty-second Street, and there antidotes were hurriedly administered. The woman, who was evidently demented, first said she was Minnie Perry, wife of John Perry, a musician out of employment. When about forty pawntickets for trifling sums borrowed on various articles of domestic use were found in her pockets made out in the name of Perkins, she said that was her right name. She told a confused story about having been dispossessed the day before, but said that "Dan" Bernstein, who lived at 214 West Thirty-fourth Street, would send her husband to her, and begged that he be notified. She accused several of the bystanders of having tried to force the poison down her throat when asked why she had taken it.

When Dr. Christian, who came with an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital, saw her burned face and clothing, he started to take her into a back room to use the stomach pump, but upon examining her throat he said he thought she had swallowed little if any of the acid, and took her away to the prison ward. "Oh, please don't put out my eyes," she screamed to him. "I want to do it myself." As she was led to the ambulance she cried to one of the drug clerks, "Give me a little glass of soda water with syrup in it before I die." She got it, and drank it almost at a gulp.

Her left eye was blackened, but this may have been due to a fall, for she had been noticed acting queerly in Broadway and Eighth Avenue for an hour or more before she tried to kill herself. She had run before several cars in both thoroughfares, causing them to stop, and just before her last attempt she had been ejected from one of them, and going up Broadway from Twenty-eighth Street a little before that she had gone into several hotels and stores, only to be put out.

At the address given by the woman, 214 West Thirty-fourth Street, as the place where Bernstein, her husband's friend, could be found, no such person as Bernstein was known.

BOYS RESCUE A COMPANION.

By the bravery and decision of three of his young companions, Charles Tague, the nine-year-old son of Michael Tague of 23 Coenties Slip, was saved from drowning off Pier 4 East River yesterday afternoon. Young Tague and Michael Reilly, seven years old, were playing on the pier, jumping back and forth from its edge to a scow which had swung out several feet with the tide. In "bantering" his younger companion to jump at a point where the distance was greater than they had attempted before, the Tague boy overestimated his ability and fell short of the scow into the water.

Young Reilly screamed for help and three boys who were playing near by, James Dooling, William Doran, and Joseph Harrison, aged twelve, ten, and thirteen years, respectively, ran to the rescue. Without hesitation, the Dooling lad, who is an expert swimmer, threw off his coat and jumped into the water, where his friend had ceased floundering and disappeared for the second time. As the drowning boy again rose to the surface he was grabbed by young Dooling, who in the mean time had caught a rope which his companions had thrown to him. Doran and Harrison then pulled young Tague and his rescuer to the dock and helped them out of the water. Dooling immediately set off with dripping clothes for his home, 38 Front Street. The Tague boy recovered sufficiently in a short time to be taken home by the remaining two of his friends.

LIVELY CHASE AFTER ELOPERS.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Jan. 7.—The police of this city this afternoon arrested an eloping couple just as they reached what they supposed was a safe haven. They had been chased for miles over the country roads, and escaped into Plainfield, but the telephone was quicker than they, and the police were awaiting them.

Mabel Ford, fifteen years of age, daughter of Mrs. Wilhelmina Ford of Liberty Corners, Somerset County, is the would-be bride. Her companion is George Howell, twenty years of age. He also lives at Liberty Corners. Howell had been paying attentions to the girl for some time, but her mother objected. Recently the girl had been living with her grandmother, Mrs. John Laird, whose farm adjoins that of Mrs. Ford at Liberty Corners.

Edward H. Howell, a brother of George, called at Mrs. Laird's shortly after noon to-day and had a talk with the girl. She complained she was being ill-treated by her mother and grandmother, and Howell went home and told his brother. The result was that George determined that the girl's ill-treatment should end at once. He took a buggy belonging to his father and a good horse. He drove to the grandmother's house, and was joined by the girl.

John Hindershoot, an employe of the grandmother, informed Mrs. Ford of the young couple's going off together, and at her order he hitched up a horse and started in pursuit. The elopers had less than a half hour's start, but would probably have gotten away from their pursuer had not their buggy broken down at Pluckamin, five miles after they left home. They were delayed some time until Howell secured a tandem bicycle and on this they started for Bound Brook.

Hindershoot was close upon them by the time they had started, and a lively chase followed as far as Bound Brook. The roads were not good for wheeling, and the couple failed to outdistance the horse, which was kept on the move continually. They held their own, however, and reached Bound Brook a good half mile ahead of their pursuer.

In the country Hindershoot had been able to keep the elopers in sight, but on reaching Bound Brook Howell turned aside and took a roundabout course through the village, and Hindershoot was thrown off the trail. Not knowing which way the couple intended to go, Hindershoot went to a telephone and notified the police of this city to arrest them if they came here, and then started out to search for them in other directions.

The couple came here, and, finding themselves no longer closely pursued, took their time. When they arrived at the city line they were arrested. They will be held until Mrs. Ford arrives in the morning. Howell's family is wealthy, and it is expected some members of it will also be here to make a fight on behalf of the young people.

Street Cleaners to See the Mayor.

The Executive Board of the Street Cleaners met yesterday at 229 East Forty-seventh Street to discuss the grievances of which the men have been complaining. They say that instead of working eight hours a day they are often made to toil from ten to sixteen hours, while they are paid only for an eight-hour day. A good many of the men were in favor of striking, but the Executive Board would not sanction a strike, and appointed a committee to call on Mayor Van Wyck.

Metropolitan Opera House Concert.

There was a good attendance at the third Sunday evening concert last night at the Metropolitan Opera House. The soloists were Mmes. Nordica, Mme. Mantelli, Herr Van Rooy, and Signor Scotti. The orchestral part of the programme included selections from Weber, Rubinstein, and Strauss. Mme. Nordica was heard in "Dich Theure Halle" from "Tannhauser," and several songs. Herr Van Rooy sang Beethoven's "An die Hoffnung" and a series of German sorgs. Mme. Mantelli contributed Gounod's aria "Sapho" and "Noble Seigneur," from Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots." Signor Scotti rendered "Lotta Dei Zardi" from "Tannhauser" and the prologue from Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci."

RAILROADS OF NEW YORK

Their Conditions and Operations Discussed by State Commission.

GREAT PROSPERITY DISCLOSED

Statistics as to Deaths and Accidents—Recommendations as to Surface Lines in This City.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—The annual report of the State Railroad Commission, which will be sent to the Legislature this week, shows that the twelve months ending June 30, 1899, was an unusually prosperous season for the steam surface railroads of the State. The increase in gross earnings from operation, as compared with 1898, was about $6,000,000. The report further shows that in the three months following the close of the railroad fiscal year, June 30, $7,000,000 more was earned than during the same three months of the preceding year. The increase for three months being, as it is, largely in excess of the increase of all the companies for the year, may properly be considered phenomenal. The annual reports of the State companies show that they expended from their earnings over $900,000 more in 1899 than in 1898, for the maintenance of way and structures, and over $750,000 more than in 1898 in the maintenance of equipment.

On the other lines the board reports that the gross earnings of steam surface railroads reporting to this board for the year ending June 30, 1899, are $5,977,508.39 in excess of those of the previous year. The operating expenses are $2,855,613.34 in excess of those of 1898, making the net earnings from operations $3,121,895.05 more than in 1898.

The income from other sources was $2,034,990.89 in excess of 1898. The companies paid in taxes $506,051.74 more than in 1898, and declared dividends $534,692.90 in excess of those declared in 1898. Capital stock increased $8,977,400 over that of 1898, and funded debt increase $11,985,383.01 over 1898. The percentage of dividends to capital stock was 2.43, as compared with 2.39 in 1898.

The report shows, unfortunately, that four more persons were killed on steam surface roads in the State in 1899 than in 1898, but the number of persons injured was 181 less. The total number of accidents on steam surface railroads in which persons were killed or injured during the year ended June 30, 1899, was 2,030; 704 persons were killed and 1,326 injured. For the year ended June 30, 1898, the aggregate was 2,207—700 killed and 1,507 injured.

During the year ended June 30, 1899, 3 employes were killed and 9 injured through catching feet in frogs and guard rails. The board is continuing its attention to the question of blocking these openings.

The total number of passengers carried by the steam railroads, not including elevated railroads, reporting to this State during the year ended June 30, 1899, was 149,926,184, an increase of 672,925 as compared with 1898. This includes passengers not carried in this State. The number carried in the State was 68,720,642.

According to the report two commissions have been at work during the year upon the question of the part that the State canals are to play in the future transportation situation—one confining itself alone to the canal question, and the other inquiring into the entire subject of the continuance of New York City as the chief port of the country, including the question of transportation by canal. As stated last year, the importance of this matter is scarcely second to any which must be considered in the administration of State affairs.

The total number of tons of eastbound freight carried on all the canals of the State during the season of navigation of 1898 was 2,314,050; during 1899, 2,425,292, an increase of 111,242 tons. The comparative figures for 1897 and 1898 on eastbound freight showed a decrease in 1898 of 134,311 tons. The total number of tons of westbound freight in 1898 was 1,046,013; in 1899, 1,260,759, an increase of 214,746. The comparative figures of 1897 and 1898 on westbound freight showed a decrease in 1898 of 123,430 tons. The total number of tons carried on the Erie Canal, in both directions, in 1899 was 2,419,084.

The number of passengers carried on all the steet surface railroads of the State, including the few remaining horse railroads, during the year ended June 30, 1899, including "transfers," was 920,365,560, an increase over 1898 of 71,054,890. One hundred and twenty-six persons were killed and 589 wounded.

The affairs of the elevated and surface roads in New York and Brooklyn form a large part of the report of the commission. The total number of passengers carried by the elevated roads during the year ended June 30, 1899, was 213,248,419, a decrease of 14,528,133, as compared with 1898. This decrease is in large part accounted for by the fact that the returns of the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad Company and its successor, the Brooklyn Union Elevated Railroad Company, cover a period of but nine months, the other three months' statistics being included in the report of the Brooklyn Heights Surface Railroad. The number carried by the Manhattan Railway was 174,324,575, a decrease of 9,036,271, as compared with 1898.

The number of accidents occurring on the elevated railroads for the year were as follows: Brooklyn Union, (nine months,) 9 killed, 7 injured, of which 4 killed and 4 injured were employes. Kings County Elevated, 2 killed, 8 injured, of which 3 injured were employes. Manhattan Elevated, 8 killed, 5 injured, of which 3 killed and 5 injured were employes. Total killed, 19; injured, 20.

It is stated that the change in the motive power on the elevated roads of Brooklyn from steam to the third-rail electrical system is progressing rapidly, and it is expected that in the coming Summer all of the elevated lines there will be operated by electricity.

The report of street surface roads shows that the number carried in the Boroughs of Bronx and Manhattan, New York City, including transfers, was 509,314,816, an increase over 1898 of 52,351,063. The number carried in the Borough of Brooklyn, including some carried in the Borough of Queens, including transfers, and including those carried during the last three months of the year by the Brooklyn Union Elevated Railroad, was 238,721,651.

The board makes the following recommendations regarding surface railroads in New York and Brooklyn, designed to assist in reducing the number of accidents:

First—Every street car which crosses a steam railroad at grade shall be equipped with a red flag for use during the day, and a red lantern for use at night. When approaching such crossing the car shall come to a full stop at least thirty feet from the crossing, and shall not proceed until the conductor has gone upon the steam railroad carrying the flag or lantern, and after ascertaining that the way is clear, given the proper signal for the car to proceed.

Second—That where two or more street car lines cross or where they merge an agreement shall be made as to which line shall have the right of way. The car that has not the right of way shall come to a full stop before crossing over the tracks of the other line or entering on the joint track.

Third—That the cars passing in opposite directions shall not meet on street crossings.

Fourth—That the speed of cars be reduced to the minimum on all curves where the view is obstructed.

Fifth—That passengers be prohibited from riding on the running boards or side steps of open cars.

Sixth—That passengers be not permitted to stand on the front platforms of open cars, and that only as many passengers be permitted on such platforms as can be conveniently seated. In the case of open cars that have no seats on the front platform, passengers shall not be permitted to ride on the platform, and the side gates shall at all times be kept closed. Under no circumstances should passengers be permitted to ride on the front platforms of closed cars.

HE DIED COUNTING MONEY.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 7.—James Reilly, forty-two years old, of Howe Avenue, Passaic, fell dead in Kehoe's livery stable, in this city to-day while counting money.

Reilly attended church this morning, and was apparently in good health after the service. He secured employment on Saturday in the livery stable, and was about to begin work for the day when he was stricken. Heart disease is said to have been the cause of death. He had been out of work for some time, and was greatly pleased at his success at last in securing a place.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

A. Jaeckel & Co.,
FURRIERS,
JANUARY REDUCTIONS,
Are offering exceptional inducements in Broadtail, Persian Lamb, and Sealskin Coats, Capes, Paletots, Evening and Opera Garments, Long Cloth Coats, Collarettes, Pelerines, and Furs of all descriptions.
A large collection of Russian and Hudson Bay Sable Neckpieces and Exclusive Novelties at very attractive prices.
37 Union Square,
Between 16th and 17th Sts.

SAYS MANY ARE PAGANS.

Dr. MacArthur Attacks Habits of Non-Churchgoers and Commends Catholic Fight Against Vice.

The Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur began last night at the Calvary Baptist Church, in West Fifty-seventh Street, a series of Sunday evening sermons, in which he will appeal to those who are non-churchgoers. His topic last night was "Christ Through the Churches, the Regenerator of Society." Dr. MacArthur said, in part:

"Even in our greatly favored land large numbers of our people are virtually pagan. For them there is practically no Sunday, no Church, no God, and no hope. Some of these are embittered toward the Church. They regard the Church in some sense the property of the rich and prosperous. They think they are not wanted in the Church.

"Where is the blame to be placed? Has the pulpit failed to give the people the message they need? Men run to and fro with all sorts of curative nostrums, but those in the depths of sin are not redeemed by these expedients.

"Religion is the great antidote for all ills to which humanity is subject. The Church reaches out her hand with healing in it. The pulpit must not be afraid to strike political and social evils terrific blows. Religion must touch every evil in society.

"We cannot be blind to the possibilities in our new possessions. But drunken American soldiers in the Philippines is a deplorable sight to all Americans. We fear for the result of the introduction of American civilization into those islands.

"We are glad the leaders of the Church of the Paulist Fathers are vigorously attacking the dens of iniquity in the vicinity of their church and are pushing their work without regard to the ecclesiastical relations of those gross offenders against law and purity. They deserve credit and commendation for their opposition to these organisers of evil and corruption."

TAYLOR WILL GO TO COURT.

Kentucky's Governor Is Advised to Seek Federal Aid If Goebel Wins in the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 7.—Republican leaders who are on confidential terms with Gov. Taylor intimated to-night that the Republican contestees may not quit the fight in the event the Legislature and the State Central Board vote to seat Goebel and the other Democratic contestants. They have by no means given up hope that they will win in the Legislature, but are taking time by the forelock and looking around for other moves in case Goebel should win.

It is generally believed they will seek to raise a Federal question and take the case into the Federal court. One of the questions which could be raised, they claim, would be on the ousting of Lieut. Gov. Marshall as presiding officer of the joint Assembly in the event of the adoption of the rules as passed by the Senate yesterday, and also on the prospective unseating of Republican members of the Legislature.

The House will to-morrow take up the information, filed in the Senate Saturday, charging Whallen and Ryan with attempting to bribe Senator Harrell in the Governorship contest, together with the resolution providing for a joint investigating committee. The resolution is practically certain to go through, as the Republican and anti-Goebel leaders say they cannot afford to defeat an investigation, though they regard the whole affair as inspired by politics.

The fight over the rules will not come up before Thursday, and this is expected to furnish something like a test of the Goebel and anti-Goebel strength in the lower branch. The Republican leaders admit that the adoption of the rules as sent over from the Senate will be a very serious blow to the minority.

Senator Barrett, Chairman of the Republican joint caucus, has called that caucus to meet to-morrow night to nominate a candidate for Senator. Ex-Gov. Bradley will be the nominee. He will probably be named by acclamation.

His nomination is the result of a peace which has been declared between the Republican factions, one of which was headed by the ex-Governor and his appointees, the other by Minister W. Godfrey Hunter, Senator Deboe, Gov. Taylor, and all of the National Administration leaders in Kentucky.

Representative Orr, Democrat, has prepared a bill, which he will introduce Tuesday, repealing the Goebel election commission law and providing for a bipartisan commission.

TWO KENTUCKIANS KILLED.

Were in a Fight Which Began at a Murder Trial.

LONDON, Ky., Jan. 7.—News reached here to-day of a general fight on Otter Creek, Clay County, in which two men were shot and killed and four others seriously wounded. The fight occurred at a schoolhouse where one of the Jacksons was on trial before a Magistrate for killing another Jackson.

The fight was started soon after the trial began, and court was adjourned, and the fight carried on both in the schoolhouse and outside. Four of the men were brought to Manchester last night and placed in jail.

Lige Lewis, on of the men killed, was a brother of ex-Sheriff Joseph Lewis of Clay County.

THE WEATHER.

LOCAL FORECAST.—Rain, colder, wind southwest, shifting to northwest.

The storm central Saturday night in Manitoba has moved with great velocity, fifty-two miles an hour, to the St. Lawrence Valley and has caused rain and high winds in the lake regions, Sault Ste. Marie reporting a northwest wind of forty-two miles an hour. A second storm has moved from the North Pacific Coast to the north of Washington State and has caused rain in the Noth Pacific States and Northern California. Temperatures continue above normal general over the whole country, Williston reporting 33 degrees and Bismarck and Havre 29 above. It has grown slightly warmer in New England, colder in the upper lake region and the Red River of the North Valley. As the St. Lawrence Valley storm moves eastward it will cause rain and southwest gales, shifting to northwesterly in New England and New York. Signals for northwesterly gales have been noisted on the North Atlantic Coast. Fair weather may be expected in all other districts, except light rain in Montana and North Dakota. The temperature will fall in the lake regions and North Atlantic States and will remain nearly stationary elsewhere. Southwesterly gales, shifting to northwesterly will prevail on the North Atlantic Coast, brisk northwesterly winds on the Middle Atlantic, and light southwest and northwest on the North Atlantic Coast. Cold wave signals are displayed at Escanabana and Green Bay. Storm signals are displayed on the Atlantic Coast from Sandy Hook to Eastport.

The record of temperature for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from THE NEW YORK TIMES'S thermometer and from the thermometer of the Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	—Weather Bureau— 1899.	1900.	TIMES. 1900.
3 A. M.	34	32	32
6 A. M.	31	32	32
9 A. M.	29	31	36
12 M.	25	38	40
3 P. M.	24	45	44
6 P. M.	25	44	46
9 P. M.	25	42	44
12 P. M.	23	42	44

THE TIMES'S thermometer is 6 feet above the street level; that of the Weather Bureau is 285 feet above the street level.

Average temperatures yesterday were as follows:

Printing House Square	39¾
Weather Bureau	38¼
Corresponding date 1899	27
Corresponding date for last twenty-five years	32

The maximum temperature yesterday was 45 degrees at 6 P. M. and the minimum 29 degrees at 8:30 A. M. The humidity at 8 A. M. was 73 per cent. and at 8 P. M. 69 per cent. The barometer at 8 A. M. read 30.44 and at 8 P. M. 30.12.

SOLAR BAKING POWDER
"It Rises Everywhere."
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Cream of Tartar.
8 CENTS.... A POUND LESS.....
Than the Trust Powders.
"It Rises Everywhere."
CUSHMAN BROS. CO.,
Selling Agents.
New York, 78 Hudson st.
Boston, 34 Central st.
Philadelphia, 125 So. Front street.
Washington, 421 Fourth st. N. W.

ACCUSED MINISTER'S PLEA.

Presbytery to Receive Charges Against the Rev. Mr. MacClelland.

A special meeting of the Presbytery of Brooklyn will be held in the Bedford Presbyterian Church, Dean Street and Nostrand Avenue, this evening to receive the charges against the Rev. George L. MacClelland, ex-pastor of Immanuel Church, and appoint a commission to try the case.

The friends of Mr. MacClelland are making an effort to secure a public trial. The Presbytery, however, desires that the trial shall be a private one, believing that it has found a sanction for such procedure in the minutes of the General Assembly two or three years ago. Mr. MacClelland declares that the charges made against him by members of the church are trivial, and he wishes them dismissed at a public hearing.

BROOKLYN SINGERS' OFFICERS.

Old Ones Renominated and Expected Wrangle Does Not Occur.

A meeting of the United Singers of Brooklyn was held yesterday afternoon in Arion Hall for the purpose of nominating twenty-four Directors, eleven of whom were to be chosen as officers of the United Singers. There was a large number of delegates present in anticipation of a wrangle, but they were disappointed. It was expected that President S. K. Saenger would be opposed for renomination for the Presidency.

After the meeting had convened Gustav Hummel moved that all the officers be renominated by acclamation, which was quickly seconded and carried before the delegates opposed to President Sawyer could recover from their surprise. The election will take place next Sunday.

The officers nominated were S. H. Saenger, President; A. H. Tiernan, First Vice President; David Koos, Second Vice President; Emil Rose, Recording Secretary; B. Klein, Corresponding Secretary; William Siebel, Financial Secretary; H. Scheidt, Treasurer; V. Mink, Librarian; John Hummel, Dr. W. Schildge, and J. G. Roth, Trustees.

The other thirteen to comprise the twenty-four, were made up of the Presidents of the various committees having in charge the Northeastern Festival, which is to take place at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory in July. They are Fritz Wagner, Franz R. Beck, J. C. Tiemeyer, Frederick Bodeschatz, G. C. Kattmasser, J. Trankel, Henry Nitz, Philip Young, Carl Mayer, B. Bittner, D. Freschauer, August Ehlers, and F. Boger.

SAVES CHILDREN FROM FIRE.

Maryland Woman Rushes Into Burning House Where Men Could Not Go.

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 7.—Mrs. Emanuel Hoffman dashed into her burning dwelling at Springfield farm, near this place, after several men had been driven back by the smoke and intense heat, last night, and heroically saved the lives of her three children. The flesh was almost entirely scorched from her hands, and her face and neck are painfully burned. Her two-months-old babe is also seriously burned, but physicians say it will not die.

The explosion of a lamp caused the fire at 9 o'clock last evening. A hundred or more volunteers from town were soon on the scene, and, organizing a bucket brigade, worked hard to save the house. United States Senator McOmas, who was visiting his father-in-law, Charles W. Humrichouse, was on the scene early and took his place among the volunteers.

When the flames were at their height Mrs. Hoffman cried piteously for her children, who were sleeping in the portion of the house then burning. After several men had been baffled by the heat and blinding smoke the woman cried those who would have restrained her, and rushing madly into the house, disappeared among the flames.

A few moments of breathless suspense and the brave woman reappeared with the three children in her arms.

The willing volunteer firemen soon had the fire under control, when it was found that only the rear portion of the house had been damaged.

FATAL SHOOTING ON A FARM.

Bullet Sent Through Brain of a Man Trying to Enter a House.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Michael Sweetwort, a farm hand, who had been employed by John Read, a farmer of Armonk, was shot and fatally wounded to-night by John McCullough, eighteen years of age. The latter was in Mr. Read's house and Sweetwort was outside when the shooting took place. He fired three shots, two of which took effect, one of them passing into Sweetwort's head at the right temple and into the brain.

Sweetwort, according to Mr. Read, had been abusive and disorderly about the place recently and was ordered away. To-night he tried to enter the house of McCullough refused to let him in. Sweetwort went to a window and tried to open it.

McCullough warned him to get away. Sweetwort tried to force the window and McCullough fired. The bullet was aimed at the hand on the window, and it took off one of the fingers. Despite the wound Sweetwort continued his efforts to force the window, threatening to revenge himself. McCullough fired again, but the bullet does not seem to have taken effect.

Sweetwort went to the door and tried to force it, and was succeeding when McCullough fired again. This bullet entered the brain. Coroner Birch of this place went to Armonk, a drive of nine miles, to take the ante-mortem statement, but had his trouble for nothing, as Sweetwort was unconscious.

McCullough was brought here and locked in the county jail.

VON HOLLEBEN MAKES A DENIAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The statements published to-day credited to The London Spectator regarding Germany and the Monroe doctrine, saying in effect that increase in Germany's naval force was intended to overcome any opposition of the United States to Germany's desire to absorb South American territory, caused some comment in diplomatic circles here to-day. Officials of the Germany Embassy say they lament the appearance of such statements, and declare they are published with a view of creating a distrust of Germany's real attitude toward the American Nation.

Ambassador von Holleben, when shown the article referred to, declared that it was without foundation in fact and was a pure invention from start to finish. He should not have paid any heed to it except for the fact that his attention had been called to the matter by a representative of the press. He hopes, he says, that no serious attention will be given to publications of the character stated, but that they will be treated with contempt by fair-minded people.

Gen. Stanton Critically Ill.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 7.—Gen. T. H. Stanton, United States Army, retired, is critically ill at his residence, in this city. Gen. Stanton, who for some time served in the position of Paymaster at Washington, and was later promoted to Brigadier General, came to his home here last Fall, and just before Christmas was taken ill with an affection of the liver. He has been in bed ever since, and the case has not yielded to treatment. While his life is not considered immediately in danger, his condition is critical.

BIG ALTERATION SALE,
Jan. 8 to 13, Inclusive.
In order to make working room during enlargement of adjoining premises, we will allow
10% DISCOUNT
On all purchases in any of our Departments.
All Goods Marked in Plain Figures.
MONEY REFUNDED ON ALL UNSATISFACTORY PURCHASES.
S. Baumann & Bro.
FURNITURE CARPETS DRAPERIES & BEDDING
Sixth Ave., WEST SIDE, from 15th to 16th St.

COME TO-DAY!
The Great Big Sale of the Retail Stock of BIERMAN, HEIDELBERG & CO.,
(who have retired from the Retail Clothing Trade,)
WILL BE CONTINUED TO-DAY.
Clothing, Shoes, Hats and Furnishings at prices that Must and Will Quickly Clear Out This Gigantic Stock.
Never before such crowds of eager purchasers as seen last Saturday—the beginning of this monster sale—never again, perhaps, such real, true, genuine bargains.
Come to-day—early if you can—supply all your immediate and future wants. It's your opportunity.
A few of the many items—selected from several hundred others—and all new, bright goods of this season's production.

$15 Overcoats to go at	$7.50	$15 Suits to go at	$6.75
$20 Overcoats to go at	$10.00	$20 Suits to go at	$10.00
$25 Overcoats to go at	$12.50	$25 Suits to go at	$12.50
$35 Overcoats to go at	$15.00	The highest and finest grade Suits—$28 to $40 grades—to go at	$14.50
$50 and $60 Overcoats to go at	$21.00	$3 Derby and Alpine Hats to go at	$1.65
$4 Shoes to go at	$2.15	$1 and $1.50 fancy and dress Shirts to go at	62c.
Every Scarf in the house—50c., 75c. and $1.00 grades—all included—to go at	25c.
$1.25 English Walking Gloves to go at	75c.

The biggest stock of the finest Trousers in the world will go like this:
The $3 and $3.50 grades for . . . . $1.75 and $2.50
The $6, $7 and $8 grades for . . . . $3.00 and $4.00
The celebrated B and H make of Fancy Vests—Thousands of them will go like this:
The $2, $2.50 and $3 grades for . $1.00, $1.25 and $1.75
The $4, $4.50 and $5 grades for . . $2.00 and $2.50
Frank L. Taylor Clothing Co.,
Successors.
Stewart Building, Broadway, corner Chambers St.

MAYOR HARRISON DECLINES.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Mayor Harrison announced to-day that he was not, and will not be, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. His public statement is as follows:

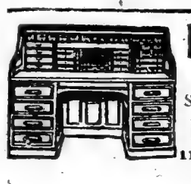
"I am not a candidate. Nobody has ever heard me say I would be a candidate, and I am in the habit of saying what I mean. As it is not usual for political parties to confer nominations on men who do not want them, there is no use of answering the question whether I would refuse to accept a nomination."

Gives Land to Westfield, N. J., for Park

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Jan. 7.—William G. Peckham, who has a law office in New York, has dedicated three acres of ground at Broad and Cumberland Streets, Westfield, to that place for a public park and playground. The gift has been accepted by the Township Committee. The plot will be improved and opened up to the use of the public next Spring.

HIGH CLASS TAILORING
at Moderate Prices. Fit Guaranteed.
Nicoll.
771 BROADWAY, 145-147 BOWERY.



DESKS.
Great Variety of Style and Price.
T. G. SELLEW,
111 Fulton St., N.Y.

WANAMAKER'S WANAMAKER'S WANAMAKER'S WANAMAKER'S WANAMAKER'S

To-day's News of The Wanamaker Store

Muslin Underwear Sale—further shipments of the goods received
Housekeeping Linens cheaper than ever, despite dearer markets
Fur Sale—dependable pieces, from the simplest scarf to the elegant coat, a fourth or more under usual prices
Decisive reductions in the prices of French Dress Goods
Important reductions in the prices of China and Glass and Art Pieces
Kitchen Utensils at half prices
Carpet Sale continues
More of the Club Vellum Writing Paper has come
New Summer Dresses
New-style Skirts for present wear
New Cotton Dress Fabrics

ECONOMY! That's the keynote. Is it real? That's the question. Let us think it over for a moment: You know that Wanamaker merchandise is worthy—that if you find any cause for dissatisfaction, you can send the goods back and get the money you paid for them. You know, further, that we'd be foolish to send out wrong goods, except through mistake. And mistakes happen in all businesses where human help is a large factor.

Now, then. Admitting the fairness of these statements, we assert that regular prices at Wanamaker's are less than market rates for equal goods. To be sure, once-in-a-while somebody sells an item at a loss "just to beat Wanamaker's," but the cases are merely as the one bird that doesn't make a summer.

And January prices on the stocks affected are less than our own regular low prices—some a fourth less; some a third; here and there as low as half the regular price.

White Lawns and Piques There's never-ending need for white goods; there's seldom a chance to make such a saving—

White striped and checked lawns, 12½c a yard.
White piques and lawns, 15c a yard.
—a little lot of 2500 yards.
Regularly 15c to 20c.
Broadway.

Carpet Remnants The half-year Carpet Sale has been successful beyond all precedent. It usually takes two weeks to clear up the stocks—despite the losses we take. The work will be done in a week this time.

Remnants—some of them very liberal ones
Axminsters as low as 40c
Velvets as low as 50c
Body Brussels as low as 50c
Ingrains as low as 25c

Of course, longer the piece, longer the price—some ingrain remnants at 35c a yard and some Brussels at 75c.

Remnants for Rugs—1 to 1½ yards—neatly bound—35c to $1.50 each. Great bargains.

Rich Dress Goods—Reduced

We counted pretty close—there are only five hundred dress lengths left of the fine Paris fabrics. Just before Christmas we reduced prices somewhat, but there was too much else to think of then.

To-day, decisive reductions—comparisons being made with the early full prices. Interested? Only five hundred can share the lot, yet we tell the news to at least two million women.

$3.50 from $5.50
Matelasse Velour, velvet chenille figures, in 4 combinations.
Crepon Velour, velvet chenille cubes; 4 combinations.
$3.50 from $5.25
Matelasse Velour, velvet chenille figures; 3 combinations.
$3 from $5
Matelasse Velour, velvet chenille figures; 4 combinations.
$3 from $4.75
Matelasse Velour, velvet chenille stirpes; 6 combinations.
$3 from $4.50
Matelasse Velour, velvet chenille figures; 3 combinations.
$3 from $4.25
Matelasse Velour, Persian chenille figures; 3 combinations.
$2.50 from $4.50
Persian Matelasse Velour, velvet chenille cubes; 3 combinations.
Rotunda.

$2.50 from $3.50
Venetian, velvet chenille, serpentine stripes; 2 combinations.
Silk-and-wool Matelasse Velour; 2 combinations.
Silk-and-wool Bedford Cords; 5 colorings.
$2.50 from $3.25
Venetian Cloth, silk figured and striped; 3 combinations.
$2.75 from $4.50
Silk-and-wool Lizard Cloth; 3 combinations.
$2.75 from $3.75
Silk figured and crepon striped Venetian; 4 combinations.
$2.75 from $4
Silk-and-wool Lizard Cloth; 6 combinations.
$2.25 from $3.50
Silk-and-wool polka-dot and bow-knot striped Crepon Velour; 5 combinations.
$2.25 from $3.25
Silk-and-wool Figured Cord, self colored, 4 combinations.
$2 from $3.50
Silk Figured Venetian, 4 combinations.

$2 from $3.25
Silk-and-wool Crepon Figured Velour, 5 combinations.
$2 from $3
Silk Polka Dot Venetians, 7 combinations. Venetian Cloth, velvet chenille oblong figures, 3 combinations. Velvet Chenille Striped Venetian, 2 combinations. Satin Venetian Cloth, 6 combinations. Silk Polka Dot Granite, 4 combinations. Silk-and-wool Velour Cords, 6 combinations.
$1.75 from $4
Silk-and-wool Crystellette, 4 combinations.
$1.75 from $3.50
Velvet Chenille Striped Venetian, 5 combinations.
$1.75 from $3
Silk-and-wool Crystellette Cords, 3 colorings. Mohair Curl Polka Dot Camel's Hair, 4 colorings.
$1.50 from $2.50
Camel's-hair Figured Plaids, 6 combinations. Pebble Cloth, mohair curl stripes, 5 colorings. Polka Dot Wool Crash, 2 combinations.

Lace Curtains We base our price-comparisons on regular values here. If curtains are needed now, or you think you'll need them within half a year, it's best to buy right now.

Irish Point—$3, $3.75, $4.50, $6.75, $8.75, $9 and $11 a pair—regularly $4.25 to $14. White and ecru.
Crepe and Madras Curtains, $3.75 to $12 a pair. Regular prices are $5.50 to $16.
Ruffled Muslin Curtains, 95c to $2.75 a pair. Regularly $1.25 to $3.75.
Brussels Lace Curtain., $5.50 to $19 a pair. Regularly $7.25 to $25.75.
Tamboured Lace Curtains, $3 to $7.75 pair. Regularly $4 to $10.50. Third floor.

Eiderdown Sacques Some are fifty cents each—others are $3.75. Between those prices various other qualities and pretty styles—new touches in the trimming and finishing that will find immediate favor. Mostly in solid colors—red, blue, pink, gray. One style in ripple eiderdown, at $1, is exceptionally attractive and popular. Second floor, Fourth avenue.

More News of the Fur Sale

Told of it Friday—how we bought the new stock-on-hand of a dependable furrier at a fourth to nearly a half off usual prices. He was in a hurry to get to Europe to attend the fur sales. Well, great selling followed, but the aggregate stock was large, and the assortment is fine to-day—the inexpensive neck piece to the more elaborate garment.

We reduce prices on many important pieces in our own stock, too. For instance—

Russian Sable Box Coat, $900 from $1,200.
Broadtail Coat, $375 from $500.
Persian lamb Automobile Coat, $225 from $300. And one at $280 from $375.
Then there are Sealskin Coats at $150 (one of our very special lines), electric seal Coats at $40 and $50, and Persian lamb Coats at $100. Second floor.

Women's Cloth Jackets

Important reductions are made here and there among our own stock, and we've just bought sixty fine chinchilla cloth Jackets, daintily finished, to sell at $10 instead of $20.

Golf Capes—more of the very special lots at $7.50, $8.50, $10 and $12.75. Second floor.

Muslin Underwear

We talk in too big numbers. Nobody can realize what a stock of goods a million garments would make. It's enough to say that we haven't room enough to store them all at once—so shipments are timed to keep pace with your demands. In the face of rising wholesale prices we cannot increase our orders at the low rate, remember. We are simply getting in more—and almost the last—of the lots bargained for long ago.

This second week finds assortments as good and the stacks apparently as big as ever. But the reserve stocks are fast disappearing.

We never had such big selling. You appreciate these very real bargains and, most of all, the good taste that characterizes the garments—in fabric, cut, trimming and the details of sewing.

Night Gowns.

38c—Empire; cambric ruffles on collar and sleeves; shield of fine embroidery. Not more than 3 to a buyer.
50c—Muslin; square neck; yoke of fine plaits; embroidered cambric ruffle on neck and sleeves.
65c—Muslin; pointed yoke of fine plaits and insertion; embroidery on neck and sleeves.
75c—Fine muslin; yoke of fine plaits and insertion; embroidery on neck and sleeves; ribbon at neck.
85c—Cambric; high neck; fine plaits at neck; large collar, edged with embroidery.
Other styles at $1, and up to $7.50.

Drawers

10c—Muslin; deep hem and 3 fine plaits. Not more than 3 to a buyer.
15c—Muslin or cambric; deep hem and clusters of plaits. Only 3 to a buyer.
25c—Muslin; lawn ruffle, edged with torchon lace and clusters of plaits.
35c—Cambric; deep ruffle of lawn, edged with lace.
50c—Cambric; umbrella ruffle with row of insertion and fine edge of torchon lace.
Some at 75c, at $1, and up to $4.50.

Corset Covers

8c—Cambric; fitted front and back; neck finished with neat embroidery. Not more than 3 to a buyer.
25c—Cambric; V neck, yoke of fine plaits and rows of hemstitching.
35c—Cambric; high neck; yoke of fine plaits and row of embroidery insertion; neck finished with embroidery.
50c—Cambric; V neck, front and back of fine plaits and insertion; neck finished with neat embroidery. Others up to $6.50.

Petticoats

35c—Muslin; cambric ruffle with wide plaits above. Not more than 3 to a buyer.
50c—Muslin; deep ruffle with hem and 3 plaits.
65c—Muslin; deep cambric ruffle; 3 rows of hemstitching and deep hem.
75c—Muslin; deep umbrella ruffle of cambric; deep hem and plaits.
$1—Fine muslin; deep umbrella ruffle of lawn; one row of torchon insertion; fine plaits and ruffle of lace.
$1.25—Cambric; deep ruffle of lawn; wide ruffle of embroidery; plaits above.
Others up to $17.50.

For Children

SHORT DRESSES
50c—Cambric; pointed yoke of plaits and insertion; embroidery edging.
80c—Nainsook; yoke back and front of plaits and hemstitching; deep hem and hemstitching on skirt.
95c—Nainsook; round yoke of plaits and insertion, finished with embroidery ruffle.
$1.15—Nainsook; pointed yoke of plaits, insertion and hemstitching; embroidery ruffle over shoulder.
$1.50—Nainsook; round yoke of plaits and insertion; circular ruffle of lawn, plaited; 2 ruffles and cluster of plaits on skirt.
PETTICOATS
50c—Nainsook; umbrella ruffle; deep hem; hemstitching.
75c—Lawn; cluster of plaits; lawn ruffle.
$1—Cambric; umbrella ruffle; embroidery edging and insertion.
Sizes, 6 months to 2 years.
Second floor.

Men's Suits to Order—$25

Not twenty-five-dollar suits, however. This is clearing-up time of one and two-suit pieces mostly—qualities from which we've made many a $40 suit, some that were $35 kinds, and none that brought less than $30. Choice now, $25, and excellent choice, too, of the season's approved styles in fancy cheviots and neat effects in worsteds. Sack suits, correctly cut, and made to fit.

Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Rich Velvets Reduced France has the patent of patience. None but Frenchmen would have conjured up these elaborate velvets or have taken the time to weave them.

Expensive? Yes, but esteemed. We are merely selling off the little lots left—Panne velvets and other rich sorts—

50c from $1.25 a yard—novelty weave.
80c from $1.75 $1 from $2

and so on, to $10 a yard for this $20 elegance. Rotunda.

Ready-Made Sheets and Pillow Cases There has been guessing enough, as to how we could sell even a portion of our stock of Sheets and Pillow Cases for less than the muslins are worth. We bought them long enough ago to antedate the raised prices—and simply give you the advantage we gained. For instance:

PILLOW CASES—Bleached, plain hem.
42x38½ in., 12½c 54x38½ in., 17c
SHEETS—Bleached, plain hem.
54x90 in., 40c 81x90 in., 58c
63x90 in., 45c 81x99 in., 63c
63x99 in., 50c 90x90 in., 64c
72x90 in., 53c 90x99 in., 69c
SHEETS—Bleached, hemstitched.
63x90 in., 53c 81x90 in., 66c
63x99 in., 58c 81x99 in., 71c
72x90 in., 61c 90x90 in., 72c
72x99 in., 66c 90x99 in., 77c

And all the other sorts are sold for less than we can buy next lots.
Fourth avenue.

Hurt Books More than we thought—not more hurts, but it happened to more books. A good many of the handsomely illustrated books—holiday editions—go in. Next to nothing, you know.

And here is an Encyclopedia Britannica, 30 vols., for $25.

Bulwer Lytton's complete works, best edition, 25 vols., cloth $23.50.

But gay books and grave are included. A cent of hurt means a dime of discount. It's a bookman's feast. Book Store, Ninth street.

Enameled Ware Half Price Stamped "seconds" but no matter. What if there is a little mar to the beauty of the coating—it is not such as to hurt the vessel. In fact, you might use the pieces half a year without finding the blemishes.

And even at full price, good enameled ware is cheaper than tin (because it lasts longer). And it's daintier, besides.

TEA AND COFFEE POTS—1 qt., 21c; 1½ qts., 24c; 2 qts., 28c; 3 qts., 31c; 4 qts., 35c; 5 qts., 39c.
DISHPANS—8 qts., 28c; 10 qts., 33c; 14 qts., 37c; 17 qts., 40c; 21 qts., 48c.
PIE PLATES—8 in., 6c; 9 in., 7c; 10 in., 9c.
COVERED BUCKETS—1 qt., 15c; 2 qts., 18c; 3 qts., 20c.
COVERED SAUCEPANS—2 qts., 18c; 3 qts., 24c.
COVERED STEWING KETTLES—3 qts., 18c; 4 qts., 19c; 5 qts., 21c; 6 qts., 23c.
MILK KETTLES—3 qts., 28c; 4 qts., 33c.
MOUNTAIN CAKE PANS—10c.
RICE BOILERS—2 qts., 50c; 2½ qts., 58c; 3 qts., 60c; 4 qts., 75c.
WASH BASINS—18c and 20c.
CHAMBER PAILS—88c.
Basement.

Pretty New Cottons Have Come

American Beauties cost heavily in January, but these printed beauties are no dearer than they'll be in May.

And think of the charm of first choice!

Robes—skirts shaped; ample material for waist and trimming—$10.50 to $22.50. These from Paris. The cotton is Mercerized—looks like silk.

So does this French "Satin" Cloth. It is 35c yard. Foulard styles.

But the Plumetis and Mousselines and Organdies are the bouquets—Nature must applaud such counterfeits of her blooms.

The Irish Dimities, the printed ones, have come. 25c a yard. Some with the typical cords; some with the ridges criss-crossed.

We've merely hinted—in fact, we've only had sly peeps at the goods as they came from their steamship cases Saturday evening.
Rotunda and Fourth avenue.

Dinner Dishes and Art China—Marked Down

We have no notion of disparaging the splendid business of other stores. Our aim is to build, not to tear down—yet, in telling the store news ever so carefully, it gets that miserable twang once in a while. Language is a cumbersome thing when one is in a hurry to impart good news. So we'll talk little—it's a mere invitation to you to share some good fortune.

Adjusting the China Store stocks we shall sell Dinner Sets at $6, $8.50, $15; Haviland china sets at $20, and so on to $125 for a sumptuous set from Limoges (but not the Haviland potteries). This set is worth $200.

Decorative china and Table Pieces, in rich color plays, are reduced a third; some a half. Salad Plates $6 from $10 a dozen. And so on through the list of pieces. Fish Sets, $3 from $5, and $15 from $25.

Plates, 75c. each. Worth $18 a dozen.
Plates, $1.25 each. Worth $25 a dozen.
Plates, 35c. each. Worth up to $9 a dozen.

457 pieces of Cut Glass reduced a fourth; yes, in many instances a third.

Bric-a-Brac is equally reduced.

And Lamps. A $125 one is marked $62.50. A $6.50 one is reduced to $4. Let that hint of dozens of others. Basement, Broadway.

Furniture—Some Decisive Bargains.

Too many or too few of a thing is excuse enough—we reduce the price to a point that makes the particular merchandise an irresistible bargain. Then you take it in a jiffy. To-day—

Bedsteads, $2 to $25. On Saturday the prices were $4.50 to $52.50.
Washstands, $7 to $10. On Saturday the prices were $10 to $15.
Bedroom Suits, $11.50 to $60. On Saturday prices ran from $17.50 to $88.50. There are twelve of the suits—one or two at each price.

May this hint of the way we keep furniture stocks so new and bright?
Fourth floor.

Notions Funny, isn't it? You'll study and strive to get five per cent. interest on your money, and then pay fifty per cent. too much for things you buy. Here's a chance to get notions at right prices—took a long time to build a really good notion store.

Stockinet Dress Shields, 5c pair.
Rubber Lined Dress Shields, 8c pair.
Linen Finish Thread, 100-yd. spool, 3c.
Safety Pins, black or white, card of 1 doz., 3c.
English Pins, paper of assorted sizes, 5c.
Strawberry Pin Cushions, 5c.
Safety Pins, book of assorted sizes, 5c.
Curling Irons, 3c.
Needle Books (4 papers needles and darners), 3c.
Hairpin Cabinets (heavy and invisible Hairpins), 3c.
Muslin Covered Corset Clasps, 3c.
Tomato Pin Cushions, 4c.
English Tape, bundle of assorted widths, 15c and 25c.
Silk Taffeta Ribbon, black or white, 8c piece.
Women's Cotton Side Garters, black or white, 7c pair.
Women's Silk Side Garters, assorted colors, 10c pair.
Women's Frilled Elastic Side Garters, Fancy colors, 15c
Fifth Floor.

Down Quilts Elegant, luxurious comfortables of purest down covered with handsome-patterned silk and satin, at reduced prices. One lot of $8.50 and $10 kinds,—mostly of the latter—at $7.50 each. Another group of good $22.50 sorts are now $18 each.
Third floor.

Blankets and Spreads These were all good values originally—they've been made still better. Substantial reductions in prices throughout.

$3 pair—Pure wool, scarlet; 62x80; 4 lbs.
$3.25 pair—All wool, gray; 64x80; 4 lbs.
$3.75 pair—All wool, scarlet, with black borders; 70x82 in.; 5 lbs.
75c—Crocheted bedspreads; full size; Marseilles; cheap at $1. Third floor.

Sateen Petticoats Mercerised sateen—made to look greatly like silk. In all the desirable colors. Deep umbrella ruffle, corded ruffle, lined with percaline and bound with velveteen. An excellent value at $1.75.

Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co., JOHN WANAMAKER Broadway, Fourth Avenue, Ninth and Tenth Streets.

71ST OFFICERS MAY RESIGN

Feeling High Over Election for Lieutenant Colonel and Major.

PRESSURE FROM HEADQUARTERS

Reported the Governor and Col. Bates Have Sought to Influence Votes Against Major Smith.

Friends of the Seventy-first Regiment view, it is said, with apprehension the election in that regiment for Lieutenant Colonel and Junior Major. It has already resulted in a clash in the form of a formal protest against the election at the casting of the ballots Friday night, and those ballots are now sealed up, awaiting the decision which the Colonel announces will be made at the meeting of officers called for to-morrow night. So high is the feeling running, it is said, that some of the oldest officers of the regiment may hand in their resignations.

At the election Friday night several of the best-known of the officers had their resignations in their pockets, awaiting the announcement of the vote. Friends of the officers whose pockets were bulging out with resignation papers claimed Col. Bates had sought to influence votes against the candidacy of Major Clinton H. Smith. The latter had not announced himself as a candidate, but some of his friends had determined to run him against Capt. W. L. Hazen.

It is said that when the Colonel heard of this he summoned several Captains to his office and urged them to stand by Capt. Hazen, the choice of the Nominating Committee. Major Smith's vote was concededly so close to a majority that one or two ballots would turn the tide either way. In this emergency, it is said, the Colonel took occasion to give his reasons why the committee's candidate should be elected.

Capt. J. H. Wells was indignant because Capt. Hazen had been preferred to him for Lieutenant Colonel. Capt. Wells played a conspicuous part in the battle of San Juan, and in the company commander's reports which appear in the annual report of Major Gen. Miles is repeatedly mentioned as being especially active. His friends assented that he had been "turned down" by the committee because he had repeatedly declared for Major Smith in his contest with the State court of inquiry. Therefore his and Major Smith's forces practically joined hands Friday night to defeat the nominations of the committee.

During the balloting one of the officers of the regiment said: "If it is true that the Colonel has been using his influence to affect the balloting, it is something the regiment will not stand for. These elections have been heretofore with us without any pressure from headquarters, and this is no time for such a move to be begun. It would be resented in any other regiment, and it will be resented here, even if some of us have to resign to show our displeasure."

In other quarters it was reported that word had come from Gov. Roosevelt that he wished the committee's choice to be elected. This rumor added to the feeling, and several more officers expressed their opinion of what they called "dictation from headquarters."

Col. William G. Bates was asked yesterday whether he had used any pressure on officers to influence their votes or whether he knew of the Governor's alleged interference in the election. "I must decline to say a word in the matter," said the Colonel.

What Col. Bates's decision will be to-morrow night was the topic of conversation and speculation among the officers yesterday. It will probably turn entirely on the question whether Capt. W. R. Hill, who made the protest on the ground of not receiving proper notice, was not "present at the election," as the code provides. He left the armory a few minutes before the polls were opened. The question will be whether he was not constructively present. The code says that an officer, if present, cannot make a legal protest on the ground of lack of legal notice.

As many as eight officers, including several Captains, are ready, according to rumor, to resign if the election goes against them. These prospective resigners are among the adherents of Major Smith and Capt. Wells. Some officers predict a postponement of the election till the feeling quiets down.

PRIEST CRITICISES THE POLICE.

Jersey City Rector Says Gambling Is Carried on Openly.

The Rev. John A. Sheppard, rector of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Jersey City, created something of a sensation at the 10 o'clock mass yesterday by criticising the police of the Second Precinct, of which police district his parish is part.

"The police system in this parish," said he, "is lax in the extreme. Policy gambling is carried on openly at many places in the precinct and the police make no effort to stop the practice. Even little children are permitted to enter these places and make plays, and the poor are robbed of the pennies they need for bread. One of these gambling dens is at Tenth and Henderson Streets, and another is at Pavonia Avenue and Provost Street. If the police cannot close them then other means must be found."

Capt. John F. Kelly, who is in charge of the Second Precinct, when told of Father Sheppard's statement, said he did not know whether it was true or not.

"My detectives," said he, "on whom I am compelled to rely in a great measure, have not reported these places to me. You can say, however, that I will make a personal investigation Monday morning, and if there are any policy shops at the points indicated, or anywhere else in the precinct, they will be promptly closed."

ALLEGED RAILWAY PASS FRAUD.

Man Arrested with Bogus Stationery and Signature Stamps.

In the person of Anson Van Sickle, alias "George Roe," who was arraigned before Magistrate Olmsted in the Centre Street Police Court on a charge of forgery yesterday morning, the police believe they have the man who has been obtaining by forged letters passes from various railroads entering New York, which he afterward sold to scalpers.

Van Sickle, or "Roe," was arrested Saturday night by Central Office Detectives Thompson and Mahoney at Eighty-ninth Street and Columbus Avenue, after being shadowed from a printing office at 21 Cedar Street, where he had left an order for the printing of letterheads in fac simile of the paper of several railroad companies in New York and New Jersey. When arrested he had a quantity of such paper and envelopes and a number of rubber stamps in his possession. The latter were supposed fac similes of the signatures of various railroad officers.

According to the statements in court of Detectives John H. McLean and W. A. Humphrey of the New York Central, and Detective R. F. Humphrey of the West Shore and New York, Ontario and Western Railroads, it had been Van Sickle's plan to present to the officers of one road requests for passes from officers of another road written on the bogus letterhead paper of the latter and stamped with the false fac simile signatures. The requests had been uniformly honored, and it was alleged that the passes were always bought up by scalpers. The prisoner was held in $500 bail for further examination to-morrow.

Van Sickle was seven years ago a palace car conductor on the New York Central Railroad, and later was employed as a brakeman in the West Fifty-fifth Street yards. He refused to give his address or to make a statement when arrested.

A Reception to Maud Gonne.

Miss Maud Gonne will be accorded a public reception at the Academy of Music on the evening of Sunday, Feb. 4. This was the decision reached at a meeting of members of Irish and German American societies yesterday at the Morton House. Patrick O'Brien was Chairman of the meeting. Miss Gonne has cabled to Mr. O'Brien that she will arrive in New York from Ireland on Jan. 24. It was voted at yesterday's meeting to send a cablegram to Miss Gonne informing her of the action of the meeting. A committee will go down the bay in a chartered steamer and meet Miss Gonne when she arrives. Miss Gonne will collect funds here for sick and wounded Boers.

SALE OF RUSSIAN SABLE.

Muffs, $125, $175, $225, $350, $450, $600 and $750.
Scarfs, with cluster of tails, $75, $125, $175, $250 up.
Collars, Capes, Victorines and Mantles at corresponding prices less 15 per cent. for cash.

HUDSON BAY SABLE.

Muffs, $30, $45, $60, $75, $90, $125, $150.
Scarfs, Collars, Capes, Victorines, in proportion, less 15 per cent.
I cannot reduce prices on Sable Skins. The discount is for manufactured goods only.
NOTE.—I do not sell Blended or Darkened Russian or Hudson Bay Sables. Ladies who have purchased them in Europe and elsewhere during the past two seasons complain of a mottled, shabby appearance after being worn a few times.

SEALSKINS & PERSIAN LAMB.

Mink, Stone Marten, Ermine, Chinchilla, Fox, latest styles at lowest possible prices for reliable goods.
Men's Fur Lined Overcoats, Coachmen's Outfits, Sleigh Robes—large assortment.

C. C. SHAYNE,
Manufacturing Fur Merchant,
42d Street, Between Broadway and 6th Av.

"KING OF DUBLIN" DEAD.

Fort Washington Grew Sorrowful When It Heard that Kindly "Tim" Harrigan Had Passed Away.

"The King is dead! Lord rest his soul!" The ancient saying thus reverently amended passing from lip to lip early yesterday morning announced to the citizens of Fort Washington that "his Majesty" had passed out. It meant the end of the dynasty. There are no heirs.

"The King of Dublin," after a rule of half a century, and with fourscore years to his credit, was dead. As a taxpayer on the city records and as a voter on the records of his party leader he was plain Timothy Harrigan. His home or "castle," as it is known, was one of forty frame shanties or more that are within walking distance of Wadsworth Avenue and One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Street.

When fifty years ago yesterday "Tim" landed here a penniless immigrant at Castle Garden he decided to locate reasonably near New York. Finding a "bit of land" at a reasonable rent up in Fort Washington he took it and started a small dairy. First one cow, then two, and by-and-by a score or more were his. The milk that "Tim" served soon became famous. He never milked the "black cow," as the pump has been ironically designated in these latter days.

As he prospered his first thought was of the "ones at home." When all his relatives had been brought out, the neighbors, aided by generous "Tim," were also induced to emigrate. He was the dean of the settlement. To him all disputes were referred—and there were disagreements that taxed even "Tim's" patience. But his word was law.

Long before the civil war he was designated as "The King of Dublin," as his little settlement became known. First rejecting the title, he grew in later years to accept it as his right. For years past the kindly old man had been happy, knowing that he had the love of his relatives, the respect of his neighbors.

Yesterday morning about 7 o'clock he went into the yard to get a stick of wood. He dropped near the woodshed, and before he could be carried into the house he was dead.

"The King is dead!" was the greeting of those who went to early mass. "The Lord rest his soul" was the refrain. It will be a royal funeral, and it is said the carriages will reach from the "King's" castle to the church where the solemn mass of requiem will be sung.

QUEENS OFFICIAL'S DEFENSE.

Fuel Inspector Van Nostrand Replies to an Expert's Charges.

Harry C. Van Nostrand, Fuel Inspector for Queens Borough, whose official conduct has been criticised by experts of Controller Coler's office, has issued the following statement:

"On Sept. 7 last I received a postal card from the janitress of Public School No. 28, at College Point, asking me for a supply of wood. When the wood was sent to the school the driver of the wagon was told that the school had been closed up and the pupils transferred to the new school, No. 27. He was told to take the wood to that school. He did so. No engineer had been appointed for that school at that time, so the Principal of the school, Henry Delamain, receipted for it. The engineer of the school was right in reporting to the Controller that he had not receipted for the wood, but if the expert had made a fuller investigation he would have found the receipt of the Principal. The value of the wood was $28.00, as stated by the Controller's expert.

"In regard to the statement that fuel had been placed in buildings not used for school purposes, the statement is true. Fuel was placed in the new buildings at Elmhurst, Queens, and Creedmoor, which as yet have not been used for school purposes, because I was informed that school would be commenced in these buildings at the beginning of the school year. The contractor afterward failed, and the schools have not been completed up to this time. The coal is there to-day."

NEW HOSPITAL BLESSED.

Bishop McDonnell's Visit to St. John's in Queens Borough.

The new Hospital of St. John, at Jackson Avenue and Twelfth Street, in the Long Island City section of Queens Borough, was blessed yesterday by Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn. The Bishop drove from the episcopal residence in Brooklyn and at the Vernon Avenue Bridge was met by the Catholic societies of the borough and their guests. The procession was led by a band. The parade had formed about Monitor Square before the arrival of the Bishop, and as soon as he arrived it moved. Patrick Cooney of Long Island City was marshal.

On arriving at the hospital the Bishop was met by Sister Mary David of the Sisters of St. Joseph, the associate sisters, who have charge of the hospital, and the attending doctors and other attendants at the hospital.

The Bishop went from room to room of the building, clad in his robes, and blessed each room. Following the religious ceremony there was a brief reception at the sisters' residence, adjoining the hospital. Following the reception a refection was served to the Bishop and clergy and a few invited guests in the dining room on the second floor. Among the laymen present were Patrick Maher of Flushing, County Judge Moore and Mrs. Moore, Deputy Commissioner of Sewers Matthew J. Goldner, Magistrate M. J. Smith, ex-Mayor P. J. Gleason, Henry Sharkey, Thomas Brown, Chairman Henry Kaufmann of the Board of Supervisors, and Francis Clair.

The hospital building, as completed at the present time, is a four-story brick structure, which has cost about $130,000. The hospital is a most important one, being located near the terminus of the Long Island Railroad, which has two large yards close by, and in the midst of the Queens Borough trolley system.

Justice Finn Honored by Firemen.

Justice Daniel E. Finn yesterday received a set of engrossed resolutions from the members of the Volunteer Firemen's Association, of which he was formerly an active member. The presentation took place in the Daniel E. Finn headquarters, at Hudson and Beach Streets. The resolutions thank Justice Finn for the work he has done for the Firemen's Association toward securing favorable legislation.

Deborah Lodge Anniversary.

Preparations are making on an extensive scale for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Deborah Lodge, No. 1, with a banquet and a ball at Sherry's next Sunday night. The details are being managed by Mrs. Roberts, the President, and Mrs. Leerburger, who is at the head of the Entertainment Committee.

SPORT ON THE SPEEDWAY

Big Crowd Sees Good Brushes Between the Fast Steppers.

William E., Driven by Dr. Kane, Has Things Pretty Much His Own Way—Bones and His Master Furnish Fun.

From early until late yesterday the Speedway was alive with horsemen with their fast steppers. The crowd of spectators also was unusually large and enthusiastic. They lined both sides of the stretch from Washington Bridge as far north as the eye could reach, and the favorites were lustily applauded.

Much amusement was afforded the crowd by an old fellow muffled in a cap and tippet driving an ancient-looking animal, which the crowd named "Bones," hooked to a four-wheeler that rattled so it could be heard a mile off. The old fellow seemed to take great pleasure in coming down the stretch with some of the Speedway stars. He would always manage to be about a length ahead at the half-mile post, and then look around to see if his opponents were coming. Then he would turn about, lay over the dashboard, and, plying the whip, would try to coax some speed out of the horse, but the minute he was passed he would pull up and wheel about, ready to give another exhibition.

The roadbed was all that could be desired. During the early morning the harrows had been run over it, breaking up those portions that had been frozen. The harrows were followed by the brooms, which laid the dirt as smooth and even as could be desired or obtained in the middle of Summer.

Among the early arrivals was Nathan Straus driving Cobwebs, 2:12. It was expected that the "King of the Speedway" would have a go with some others of the same class, but for some reason or other after jogging up and down the stretch a couple of times, Cobwebs was turned homeward. Dr. H. H. Kane, behind William E., had things pretty much his own way during the morning, and won several notable victories.

Two of the most spirited brushes of the day were between William E. and David H., 2:09¼, with J. H. Cornish handling the reins. The horses met and started off nose and nose at Washington Bridge. For a quarter they ran side by side without either horse seeming to be able to gain a lead. Nearing the half, however, David B. seemed to strike his gait, and with a burst of speed sailed about a length. William E. drew up a trifle, but was unable to recover the lost ground, David B. winning by about ten yards.

Dr. Kane was not satisfied with the performance of William E., and challenged Mr. Cornish to another brush. After several false starts they got away on a fairly even footing. For a quarter the pace was a terrific one, neither horse having the advantage. The roadway was cleared for the horses, and the spectators craned their necks to get a glimpse of them. Nearing the half-mile mark William E. drew ahead a trifle, but with a jump David B. was again on even terms. It looked very much like a dead heat, when suddenly William E. made a remarkable spurt and finished a winner by a length.

Mary A., 2:12½, driven by L. Schlosser, next fell a victim to the speed of William E. The race was a good one to the half-mile post, but after that William E. ran away from his opponent.

The cream pacer Schmitz, 2:24¼, had an exceedingly lively go with Lottie, 2:23¾, driven by Col. Lawrence. A. C. Fiske, who was driving Schmitz, met Col. Lawrence on the way down the stretch, and they started away on even terms. It was hammer and tongs to the half-mile post, where Lottie took a lead of a length, and held it until the animals were pulled up.

The handsome chestnut pacer King Tom, by Mambrino King, driven by C. Hackett; Brandywine, 2:20¾, and David B. had a rousing good race. All three were turned to a good start, and went away at an easy gait. At the quarter David B. began to show his speed, but King Tom was at his heels, and it seemed impossible to shake him off. When close to the half-mile post, David B. gained a slight lead, which he gradually increased, beating King Tom by one length and Brandywine by two.

Teams seem to be very popular with the spectators, and great interest is shown in them when they brush. One of the best races of yesterday was that between Mr. Rose's fast pacing team Sir Eld, 2:14¾, and Island Belle, 2:16¼, which were matched against Wainwright, driven by Mr. Wemple. On the start it looked as though Wainwright would show the team the way, but as soon as the team got down to their stride they left their opponent far behind. About this time Dr. Gill put in an appearance behind Jack, 2:12½, who is one of the Speedway favorites. After winning several exciting brushes, Dr. Gill tried hard to get a brush with D. Lamar, driving the fast pacer Ada P. The crowd clamored for a race, but Mr. Lamar did not seem disposed to satisfy them, and Jack was jogged homeward.

Ada P. took the measure of Prince Caffrey, driven by Mr. Luhrs, and Mary A. showed Dundess, 2:23¾, driven by Mr. Zahn, the way home in a sharp brush of a half mile. Among the well-known road horses and drivers out were Red Lady, 2:12¼, with Mr. Baumann handling the reins; Aleppo, the half-bred Arab pacer, driven by Max Hamburger; Brunhild, 2:15¼, driven by Melville C. Boynton; Dr. Raney, driving a team composed of Outlook and Catsall; E. B. Norton, driving a team of bays; M. L. Reid, behind the bay gelding Madison Chief, 2:17½; Richard Croker's horse Chanty, handled by a professional trainer, and George Coleman, behind Baylight.

JULIA MORRISON'S DEFENSE.

Testimony to be Heard To-day as to Her Susceptibility to Insanity.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 7.—Three physicians of this city will be examined to-morrow in the Julia Morrison murder case on the question of the defendant's susceptibility to emotional insanity or aberration of mind as a result of nervous weakness. The physicians to be examined attended Miss Morrison shortly after the killing of Leiden and made a study of her case.

Some question was raised last night as to the personnel of the trial jury, it having been discovered that one of the jurymen named McGill had killed a companion during a heated quarrel eight years ago over a game of baseball. Investigation showed that the jury which tried McGill found that he did not intend to kill his victim, but had struck him with a baseball bat in the heat of passion. He was fined $500. The State learned these facts to-day, but it has made no protest.

It is thought the case of Miss Morrison will not be given to the jury before Wednesday afternoon.

PATRIOTIC PERUVIAN REBELS.

Stop a Revolution So the Government May Ward Off Chile.

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 7.—In consequence of the reported attempts on the part of Chile to "Chilianize" the Provinces of Tacna and Arica the revolutionary chiefs residing in Iquique have resolved to paralyze all efforts at revolt by issuing a manifesto to the nation, leaving the Government free to devote its entire attention to the ransom of those provinces.

PLEADS FOR UNION IN FRANCE.

Senator Cazot Makes the Appeal in the Name of Gambetta.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—There was an imposing Republican demonstration to-day on the occasion of the annual pilgrimage to Gambetta's monument, at Ville d'Avray, a suburb of Paris. Despite the inclement weather, an enormous crowd was in attendance. The Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, and the Minister of War, the Marquis de Galliffet, sent representatives.

Senator Theodore Cazot delivered the principal speech, appealing, in the name of Gambetta, for "union and concord, of which France never stood more in need than she does to-day."

The meeting voted an address of congratulation to the Premier upon his campaign in defense of the Republic.

Prepare Kaiser's Yacht for a Trip.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—A dispatch from Hamburg to the Boersen Zeitung says that the renovation of Emperor Williams's yacht at Kiel is being pushed rapidly for a voyage to Rome and Egypt after April 1. The Kaiser will be accompanied by the Kaiserin.

Ocean Shipping at Hamburg.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—The statistics of ocean shipping at Hamburg for 1899 show 13,312 arrivals, an increase of 189 over the previous year, and 13,336 clearances, an increase of 804 over 1898.

NO CHALLENGE FROM LIPTON.

Sir Thomas Awaits Completion of Yachts by Watson.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Sir Thomas Lipton, it is understood, will defer action regarding another challenge for the America's Cup until the Distant Shore and another yacht now in course of construction according to designs by Watson have been completed for C. D. Rhodes.

Experts say the Distant Shore will be an improvement upon the Britannia and the Meteor, and that the designs are much like those of the Herreshoff masterpiece. It is noted as curious that Messrs. Herreshoff and Watson should not have known that they have been working on similar lines. The Distant Shore's water line will be two feet shorter than the Britannia's, but her sail area will be larger.

BOAT TO MEET SHAMROCK II.

Yachtsmen Believe a New American Craft Will Be Built.

The subject of a new boat to meet Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock II. was discussed by yachtsmen yesterday, and the consensus of opinion was that a new craft would be built. A former Commodore of the New York Yacht Club said: "It is true that the Columbia proved to be much faster than the Shamrock, but that is no reason why we should be caught napping next time. The lines and dimensions of the Columbia have been published, and there is no reason in the world why, with them as a basis to work from, either Fife or Watson could not build a craft that would at least be dangerous. This we cannot afford to have happen if it can be avoided, and I personally believe that another yacht will be built. I do not say this authoritatively, however, for I have not heard the matter discussed."

Both Mr. Iselin and Commodore Morgan have stated in interviews that they retired from international yacht racing after the victory of the Columbia last October. Should a new craft be built, it is probable that Harry Payne Whitney and Herman B. Duryea, both of whom were mentioned last season in connection with the New York Yacht Club's representative, will head the syndicate, and Mr. Duryea, acknowledged to be one of the most skillful amateur sailors in America, will be managing owner and director. It is also sure that either the Columbia or Defender, or both, will be placed in commission as trial horses for the new craft.

FOR THE NATIONAL REGATTA.

Harlem Oarsmen to Meet to Raise Money to Bring It Here.

The Harlem Regatta Association will hold a meeting this evening at the Hotel Marlborough for the purpose of raising money to bring the National regatta of amateur oarsmen to New York City this year. To-morrow evening a meeting of all the rowing clubs in and about the city will be held at the same place with the same purpose in view.

The committee appointed by the association to talk with the local clubs about holding the regatta on the Harlem River thus year has met with encouragement on all sides, and there seems to be little doubt that the regatta will be held here. James Pilkington of the Harlem Rowing Club, who is Chairman of the committee, recently obtained several excellent photographs of the proposed course along the Speedway. In speaking of the proposed course, Mr. Pilkington said yesterday:

"There is not a finer course in the country than the Speedway course, which, with a little improvement, can be made the best in the world. It possesses many advantages. In the first place, thousands of people can witness the races from the Speedway and high bluffs along the river, seeing them with the aid of a pair of glasses from start to finish. The transit facilities from different sections of the city to the course are excellent, and the oarsmen from New England and the West will not have to carry their boats.

"They can be taken from the cars at Morris Heights, launched, and rowed to one of the numerous houses along the water front. Another point in favor of this course is that the navigation is light, and that the water is always smooth."

Several clubs along the Harlem River have already agreed to give $100 each toward defraying the expenses of the regatta if it is held on the Harlem, and it is believed that a great deal more money than the $1,200 necessary will be pledged at the two meetings.

SUICIDE WAS 105 YEARS OLD.

Last Survivor of Nipunk Tribe Sets Her House on Fire and Dies Rather than Go to the Poorhouse.

WEBSTER, Mass., Jan. 7.—Investigation of the causes which led to the burning to death last night of Lucy Boston Johnson, aged 105, the last of the Nipunk Indians, makes it evident that she committed suicide to escape being taken to the Town Farm. It first was thought she was the victim of an incendiary fire.

It is now said the woman threw a lighted candle into a bundle of rags which lay in a corner of her dwelling. She was to be taken to the Town Farm to-day. She had repeatedly told the Overseer of the Poor that she would never consent to be an object of charity, but would destroy herself first.

The condition of William Fogarty, who was seriously burned in a heroic effort to save Mrs. Johnson's life, is precarious. Fogarty rushed into the burning house and dragged the woman out of doors.

FOUR POLAR BEARS AT SEA.

Drifting on an Iceberg Sighted Off the Newfoundland Banks.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 7.—Capt. Eckhoff of the Dutch oil tank steamship La Hesbaye, in port from Rotterdam, tells of an interesting sight he witnessed on the voyage to Baltimore.

When his ship was off the Newfoundland Banks a few days ago a large iceberg was sighted, and as the vessel drew nearer four large polar bears were seen walking about on a flat portion of its surface. They doubtless had been caught on it when it became detached from the glacier of which it was once a part in the arctic regions. Capt. Eckhoff did not stop his ship to get a shot at the bears. They doubtless will drown when the berg drifts into the warm waters of the Gulf Stream and melts.

WOMEN PRISONERS GET AWAY.

Knock Down Female Detective, but Lost Pocketbook Betrays Them.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 7.—Mariana Sczech, eighteen years old, and her sister Dacha, twenty-three, both of 90 Plane Street, Bloomfield, will be arraigned in the First Criminal Court to-morrow on a charge of shoplifting. The women were caught stealing in a store last night by Jennie O'Connor, a detective in the store.

While Miss O'Connor was leading her prisoners to the office Dacha struck her, knocked her down, and before she could get up the two women escaped to the street, and after a chase of several blocks through the crowded streets were lost to their pursuers in a Broad Street department store.

In the flight, however, one of the sisters lost her pocketbook, in which was a slip of paper bearing her name and address. The detectives found this, promptly notified the Bloomfield police, and they apprehended the women as they were approaching their home.

Dacha was hatless, she having lost her bonnet in the encounter with a clerk who tried to stop her after she had knocked down the woman detective. The sisters had two satchels with them which contained several dollars' worth of alleged stolen articles. They were taken to Police Headquarters and locked up.

Strike at Roebling Wire Mill.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Fifty boys employed in the Roebling Wire Mill struck last night against a reduction in their wages. The boys had been receiving seventeen hours' pay for twelve hours' work on Saturday night, and were cut down to fifteen hours' pay. The strike is still on.

Bowling Tournament Games To-day.

Royal Arcanum League—De Vinne, Empire City, Defendam.

Columbia League—Morningside, Empire City, Mercury.

American National—Lotus, Orchard, Rosedale.

Harlem League—Morningside, Oriental, Washington.

Junior Order United American Mechanics—George Washington, Old Glory, Logan.

National League—Riverdale, Empire, Berkeley.

Brooklyn Interclub League—Carleton vs. Crescent; Hanover vs. Columbia; Lincoln vs. Aurora Grata; Knickerbocker vs. Brooklyn Bicycle Club.

Brooklyn Royal Arcanum League—Long Island, Welcome, Lefferts.

Brooklyn Royal Arcanum Sub-League—De Witt Clinton, Bedford, Fulton.

Brooklyn National—South Paw No. 1, Amerfort, Orient.

THE SUBURBAN CANDIDATES

Sixty-seven Horses Entered for the Rich Handicap.

List Practically the Same as That for the Brooklyn—Entries for the Advance Stakes.

There will be practically the same entries for the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicaps this year, for the Suburban nominations, which were made public yesterday, include almost all of the Brooklyn Handicap candidates, the list of which was printed yesterday. The Suburban this year has a larger list of nominations than it has had for some years past. While there are sixty-four named for the Brooklyn, the Suburban, which usually brings out the largest crowd of spectators of the season, has sixty-seven. The increase in nominations augurs well for the season of 1900, for practically all of the stakes of the Coney Island Jockey Club, which closed on Jan. 3, show an improvement over last year's list, especially in the three-year-old and upward division:

The Suburban candidates, with the conditions which cover the big stake, are as follows:

A Handicap for Three Years Old and Upward.—Of $200 each for starters, $100 forfeit or only $15 if declared out by Feb. 20, 1900. Guaranteed cash value $10,000, of which $2,000 to the second and $1,000 to the third. Weights to be announced Feb. 1. Winners, after announcement of weights, of two races of $1,000 or one of $2,000, 4 pounds extra; of two of $2,000 or one of $4,000, 6 pounds extra; of three of $2,000 or two of $4,000 or one of $6,000, 12 pounds extra. In the case of horses handicapped at 115 pounds or over these penalties shall apply to the extent of one-half only; in the case of those handicapped at 122 pounds or over, to the extent of one-quarter only, and in the case of those handicapped at 130 pounds or over, they shall not apply at all. Penalties in the case of horses three years old shall not make the weight exceed 115 pounds. One mile and a quarter.

Imp,	Ethelbert,
Chacornac,	Batten,
Jean Beraud,	Admiration,
Rush,	Montanic,
De Lacy,	Algol,
Previous,	May Hampstead,
Raffaello,	Richard J.,
David Garrick,	Kinley Mack,
Macleod of Dare,	High Order,
Banastar,	Muskadine,
Withers,	Mayor Gilroy,
Voter,	Toddy,
Petruchio,	Autumn,
Approval,	Kilmarnock,
Guilden,	Star Bright,
Martimas,	Little Saint,
Herbert,	Manuel,
Half Time,	Wait Not,
Elfin Conig,	John Bright,
Jack Point,	Mr. Phinizy,
Latson,	Lothario,
Millstream,	Charantus,
Chartless,	Sky Scraper,
Kirkwood,	King Barleycorn,
His Lordship,	Decanter,
Prince McClurg,	Kriss Kringle,
The Kentucklan,	Survivor,
Strathconan,	Sarmatian,
Harry Nutter,	Intrusive,
Greyfeld,	Box,
Sidney Lucas,	Warrenton,
Lieber Karl,	Golden Link,
Dunois,	The Roman,
St. Simonian,

As in the Brooklyn, Imp, Banastar, and Ethelbert will probably be the three top weights when Mr. Vosburgh makes his assignment on Feb. 1.

The Advance Stakes, of $6,000, the other big stake of the June meeting, at a mile and three-quarters, has the following list of entries:

Imp,	Ethelbert,
Jean Beraud,	Rush,
Admiration,	Bangle,
Batten,	Previous,
Andronicus,	Kinley Mack,
Macleod of Dare,	Raffaello,
Prince McClurg,	The Conqueror,
The Kentucklan,	Tillo,
Brigade,	John Bright,
Rifle,	Radford,
Mischievous,	Kirkwood,
Ben Viking,	David Garrick,
Banastar,	Muskadine,
Withers,	Lucky Bird,
Mayor Gilroy,	Toddy,
Petruchio,	Zeus,
Bangor,	Survivor,
Strathconan,	Sarmatian,
Barton,	Box,
Chartless,	Pau Puk Kewis,
Magnificent,	Maid of Harlem,
Posthaste,	Royal Sterling,
George Keene,	Warrenton,
All Gold,	Jack Point,
Harry Nutter,	Sidney Lucas,
Lothario,	Little Saint,
Beau Ideal,	Manuel,
Half Time,	Wait Not,
Elfin Conig,	Grey Jacques,
Motley,	Laverock,
Approval,	Sir Vere de Vere.
Lamplighted,

SPECIAL COURT TENNIS MATCH.

Peter Latham, the World's Champion, Defeats Thomas Pettitt.

After the last of the holiday series of games at court tennis and racquets had been played at the Racquet and Tennis Club on West Forty-third Street, a special match at court tennis was arranged between Peter Latham of England, who holds the world's championship, and Thomas Pettitt of Boston, the champion of America. Latham, in previous matches with the American, has always had a shade the better of the argument when playing on even terms, so in the special match he conceded one-half of fifteen to his opponent. The handicap was not sufficient to hold the game for the American, for the Englishman, before a large audience, won the match in three straight sets as follows: 6—3, 6—4, 6—0.

Pettitt's nominal advantage of a handicap of one-half of fifteen did not prove to be of much help to him, for he was embarrassed by a weak ankle, which he injured several weeks ago and which prevented him from being as lively as he would have been otherwise.

Pettitt won the toss at the opening of the game, but Latham smothered his service, and had no difficulty in winning the first two games. The third went to Pettitt, but the Englishman came back again and they played almost on even terms until "three-all" was called. Latham took the first game out of hand in the second set, but Pettitt captured the second with a neat stroke to the winning gallery. The English champion won the third after Pettitt had stubbornly contested it, and the fourth went to Pettitt. Both men played in superb form until the end of the set, when Latham won by a score of 6—4. Latham maintained his advantage in the third set, although Pettitt played brilliantly, and was the victor again in this set by a score of 6—0.

The back-hand strokes of the Englishman, which have made him the world's champion, were brought into play frequently during the match, and really won the match for him.

All of the experts left for Boston last night, where last week's series will be repeated. They will visit Tuxedo when the Boston series is completed, and will play there at the opening of the new tennis and racquet court.

Dog Show Judges Appointed.

The following judges have been appointed for the twenty-fourth annual Dog Show of the Westminster Kennel Club, to be held at Madison Square Garden Feb. 20 to 23: St. Bernards and Newfoundlands, Miss A. H. Whitney, Lancaster, Mass.; Great Danes, James A. Lawrence, Columbus, Ohio; Russian Wolfhounds and Greyhounds, R. Forsyth Little, Jr., New York; Foxhounds, Pointers, and Setters, and Chesapeake Bay dogs, Major J. M. Taylor, Rutherford, N. J.; Irish Water Spaniels, Clumber, Field, and Cocker Spaniels, James Luckwell, Woodstock, Ontario; Poodles, Charles D. Bernheimer, New York; Boston Terriers, Bulkeley Wells, Boston; French Bulldogs, E. D. Faulkner, New York; Beagles, A. J. Purinton, Waterbury, Conn.; Mastiffs, Bloodhounds, Deerhounds, Retrievers, Collies, Old English Sheep Dogs, Dalmatians, all Terriers except Boston Terriers, Dachshunds, Pugs, Pomeranians, Toy Spaniels, and miscellaneous, L. P. C. Astley, Southport, England.

Roland Reed No Better.

Roland Reed, the actor, who has been ill in St. Luke's Hospital for some days, was reported to be no better early this morning. His condition is still regarded as critical.

Apoplexy in the Pulpit.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Jan. 7.—The Rev. C. G. Thomas was stricken with apoplexy to-night in his pulpit. He had just finished his sermon, and raised his hands, saying: "Let us pray," when he fell to the floor of the pulpit. His condition is pronounced by the physicians extremely precarious. Dr. Thomas is fifty-five years old.

URGES AID FOR PUERTO RICO.

Merchants' Association Sends Out 150,000 Circulars Advocating the Abolition of Customs Duties.

The Merchants' Association of this city has mailed to 150,000 merchants throughout the United States, a communication setting forth the urgency of action by Congress looking toward the betterment of the condition of Puerto Rico. The persons addressed are requested to write to members of Congress, from their districts, advocating a bill for the abolition of customs duties between the United States and Puerto Rico.

"It is important," says the Merchants' Association in its circular, "that Congressional action be taken with as little delay as possible. The transfer of the Island of Puerto Rico from Spain to the United States has brought about a very serious condition of affairs for that island. Its principal exports are coffee, sugar, and tobacco. Prior to 1898 its coffee was largely sold in Spain and Cuba. It was scarcely known in this country at all. It is of a very high grade, and, as a rule, commands high prices in Europe. When Puerto Rico ceased to be a colony of Spain, Spain's tariff on coffee became operative against that island, and that market, therefore, was lost to it.

"The raw sugars from Puerto Rico have come principally to the United States market. The highest grades of that sugar, which under our tariffs are dutiable as refined sugars, went largely into Spain. When Puerto Rico was lost to Spain that market was closed to it. The proportion of sugars grown in Puerto Rico bears a very small relation to the total consumption of the United States, so that the free introduction of sugars from Puerto Rico here would be a very small and insignificant item for this country, but a vital and important one to Puerto Rico.

"The tobacco grown in Puerto Rico under the Spanish rule was nearly all exported to Cuba, where it was mixed with Cuban tobacco and sold in foreign markets or went to Spain. Under the changed conditions both these markets for tobacco have been closed. It is not of a kind that would enter into competition with any line of tobacco grown in this country.

"This abnormal situation on the island operates against any development of the farms or general business. The people cannot sell that which they raise—they cannot buy. The island manufactures nothing to speak of. It has to buy everything it uses in daily life except that which it can grow from the soil. The American flag flies all over the island and yet there is greater suffering than when the yellow and red insignia of the kingdom of Spain floated over its fortresses. Pauperism has increased to an extent never known under Spanish dominion."

William R. Corwine, who was sent to Puerto Rico by the Merchants' Association to investigate the conditions of the island, in concluding his report, says:

"Place the inhabitants in the position where their trade can be extended, and all will be well; but if the policy which contracts trade and increases pauperism continues, the questions which in prosperity would become minor ones will grow in importance, and instead of a feeling of contentment which makes government easy, a spirit of discontent will arise which may render government hard. The Spaniards ruled by force. We can rule through the affections of the people. Shortened purses and empty stomachs are not, however, the bases upon which affection thrives."

ONCE PROSPEROUS, HE STARVED.

James Harvey, formerly a prosperous silk salesman, with a reputation all over the country, and brother of the manager of a big dry goods firm at Providence, R. I., died on the floor of a lodging house at 450 Pearl Street last night. He was fifty-four years old, and was asleep in a chair, when he suddenly awoke and slid to the floor without uttering a sound.

Policeman Olwell of the Oak Street Station was called in, and he sent for an ambulance. Ambulance Surgeon Cox of Gouverneur Hospital, who responded, pronounced the man dead. Harvey's brother Thomas is said to be the manager of the firm of Callender, McAuslin & Troup, Providence, R. I.

It was stated at the lodging house that Harvey had not done much work for about ten years. He was scantily clad in well-worn garments, and one of the habitues of the placed said he literally "starved to death," as he ate little.

The body was taken in charge by the police and later sent to the Morgue.

French Infanticide Must Die.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The Home Secretary, Sir Matthew White Ridley, declines to interfere with the sentence of death passed upon Louise Masset, a French governess living in England, for the murder of her child, whose existence was an obstacle to a marriage she had in view. The condemned will be executed next Tuesday.

SHIPPING AND FOREIGN MAILS.

Miniature Almanac—This Day.

A. M.	P. M.	A. M.
Sun rises...7:25	Sun sets...4:50	Moon sets..12:24

High Water This Day.

A. M.	A. M.	A. M.
S. Hook...12:52	Gov. Isl'd...1:25	H. Gate...3:21
P. M.	P. M.	P. M.
S. Hook....1:11	Gov. Isl'd...1:38	H. Gate....3:34

Outgoing Steamships.

TO-DAY, (MONDAY,) JAN. 8.

Mails Close. Vessels Sail.

City of Washington, Nassau	1:00 P. M. *1:30 P. M.	3:00 P. M.

TUESDAY, JAN. 9.

Algiers, New Orleans	.....	8:00 P. M.
Arranmoor, La Plata countries	12:00 M.	3:00 P. M.
Caribbee, St. Kitts	12:30 P. M. *1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Chateau Yquem, Naples	.....	.....
Columbia, Naples	9:00 A. M.	11:00 A. M.
Hispania, Haiti	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Iroquois, Charleston and Jacksonville	.....	3:00 P. M.
Tordenskjold, Progresso	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 10.

Athos, Colon	9:30 A. M. *10:30 A. M.	.....
Grenada, Trinidad	11:00 A. M.	.....
Hindoo, Hull	.....	.....
Matanzas, Tampico	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Miramar, La Plata countries	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Noordland, Antwerp	10:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
Seneca, Havana	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
St. Louis, Southampton	7:00 A. M. *9:00 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Uller, St. Kitts	10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
U. S. transport, San Juan	10:30 A. M.	.....

THURSDAY, JAN. 11.

La Champagne, Havre	7:00 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Santiago de Cuba, Santiago	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.

FRIDAY, JAN. 12.

Algonquin, Charleston and Jacksonville	.....	3:00 P. M.
Borderer, Azores	4:00 A. M.	.....
Erna, Jamaica	2:00 P. M.	.....
Hildur, Savanilla	10:30 A. M.	.....
Themis, Belize	1:00 P. M.	.....

SATURDAY, JAN. 13.

Alleghany, Kingston	10:00 A. M. *10:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
Lampasas, Galveston	.....	3:00 P. M.
Lucania, Queenstown and Liverpool	10:30 A. M. *12:00 M.	2:00 P. M.
Pretoria, Bermuda	9:30 A. M. *10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
Werkendam, Rottendam	8:00 A. M.	.....

*SUPPLEMENTARY MAILS.—Additional supplementary mails are opened on the piers of the American, English, French, and German steamers and remain open until within ten minutes of the hour of sailing.

TRANSPACIFIC MAILS.

Mails for Hawaii, Japan, China, and the Philippine Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 11, inclusive, for dispatch per steamship Hongkong Maru. Mails for Hawaii, via Seattle, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 14, inclusive, for dispatch per steamship Bloemfontein. Mails for Hawaii, China, Japan, and the Philippine Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 19, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer China. Mails for Australia, (except West Australia,) New Zealand, Hawaii, Fiji, and Samoan Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. after Dec. 30 and up to Jan. 20, inclusive, or on day of arrival of steamship Campania, due at New York Jan. 20, for dispatch per steamship Moana. Mails for China and Japan, via Vancouver, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 23, inclusive, for dispatch per steamship Empress of Japan. (registered mail must be directed "via Vancouver.") Mails for Society Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 26, inclusive, for dispatch by ship City of Papeiti.

†Registered mail closes at 6 P. M. previous day.

Incoming Steamships.

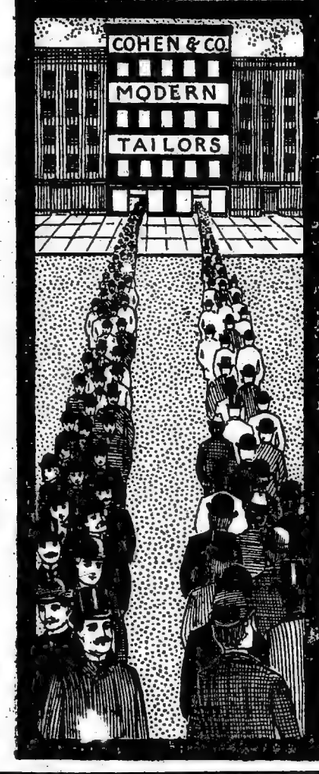
TO-DAY, (MONDAY,) JAN. 8.

Arkansas, Copenhagen, Dec. 9.
British Queen, Antwerp, Dec. 24.
Colorado, Brunswick, Jan. 5.
Europa, Shields, Dec. 21.
Exeter City, Bristol, Dec. 17.
Georgian, London, Dec. 24.
Hubert, Barbados, Dec. 16.
John Sanderson, Antwerp, Dec. 23.
Kansas City, Savannah, Jan. 5.
Seneca, Havanna, Jan. 4.
Teutonia, Stettin, Dec. 23.
Thomas Turnbull, Gibraltar, Dec. 21.
Winifred, Hamburg, Dec. 21.

TUESDAY, JAN. 9.

Alleghany, Port Limon, Jan. 2.
Bellenden, St. Lucia, Jan. 2.
Clematis, Gibraltar, Dec. 27.

TWICE A YEAR
JAN. 8th to MARCH 10th
JULY-AUGUST



The Greatest Tailoring Company's Half-Yearly Bid
STARTS THIS MORNING.

THE $15 Suit and Overcoat made to order were our first specialties. With growing business, larger facilities, improved methods, our $15 Suits and Overcoats have increased in value, and to-day are conceded to be worth $30.00 by all ordinary standards. To keep our force of skilled men tailors fully employed during the "off" months we make a special offer:

TWICE A YEAR.
POSITIVELY FOR 60 DAYS ONLY.

SUITS OR OVERCOATS $12 MADE TO ORDER.

Nothing slighted or skimped, unlimited choice of fabrics, including the new and fashionable Oxford gray—Slate and Cambridge in rough effects; also worsted, cheviot, cassimere, melton and diagonal from leading domestic and foreign looms.

Our garments are cut on modern lines, and include the Swell Raglan and Box overcoats, and extension shouldered, full-shaped Sack and Bell-fitted graceful-fitting frocks.

Cutting, draping and making all done in clean work-rooms on the house premises.

COHEN & CO., Tailors.
LOOK FOR
Red Balloons and Signs
Covering Entire Building.
AVOID MISTAKES
AVOID MISTAKES
Cor. Nassau and Ann Sts., N. Y.

El Paso, New Orleans, Jan. 4.
Louisiana, New Orleans, Jan. 4.
Sedgwick, Nuevitas, Jan. 5.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 10.

Algonquin, Jacksonville, Jan. 7.
Alps, Jamaica, Jan. 3.
Aragonia, Antwerp, Dec. 30.
Bovic, Liverpool, Dec. 31.
Hogarth, St. Lucia, Jan. 3.
Nueces, Galveston, Jan. 3.
Powhatan, Gibraltar, Dec. 27.
Willehad, Bremen, Dec. 3.

THURSDAY, JAN. 11.

Colorado, Hull, Dec. 30.
El Mar, New Orleans, Jan. 6.
Fernfield, Shields, Dec. 27.
Marquette, London, Jan. 1.
Strabo, St. Lucia, Jan. 4.
Trave, Bremen, Jan. 2.

FRIDAY, JAN. 12.

Panama, Pauillac, Dec. 29.
Pennsylvania, Hamburg, Jan. 1.

SATURDAY, JAN. 13.

Critic, Dundee, Dec. 30.
Etruria, Liverpool, Jan. 6.
Norge, Christiansand, Dec. 30.
St. Paul, Southampton, Jan. 6.

Arrived.

SS Saratoga, Johnson, Cienfuegos Dec. 20 and Santiago Jan. 3, with mdse. and passengers to James E. Ward & Co. Arrived at the Bar at 9:22 P. M.

SS Sempione, (Ital.,) Costa, Genoa, &c., Dec. 18, with mdse. and passengers to Hirzel, Feltmann & Co. Arrived at the Bar at 7:30 P. M.

SS North Anglia, (Br.,) Williams, Girgenti, &c., Dec. 4, with mdse. to Cunmo Fruit Co. Arrived at the Bar at 7 P. M.

SS Drumelzier, (Br.,) Nicholsen, Daiquiri Dec. 31 and Philadelphia Jan. 6, with iron ore to order—vessel to Funch, Edye & Co. Arrived at the Bar at 8:30 A. M.

SS Belgravia, (Ger.,) Schrotter, Hamburg Dec. 25, with mdse. and passengers to the Hamburg-American Line. Arrived at the Bar at midnight 6th.

SS La Champagne, (Fr.,) Fajolle, Havre Dec. 30, with mdse. and passengers to the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique. Arrived at the Bar at 12:28 A. M.

SS Sandfield, (Br.,) Cawse, Teneriffe, Dec. 23, in ballast to Simpson, Spence & Young. Arrived at the Bar at 9:30 A. M.

SS Tallahassee, Askins, Savannah Jan. 4, with mdse. and passengers to the Ocean Steamship Co.

SS El Rio, Mason, New Orleans Jan. 3, with mdse. to J. T. Van Sickle.

SS Hamilton, Boaz, Newport News and Norfolk, with mdse. and passengers to the Old Dominion Steamship Co.

SS F. W. Brune, Hastings, Baltimore, with mdse. to H. C. Foster.

SS Henry L. Gaw, Gaither, Baltimore, with mdse. to H. C. Foster.

WIND—Sandy Hook, N. J., Jan. 7, 9:30 P. M., southwest, moderate breeze, cloudy.

Sailed.

SS Old Dominion, for Boston.
SS Snowflake, (Br.,) for London via Southampton.
SS Bristol City, (Br.,) for Bristol.
SS Maling, (Br.,) for Antwerp.
SS Horton, (Br.,) for Dunkirk.
SS Barcelona, (Ger.,) for Newport News.
SS Baron Cawdor, (Br.,) for Manchester.
SS Beltor, (Br.,) for Hamburg and Rotterdam.
SS Nacoochee, for Savannah.

Notice to Mariners.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., Jan. 7.—The lights in Gedney Channel are not burning to-night.

NANTUCKET SHOALS LIGHT VESSEL.—Notice is hereby given by the Lighthouse Board that on Jan. 2, 1900, Light Vessel No. 66 broke adrift from her station, about 14 miles S. W. by W. ¾ W. from Asia Rip, Phelps Bank, Nantucket Shoals, and put into New Bedford. The vessel will be replaced on her station as soon as practicable.

This notice affects the "List of Lights and Fog Signals, Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, 1899," Page 42, No. 146, and the "List of Beacons and Buoys, Second Lighthouse District, 1899," Page 82.

Miscellaneous.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—SS Adato, (Br.,) Capt. McIntyre, from Sabine Pass via Norfolk for Rotterdam, put in at Portland to-day with her cargo of cotton afire. With a view to preventing further damage in the second hold, Lloyds agent has gone aboard, assisted by twenty-five hands with two salvage pumps.

LISBON, Jan. 7.—SS Lago, (Br.,) Capt. Nolie, which sld. from Hull Dec. 7 for Boston, and which was reported disabled with her shaft broken, was towed in here to-day by the SS Cephalonia, (Br.,) from Table Bay.

By Cable.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—SS Etruria, (Br.,) Capt. Watt, (from Liverpool,) sld. from Queenstown for New York at 9:35 A. M. to-day.

SS Friesland, (Belg.,) Capt. Nickels, from Antwerp for New York, passed Isle of Wight to-day.

SS Ohio, (Br.,) Capt. Hadaway, from Hull for New York, passed Dover to-day.

SS Rhein, (Ger.,) Capt. Gathemann, from New York for Bremen, passed Scilly Jan.

The New York Times.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

PUBLISHED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR.

NEW YORK, MONDAY, JAN. 8, 1900.

OFFICES:

NEW YORK:
Publication Office.....41 Park Row
All American District Telegraph Offices.
WASHINGTON.....515 Fourteenth St.
LONDON: Trafalgar Buildings, Trafalgar Sq., W.C.
SWITZERLAND, Geneva: P. Drehmann, Librairie Nouvelle, Rue du Mont Blanc.
GERMANY, Mainz: Saarbach's News Agency, Agency for ... and Austria.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

BY MAIL, POSTAGE PAID.

DAILY, per Month	$0.50
DAILY, per Year	6.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Year	7.50
SUNDAY, per Year	1.50
SATURDAY, with Review of Books and Art, per Year	1.00
MONDAY, with Financial Supplement, per Year	1.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Month	0.65

For postage to foreign countries add 50 cents per month.

TEN PAGES with Financial Review and Quotation Supplement.

STICK TO THE MAIN ISSUE.

Senator ALDRICH'S explanation of the Currency bill of his committee has developed precisely the kind of opposition that we predicted would be offered, namely, an attack on the bill for its funding provisions and on the advantages offered to the National banks to induce them to invest in the new bonds. This attack is made with the greatest fervor, curiously enough in The Sun of this city, which is supposed to be in reasonably close sympathy with the senior Senator from New York on most things political except the Chairmanship of the County Committee. The Sun says:

> The creation of $100,000,000 of 2 per cent. thirty-year Government bonds, which the bill contemplates for the purpose of enabling the National banks to issue their circulating notes at a smaller cost than at present, is also vicious in principle. The Government is to pay 2 per cent. per annum to the banks on the bonds they deposit as security for the payment of their notes and take back only ½ per cent. in the shape of taxes on the notes issued on the security of the bonds. The Nation is thus to become responsible for the redemption of the notes, and yet pay the banks 1½ per cent. per annum for issuing them. Clearly, it would be much cheaper for it to issue the notes itself, and not pay the banks for doing it. It is going to create and maintain a department for the redemption of its notes now existing, and the addition to them of a few hundred millions more would not involve any additional expense. The cry that this is banking business in which the Government ought not to engage is too silly to need an answer.

It is unnecessary to point out that there are assumptions in this statement and argument of The Sun inconsistent with the accepted policy of the Republican Party and still more inconsistent with the views held by well-informed and conservative financiers. These facts have promptly been appreciated by Mr. BRYAN, who on Saturday evening delivered an address showing much the same spirit as to the banks, and based on much the same notion as to the function of the Federal Government with regard to the issue of "money." What we desire to emphasize at present is the fact that the main purpose of both the House and the Senate bills is imperiled by insistence on the provisions as to funding and the banks. We do not know exactly how much the opposition may amount to after the measure has undergone the debate that awaits it in the Senate. It is, of course, significant that the first and most bitter attack should come from a nominally Republican journal with associations of peculiar intimacy with a prominent and in some respects an influential Republican leader. As this attack is on the same lines adopted by the single leader of the Democratic Party, it undoubtedly foreshadows the policy of the Democrats in the Senate and is a warning to Senator ALDRICH and his committee of what they must expect.

From the point of view of party consistency it may be noted that the main provision of the House and the Senate Currency bills has the highest possible authorization. It was embodied in the House bill by direction of a caucus. It was indorsed by a caucus when it was introduced at the opening of the present session. It was passed by the aid of every Republican vote in the House. It has been approved by the Senate Committee on Finance and embodied in the Senate bill, and there is every reason to suppose that this part of the Senate bill will receive the votes of all the Republicans in that body. This provision is for the reaffirmation of the gold standard, for its unqualified application to all forms of money issued or coined by the United States, and, in the House bill, for its application to all present and future obligations of the United States and for the maintenance of the standard in the most complete and practical manner. There is not the least reasonable doubt that this provision can be enacted into law, if it be set free from the provisions as to refunding and the banks which now entangle and impede it.

Our own view is that everything and anything necessary to the enactment of the clearest and most complete declaration of the gold standard and the most practical and sure means of maintaining that standard should be done. If this can be accomplished by dropping the refunding plan, let that plan be dropped. On the other hand, if the House can secure the adoption of its superior gold standard provision by accepting the Senate refunding plan, let it be accepted. It is not a good plan in itself, and it is utterly inadequate to the settlement of the bank circulation problem. But the effect of it is of no consequence in comparison to the immense and lasting advantage to be got from the adoption of the best possible system for the impregnable establishment of the gold standard. Until we get that, we are, in spite of our Spanish war and our Oriental possessions and our expanding trade and our pretentions as a "world power," essentially provincial and remote and backward.

THE UNDERGROUND ROAD CONTRACT.

Applications for injunctions to prevent the letting of the contract for building the rapid transit railroad need excite neither surprise nor alarm. The time is short. One week from to-day the bids will be opened. The interests that are hostile to the project are doubtless alert and probably ugly. The chances are that some of them will ask the courts to restrain the Commissioners from awarding the contract.

No delay will be occasioned by a move of that nature. Courts are human. The courts of this jurisdiction know that the will and mandate of this community have been long balked of their accomplishment by the multitudinous obstacles erected to block the way to rapid transit. Any man who can show good cause why an injunction should issue will not address the court in vain, notwithstanding the popular impatience. But the courts will make short work of merely vexatious and obstructive applications. No court wants to delay a work of urgent public necessity just to oblige a crank, or to please a dog-in-the-manger corporation.

The rapid transit question has been completely thrashed out. At this late day there can be no new interests to invoke the protection of the courts. The old ones have their remedy in actions for damages if they can show that they have suffered injury for which they deserve compensation.

It is of good augury that at late the Rapid Transit Commissioners and the City Government are in accord. Corporation Counsel WHALEN said on Saturday:

> Any one who attempts to bring an injunction suit will have a hard legal battle, and will become very unpopular. Such a suit can only be brought against the Rapid Transit Commissioners, but the counsel of the commission can count on the active support of the Law Department of the City of New York.

For twenty years we have been making laws, preparing plans, and organizing companies for a rapid transit railroad. There is now a most hopeful prospect that the undertaking will be well under way before the beginning of the new century.

IS RECIPROCITY A SHAM?

The commercial interests of the United States are awaiting with something akin to anxiety the confirmation of the French treaty by the Republican Senate and House of Representatives. It will be three years this Summer since the Dingley tariff with its very high rates of duty became a law under the most solemn promise on the part of its promoters that substantial modifications of customs duty would be made through reciprocity treaties, which were made by the Republican National platform part of the party programme. To arrange these conventions President MCKINLEY appointed the Hon. JOHN A. KASSON, an experienced diplomat, Special Commissioner Plenipotentiary, and the machinery of the Administration was put in motion, apparently in good faith, to fulfill the pledges of the campaign and the even more specific promises of the advocates of the Dingley law. After two years and a half, during which period the protectionists have enjoyed, in some schedules, higher protection than under the McKinley tariff, the French treaty, a bunch of commercial treaties with the West Indies, and a treaty with the Argentine Republic, are at this moment knocking at the door of Congress for confirmation.

These treaties are of the utmost importance to our constantly expanding foreign commerce, and are laid before the Senate with the indorsement of a President and Cabinet who individually and collectively represent the most extreme protection known to modern economic history. The statesmen to whom these treaties are referred are equally orthodox, and include such men as Senator DAVIS of Minnesota, Senator FRYE of Maine, Senator FORAKER of Ohio, Senator CULLOM of Illinois, and probably, if a sub-committee of the Finance Committee be included, Senator ALDRICH of Rhode Island. All of these high priests of protection, we are reliably informed, favor the general principles of reciprocity, all of them realize the necessity of putting our foreign commerce on a better footing, and all of them are fully aware that these treaties—especially the treaty with our sister republic, France—will encourage the industries of the United States by opening and holding open important avenues of trade. The redemption of a party pledge, the enlargement of the foreign markets for American commodities, and the honest fulfillment of promises made to Republicans, some of whom voted for high rates of duty because they were given to understand reductions must be made for treaty purposes, point to the wisdom of immediate confirmation.

Unhappily this does not seem to be likely. The slight reduction of duty here and there which Mr. KASSON has deemed necessary in these reciprocal arrangements is meeting with opposition on the part of the antediluvian protectionists, some of whom are ready to rend in twain their former idol, President MCKINLEY, Senator ALDRICH, and all other protectionists who recognize that a changed condition confronts us. Glancing over the French treaty, which is the most important, because on its passage may depend the German, Russian, and Spanish commercial treaties, we are puzzled to know what the row is all about. Mr. KASSON, in the French treaty, has only in eight cases made use of the maximum reductions authorized under Section 4 of the Dingley law. Most of the reductions are but 5 and 10 per cent., leaving the schedules even then with duties as high as the McKinley law—high from a protection point of view. On the other hand, we secure in return concessions which enable American industry to open new markets for its great staple products, and hold steady those which we now control. The benefits will be widely distributed and affect advantageously not only our manufactures, but our mining and agriculture.

It cannot be that the leaders of the party in power will allow these important treaties to go by default at a time when our export trade has reached a total equal to that of Great Britain, and when we have just secured a fair and open market in the Far East. To defeat such reciprocal trade arrangements as the French treaty now before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations will place us behind thirty nations in our trade relations with France. The money expended for exhibits at the Paris Exhibition will have been largely wasted, and American exhibitors will obtain no adequate returns. Instead of having the minimum rates of duty assured American products, our trade will be continually harassed by threats of maximum rates which an ever-changing French Ministry can enforce at will. Such an act of folly—and we are writing from a Republican, not a Democratic, point of view—would be evidence that the reciprocity of the Republican platform and of the Dingley law was a humbug and sham; that the promises of the platform were intended to fool the people, while the promises of those responsible for the Dingley bill were intended to fool their own colleagues, men less radical than themselves, whose votes would never have been given for higher rates than the McKinley tariff without this promise of reciprocity.

It is the duty of all Democrats who favor broader trade relations with the rest of the world to vote for the confirmation of these treaties. President MCKINLEY is entitled to support, and more especially because of the unreasoning attitude which some of his former supporters are assuming against their old-time champion. It is not an occasion to play the demagogue, because the issue is commercial and not political. The politicians who bring about the defeat of the French treaty, whether extreme protectionists or extreme free traders, will be held accountable by the people. If the greed and stupidity of the antediluvian protectionist defeat the treaties his success will be short-lived, because it will result in a reduction of the tariff all round by the next Congress. Let the responsibility for another tariff agitation rest with the high protectionist and not with the tariff reformer. The latter can afford to use his influence in the direction of more satisfactory commercial relations with foreign nations without compromising his principles. The French treaty is the first opportunity afforded to do this, and the Administration is entitled to the support of all fair-minded men irrespective of party affiliations.

THE UNCHANGING BRYAN.

The aspiration to power ought to have a sobering effect as well as the possession of it. Four years of unflagging aspiration have had no effect on W. J. BRYAN. He is still, as he was in 1896, "ambitious, unsteady, unsafe." He never sobers up.

An aspirant for the Presidency could hardly make a more shocking blunder than BRYAN made the other day when he expressed his warm approval of some resolutions of sympathy for the Boers. He asks the people to put into his hands the chief executive power, of which one of the most important branches is the management of the foreign relations of the Government. There is no tradition of our foreign policy more firmly established than that of perfect neutrality toward powers engaged in war with each other, but friendly to us. If Mr. BRYAN should ever attain to that high office he would come to it under the serious disqualification of an expressed partisan preference in a quarrel which is no concern of ours.

In one of his Midlothian campaigns Mr. GLADSTONE made use of an ill-judged remark that gave great offense to Austria. He was successful in his campaign, and so was his party, but when he became Prime Minister he made his apologies to Austria in a phrase that became famous. We do not even know that BRYAN would have the grace to express regret for his indecently meddlesome remarks about the Boers. We do know, of course, that he will never have occasion to make an official disclaimer in atonement for that or any other blunder. That is the only consoling thought that patriotic citizens entertain about BRYAN.

From the point of view of domestic and party politics it was, of course, a glaring mistake for BRYAN to "take sides" in the Boer war. The sympathies of the American people and of the Democratic Party are divided as to that conflict. It is not a campaign issue, and is first-rate matter for a candidate to let alone.

AN ERRING BROTHER.

THE NEW YORK TIMES to-day opposes the mooted measure [the educatfonal unification plan] for the reason and project of political grab in it, but accounts for the character of the project by its estimate of the Board of Regents, whom it regards as an assorted or as an unassorted collection of "old fogies and political editors," the latter doing the business of the board and the former being pushed aside. The "old fogies" of the board, such men as Dr. UPSON, Dr. WATSON, Dr. HARRIS, Bishop DOANE, Dr. SEXTON, Dr. WARREN, Dr. BEACH, Judge TURNER, Dr. GUILFORD SMITH, and other scholars of high standing in their professions and in affairs, will undoubtedly be surprised by the honorable decoration of THE NEW YORK TIMES, and so will men of their weight of character throughout the State and Nation. The decoration can be let pass, for we think, whatever THE TIMES may have to gain by it, the gentlemen on whom it seeks to fasten the stigma will not be losers in the court of conscience or of public opinion by the measurement or by the manners of that paper.—The Brooklyn Eagle, Jan. 6.

Such a capacity for misapprehension must make the rest of the Regents pray rather loudly for another and different defender.

THE TIMES has made no such "estimate" of the Board of Regents as The Eagle attributes to it. It stated in plain language the fact that it was charged that the board was made up of poor stuff. THE TIMES did not make the charge. Here is the passage:

> It is charged that the Board of Regents is made up of old fogies, political editors, and respectable nobodies. The commission therefore decided that the appointment of the first Chancellor under the new plan should be made by the Governor, not by the Regents, and that he should hold office eight years.

The argument of THE TIMES was that "if the board is unfit for its high duties it ought to be remade altogether." "If, on the other hand, the board is still worthy of respect and confidence, why not let it appoint its own Chancellor?"

The plan proposed by the Unification Commission is bad either way.

THE SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

It is reported that the Ship Subsidy bill will be pressed vigorously during the remainder of the session of Congress, and it is obvious that a powerful and skillful lobby is already at work for it. But there are signs that the opposition may be stronger than had been counted on in the last session or even at the opening of this.

Two forces of considerable importance have become active within the past month. One is the opposition of organized labor, and the other that of the farmers' organization. The American Federation of Labor, of which Mr. SAMUEL GOMPERS is the President, at its National Convention in Detroit, not only refused to adopt a resolution indorsing the PAYN-HANNA bill as it was urged to do by certain delegates, who curiously enough held Government places, but it condemned the principle of subsidies in the strongest terms. Among the resolutions passed were these:

> A subsidy in the very nature of things is the granting of special privileges empowering some men to fill their pockets at the expense of others through the forms of law.
>
> Special privileges have a corroding and demoralizing effect on the citizenship of our country, inasmuch as they debauch our Legislatures and tend to the belief that a public office is a public snap, to be worked for personal gain and class interest.
>
> Such legislation unit vates the belief that anybody may, if he can, stick his hands into the public treasury and fill his pockets without harm to others.

The National Grange—the most extensive organization among the farmers, adopted the following resolutions, in the same sense:

> Resolved, That, while this National Grange does most heartily desire the upbuilding of the American merchant marine, we are emphatically opposed to the principle of subsidies and believe desired results can and will be accomplished without resorting thereto.

Probably the bill will pass the House, if it be made a caucus measure, as is likely, but with this sort of backing, its opponents in the Senate should be able to block it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

—With an audacity which is simply astounding, and which cannot fail to have the most terrible consequences, the editors of the Almanach de Gotha allude, in the preface of their new edition, to the year 1900 as "la dernière année du siècle qui s'achevé." When one remembers that the Emperor of Germany has decided, and therefore settled conclusively, for all his loyal subjects, that 1900 is not the last year of the century about to end, but the first year of the century about to begin, and also recalls the fact that Gotha and all that in it is are well within the territory covered by the Emperor's divine right to acquiescence in all his ideas, however grotesque, it becomes all too evident that these unhappy editors have been guilty of Majestätsbeleidigung so heinous in its character that mere life imprisonment will be no adequate penalty for it. The sufficiency even of decapitation is doubtful, for just as the Almanach de Gotha occupies a peculiar position in literature, so its compilers are set apart from other men, and must pay for the inestimable privileges by renouncing all desires to think for themselves on any topic whatever. What is it to them that outside of Germany nobody with enough mathematical ability to count up to 100 doubts or ever was doubted that this is the last year of the nineteenth century? What is it to them that anybody in Germany or out of it who maintains a contrary view makes himself or herself the object of ridicule from enemies and of sympathetic anxiety from friends? The Emperor has declared that at some period unrevealed there was a century with only ninety-nine years in it, and if his statement about a little thing like that is to be ignored by the Almanach de Gotha, what is the world coming to?

—A writer in The Chicago Standard, a Baptist publication, makes the somewhat harsh assertion that "newspaper science is about the most grotesque and amusing reading in the world, as a rule." There is indubitably a good deal of excuse for this display of impatience, for the periodical press, both religious and secular, does make a lot of more or less absurd mistakes when it attempts to discuss scientific matters. The critic should not forget, however, that errors of this sort are comparatively harmless, since people really in search of scientific information look for and find it elsewhere, and, on the other hand, occasional inaccuracies are rendered inevitable by the almost terrifying breadth of the field which modern newspapers and magazines are in a measure forced to cover. Good science as well as bad, too, is to be found in the papers, and as all the blunders are corrected sooner or later, the ultimate effect is a diffusion of useful knowledge much wider than would be possible in any other way. What moved The Standard man to wrath was a yarn about the ease with which the Sahara Desert could be turned into an ocean by cutting a canal from the Mediterranean, and he does some interesting figuring as to how big this canal would have to be. "It would be necessary," he says, "to let in water faster than evaporation would carry it away. Now, over the surface of the Mediterranean Sea evaporation amounts to five or six feet per annum. Over the Sahara it would be greater. But let us say six feet, and put the area of the desert at 3,000,000 square miles. On these suppositions it would take an inflow of 450,000,000,000,000 of cubic feet per year to keep the sea from loss by evaporation, even if there were a sea there, or 50,000,000,000 cubic feet an hour. The mean annual flow of the Mississippi is at the rate of 2,500,000,000 cubic feet an hour. It would therefore require twenty streams as large as the Mississippi to maintain the Sahara Ocean, if there were an ocean already there. To build a canal large enough to carry such a volume of water would be something of a task!"

—Twenty years ago one WILLIAM WOOD was sent to the insane asylum at Topeka, and there, properly enough, he has remained ever since, but at last the State authorities have come to the conclusion that as WOOD is a millionaire his relatives should not expect free board and clothes for him. It seems that when the man first lost his mind his only earthly possessions were some doubtful claims on certain mining property in Colorado, of still more doubtful value. After protracted litigation, however, his claims were established, and the mines became generous producers. These facts, curious as it may or may not be, were not forced upon the attention of the State authorities, and WOOD continued to remain a free patient in the asylum. Now the lunatic's guardian has been called upon to pay at once the sum of $4,015.40 for food and raiment already supplied, and to make further payments at the not extravagant rate of $2.80 per week while the patient's affliction persists, which, according to all accounts, will be for the rest of his life. WOOD is now forty-five years old, and in perfect health, except as regards his mind, for the recovery of which there is no hope.

—For a person who has made a great point of his chivalrous regard for the well-being and repute of his extra wives, Mr. BRIGHAM H. ROBERTS is resorting to some very queer tactics. In his attempts to pick flaws in the evidence presented against him the would-be Congressman has not hesitated to say things not far from denials that even Mormon marriages unite him to the women bearing his name, and the question as to where this leaves the objects of his comprehensive affections is one that it may trouble him to answer. For instance, he asserted that no proof of his illegal marriage to MARGARET C. SHIPP ROBERTS had been offered, except testimony establishing the fact that he had been seen near and in her house. That cannot help being embarrassing for said MARGARET C. SHIPP ROBERTS, and it is well calculated to destroy the only claim on the patience of his countrymen which Mr. ROBERTS has yet suggested.

—POOR Col. BADEN-POWELL! Evidently the Boers do not understand war as he does, and it's no wonder that he speaks sorrowfully of their inconsiderate behavior. He makes a sortie from Mafeking, marches handsomely up to a fort, and prepares to occupy it in all good faith, when his plans are all disarranged by the unexpected discovery that the fort is bountifully supplied with defenders! A contingency like this had not been pumbered among the possibilities by Col. BADEN-POWELL, and, of course, he was forced to march back into Mafeking, leaving the fort and several other things behind him. This sortie must have much disturbed the eminent officer. One can almost hear him sorrowfully ask, "How can forts be taken if the Boers keep armed men in them all the time?" The Colonel should be more careful of himself. He'll get a surprise some day that may seriously injure his health.

—It is unfortunate for Puerto Rico that it is so near to the United States and that its cable lines are kept in such good working order. If it were as far away as Guam and dependent for news upon the coming and going of slow steamers, its Governor would necessarily be intrusted with a large amount of discretionary authority, and the island problems would at once be settled one way or another. As it is everything must wait for the action of Congress, and the need of haste is something which Congress is slow to appreciate. With a LEARY in Puerto Rico—and the cables cut—matters would progress, and the islanders would not only be kept in a state of more or less pleasurable excitement, but very probably their economic ills would be speedily mitigated. Doubtless the island will get good government in time, but the period of waiting bids fair to be tragical.

BEDFORD PARK RAILWAY NEEDS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that the matter of the extension of the elevated railroad from Tremont to Bedford Park remains to-day in a very incomplete and unsatisfactory condition, at least as far as the official public record is concerned, and that it would be certainly a very serious mistake for the faithful representatives of the taxpayers of Bronx Borough to permit themselves to be lulled into an overconfident inactivity, or to be swerved one jot from their original set purpose, especially at this critical juncture. Nearly a month has passed away since the last public meeting of the Railroad Commissioners, yet the people have heard nothing official either from the Commissioners or from the company. In lieu of anything official, a statement has been made that Mr. Gould has said privately that the road would be extended to Fordham within a year.

During a long period the oft-repeated promises of the elevated railroad have proved very fragile indeed, yet of course this last disappointing unofficial pledge may prove ultimately of some real value. But why does even this lame contingency halt feebly half way? Why are the eager and numerous residents of Bedford Park denied the extension which they need so badly? Why are the people of the whole city refused the only means of direct access to Bronx Park and the Botanical Gardens? Has a niggardly unwillingness to purchase the strip of land, which is required for the section northeast of Fordham station, had anything to do with this sudden change?

At any rate, the people's agitation for their rights should be kept up unceasingly; the full extension to Bronx Park and the Botanical Gardens should be insisted upon, and, if the actual construction work be not undertaken promptly, the representatives of the taxpayers should issue a call for an indignation meeting and a strong committee should be appointed therefrom to go to Albany and appeal to our courageous Governor and to the Legislature for an effective remedy.

HENRY D. PURROY.

New York, Jan. 6, 1900.

CROKER AND THE AFRICAN WAR.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a humble subject of the King, I would rise to protest against the absurd position in which our Tammany leaders and heelers are placing our, or his, organization in reference to the unfortunate disturbance between her Majesty's Government and that of Oom Paul. How do these men who champion the Boers, and talk, talk, talk, for the pulverization of England, know but that when the King returns from nosing around the spittoons of the English aristocrasy he will call them severely down? For it must make his position in England a little uncomfortable if the newspapers there report the anti-English antics of his automatons here in Manhattan.

I think they would be showing a more delicate appreciation of his predicament at Wantage (his English Winter home) if they put on forthwith organize a battery or at least a corps of sutlers to be called the Wantage Guards, for the intimidation of the Boers, and, what is vastly more important, the strengthening of their claims to his notice when the usual army of taxeaters go to meet him at Quarantine on his return.

I submit we should await his instructions before expressing opinions on any of the questions of the hour, as we cannot tell to which side he may throw the awe-compelling weight of the ORGANIZATION.

New York, Jan. 6, 1900.

Credit to Mr. Wanamaker.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to your editorial of even date, on "the Merchants' Association claims of the postal service in this city and the benefit of New York that is sought in the appropriation for a new Post Office and for a larger force to cope with the increasing demands of the service" and that "the association well puts it the New York Post Office is the postal clearing house of the country," I beg to remind you that that "master mind" and "leader of men" John Wanamaker, when Postmaster General, not only said that "to starve such an institution is as much a folly from a National as it is from a local point of view," but "in season and out of season"—and perhaps before "the fullness of time"—recommended "a great Post Office building up town for letters and other postal matter," and added "The New York office is the clearing house of the United States, but it cannot conduct its work properly within its present limitations."

G. A. KOOS.

New York, Jan. 5, 1900.

The Trust Problem.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Of the problem of trusts, the Mangin bill, introduced at the last session of the Legislature at Albany, is the only practical solution, along scientific lines, without punitive, repressive, restrictive, modifying, or interfering legislation. He who sincerely wishes to end the evils of trusts, while preserving their advantages, will find in the principle of the bill the remedy.

DANIEL J. M. O'CALLAGHAN.

New York, Jan. 4, 1900.

Our Navy and Our Commerce.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in this day's TIMES that "Mr. Choate acts quickly"; that he called on Lord Salisbury at the British Foreign Office in reference to the seizure of American flour in Delagoa Bay. He got no definite reply, it is stated, as the British have not yet decided whether the seized products are contraband or not, and Great Britain may lay down new regulations regarding the question. A high British official stated, "We are most anxious to conserve the interests of the United States." As American citizens, we don't consider ourselves British colonists. To protect the commercial interests of our country, we have a navy of our own, and if we have any pretensions of becoming a world power, that navy should convoy our products to Lorenzo Marques. After that let the British and Portuguese settle the matter. The duty of our Government is plain enough; it is not to play second fiddle to the British. London is not recognized by Washington as the primary source of all international law. Therefore, our merchants should have the protection of their Government to carry on their business, instead of idly waiting for the decision of Great Britain. It may be permissive and it may be prohibitive.

WILLIAM DORAN.

Brooklyn, Jan. 5, 1900.

A FOOLISH BRIDGE PLAN.

From The Engineering News.

The construction of a bridge across the East River, barely a quarter of a mile from the present Brooklyn Bridge, has been approved by the New York Municipal Assembly, which has also authorized bonds to be issued and sold to the amount of $1,000,000 to provide the money for beginning work. As the matter now stands, therefore, there apparently remains nothing more to be done to embark the city finally upon this project except its formal approval by the Mayor, and this is almost certain to be given, since the bridge was first proposed by him and has been pushed from the beginning chiefly by his personal efforts. In our opinion, no more foolish plan for securing additional transit facilities across the East River could be undertaken by the city, and it would be difficult to conceive a more wasteful application of the money drawn from city taxpayers. At the very lowest estimate the bridge will cost $20,000,000 to construct. It is located so close to the present Brooklyn Bridge that it must draw its traffic from practically the same territory. As we pointed out in our issue of Oct. 26, 1899, this location will necessitate the purchase by the city at a round figure of the franchise rights of a bridge at this location which are now held by private parties, who received them as a free gift from the city. Against these obvious objections to the new bridge its advocates have presented, so far as we can find, but one argument: That the new structure is needed to relieve the overcrowding of the present bridge. To show the weakness of this argument, we only need to point out the fact that much of this overcrowding is certain to be removed when the New East River Bridge, now under construction, is opened for traffic, and that still further relief can be obtained by building at a third of the cost of the bridge the two tunnels to the Long Island Railroad station and to South Brooklyn, which were described in our last issue.

Suppose it be admitted, however, for the sake of argument, that there is a demand for additional traffic accommodations over the present Brooklyn Bridge route. Then it needs only the application of ordinary common sense to see that this can be equally well and far more cheaply secured by increasing the capacity of the present bridge. As an engineering proposition there is nothing new or impracticable about this suggestion. Within the last two years the 1,056-foot suspension span of the Covington and Cincinnati Suspension Bridge has been reconstructed so as to double its capacity by adding two more cables to carry the additional load. A similar reconstruction of the Brooklyn Bridge is equally practicable, and according to the estimates of competent engineers, it would not cost more than $3,000,000 at an outside figure. This solution of the problem raised by the present overcrowding of traffic on the Brooklyn Bridge should commend itself to every sane and honest citizen as far preferable to duplicating the present structure by a new bridge built practically alongside of it. We have no hesitation in saying that it is the solution that would be adopted by a railway company having the interest of its stockholders at heart if it were confronted with the same conditions and the same problem. If the city administration were influenced by no other motives than to secure a needed addition to the transit facilities across the East River with the least expenditure, it is safe to say that it is the solution which it would also adopt.

NUGGETS.

His Loss.

At the Jacksons' last evening I upset a glass of champagne all over Tom Binks's dress suit."

"Ruined it, I suppose?"

"Why, of course. Dress suits don't help champagne a little bit."—Harlem Life.

The Better Way.

"I would lay down my life for you!" he exclaimed, passionately. "Wouldn't it be better if you would lay something up for me?" she asked. For she was a practical girl, and expected to get married some day. —Philadelphia Record.

Dreams.

Mr. Trucker—I think I shall give up my business, my dear. I might as well have some good out of my money.

Mrs. Trucker—Oh, not yet, Samuel! But when one of us dies, I shall give up housekeeping and see a little of the world.—Brooklyn Life.

A Necessary Outlay.

Husband—Mercy on us! Where did you get this set of Royal Worcester china?

Wife—I bought it.

Husband—Bought it! Why did you buy such ruinously expensive ware?

Wife (with suppressed emotion)—I had to buy it to match that salt cellar you got at Joblott's for 10 cents and gave me for a Christmas present.—New York Weekly.

DAD'S COAT.

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

I used to think th' measly way
They treated me was tough;
An' what I thought I used to say,
An' say it pretty rough.
An' ma she'd kind o' calm me down,
An' mebby kiss me, too,
An' say "There's lots o' boys in town
That has it worse than you."

I couldn't understand, yer see,
Why we was always skimped;
The other boys spent money free,
Their mas an' sisters primped,
But we just seemed to scrape along
An' never git ahead;
An' when I asked ma what was wrong,
"Pa's paying debts," she said.

But worse for me than all the rest
Was wearin' dad's old clothes;
Ma made 'em over just th' best
That she an' sister knows;
But, lordy me, they had no style
From ankles up to throat,
Th' pants just made the fellows smile—
They hollered at the coat.

I always felt so 'shamed an' mean
I'd sneak around to school,
For fear th' grammar girls had seen
Me togged out like a fool.
But now their sneers I never note,
Nor care for what they've said;
I'm proud an' tender with th' coat—
For dad, dear dad, is dead.

PUSHING REFORM IN CUBA

Gen. Wood Tells What the Public Works Department Should Do.

WANTS ROADS MADE PASSABLE

Water Supply System to Have Attention—Prisons to be Made Sanitary —Complaints About Courts.

HAVANA, Jan. 7.—Señor Villalon, Secretary of Public Works, arrived to-day from Santiago and called upon Gov. Gen. Wood, with whom he had a long interview. Gen. Wood advises Señor Villalon the first thing to be done is to repair the bridges throughout the island, and to make the roads passable, particularly the so-called Royal Road, which, although it was designed to extend the length of the island, really exists only in name. Gen. Wood urges that a large force of men be put to work in each province.

The water supply system also will receive immediate attention. Ordinary wells and artesian wells will be constructed in sufficient numbers, if possible, to supply the needs of the entire island. Wherever the work calls for contracts these will be open to competition, and a close superintendence by Col. Black and a competent assistant engineer officer will be maintained.

Gen. Wood intends to have the sanitation of the prisons looked after, although some of them are better off in this respect than generally has been supposed. A Prison Board, consisting of three Inspectors, will be appointed, charged with the duty of visiting all the prisons of the island at regular intervals, and recommending in joint session such improvements as seem necessary. Wherever practicable these will be carried out.

The courts of justice under the existing system are among the most corrupt in the world. A prominent merchant, who has resided here forty years, and who has over $3,000,000 invested in Cuba, recently told Gen. Wood that the principal reason for the lack of confidence in Cuban investments was the character of the courts. He declared that there was a widespread conviction that almost any crime could be committed in Cuba with impunity, so long as the offender was able to make a "judicious investment of money." The popular belief, according to Gen. Wood's informant, had long been that it was simply a question of cash if one desired to prevent a litigated question reaching the attention of the Supreme Court.

The members of this tribunal, he went on to say, were excellent men, but this amounted to nothing in the face of the methods of the court attachés.

"What is needed," said Gen. Wood's informant, "is a complete change in the judicial system. To begin with, the system of fees should be abolished absolutely. All Judges and Clerks of Courts should receive regular salaries. Judicial corruption should be made a serious crime, with a heavy penalty, which should be enforced against the very first offender, no matter who he might be."

These remarks apparently have deeply impressed Gen. Wood.

MASO PRAISES GEN. WOOD.

Says His Appointment Has Brightened the Outlook for Free Cuba.

HAVANA, Jan. 7.—At the dinner given in honor of Gen. Maso last evening, Gen. Maso, in responding to a toast to his health, said:

"The cause of Cuba Libre was never brighter than now. President McKinley, in sending Gen. Wood, chose the only man to whom the confidence of all classes of Cubans could be given. It was Gen. Wood who, when a former Governor urged President McKinley that it would be dangerous to remove a single American soldier from the island, urged the reduction of the military in his own province by one-half.

"Nor do we forget that the Province of Santiago was admittedly the most difficult to govern. Gen. Wood administered the affairs of that province in a manner eliciting the plaudits of the civilized world. He did not truckle to faction nor to his own countrymen; but he gained the love and confidence of the entire community by his splendid work, his fearless and impartial management of affairs, and his evident desire to give the Cubans every opportunity to prove themselves worthy of self-government."

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

DR. LEYDS INTIMATES THAT THE TRANSVAAL IS READY FOR PEACE.—Dr. Leyds, the agent of the Transvaal Government, who has his headquarters in Brussels, recently, as was announced by a cable dispatch, paid a visit to Paris, concerning which European diplomatic circles have indulged in varied speculations and comments. While in Paris the doctor was interviewed by one of the editors of Le Matin concerning several questions touching the present conflict in South Africa. In the light of this interview the consensus of opinion of the Continental press appears to be that the Government of the Transvaal expects that Great Britain shortly will take the initiative in opening peace negotiations, or that if this be not done, that some action tending toward the same result might be expected on the part of the Transvaal. Dr. Leyds said in concluding this part of the interview:

"We have every reason for confidence in the future. Still, I cannot repeat too often that we love peace more than glory, and we are only fighting to secure definite and honorable peace. I am convinced that at Pretoria they will always be ready to accept or to offer it at every moment of the conflict, if this peace guarantees our independence, as we prefer independence to peace. But President Krüger is at present unable to communicate his views to any of those who are interested in the prompt termination of the war, and it is on this point that I lay particular stress."

In another part of the interview Dr. Leyds said: "If the Boers are pursued into their own country will they forget the interests of the financiers of the City of London? I hope not, but really I cannot say. Amid so much sadness I cannot refrain from a smile when I see the mining interest excited by the smallest false news of an English victory."

It is deemed as significant in London that Dr. Leyds made no allusion whatever to a general rising of the Afrikanders, while he repeatedly laid marked stress on the fact that he is not in communication with Krüger. Moreover, it is pointed out that Dr. Leyds is now most anxious that it should be generally understood that the Transvaal desires a cessation of the war, provided that its independence is not directly menaced.

***

RESULTS OF THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS IN FRANCE.—The attacks of the French press upon Queen Victoria, and the fact that when personages of her rank are so attacked redress is rarely sought through the embassies—the case of the Sultan of Turkey being a notable exception—have caused certain deputies to ponder on the question of the restriction of the press by law, even as to its attacks upon citizens of the republic. Others consider that the surest way to put a stop to libelous utterances is for the offended party to at once begin prosecution, not merely to secure personal exoneration, but to push the matter to the full extent of the criminal code. This latter course was recently adopted by Maitre Labori in his suit against La Libre Parole, which, on his being shot at Rennes, alleged that the affair was concocted in order to create a sentiment in favor of Capt. Dreyfus.

At first M. Labori claimed only a franc damages, but later claimed 20,000f. The plaintiff introduced thirteen witnesses from Rennes, among whom were the civil and military physicians, who deposed as to the serious nature of the wound. The clothes worn by M. Labori at the time were produced in court. The counsel for the defense did not cross-examine the witnesses, and the tribunal fined the defendant 2,000f. and ordered him to pay 1f. damages, and the cost of advertising the judgment in 40 Parisian and 200 provincial newspapers.

The judgment states that the defamatory nature of the articles needed no demonstration, for they attributed to the complainant an odious offense and impugned his honor, whereas the gravity of the attack on him was a matter of public notoriety.

THE TWELFTH NIGHT CLUB

Annual Celebration Held at the Berkeley Lyceum.

STAGE PEOPLE ENTERTAINED

A Kinder Sinfonie and a Play by Grant Stewart Followed by an Early Morning Supper.

The Twelfth Night Club of New York is one of the few mediums by which the grown-up Alices—and their brothers—are able to have an intimate view of the only wonderland of the grown-ups—the stage. Once every year since its inauguration the club, which is composed of women of the stage, has asked its friends in private life to meet the men and women whom they know only as they have seen them in the theatre. This is always on the 6th of January, Twelfth Night, when there are appropriate ceremonies. The club never had a more delightful celebration than last Saturday night.

The events of the evening were a play and sinfonie by the members, and while the Twelfth Night celebrations are always well attended, a play which is sure to have many appropriate hits is always sure to draw a crowd. Saturday night there was such a crowd that the Twelfth Night women are already planning to engage the Metropolitan Opera House to accommodate the people next year. The second floor of the Berkeley Lyceum building, where the club has its headquarters, was filled, and the little theatre on the first floor was overflowing while the play was in progress.

The opening of the Twelfth Night receptions is always the same—the decoration of each guest upon arriving with an ivy leaf, the emblem of the club. This began Saturday about 10 o'clock, the hour when the guests were bidden to assemble, and continued up to 11 o'clock, as their numbers gradually increased, to the music of vocal and instrumental selections given in one of the rooms. At 11 there was to have been supper, followed at 12 by the play, which had to be late, as many of the performers had to come after the close of the performances in the various theatres. But the Twelfth Night Club proposed and the people disposed.

AUDIENCE IN THE THEATRE.

The sound of a gong was to have called the people to the theatre, but long before it was sounded the people, anxious for good seats, made their way down stairs, and by 12:30 the theatre was nearly filled. It was an interesting audience. In a box at one side sat Lotta, and in a seat about the middle of the house was Elsie De Wolfe, wearing a gorgeous wrap of bright red silk and silk embroidery with a chinchilla-lined collar over a light evening dress, with Clement Scott at her right hand. Daniel Frohman was in the same row of seats and Mr. and Mrs. Bronson Howard just in front.

Just back of Miss De Wolfe was Wilton Lackaye, with a handsome woman in white, and leaning forward talking to them was Mrs. Nat Goodwin, beautiful in a white gown with a pale pink, lace-covered bodice. Mr. Goodwin was at her left. Miss Alice Ives, the playwright, was in a seat near, Aurr Robertson a little way off, and across the aisle was "Bob" Hilliard, looking very much of a gentleman, as a contrast to the awful James Blagden, his clever impersonation in "Wheels Within Wheels." Mrs. Sydney Rosenfeld was there, and Mrs. Fernandez, who is never very far away when her pretty daughter Bijou is to be a performer. Perugini, Lillian Russell's erstwhile husband, was in a front seat.

The "Kinder Sinfonie," by E. Rosenberg, was the first thing on the programme. The orchestra was under the direction of Mme. Giulia Valda. The sinfonie was exceedingly clever, and was received with roars of laughter and applause. There were fourteen members of the orchestra, all playing on children's toy instruments. There were tin fifes and flutes, watchmen's rattles, trumpets, bird whistles, and a very large child's drum, which was admirably handled. A piano and a 'cello behind the players gave body to the full orchestra, but the solos were solos. Every instrument had its turn, coming in one after the other at the vigorous demand of the leader, and then all joining at the end. The thin, little notes of the flutes were delightful. The performers in the sinfonie received a hearty encore. They were Daisy Humphreys, Clara Hunter, Ella Starr, Lelia Owen Ellis, Mrs. Edwin Arden, Minnie Wheeler, Ada Dwyer Russell, Lillian Thurgate Backus, Ina Hammer Hardy, Frances Nathan, Emma Sheridan Fry, Maida Craigen, Genevra Ingersoll Nash, and Sally Williams Riegel.

GRANT STEWART'S PLAY.

The play was "An Appeal to the Muse," written for the occasion by Grant Stewart. It was a one-act skit, with the scene laid in Elysium, the glade sacred to Melpomene, the Goddess of Tragedy. The cast was:

Melpomene, Muse of Tragedy..Adelaid Fitz Allan
Little Bo-Peep.....Bijou Fernandez
Angelica, the "Heavenly Twin".....
.....Lelia Owen Ellis
The Goddess of Liberty.....Lotta Linthicum
Cassandra, the Trojan Prophetess..
.....Kate Oesterle Stewart
Lord Ullin's daughter.....Minnie Dupree
The Queen of Spades.....May Robson Brown

The curtains were drawn upon a dark stage, from which gradually appeared the Goddess of Liberty, in red, white, and blue, with large and good effects of that overworked combination, the lights appearing in red headdress and torch, and gradually the whole of the glade around her being lighted. The pictorial effect was excellent. The idea of the play was that different popular characters of fiction desired to be dramatized and applied to the tragedy muse for assistance. It gave an opportunity for various hits upon the stage and popular plays, which were heartily appreciated by both the professional and non-professional members of the audience.

"Besides, it is not good for your health," said the muse, in replying to one of the applicants for histrionic honors. "I have always said that Trilby would have lived much longer if she hadn't gone on the stage."

"Well, it doesn't always work," was the answer, "for it has made Barbara Frietchie look years younger."

May Robson Brown was excellent in a wonderful make-up of the Queen of Spades. Her arrival at the glade was not welcomed by the aspirants for favors from the goddess. The conversation which followed gives an idea of some of the dialogue which the audience was in a humor to receive with applause:

"Why did you come to this glade?" asked some one of the Queen, who was a brusque, sarcastic individual:

"Because it is the only one in the theatre," she snapped, "and that thing in red, white, and blue invited me to come."

"I never did," answered Miss Liberty, indignantly.

"Well, then," said the Queen, "you should not have beckoned in that meet-me-at-the-fountain fashion."

MELODRAMAS NOT WRITTEN.

"Write a good, hawking melodrama about me," the Queen continued to the muse.

"Melodramas are not written," answered the muse, with a lofty air. "They are re-written."

Little Bo-Peep was told to go to the Children's Pantomime Department, back of the expurgated edition rooms, for a play, and when she asked Cassandra, who came in last, to foretell the future and say if she could see anything of her lost sheep, the prophetess answered, musingly, looking off into the audience: "No, out I can see a good many lambs."

The last prophecies of Cassandra regarding tragedy were: "I see the tragic muse condemned to farce-comedy, Hamlets with specialties, Leah playing for a laugh, and Othello in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'"

The skit closed with a moral which brought as hearty a response as a good moral point usually does. It was a little rhapsody delivered by Melpomene, to the effect that if the player worked for the cause of art and not for sordid returns the result would always be satisfactory. There was tumultous applause after this, the curtains were drawn several times, and finally, in response to repated calls of "Author," Mr. Stewart appeared and bowed.

Supper followed in a large room up stairs, where there were more people of the plays now running in the city. The stars of the evening were Charles Richman and his bride, Jane Gray. John Drew was there, together with Isabel Irving and Ida Conquest, who looked very pretty in an evening gown and very different from the quiet little typewriter in "The Tyranny of Tears." There were Minnie Dupree, the Midge of "The Cowboy and the Lady," and Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, the Lady Bapchild of "The Manoeuvres of Jane." The full casts of some plays seemed to be present.

The last exercises of the evening were the drinking from the loving cup by the Twelfth Night Club members and the serving of the seed cakes, one for the men and one for the women, unmarried, to find their fates. Miss Fielding Roselle took the wedding ring.

MORRISON FEARS INSANITY.

Man Who Killed One of His Wives a Great Cigarette Smoker—Other Wife May Live with Him.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Smoking incessantly, Prof. Alfred Morrison, whose killing of his second wife a short time ago brought out the fact yesterday that he had another wife living, spent today at the boarding house at 7 Rich Avenue, to which he was taken after the tragedy by his aunt, Mrs. Cahen. He smokes all day, and, according to his story, spends most of his nights in the same way.

He is said to consume ten or twelve packs of cigarettes each day. He is extremely nervous and excitable, and this is believed to be as much a result of his overindulgence in cigarettes as anything else.

He says he cannot eat or sleep, and that he fears he is going insane. The lack of eating and sleeping is borne out by those who have close relations with him, and it is said he barely lies down at all, and only dozes off for a minute or so at a time, and then starts up frightened.

Prof. Morrison was told to-day that there was considerable criticism of the police because he had not been arrested for the killing of the wife he shot. He said he was sorry the police or the Coroner had been subjected to criticism on his account. He said they made a full and thorough examination and knew that the shooting was an accident, and that he shot and killed his wife unwittingly.

"My poor, dear wife and I," he said, "always lived so happily together. Only the day before I shot her she wrote a letter telling a friend how well we were getting along."

In regard to the report that his dead wife's sister was coming on from Middletown to prosecute him for the killing of her sister, he said he knew nothing of it. The sister referred to, he said, was at the funeral on Sunday last, and had been satisfied that the shooting was an accident.

Mrs. Lillian Gordon, Morrison's first wife, remained here until this morning. She then left this city and went to the home of relatives in New Rochelle. It is believed the reconciliation between Prof. Morrison and his first wife is complete, and that after the present trouble blows over they will again live together.

Residents of Larchmont in whose families Morrison taught bear out the story of his supersensitiveness on the point of burglars. They say he was eccentric in many ways, but apparently harmless. He repeatedly warned the boys he taught to beware of burglars, and recently repeated his warnings almost daily.

Coroner Banning said he contemplated no action in the case. He was satisfied that Morrison's act was not intentional, and that there existed no basis for accusing the man of deliberate murder. The dying statement made by the wife agreed with what the husband had claimed from the first, and what he had told before his wife regained consciousness. With the story of the past life and the dual marriage of Morrison Dr. Banning said he had nothing to do.

WILL PROSECUTE MORRISON.

Relatives of Dead Woman to Move Against the Professor.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Mrs. Harry E. Ellenberger of this city, the only sister of Mrs. Alfred Morrison, who was shot by her bigamist husband at Mount Vernon, said to-day that Morrison formed his wife's acquaintance through an advertisement he inserted in a New York paper, soon after which they were married. He mysteriously disappeared from his bride during the honeymoon, and was gone for several weeks. Mrs. Ellenberger and relatives in this section are determined to prosecute Morrison.

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS.

Discussion of the Philippine War in Both Houses Likely—Financial Debate in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—This week in Congress will be devoted probably to financial discussions and to debate on the conduct of the Philippine war, which is expected to occupy considerable time in both houses.

In the Senate the time will be given up largely to speechmaking. Beginning Monday morning, Senator Pettigrew's resolution asking for information concerning the Philippine war will come up, and he and probably other Senators will speak upon it. Senator Morgan has given notice of a speech on Monday, in which he will discuss the race question in the South. If any time is left that day it will be devoted to the continuation of the discussion of the financial bill, some of the Senators in the opposition replying to Mr. Aldrich. Tuesday Senator Beveridge will deliver his speech on the Philippine problem, and Wednesday will be devoted to eulogies of the late Vice President Hobart.

The greater part of the remainder of the week will be devoted to the finances, the object of the managers of the financial bill being to give as much time as possible to this measure until it is acted upon. It is now understood that almost all the Senators opposed to the bill will talk upon it before the vote is taken, but there has not yet been any arrangement of the order in which they will address the Senate.

There is no programme in the House for the week, and the only certain feature is the consideration of the Urgent Deficiency Appropriation bill, which will be ready Tuesday or Wednesday. It will carry almost $50,000,000 for the army and navy, and, while it will pass when it reaches a vote, it may precipitate a stormy debate upon the conduct of the war in the Philippines.

The answer of Secretary Gage to the House resolution calling for information regarding the deposit of Government funds in National banks is expected early in the week. The report will not constitute a privileged question which will open up debate, but if it is deemed unsatisfactory to any one, resolutions of investigation may follow.

The Roberts case will not get before the House until the end of the week at the earliest, and probably not then. The hearings have been adjourned until Wednesday, and it is hardly likely that the report can be prepared in time for presentation this week.

BOSTON BANK RECEIVERSHIP.

It Is Believed the Broadway National Cannot Resume.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Controller Dawes to-morrow will determine whether the temporary receivership of the Broadway National Bank of Boston shall be made permanent or whether the institution shall be permitted to resume business.

Temporary Receiver Daniel G. Wing is in the city preparing some information regarding the condition of the bank for the Controller, and the latter will announce his decision on the showing made by the receiver.

It is believed here that the bank will not be able to resume business, and that it will be necessary for the receiver to take charge of the bank for the purpose of winding up its affairs.

A CARETAKER FOUND DEAD.

Pasterhoster, Stricken with Pneumonia, Starved in a Barn.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Gottlieb Pasterhoster, thirty years of age, employed as gardener and caretaker of the Summer place of Rudolph Ealsner, here, was found dead to-day. He had not been seen since Monday by those who knew him. To-day George Neumann, a friend of Mr. Ealsner, had occasion to go to the Ealsner place. He found the barn locked and, peering into one of the windows, saw Pasterhoster lying on the floor. A policeman was summoned and he forced an entrance.

Dr. George A. Peck performed an autopsy and found death due to pneumonia, exhaustion, and want. Pasterhoster had been dead at least two days when found. He had nothing to eat in the barn and had been too ill, evidently, to summon aid.

Hebrew War Veterans Organize.

A meeting of Hebrew veterans of the Spanish and Philippine wars was held yesterday for the purpose of perfecting an organization. It was decided to adopt the name of the Junior Hebrew Veteran Association, and any honorably discharged soldier, sailor, or marine who fought in the late war between this country and Spain or in the war in the Philippines is eligible for membership. These officers were elected: Colonel—S. J. Kopetzky; Lieutenant Colonel—B. Goldberg; Major—J. Pohulski; Adjutant—M. J. Tobias; Quartermaster—D. Werdenberg.

SETH LOW TO WORKINGMEN

Talk on Capital and Labor Before the Central Federated Union.

Combinations in Both the Order of the Day and on the Whole of Benefit to the World.

Seth Low spoke yesterday before the Central Federated Union on the subject "Some Characteristics of Our Times." Some fifteen years ago, the speaker said, an Englishman told him that the year 1848 was a year of unrest in Europe; that it was a revolutionary year; that the hopes of men were centred on good government, and men hoped that when democratic government was obtained there would be no more problems to solve.

The speaker, however, observed that at present there was just as much discontent as ever. This age was one of surprises and bewilderment at new processes and inventions that rapidly followed one another. Among the inventions he instanced wireless telegraphy and horseless carriages. As an effect of new processes the value of farming land in the East was reduced 50 per cent. Sailing ships were rendered useless by the Suez Canal. In the old times it was much easier to start in business on a small capital than now. His father, President Low said, went to China in 1833 with a cash capital of $5, and when he returned in 1840 he went into business in the Chinese trade. He built up a fleet of sailing vessels, but when the speaker entered his father's business as a clerk the sailing vessels had diminished to five in number.

Among other changes mentioned as having taken place was that the individual capitalist was disappearing in the corporation and the trust on the one hand, and the individual laborer was being absorbed by the union on the other. The individual had, indeed, increased in importance politically, but he was losing his individuality. Men were becoming more dependent upon one another through division of labor.

It seemed at first sight, continued the speaker, as though society was dividing itself into combinations of capital that were waging industrial war against combinations of labor. This, however, was not a fact, and by way of illustration he cited the forces of gravitation and centrifugal force, which make it possible for man to live on the earth, and said that so the combinations of capital and labor served to keep up the industrial equilibrium. The tendency to combine, he said, was not new. Formerly partnerships were forbidden, but this was gradually overcome. Partnerships were formed and then came small corporations, and then the trusts.

"I believe in combinations," he went on to say. "They are not only inevitable, but they are also of advantage to the human race. I believe in corporations and trades unions, and in combination in all its forms, but I do not believe that either is free from mistakes. They make mistakes against themselves, against each other, and against society. The only way of finding the limitations of combinations is by trying them. The tendency to combine, once started, grows stronger and stronger. We may be puzzled and alarmed at the combinations of capital of the last twelve months, but we find them to be unavoidable. Co-operation between men in similar pursuits is both natural and wholesome."

The best method to bring about an understanding between capital and labor, Mr. Low said, was arbitration. The weak side would suffer without arbitration, and the two sides would destroy each other if both were strong. Mr. Low referred to the successful arbitration that he had brought about between the gasfitters and plumbers several years ago after a quarrel as to which should fit up thermostats, and he urged toleration among the trades unions and respect for the judgment of other people.

The meeting passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Low. In the discussion that followed Delegate Cowen of the Amalgamated Engineers said that very rapid changes were being made in machinery now, and he knew of instances where machines were rendered altogether useless in twelve months by new inventions. Over 12,000 printers had been thrown out of work by the typesetting machines. It was not true, he said, that capital and labor were alike affected by the changes in machinery. He never knew a capitalist to go without his meals by such a change, but he knew that thousands of workingmen had been reduced to want. Mr. Cowen believed in improved machinery, and he said he hoped to see the time when all a man would have to do would be to press a button and get what he wanted. Mr. Cowen said that he did not find fault with capitalists. Workingmen should take a lesson from capitalists and stop wrangling among themselves.

Delegate Brown of the Cigarmakers asked what would be the result of the displacement of men by machinery, and Mr. Low replied that the shortening of the working day was helping to meet the difficulty.

LETTER CARRIERS MEET.

Officers of the Association's Local Branch Installed.

The New York branch of the National Letter Carriers' Association held a meeting yesterday at the Grand Central Palace, to install the newly elected officers and hear the annual reports. Michael A. Fitzgerald, who was re-elected President, was in the chair, and the other officers elected are Charles M. Waldron, Vice President; Charles P. Kelly, Recording Secretary; Michael J. Harvey, Financial Secretary; Ernest Ecke, Treasurer, and John Eberhardt Sergeant at Arms.

Speeches were made by General Master Workman John N. Parsons of the Knights of Labor and President of the National Association of Letter Carriers; Edward J. Cantwell, Secretary of the association; James Arkison, Chairman of the National Legislative Committee, and John F. McElroy and Bernard J. Curtin of the National Executive Board.

The reports showed that the association was in a prosperous condition. It was also reported that strong efforts would be made to push the bill in Congress raising the maximum salary for letter carriers to $1,200 a year.

CENTRAL FEDERATED UNION.

Actors Against Bill to Open the Theatres on Sunday.

Delegate Barry of the Actors' Protective Union yesterday asked the Central Federated Union to protest against the Harburger bill to open the theatres on Sundays. He said actors had to rehearse in the mornings, often play at matinées, and also in the evenings. They were tired out at the end of the week, and when they did work on Sundays too they did not get any extra pay. The meeting passed a resolution protesting against the bill, and ordered the protest to be sent to the Legislature.

Delegate J. Daly of the Tile Layers said the strike of the men of his trade on a building at One Hundred and Second Street and Broadway was still on, and that two union strikers had been shot and badly hurt by the non-union men who had supplanted them. He asked that John McVey, the President of the non-union men, who was present in the hall should be ejected.

The Sergeant at Arms touched Mr. McVey on the shoulder and requested him to withdraw. Mr. McVey did so, while Daly shook his fist at him.

New Wage Schedule for Cloakmakers.

It was reported yesterday at the headquarters of the cloakmakers, at 150 Rivington Street, that shop meetings were held during the week in several large shops to formulate a new schedule of prices. Among these shops were those of A. Friedlander & Co., Meyer Jonasson & Co., Oppenheim & Collins, Inuig, Berg & Co., and Joseph H. Cohen. The cloakmakers are now at work on samples for the season, and it was decided to wait for a week until all the samples are ready.

Inspector of Engineers' Salary.

The Central Association of Steam Engineers met yesterday at 62 East Fourth Street to discuss a proposed bill providing for the appointment of a State Inspector of Engineers and Assistants. The Inspector, according to the bill, is to be a competent engineer, a citizen of this State, and is to have a salary of $5,000 a year. In the discussion of the bill the members concluded that $3,000 would be an ample salary for the Inspector, and a committee was appointed to amend the bill.

MR. TISCH'S DISAPPEARANCE.

His Daughters Not Sure that He Started for Plainfield—Reward of $500 Offered.

Nothing has yet been learned of the whereabouts of Charles Tisch of 327 East Eighty-fourth Street, who has been missing since Sunday, Dec. 31. The daughters of Mr. Tisch, with whom he has lived since the death of his wife, said yesterday that it was not known positively that he had left his house with the intention of visiting relatives in Plainfield, N. J., as had been stated in telegraphic dispatches from that city, although he had expected to go to Plainfield on the day following his disappearance.

Mr. Tisch was left alone at his home Sunday afternoon, the other members of the family having gone out to call upon friends. He was not in the house when his daughters returned. Although careful search was made for some message explaining his absence after its length had caused alarm, nothing was found. A reward of $500 has been offered by the family for any information regarding the missing man.

Mr. Tisch is described by his daughters as fifty-nine years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, and of rather dark complexion. He is partially bald, has gray hair, beard, and mustache. When last seen he was dressed in a black cheviot suit. He usually wore a black overcoat and black derby hat. The only jewelry he was accustomed to wear was a plain gold band ring on the third finger of his left hand, and he never carried large sums of money.

So far as is known, Mr. Tisch had no enemies. He did not allow business matters to worry him, intrusting the management of his property to agents. His temperament is described by his family as unusually cheerful, and he was said to be in particularly good spirits on the day of his disappearance.

BAXTER BARKER A SUICIDE.

Brooklyn Man Brooded Over the Loss of a Position.

Baxter Barker, sixty years old, committed suicide yesterday afternoon at his home, 33 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. He was found lying bleeding on the parlor floor by his wife, who summoned two physicians of the neighborhood. Mr. Barker was still alive, but he died three hours later.

Mr. Barker had been brooding over the loss of his connection with a Manhattan firm as traveler, and it is thought that despondency drove him to his act. He was in comfortable circumstances, however, his wife said, and she declared that there was no reason why the loss of his position should have so greatly affected him.

SMALL FIFTH AVENUE FIRE.

Badly Insulated Electric Wires the Cause—Big Crowd Gathers.

Electric wires improperly insulated, it is thought, caused a small fire late yesterday afternoon in the basement of the five-story brownstone building at 244 Fifth Avenue. The building is used for business purposes. Arnold & Co. occupy the basement and ground floor, while the upper floors are held by several tenants.

The fire and water did damage to the extent of $1,000. Owing to its location and the number of dwellings in the immediate neighborhood, Twenty-eighth Street and Fifth Avenue, there was sent in a second alarm. A considerable crowd, attracted by the engines, went to the place and watched the firemen put the fire out.

HOUSE BOILER EXPLODES.

Watchman Badly Injured and a Whole Block Alarmed.

A boiler connected with the heating apparatus in the unoccupied dwelling at 135 West Seventy-first Street exploded early yesterday morning, severely scalding William Adamss, the night watchman, who lives at 531 West Forty-third Street, and arousing nearly every one in the block by the concussion. For a time excitement reigned in the vicinity. Frank A. Acker, who lives next door, was thrown from his bed by the force of the explosion. A fire alarm was turned in by Christopher Zelzien, living at Seventy-second Street and Columbus Avenue. Patrolman Colleary and the firemen broke into the basement of the building, and found the heating apparatus wrecked but no fire.

Adamss, the watchman, was found unconscious, lying half way between the dislodged heater and a stairway, to which point he had been thrown by the shock. He was removed to Roosevelt Hospital, where his injuries were pronounced severe but not necessarily dangerous. The building is owned by John Forsyth of 201 Broadway. It has been unoccupied during the course of renovation for several weeks. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

SAXTON FOR PAYN'S PLACE.

Republicans Credit the Report that He Will Be Appointed.

Republican politicians who were about the State Committee headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday gave considerable credence to the report that ex-Lieut. Gov. Charles T. Saxton had been selected by Gov. Roosevelt as the successor to Superintendent Payn of the Insurance Department. It was admitted that there would be little difficulty in getting the nomination of Mr. Saxton confirmed, especially as he was at one time a member of the Senate, and later its presiding officer during his term as Lieutenant Governor.

So far Gov. Roosevelt has not seen fit to say whom he would appoint, but the report that Mr. Saxton was to have the place came from a source that leaves no doubt that his name has at least been under consideration. The fact that Mr. Saxton, while in the Senate, gave a great deal of attention to insurance legislation, was cited as a reason for the mention of his name in connection with the place. It was further pointed out that the Insurance Committee of the Senate is composed largely of men who are friendly to Mr. Saxton.

Chairman Odell of the Republican State Committee said last night that he had heard Mr. Saxton's name mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Payn, and that he did not believe Mr. Payn's friends would endeavor to obstruct his prompt confirmation.

REPUBLICAN CLUB ELECTION.

Mr. Wakeman Denies Inciting the Opposition to John Sabine Smith.

The opposition to John Sabine Smith, Treasurer of the Republican County Committee, who is a candidate for re-election as a member of the Executive Committee of the Republican Club, has aroused considerable talk among those interested in the club's affairs, and those who pretend to be best informed have intimated strongly that Appraiser Wilbur F. Wakeman is at the bottom of it. According to the story that has been current for several days, Mr. Wakeman learned recently that President Quigg of the Republican County Committee, who has been active in demanding Mr. Wakeman's removal from office, had promised to get the place for Mr. Smith. Then, according to the report, Mr. Wakeman determined to retaliate by getting his friends to work for Mr. Smith's defeat in the club election, which will take place on Jan. 15. The name of J. F. Hitchcock was then posted as a candidate against Mr. Smith, and the men indorsing the nomination were said to be friends of Mr. Wakeman.

Mr. Wakeman yesterday denied that he had taken any part in the opposition to Mr Smith's re-election. "The whole trouble in the club," Mr. Wakeman said, "is that there is too much Smith about it. Personally, I had nothing to do with the nomination of Mr. Hitchcock. I was not aware that Mr. Smith was looking for my job, nor did I know that Mr. Quigg was able to promise the place to Mr. Smith, even if the effort to have me removed had proved successful. The fact that Smith and Quigg are good friends has not, so far as I know, been a factor in the trouble, and I presume that the naming of Mr. Hitchcock was simply the result of dissatisfaction with Mr. Smith's policy in the club."

Mr. Hitchcock was formerly an official of the club, though he has not been prominent in the organization for two years, because of long-continued ill-health. He was at one time the Commodore of the Columbia Yacht Club, and has a great many friends in the Republican Club.

Mayor Jones for Senator.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 7.—The supporters of Mayor Jones, in his non-partisan campaign, are organizing his strength into a party, or movement, which has for its object the control of several Congressional districts in this corner of the State next Fall, and if possible the election of Mr. Jones to the United States Senate in 1902.

FOR REFORMS IN PRISONS

Senate Commission Recommends Changes in Management.

REFORMATORY FOR BOYS

The Abolition of the Lock-Step and Striped Garb—Suggests New Plan of Grading Convicts.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.—Radical and sweeping recommendations are made and changes urged in the management of the prisons of the State by the members of the Senate Prisons Commission in their fifth annual report to the Legislature. Briefly summarized, they are as follows:

Establishment of a State reformatory for male misdemeanants between the ages of sixteen and thirty years.

Abolition of the lock-step.

Doing away with the present striped garb worn by convicts.

Finding of employment for paroled prisoners by the Board of Parole.

Allowing prisoners to write to certain State and county officials at stated intervals.

Grading prisoners according to behavior, and not according to the number of former convictions.

Regarding the committing of boys to jails or penitentiaries the commission thinks that the State should furnish an institution where incorrigible boys—boys who show an inclination to join the criminal class—could be sent for education in letters and trades. The commission thinks it would be wiser for the State to undertake their reformation before they have advanced so far in crime as to make them eligible to be sent to an institution where felons only are received.

Amendments to the parole law are recommended so that all prisoners committed to State prisons for all terms other than for life shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the Board of Parole; that the term of sentence shall be treated as the maximum for which he may be detained, and that all prisoners, except life prisoners, may be paroled under proper restrictions, care being taken that when prisoners are paroled they shall be provided with employment, enabling them to earn an honest livelihood.

The commission contends that nothing should be done to crush the prisoner's self-respect, and therefore urges the abolition of the lock-step as unnecessarily humiliating and degrading to convicts.

The report says that the dress of prisoners may very properly indicate the grade or class to which they belong, but doubts the wisdom or expediency of dressing the convicts in the hideous stripes now customary, and which also indicates and advertises the number of former convictions of each wearer.

The commission recommends that, as a partial preventive of the growth of prison abuses, all prisoners should be allowed, at stated intervals, to address letters to the Governor or to the State Commission of Prisons, or to the County Judge or District Attorney of the county from which they were committed, and that such letters, when sealed and delivered to the Warden or Superintendent of the prison, shall be forwarded without reading.

The commission also recommends a grading of prisoners in the State prisons according to the intent of Section 95 of the prison law, and contends that the grading should be made so that a prisoner's grade would depend upon his conduct in prison, and that, for good conduct, he would be advanced to a higher grade, and for indolence and disobedience reduced to a lower grade. The present method is to grade prisoners according to the number of former convictions, a system which the commission condemns.

The total sales of prison products during the year ended Oct. 1, 1899, were $436,543.24, a decrease of about $72,000 as compared with the sales of 1898. There was an increase of sales from Auburn and Clinton Prisons, but a large decrease in the sales of Sing Sing. This decrease is attributed to the establishment of certain industries in New York County and Kings County penitentiaries, as the manufacture of street brooms and other things needed by the City of New York, thus supplying the city with these lines of goods which have heretofore been furnished by Sing Sing Prison.

The net earnings of the prisoners in the three prisons for the year amounted to about $54,000—the earnings at Auburn being $26,000, at Clinton $29,000, and there was a net loss at Sing Sing of about $1,000. The gross earnings of the prisoners in the three prisons were $174,079.67.

The commission believes that, in the near future, the payment of such a large sum for foremen and instructors in the industries can be materially reduced by the employment of keepers and guards qualified to act as foremen and instructors in the industries, as required by Section 84 of the prison law.

The amount of prison-made goods on hand in the prisons at the close of the year is of the value of about $112,000.

The total number of prisoners in all the prisons of the State on Oct. 1, 1899, was 10,350, a decrease during the past year of 241. A decrease since 1895 of 2,311.

INSANE MAN IN THE CATHEDRAL

Attempts to Leap from the Gallery, Alarming Many Children.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 7.—There was considerable excitement in St. Patrick's Cathedral during the 8 o'clock mass this morning caused by the attempt of an unidentified man, who had become temporarily crazed, to jump from the gallery. The cathedral was crowded with children at the time, and had not the man been seized when he was dangling from the gallery rail he would have fallen onto the heads of a number of children.

The man was first noticed praying devoutly in the aisle of the north gallery. Suddenly he made a dash down the aisle and attempted to jump over the railing. Several men who were in the front seats on either side of the aisle seized him and a struggle ensued. During the struggle he shouted, wildly, "Let me go! Let me go!"

When finally pulled back over the railing the man was taken away by friends, who refused to disclose his identity.

RAHWAY BANK FAILURE.

Examiners Have Not Finished Their Report—Rumors of a New Bank.

RAHWAY, N. J., Jan. 7.—There is nothing new to tell about the closing of the Union County Bank, after a two days' run. The examiners worked late last night, expecting to finish their reports, but were unable to do so. The officers of the bank refuse to say anything except that some of the people who participated in the run "tore the roof from over their own heads."

Rumors are current that a National bank will be established here within a few days. Some say Senator John Kean will furnish the funds, while other rumors say it will be organized by the merchants of the town.

STARVING MAN PICKED UP.

Found on Broadway by a Physician, Now in Bellevue Hospital.

Unable to stand and because he had insufficient food to eat, Joseph Ramage, forty-nine years old, a man without a home, was taken last night to Bellevue Hospital. A physician from Roosevelt Hospital, who found the man in Broadway, near Sixtieth Street, said Ramage was literally starving.

Ramage said he had little or nothing to eat for a week. He finally grew so ill that he could take only tea and bread. His condition is precarious.

THE BROOKLYN CHURCH FIRE.

St. George's Congregation Decides to Restore Its Edifice.

The congregation of St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church, at Marcy and Gates Avenues, Brooklyn, which was badly damaged by fire on Saturday evening, held services yesterday morning in the gymnasium of the Bedford Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, at 420 Gates Avenue. The Sunday school of the church also met in the gymnasium in the afternoon. In the evening the congregation of St. George's Church held union services with that of the Marcy Avenue Baptist Church in the latter church. The members of St. George's will worship in the Marcy Avenue Church until their own church is rebuilt.

At a meeting of the members of the church yesterday afternoon it was decided to have the burned church restored as soon as the work of adjusting the insurance is completed. Another meeting for the discussion of this matter will be held this evening.

MOTHER WANTS CHILDREN BACK.

Court Proceedings Against the New Jersey Children's Home Society.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—The New Jersey Legal Aid Association, a society of women, through its attorney, Miss Mary Philbrook, has instituted proceedings in the Court of Chancery against the New Jersey Children's Home Society to secure the return to their mother of three Paterson children named Murray. The children were taken from their mother and indentured by the Children's Home Society in private families. The Superintendent of the Children's Home Society at the time the children were taken said the mother was unfit to have the care of them as she was given to drink.

The Rev. Dean McNulty of Paterson says the mother has reformed, and he is aiding her in her efforts to regain the custody of her children. The whereabouts of the children is unknown except to the officers of the Children's Home Society. The matter will be argued before Vice Chancellor Stevens in Newark on Jan. 16.

SUB-TROLLEY BAR BREAKS.

Car Leaves the Track and Electric Flashes Cause a Stampede.

As Car No. 239 of the Sixth Avenue surface road was turning the curve from West Broadway into Washington Square at good speed about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the centrifugal force of the heavy car proved too much for the sub-trolley bar, which snapped short off. Deprived of this the car left the rails, and turned into the park. Before the motorman or the passengers could realize what was going on the car had come to a halt some distance from the tracks.

The flashes of electricity which had accompanied the unusual spectacle of an electric car plowing its way through a public park attracted the attention of a hundred or more promenaders, who rushed toward the spot. Two policemen drove the crowd back a few feet. Soon afterward a fuse burned out with a flaring flame, which caused a stampede. By this time the crowd had increased to several times its original size, and a half dozen of the smaller boys were knocked down and trampled on before the excitement was allayed.

A telephone message brought a wrecking wagon to the scene. No more serious injury than a severe shaking up was done the passengers of the erratic car, who were transferred to another car as soon as the track was cleared.

SANTIAGO PORT CAPTAIN DEAD.

Frank M. Faircloth of Jersey City Had Served in Three Wars.

Frank M. Faircloth, Port Captain at Santiago, who returned to his home, 110 Clinton Avenue, Jersey City, last Tuesday suffering from a fever, died on Saturday night. He was born near Newark, N. J., in 1820, and early in life became a sailor. He was at one time Captain of a Ward Line steamer.

He took part in the Mexican War, and in the civil war he commanded the Boston, which he burned to prevent her from falling into the hands of the Confederates. In the Spanish-American war he commanded the transport Seguranca. He leaves a wife and two sons.

The Rev. Dr. J. M. Williams Dead.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The Rev. Dr. John Milton Williams, one of the early pastors of the First Congregational Church of Chicago and for many years a writer on theology, died in this city to-day. He was born in New Ipswich, N. H., in 1817.

DEATH LIST OF A DAY.

Elisha Troughton.

Elisha Troughton, who was for many years a business man in this city, died on Saturday evening of heart disease at his home, in Stamford, Conn., in his eighty-eighth year. He had been ill for over a year.

Mr. Troughton was born on June 14, 1812, in the County of Kent, England. He was one of nine children, and the family was notable for longevity. His father died a nonagenarian, and all of the nine children died at ages ranging from seventy to ninety-two. Elisha at the time of his death was the only survivor of the family.

Elisha Troughton came to this country as a young man, settled in New York, and enjoyed a successful business career, retiring some thirty years ago. He went over to England in 1893 to celebrate his eighty-first birthday. Mr. Troughton had been a widower for many years. He leaves two sons and a daughter.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. CATHERINE MCGUIRK, mother of ex-Police Captain Charles H. McGuirk of New Rochelle, died yesterday. She was seventy years of age. Her son survives her.

The Rev. GEORGE E. SANBORNE, a retired Congregational clergyman, died yesterday at Hartford. He was born at Reading, Mass., and was graduated at Amherst in 1838.

WILLIAM H. MORGAN, aged sixty-three years, died at Cincinnati, Ohio, Saturday night. He had been connected with the public schools of Cincinnati for very many years, and was the Superintendent for ten years.

EPHRAIM THOMAS, aged forty years, died Saturday at Bantam Lake, Litchfield County, Conn., where he had gone for his health. He was prominent in real estate and insurance circles, and was also a dock and dredging contractor.

DENNIS HULL, Jr., died at his Summer home, in Danbury, Conn., Saturday, aged sixty-eight years. He was born in St. Paris Plain and went to New York City when but eighteen years of age, afterward becoming a successful merchant. He was in the clothing business.

Mrs. CATHARINE REDINGTON, wife of ex-Assemblyman Lyman W. Redington, died yesterday at her home, 2,113 Fifth Avenue. Mrs. Redington was Miss Catharine Merrill of Rutland, Vt. Her father, Col. George A. Merrill, is a veteran of the civil war. Mrs. Redington moved with her husband to this city nine years ago.

RICHARD G. RUTHERFORD, one of the oldest druggists in Brooklyn, died on Saturday at his residence, 189 Myrtle Avenue. He had been in business at that address for fifty years. Mr. Rutherford was born

FINANCIAL DIRECTORY.

Chemical National Bank
270 Broadway.

National Bank of Commerce
CAP. AND SUR. $8,500,000.
31 Nassau St.

Hanover National Bank
Capital $1,000,000. Surplus and profits, $2,500,000.
9 and 11 Nassau St.

The Nassau Bank
Corner Beekman and Nassau Streets.

Central National Bank
320 Broadway.

Phenix National Bank
49 Wall Street.

Continental Trust Company
30 Broad St.

Colonial Trust Company
CAPITAL & SURPLUS, $1,500,000.
ST. PAUL B'LD'G.
222 B'way.

Washington Trust Company
Stewart Building, 280 Broadway.

Real Estate Trust Co.,
30 NASSAU STREET.
Capital, Surplus, and Undivided Profits $900,000.
Receives Deposits, Allowing Interest.
Acts as Trustee. Transfer Agent. Registrar, &c.
PHILADELPHIA.
Fourth Street National Bank
Capital, $1,500,000. Surplus, $1,500,000.

BANKERS' CARDS.

KOUNTZE BROTHERS,
BANKERS,
Broadway & Cedar St., NEW YORK.
Investment Securities.
Foreign Exchange.
Loans made against approved collateral.
Interest allowed on deposits.
LETTERS OF CREDIT.

N. Y. & N. J. TELEPHONE "RIGHTS"
BOUGHT AND SOLD.
Geo. H. PRENTISS & Co.
37 William St., New York. 298 Montague St., Brooklyn.

A. J. DE KANTSTEIN & CO.
Members Consolidated Stock Exchange.
30 West 23d St.
STOCKS and BONDS bought and sold for cash and carried on margin.
SPECIAL LADIES' DEPARTMENT.
DAILY MARKET LETTER ON APPLICATION.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.

Chester B. Lawrence, Jr.,
Member Consolidated Stock Exchange
STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, COTTON.
Branch Offices:
1,300 BROADWAY, CORNER 34TH ST.
621 BROADWAY, CORNER HOUSTON ST.
MAIN OFFICES, 32 & 34 BROADWAY.

E. C. POTTER & CO.
BANKERS AND BROKERS,
36 WALL STREET.
Members of New York Stock Exchange

FINANCIAL.

TO THE HOLDERS OF
Chicago & Grand Trunk Railway Co.
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.

Default having been made in the principal of the above bonds, which became due on the first day of January, 1900, and foreclosure proceedings having been begun in pursuance of a plan of reorganization, formulated by the Company, under which plan the security of the bonds is seriously impaired:

At the request of a large number of holders of these bonds, resident in England, who have deposited their bonds under the Bondholders' Protective Agreement, dated December 21, 1899, the undersigned have agreed to represent the interests of the bondholders.

Holders of bonds in the United States can become parties to this agreement by depositing their bonds with the Central Trust Company of New York City, under said Protective Agreement, copies of which may be obtained from the Trust Company or at our office. Prompt deposit of the bonds is advisable.

Simon Borg & Company,
20 Nassau Street.
New York, January 5th, 1900.

J. OVERTON PAINE,
Member { Consolidated Stock Exchange of N. Y. / New York Produce Exchange.
STOCKS, BONDS,
COTTON, GRAIN, &c.,
bought and sold on the New York Exchanges, for cash or on margin of 5 per cent. and up. Com. 1-16.
MARKET LETTER ISSUED DAILY.
MAIN OFFICE,
60 AND 62 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
(Opening on the gallery of the Exchange.)
Branch Office, Broadway & 30th St.
Call or write for SPECIAL LETTER issued Monday, entitled,
"MAXIMUM SUPPLY OF STOCKS—MINIMUM SUPPLY OF MONEY."

Oregon Railway and Navigation Company
SINKING FUND.

In accordance with the terms of the Deed of Trust of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company First Mortgage 6 Per Cent., Article 4, Section 2, the Trustee has this day drawn by lot for account of the Sinking Fund the following numbered bonds, viz.:

116 BONDS.

Nos. 39	1120	1801	2790	3587	4207	4891	5292
56	1130	1806	2794	3588	4208	4899	5296
71	1181	1809	2822	3617	4210	4947	5592
121	1222	1826	2888	3654	4246	4994	5635
128	1261	1855	3100	3669	4266	5014	5647
409	1464	2068	3110	3699	4287	5034	5648
546	1485	2383	3173	3744	4290	5052	5749
587	1532	2406	3196	3766	4283	5057	5792
662	1541	2531	3198	3778	4461	5079	5854
918	1571	2537	3203	3803	4488	5098	5862
919	1585	2718	3218	3851	4538	5143	5975
940	1644	2719	3227	3978	4639	5144
967	1652	2722	3402	4011	4723	5220
985	1684	2744	3495	4071	4790	5254
1074	1688	2789	3540	4153	4890	5273

The interest on the above bonds ceased 1st January, 1900, and are PAYABLE AT PAR on presentation at the office of The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, 16, 18, 20, and 22 William Street, New York.
The Farmers' Loan and Trust Co., Trustee.
By E. S. MARSTON, President.
New York, January 2d, 1900.

METROPOLITAN TRUST COMPANY
OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK,
37 and 39 Wall St.
Capital $1,000,000
Surplus and profits..... $1,425,000
BRAYTON IVES, President.
FREDERICK D. TAPPEN, V.-Pres.
BEVERLY CHEW, Secretary.
BERTRAM CRUGER, Asst. Secretary.
TRUSTEES:

Morris K. Jesup,	D. O. Mills,
Dudley Olcott,	Fred'k D. Tappen,
Geo. A. Hardin,	C. P. Huntington,
Edward B. Judson,	Bradley Martin,
Robert Hoe,	Heber R. Bishop,
William L. Bull,	J. Howard King,
Richard Mortimer,	Wm. H. Tillinghast,
Samuel Thomas,	Geo. Henry Warren,
John E. Parsons,	Hamilton Smith,
John T. Terry,	Haley Fiske,
Grayton Ives,	J. Edward Simmons,
George Coppell.

FINANCIAL.

Application will be made to list these bonds upon the New York Stock Exchange.

We own and offer at 101 and interest

$750,000

HUDSON RIVER WATER POWER CO.

Five Per Cent. First Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bonds.

Dated Nov. 15, 1899. Due Nov. 1, 1914 to 1929.

Principal and Semi-Annual Interest Payable at

TRUST COMPANY OF AMERICA, N. Y., TRUSTEE.

Coupon Bonds with Provision for Registration. Denomination $1000.

Secured by a first and only lien upon four and one-half miles of land on each side of the Hudson River above Glens Falls, New York, constituting the water rights, also by the Dam, Power House, Electrical Equipment and other real and personal property, rights, privileges and franchises, present and future, and by the ownership of the Saratoga Gas, Electric Light and Power Company.

Present bond issue (secured by titles to water power lands deeded to trustee; by deposit of over 90 per cent. of all stock and bonds of Saratoga Gas, Elec. Lt. & P. Co., and by the Dam, Power House and Electric Equipment of the completed property. Interest provided by present actual net earnings of Saratoga Co. of rising $40,000 per annum.)	$750,000
Additional bonds to be issued later for completion of plant. (Interest provided by special deposit of $35,000 with the Trustee)	750,000
Limit of bond issue upon completed plant, including Saratoga Co.	$1,500,000
Capital Stock	2,000,000

SINKING FUND.

The $750,000 bonds herein offered will be retired numerically at the rate of $50,000 per annum, beginning 1914, through the operation of a sinking fund to be maintained from the surplus earnings of the Company. The remaining $750,000 of the issue falls due at the end of thirty years.

DESCRIPTION OF PLANT.

The Hudson River Water Power Co. was organized for the purpose of acquiring the water power created by the fall in the Hudson River between Glens Falls and Palmer's Falls, New York, and for the electrical development of said water power and the transmission and sale of such electricty. The plant will consist of a dam seventy-two feet high, to be constructed just above Glens Falls, upon solid rock, capable of developing at least 10,000 horse-power in the driest portion of the year, which will be increased to from 15,000 to 20,000 horse-power at other times. The present flow of water in the river will be further increased upon the carrying out of the present plans of the Forest Preserve Board of New York State, which has entered upon a system of storage reservoirs in the Adirondack region at the head-waters of the Hudson for the purpose of equalizing the flow of the river. As a part of this plan a large reservoir at Indian Lake has already been completed. A power house will adjoin the dam, in which electricity will be generated, whence it will be transmitted for light and power purposes to Glens Falls, South Glens Falls, Saratoga, Sandy Hill, Fort Edward and Ballston, aggregating 50,000 population, where a demand for such power already exists at remunerative rates. Upward of 5,000 horse-power has already been applied for. No other available site or power exists upon the Hudson River which is not already utilized, hence the Hudson River Water Power Co. will enjoy a natural monopoly in the section of country served.

OPERATIONS OF HUDSON RIVER WATER POWER COMPANY.

Estimated annual receipts from sales of 10,000 horse power at minimum rate of $25 per h. p.		$250,000.00
Gross receipts of Saratoga Gas, Elec. Light and Power Co. for 1898	$80,350.32
Operating expenses	39,893.40	40,456.92
Gross annual revenue of Hudson River Water Power Co.		$290,456.92
Estimated expenses of operation		25,000.00
Net earnings, showing interest more than three times earned		$265,456.92
Annual interest charge on $1,500,00 5% bonds		$75,000.00

William Barclay Parsons, Esq., Civil and Consulting Engineer, and head of the Rapid Transit Commission of New York, has been retained by us, and is taking entire charge of planning and supervising the construction of the power plant of this Company.

Messrs. Storey, Thorndike & Palmer, Attorneys, have charge of all legal matters pertaining to the formation of the Company and the issue of bonds, and we are prepared to furnish copies of their opinion in evidence of the legality of all steps pertaining to the same, together with mortgage, etc.

Write for special prospectus, giving full particulars.

BOSTON E. H. GAY & CO. PHILADELPHIA
1 Nassau St., New York.

North American Trust Company
100 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
CAPITAL..... $2,000,000
SURPLUS..... 1,000,000
Fiscal Agent for the United States in Cuba.

OUR FOREIGN DEPARTMENT has reliable agents in all cities and towns of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Austria, Hungary, France, Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, and Holland; also Mexico, Central and South America, and is prepared to give prompt attention to the collection of legacies, management of estates, special payments, etc., in those countries.

OFFICERS.
Alvah Trowbridge.....President
Heman Dowd.....Vice-President
Stanley L. Conklin.....Secretary
Francis C. Prest.....Assistant Secretary

DIRECTORS.

Alvah Trowbridge,	Luis Suarez Galban,
John G. Carlisle.	Henry F. Shoemaker,
Charlton T. Lewis,	Roland R. Conklin,
Samuel M. Jarvis,	Wager Swayne,
James B. Dill,	James S. Kuhn,
Hugh Kelly,	Arnold Marcus,
Charles W. Drake	Stanley L. Conklin,
Heman Dowd,	Archer Brown,
Fletcher S. Heath,	L. Carbajal,
	Marques de Pinar del Rio.

SINKING FUND NOTICE.
DULUTH, MISSABE AND NORTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY
First Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, dated January 1st, 1893.

The CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY of New York gives notice that in accordance with Article V. of a certain Indenture made by the above Railway Company, dated January 1st, 1893, it will receive sealed proposals to sell the above-described bonds at a rate not to exceed 105 per cent. and accrued interest, the total offer not to consume more than the amount of Seventy-nine thousand two hundred and twenty-two 12-100 dollars ($79,222.12.) The sealed proposals will be opened at the office of the CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, in New York City, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 15th day of January, 1900.
CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE.
By G. Sherman, Vice President.

Cincinnati, November 1st, 1899.
THE UNDERSIGNED SINKING FUND COMmissioners, under the C., I., St. L. & C. consolidated 6 per cent. mortgage, hereby certify that we have this day made a drawing of bonds to be applied to Sinking Fund account of November 1, 1899, in accordance with provisions of mortgage, and that bonds bearing numbers as follows, viz.: 695, 489, 346, 49, 1068, 1036, and 544 have been drawn for such purpose and that interest on said bonds shall cease from and after the first day of May, 1900, and the bonds taken up at 105 per cent. and accrued interest to said date.
HERVEY BATES,
GEORGE T. BLISS,
M. E. INGALLS,
Sinking Fund Commissioners.

Office of the Canton Company of Baltimore,
N. E. Corner of Toone and Second Streets, Canton, Baltimore County, Md.,
December 18th, 1899.

By resolution of the Directors, notice is hereby given to the stockholders that $35,000 (Thirty-five thousand dollars) will be expended in the purchase of shares of the capital stock of the Canton Company of Baltimore for cancellation, in accordance with its charter.

All offers to sell must be in writing, and inclosed in sealed envelopes and indorsed, "Proposals to sell stock."

All offers received before 12 o'clock noon on the 9th day of January, 1900, will be considered, and the said sum will be expended in the purchase of shares offered at the lowest prices, the company, however, reserving the right to reject any or all offers.
W. B. BROOKS, Jr., President.

MOFFAT & WHITE,
BANKERS.
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange,
NO. 1 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK.
Investment Securities.
N. Y. & N. J. TELEPHONE
STOCK AND RIGHTS
Bought and Sold.

FINANCIAL.

We offer for Investment
SHARES OF THE
United States Trust Company,
Union Trust Company,
Central Trust Company,
Farmers' Loan & Trust Company,
Guaranty Trust Company,
U. S. Mtge. & Trust Company,
Colonial Trust Company,
National City Bank,
Manhattan Company Bank,
Merchants' National Bank,
National Bank of Commerce,
National Park Bank,
Fourth National Bank,
Western National Bank,
Mechanics' National Bank,
Bank of New York.
ALSO MANY OTHER PRIME
Bank and Trust Co. Stocks.

In view of the high rates of interest that have prevailed during the past six months, and which are likely to continue well into the year 1900, we recommend the shares of the leading New York City Trust Cos. and Banks as most desirable investments.

P. J. Goodhart & Co.
38 WALL STREET.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

Columbia Bank,
Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street.
New York, December 27th, 1899.
The annual meeting of the shareholders of this Bank for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, and for the election of three Inspectors of Election, to serve for the following annual election, will be held at the banking house on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
The transfer books will be closed from January 2d, 1900, until the morning of January 10th, 1900.
W. S. GRIFFITH, Cashier.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the Astoria Light, Heat and Power Company for the election of Directors to serve during the ensuing year, and for such other business as may come before the stockholders, will be held at No. 32 Liberty Street, on Monday, January 8th, 1900. Polls open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. Transfer books will close on Saturday, December 23d, 1899, at 12 M. and reopen on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900.
FRANCIS R. FORAKER, Secretary.

The Western National Bank OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK,
9th December, 1899.
The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of this Bank for the election of Directors and such other business as may come before it will be held at the Banking House, No. 15 Nassau Street, on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900. The Polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M.
H. A. SMITH, Cashier.

The Greenwich Bank of the City of New York,
New York, Dec. 27, 1899.
The annual election for Directors of this bank and Inspectors of the next election will be held at the banking house, No. [illegible] Hudson St., on Monday, January 8, 1900. The polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. The transfer books will be closed until after the election.
WILLIAM A. HAWES, Cashier.

Lincoln National Bank,
32-42 EAST 42D ST.,
New York, December 23d, 1899.
The Annual Meeting of the shareholders of this bank, for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, will be held at the banking house, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
W. T. CORNELL, Cashier.

To the Shareholders of the Central National Bank of the City of New York.
The annual election for the Directors of this Bank will be held at the banking rooms, No. 320 Broadway, Manhattan, City of New York, on the 9th day of January, 1900. Polls open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. CHARLES S. YOUNG, Cashier.
New York, December 9, 1899.

The Hanover National Bank of the City of New York,
NEW YORK, December 8th, 1899.
The Annual Election for Directors of this Bank will be held at the banking house, 9 and 11 Nassau Street, on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 o'clock M. and 1 o'clock P. M.
WILLIAM HALLS, Jr., Cashier.

The Bowery Bank of New York.
New York, December 28, 1899.
The annual meeting of the shareholders of this Bank, for the election of DIRECTORS for the ensuing year will be held at the Banking House, Number 62 Bowery, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of three (3) and four (4) P. M. CHARLES ESSIG, Cashier.

OFFICE OF THE EAGLE FIRE COMPANY,
New York, December 30, 1899.—The annual election for Directors of this company, and for Inspectors, will be held at the company's office, No. 71 Wall Street, on Tuesday, January 9, 1900, commencing at 12 o'clock M. and closing at 1 o'clock P. M. THOS. J. GAINES, Secretary.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the Atlantic Trust Company, for the election of Trustees and Inspectors of Election, will be held at the Company's office, No. 39 William Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on Monday, January 15, 1900. Polls are open from 11 A. M. to 12 M.
JOHN ALVIN YOUNG, Secretary.

Fourteenth Street Bank,
3 East 14th Street.
New York, Dec. 26, 1899.
The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house on Tuesday, January 9, 1900, between the hours of 9:30 and 10:30 A. M. IRVING C. GAYLORD, Cashier.

The Importers' and Traders' National Bank of New York,
New York, December 22d, 1899.
The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at its banking rooms, corner of Broadway and Murray Street, Tuesday, January 9th, 1900. The polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. EDWARD TOWNSEND, Cashier.

The Twelfth Ward Bank,
Cor. Lexington Ave. & 125th St.,
New York, Dec. 18, 1899.
The annual meeting of the stockholders of this Bank, for the election of Directors, will be held at the Banking House on Monday, January 8th, 1900, from 7:30 to 8:30 P. M.
F. B. FRENCH, Cashier.

The Merchants' National Bank of the City of New York,
December 7th, 1899.
The Annual Election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking room, No. 42 Wall Street, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, from 11 M. to 1 o'clock P. M.
JOSEPH W. HARRIMAN, Cashier.

National Broadway Bank of the City of New York,
New York, Dec. 11th, 1899.
The annual election for Directors of this Bank will be held at the banking house, No. 237 Broadway, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
CHAS. J. DAY, Cashier.

Garfield National Bank,
New York, December 28, 1899.
The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of this Bank, for the election of Directors and such other business as may come before said meeting, will be held at the Banking House, 23d Street and Sixth Av., on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of eleven A. M. and 12 M.
R. W. POOR, Cashier.

West Side Bank.
New York, Dec. 25th, 1899.
The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking room, Nos. 485 and 487 Eighth Avenue, on Tuesday, the 9th day of January, 1900, between the hours of 10 and 11 A. M. THEO. M. BERTINE, Cashier.

The Trust Co. of America,
149 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Capital and Surplus, $5,000,000.
ASHBEL P. FITCH.....President.
WILLIAM B. JOUPP, Vice-President. WILLIAM BARBOUR, Vice-President.
RAYMOND J. CHATRY, Secretary. HENRY S. MANNING, Vice-President.
ALBERT L. BANISTER, Treasurer. LAWRENCE O. MURRAY, Trust Officer.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.,
NO. 59 WALL ST.,
ISSUE COMMERCIAL AND TRAVELERS' CREDITS, AVAILABLE IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Outside Securities a Specialty.
DAVID PFEIFFER, 18 Wall St.

Colonial Trust Company,
ST. PAUL BUILDING,
222 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
CAPITAL AND SURPLUS, $1,500,000.
Transacts a General Trust and Banking Business.
Allows Interest on Daily Balances.
Subject to check, payable at sight or through the New York Clearing-house and on Certificates of Deposit.

OFFICERS:
JOHN E. BORNE, President.
RICHARD DELAFIELD, CORD MEYER, JAMES W. TAPPIN, } Vice-Presidents.
ARPAD S. GROSSMANN, Treasurer.
EDMUND A. JUDSON, Secretary.
PHILIP S. BABCOCK, Trust Officer.

TRUSTEES:

Henry O. Havemeyer,	Cord Meyer,
Anson R. Flower,	Perry Belmont,
Lowell M. Palmer,	Wm. T. Wardwell,
John E. Borne,	Henry N. Whitney,
Richard Delafield,	Theo. W. Myers,
Daniel O'Day,	L. C. Dessar,
Percival Kuhne,	Geo. Warren Smith,
Frank Curtiss,	John S. Dickerson,
Vernon H. Brown,	James W. Tappin,
Seth M. Milliken,	Geo. W. Quintard,
	W. Seward Webb.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

Philadelphia, December 9th, 1899.
THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway Company for the election of Directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for such other business as may be brought before it, will be held at the general office of the Company in Pennsylvania, No. 104 South Fifth Street, Philadelphia, on Monday, January 8th, 1900, at 12 o'clock noon.
The transfer books will be closed on Saturday, December 30th, 1899, at 12 o'clock M., and will remain closed until Tuesday, January 9th, 1900.
J. R. TRIMBLE, Secretary.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the Sebastian Wagon Company for the election of Trustees for the ensuing year will be held at the company's office, 224 East 44th Street, on MONDAY, January 8th, 1900, at 10 o'clock A. M.
CHARLES A. STADLER, President.

Pacific Bank,
New York, Dec. 26, 1899.
The Annual Election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house, 470 Broadway, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900. The polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 o'clock P. M.
S. C. MERWIN, Cashier.

THE ANNUAL ELECTION FOR DIRECTORS of the International Banking & Trust Company, to supply the places of those whose terms expire, will be held at its offices, 149 Broadway, January 17th, at 11 A. M.
JOHN B. DUER,
T. H. FROEHLICH, } Secretaries.

COPARTNERSHIP NOTICES.

CERTIFICATE OF FORMATION
of
LIMITED PARTNERSHIP OF LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO.

The undersigned, desirous of forming a limited partnership pursuant to the provisions of the Statutes of the State of New York, do hereby certify as follows:

I.
That the name or firm under which such partnership is to be conducted is LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO., and the county wherein the principal place of business is located is the City and County of New York.

II.
That the general nature of the business intended to be transacted by such partnership is the general commission brokerage and mercantile business.

III.
That the names and residences of all the general and special partners interested in said partnership are as follows:
ERNST THALMANN, who resides at Number 150 West 59th Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City, County, and State of New York, and RICHARD LIMBURGER, who resides at Number 38 East 72d Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City, County, and State of New York, are the General Partners; and HANS BLEICHRODER, who resides at Berlin, in the Empire of Germany; Dr. GEORG VON BLEICHRODER, who resides at Berlin, in the Empire of Germany, and Dr. PAUL SCHWABACH, who resides at Berlin, in the Empire of Germany, are the Special Partners. The said General Partners and the said Special Partners are each of them of full age.

IV.
That the said Hans Von Bleichröder has contributed the sum of Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000,) and the said Dr. Georg Von Bleichröder the sum of Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000,) and the said Dr. Paul Schwabach the sum of Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000) to the Common Stock of such limited partnership in cash.

V.
That the period at which the said partnership is to commence is the first day of January, Nineteen Hundred, and the period at which the said partnership is to be terminated is the thirty-first day of December, Nineteen Hundred and Four, both inclusive.

Dated this 21st day of November, Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-nine.
ERNST THALMANN.
RICHARD LIMBURGER.
HANS VON BLEICHRODER.
GEORG v. BLEICHRODER.
PAUL H. SCHWABACH.

State of New York, City and County of New York, ss.:
On this 21st day of November, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ninety-nine, before me personally came the above named ERNST THALMANN and RICHARD LIMBURGER, to me known and known to me to be the persons described in and who executed the foregoing certificate, and they severally acknowledged to me that they executed the same.
J. W. ROTCHILD,
[Seal.] Notary Public No. 42,
City and County of New York.
10c. internal revenue stamp canceled.

Consul General of the United States, City of Berlin, German Empire, ss.:
On this fourth day of December, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ninety-nine, before me personally came HANS VON BLEICHRODER, Dr. GEORG VON BLEICHRODER, and Dr. PAUL SCHWABACH, known to me and to me known to be the individuals described in and who executed the within instrument, and severally acknowledged that they executed the same for the purposes therein mentioned.
Witness my hand and Consular Seal of Office this fourth day of December, Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-nine.
FRANK H. MASON,
[Seal.] U. S. Consul General, Berlin.

City and County of New York, ss.:
ERNST THALMANN, being duly sworn, says:
That he is one of the General Partners named in the annexed certificate, and that the several sums specified in said certificate to have been contributed by the Special Partners, respectively, in said certificate named to the common stock of said partnership, have been actually and in good faith paid in cash.
ERNST THALMANN.
Sworn to before me this 30th day of December, 1899.
MICHAEL GAVIN 2d,
[Seal.] Notary Public No. 88,
New York County.
10c. internal revenue stamp canceled.

LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO.
Whereas, The limited partnership heretofore existing between Ernst Thalmann, Adolf Ladenburg, Richard Limburger, Julius Schwabach, Hans von Bleichröder, and Dr. Georg von Bleichröder will terminate by limitation on the thirty-first day of December, 1899; and,
Whereas, The business heretofore conducted by the said copartnership has been transacted within the State of New York for a period of three years and upwards, and also with foreign countries, under the said copartnership name of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co.; and
Whereas, The undersigned have agreed to form a new limited partnership to commence on the First Day of January, 1900, and to terminate on the Thirty-first Day of December, 1904, and intend to continue the use of said firm name of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co.; and,
Whereas, The undersigned, Ernst Thalmann and Richard Limburger, constitute a majority of the General Partners in said limited copartnership of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., and are to be the General Partners in said new limited partnership of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., and the said Hans von Bleichröder and Dr. Georg von Bleichröder constitute a majority of the special partners in said limited copartnership of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., and are to be Special Partners in said new limited partnership of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co.; and,
Whereas, The said Ernst Thalmann and Richard Limburger, who are to be such General Partners, and the said Hans von Bleichröder and Dr. Georg von Bleichröder, who are to be Special Partners in said new limited partnership of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., have acquired the right to use the firm name of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., and have consented and elected and do consent and elect to continue the business heretofore carried on under such limited copartnership and under the same firm name of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co.
Now, therefore, We, the said ERNST THALMANN, whose place of abode is at Number 150 West 59th Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, and RICHARD LIMBURGER, whose place of abode is at Number 38 East 72d Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, who are to be the General Partners, and HANS VON BLEICHRODER, whose place of abode is at Berlin, in the Empire of Germany, and Dr. GEORG VON BLEICHRODER, whose place of abode is at Berlin, in the Empire of Germany, and Dr. PAUL SCHWABACH, whose place of abode is at Berlin, in the Empire of Germany, who are to be the Special Partners, do hereby certify and declare, in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, that we are the only persons who are to constitute the said limited partnership of LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO., commencing on the First Day of January, Nineteen Hundred, and terminating on the Thirty-first Day of December, Nineteen Hundred and Four, and who are hereafter to deal under said firm name of LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO., and that the principal place of the business to be continued and conducted under said firm name by said limited partnership is to be in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, in the County and State of New York.
In witness whereof we have made, severally signed, and acknowledged this certificate, this 21st day of November, Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-nine.
ERNST THALMANN.
RICHARD LIMBURGER.
HANS VON BLEICHRODER.
GEORG v. BLEICHRODER.
PAUL H. SCHWABACH.

State of New York, County of New York:
On this 21st day of November, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ninety-nine, before me personally came ERNST THALMANN and RICHARD LIMBURGER, to me personally severally known and known to me to be the individuals described in and who executed the foregoing instrument, and they severally acknowledged to me that they executed the same.
J. W. ROTCHILD,
[Seal.] Notary Public No. 42,
City and County of New York.
10c. internal revenue stamp canceled.

Consul General of the United States, City of Berlin, German Empire, ss.:
On this fourth day of December, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ninety-nine, before me personally came HANS VON BLEICHRODER, Dr. GEORG VON BLEICHRODER, and Dr. PAUL SCHWABACH, known to me and to me known to be the individuals described in and who executed the within instrument, and severally acknowledged that they executed the same for the purposes therein mentioned.
Witness my hand and Consular Seal of Office, this fourth day of December, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ninety-nine.
FRANK H. MASON,
[Seal.] U. S. Consul General, Berlin.

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST OR STOLEN,
BANK BOOK No. 365,761 of the EMIGRANT INDUSTRIAL SAVINGS BANK. Payment stopped. Please return book to Bank, No. 51 Chambers St.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

The second week of the new year opens with Wall Street traders watching for developments to give the stock market tendency. Enough of prosperity is in evidence on every side to warrant the fullest confidence in values, but the speculative contingent prefers to ignore what is clear and keep on the outlook for the coming of something sensational—it matters not whether favorable or unfavorable, so long as there shall be the extraordinary involved.

Thus, cable dispatches from South Africa are especially in request and Wall Street is ready to be boisterous, either on the bull or bear side, if only foreign battle news will come along with a horror—bull speculators hoping for Boer slaughter and bears hoping for Boer victory. Largely this is nonsensical; but it is the Wall Street situation, nevertheless.

***

Disclosure of the completion of further railway deals in the Vanderbilt interest may be expected to exert some marked effects. It will require adroit explanations, however, to make it appear that the security holders of the New York Central Company gain benefits in the acquirement of the Lake Erie and Western Railroad. Much different is the purchase of the control of the Big Four property. That is not a derelict. It isn't taken over to help out unfortunate Wall Street speculations.

Incidentally, it may be disclosed that the New York Central's acquirement of the Big Four is attended by the passing of the control of the Chesapeake and Ohio to the Pennsylvania. New York Central-Pennsylvania relations are no longer much in doubt. President Callaway and President Cassatt, by the bye, will enjoy life together in sunbaths at Atlantic City this week.

IRON AND STEEL PROSPERITY.

Mr. C. S. Guthrie, President of the American Steel Hoop Company, who has just returned from a Western trip, speaks most confidently not alone of the business of his own company, but of the substantial prosperity and wonderful activity of the steel and iron business generally. He says:

"The condition of the iron and steel market could not be better; in fact, it is phenomenal. Never were there such good times. Wages are advancing, demand continues great, earnings are increasing, and all the companies are pressed as they never were before to fill orders. In Pittsburg, Cleveland, Chicago—everywhere I went I found the same state of affairs. The demand from the railroads and for structural material is nothing short of astonishing.

"In our own business we are faring wonderfully well. In the month of December—the dullest month of the year, because every one is taking inventory—we received as many new orders as we sent out. We have, in fact, business on our books clear up to July next. Half of our finished product and all of our pig iron production up to that time are sold. Our profits were $3,000,0000 up to Jan. 1, with four months of the fiscal year yet to run. We are running just as full as we can—indeed, all the steel companies are.

"As for the outlook for the future, it is most encouraging. The fact that all the companies are spending thousands upon thousands of dollars for improvements shows how great is their faith in the future. I can see nothing whatever to disturb conditions."

WHAT GOOD TIMES MEAN.

He who runs may read and understand what President M. E. Ingalls of the "Big Four" thinks of the present prosperous condition of the railroads. His opinion is brief, but to the point.

"Only let these good times continue for a few years longer," he says, "and we will be wearing diamonds in our night shirts."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S AFFAIRS.

That there has been no exaggeration of the very excellent condition of the Southern Pacific system, which has led to its remarkable earnings lately, increasing at the rate of more than $16,000 a day, is well borne out by this statement of Acting Vice President I. E. Gates, made in the absence of President C. P. Huntington in the South:

"The condition of affairs with the Southern Pacific was never so good. In fact, it is hard to see how it could be better. All is harmony within the company, and so far as our physical condition and earnings are concerned, each day shows a steady improvement.

"As for the question of dividends, that of course depends on earnings—and our net for the month of November, as our statement showed, were $2,278,000, a gain of over the same month last year of $500,000. But you had better see Mr. Huntington on that subject."

The Street hears it that the insids interests who recently put the stock above 44 are now preparing another move, and predictions are heard that even 50 will be a low figure in the no distant future.

NEW EQUIPMENT.

Among the orders placed last week by railroad companies for new equipment were the following:

Reading, 30 locomotives; Colorado and Southern, 10 locomotives; Colorado Fuel and Iron, 5 locomotives; Fitchburg, 125 box and 100 flat cars; Canadian Pacific, 200 coal cars; Western New York and Pennsylvania, 12 passenger cars; Grand Trunk, 2,000 cars; Oregon Short Line, 10 locomotives and a number of coaches and dining cars; Oregon Navigation Company, several postal, chair, and baggage cars; Pacific and Idaho Northern, 400 cars; Alleghany Valley, 300 coal and 100 box cars.

COTTON CROP MOVEMENT.

The movement of the cotton crop up to date shows a reduction as compared with the crop of 1898-7 of 507,000 bales. The total crop that season was 8,758,000 bales. The two succeeding crops being much larger, a comparison with that of 1898-7 seems only reasonably fair and proper.

On Jan. 1, 1897 the total crop in sight was 6,398,000 bales out of a total of 8,758,000 bales, making the movement after Jan. 1 2,360,000 bales. Should the movement after Jan. 1 this year prove equal to that of 1896-7 this year's crop would be 8,250,000 bales.

On Jan. 1, 1898, the total amount in sight was 7,300,000 bales out of a total crop of 11,200,000 bales, and on Jan. 1, 1899, 7,725,000 bales out of a total of 11,275,000 bales, showing a movement after Jan. 1 respectively of 3,900,000 and 3,550,000 bales. The amount of cotton that came into sight after Jan. 1, 1899, was the largest ever recorded, exceeding that of 1896-7 by 1,540,000 bales.

Now, while the present crop movement is 507,000 bales less than that of 1896-7, if the movement for the remainder of the crop year be increased by adding half of the above excess to it it will bring the crop totals: Crop in sight, Jan. 1, 5,891,000 bales; assume remaining movement equals that of 1896-7 2,360,000 bales, 8,251,000 bales; add excess as above, 770,000 bales, making a total crop of 9,021,000 bales.

In view of the fact that the movement has been running smaller than that of 1896-7 the above addition of 770,000 bales is very generous. Indeed, a crop of 9,000,000 bales at the present moment looks very unc ver in hand, increase, 1,681,000 pesetas; notes in circulation, increase, 4,887,000 pesetas.

THE BERLIN MONEY MARKET.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—The money market grew steady and easier throughout all of last week, private discount reaching 6⅛ yesterday. The ease of the market is explained by the annual dividend payments, which holders hesitate to reinvest in securities, owing to the uncertainties of the situation. The Deutsche Oekonomist, however, regards the falling of discount as an artificial manoeuvre, designed to strengthen confidence. As confirming this view, it points out that the great Berlin banks, which usually lend call money at this date, are now seeking the same at from 7 to 8 per cent.

The recovery movement of the Reichsbank last week was normal, while, owing to the high rates for new discounts, loans were only moderate. A reduction of rate is expected at the bank during the latter half of this month, if nothing political intervenes. The gold export to England has ceased, although exchange remains above the gold point. Export to Holland, however, continues in small amounts. It is rumored that considerable Russian money has been placed here.

The Boerse throughout the week was irregular and nervous. It started bullish, but weakened upon the report of the seizure of the Bundesrath and intelligence regarding the movements of Russian troops. The bears took advantage of both incidents to beat down values. The declines, however, were not heavy, and the general tendency remains rather firm. Americans sold freely, but the undertone of the market as affecting them remains decidedly strong.

The financial press points out that Berlin stood the recent situation better than London and New York. Although much German money was lost at the London settlement, this did not cause failures and embarrassments here.

The heavy advance in gold mine taxes in the Transvaal causes unfavorable comment in the financial press. Even the pro-Boer organs say the action is confiscatory. It is reported that the German and French Consuls in Pretoria have already protested on behalf of their respective Governments.

FINANCIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Simon Borg & Co. announce that, in view of the fact that default has been made in the principal of the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway first mortgage bonds, which became due on Jan. 1 last and foreclosure proceedings having been begun in pursuance of a plan of reorganization formulated by the company, under which the security of the bonds is seriously impaired, they have agreed to represent the interests of the bondholders at the request of a large number of English holders under a bondholders' protective agreement, dated Dec. 21. Holders of bonds in the United States may become parties to said agreement by depositing their bonds with the Central Trust Company. Copies of the bondholders' protective agreement may be obtained at the bankers' offices or at the office of the Central Trust Company.

FEDERAL COURTS.

Calendars for Monday, Jan. 8.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—Wallace, Lacombe, and Shipman, JJ.—Calendar called by Lacombe, J., in Room 12, Post Office Building, at 11 A. M.—Jury Calendar.

102—Frank vs. Netherlands-Am. Nav. Co.
150—Nat. Gum & Mica Co. vs. Shelby Mill Co.
152—Wolf vs. Fidelity & Casualty Co.
186—Whelan vs. Man. Ry. Co.
164—Bradley vs. Met. St. Railway Co.
165—Kleenworth vs. Waydell.
177—Conway vs. Met. St. Ry. Co.
178—Alison vs. N. Y. Life Ins. Co.
182—Crawford vs. Eldman.
184—Picercel vs. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. Co.
186—Sanderson vs. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. Co.
189—Roller vs. 3d Av. R. R. Co.
191—Barbe vs. Met. St. Railway Co.
193—Leaman vs. Met. St. Ry. Co.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—Wheeler, J.—Court opens in Room 47 Post Office Building, at 11 A. M.—Customs Appeals.

2144—German Artistic Weaving Co. vs. United States.
2098—Megroz, Portier & Co. vs. United States.
2383—Fleming & Co. vs. United States.
2481—United States vs. Philditch.
2948—Henry Robinson vs. United States.
2980—Amerman & Paterson vs. United States.
2607—W. A. Leggett vs. United States.
2969—Stern Bros. vs. United States.
2902—Hensel vs. United States.
2948—Leggs vs. United States.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—Brown, J.—Opens at 11 A. M. in Room 66 Post Office Building.

18—Dearberg vs. S. S. Friesland.
48—Cook vs. Tug Kunk.
53—Hammond vs. Hill Brothers.
56—Hansen vs. S. S. Geo. Farwell.

STATE COURTS.

New York Calendars—This Day.

SUPREME COURT—Appellate Division—Adjourned until Tuesday, Jan. 9, at 1 P. M.

SUPREME COURT—Appellate Term—For the hearing of appeals from City Court and Municipal Courts. Adjourned for the term.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part I.—Fitzgerald, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Litigated motions.

1—Smith vs. Smith.
2—Bush vs. Bush.
3—In re Safety Third-Rail Elec. Co.
4—Title G. & T. Co. vs. Landsberg.
5—Ricketts vs. Silverman.
6—In re St. Nicholas Bank.
7—In re Riverside Drive and Parkway.
8—In re H. Reynolds & Co.
9—Thomson vs. Clark.
10—Kazis vs. Guys.
11—Goodwin vs. Coddlington.
12—Munson vs. Munson.
13—Carew vs. Bichterman.
14—Voight vs. McManus
15—U. S. Trust Co. vs. Pope.
16—J. E. Linde Paper Co. vs. White.
17—Hill vs. German Sav. Bank.
18—Bowlby vs. Silberberg.
19—Bradley & Currier Co. vs. Lippstadt.
20—Early vs. Ferris.
21—Hauk vs. Decker.
22—McDonald vs. Ryan.
23—Potter vs. Star Co.
24—May vs. Mariano.
25—Mannheimer vs. Connor.
26—Rudden vs. Rudden.
27—Bell vs. Wahle.
28—Young vs. Eames.
29—Whitlock vs. Brogan.
30—Shaw vs. City of New York.
31—Sichel vs. Winterfeld.
32—Wardell vs. Wardell.
33—In re Carpenter.
34—Hayes vs. Kerr.
35—Morrell vs. United Verde Copper Co.
36—Dunbocher vs. Met. St. Ry.
37—Moore vs. Brown.
38—In re Muench.
39—Ewing vs. Wightman
40—Arnold vs. Arnold.
41—In re Tremont Av.
42—Wagner vs. Meehan
43—Wilson vs. Eggers.
44—Lagowitz vs. Arendt
45—Beckowitz vs. Vester
46—Honig vs. Honig.
47—Kohler vs. Met. St. Ry.
48—Oliphants vs. Smith.
49—Keller vs. Magan.
50—Connelly vs. Dillon.
51—United Press vs. A. S. Abell Co.
52—Lindenmeyer vs. Fromme.
53—In re German Mutual Assistance Socy. for Widows and Orphans.
54—Martin B. Brown Co. vs. Florence Pub. Co.
55—Levine vs. Levine.
56—Smith vs. Smith.
57—Gerlach vs. Rohrer.
58—Eckhard vs. Jones.
59—Kaufield vs. Wallach.
60—Matter of Duir.
61—Horton vs. N. Y. El. R. R.
62—Quackenbos vs. Quackenbos.
63—Simmons vs. Simmons.
64—Lazer vs. Ruttenberg.
65—Fried vs. Zuckerman
66—Flagg vs. Flagg.
67—Gouland vs. Gouland
68—Marks vs. Mott.
69—Stein vs. Grannies.
70—Myers vs. Reiners.
71—Braman vs. Keating.
72—Farrell vs. Met. St. Ry.
73—Elsler vs. Koehler.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part II.—Andrews, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Ex-parte business.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part III.—Leventritt, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Case on. Motions.

1—Rigby vs. Harrison & Tanbies vs. Wiedhoff. Demurrers.
1198—Radley vs. Lugar.
1210—Birdseye vs. Georgia and Alabama Inval Co. Preferred causes.
4473—Foss vs. Romeo.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Day calendar—To be called in Part IV. Room at 10:30 A. M. Cases will be assigned to the several parts of Special Term for trial. Law and Fact.

4006—Merritt vs. Merritt
4187—Schropshire vs. Hasbrouck.
2768—Dupont vs. Dupont.
1766—Tanner vs. Central Trust Co.
3042—Schaefer vs. Chatillon.
3350—Daniels vs. Prince.
4243—Lagowitz vs. Arendt.
4252—Courte vs. Courte.
4246—Wagner vs. Sullivan.

Highest number reached in regular call on general calendar, 4352.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part IV.—Smyth, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Calendar clear.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part V.—Lawrence, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Calendar clear.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part VI.—Bischoff, Jr., J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Case on.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part VII.—Freedman, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Elevated railroad cases. Calendar clear.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part VIII.—Adjourned for the term.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part I.—(Criminal Term.)—Recess until Jan. 16.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part II.—McAdam, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Calendar clear. Preferred causes.

11973—People, &c., vs. Packer.
11354—Reid vs. Reid.
5182—Mairs vs. Mayor, &c.
11942—Montague vs. Jewelers' & Tradesmens' Co.
9002—T. Weasel Mfg. Co. vs. Hurst Electrotype Co.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Day Calendar—To be called in Part III. Room at 10:30 A. M. Cases will be sent from this calendar to Trial Term, Parts III., IV., V., and VI. for trial.

5967—McHugh vs. Man. Ry. Co.
11318—Kister vs. same.
2793—Maggs vs. Samuels
4241—Bogert vs. Met. St. Ry. Co.
5174—Dunham vs. Hastings Pavement Co.
6238—Michelson vs. Gross.
6267—Schlessinger vs. U. S. Mortgage Trust Co.
6511—Wynne vs. City of N. Y.
6355—Willard vs. Press Pub. Co.
6225—French vs. City of New York.
6611—7th Nat. Bank vs. Ellis.
6021—Troy vs. A. D. Porter Co.
6635—Lehman vs. Greenwald.
6075—Getzoff vs. City of N. Y.
4281—Dahl vs. Met. St. Ry. Co.

Highest number reached in regular call on general calendar, 7168.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part III.—Beach, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Calendar clear.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part IV.—MacLean, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Case on.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part V.—Beekman, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Calendar clear.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part VI.—Giegerich, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Case on.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Day Calendar—To be called in Trial Term, Part VII. Room, at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from this calendar to Trial Term, Parts VII., VIII., IX., X., and XI. for trial.

3548—Rooney vs. Henkele Co.
4078—La Manne vs. 3d Av. R. R. Co.
3921—Delmage vs. 3d Av. R. R. Co.
1661—Kaufield vs. Lyman.
6186—Pozzo vs. Skalnik.
1623—Fogarty vs. Union Ry. Co.
6375—Patterson vs. The Bronx Co.
6459—Cortina vs. Baker.
6463—Seymour vs. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co.
517—Reum vs. Union Ry. Co.
6473—Hartwig vs. Abramson.
6519—Bernheimer vs. Adams.
6677—Schiff vs Brill.
6678—Marks vs. same.
6679—Hartman vs. same.
6680—Moss vs. same.
6681—Sternberg vs. same
6682—Kirschbaum vs. same.
6684—Sarasohn vs. Miles
2709—McMullen vs. 3d Av. R. R. Co.
965—Palmer vs. Sun Print. & Pub. Ass'n.
4672—Townsley vs. Bankers' L. Ins. Co.
841—A. Blum, jr., & Sons vs. United Firemen's Ins. Co.
5300—O'Neill vs. McMullin.
3992—Fuchten vs. Dry Dock, &c. R. R. Co.
6439—Bailey vs. 5th Av. Coach Co.
6691—Vormberger & Co. vs. Levy.
6705—Dupre vs. Childs.
6721—Trenholm vs. Sickels.
6748—Kent vs. Hadley.
6776—Lagerman vs. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. Co.
6110—McKeon vs. Wallach.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part VII.—Gildersleeve, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Calendar clear.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part VIII.—O'Gorman, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Calendar clear.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part IX.—Dugro, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial, Case on.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part X.—Truax, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Calendar clear.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part XI.—Scott, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Cases to be sent from day calendar for trial. Case on.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part XII.—Adjourned until Jan. 15.

SURROGATE'S COURT—Chambers—Thomas, S.—Wills for probate at 10:30 A. M.

Edward E. Williams,
Mary L. Housley,
Simon H. Riegelman,
Jr., Charles Burton,
Bertha Daniels,
Charles W. Rosekrans.
At 11 A. M.
John M. A. Harned.

SURROGATE'S COURT—Trial Term—Held in Surrogate's Court, Trial Term, Ground Floor, in County Court House—Fitzgerald, S.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Contested wills. Case on.

1484—Frances Mary Woodward.
1429—Selina C. Berry.
1467—Michael J. Kunzman.
1468—Matthew F. Harney.
1471—Annie T. Morgan.
1472—Bella Hornstein.
1477—Alexander Buchanan.
1498—Edward Lynch.
1499—James Mullins.
1500—Lena Pearson.
1503—Charlotte Suess.
1505—Clara F. Hewitt.
1509—Miles Banks.
1510—Robert Bonner.
1514—Eliza Stapleton.
1516—Johannah B. Widmayer.

CITY COURT—General Term—Adjourned sine die.

CITY COURT—Special Term—Schuchman, J.—Opens at 10 A. M. Held in Brownstone Building, (Chambers Street.) Motions must be made returnable at 10:30 A. M. Defaults on motions will be taken at 11 A. M.

CITY COURT—Trial Term—Part I.—Fitzsimons, C. J.—Held in Brownstone Building, (Chambers Street.)—Opens at 10 A. M. Calendar clear.

1360—Iba vs. Mela.
1245—Price vs. Werner.
1633—Hart vs. Met. St. Ry.
1396—Leonhardt vs. Case.
607—Siegel vs. Weir.
1243—Rooney vs. 42d St., &c., R. R.
1247—Manson vs. Anable
1248—Same vs. Hunter.
1048—Stark vs. 3d Av. R. R.
1040—Macher vs. Rosenberg.

CITY COURT—Trial Term—Part II.—McCarthy, J.—Held in Brownstone Building, (Chambers Street.)—Opens at 10 A. M. Calendar clear.

1809—Fried vs. Met. St. Ry.
1791—O'Connor vs. 3d Av. R. R.
1910—Berkman vs. Domonick.
1835½—McGloin vs. Kane.
857—Mallan vs. 3d Av. R. R.
700—Kirschner vs. same.
1923—Ketchum vs. Satterlee.
1857—Smith vs. Con. Gas Co.
1779—Villias vs. Stern.
2863—Zucker vs. Union Railway.
1885—Gross vs. Dry D., &c.
470—Kannard vs. 3d Av. R. R.
1214—Schlessinger vs. Murphy.

CITY COURT—Trial Term—Part III.—Conlan, J.—Held in Brownstone Building, (Chambers Street.) Opens at 10 A. M. Calendar clear.

1476—Stewart vs. Coman.
1275—Nadel vs. Met. St. Railway.
1688—S. B. Bowman Cycle Co. vs. Dyer.
1285—Gould vs. Derby Razor Co.
1706—Preiser vs. Ind. Order A. I.
1715—Cowen vs. Levy.
1716—A. D. Farmer & Son T. F. Co. vs. Hartford Tel. Code Pub. Co.
1755—Sperling vs. Siegman.
1328—Treukman vs. Fried.
1268—Keegan vs. Smith.
1280—Grusky vs. 3d Av. R. R.
1732—Curman vs. Segal.
1419—Heimerdinger vs. Lehigh Valley R. R.
1674—Sosensky vs. Shoshansky.
1728—Bergday vs. Slate.
1740—Moloney vs. 3d Av. R. R.

CITY COURT—Trial Term—Part IV.—O'Dwyer, J.—Held in Brownstone Building, (Chambers Street.)—Opens at 10 A. M. All cases must be tried when reached. Calendar clear. Short causes.

3811—Pakas vs. Hollingshead.
3837—Cleveland School Furniture Co. vs. Nat. Surety Co.
3741—Little vs. Greater New York Amusement Co.
3599—Cooperson vs. Erdenberg.
3847—Swift vs. Moses.
3693—Goldfine vs. Maas.
3783—Davis vs. Kramer.
3703—Perry vs. Rogers.
3787—Pakas vs. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co.
3851—White, Potter & Paige Mfg. Co. vs. Searles.
3709½—Vanderbeck vs. Hummel.
3798—Hoffberg vs. Ernst
3809—Jordis vs. Sire.
3860—Henry vs. Wroexter Realty Co.
3694—Sperry vs. Iskeljan.
3718—Wood vs. McDermott.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The following sales at auction are down for to-day at 111 Broadway:

By Bryan L. Kennelly & Co., foreclosure sale, Otto Horwitz, referee, 91 West Ninety-first Street, north side, 255 feet east of Columbus Avenue, 20 by 100.8, three-story stone-front dwelling. Due on judgment, $3,218; subject to other mortgages for $15,000.

By McVickar & Co., foreclosure sale, Thomas F. Donnelly, referee, 35 Broome Street and 13 to 19 Goerck Street, being the southwest corner of those streets, 25.2 by 100, five-story brick tenement, with stores. Due on judgment, $41,597.

By Herbert A. Sherman, foreclosure sale, Daniel P. Ingraham, referee, 237 West End Avenue, west side, 19.5 feet south of Seventy-first Street, 17 by 82.10, five-story brick dwelling. Due on judgment, $23,496.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, D. C. Calvin, referee, 384 Audubon Avenue, west side, 35.10 feet north of One Hundred and Eighty-fourth Street, 18 by 60, two-story brick dwelling. Due on judgment, $5,531.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., Francis B. Delehanty, referee, Jennings Street, north side, the block front between Longfellow and Boone Avenues, being 200 feet on Jennings Street, 100.2 on Longfellow Avenue and 162.5 on Boone Avenue, vacant. Due on judgment, $6,193.

Joseph A. Farley has sold the last of a row of houses recently completed by him on One Hundred and Eighth Street, near Riverside Avenue.

CITY REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

GEO. R. READ. W. J. VAN PELT.

Geo. R. Read,
REAL ESTATE.
751 5TH AVE. at 58th St.
1 Madison Avenue, cor. 23d St
HEAD OFFICE 60 CEDAR ST.

For Sale—Manufacturing Sites.

Blocks of lots, with bulkhead water front, on Newtown Creek, accessible to seagoing vessels. S. B. SCHIEFFELIN, 958 Madison Av., N. Y.

FOR SALE.—160 acres at Bronxville, fronting on Central Av., close to depot; must be sold to close up an estate; terms easy. J. ROMAINE BROWN & CO., 59 West 33d St.

INSTRUCTION.

LANGUAGES.
The Berlitz School of Languages.
1,122 Broadway, New York. 73 Court St., B'klyn.
Special advantages for Visitors to Paris Exposition.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of IGNATZ ADLER, bankrupt.—No. 1,080.

To the creditors of Ignatz Adler of the City of New York, County and State of New York, bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 3d day of January, A. D. 1900, the said Ignatz Adler of the City of New York, County and State of New York, was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at my office, 346 Broadway, in the City of New York, County and State of New York, on the eighteenth day of January, A. D. 1900, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

HERBERT A. SHERMAN, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, January 5th, 1900.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of DAVID DAVIDSON, Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of David Davidson of the City and County of New York, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 28th day of December, A. D. 1899, the said David Davidson was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of F. K. Pendleton, referee, No. 44 Broadway, in the City and County of New York, on the 19th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a Trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

F. K. PENDLETON, Referee in Bankruptcy.

January 5th, 1900.

NO. 1,716.—UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT for the Southern District of New York.—GEORGE LAUBENTRACHT, bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that George Laubentracht, bankrupt, has filed his petition, dated December 29th, 1899, praying for a discharge from all his debts in bankruptcy, and that all creditors and other persons are ordered to attend at the hearing upon said petition before the Hon. Addison Brown, United States District Judge, in the United States Court House and Post Office Building, in the City and County of New York, on Wednesday, January 17th, 1900, at 10:30 A. M., and then and there show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted, and also attend the examination of the bankrupt thereon.

SEAMAN MILLER, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, Jan. 6, 1900.

NO. 1,975.—IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the Southern District of New York.—In bankruptcy.—In the matter of ABRAHAM LIPKE and NATHAN LIPKE, individually and as partners in the firm of A. Lipke & Brother, bankrupts.

To the creditors of Abraham Lipke and Nathan Lipke, individually and as partners in the firm of A. Lipke & Brother, of the City and County of New York, and district aforesaid, bankrupts.

Notice is hereby given that on the 3d day of January, 1900, the said Abraham Lipke and Nathan Lipke, individually and as partners in the firm of A. Lipke & Brother, were duly adjudicated bankrupts; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of Theodor Aub, referee, No. 149 Broadway, in the City and County of New York, on the 26th day of January, 1900, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupts, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

THEODOR AUB, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, January 6th, 1900.

NO. 1,783.—UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT for the Southern District of New York.—OSCAR S. SACHS, bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that Oscar S. Sachs, bankrupt, has filed his petition, dated December 29th, 1899, praying for a discharge from all his debts in bankruptcy, and that all creditors and other persons are ordered to attend at the hearing upon said petition before the Hon. Addison Brown, United States District Judge, in the United States Court House and Post Office Building, in the City and County of New York, on Wednesday January 17th, 1900, at 10:30 A. M., and then and there show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted, and also attend the examination of the bankrupt thereon.

SEAMAN MILLER, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, Jan. 6, 1900.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of STANLEY H. G. STEWART, Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of Stanley H. G. Stewart of the City of New York, in the County of New York, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 30th day of December, A. D. 1899, the said Stanley H. G. Stewart was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at 52 Exchange Place, in the City of New York, on the 29th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a Trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

MORRIS S. WISE, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, January 6th, 1900.

NO. 1,499.—UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT for the Southern District of New York.—SAMUEL SUFFIN, bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that Samuel Suffin, bankrupt, has filed his petition, dated January 6th, 1900, praying for a discharge from all his debts in bankruptcy, and that all creditors and other persons are ordered to attend at the hearing upon said petition before the Hon. Addison Brown, United States District Judge, in the United States Court House and Post Office Building, in the City and County of New York, on Wednesday, January 31st, 1900, at 10:30 A. M., and then and there show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted, and also attend the examination of the bankrupt thereon.

JOHN J. TOWNSEND, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, Jan. 6, 1900.

APPROVED SCHEDULES, 25c. PER DOZ. Have a set in your office, as they are always wanted in a hurry. REILLY & CO., Law Blank Publishers, 78 Nassau St.

Referees Appointed—New York.

SUPREME COURT—Andrews, J.—Hicks vs. Northwestern Life Assurance Company—Ernest C. Webb, Horgan vs. Mayor, &c.—Franklin Bldg. Mutual Life Insurance Company vs. Livingston—Richard W. Welling. Wilson vs. Wilson—Edward L. Parris.

Receivers Appointed—New York.

SUPREME COURT—Andrews, J.—Richard Webber vs. Thomas Moloney et al.—Harry S. Wright.

SUPREME COURT—Fitzgerald, J.—Charles Hauenstein vs. James T. Barry et al.—Frederick E. Barnes.

Brooklyn Court Calendars.

SUPREME COURT—Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department—Goodrich, P. J.; Bartlett, Hatch, Woodward, and Hirschberg, JJ. Day calendar. Enumerated.

3—Chapman vs. Shea.
4—Prince vs. same.
5—Percival vs. Cram et al.
7—Schipp vs. Knox et al.
8—Goodwin vs. Coler.
9—McGuire vs. Corey.
10—Matter of Potter.
11—Matter of Haight.
12—Dailey vs. Fenton.
13—Snedeker vs. Snedeker.
16—Matter of Gihon.
18—Matter of Gall.
20—Matter of Vanderon.
21—Matter of Arnold.
22—Matter of Arnold.
23—Matter of Lefstein.
25—Pawling Sav. Bank vs. Washburn.
26—Backus vs. Press Pub. Co.
27—Matter of Siebrecht.
28—Altman vs. Fink.
29—Pennie vs. Newburgh Railway Co.
30—Matter of Coffey.
31—Bellew vs. Conn. Insurance Co.
32—Fisher vs. same.
33—Brunner vs. Cohen.
34—Vail vs. Leary.
35—Everett vs. Everett.
36—Kent vs. Ryder.
37—Same vs. Sheehan.
38—Same vs. Underhill.
39—Tarrytown Ry. vs. Conn. Traction Co.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term Trials—Day Calendar—Jenks, J.

Demurrers.
444—Rabinowitz vs. Marks.
445—Vandenhur vs. Gill.
446—Graff vs. Richter.
449—Booth vs. Gillespie. General Calendar.
41—W. A. Gaines & Co. vs. Satit.
172—First National Bank vs. McEntegart.
336—Cooper vs. Brooklyn Trust Co.
420—India Wharf Brewing Co. vs. Brooklyn Wharf Warehouse Co.
434—Prundage vs. Munger.
447—W. A. Gaines & Co. vs. Allern.
448—The Co-operative Building Bank vs. Rodwell.
449—Butcher, Jr., vs. Cuthbert.
450—Franklin Society for Home Building, &c., vs. Williams.
451—Ravello vs. Rubbo.
452—Helfarth vs. Deutscher Liederkranz of Brooklyn.
453—Chapin vs. Spear.
454—Lustig vs. Oliger.
455—Kalfers vs. Kalfers
457—Hadley vs. Hadley.
458—Chauncey vs. Parker.
459—Cummings vs. Harrison.
460—Marquidt vs. Marquadt.
461—Schuler vs. Post.
462—Deisler vs. Deisler.
463—Benzenber vs. Clafty.
464—North American Brewing Co. vs. Tietze.
465—Peak vs. Kings Co. Electric Railroad Co.
466—Price vs. Price.
467—Travis vs. Goldey.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Day Calendar—Part I., Gaynor, J.; Part II., Dickey, J.; Part III., Keogh, J.; Part IV., Maddox, J.; Part V., Lambert, J.

1102—Mowbray vs. Brooklyn Heights R. R.
3837—Dorian vs. Finley.
3780—Pratt vs. Johnston.
3032—Smid vs. Bernard.
3419—Apel vs. Firth.
2877—Lamphron vs. Curtis.
1721—Parkin vs. Dern.
2379—Bruner vs. Coney Island & B'klyn R.R.
2020—Rabinowitz vs. Bay State Clothing Co.
3124—Marino vs. Du Bois Sons.
2596—Franklin vs. Nassau R. R.
3354—Holmes vs. Erikson.
3168—Decker vs. Equitable Ass. Co. et al.
4382—U. S. for Snyder vs. Stratford et al.
3120—Weinstein vs. Nelson.
1764—Maher vs. City of New York.
2556—Helfenberg vs. Relbstein.
1928—Gross vs. Brooklyn Heights R. R.
2148—Marnell vs. City of New York.

The following causes, if marked ready, will be passed for the day. Causes will not be set down for days upon the call.

767—Connolly vs. Nassau R. R.
807—Vandewater vs. Kalbfleisch Chemical Co.
3272—Reynolds vs. Candee & Krekeler Co.
3391—Rudloff vs. Treacy.
1736—Lang vs. City of New York.
3334—Crane vs. B'klyn Heights R. R.
3261—Ehrlick vs. Met. St. R. R.
1235—Scanlon vs. Nassau R. R.
1470—Sansone vs. 3d Av. R. R.
4762—Sommer vs. Sommer.
3866—Pride vs. Steenken.
3268—Proton vs. Coney Island & B'klyn R.R.
2178—Jones vs. Met. St. R. R.
1791—Lahey vs. Nassau R. R.
3464—Latwis vs. B'klyn Heights R. R.
483—Seifter vs. B'klyn Heights R. R.
1561—McAdams vs. B'klyn Heights R. R.
2568—Mattson vs. Weidman Brewery.
3432—O'Connor vs. Met. St. R. R.

Highest number reached on regular call, 3465.

COUNTY COURT—Criminal Calendar—Part I.—Aspinall, J.—Toney Nuntelbaum, John Foley, James Turner Jame Lemon, William Griffin, Thomas J. Devine.

COUNTY COURT—Civil Calendar—Part II.—Hurd, J.

421—McLaurin vs. G key
305—Spencer vs. B'klyn Heights R. R. Co.

SURROGATE'S COURT—Abbott, S.—The will of Washington Groesbeck, Ann Ast, Jurgen H. Becker, and Delia F. Buckley.

The guardianships of Theresa Muller and Mary A. Quinn.

The administration in the estate of Annie Shea, (letters have been issued.)

Contested Calendar at 10:30.—5—Revision of probate of Robert Wilson.

1805—McGonigle vs. B'klyn Heights R.R.
4452—Speare's Sons Co. vs. Swigelsky Bros.
1754—Fisher vs. B'klyn Heights R. R.
3029—E. Kendahl vs. B'klyn Heights R.R.
2561—Smith vs. Cutter.
2841—Strauss vs. Froehlich.
2697, 2388—Partridge vs. Nassau R. R.
1179—Goldman vs. Greenberg.
1545—Oakman vs. Darrin.
1915—Danziger vs. Bklyn Heights R. R.
3377—O'Grady vs. Bklyn Heights R. R.
887—Serro vs. Gutter.
1694—Lowe vs. City of New York.
2411—Spitzer vs. Nassau R. R.
1266—Stuart vs. B'klyn Wharf Co. vs. Chapman.
3224—Madden vs. B'klyn Heights R. R.
3928—Holstein vs. Nassau R. R.
2471—Whitehead vs. Lee.
4075—Clancy vs. Met. St. R. R.

Highest number reached on regular call, 3465.

COUNTY COURT—Criminal Calendar—Part I.—Aspinall, J.—Toney Nuntelbaum, John Foley, James Turner Jame Lemon, William Griffin, Thomas J. Devine.

COUNTY COURT—Civil Calendar—Part II.—421—McLaurin vs. G key
305—Spencer vs. B'klyn Heights R. R. Co.
372—Van Brunt vs. same.
391—O'Dell vs. Sherman.

SURROGATE'S COURT—Abbott, S.—The will of Washington Groesbeck, Ann Ast, Jurgen H. Becker, and Delia F. Buckley.

The guardianships of Theresa Muller and Mary A. Quinn.

The administration in the estate of Annie Shea, (letters have been issued.)

Contested Calendar at 10:30.—5—Revision of probate of Robert Wilson.

REAL ESTATE.

THE LAWYERS' TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY
OF NEW YORK.
Furnishes careful appraisements of real estate at regular rates. Apply to Bureau of Investment, 37 Liberty St.

BOARDERS WANTED.

82D ST., 6 WEST.—Nicely furnished back parlor; all conveniences; excellent table board; also other desirable rooms.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF New York.—In the matter of the final accounting of WILLIAM T. ESTABROOK as assignee of Ezekiel M. Pritchard and Horace F. Pritchard (E. M. Pritchard & Son) for the benefit of creditors.—Citation for accounting on behalf of assignee.

The People of the State of New York to all persons interested in the estate of Ezekiel M. Pritchard and Horace F. Pritchard, heretofore doing business as co-partners at the City of New York, under the firm name and style of E. M. Pritchard & Son, assigned to William T. Estabrook for the benefit of creditors, send greeting:

You and each of you are hereby cited and required to appear in the New York Supreme Court of the County of New York, at a Special Term thereof, to be held in Part I. for litigated motions, at the County Court House in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 29th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to show cause why a settlement of the account of the proceedings of William T. Estabrook as assignee of the said Ezekiel M. Pritchard and Horace F. Pritchard, co-partners as aforesaid, should not be had, and if no cause be shown, to attend a settlement of such account.

Witness Hon. Charles F. Van Brunt, Presiding Justice of said court, and the seal of the aforesaid court at the City and for the County and State aforesaid on the 12th day of December, A. D. 1899.

[L. S.] S. H. K.

Attest: WM. SOHMER, Clerk.

J. HOMER HILDRETH, Atty. for Assignee, 280 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, N. Y. City.

To The Yellow Poplar Lumber Co., (and any officer thereof,) Coal Grove, Ohio, creditor:

The foregoing citation is served upon you by publication and without the State of New York, pursuant to order of Hon. Miles Beach, one of the Justices of the New York Supreme Court, 1st Department, dated the 3d day of December, A. D. 1899, and filed with the petition of the assignee herein, in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York on the same date. Yours, &c.,

J. HOMER HILDRETH, Atty. for Assignee, No. 280 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, N. Y. City.

SURROGATE NOTICES.

BEACH, ELIZABETH.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against ELIZABETH BEACH, late of Evanston, Illinois, deceased, to present the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscribers, at their place of transacting business, at Room 49, No. 51 Chambers Street, in Manhattan Borough of the City of New York, on or before the twenty-fifth day of January next. New York, June 30, 1899. CATHARINE BAGOT TOWNSEND WANDELL, Executors. THOMAS W. BUTTS, Attorney for Executors, 51 Chambers St., N. Y.

1y10-1aw6mM

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of DAVID DAVIDSON, Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of David Davidson of the City and County of New York, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 28th day of December, A. D. 1899, the said David Davidson was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of F. K. Pendleton, referee, No. 44 Broadway, in the City and County of New York, on the 19th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a Trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

F. K. PENDLETON, Referee in Bankruptcy.

January 5th, 1900.

FRY, SIMON.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against SIM

In trying to match mismatched legs and chests, we've managed to mismatch what's left of those $15 suits—marked down from $18, $20 and higher.

But we've made the price to match the mismatched suits, $7.50—coats and vests, $5.

At our Prince and Leonard Street stores only.

At all three stores.

Of the large boys' ulsters reduced to $10 there remain only sizes 32 and 33 inches chest.

Of the men's rough overcoats marked down to $15 nothing but large sizes—40 to 46.

ROGERS, PEET & Co.

350 Broadway, cor. Leonard.
589 Broadway, cor. Prince.
Thirty-second and Broadway.

DR. VAN DYKE SENT ADIEUS

His Health Broken by Labors in the Brick Church.

THE RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

Church Expressed Its Indebtedness to the Retiring Pastor—Dr. Babcock to Take Charge.

The announcement that the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke would preach his last sermon as pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church yesterday morning attracted a congregation that filled the church to overflowing. They were disappointed, however, for Dr. Van Dyke was not even able to be present. The Rev. James M. Farr, Jr., assistant minister, explained from the pulpit that Dr. Van Dyke's health had broken down through the strain put upon him by his labors for the church, and that being compelled to forego the happiness of joining with them in worship once again, he had requested him to bid the congregation on his behalf an affectionate farewell.

The Rev. Mr. Farr in a prayer invoked blessings upon the late pastor and upon the minister who is to succeed him, and prayed that the church might continue to prosper and extend its influence and the scope of his work.

After the service much regret was expressed among the members of the church at Dr. Van Dyke's inability to be present, and the regret was coupled with the hope that he will soon be restored to health.

Dr. Babcock will take charge of the church, and preach his first sermon as pastor next Sunday.

At a meeting of the church and congregation on Wednesday evening to act upon Dr. Van Dyke's resignation, at which the Rev. Dr. Wallace Atterbury acted as Moderator, the resignation was formally accepted, and John E. Parsons read resolutions which he had prepared at the request of the Session expressive of the great indebtedness of the Brick Church to Dr. Van Dyke and its lasting affection for him.

At the request of the meeting Dr. Van Dyke was sent for, and in response to the resolutions retraced the history of his relations with the church, and concluded with expressions of deep affection for it, interest in its future, and the hope that he would always have a place in the memories and prayers of its members.

The following letter was presented to Dr. Van Dyke by the officers of the affiliated Church of the Covenant:

"Dear Dr. Van Dyke:

"We hereby express to you in behalf of the Church of the Covenant our grateful appreciation of your cordial sympathy, loyal interest, and generous support, which has cheered, comforted, and strengthened us in our work during the past six years.

"The plan of affiliation which you inaugurated and under which we have been associated with the Brick Presbyterian Church was a most happy solution of a difficult problem, and has been blessed of God to the furtherance of the Gospel of His Son in this city.

"We deeply regret the severing of the personal relations that have inspired us and blessed our church, and we shall follow you with affectionate regard and with earnest prayer for the richest Divine blessing to ever abide in your home and upon your work. Cordially yours, George Sidney Webster, pastor; George H. Yewell, Charles S. McKay, Daniel H. Wiesner, and Lloyd W. Fisher, Elders; Charles W. Pack, George W. Elkins, Joseph B. Adsit, James W. Walker, J. Eaton Jessup, and Emile J. De Lherbe, Deacons; J. Cleveland Cady, Chairman Board Trustees and Sunday School Superintendent; Charles O. Kimball, Assistant Sunday School Superintendent; Alfred R. Kimball, Treasurer; A. R. Ledoux and D. J. Holden, Trustees; Anna M. Juppe, Visitor."

A committee of three—John E. Parsons, J. Cleveland Cady, and Morris K. Jesup—was appointed to bring the matter of the resignation before Presbytery.

FIFTY YEARS ITS PASTOR.

Dr. Wells of the South Third Street Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, Celebrates the Event.

The Rev. Dr. John D. Wells, who is called the "Father of the Presbytery of Williamsburg," and who, notwithstanding he is in his eighty-sixth year, still performs the active duties of his calling, celebrated yesterday the fiftieth anniversary of his pastorate of the South Third Street Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, by preaching a sermon at the morning services, in which he referred to the events in his long ministry. The church was crowded, there being present not only the members who now form the congregation, but many of Dr. Wells's old parishioners. Among those who attended was Sylvester Malone, the nephew of the late Father Malone, with whom Dr. Wells had been on terms of warm friendship for a number of years.

Dr. Wells in his sermon made a brief reference to his old friend.

The church was simply but tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers. Streamers of fir were suspended from the centre of the roof to the gallery, and evergreens were hung upon the walls at both sides of the edifice. In front of the pulpit there were an abundance of holly and some lilies. Bright colored ribbons were tastefully interwoven with the green leaves. Back of the pulpit there was a large star of green leaves.

A more elaborate celebration will be held on Jan. 21, the fiftieth anniversary of Dr. Wells's installation. A committee composed of David S. Gifford, John Perrie, Nehemiah Wood, K. M. Smith, and George R. Valentine has charge of the arrangements. Although Dr. Wells officiated in the church on the first Sunday in 1850, he was not installed until Sunday, Jan. 20, of that year. On the afternoon of Jan. 21 there will be a union communion of the South Third Street Church and its children. This will be participated in by the members of the Ainslee Street, Throop Avenue, Rose Street and Noble Street, Greenpoint, Churches, which are practically branches of the old South Third Street Church.

On the Wednesday evening following this celebration there will be a reunion of the old members of the church as well as of the Session, Trustees, heads of the Sabbath school, and Young People's Association. On the next evening there will be a reception to Dr. Wells at which will be present pastors of many of the churches of Brooklyn, members of the Presbytery, the Board of Foreign Missions, of which he is President; representatives from Union College, his Alma Mater, and from Princeton Seminary, which he attended and of which he is a Trustee and members of the Greek Letter Society, to which he belongs.

Dr. Wells was born at Whitesborough, Oneida County, N. Y., Oct. 25, 1815. In 1838 he was graduated from Union College, and six years later from Princeton Seminary. His first charge was in New Hamburg, where he supplied the private chapel of James Lenox. Coming to New York he assisted in the organization of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. Then he took charge of his present congregation, which was organized in 1844 by seceding members of the old First Presbyterian Church. In 1850 he was formally called, and became its pastor.

In 1854 through the efforts of Dr. Wells the Ainslee Presbyterian Church was organized, and two years after that the Ross Street Presbyterian Church. Fifteen years ago Dr. Wells's son, the Rev. Newell Woolsey Wells, became associated with him as pastor of the South Third Street Church. Father and son alternate in officiating at the services and preaching the sermons.

DR. BUSHNELL RESIGNS.

His Letter to the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church—The Result of Consolidation.

At the morning services of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church yesterday the Rev. Dr. John E. Bushnell, co-pastor with the Rev. Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston of that church, read his letter of resignation.

The Rev. Dr. Bushnell was formerly pastor of the Phillips Presbyterian Church, which was in July last consolidated with the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. His resignation has been expected for some time, and was made by him with the request that the members of the two congregations now consolidated under the name of the Madison Avenue Church make its acceptance unanimous and petition the Presbytery at its next regular meeting to ratify the action.

The resignation was made, it is said, for reasons of financial expediency, a co-pastorate being unnecessary and too expensive for the congregation. It was at first suggested that both Dr. Johnston and Dr. Bushnell resign, and that the congregation should then elect one. This Dr. Bushnell considered a delicate situation, and consequently placed his resignation with the congregation, to await its action.

The letter of resignation, as read to the members of the congregation, was in part as follows:

"The consolidation of the two churches has been practically in force for six months, and during that time there has prevailed a spirit of harmony which, under all the circumstances necessarily associated with the progress of reorganization, is unusual. Our services together up to the present time have been so pleasant that doubtless most of us could wish them to continue.

"But there are embarrassments and dangers and unreasonable expenses connected with the co-pastorate system which are too obvious to require specification.

"Your Committee on Consolidation, after careful consideration of this most vital subject, decided that it was not expedient for the co-pastorate to be maintained, and suggested that both pastors resign and that one be accepted. Whereupon, feeling that the matter was a most delicate one and the situation complex, and believing that a competitive ballot would not be in perfect harmony with the dignity of our sacred office and was likely to delay the complete fusion of the two congregations, I offered to relieve the embarrassment of the situation by withdrawing, and I felt that it was especially devolving upon me because my congregation was so much smaller than that of my colleague.

"The time has now come when, according to the determination entered into by me and as a result of it to make such withdrawal. I do then hereby present my resignation, and ask you to unite in requesting the Presbytery to dissolve the pastoral relations, and that you may take such proper action on this request. A meeting of the congregation is hereby called for Jan. 17, 1900, at 8:45 P. M., to take place in the chapel."

GEN. WILLIAM GLENNY DEAD.

Was Postmaster of Ithaca During Presidency of Gen. Grant.

William Glenny, who was brevetted Brigadier General for conspicuous gallantry during the civil war, died Saturday at his residence, 325 West Twentieth Street. Gen. Glenny was born at Virgil, Cortland County, N. Y., May 31, 1831. As a young man, he lived for several years in Kansas, then the scene of slavery conflicts.

He returned later to his native State, and at the outbreak of the civil war recruited a company at Elmira, which became Company E of the Sixty-fourth New York Volunteers. From company commander he was later advanced to the Colonelcy of his regiment. At the battle of Fair Oaks he was severely wounded and forced, for a time, to retire from active service. At the close of the war he was made Brevet Brigadier General.

During the Presidency of Gen. Grant, Gen. Glenny served as Postmaster of Ithaca, N. Y. For the past twenty-four years he had filled a clerkship in the Post Office in this city. Gen. Glenny is survived by a widow and one daughter, who lives in Washington, D. C. The body was taken to Ithaca for burial yesterday.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Vantine's
Orientalists & Jewellers
BROADWAY & 18TH ST

Announcing an Important Selling of Oriental Rugs and Carpets.

Reductions Average One-Third.

Fine silky Khiva Rugs, at library and hall sizes—5½x8 to 8x10½ feet. Previously $45 to $125. $35 to $85

Fine antique and modern Bokharas, at averaging 3½x4 feet. Previously $16 to $20. $10, $12 and $14

Extra large Guendjecs, at averaging 4x7 feet —good specimens. Were $18 and $20. $12 and $14

Antique Persian Hall Strips, fine Iran weaves, 3.4x13 to 15.6 feet. $35 to $50

40 fine India Candahar Carpets, average 5.2x8 to 10.2x13.6 ft. Were $62 to $170. $41.00 to $130.00

Our Annual Sale of Ladies' Gloves,
Mon., Tues. & Wed., Jan. 8th, 9th & 10th.

2 Clasp Real Kid Glacé narrow embroidery. Colors: tan, mode, red, brown, pearl, white, and black.

2 Clasp Heavy Dogskin English tans, spear back embroidery.

2 Clasp Piqué Glacé, Paris point embroidery. Colors: tan, brown, mode, pearl, and white.

4 Button Real Kid Glacé, embroidered backs, in tan, brown, mode, slate, pearl, white, and black.

$1.00 per pair, value $1.25, $1.50 & $1.75.

Lord & Taylor,
Broadway & 20th St.

FATHER MALONE MEMORIAL

Fund Started to Erect a Monument to Him in His Church.

FIRST CONTRIBUTOR A JEWESS

The Idea Suggested by Mrs. Nannette Marks, a Warm Admirer of the Dead Priest.

The Rev. Father John L. Belford, appointed to succeed the late Father Malone, officiated for the first time yesterday at Sts. Peter and Paul's Church, Brooklyn. In addressing his parishioners he suggested the erection within the church of a suitable monument to his predecessor.

"It would be highly improper for you," he said, "to let the memory of Father Malone, for whom this church is draped in mourning, pass away without a memorial of some kind to commemorate his noble work. I have appointed a committee to place in this church a memorial to Father Malone. I will not appeal for subscriptions. Any one who wishes to contribute may do so. The little child, the laborer, and the wealthy, all of whom loved Father Malone, will have an opportunity to help build a monument to his memory.

"The Trustees of the church, Messrs. Brown and Maguire, and Jeremiah Walsh have been appointed to receive subscriptions. When we have arrived at a conclusion as to the form of a memorial it will be placed in this church, where it will stand as a monument to the life and work of God's nobleman. This church is the proper place for a memorial, as it was within the walls of this edifice that Father Malone spent his life in the cause of Christianity and charity."

It was learned yesterday that the idea of erecting a memorial to Father Malone was first suggested by Mrs. Nannette Marks, a member of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum Society of Brooklyn, and a liberal supporter of Father Malone's charitable works. At a meeting of the Holy Name Society of Sts. Peter and Paul's Church last Thursday evening it was announced by John Greaney, a member of the society, that Mrs. Marks desired to make the first contribution toward a monument fund. Mrs. Marks, who is widely known in Brooklyn for her philanthropic work, was highly esteemed by Father Malone. It was her custom for many years to visit him on his birthday and present him a floral tribute.

Mrs. Marks, who is about sixty years old, was seen yesterday at her home in South Fourth Street, near Roebling Street, and in reply to a question said it was true that she had offered to start the Father Malone memorial fund. She added:

"Although I am a strict member of the Jewish faith and unswerving in my duties toward that faith, I will be happy to have the honor of giving the first subscription toward Father Malone's memorial. I knew him for over a quarter of a century, and appreciated his noble character and his broad principles of liberality, especially toward the downtrodden members of my faith in far-off lands. He was the friend of all the afflicted, irrespective of creed or nationality.

"When I made a will several years ago one of its provisions called for an amount to be set aside for a fund for the erection of a monument to Father Malone. Now that Father Malone has passed away before me, I will give that amount to the fund and trust the memorial will soon be erected. I am now preparing an appeal which I will make to my wealthy coreligionists, many of whom are cordial admirers of Father Malone, to aid the monument fund. I will be satisfied with any form of memorial which the members of the late priest's church decide upon, and will co-operate with them in the movement."

Injured Letter Carrier Dies.

John K. McComber, seventy-nine years old, a letter carrier, who was knocked down by a mail wagon at Thirty-fourth Street and Second Avenue last Thursday night, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital. McComber was one of the oldest carriers in the service, having been appointed thirty-eight years ago. He lived at 366 East Forty-third Street.

O'Neill's

January Sale of Cheviots

Just before the advance in prices of Cheviots was made, we placed an order with a prominent concern for a large quantity. They have just come in and will go on sale this morning at

The Extraordinary Price of
75c. yard

These goods are thoroughly sponged and shrunk, and are fifty inches wide; colors Black and Navy.

After this special lot is sold the regular price of 1.10 yard will prevail.

Orders by Mail will receive prompt attention.

6th Ave., 20th to 21st St.

FLINT'S FINE FURNITURE

A BARGAIN ELYSIUM.

It is easy enough to turn one's house into an earthly paradise with our bargains. Library suites and odd pieces that are veritable Fountains of Youth for every one who dips into them.

3 pc. Mahogany Suite—$80.00
(Former price $126.00)
(Covered with leather.)

3 pc. Mahogany Suite—$278.00
(Covered with heavy wool tapestry and mohair plush.)

Prometheus-like, we have stolen fire from Olympus to breathe into our many other designs now reduced. The finest lines of Greece, of Gothic, of the Renaissance—perfection for every room and our mid-Winter reductions cut down even factory prices, when you

"BUY OF THE MAKER."

GEO. C. FLINT CO.
43 45 AND 47 WEST 23RD ST
NEAR BROADWAY.
FACTORY 154 AND 156 WEST 19TH STREET

Bloomingdale's
3d Ave., 59th to 60th St.

Fine Paintings
At Half Price.

We offer our entire stock of fine Oil Paintings at half marked prices. We naturally anticipate the largest sale of Paintings we have ever held, as the opportunity is exceptional. The pictures will be exhibited on the third floor. An early selection is advisable.

Among the prominent artists represented are Inness, Wertheimer, Childe Hassan, Pinelo, Thomas Martin, Navarro, Hoeber, Jose Arpa, Weller, Narbona, Bogert, and many others.

Choice of entire collection at half price.

Carpets.

Only three weeks before our annual inventory; during which time we will sell all odd pieces and patterns we do not intend duplicating, in all the various grades, some of which we have made up into

RUGS With Borders in various sizes, suitable for all kinds of rooms,

ALL AT REMNANT PRICES!
Bring size of room.

Balance of our Holiday stock of Parlor, Reception and Dining Room Furniture, Gilt and Morris Chairs, Divans and Writing Desks; also Draperies, Sofa Pillows, Scarfs, &c.,

AT TREMENDOUSLY REDUCED PRICES.

SHEPPARD KNAPP & CO
Sixth Ave., 13th & 14th Sts.

Great Sale of Corsets! | Great Sale of Corsets! | Great Sale of Corsets!

O'Neill's.

COMMENCING TO-DAY, MONDAY,
Great Semi-Annual Half-Price Sale of
"LA VIDA" CORSETS!

This Great Sale, always so eagerly awaited by the women of New York, will be bigger and better in every way than ever before. Larger quantities, better values and more salespeople. We have secured from the manufacturer of these celebrated corsets

Two Thousand Five Hundred Pairs!

Not the regular stock, bear in mind, but samples and goods in which the pattern of material has been changed, which, however, does not affect the shape or wearing qualities of the corset in the least.

Every Pair Is Guaranteed Perfect.

These Corsets are strictly hand-made, French gored, bias cut, and all whalebone, and are superior in every way to the best imported gored corset sold in this country (with no exception).

So Be on Hand Early---First Come, First Served.

Here Are The Prices---Read!

2.50 Corsets, at this sale for 1.25.
3.00 Corsets, at this sale for 1.49.
5.00 Corsets, at this sale for 2.50.
6.50 Corsets, at this sale for 3.25.
7.75 Corsets, at this sale for 3.98.

ORDERS BY MAIL WILL RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.
H. O'Neill & Co., 6th Ave., 20th to 21st St.

O'Neill's.

UPHOLSTERY DEPARTMENT.
(Third floor.)

The Big Remnant Sale Still Continues!

And in addition we will offer in this department to-day a special purchase of Fifty Cases of Lace Curtains and Portieres!

All slightly imperfect (called seconds), at the lowest prices ever known in the Upholstery Trade. We are going to sell them in half pairs. It will be left to you to match them, but as there are many alike there should be no difficulty in doing so. Read these prices! They're extraordinary.

Lace Curtains 39c each
Portieres 1.49 each

ORDERS BY MAIL WILL RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.
H. O'NEILL & CO., 6th Ave., 20th to 21st St.

Bulfinches

Whistling many songs, including "Bridal Wreath," "America," "So Let the Wide World Wag," "Mousetraps, Who'll Buy?" "How Can I Leave Thee?" "Let's Be Merry, Comrades," "Prince of Wales," "Where the Blue Waters Sparkle." These are the most tame, affectionate, and beautiful birds. Prices, $40, $50, $75, $100, with 2 or 3 having extra-long songs at $150, $200.

The Campanini Holden Canary is the great song canary, very soft and varied trills, bells, and flute notes, $8, $10, $15, $20, $25. Harts Canary, extra grade, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00; guaranteed to sing to suit. Breeding females, $1.00. Birds sent everywhere by express. Holden's new Book on Birds, all about mating, food, and care, by mail for 25 cts., stamps.
G. H. HOLDEN, 240 6th Ave., (15th St.)

AMUSEMENTS.

DALY'S B'way & 30th.....at 8:20 Matinées Wednesday & Sat., 2. DANIEL FROHMAN'S COMPANY 2D MONTH. The Maneuvers of Jane Comedy, 4 acts, by Henry Arthur Jones.

LYCEUM 4th Av. & 23d....at 8:30 Daniel Frohman....Manager Matinées Thurs. & Sat., 2. 150th Time Jan. 15. Handsome Souvenirs. Extra Matinée To-day. Last 2 weeks. CHARLES FROHMAN PRESENTS ANNIE RUSSELL in MISS HOBBS MISS HOBBS

PROCTOR'S 23d ST. FOUR COHANS. Cont. Perf. 15, 25, 50c YORKE & ADAMS Moullere Sisters, Ethel Levey, Moving Pic., 30 Others.

PALACE 58th St. & 3d Av. Rossow Midgets, Cont. Perf. Merkel Sisters, 15, 25, 50c. Ed. Lastell. Seymour and Dupre, Diana, W.C. Davies, 30 Others.

Koster & Bial's VERNONA JARBEAU, Chas. T. Aldrich, The Holloway Trio, & Others.

KEITH'S CONTINUOUS PERFORMANCE. KATHRYN OSTERMAN in "The Editor." Beatrice Moreland in "Taming a Husband." Williams & Tucker in "Skinny's Finish."

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN, Jan. 1 to Jan. 27. Open 10 A. M. to 6 P. M., and 8 P. M. to 10 P. M. Admission.....25c. 75TH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of OIL PAINTINGS at The Fine Arts Society, 215 West 57th St.

COMIQUE CITY CLUB CO TOBASCOSCOPE TO-MAY 25: THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT MATINEE TODAY 2:30 50c SENSATIONAL SUCCESS

CASINO! Beginning To-Night, Rice's London Fairy Extravaganza! LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD. Matinée Every Day. 1st Matinee To-Morrow.

BIJOU. B'way & 30th St. Ev. 8:15. Mat. Sat. only. MAY IRWIN Phone 2224 Mad. Sq. IN SISTER MARY BEST ORCHESTRA SEATS ONLY $1.50.

THE NEW YORK New, Magnificent Burlesque, closed this week to prepare for the Broadway to Tokio.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC. 14th St. & Irving Pl. 3d Month, WAY DOWN EAST. Prices, 25, 50, 75, 1.00. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2. Eve. 8:10.

IRVING PLACE THEATRE. 7 Mat. Sat. To-NIGHT SCHWEIGHOFER Tue. & Wed. Greatest Hit, 'S NULLERL.

AMUSEMENTS.

METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE.
GRAND OPERA SEASON 1899-1900.
Under the direction of Mr. MAURICE GRAU.

To-night at 7:45 precisely, Grand Double Bill. Revival of DON PASQUALE. Mme. Sembrich; MM. Scotti, Pini-Corsi and Salignac. Conductor, Sig. Mancinelli. To be followed by CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA. Mmes. Calve and Mantelli; MM. Dippel and Campanari. Conductor, Sig. Bevignani.

Wed. Evg., Jan. 10, at 8, LE PROPHETE. Mmes. Schumann-Heink and Suzanne Adams; MM. Alvarez, Plancon, and Ed. de Reszke. Conductor, Sig. Mancinelli.

Fri. Evg., Jan. 12, at 8, TANNHAUSER. Mmes. Gadski, Olitzka, and Nordica; MM. Van Dyck, Van Rooy, and Plancon. Conductor, Emil Paur.

Sat. Mat., Jan. 13, at 2, CARMEN. Mmes. Calve and Clementine De Vere; MM. Saleza and Campanari. Conductor, Sig. Mancinelli.

Sat. Evg., Jan. 13, at 8, at Popular Prices, ROMEO ET JULIETTE. Mmes. Suzanne Adams and Mantelli; MM. Alvarez (his only appearance at the popular Saturday night performances) and Plancon. Conductor, Sig. Bevignani.

WEBER PIANOS USED.

Charles Frohman's Criterion Theatre, B'way & 44th St. Ev'gs, 8.30. BEGINNING TO-MORROW EVENING, Charles Frohman Presents Maude Adams In J. M. Barrie's Comedy, The Little Minister. FIRST MATINEE SATURDAY.

EMPIRE THEATRE. Broadway and 40th St. 3d Week—Matinée Wednesday and Saturday. EMPIRE THEATRE COMPANY. MY LADY'S LORD "Positive Success."—Sun.

GARRICK THEATRE. 35th St. & B'way. Evenings, 8 o'clock. Mats., 2:15. 3d Month—Matinée Saturday only. Wm. Gillette New Play, In His Sherlock Holmes.

MADISON SQ. THEATRE. 24th St., nr. B'way. EVGS., 8:30. MATINEES, 2:15. Matinées Wednesday and Saturday. Greatest Hit, WHEELS WITHIN WHEELS This Season.

AMERICAN 42D ST. & EIGHTH AVE. CASTLE SQUARE OPERA CO. 3d Year. 100 People. Box office open 8. GILBERT and SULLIVAN'S "IOLANTHE" Evs. 8:15. 25c. to $1. Mats. Wed., Sat. 1,100 seats, 25c. Next Week—MARTHA (in English.)

MANHATTAN Theatre, 33d & B'way. ANNA HELD in PAPA'S WIFE. Ev. 8:15. Sat. Mat. EXTRA MATINEE NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Hammerstein's 42d St., B'way & 7th Av. VICTORIA Evgs. 8:30. Sat. Mat. 2:30. Mat. Sat. Prices, 50, 75, $1.00. Jerome Sykes & Edna Wallace Hopper AND THE CHRIS WONDERFUL LAMP.

Weber & Fields' MUSIC HALL, B'way & 30 St. Matinees Tues. & Sat. Whirl-I-Gig & BARBARA FIDGETY

THE DEWEY East 14th St. MATINEE TO-DAY. VANITY FAIR BURLESQUERS "ROBBER ROY," "PARIS 1900."

5th Ave Theatre, B'way & 28th; Ev. at 8:15 Matinées Wed. and Sat. The Latest Musical Comedy Success, THREE LITTLE LAMBS

HURTIG & SEAMON'S Music Hall, 125th St. & 7th Av. Res. Or. 50c. Bal. 25c. Mats. Wed. & Sat. Round New York in 80 Minutes.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE. Greatest of all Naval Dramas. The GUNNERS MATE

HUBER'S 14TH ST. MUSEUM. 10c. to All. Mohmed Ben Jamin. Wonderful Turk

AMUSEMENTS.

GARDEN THEATRE, 27th St. and Madison Av. CHARLES FROHMAN.....Manager Evenings, 8:30. Only Matinée Saturday. FAREWELL PERFORMANCES OF MR. RICHARD MANSFIELD IN SEVEN PLAYS.
To-night at 8:30 (only time)—Arms and the Man.
Tuesday—Cyrano de Bergerac.
Wednesday—Prince Karl.
Thursday—A Parisian Romance.
Friday—Beau Brummell.
Saturday Matinée—The Devil's Disciple.
Saturday Evening (Farewell Night)—Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.
NEXT MONDAY EVENING Engagement of MRS. LANGTRY in Sydney Grundy's Comedy, THE DEGENERATES
Seats Ready Thursday, 9 A. M. Mail orders must be accompanied by check.

HARLEM OPERA HOUSE. Jefferson De Angelis OPERA COMPANY in The Jolly Musketeer Ev. 8. Sat. Mat. 2. NEXT WEEK SEATS NOW SELLING. MR. RICHARD MANSFIELD. Monday & Thursday, CYRANO DE BERGERAC; Tuesday Eve. & Saturday Mat., THE FIRST VIOLIN; Wednesday, A PARISIAN ROMANCE; Friday, Beau Brummel; Saturday Ev., Dr. Jekyll & Mr. Hyde.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN. GRAND MASQUERADE BALL of the Cercle Francais de l'Harmonie MONDAY, JANUARY 15. Boxes and tickets at Club-house, 24 West 26th St., and principal hotels.

MENDELSSOHN HALL. To-morrow (Tues.) afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Second Lecture-Song Recital by the renowned English Vocal Teacher, Mr. William Shakespeare Assisted by Mr. Henry Waller. Third Recital Tuesday, January 16. Res. Seats $1.50 and $1. On sale at Schuberth's.

14th St. Theatre, nr. 6th Av. Mats. Wed. & Sat. TO-NIGHT 350th Performance. SOUVENIRS ONLY 2 MORE WEEKS of the best of all rural life dramas, THE VILLAGE POSTMASTER.

BROADWAY Theatre. 41st St. & B'way. Evs. at 8. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2. THE GREAT SUCCESS, BEN-HUR SEATS ON SALE UP TO MARCH 1ST.

WALLACK'S Broadway & 30th St. Evg. 8:15. Mat. Sat., 2:15. Last 2 Weeks of Herbert's Comic Opera, FRANK DANIELS in THE AMEER.

KNICKERBOCKER. B'WAY & 38TH ST. N. C. Goodwin Maxine Elliott Eves. 8:15. Mat. Sat. 2:15. THE COWBOY AND THE LADY.

WORLD IN WAX. CINEMATOGRAPH. EDEN MUSEE NEW GROUPS. CHARMING MUSIC

HERALD SQUARE THEATRE. First time in New York to-night! David Belasco's Naughty Anthony.

MURRAY HILL THEA. 42d St. & Lex. Av. MATINEE EVERY DAY, 25c. This Week! THE WIFE.

The New York Times.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW AND QUOTATION SUPPLEMENT.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.
NEW YORK, MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1900. EIGHT PAGES.

JAN

1900

STOCK EXCHANGE SUMMARY.

	Shares.
Stocks week ended Jan. 6...	2,821,806
Same week last year.....	3,606,327
Bonds for the week.....	$7,808,100
Same week last year.....	$25,192,400

Money rate range for week: Collateral loans on call, 2@12; at three months, 6; at six months, 6 per cent. Commercial paper, sixty to ninety days, 6 per cent.

THE WEEK'S CHANGES.

The following is a list of stocks in which there were last week net changes of 1 per cent. or more:

Stocks Advanced.

Am. Car & F. pf.	3½	Glucose Sugar Ref. pf.	3
Am. Steel Hoop	1	E. B. Claflin	2½
Am. Steel Hoop pf.	1	Lake Erie & West	1½
Am. Steel & Wire pf.	1¼	Lake Erie & W. pf.	1½
Am. Sugar Ref.	2½	National Lead	1½
Am. Tin Plate	3⅝	National Lead pf.	1½
Am. Tin Plate pf.	3	New York Central	5
Am. Tobacco	3¼	N. Y., N. H. & H.	2
Am. Smelt. & Ref.	1	N. Y., Chi. & St. L.	1
Am. Smelt. & R. pf.	1¼	N. Y., Chi. & St. L. 2d pf.	2
Brooklyn Union Gas.	7⅝	Pennsylvania	1
Brunswick City	1¼	Pitts., C., C. & St. L. pf.	1¼
Canada Southern	1	Pressed Steel Car	2½
Chi. & East Ill.	1	Rep. Iron & Steel	1⅝
Chi. & E. Ill. pf.	4	Rep. Iron & S. pf.	2
Chi. & Northwest	3½	St. J. & G. I. 1st pf.	1½
Chi. Term. Trans. pf.	1½	Third Avenue	2
C., C., C. & St. L.	2½	Twin City R. T.	2
C., C., C. & St. L. pf.	6½	Union Bag & Paper	2½
Clev., Lor. & Wheel.	3½	Union Bag & P. pf.	2½
Cont. Tobacco	1½	U. S. Leather pf.	1⅛
Cont. Tobacco pf.	1	U. S. Rubber	1
Consolidated Gas	2½	U. S. Rubber pf.	2⅜
Erie Tel. & Tel.	5⅝	West. Union Tel.	2
Glucose Sugar Ref.	5⅛

Stocks Declined.

Am. Malting pf.	2	Long Island	2½
Am. Steel & Wire	1½	Louis. & Nash.	1¾
At., T. & S. F. pf.	1¼	Manhattan	1½
Balt. & Ohio pf.	1⅝	Minn. & St. Louis	1
Canadian Pacific	1¼	Nat. Steel	1⅜
Chi. Cons. Tract.	2	N. J. Central	3⅝
Chi. G. W. pf., B.	2¼	N. Y. Air Brake	8
Col. Fuel & Iron	1¼	Norf. & West.	1¼
Col. South. 2d pf.	1½	Norf. & West. pf.	1
Del. & Hudson	4	Northern Pacific	1½
Del., L. & West.	1½	Northern Pacific pf.	1½
Federal Steel	1¼	Pacific Mail	1¼
General Electric	1⅜	Pullman Car	1⅜
Great North. pf.	2	Reading 2d pf.	1
Hocking Valley	1⅛	Southern Pacific	1⅜
Hock. Valley pf.	1⅛	Southern Ry. pf.	1½
Laclede Gas	1½	Union Pacific	1⅜
Laclede Gas pf.	1½

Net changes in bonds of 1 per cent. or more were:

Bonds Advanced.

C. B. U. P. 4s	2½	Mo. Pac., col. tr. 5s	2
Cent. of Ga. con.	1⅝	Mo. Pac. Tr. 5s	2½
Cent. of N. J., gen. 5s, reg.	1	N. Y. C., L. S. col. 3½s	1
Chi. & N. W. deb. 5s.	1	N. Y. C., L. S. 3½s reg	2½
Chi. T. T. 4s	1⅞	O. Sh. Line 6s	3½
Cin., D. & I. 1st 5s.	3½	Pacific Coast 1st	1½
Col. Mid. 4s	1½	Peo. & East. 1st	2
Den. & R. G. con. 4s.	1	Sav., Fla. & W. 6s	2
Evans. & T. H. gen.	3	T., St. L. & K. C. 6s	1
Ft. W. & D. C. 1st	3½	tr. T.	2
Ill. Cent. 4s, 1953	1½	Wabash 2d	1
Lake E. & West. 1st	1½	Wabash deb. A	2
Mo., K. & T. ext. 5s	5⅝
Mo. Pacific con.	1

Bonds Declined.

Chi., B. & Q., Iowa Div. 4s	1	Int. & G. Nor. 3d	1
C., St. P., M. & O. con. 6s	2⅝	Manhattan 4s	2
Ft. W. & R. G. 1st	3	Mex. Cent. 1st, inc.	1½
		Mo., K. & T. 1st 4s	1
		Stand. R. & T. inc.	1⅝

THE WEEK'S TRANSACTIONS.

On the Stock Exchange for the week ended Saturday, Jan. 6, total transactions included 2,821,806 shares of stock, $7,525,100 bonds, including $268,500 Government and $14,500 State bonds.

In detail, the week's dealings compared with those of the corresponding week last year show:

STOCKS.

	Jan. 7, '99.	Jan. 6, 1900.	Decrease.
R. R. & M.	3,606,327	2,821,806	784,521
Banks	54	95	*41
Mining	2,400	100	2,300

*Increase.

BONDS.

	Jan. 7, '99.	Jan. 6, 1900.	Decrease.
R. R. & M.	$24,307,300	$7,525,100	$6,782,200
State	24,000	14,500	9,500
Government	861,100	268,500	592,600

OUR LONDON CABLE.

STEADY EASE IS UNLIKELY

But Discounts Will Probably Remain at About 4 Per Cent. During This Month—Stock Markets Still Suffering from Losses of Last Few Months—Calmer Conditions on the Continent, Except in Russia.

Cable Correspondence.

Copyright, 1900, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—A fortnight ago bankers were buying bills from brokers at 6¾ per cent. Yesterday they could get them for a little over 4 per cent. Yesterday morning sundry parcels were sold by brokers to bankers at 4¼ per cent., but money was so abundant that loans for a week could be arranged at from 3 to 3½ per cent., and discount houses then preferred to carry paper they had taken, and run the risk of the market themselves.

So complete a change looks and is unhealthy, but it is easily accounted for. The Government had to borrow dividend money from the Bank of England, and other moneys besides, for war purposes. All this is new credit, and produces quite a different effect from the release of credit previously withdrawn from the market by the collection of taxes. Further, the Bank retained all its imported gold last week, so that its reserve was much strengthened. On the other hand, the high rates for money have checked the creation of new instruments of credit and reduced the volume of speculation, so that the requirements of the market are smaller. No wonder, then, that rates have tumbled down, or that they should look like going lower still. Had the Government been able to wait till yesterday or to-morrow before selling its last creation of Treasury bills, it would have saved a considerable percentage of the rate paid.

Violent fluctuations of this kind are not the prelude to steady ease, and are sure to be followed by another sharp reaction, but for all that they are the natural result of circumstances. The more the Government borrows in the beginning of a war the cheaper does credit tend to become on each occasion when large sums of borrowed money are disbursed.

Probably discounts will remain easy all this month, in the neighborhood of 4 per cent. Then foreign exchanges will once more move against us, and gold obtained by the forcing process will flow out again, sending the market up as fast as it fell. I say gold has been forced in, because when money was at from 6 to 7 per cent., the Bank of England advanced money at 2½ per cent. on securities to those who promised to repay in bullion within a fortnight.

With all the ease in money the stock markets remain draggy and uncomfortable. The fact is that quite apart from the blighting influences of war anxieties, speculation has been paralyzed by the losses of the last few months, and the public has neither the means nor the courage to begin again. This is proved by the fact that all the failures announced in connection with the end of the year settlement were those of brokers, of men, that is, who execute orders for the public. They had to suspend because their clients could no longer find the money to meet their differences, and hundreds of firms which have not failed stand to lose from the same cause. The stock markets will, therefore, continue feverish and treacherous, however easy money may become.

Sudden contrasts must be expected everywhere, and none could be more striking than that to be afforded by the sale of the new local loans stock, announced for tender this week, when compared with the price the Treasury had to give for the £3,000,000 raised on accommodation bills sold last Tuesday. Probably the local loans stock will go at about 3 per cent.

This stock issue, by the way, is a proof of what I have been telling you about the straits to which many of our municipalities have been put by the rise in the price of loanable capital. The Government has the power to act as an honest broker for these bodies, borrowing in lump to lend at retail, at a profit nominally, but really at great risk of loss, more than £5,000,000 of old advances having long ago been written off as irrecoverable. So, when bankers were calling in money or refusing to lend except at 5 or 6 per cent., local governing bodies went to the Treasury and said, "You must help us, or we must burst." Hence the £2,000,000 of new stock to be issued this week.

The condition of the Continental money markets is decidedly calmer, and rates are coming down in France and Germany as well as here, although not so far or fast.

In Russia alone is there no easement, and for the good reason that the credit institutions of that empire are overcommitted through its raw industrial enterprises. The Government of Russia is, I know, anxious, and would like to see a sort of credit industrial bank established to advance money to iron works, oil works, and machine shops, all now carried on by means of accommodation bills, continually renewed at 7 per cent. and upward.

Our market closed last night more flat than was confessed, and the true discount rate for three months remitted bills at the finish was a bare 4¼ per cent., with money offered till to-morrow at 2½ per cent. A. J. W.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

Monday, Jan. 8.

Astoria Light, Heat and Power Company—Annual meeting.
Central and South American Telegraph Company—Dividend payable.
Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf Railroad—Annual meeting.
Consolidated Zinc and Lead Company—Books close for dividend on preferred.
Erie Telegraph and Telephone Company—Dividend payable.
Greenwich Bank—Annual meeting.
Michigan Telephone Company—Dividend payable.
W. A. Miles Company—Annual meeting.
Wisconsin Telephone Company—Dividend payable.

Tuesday, Jan. 9.

American Smelting and Refining Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Bank of New York—Annual meeting.
Bank of the State of New York—Dividend payable.
Bowery Bank—Dividend payable.
Brooklyn City Railroad—Annual meeting.
Chemical Bank—Annual meeting.
Columbia Bank—Annual meeting.
Eagle Fire Insurance Company—Annual meeting.
East River Bank—Annual meeting.
Fourteenth Street Bank—Annual meeting.
Garfield National Bank—Annual meeting.
Hanover National Bank—Annual meeting.
Importers and Traders' Bank — Annual meeting.
Irving National Bank—Annual meeting.
J. B. Stetson Company—Books close for dividend common and preferred.
Lincoln National Bank—Annual meeting.
Mechanics' National Bank—Annual meeting.
Merchants' National Bank—Annual meeting.
National Bank of the Republic—Annual meeting.
National Broadway Bank—Annual meeting.
New York National Exchange Bank—Annual meeting.
Pacific Bank—Annual meeting.
Pressed Steel Car Company—Annual meeting.
Tradesmen's Bank—Annual meeting.
West Side Bank—Annual meeting.
Western National Bank—Annual meeting.

Wednesday, Jan. 10.

American Car and Foundry Company—Books close for dividend on preferred.
American Cement Company—Books close.
Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad—Books close for dividend on preferred.
Arizona Eastern and Montana Smelting Company—Dividend payable.
Cleveland City Railway—Dividend payable.
Cloverdale Zinc Company—Dividend payable.
Continental Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Exploration Syndicate—Dividend payable.
Hocking Valley Railroad—Dividend payable on preferred.
Madison (Wisconsin) Gas and Electric Company—Books close.
Market Street Railway, San Francisco—Dividend payable.
New Orleans City Railway—Dividend payable.
New York Mutual Gas Company—Dividend payable.
Nineteenth Ward Bank—Annual meeting.
Norfolk and Southern Railroad—Dividend payable.
Pacific Coast Company—Books close for dividend on common and first and second preferred.
Parrot Copper Mining—Dividend payable.
Pennsylvania and Northwestern Railroad—Dividend payable.
Philadelphia Company—Books close.
Standard Underground Cable Company—Dividend payable.
Union Switch and Signal Company—Dividend payable.
Westinghouse Air Brake Company—Dividend payable.

Thursday, Jan. 11.

Northern Pacific Railway—Books close for dividend on common.

Friday, Jan. 12.

Diamond State Steel Company—Books close.
Little Schuylkill Navigation and Coal Company—Dividend payable.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Net changes of 1 point or more in the more active securities were:

Advances.

Am. Ag. Chem.	1	New Amst. Gas	1½
Am. Woolen Goods.	3	New A. Gas pf.	4
Am. W. Goods pf.	3¼	Royal B. Pow. pf.	2½
Electric Vehicle pf.	5	Rubber Goods pf.	2
Havana Com	2	Sloss-Sheffield	2
Havana Com. pf.	2½	Sloss-Sheffield pf.	2
Int. Pump pf.	1	Standard Oil	18
Lorillard pf.	2	Tennessee Copper.	1¾
Nat. Gramophone.	1	Vir. Coal, I. & C.	1
Nat. Tube	1

Declines.

Chi. & Alton subs.	3½	Electric Boat pf.	5
Electric Boat	3	Electric Vehicle	5

Conditions in the market for outside securities during the first week of the

Continued on Page 6.

Sales of Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange Week Ended Jan. 6, 1900.

Range for Year 1899. Highest.	Range for Year 1899. Lowest.	Closing Sat., Jan. 6. Bid.	Closing Sat., Jan. 6. Ask'd	Net Ch'ge Past Week.	STOCKS. Sales Week Ended Jan. 6, 2,821,806.	Amount Capital Stock Outstanding.	Last Dividend. Date.	Last Dividend. Per Cent.	Period.	Week Ended Jan. 6. First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Closing a Year Ago.	Sales Week Ended Jan. 6, 1900
114 January 6.	114 January 6.	111	115	..	Adams Express	$12,000,000	Dec. 11, '99.	2	SA	114	114	114	114	109	158
14⅝ January 4.	13⅝ January 2.	13¾	14	+ ⅛	American Car & Foundry Co.	20,080,000	..	..	..	13⅜	14⅜	13⅜	14	..	4,620
62½ January 4.	59½ January 2.	61½	62	+ 3⅝	American Car & Foundry Co. pf.	20,080,000	Nov. 1, '99.	1¾	Q	59½	62½	59½	62	..	2,955
34½ January 5.	33 January 4.	33⅝	34½	..	American Cotton Oil	20,237,100	Dec. 1, '99.	4	A	33¾	34½	33	33⅞	34¾	6,445
92 January 5.	92 January 5.	90	93	..	American Cotton Oil pf.	10,198,800	Dec. 1, '99.	3	SA	92	92	92	92	89¼	200
24 January 6.	24½ January 4.	24	30	..	American District Telegraph	3,845,000	Nov. 15, '99.	1¼	SA	24½	25	24½	25	44	900
*140 January 3.	*146 January 2.	142	148	..	American Express	18,000,000	Jan. 2, 1900.	3	SA	146	149	146	149	144½	60
36⅛ January 2.	35 January 4.	35½	36	— ⅛	American Ice Co.	22,939,100	Nov. 15, '99.	1	..	36¼	36½	35	35⅜	..	1,484
72½ January 5.	72½ January 5.	72½	76	..	American Ice Co. pf.	12,440,000	Oct. 14, '99.	1½	Q	72½	72½	72½	72½	..	100
13⅛ January 2.	12¾ January 4.	12¾	13	..	American Linseed Co.	16,750,000	..	..	..	13¼	13½	12⅝	13	..	907
56⅝ January 2.	54½ January 5.	54½	54⅞	— ⅛	American Linseed Co. pf.	16,750,000	Dec. 15, '99.	1¾	Q	55½	56⅝	54½	54⅝	..	3,101
7⅞ January 2.	7⅞ January 5.	7⅞	8	— ⅛	American Malting Co.	14,500,000	..	..	..	7⅞	7⅞	7⅝	7⅝	31½	450
31½ January 2.	29½ January 6.	29	30½	+ 2	American Malting Co. pf.	14,400,000	Oct. 16, '99.	1¾	Q	31	31½	29½	29½	85	950
37⅝ January 5.	35½ January 2.	36½	37	+ ⅛	American Smelting & Refining Co.	27,000,000	..	..	..	36½	37⅜	36½	36½	..	5,150
89 January 3.	86 January 2.	88	89	+ 1½	American Smelting & Refining Co. pf.	27,000,000	Oct. 10, '99.	1¾	Q	86	89	86	88	..	3,063
45 January 3.	43 January 2.	42⅝	43½	+ 1	American Steel Hoop Co.	10,190,800	..	..	..	43½	45	43	43½	..	4,250
83 January 2.	82 January 5.	81½	82½	+ 1	American Steel Hoop Co. pf.	14,000,000	Oct. 10, '99.	1¾	Q	82½	83	82	82	..	1,170
50⅜ January 2.	46¾ January 5.	46⅝	47	— 1½	American Steel & Wire Co.	30,000,000	..	..	..	49	50¾	46¾	47	43¾	78,395
92¾ January 2.	90 January 2.	90	92	+ 1½	American Steel & Wire Co. pf.	40,000,000	Jan. 2, 1900.	1¾	Q	90	92½	90	90¼	111	5,690
137½ January 4.	127½ January 2.	130⅝	130½	+ 2½	American Sugar Refining Co.	36,968,000	Jan. 2, 1900.	3	Q	128¾	137½	127½	130⅝	127	398,730
*115 January 4.	*115 January 4.	115	117	..	American Sugar Refining Co. pf.	36,968,000	Jan. 2, 1900.	1¾	Q	115	115	115	115	112¾	20
*98 January 6.	*98 January 3.	91	97	..	American Telegraph & Cable Co.	14,000,000	Dec. 1, '99.	1½	Q	96	96	93	96	100	208
34½ January 3.	29 January 2.	31½	32	+ 3⅝	American Tin Plate	28,000,000	..	..	..	29	34½	29	31⅞	..	10,565
83 January 2.	83 January 2.	80½	83	+ 3	American Tin Plate pf.	18,000,000	Oct. 30, '99.	1¾	Q	83	83	83	83	..	325
107¾ January 3.	98¼ January 2.	102⅝	102⅞	+ 3⅞	American Tobacco	54,500,000	Nov. 1, '99.	1½	Q	99¾	107¾	98½	102⅞	149⅝	151,578
41⅜ January 3.	38½ January 6.	39	39¾	— ½	Anaconda Copper Mining Co.	30,000,000	Nov. 1, '99.	12	SA	39½	41⅜	38½	39	..	10,080
41 January 3.	41 January 3.	41	45	..	Ann Arbor pf.	4,000,000	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	39	100
20⅝ January 2.	19¼ January 4.	19¼	19⅝	— ⅞	Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe	102,000,000	..	..	..	20⅝	20⅝	19¼	19¼	19⅝	14,110
63½ January 2.	60¼ January 6.	60¾	60¾	— 1¼	Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe pf.	114,129,500	July 20, '99.	1½	SA	62½	63½	60¾	60¾	53⅝	103,935
59½ January 4.	56 January 4.	56⅝	57	— ⅞	Baltimore & Ohio	42,500,000	..	..	..	57⅞	59½	56	56⅞	54½	32,310
77⅞ January 2.	73¾ January 4.	74	74½	— 1⅝	Baltimore & Ohio pf.	39,227,000	..	..	..	76½	77⅞	73⅝	74¼	77	42,201
74½ January 5.	68½ January 2.	73	72¼	— ¼	Brooklyn Rapid Transit	43,000,000	..	..	..	71¼	74½	68½	72	85¾	208,449
148¾ January 5.	140 January 2.	147	149	+ 7⅜	Brooklyn Union Gas	15,000,000	Dec. 1, '99.	3	SA	140¾	148¾	140	148	143	2,700
14 January 2.	13½ January 3.	11½	14	+ 1½	Brunswick Dock & City Improvement	5,000,000	..	..	..	14	14	13¾	13¾	14⅞	430
50¾ January 5.	48½ January 2.	49	50	+ 1	Canada Southern	15,000,000	Aug. 1, '99.	1	SA	48½	50¾	48½	49½	54	3,155
93 January 2.	90¾ January 4.	91	91¾	— 1¼	Canadian Pacific	65,000,000	Oct. 2, '99.	2	SA	93	96	90¾	90¾	85¾	1,250
31½ January 2.	29½ January 6.	29½	30¾	— ½	Chesapeake & Ohio	20,458,400	Oct. 25, '99.	1	..	31¼	31½	29½	30⅜	23	59,425
124¾ January 5.	121¾ January 6.	121¾	121⅞	— 2	Chicago, Burlington & Quincy	36,210,800	Dec. 15, '99.	1½	Q	122¾	124¾	121¾	121⅞	136	67,300
38 January 2.	37½ January 2.	37½	38	— ⅛	Chicago Consolidated Traction	11,000,000	..	..	..	37½	38	37½	37½	..	410

Range for Year 1899. Highest.	Range for Year 1899. Lowest.	Closing Jan. 6. Bid.	Closing Jan. 6. Ask'd	Net Chge Past Week.	STOCKS.	Amount Cap'l Stock Out- standing.	Last Dividend. Date.	Last Dividend. Per Cent.	Period	Sales Sealed Jan. 6. First.	Sales Sealed Jan. 6. High.	Sales Sealed Jan. 6. Low.	Sales Sealed Jan. 6. Last.	Closing a Year Ago.	Sales Week Ended Jan. 6, 1900.
91 January 6.	91 January 6.	90	92	+ 1	Chicago & Eastern Illinois	6,187,900	Jan. 2, 1900.	2	SA	91	92	90	91	...	100
124 January 6.	124 January 5.	120	125	+ 4	Chicago & Eastern Illinois pf.	5,881,700	Jan. 2, 1900.	1½	Q	124	124	124	124	113	100
13⅝ January 5.	12⅝ January 4.	12½	13	— ⅜	Chicago Great Western	21,254,800				12½	13⅜	12¾	13½	15¾	11,388
75⅞ January 2.	74 January 3.	73⅞	74		Chicago Great Western pf. A	21,171,800	July 21, '99.	2	SA	75	75¾	74	74½	82	700
85⅝ January 2.	84 January 3.	84	85	— 2½	Chicago Great Western pf. B	7,499,100				85	85¾	85¾	85¾	85¾	550
95⅛ January 2.	95 January 3.	94	96¾	+ ⅝	Chicago Great Western Gen.	16,776,300	July 15, '99.	2	SA	96	97¾	95¾	96¾	89½	1,000
97⅜ January 3.	95⅝ January 3.	95	15	— ⅜	Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville	10,230,000				15	15½	15¼	15¼	7⅞	4,800
17½ January 3.	15⅝ January 6.	15	15½	— ⅜	Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville pf.	5,085,000	March 20, '99.	1		16	17½	15¼	15¼	7⅞	4,800
48 January 5.	46 January 3.	47	50	— ½	Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul	47,351,800	Oct. 31, '99.	2½	SA	48¼	48	48	48	31	600
117¾ January 2.	117¼ January 4.	117¾	117¾	+ ⅛	Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul pf.	36,305,400	Oct. 31, '99.	3½	SA	126	126¾	127¾	127¾	121½	19,672
173¾ January 2.	172¾ January 4.	172	173	+ ½	Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul pf.	39,114,200	Jan. 5, 1900.	2	SA	172¾	173½	172¾	173¾	144¾	290
164½ January 3.	161 January 2.	164	166	+ 3½	Chicago & Northwestern	32,396,600	Jan. 5, 1900.	3	SA	161	164½	161	164	141¾	2,610
186⅝ January 6.	168 January 4.	..	..		Chicago & Northwestern pf.	17,000,000	Jan. 5, 1900.	1¾	Q	168	168½	168	168	...	965
106⅝ January 6.	105¾ January 6.	106	106¾	— ⅜	Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific	50,000,000	Nov. 1, '99.	1½	Q	107	108¾	105½	106¾	114¼	23,569
126⅜ January 4.	122 January 4.	123	123	+ ½	Chicago, St. Paul, Minn. & Omaha	21,402,200	Feb. 26, '99.	3½	A	120	120	120	120	92¾	100
120 January 4.	120 January 4.	120	120		Chicago Terminal Transfer	13,000,000				..	..	..	..	..	..
11 January 2.	10¾ January 3.	10	11	+ ⅛	Chicago Terminal Transfer pf.	17,000,000				11	11	10¾	11	7⅞	200
38 January 2.	38 January 2.	34	37¾	+ 3⅛	Chicago Terminal Transfer pf.	25,000,000				38	38	38	38	37	100
65 January 5.	63¾ January 3.	63¾	64	+ 2⅛	Cleveland, Cin., Chi. & St. Louis	28,000,000	Aug. '98.	1½		64¼	65	64¼	64	42¾	44,257
65 January 5.	61⅝ January 3.	64	110	+ 6½	Cleveland, Cin., Chi. & St. Louis pf.	10,000,000	Oct. 20, '99.	1½	Q	106¼	106½	106¼	106¼	95	1,485
109¼ January 5.	109¾ January 3.	109¾	110	+ 5½	Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling pf.	4,000,000	Oct., '96.	1½		48	49	46	46	25¾	300
49 January 6.	46 January 3.	46	47	— 1¼	Colorado Fuel & Iron	15,000,000				44¾	46½	42¼	42¾	36	11,205
46½ January 2.	42½ January 4.	42¾	43	— 1¼	Colorado Fuel & Iron pf.	2,000,000	Feb. 20, '97.	4		130	130	128	128	109	290
129 January 2.	126 January 3.	..	..		Colorado Midland	3,420,200				..	..	..	..	..	..
9⅝ January 2.	9 January 4.	9	9⅝	+ ⅛	Colorado Midland pf.	4,254,800				9½	9⅝	9	9⅝	6⅝	1,242
23¼ January 3.	21 January 3.	23¼	22	+ ⅛	Colorado Southern	30,385,600				22	23¼	21	22	21½	1,700
6 January 5.	5¾ January 2.	5¾	5¾	+ ⅛	Colorado Southern 1st pf.	8,500,000				5½	6	5¼	5¾	5⅜	2,840
41⅝ January 2.	40 January 4.	40	41½	+ ⅞	Colorado Southern 2d pf.	8,500,000				41	41¾	40	41	26¾	2,850
15⅝ January 2.	14¼ January 6.	14¼	15	— 1⅛	Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron	4,730,000				15½	15⅝	14½	14½	23⅝	500
17¾ January 2.	17 January 2.	15	16		Consolidated Gas	69,978,000	Dec. 28, '98.	1	Q	17½	17⅝	17	17	9	200
199 January 3.	191 January 2.	192⅝	194	+ 2⅝	Continental Tobacco Co.	48,585,700				194½	199	191	194	193⅝	8,600
33 January 2.	32 January 6.	33	33½	+ 1⅛	Continental Tobacco Co. pf.	49,245,000	Jan. 2, 1900.	1¾	Q	32½	33	32⅜	32¾	...	85,645
89½ January 2.	85¾ January 2.	86	86	+ 1	Continental Tobacco Co. pf.					85¼	86½	85⅞	86	...	7,126
119 January 2.	114 January 6.	114¾	114¾	— 4	Delaware & Hudson	35,000,000	Dec. 15, '99.	1½	Q	116¼	119	114	114¾	119	1,550
179⅝ January 2.	176¼ January 6.	177¼	178	— 1½	Delaware, Lackawanna & Western	30,250,000	Oct. 2, '99.	1½	Q	178	179¾	176½	178½	157	5,196
18½ January 3.	18 January 4.	17½	18	— ⅛	Denver & Rio Grande	38,000,000				..	18½	18	18	19	910
71⅝ January 3.	67 January 6.	67	68½	— ¼	Denver & Rio Grande pf.	23,650,000	July 17, '99.	2	SA	71	71⅝	68¾	68¾	70¼	2,490
15⅞ January 3.	14½ January 3.	14½	15⅝		Des Moines & Fort Dodge	4,223,100				15	15½	15	15	20¾	300
6 January 6.	5⅝ January 5.	5¾	6	+ ⅜	Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic	12,000,000				..	..	..	..	5⅜	300
14¾ January 3.	14 January 5.	13½	14	..	Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic pf.	10,000,000				5⅞	6	5¾	6	3⅝	300
										14¾	14¾	14	14	...	600
11½ January 3.	11½ January 3.	11	11½	+ ⅜	Erie	112,232,700				..	..	..	..	..	..
33⅜ January 3.	32½ January 4.	32	32½	+ ⅜	Erie 1st pf.	42,944,000				11½	11⅝	11½	11½	14½	100
107⅝ January 6.	103 January 3.	106	107	+ 5⅞	Erie Tel. & Tel.	5,000,000	Nov. 15, '99.	1½	Q	32½	33⅜	32⅜	33⅜	37½	1,910
40¾ January 5.	40¼ January 5.	40	41	+ ⅞	Evansville & Terre Haute	4,000,000	Oct. 19, '99.	2		107	107⅞	107	107⅝	..	4,280
*38 January 5.	*38 January 5.	35	99	..	Evansville & Terre Haute pf.	1,234,000	Oct. 16, '99.	2½	SA	40¾	40¾	40¾	40¾	38	200
										58	68	68	68	70	12
55¼ January 2.	51½ January 4.	52	52¾	— 1¼	Federal Steel	46,484,300	†July 20, '99.	1¼	..	54½	55½	54¼	52¼	53¾	63,230
76 January 2.	73¾ January 6.	73	73	— ⅞	Federal Steel pf.	53,261,000	Sept. 1, '99.	1½	Q	75	76	73	73⅞	83¾	10,632
124¼ January 4.	122 January 6.	121½	124	— 1⅝	General Electric Co.	15,276,900	Oct. 14, '99.	1½	Q	122½	124¼	122	122	99¾	2,700
52⅝ January 2.	47 January 2.	50½	51	+ 5⅞	Glucose Sugar Refining Co.	24,027,300	Dec. 1, '99.	1½	Q	52½	47	50¾	70	70	10,155
98 January 2.	98 January 2.	95	100	+ 3	Glucose Sugar Refining Co. pf.	12,619,300	Dec. 1, '99.	1½	Q	98	98	98	98	109	200
174½ January 3.	171 January 3.	170	171	— 2	Great Northern pf.	69,499,700	Nov. 1, '99.	1½	Q	173¼	174½	171	171	144	2,796
115 January 5.	113 January 3.	114	116	+ 2½	H. B. Claflin Co.	3,829,100	Oct. 14, '99.	2	Q	113	113	113	115	97¾	500
34¼ January 2.	32½ January 5.	32	34	— 1⅞	Hocking Valley	9,150,700				34	34¼	32½	32½	...	683
62¼ January 2.	59¾ January 6.	60	61	— 1¼	Hocking Valley pf.	11,453,700				62¼	62¼	59¾	59¾	...	3,677
113 January 2.	111¾ January 6.	111¾	112	— ⅝	Illinois Central	60,000,000	Sept. 1, '99.	2½	SA	113	113	111¾	111¾	114¾	1,500
25½ January 3.	23¾ January 2.	24	24	+ ⅝	International Paper Co.	17,442,900	July 1, '99.	1	Q	23¾	25½	23¾	23⅞	63¼	6,805
68⅞ January 2.	67¼ January 6.	67	67½	— ⅛	International Paper Co. pf.	22,539,700	Oct. 2, '99.	1½	Q	68	68¾	67¼	67½	91¾	2,025
12⅝ January 4.	12¼ January 4.	12¼	12⅝	+ ⅛	Iowa Central	8,488,800				..	12⅝	12	12¼	11¼	600
50½ January 2.	50 January 2.	50	51	+ ½	Iowa Central pf.	5,671,600	Sept. 1, '99.	1½	SA	50½	50½	50	50½	45¼	710
11 January 3.	10 January 2.	10	11½	+ ⅝	Kanawha & Michigan	9,000,000				10	11	10	11	...	300
9 January 3.	8 January 5.	..	..	— ⅛	Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf	23,000,000				8½	9	8	8	17⅜	1,600
8¾ January 5.	8 January 5.	..	..	..	Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf tr. r.					8	8¾	8	8¾	...	400
30 January 2.	30 January 2.	33	34		Knickerbocker Ice Co. (Chicago)	4,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900.	1	Q	30	30	30	30	36⅝	100
80 January 5.	78⅝ January 5.	79¾	80¾	— 1¼	Lacledе Gas	7,500,000	Sept. 15, '99.	1½	SA	80	80	78¾	79¾	52¾	700
100 January 4.	98½ January 6.	97	99	— 1½	Lacledе Gas pf.	2,500,000	Dec. 15, '99.	2½	SA	100	100	98½	98½	98	200
27 January 2.	26 January 4.	23½	25	+ 1⅝	Lake Erie & Western	11,540,000				24	27	25	25¾	19¾	6,000
87 January 2.	84 January 2.	84	87	+ 1½	Lake Erie & Western pf.	11,840,000	Nov. 1, '98.	1½		84½	87	84	86¾	73¾	1,910
*200 January 6.	200 January 3.	200	210	..	Lake Shore	40,488,500	July 28, '99.	3½	SA	197	200	197	200	200	100
*197 January 6.	*197 January 4.	48	50	— 2½	Long Island	12,000,000	Nov. 2, '96.	1	..	47½	47½	47½	47½	57⅜	510
47½ January 4.	47½ January 4.	78½	78¾	— 1⅞	Louisville & Nashville	52,800,000	Aug. 20, '99.	2	SA	80¾	82¼	78¾	78¾	64¾	52,324
82⅛ January 2.	78¼ January 4.	..	..		Manhattan Consolidated
99 January 3.	94⅝ January 6.	95¼	95¾	— 1½	Metropolitan Street Railway	48,000,000	Jan. 2, 1900.	1	Q	97¼	99	94¾	95	101¾	46,405
180 January 3.	174¼ January 2.	175¼	175½	— ½	Mexican Central	40,000,000	Oct. 16, '99.	1½	Q	177	180	174¼	175½	190¾	19,803
12⅜ January 2.	11¼ January 3.	11½	11½	+ ¼	Mexican National certificates	36,000,000				12¾	12¾	11¾	11¾	6	3,850
4¼ January 3.	3¾ January 4.	3¾	4	+ ¼	Minneapolis & St. Louis	33,350,000				4½	4¾	3¾	3¾	1	2,352
60⅜ January 2.	59 January 5.	59	59¾	— 1	Minneapolis & St. Louis 2d pf.	6,000,000				60¼	60⅝	59	59	36	900
*91½ January 3.	*91½ January 3.	89½	91	..	Minneapolis, St. Paul & S. S. Marie	4,000,000	July 15, '99.	2½	SA	91½	91½	91½	91½	74	30
17⅛ January 3.	14 January 2.	14	16	..	Missouri, Kansas & Texas	14,000,000				15	17½	15	15¾	..	740
10 January 5.	15 January 5.	9⅝	10	— ½	Missouri, Kansas & Texas pf.	52,450,000				10	10	10	10	14¼	100
34¼ January 2.	32 January 3.	32¼	32½	— ⅝	Missouri, Kansas & Texas pf.	13,000,000				33¾	34¼	32	32¼	39¾	6,000
43 January 2.	39¾ January 6.	40⅝	40½	— ⅝	Missouri Pacific	47,507,100	July 1, '93.	1	..	41¼	43	39¾	40½	45½	40,525
40¼ January 3.	39½ January 2.	40	40½	+ ½	Mobile & Ohio	5,320,000	Feb. 28, '98.	1	..	40	40¼	40	40	37½	850
38 January 2.	36 January 6.	36	38	— ½	National Biscuit Co.	23,000,000	Oct. 16, '99.	1	..	37⅜	38	36	36	50	1,120
90½ January 2.	86 January 2.	86	92¼	— ¾	National Biscuit Co. pf.	23,000,000	Nov. 30, '99.	1¾	Q	90½	90½	90½	90½	105¾	335
26⅞ January 3.	25⅝ January 6.	28	28½	+ 1¼	National Lead Co.	14,905,400	March 1, '99.	1	A	25½	26⅞	25⅝	26⅛	38	2,295
105½ January 4.	105 January 2.	105	106	+ 1½	National Lead Co. pf.	14,904,000	Dec. 15, '99.	1¾	Q	105	105½	105	105½	114¾	338
46⅞ January 3.	42½ January 6.	42½	43	— 1⅜	National Steel Co.	32,600,000				44	46½	41¾	41⅞	...	8,395
93 January 2.	82¾ January 5.	92	92¾	— ⅝	National Steel Co. pf.	26,000,000	Dec. 30, '99.	1¾	Q	93	93	92¼	92¼	...	1,124
119¾ January 2.	82¾ January 6.	115	116	— 3⅝	New Jersey Central	27,055,800	Nov. 1, '99.	1	Q	118⅞	119¾	115	115	97	1,800
138 January 2.	115 January 6.	122	123	— 2	New York Air Brake	5,000,000	Oct. 2, '99.	2	Q	136	138	125	125	118	535
138 January 5.	123 January 2.	136	136½	+ 5	New York Central	100,000,000	Oct. 16, '99.	1	Q	131½	138	131¼	136	122¾	82,526
4¾ January 2.	4¼ January 2.	..	..	— ⅛	New York Central, rights					4¼	4¾	4¼	4¾	...	3,215
213 January 2.	213 January 2.	215	217	+ 2	New York, New Haven & Hartford	52,308,600	Dec. 30, '99.	2	Q	213	213	213	213	190½	129
13½ January 4.	13 January 3.	13	13¼	+ 1	New York, Chicago & St. Louis	14,000,000				12½	13½	13½	13½	14	1,050
81 January 3.	81 January 3.	80	86	..	New York, Chicago & St. Louis 1st pf.	5,000,000	March, '96.	2		81	81	81	81	71½	100
35¾ January 5.	32 January 2.	33½	34½	+ 2	New York, Chicago & St. Louis 2d pf.	11,000,000				32	35¾	32	34	34	2,125
23¼ January 2.	21¾ January 3.	21¾	21⅞	— ⅜	New York, Ontario & Western	58,118,900				22½	23½	21¾	21⅞	20⅜	15,974
26 January 2.	23¾ January 4.	23⅝	23⅞	— 1¼	Norfolk & Western	36,000,000				25½	26	23¼	24	18	28,405
70⅜ January 2.	67¾ January 6.	68	68¾	— 1	Norfolk & Western pf.	23,000,000	Aug. 24, '99.	2	SA	69¾	70⅜	67¾	68	62½	6,682
15½ January 4.	14¼ January 6.	14¾	15	+ ⅜	North American	39,776,300				14⅜	15½	14¼	14¾	6⅝	9,870
54½ January 2.	52 January 4.	52⅜	52⅝	— 1½	Northern Pacific	80,000,000	Aug. 3, '99.	1	SA	54	54½	52	52¼	43⅞	34,480
74⅞ January 2.	73 January 4.	73½	73½	— 1½	Northern Pacific pf.	75,000,000	Dec. 5, '99.	1	Q	74	74⅜	73	73	76⅜	10,504
7⅝ January 4.	7⅜ January 4.	7½	8½	— ⅛	Ontario Mining	15,000,000	Dec. 20, '99.	10c	..	7⅝	7⅝	7⅝	7⅝	...	100
53 January 2.	52 January 2.	51½	53½	..	Pacific Coast	6,809,800	Nov. 1, '99.	1		52	53	52	52	45	1,440
87½ January 4.	87½ January 4.	84	90	..	Pacific Coast 1st pf.	1,515,500	Nov. 1, '99.	1	Q	87½	87½	87½	87½	85	150
66¾ January 2.	65 January 3.	64½	66	— ½	Pacific Coast 2d pf.	3,914,400	Nov. 1, '99.	1	Q	66	66¾	65	65	64	1,620
47¾ January 2.	44½ January 6.	44¾	45	— 1¾	Pacific Mail	20,000,000	Dec. 1, '99.	1½	SA	47	47¼	44½	44¾	45¼	21,494
133⅜ January 5.	131 January 4.	131½	132	+ 1	Pennsylvania Railroad	129,303,250	Nov. 29, '99.	2½	SA	131¼	133⅜	131	131½	122⅝	42,280
3 January 4.	2⅞ January 3.	2⅞	3	+ ⅛	Pennsylvania Railroad, rights					2¾	3	2⅞	3	...	39,563
106⅜ January 2.	103½ January 4.	103⅞	104¼	— ⅞	People's Gas, Chicago	28,688,800	Nov. 25, '99.	1½	Q	105	106⅜	103½	103⅞	112½	35,900
3¼ January 2.	2½ January 4.	2¼	2½	— ⅛	Peoria, Decatur & Evansville	8,400,000				3½	3½	2¾	2¾	2	6,215
5⅜ January 5.	5⅜ January 5.	5	7	+ ¾	Peoria & Eastern	10,000,000				5¾	5¾	5¾	5¾	3	300
80½ January 3.	79½ January 3.	79¼	80	+ ⅛	Pittsburg, Cin., Chi. & St. Louis	24,347,100				80¼	80¾	79¼	79½	74	4,560
92⅜ January 3.	90½ January 2.	92	98	+ 1½	Pittsburg, Cin., Chi. & St. Louis pf.	24,387,100	Oct. 10, '99.	1½		90½	92⅝	90½	92¼	85	2,131
15 January 2.	14½ January 3.	14½	16	..	Pittsburg & Western pf. & trust receipts					15	15	14½	14½	10	784
58 January 2.	56⅞ January 2.	55½	57½	+ 2½	Pressed Steel Car Co.	12,500,000				56¼	58	56½	58	...	2,800
86½ January 4.	86 January 3.	83	86	..	Pressed Steel Car Co. pf.	12,500,000	Oct. 16, '99.	1¾	Q	86½	86½	86	86	...	2,681
189 January 4.	187½ January 2.	187	189	— 1⅝	Pullman Palace Car Co.	54,000,000	Nov. 15, '99.	2	Q	188	189	187½	188	162¾	770
*10 January 4.	*10 January 4.	9	10⅞	..	Quicksilver pf.	4,291,300	May 15, '99.	½	..	10	10	10	10	...	100
.19 January 2.	18¼ January 5.	17⅞	18⅜	— ⅝	Reading	69,900,000				19	19	18¼	18½	22	2,150
54¼ January 2.	51⅝ January 6.	51½	52	— ¾	Reading 1st pf.	28,000,000				53	54¼	51⅝	52	52⅞	24,995
29¼ January 2.	27⅜ January 4.	27½	27¾	— 1	Reading 2d pf.	42,000,000				29¼	29¼	27⅝	27½	28¼	3,020
23¾ January 3.	21 January 2.	21¾	22¼	+ 1¾	Republic Iron & Steel Co.	27,352,000				21	23¾	21	22¼	...	18,595
68½ January 5.	63½ January 2.	66	67	+ 2	Republic Iron & Steel Co. pf.	20,852,000	Jan. 1, 1900.	1¾	Q	66	68½	65½	67	...	3,415
6½ January 4.	6½ January 4.	6	6½	+ ½	St. Joseph & Grand Island	4,000,000				6½	6½	6¼	6½	5	200
49⅞ January 2.	49⅞ January 2.	48½	50	+ 1⅜	St. Joseph & Grand Island 1st pf.	5,401,000	Aug. 1, '99.	1	SA	49⅞	49⅞	49⅜	49⅞	55	100
10 January 3.	9½ January 2.	9½	9¾	— ¼	St. Louis & San Francisco	26,443,880				9½	10	9½	9¾	5⅝	480
70 January 3.	70 January 3.	68	70	..	St. Louis & San Francisco 1st pf.	5,000,000	Jan. 6, 1900.	2	SA	70	70	70	70	67	100
33 January 2.	32½ January 5.	33	33	— ⅛	St. Louis & San Francisco 2d pf.	14,335,700	Sept. 1, '99.	1	SA	32¾	33	32½	32¾	33½	1,340
10⅝ January 2.	10¼ January 4.	10¼	10½	+ ¼	St. Louis Southwestern	16,500,000				10½	10⅝	10¼	10½	7⅜	1,450
26⅞ January 3.	25 January 3.	24½	25	..	St. Louis Southwestern pf.	20,000,000				25½	26⅛	25	25	19¾	3,830
56 January 3.	56 January 3.	50	56	..	St. Paul & Duluth	4,660,200	July 5, '87.	3		56	56	56	56	43¾	200
39 January 2.	36½ January 4.	36¾	36⅞	— 1⅜	Southern Pacific	193,902,100				38¼	39	36½	36⅞	34⅝	146,875
12¼ January 2.	11⅜ January 5.	11⅜	11½	— ½	Southern Railway	119,900,000				12¼	12¼	11⅝	11½	10⅝	6,785
55½ January 2.	53⅜ January 6.	53¼	53⅝	— 1½	Southern Railway pf.	60,000,000	Oct. 4, '99.	1		54⅜	55½	53¼	53¼	42¾	14,719
10¾ January 4.	9¾ January 3.	9	10	+ ⅛	Standard Rope & Twine	12,000,000				9⅞	10¾	9¾	9¾	9⅜	2,150
87⅝ January 3.	83¼ January 2.	84¼	84½	+ ⅝	Tennessee Coal & Iron	20,000,000	Jan., '87.	1		83¼	87¾	83¾	84¼	36¾	16,863
*157 January 6.	*155 January 5.	..	..	..	Tennessee Coal & Iron pf.	1,000,000	July 15, '93.	1		155	157	155	157	111	20
16¼ January 2.	15 January 6.	15	15¼	— ¾	Texas Pacific	38,706,700				15½	16¼	15	15	18¾	5,420
135½ January 3.	132½ January 2.	133	135	+ 2	Third Avenue	16,000,000	Nov. 29, '99.	1¼	Q	132½	135⅞	132½	134	168¾	2,800
67 January 4.	66 January 3.	66	67	+ 2	Twin City Rapid Transit	15,010,000	Aug. 15, '99.	1		66	67	66	66¾	40	800
137 January 2.	136 January 2.	136	137½	..	Twin City Rapid Transit pf.	2,682,200	Jan. 1, 1900.	1¾	Q	136	137	136	137	117½	340
24⅞ January 3.	21¾ January 2.	22	24½	+ 2½	Union Bag & Paper Co.	16,000,000				21¾	24⅞	21¾	24¼	...	1,565
75 January 2.	75 January 2.	73½	74⅞	+ 2½	Union Bag & Paper Co. pf.	11,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900.	1¾	Q	75	75	75	75	...	397
48⅝ January 2.	45⅞ January 4.	46¾	46½	— 1¾	Union Pacific	38,938,200				48¼	48⅝	45⅞	46⅝	42⅞	137,225
76 January 2.	74½ January 6.	74½	74⅝	— ⅞	Union Pacific pf.	37,687,600	Oct. 2, '99.	2	SA	75	76	74¼	74½	73⅜	25,098
47⅜ January 3.	47½ January 3.	45	48	..	United States Express Co.	10,000,000				47¼	47⅜	47¼	47⅜	56	310
19 January 3.	15⅞ January 3.	16¼	16⅝	+ ¼	United States Leather Co.	61,500,900				16½	19	15⅞	16¼	7	162,465
77 January 3.	75 January 2.	74¾	75	+ 1⅛	United States Leather Co. pf.	90,909,900	Jan. 2, 1900.	1½	Q	75	77	75	75	72¼	7,570
44 January 2.	41¼ January 3.	42	42¾	+ 1	United States Rubber Co.	23,666,000	Oct. 31, '99.	1	Q	43¾	44	41¼	43¼	46⅜	5,365
104¾ January 3.	103¾ January 2.	104	105	+ 2¾	United States Rubber Co. pf.	23,525,500	Oct. 31, '99.	2	Q	103½	104¾	103¾	104¼	116½	1,113
7⅜ January 2.	7¼ January 3.	7⅞	8	— ⅛	Wabash	28,000,000				7¼	7⅜	7¼	7⅜	8¼	1,825
21¾ January 2.	20⅝ January 3.	21	21½	..	Wabash pf.	24,000,000				21⅝	21¾	20⅝	20⅝	23⅜	6,910
135 January 2.	135 January 2.	186½	195	..	Wagner Palace Car Co.	19,730,500	Ja. 4, 1900, 06	2-3c	M	135	135	135	135	...	150
88½ January 5.	85 January 2.	87	87½	..	Western Union Telegraph	97,370,000	Oct. 16, '99.	1¼		85¼	88½	85	87	95¼	8,051
10⅜ January 2.	9⅝ January 4.	9⅝	9¾	..	Wheeling & Lake Erie	15,000,000				10	10⅜	9⅝	10	...	14,695
54½ January 3.	52 January 2.	52	53	..	Wheeling & Lake Erie 1st pf.	2,500,000				52	54½	52	52⅝	...	1,000
29½ January 3.	27 January 3.	27¼	28	..	Wheeling & Lake Erie 2d pf.	7,000,000				27½	29¼	27	29¼	...	5,444
20⅝ January 3.	19 January 2.	19½	19¾	..	Wisconsin Central	13,024,900				19	20⅞	19	19¼	...	9,329
51½ January 3.	49¾ January 6.	49½	50	..	Wisconsin Central pf.	3,032,100				50	51½	49¾	50	...	2,555

Note.—The highest and lowest prices, unless otherwise designated, are based on sales of 100-share lots. *Sales of less than 100 shares. †Including extra dividend of ¾. ‡Including extra dividend of ½. Dividend period changed from semi-annual to quarterly and ext

Stock Transactions New York Stock Exchange Week Ended Jan. 6, 1900.

BONDS.

Sales Week Ended Jan. 6...$7,808,100

	Week Ending Jan. 6.
	First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.
Adams Express 4s	102⅜	103⅜	102⅝	103	23
American Spirits Mfg. 6s	85	86	85	86	2
American Tobacco scrip	100	100	100	100	102
Ann Arbor 4s	90	90½	90	90	16
Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé gen. 4s	99	99½	98½	99⅜	260½
Atchison, T. & S. F. adjustment 4s	79	80¼	78¾	79½	346½
Austin & Northwest 5s	95	95⅝	93	95⅝	16
Baltimore & Ohio 3½s	94	94	93½	93⅝	215½
Baltimore & Ohio 4s	99	99	97½	98¼	225
Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Div. 3½s	89	89	87⅝	88	129
Beech Creek 1st 4s	108	108	108	108	6
Broadway & Seventh Avenue 1st con. 5s	119½	119½	119½	119½	4
Brooklyn Rapid Transit 5s	105¼	106	105	105	20
Brooklyn Union Elevated 1st 5s	94½	94½	92½	94	22
Brooklyn Union Gas 5s	114	114	114	114	1
Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern 1st 5s	106½	106½	106½	106½	½
Canada Southern 1st 5s	105½	106	105½	106	19
Canada Southern 2d 5s	108	108	108	108	15
Central of Georgia consol 5s	90¾	91	80½	89⅝	52
Central of Georgia 1st pref. inc.	35	35	35	35	8
Central of Georgia 2d pref. inc. 5s	9¼	9½	9¼	9¼	4
Central of Georgia 3d pref. inc. 5s	4½	4½	4½	4½	3
Central Branch, Union Pacific, 4s	87½	87½	87½	87½	3
Central of New Jersey general 5s	117½	118¼	117½	118¼	15
Central of New Jersey gen. 5s, registered	117½	117½	117½	117½	1
Central Pacific 3½s	82	83	82	82	138½
Central Pacific 1st 4s	99¼	99¼	98	98¼	127½
Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s	95½	96½	95½	96½	94
Chesapeake & Ohio con. 5s	115½	115½	115	115	8
Chi., Bur. & Quincy, Illinois Div. 3½s	100¾	100¾	100¾	100¾	1
Chi., Bur. & Quincy consol. 7s	110½	110½	110½	110½	4
Chicago & Eastern Illinois gen. 5s	112	112	112	112	15
Chi., Bur. & Quincy, Denver Div. 4s	102	102	102	102	8
Chi., Bur. & Quincy, Nebraska ext. 4s	108¾	109½	108¾	109½	20
Chi., Bur. & Quincy debenture 5s	109	109½	109	109	13
Chi., Bur. & Quincy, Iowa Div. 4s	103	103	103	103	4
Chicago Gas Light & Coke 5s	108	108	108	108	1
Chi., M. & St. P., Wis. & Minn. Div. 5s	117	117	117	117	1
Chi., M. & St. P., Chi. & Mil. 7s	167	167	167	167	1
Chi., M. & St. P., Chi. & Pac. West. Div. 5s	118	118	118	118	1
Chi., M. & St. Paul, So. Minn. Div. 6s	117⅞	117⅞	117⅞	117⅞	7
Chi., M. & St. P., Chicago & Pacific 6s	118⅛	118⅛	118½	118½	3
Chi., Mil. & St. Paul consol. 7s	167	167	167	167	3
Chi., Mil. & St. Paul Terminal 5s	113	113	113	113	1
Chi., M. & St. P., Dakota & Gt. So. 5s	110½	110½	110¼	110¼	20
Chicago & Northwestern deb. 5s, 1909	107	107	107	107	13
Chicago & Northwestern gold 7s, reg.	108¾	108¾	108¾	108⅝	10
Chicago & Northwestern sinking fund 5s	109	109	109	109	1
Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific general 4s	104	104½	104	104	58
Chicago Terminal Transfer 4s	93⅞	94	93⅞	94	14
Chicago, St. Paul & Minneapolis 1st 6s	132	132	132	132	1
Chi., St. Paul, Minn. & Omaha consol. 6s	131¼	131¼	131¼	131¼	5
Cin., Dayton & Ironton 5s	113½	113½	112½	113½	10
Cleveland, Cin., Chi. & St. L. gen. 4s	94	94⅝	94	94⅝	15
Cleveland, Cin., Chi. & St. L. gen. 6s	128½	128½	128½	128½	9
Cleveland & Mahoning Valley 5s	128	128	128	128	4
Cleveland & Pittsburg sinking fund 7s	103	103	103	103	13
Colorado Fuel & Iron 5s	94	94	94	94	8
Colorado Midland 1st 4s	71½	72	71½	72	14
Colorado Midland 2-4s	63½	64⅞	63	64	136
Colorado & Southern 4s	83	83	82	83	114
Denver & Rio Grande consol. 4s	96½	97½	96½	97½	6
Detroit City Gas 5s	96½	97	96½	96½	30
Denver & Rio Grande 1st 7s	102½	102½	102½	102½	5
Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette 1. g. 3½s	21	21	21	21	19
East. Tenn., Va. & Ga. consol. 5s	114	114½	114	114½	7
Edison Elec. Ill. of N. Y. 1st conv. 5s	106½	109½	106½	106½	2
Elizabeth, Lexington & Big Sandy 5s	101	102	101	102	5
Erie 2d extended 5s	119¾	119¾	119½	119½	5
Erie 3d extended 4½s	113⅞	113⅞	113⅝	113⅝	1
Erie prior lien 4s	89	89	88½	88⅞	33
Erie general lien 4s	67	68½	67	68¼	31
Evansville & Terre Haute gen. 6s	103	107	103	107	19
Fort Worth & Denver City 1st 4-6s	73½	73½	73½	73½	2
Fort Worth & Rio Grande 1st 3-4s	55	55	55	55	5
Gal., Har. & San An., Mex. & Pac. 5s	101	101	101	101	19
Georgia Pacific 1st 6s	121	121	120	120	3
Green Bay & Western debenture, B	6½	7¼	6½	7¼	60
Hocking Valley 4½s	99	100	99	99¾	133
Houston & Texas Central gen. 4s	84	85	84	84½	36
Illinois Central 4s, 1953	101	101½	101	101	101½
Illinois Central, Louisville Div. 3½s	100	100	100	100	5
Illinois Central, St. Louis Div. 3½s	99½	99⅝	98½	99⅝	4
International & Great Northern 3d 4s	62	62	60	60	22
Kanawha & Michigan 4s	84½	85	84½	85	20
Kansas City & Pacific 1st 4s	77	77	77	77	5
Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf 1st 5s	68½	68½	68	68	17
Kansas City, Pitts. & Gulf 1st 5s, tr. rects.	68	68	68	68	8
Kentucky Central 4s	96	96	95¾	95¾	2
Knickerbocker Ice, Chicago, 1st 5s	95	95	95	95	5
Laclede Gas 1st 5s	108½	109	108½	109	22
Lake Erie & Western 1st 5s	118	118	118	118	1
Lake Erie & Western 2d 5s	103½	108⅝	103½	103½	6
Lake Shore 3½s	100⅞	100⅞	100⅞	100⅞	30
Lake Shore 1st 7s, coupon	100⅞	101	100⅞	101	4
Lake Shore 1st 7s, registered	100⅞	100⅞	100⅞	100⅞	2
Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal 5s	100½	100½	100½	100½	2
Little Rock & Memphis 1st, tr. rects	37⅝	37⅝	37⅝	37⅝	5
Long Dock 6s	139	139	139	139	1
Louis., Evans. & St. Louis 1st 6s, tr. r	63	63	62	62	3
Louisville & Nashville unified 4s	97¼	98	96¾	96¾	69
Louis. & Nash. collateral trust 4s	96¾	96½	96¼	96½	59
Manhattan Consolidated 4s	103	103	103	103	2
Metropolitan Elevated 1st 6s	112	113½	112	113	12
Metropolitan Street Railway 5s	118¼	120	115¾	119½	32
Metropolitan West Side El., Chicago, 4s	95⅝	96¾	95⅝	95⅝	35
Mexican Central 1st income	22½	22½	21	21	23
Mexican Central 2d income	10	10¼	10	10¼	33
Mexican International consol. 4s	87½	87½	87	87½	52
Mexican National 1st 6s	100½	100½	100½	100½	5
Michigan Central 4s	105	105	105	105	1
Michigan Central cons. 7s	108¼	108¼	103¾	103¾	4
Midland of New Jersey 1st 6s	116⅞	116⅞	116⅝	116⅝	5
Minneapolis & St. Louis consol. 5s	113	112	112	112	1
Missouri, Kansas & Texas 1st 4s	90	90½	89½	89⅝	84½
Missouri, Kansas & Texas 2d 4s	68¼	69	67½	67⅝	94
Missouri, Kansas & Eastern 1st 5s	102½	102½	102¼	102¼	2
Missouri, Kansas & Texas ext. 5s	97½	97½	93½	95⅞	63
Missouri Pacific trust 5s	94	96½	94	96½	52
Missouri Pacific coll. gold 5s	92½	94	92	94	31
Missouri Pacific consol. 6s	115	115	115	115	34
Mobile & Ohio new 6s	124	124	124	124	2
Morris & Essex guaranteed 7s	139	139	139	139	20
Morris & Essex 1st 7s	136	136	136	136	1
Nash., Chat. & St. Louis 1st 7s	127¼	127¾	127	127	3
Nash., Chat. & St. Louis consol. 5s	105	105	104⅝	104⅞	10
New York Central, Lake Shore collat. 3½s	97½	97⅝	97	97½	14
N. Y. Central, Lake Shore coll. tr. 3½s, reg.	96½	96½	96	96	1
New York Central, Michigan Central 3½s	93	93	93	93	1
New York Central 1st 7s	109	109	109	109	58
New York Central general 3½s	100	100	100	100	14
New York, Chicago & St. Louis 4s	104½	104½	104½	104½	1
New York, Chicago & St. Louis 4s, reg.	103½	103½	103½	103½	5
N. Y. G., Elec. L., H. & P., pur. money 4s	91	93	91	93	44
N. Y. Gas, Elec. Light, Heat & Power 5s	104½	104	104	104	87
New York & Harlem 1st 7s, reg.	101½	101½	101½	101½	5
New York & New England 1st 7s	114	114	114	114	1
N. Y., N. H. & H. 4s, deb. certfs.	185⅝	185⅝	185⅝	185⅝	1
New York, Ontario & Western refdg. 4s	103	103½	103	103¾	38
New York, Sus. & Western terminal 5s	108¾	108¾	108½	108½	1
New York, Sus. & Western general 5s	92½	92½	92	92	2
New York, Sus. & Western 1st ref. 5s	109	109	109	109	1
Norfolk & Western general 6s	129	129	129	129	8
Norfolk & Western consol. 4s	91	92½	90	90⅝	79
Northern Pacific general lien 3s	65½	65	63	63¾	143⅝
Northern Pacific prior lien 4s	106½	106¾	102½	103⅝	300
Northern Pacific terminal 6s	118	118	118	118	2
Omaha & St. Louis 1st 4s	90	90	90	90	1
Oregon Railroad & Navigation 4s	101½	101⅝	101	101½	68
Oregon Short Line consolidated 5s	111	113	111	112¼	20½
Oregon Short Line 6s	126⅝	130	126⅝	130	15
Pacific Coast 1st 5s	104½	105	104½	104½	18
Pacific of Missouri 1st 4s	105⅝	105⅝	105⅝	105⅝	4
Peoria & Eastern 1st 4s	84½	86¼	84½	86¼	36
Reading general 4s	85	85	85¼	84	114
Rio Grande Western 4s	93	95	94½	95	40
Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg consol. 5s	123½	123½	123½	123½	7
Richmond & Danville consol. 6s	118¼	118¼	118¼	118¼	2
St. Joseph & Grand Island 1st 3-4-5s	84	84	82	85¼	28
St. Louis & Iron Mountain gen. 5s	109½	110¾	109¼	110	71
St. Louis, Sou. Memphis & Southern 4s	73	73¾	73	73¾	214
St. Louis & San Francisco 4s	81	81	79¾	80¾	4
St. Louis & San Francisco gen. 6s	106¾	107½	106	107	38

BONDS.

	Week Ending Jan. 6.
	First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Sales
St. Louis Southwestern 1st 4s	87¾	87¾	87	87½	41
St. Louis Southwestern 2d income	53⅝	55¾	54	54	66
Savannah, Florida & Western 1st 6s	125½	126	125½	126	15
St. Paul, Minn. & Man. consol. 4s	137	137	137	137	1
St. Paul, Minn. & Man. 6s, reduced to 4½s	112¼	112¼	112¼	112¾	1
St. Paul, Minn. & Man., Dakota ext. 6s	119⅝	119⅝	119½	119⅝	10
St. Paul, Minn. & Man., Montana ext. 4s	102½	102½	102½	102½	1
San Antonio & Aransas Pass 4s	78	78½	77½	77½	17
South Carolina & Georgia 1st 5s	105	105	105	105	3
Southern Pacific col. tr. 4s	81¼	81⅞	80¼	81	195
Southern Pacific of Arizona 1st 6s	110	110⅜	110	110⅜	25
Southern Pac. of Cal. consol. 6s, stamped	105½	106	105½	106	43
Southern Railway 5s	106⅜	107	106⅜	106⅜	68
Standard Rope & Twine income	23¼	24	22	22	24
Standard Rope & Twine 6s	80	81	80	80¼	9
Tenn. Coal & Iron, De Bard. 6s	106½	107	106½	107	6
Texas & New Orleans consol. 5s	101	102	101	102	55
Texas & Pacific 1st 5s	111	111½	111	111½	25
Toledo, Peoria & Western 1st 4s	78	78	78	78	4
Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City 6s, tr. r	110	112	110	112	78
Ulster & Delaware 1st 5s	103	104	103	103½	5
Union Pacific 1st 4s	102½	102⅝	102	102⅛	414½
Virginia Midland gen. 5s, stamped	108	108	108	108	15
Wabash 1st 5s	114	114	113	113⅝	74
Wabash 2d 5s	99	100	99	100	23
Wabash debenture, Series A	83	85	83	84	8
Wabash debenture, Series B	36½	37	35½	35½	687
Wabash, Des Moines Div. 4s	91½	91½	91½	91½	22
West. New York & Pennsylvania 1st 5s	110½	110½	110½	110⅝	1
Western Union deb. 7s, 1875, reg.	101	101	101	101	8
Western Union coll. trust 5s	111¼	111¼	111¼	111⅛	2
West Shore gtd. 4s	110½	110⅝	110	110½	44
West Shore gtd. 4s, registered	110½	110⅝	110	110⅝	16½
Wilkesbarre & Eastern 1st 5s	104	104½	104	104	12
Winona & St. Peter 2d 7s	120	120	120	120	2
Wisconsin Central 1st 4s	90½	90½	88	89⅝	59

Total sales.....$7,525,100

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

Bond Transactions New York Stock Exchange Week Ended Jan. 6, 1900.

United States 4s, 1925, coupon	133⅞	134½	133⅞	134⅛	2
United States 4s, 1907, coupon	114	114	114	114	11
United States 4s, 1907, registered	114	114¾	114	114¾	3
United States 3s, registered	109¼	109⅞	109¼	109⅞	8½
United States 3s, coupon	110	110⅝	110	110⅝	238½
United States 3s, coupon, small	109¾	110½	109¾	110¾	*55

Total sales.....$268,500
*In $100.

STATE BONDS.

Bond Transactions New York Stock Exchange Week Ended Jan. 6, 1900.

Virginia funded debt 2-3s of 1991	85½	85½	85	85	14½

Grand total.....$7,808,100

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

HIGHEST, LOWEST, AND LAST PRICES, YEAR 1900.

Where no sale has occurred this year the last previous sale is given.

	Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.
United States 2s, registered					102	Dec. 2
United States 4s, 1907, registered	114¾	Jan. 5	114	Jan. 3	114¾	Jan. 5
United States 4s, 1907, coupon	114	Jan. 2	114	Jan. 2	114	Jan. 2
United States 4s, 1925, registered					134¼	Dec. 27
United States 4s, 1925, coupon	134½	Jan. 5	133⅝	Jan. 2	134½	Jan. 5
United States 5s, registered					113¾	Dec. 20
United States 5s, 1904, coupon					113¾	Dec. 29
United States 3s, 10-20, 1918, coupon	110¾	Jan. 6	110	Jan. 2	110¾	Jan. 6
United States 3s, 10-20, 1918, small	110¾	Jan. 3	109¾	Jan. 2	110¾	Jan. 6
United States 3s, 10-20, 1918, reg	109¾	Jan. 6	109¾	Jan. 2	109¾	Jan. 6

STATE BONDS.

HIGHEST, LOWEST, AND LAST PRICES, YEAR 1900.

Where no sale has occurred this year the last previous sale is given.

	Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.
Alabama, Class A					107	Oct. 3
Louisiana consolidated 4s					110	Apr. 28
Louisiana consolidated 4s, small					109½	Feb. 27
North Carolina consolidated 4s					97	July 12
Tennessee settlement 3s					96	Nov. 28
Tennessee settlement 3s, small					93½	Nov. 22
Virginia deferred 6s, trust receipts					5¾	Dec. 21
Virginia funded debt 2-3s, 1991	85½	Jan. 5	85	Jan. 5	85	Jan. 6

TREASURY BALANCES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Following is a statement of the condition of the United States Treasury and the receipts and expenditures of the Government on the 6th day of January, 1900:

CASH IN THE TREASURY.

Gold coin	$255,090,735.36
Gold bullion	144,171,647.58
		$399,212,382.94
Outstanding gold certificates	$185,776,619.00
Less gold certificates in Treasury	21,939,708.00
		163,836,911.00
			*$235,375,471.94
Standard silver dollars		$406,071,659.00
Outstanding silver certificates	$491,658,504.00
Less silver certificates in Treasury	6,859,043.00
		394,799,461.00
			11,272,198.00
Silver bullion		.....	118,257.98
Standard silver dollars of 1890	$7,538,362.00
Silver bullion of 1890 (cost)	80,720,918.00
		$88,259,280.00
Less outstanding Treasury notes	.....	88,259,280.00
United States notes		$30,000,208.00
Outstanding currency certificates	$12,880,000.00
Less currency certificates in Treasury	410,000.00
		12,470,000.00
			17,610,208.00
Treasury notes of 1890	$1,128,178.00
National banknotes	5,208,269.34
Fractional silver coin	3,161,389.94
Fractional currency	70.19
Minor coin	324,693.01
Deposits in National banks	90,464,616.59
Bonds and interest paid	972,159.61
		$101,259,356.68
Less National bank 5 per cent. fund	$3,823,811.75
Outstanding checks and drafts	7,558,028.01
Disbursing officers' balances	54,817,333.31
Post Office Department account	2,441,190.84
Miscellaneous items	3,089,348.30
		$2,720,702.21
			18,529,654.47
Available cash balance, including gold reserve			$282,905,790.39

RECEIPTS.	This Day.	This Month.	This Fiscal Y'r.
Customs	$614,110.46	$3,937,241.12	$117,827,711.06
Internal revenue	1,264,409.46	4,307,988.92	156,669,094.67
Miscellaneous	117,898.71	447,408.00	19,049,266.56
Total receipts	$1,996,218.63	$8,692,518.04	$293,486,012.29
EXPENDITURES.
Civil and miscellaneous	856,000.00	3,471,000.00	56,730,456.04
War	100,000.00	850,000.00	30,632,482.38
Navy	280,000.00	975,000.00	28,988,610.29
Indians	10,000.00	170,000.00	6,144,229.53
Pensions	609,000.00	3,925,000.00	75,855,576.78
Interest	.....	.....	25,811,261.01
Total expenditures	$1,846,000.00	$8,391,000.00	$273,157,560.03
Excess of receipts over expenditures	150,218.62	1086,481.96	20,328,452.26
Receipts last year—
Customs	1,442,268.52	3,029,130.81	98,074,970.14
Internal revenue	775,219.89	3,011,418.34	141,405,758.00
Receipts from all sources last year	2,289,396.70	8,332,158.58	252,294,048.46
Expenditures last year	1,538,990.00	8,925,000.00	338,806,311.78

NATIONAL BANK FUND.
Deposits under act July 14, 1890	33,750.00	1,098,350.00	8,307,365.00
Redemptions under act July 14, 1890	84,770.00	249,982.50	4,976,261.00

REDEMPTION OF NOTES.	U. S. Notes. (Since 1879.)	Treasury Notes. (Since 1890.)	Total.
To date	$542,571,672.00	$102,356,274.00	$644,927,946.00
This fiscal year	7,117,054.00	2,846,582.00	9,963,636.00
This month	498,032.00	363,302.00	861,335.00
This day	92,850.00	37,943.00	131,793.00

*Net gold and bullion, including $100,000,000 reserved for redemption of United States notes, Section 12, act July 12, 1890. †Excess of expenditures over receipts.

Complete Bond Quotation List, New York Stock Exchange, for the Week Ended Jan. 6, 1900.

	Range for Week Previous.			Range for Year 1899. Highest.			Last Sale.		Week Ending.
Ala. Midland 1st g. 6s, 1928...M N*							101	Jne 10,99
Ann Arbor 1st g. 4s, July, 1995...Q J	89½	Jan	3	89½	Jan	3	89½	Jan 3	89½	89½
At. Top. & S. F. gen. g. 4s, 1995...A O*	90¼	Jan	3	90¼	Jan	3	90¼	Jan 3	90¼	90¼
Do registered...A O*							75	Jan 3
Do adjust. g. 4s, July, 1995.....Nov	89½	Jan	3	90½	Jan	4	75½	Jan 4	75½	76½
Do 4s registered.....Nov							75	Dc 11, 99
Atl. Av. of Brook. 1st g. 5s, 1950...J J							120	Ja 20, 99
Baltimore & Ohio—
Do prior lien g. 3½s, 1925.....J J*	98	Jan	3	98½	Jan	4	98	Jan 4	98½	98½
Do g. 4s, 1948.....A O	89	Jan	3	89	Jan	4	89	Jan 4	89½	89½
Do S. W. Div. 1st g. 3½s, 1925...*J J	88	Jan	3	87½	Jan	4	88	Jan 3
W. Va. & Pitts. 1st g. 5s, 1990...*J J							126½	Oct, 99
W. Va. & Pitts. 1st g. 4s, 1990...A O							104½	July, 99
Mon. Riv. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1919...*F A							111	Jne 8, 99
Cen. Ohio reor. 1st g. 4½s, 1930...M S							113	Ja 28, 99
Ak. & Chi. Junc. 1st gtd. int.g.5s,1930							95	Ja 19, 99
Col. & Cin. Mid. 1st ext. 4½s, 1939...							107¼	Jul 28,98
Pitts. & Con. 1st g. 4s, 1946.....J J*
Brooklyn Rap. Tr. g. 5s, 1945.....A O*	106	Jan	3	105	Jan	6	105	Jan 6	105	106
Brooklyn City 1st con. 5s, 1941...J J*							116	No 27,99	115½
B.,Q.Co.& S. con.gtd.g.5s,Jul.1941.M N							104	De 29, 99	103	104
Brook. Union El. 1st g.4-5s,1950.*F A	93½	Jan	2	92½	Jan	4	94	Jan 4	93	94
Brunswick & West. 1st g. 4s, 1938...*J J							74	Sep'. 96
Buff., R. & Pitts. gen. g. 5s, 1937...M S*							108	No 25,99	107	109
Roch. & Pitts. 1st g. 6s, 1921...*F A							120	Sep 1, 99
Do con. 1st g. 6s, 1922.....J D*							120¼	No 20,99
Clearf. & Map. 1st gtd. g.5s,1943.*J J							103	Ap 14, 97
Buffalo & Sus. 1st g. 5s, 1913.....A O*							100	No 14,99
Bur., C. R. & N. 1st 5s, 1906.....*J D							104½	De 29, 99	103	104
Do con. 1st 5s, 1934.....*A O							116	De 28, 99	114
Do do registered.....*A O							110½	Feb. 4,99
M. & St. L. 1st gtd. g. 7s, 1927...*J D							140	Fe 14, 97
C. R., I. F. & N.W.1st g.5s,1921...A O*							105	Jan 6, 99
Can. South. 1st gtd. 5s, 1908...*J J	106½	Jan	5	105½	Jan	3	106	Jan 6	106	106½
Do 2d 5s, 1913.....*M S	108	Jan	5	106	Jan	5	108	Jan 6	107⅝	108½
Do oo registered.....*M S							106	Ja 30, 97
Cen. Br. U. P. 1st g. 4s, 1948.....J D	87½	Jan	5	87½	Jan	5	87½	Jan 5	87	92
Cen.R. & Bk.Co.Ga.col.g.5s,1937..*M N							98	No 18,99
Cen. R. of Ga. 1st g. 5s, Nov, 1945.F A							118½	Oct 31,99
Do con. g. 5s, 1945.....M N*	91	Jan	2	89½	Jan	4	89½	Jan 6	89½	90½
Do do reg. $1,000-$5,000.....M N*							97¾	Oct 23,99
Do 1st pf. inc. g. 5s, Nov,1945.Oct	35	Jan	2	35	Jan	2	35	Jan 2
Do 2d pf. inc. g. 5s, Nov, 1945.Oct	3¼	Jan	3	3¼	Jan	3	3¼	Jan 5
Do 3d pf. inc. g. 5s, Nov, 1945.Oct	4½	Jan	5	4½	Jan	5	4½	Jan 5
Do M. & N. Div. 1st 5s, 1946...*J J							95	De.27, 99
Do Mid. Ga. & At. Div. 5s, 1947.*J J							102	Jne 29,99
Do Mob. Div. 1st g. 5s, 1946...*J J							90	July 6,96
Cen. of N. J. 1st conv. 7s, 1902...M N*							110	Sep 18,99	108
Do conv. deb. 6s, 1908.....*M N							112¾	Mr 30,99
Do gen. 5s, 1987.....J J*	116¾	Jan	6	117½	Jan	3	118¼	Jan 6	117⅝	118½
Do do registered.....Q J	117½	Jan	2	117½	Jan	2	117¼	Jan 2	116
Leh. & Wil.C.con.ss.7s,July,1900.Q M							98½	De 6, 99		100
Do 5s, 1912.....M N*	100¼	Jan	6	100½	Jan	6	100¾	Jan 6	100¼
Am. Dock & Imp. Co. 5s, 1921...J J*							114½	De 11, 99	112¾
Ches. & O. g. 6s, Ser. A, July,1908.A O							116½	De 15, 99
Do g. 6s, Jan. 1911.....A O							118	De 28, 99	118
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1939.....*M N	115¼	Jan	5	115	Jan	5	115	Jan 5	114	116
Do do registered.....*M N							117	Jne 2, 99
Do gen. g. 4½s, 1992.....*M S	96⅛	Jan	3	95¾	Jan	2	96¼	Jan 6	96¼	96½
Do do registered.....*M S							97½	Au 30,99
Do R. & A. Div. 1st g. 4s, 1989...*J J							101½	De 23, 99	100½	103
Do 2d g. 4s, 1989.....*M S							100	De 14, 99
Do Craig Val. 1st g. 5s, 1940...J J*							95¾	My 27,98
Do Warm Sp.Val.1st g.5s,1941.*M S							101¼	Ap 20,99
Ellz., Lex. & B. S. 5s, 1902.....*M S	102	Jan	5	101	Jan	2	102	Jan 5	101	102
Chi. & Alton s. f. g. 6s, 1903...*M N							103	Jne 13, 99
La. & Mo. Riv. 1st 7s, 1900.....F A*							103½	Oct 2, 99
Do 2d 7s, 1900.....M N*							106½	Fe 24, 99
Miss. R. Bdge. 1st 6s, s. f., 1912...A O*							106½	Oct., 95
Chi., Bur. & Q. con. 7s, 1903.....J J*	110¼	Jan	5	110½	Jan	5	110¼	Jan 5	110½	111
Do s. f. 5s, 1901.....A O*							100½	No 15,90
Do deb 5s, 1913.....*M N	109¾	Jan	4	109	Jan	4	109	Jan 5
Do conv. 5s, 1903.....M S*							122	De 28, 99
Do Iowa Div. s. f. 5s, 1919.....A O*							115⅝	Sep 20,99	115½
Do do oo 4s, 1919.....A O*	103	Jan	5	103	Jan	5	103	Jan 5	102⅞
Do Denver Div. 4s, 1922.....*F A	102	Ja 1		102	Jan	2	102	Jan 5
Do Southw. Div. 4s, 1921.....M S							100	Ap 11,99
Do Chi. & Iowa Div. 5s, 1905.*F A							105	Au 9, 99
Do Illinois Div. 3½s, 1949...J J*	100¾	Jan	5	100¾	Jan	5	100¾	Jan 5
Do Nebraska ext. 4s, 1927...*M N	109½	Jan	6	108¾	Jan	2	109½	Jan 6		110½
Do do registered...*M N							111½	Jne 2, 99
Han. & St. Jo. con. 6s, 1911.....*J D							120	No 17,99	118	122
Chi. & E. Ill. 1st s. f., 1907.....J D*							113¾	De 20, 99
Do 1st con. g. 6s, 1934.....A O*							136	De 30, 99	136
Do gen. con. 1st 5s, 1937.....M N*	112	Jan	2	112	Jan	2	112	Jan 5
Do do registered.....M N*							106½	No 18,98
Chi. & Ind. Coal R. 1st 5s,1936..*J J							107	De 16, 99	105
Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville—
L., New Alb. & Chi. 1st 6s, 1910..J J*							115	No 29,99
Chi., Ind. & L. ref. g. 5s, 1947...J J*							100	De 18, 99
Do ref. g. 6s, 1947.....J J*							115	De 13, 99
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul—
C.,M. & St.P. 7s,$ gold,R.D.,1902.J J*							171	De 7, 99	167
Do 1st C. & M. 7s, 1903.....*J J	167	Jan	3	167	Jan	3	167	Jan 3	167
Do con. 7s, 1905.....*J J	167	Jan	2	167	Jan	2	167	Jan 2	167
Do 1st I. & D. ext. 7s, 1908...J J*							170	De 28, 99	167
Do Southwest. Div. 6s, 1909...J J*							120½	De 22, 99	116⅝
Do 1st LaC. & Dav. 5s, 1919...J J*							118	No 28,99	116¾
Do 1st So. Minn. 6s, 1910...*J J	117⅝	Jan	6	117⅜	Jan	6	117⅝	Jan 6	117¼
Do 1st H. & D. Div. 7s, 1910...*J J							125½	De 27, 99	125½	130
Do do 5s, 1910.....*J J							111¼	De 13, 99	109¾
Do Chi. & Pac. Div. 6s, 1910...*J J	118¼	Jan	5	118⅛	Jan	5	118¼	Jan 5	118
Do Chi. & Pac. W. g. 5s, 1921...*J J	118	Jan	2	118	Jan	2	118	Jan 2	118
Do C. & M. Riv. Div. 5s, 1926...J J*							117	De 20, 99	115¾
Do Mineral Pt. Div. 5s, 1910...J J*							112¼	De 9, 99	109¾
Do C. & L. Sup. Div. g. 5s, 1921.J J*							122¼	Jne 1, 99	117½
Do Wis., Minn. Div. g. 5s, 1921..J J*	117	Jan	3	117	Jan	3	117	Jan 3	117½
Do terminal g. 5s, 1914.....J J*	113	Jan	2	113	Jan	2	113	Jan 2
Do Far. & So. assu. g. 6s, 1924.*J J							137½	Jul 18,99
Do Dak. & Gt. So. g. 5s, 1916...*J J	110½	Jan	2	110½	Jan	2	110½	Jan 2	112¾
Do gen. g. 4s, Ser. A, May,1989...J J							110½	De 28, 99
Do do registered.....Q J							105½	Fe 19, 98
Mil. & N. 1st, main line 6s, 1910.*J D							121	Oct 16,99
Do 1st con. 6s, 1913.....*J D							125	Jul 10,99	118½
Chicago & N. W. con. 7s, 1915.....Q F							142	De 15, 99	139
Do gold 7s, 1902.....J D*							106	De 27, 99	108	111
Do do registered.....J D*	108¾	Jan	6	106¾	Jan	6	106¾	Jan 6	106
Do sink. fd. 6s, 1879-1929.....A O*							120	Sep 7, 99
Do do registered.....A O*							116	Jne 14,99
Do sink. fd. 5s, 1879-1929.....A O*	109	Jan	6	109	Jan	6	109	Jan 6	109
Do do registered.....A O*							105¾	Mr 23,99
Do sink. fd. deb. 5s, 1933.....*M N							115	De 20, 99	118½	121
Do do registered.....*M N							119¼	De 27, 98		120
Do debenture 5s, 1909.....M N*	107	Jan	3	107	Jan	3	107	Jan 4
Do do registered.....M N*							105	De 28, 99
Do deb. 5s, April, 1921.....A O15							117	No 14,99
Do do registered.....A O15							117¾	Fe 7, 98
Do ext. 4s, Aug., 1886-1926...F A15							105	De 20, 98		110
Do do registered.....F A15							106¾	No 13,99
Do gen. g. 3½s, 1987.....M N*							106	De 19, 99
Do do registered.....Q F							103	No 19,98
Escanaba & Lake Su. 1st 6s, 1901...J J*							107¾	Ma 29,98
Winona & St. Peters 2d 6s,1907.M N*	120	Jan	4	120	Jan	4	120	Jan 4	120	122
Mil. & Mad. 1st 6s, 1905.....M S*							117½	Fe 6, 99
Ottum., C. F. & S. P. 1st 5s,1909.*M S							110	No 4, 99	109
Northern Illinois 1st 5s, 1910...*M S							114½	Au 28,99
Iowa Midland 1st 8s, 1900.....A O*							103	No 10,99
Mil., L. S. & W. 1st 6s, 1921...*M N							138¾	De 6, 99	136	140
Do conv. deb. g. 5s, 1907.....*F A							105½	Fe 24, 97
Do ext. & imp. s. fd. 5s, 1929...*F A							121	De 9, 99	121
Do Mich. Div. 1st g. 6s, 1924...J J*							140	De 13, 99	137
Do Ash'land Div. 1st 6s, 1925...*M S							140½	De 5, 99	137½
Do incomes, 1911.....*M N							112	No 13,99
Chi., Rock Isl. & Pac. 6s, 1917...J J*							130	No 10,99	128
Do registered.....J J*							133¾	Au 23,99
Do gen. g. 4s, 1988.....*J J	104½	Jan	3	104	Jan	2	104	Jan 6	103⅝	104¼
Do do registered.....*J J							106¾	No 14,99
Des Moines & Ft. D. 1st 4s, 1905.*J J							98	Sep 21,99
Do 1st 2½s, 1905.....*J J							83	De 7, 99
Do extension 4s, 1905.....*J J							96¾	My 18,99
Keo. & Des M. 1st 5s, 1923.....A O*							112	De 7, 99
Do small bonds, 1923.....A O*							100	Ap 15, 97
C., St. P., M. & O. con. 6s, 1930...*J D	131¼	Jan	6	131¼	Jan	6	131¼	Jan 6
C., St. P. & M. 1st g. 6s, 1918...*M N	132	Jan	2	132	Jan	2	132	Jan 2
St. P. & Sioux C. 1st g. 6s, 1919...*J J							128	De 13, 99		132
North Wis. 1st 6s, 1930.....*J J							140	Mr 23,99
Chi. Term. Trans. g. 4s, 1947.....J J*	94	Jan	5	93⅞	Jan	3	94	Jan 6	94	96
Chi. & W. Ind. 1st sk. fd. 6s,1919.M N*							106	Oct 2, 99
Do gen. g. 6s, Dec., 1932.....Q M							117¾	De 4, 99
Chi. & W. Mich. 5s, 1921,coup.off...J D*							100	Oct 28,99
C., H. & D. con. sk. fd. 7s, 1905...A O*							120	Au 10,99
Do 2d g. 4½s, 1937.....*J J							103½	Mr 13,97
Cin., D. & Int. 1st gtd. 5s, 1941.*M N	113¾	Jan	5	113¼	Jan	5	113¼	Jan 5	113¼
City & Sub. R. Balt. 1st g. 5s,1922.*J D							105⅝	April, 95
C., C., C. & St. L. gen. g. 4s, 1993.*J D	94¾	Jan	5	94	Jan	2	94⅝	Jan 5
Do Cairo Div. 1st g. 4s, 1939.....*J J							97	Jne 29,99
Do St. L. Div. 1st cl.g.4s,1990.M N*							100½	De 29, 99
Do do registered.....M N*							99	May 4,99
Spring. & Col. Div. 1st g.4s,1940.M S*							87	Oct., 95
White W. Val. Div. 1st g.4s,1940.J J*							83	No 22,95
C., W. & M. Div. 1st g. 4s, 1991..J J*							95	No 4, 99
C., I., S. L. & C. 1st g.4s,Au.,1936.Q F							104½	Au 28,99
Do con. 6s, 1920.....*M N							109	Nov., 94
C., St. L. & Clev. cn. 1st g.5s,1928.*J J							118½	Jne 27, 99
Ind., Blm. & W. 1st pf. 7s, 1900...J J							103½	De 13, 99
Peo. & East. 1st con. 4s, 1940...*A O	86½	Jan	5	84½	Jan	4	86½	Jan 6	85	87
Do income 4s, April, 1990.....A							26	De 29, 99
C., C. & I. con. 7s, 1914.....*J D							133½	Jul 6, 98
Do gen. con. g. 6s, 1934.....*J J							132	No 28,99	129	132
Cin., Laf. & Chi. 7s, 1901.....M S*							105¾	No 24,99
C. & S. 1st gtd. C.C.C. & I.,1901.*A O							108½	Fe 10, 99
C., I. & W. 1st con. g. 5s, 1933.....A O*							106	De 27, 99
Clev. & Mah. Val. g. 5s, 1938.....*J J	128	Jan	5	128	Jan	5	128	Jan 5

	Range for Week Previous.			Range for Year 1899. Highest.			Last Sale.		Week Ending.
del. 1904...Ap 1st g. $ 5-6s, 1947...J J*	94¾	Jan	3	94¾	Jan	3	94¾	Jan 3
2d 1st g. 4s, 1947.....J J*	77	Jan	3	77½	Jan	3	77	Jan 3	77	80
Cin. & Muskingum 1st g. 6s, 1939...*A O	98	Jan	3	98	Jan	3	98	Jan 3	95½	98
Cin. & Penn. 3½s, 1st g. 4s, 1942.*J O							103	Dec., 98
Den. Leads. & West. 1st, 1907...M S*
Del., L. & W. N. Y. 1st 7s, 1906...A O*									128½	Jne 15,99
Morris & E. 1st 7s, 1914.....*M N	130	Jan	4	130	Jan	4	130	Jan 4	128	Ap 26,99
Do 7s, 1871-1901.....A O*							118	Jan 4	118
Do 1st con. gtd. 7s, 1915.....*J D	130	Jan	5	128	Jan	6	130	Jan 5	128½	De 30, 99
Do do registered.....J D							130	Jan 5	127½
N. Y., Lack. & W. 1st 6s, 1921...*J J							140	Oct 26,98
Do construction 5s, 1923.....A O*							136	Jul 17,99
Do term. & impt. 4s, 1923.....*M N							133	Sep 15,99
Warren 1st 7s, 1900.....A O*							104½	De 20,99
Del. & H., 1st Penn. Div. 7s, 1917.M S*							108	As 1, 99
Do registered.....M S*							148	De 15, 99
Alb. & Sus. 1st con. gtd.7s,1906.*A O							143	May 4,97
Do registered.....*A O							120½	Ap 21, 99		121
Do g. 6s 1906.....*A O							122	Jne 6, 99
Do do registered.....*A O							116	De 12, 99
Ran. & Saratoga 1st 7s 1921.....*M N							118	De 12, 99
Do registered.....*M N							154	Sep 7, 99
Den. Con. Tramway 1st g. 5s,1933.A O							141	May, 5,98
Den. & Rio Gr. 1st g. 7s, 1900.....M N*	102½	Jan	6	102½	Jan	6	102	Jan 4
Do 1st con. g. 4s, 1936.....J J*	97½	Jan	6	96½	Jan	4	97½	Jan 6	96½	97⅛
Do con. g. 4½s, 1936.....*J J							94	No 27,99
Do improvement g. 5s, 1928...*J D							104	De 28, 99	102	104
Des Moines Un. Ry 1st g. 5s,1917.M N*							108	Ap 27,99	107	110
Det. & Mack. gold 4s, 1995.....*J D							78	De 29, 98	76	79
Det., Mack. & Mar. 1st gl.4½s,Ser.A,1911	21	Jan	2	21	Jan	2	21	Jan 6	20	23
Dul. & Iron Range 1st 5s, 1937.....A O*							108½	De 30, 99		108
Dut. Red W. & Bo. 1st g. 5s, 1928.*J J							92¼	Fe 11, 98
Dul., So. Shore & Atl. g. 5s, 1937...*J J							112	De 8, 99
E'lgin, Jol. & E. 1st g. 5s, 1941.*M N							103½	Oct 13,99	106
Erie 1st ext. g. 4s, 1947.....*M N							114¼	No 10,99
Do 2d ext. g. 5s, 1919.....M S*	119¼	Jan	4	119¼	Jan	4	119¼	Jan 4	119
Do 3d ext. g. 4½s, 1923.....*M S	113¾	Jan	5	113¾	Jan	5	113¾	Jan 5	113
Do 4th ext. g. 5s, 1920.....A O*							116½	No 15,99	119
Do 5th ext. g. 4s, 1928.....*J D							106½	Ap 14,99	105
Do 1st con. g. 7s, 1920.....J J*							125	De 28, 99	125	143
Do 1st con. g. fund. 7s, 1920...M S*							143	De 30, 98
Long Dock con. g. 6s, 1935.....A O*	139	Jan	5	139	Jan	5	139	Jan 5	135
Buff., N. Y. & Erie 1st 7s, 1916..*J D							140	Fe 8, 99	130
Jefferson 1st gtd. g. 6s, Jan.1908.A O							106	De 2, 99	101
Chicago & Erie 1st g. 5s, 1982...*M N							114¼	De 16, 99
N.Y.,L.E.& W.D.& E.1st c.6s,1918.J J*							102	Aug., 96
N. Y. & Gwood L.gtd.g.5s,1946.*M N							109	Oct 27,98
Erie 1st con. g. 4s, pr. bds.,1996..*J J	89	Jan	2	88½	Jan	6	88¼	Jan 6	88	90
Do registered.....*J J							96¼	My 25,99
Do 1st con. gen. lien g. 4s,1996.*J J	68¼	Jan	5	67	Jan	3	68¼	Jan 5	67½	68½
N.Y., Sus. & W. 1st ref. g.5s,1937.*J J	109	Jan	3	109	Jan	3	109	Jan 3	107½
Do 2d g. 4½s, 1937.....*F A							92¼	Au 25,98
Do gen. g. 5s, 1940.....F A*	92½	Jan	3	92	Jan	3	92	Jan 3	92	95
Do term. 1st g. 5s, 1943.....*M N	108½	Jan	3	108¼	Jan	3	108¼	Jan 3
Wilk. & East. 1st gtd. g. 5s,1942.*J D	104½	Jan	5	104	Jan	4	104	Jan 6
Midland R. of N.J. 1st g.6s,1910.*A O	116¾	Jan	5	116¾	Jan	5	116¾	Jan 5	116½	119
Eureka Springs R. 1st g. 6s, 1933..*M S							65	No 10,97
Ev. & T. H. 1st con. 6s, 1921.....J J*							127	De 1, 99
Do 1st gen. g. 5s, 1942.....*A O	107	Jan	5	105	Jan	2	107	Jan 5	106½	107½
Do Mt. Ver. 1st g. 6s, 1923...A O							110	May, 93
Do Sul. Co. Br. 1st g. 5s,1930.....J J							110	Sept., 91	93½
Ev. & Ind. 1st con.gtd.g.6s,1921...*J J							100¾	Au 23,99
Flint & Pere Marq. g. 6s,1920...A O*							120	De 30, 99	119¾	121
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1939.....*M N							103	De 15, 99
Do Pt. Huron D. 1st g.5s,1939.*A O							105	De 27, 99
Fla. Cen. & Penin. 1st g. 5s, 1918..J J*							101	Mr 20,99
Do con. g. 5s, 1943.....*J J							80½	May, 96
Fort St. Un. D. Co. 1st g. 4½s,1941..J J							105	Mr 11,98
Ft. W. & Den. City 1st g.4-6s,1921.J D*	73¼	Jan	5	73¼	Jan	5	73¼	Jan 5	73½	75
Ft. W. & Rio G. 1st g. 5-4s, 1928...J J*	55	Jan	4	55	Jan	4	55	Jan 4
Gal.,H. & H. of 1882 1st5s,1913.*A O							105	Au 21,99	100	102
Ga. & Ala. R. 1st pf. g.5s,1945.A O*							106	De 12, 98
Ga., Car. & N. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1929...J J*							101	My 12,99
Green Bay & West. deb. certs., A.....							55	De 28, 99
Green Bay & West. deb. certs., B.....	7¼	Jan	3	6½	Jan	3	7¼	Jan 3
Hock. Val. R. 1st con.g.4½s.1999.J J*	100	Jan	2	99	Jan	2	99¼	Jan 6		99⅝
Col. & H. Val.1st ext.g.4s,1948.A O*							107¼	Jul 26,99
Hous., E. & W. T. 1st g. 5s, 1933.*M N							102½	De 30, 99	100	105
Illinois Cent. 1st g. 4s, 1894-1951.*J J							113¼	Jul 6, 99	110
Do registered.....*J J							112½	No 23,98
Do g. 3½s, 1951.....*J J							108	No 27,99
Do do registered.....*J J							102	Ap 15, 98
Do col. tr. g. 4s, 1952.....*A O							100	De 28, 99
Do do registered.....*J J							101	Fe 1, 99
Do col. tr. g. 4s, 1953.....M N*	101½	Jan	5	101	Jan	2	101½	Jan 5
Do West. Line 1st g. 4s, 1951..F A*							108¾	De 13, 99	110
Do Louis. Div. g. 3½s, 1953.....J J*	100	Jan	5	100	Jan	5	100	Jan 5
Do Cairo Bridge g. 4s, 1950.....J D*							102½	Sept., 96
Do Mid. Div. reg. 5s, 1921.....F A*							123	My 24,99
Do Springf. Div. 1st g. 3½s,1951.J J							95	De 21, 99
Do St. Louis Div. g. 3s, 1951...J J*							85½	De 8, 99
Do do g. 3½s, 1951.....J J*	99¾	Jan	3	99½	Jan	2	99¾	Jan 3
Do do registered.....*J D15							101½	Oct 23,99
C., St. L. & N. O. g. 5s, 1951...*J D15							124	De 11, 99
Do do registered.....*J D15							125	De 5, 99
Do g. 3½s, 1951.....*J D15							100	Ap 15,99
Do Memphis Div. 1st g.4s,1951.J D*							106¼	Au 17,99
Belle. & Carond. 1st 6s, 1923.....*J D							121	Fe 24, 99	116
St. L. South. 1st gtd. g. 4s, 1931.M S*							104	Sept., 95	100	111
Car. & Shaw. 1st g. 4s, 1932...*M S							90	No 22,98	98
Ind., Dec. & W. 1st g. 5s, 1935.....*J J							104	Jul 18,99
Ind., Ill. & Ia. 1st ref. 5s, 1948...A O*							106½	De 28, 99	105	106¼
Int. & Gt. North. 1st g. 6s, 1919..M N*							125	De 5, 99
Do 2d g. 5s, 1909.....M S*							87	De 27, 99	90	92
Do 3d g. 4s, 1921.....M S*	62	Jan	2	60	Jan	4	60	Jan 5	60	63
Iowa Cent. 1st g. 5s, 1938.....*J D							110	De 28, 99	111
K. C., P. & G. 1st&col.g.5s,1923.*A O	68¼	Jan	3	68	Jan	4	68	Jan 5
Do trust receipts.....	68	Jan	5	68	Jan	5	68	Jan 5	68	70
Lake Erie & W. 1st g. 5s, 1937..*J J	118	Jan	4	118	Jan	4	118	Jan 4
Do 2d g. 5s, 1941.....J J*	108¾	Jan	3	108½	Jan	2	108¾	Jan 6	108½
North. Ohio 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1945..A O*							106½	De 28, 99	106½
Lehigh Val. (Pa.) col. g. 5s, 1997.*M N							104	Au 8, 98
Lehigh Val.(N.Y.) 1st g.4½s,1940..J J*							110	No 18,99
Do registered.....J J*							103½	No 24,99
Lehigh V. Ter. 1st gtd.g.5s,1941.A O*							110	De 30, 99
Do registered, 1941.....A O*							109½	Oct 18,99
Leh. V. C. Co. 1st gtd. g. 5s,1933.*J J							103

	Range for Year 1900. Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.		Bid. As'd.
M. St.,M. L. & M. 1st cn.g.5s,1919..J J15	..	....	..	....	109	Oct 30,99	..	..
Mil. Elec. Ry & L. con. g.5s,1926.*F A	..	....	..	....	106	Oct 27,99	..	..
Mo., Kan. & Tex. 1st g. 4s, 1990..*J D	90½	Jan 2	89½	Jan 3	89¾	Jan 5	89½	..
Do 2d g. 4s, June 1, 1990.....F A	68¼	Jan 3	67¼	Jan 4	67¾	Jan 6	67½	68½
Do 1st ext. g. 5s, 1944.....M N	96¾	Jan 3	96½	Jan 4	96¾	Jan 5	96	96
M.,K.& T. of T.1st gtd.g.5s,1942.M S*	..	....	..	....	92	De 30, 99	98	95
K. C. & Pac. 1st g. 4s, 1990.....F A*	77	Jan 3	77	Jan 3	77	Jan 3	..	..
Dallas& Waco 1st gtd.g.5s,1940..M N*	..	....	..	....	94	De 6, 99	..	..
Boonville Bridge gtd. g. 7s,1906..*M N	..	....	..	....	100¾	No 22,99	..	..
Mo., K. & E. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1942.*A O	102½	Jan 3	102½	Jan 3	102½	Jan 4	..	..
Missouri Pac. 1st con. 6s, 1920...M N*	115	Jan 2	115	Jan 2	115	Jan 5	..	116
Do 3d 7s, 1906.....M N	..	....	..	....	114	De 7, 99	111¼	..
Do tr. g. 5s, stpd., Jan., 1917..M S	96¼	Jan 3	94	Jan 4	96¼	Jan 6	..	96½
Do 1st col. g. 5s, 1920.....F A*	94	Jan 3	92	Jan 4	94	Jan 4	92½	94
Pac. R. of M. 1st ext.g.4s,1938...F A*	105¾	Jan 6	105¾	Jan 6	105¾	Jan 6	..	..
Do 2d ext. g. 5s, 1938.....J J*	..	....	..	....	110	No 11,99	..	..
St. L. & I.M.gn.con.l.g.g.5s,1931.*A O	110¾	Jan 2	109½	Jan 2	110	Jan 5	105½	110
Do 4g gtd. g. 5s, 1931.....*A O	..	....	..	....	109½	De 30, 99	..	..
Do do unified & ref. g. 4s, 1929.J J*	79¼	Jan 3	78	Jan 5	78½	Jan 4	..	..
Mobile &; Ohio new g. 6s, 1927....J D*	124	Jan 3	124	Jan 3	124	Jan 3	123	126
Do 1st ext. g. 6s, July, 1927.....Q J	..	....	..	....	121¾	Jne 30,99	..	..
Do gen. g. 4s, 1938.....M S*	..	....	..	....	84	De 30, 99	..	..
Do mont. Div. 1st g. 5s, 1947..*F A	..	....	..	....	106	De 29, 99	..	..
St. L. & Cairo gtd. 4s, 1931.....*J J	..	....	..	....	84	Apr., 96	..	..
Nash., Chat. & St. L. 1st, 1913..J J*	127¼	Jan 3	127	Jan 6	127	Jan 6	..	..
Do 2d 6s, 1901.....*J J	..	....	..	....	101	Sep 12,99	..	..
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1928.....*A O	105	Jan 5	104⅞	Jan 6	104⅞	Jan 6	104½	105½
Do T. & P. Bch. 6s, 1917.....*J J	..	....	..	....	111	De 20, 99	..	..
Do 1st 6s, McM., M. W. & Alb..J J	..	....	..	....	108	Mar., 96	..	..
Do 1st g. 6s, Jasper Br., 1923...*J J	..	....	..	....	113	De 1, 99	..	..
N. O. & N. E. pr. lien 6s,Nov.,1915.A O	..	....	..	....	108½	Aug., 94	..	..
N Y. Cen. & Hud. 1st 7s, 1903....*J J	109	Jan 4	109	Jan 4	109	Jan 4	109	..
Do registered.....*J J	..	....	..	....	111½	Oct 3, 99	108½	..
Do deb. 5s of 1884-1904.....M S*	..	....	..	....	106½	De 14, 99	106½	107½
Do do registered.....M S*	..	....	..	....	108¾	De 12, 99	..	..
Do reg. oeb. 5s,1889-1904.....M S*	..	....	..	....	108½	Fe 21, 98	..	..
Do deb. g. 4s, 1890-1905.....*J J	..	....	..	....	103¼	Jne 28,99	103¼	..
Do do registered.....*J D	..	....	..	....	104¾	Fe 25, 98	100½	..
Do deb. certs., ext. g. 4s,1905.*M N	..	....	..	....	102½	No 21,99	100½	..
Do do registered.....*M N	..	....	..	....	102¾	Au 1, 99	100½	..
Do g. mtge. 3½s, 1997.....J J*	109	Jan 2	109	Jan 2	109	Jan 2	107¾	..
Do do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	112½	Ap 14, 99	..	..
Do Mich Cen. col. g. 3½s, 1998.*F A	96	Jan 3	96	Jan 3	96	Jan 3	..	96
Do do registered.....*F A	..	....	..	....	98	De 12, 99	..	..
Do Lake Shore col. g.3½s,1998..*F A	97¾	Jan 2	97	Jan 2	97½	Jan 3	97	97¾
Do do registered.....* FA	96½	Jan 2	96	Jan 3	96	Jan 3	..	..
West Shore 1st gtd. 4s, 2361.....*J J	110¾	Jan 6	110	Jan 2	110¾	Jan 6	110¼	111
Do registered.....*J J	110¾	Jan 5	110	Jan 4	110¾	Jan 5	109¾	110¼
Beech Creek 1st g. 4s, 1936.....J J*	108	Jan 4	108	Jan 4	108	Jan 5	106	..
Do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	106	Jne 17,98	..	..
Clear. Bl. C.1st s.f.gtd.4s,S.A.1940.J J	..	....	..	....	95	Jul 28,98	..	..
Do do registered.....J J	..	....	..	....	104	Jul 24,97	..	..
N. Y.' & Harlem 1st 7s, 1900....*M N	101½	Jan 5	101½	Jan 5	101½	Jan 5	101	102
Do registered.....*M N	..	....	..	....	101½	De 20, 99	101	..
N. J. Junc. R. gtd. 1st 4s, 1986..*F A	..	....	..	....	103	May 7,97	100	..
R.,W. & O.cn.1st ext.5s,July,1922.A O	128½	Jan 5	128½	Jan 5	128½	Jan 5	..	..
Do Ter. R. 1st g. 5s, 1918.....*M N	..	....	..	....	109	Jan., 97	..	..
Os. & Rome 2d gtd. g. 5s, 1915..*F J	..	....	..	....	113	Ap 13, 99	..	..
Utica & R. Riv. gtd. g. 4s, 1922..J J*	..	....	..	....	107	Au 13,98	..	..
Mo. & Mal. 1st gtd. g. 4s, 1991..M S*	..	....	..	....	106½	No 14,99	..	..
N. Y. & North. 1st g. 5s, 1927....A O*	..	....	..	....	123	Jul 14,99	120	125
Lake Shore & Michigan Southern—
Det., Mon. & Tol. 1st 7s, 1906..F A*	..	....	..	....	123	Jne 13,98	118	123
Lake Shore con. 1st 7s, 1900.....J J*	101	Jan 5	100⅝	Jan 4	101	Jan 5	100⅜	..
Do do registered, 1900.....Q J*	100⅜	Jan 2	100⅜	Jan 2	100⅜	Jan 2	..	..
Do con. 2d 7s, 1903.....J D*	..	....	..	....	110	De 21, 99	111	..
Do do registered, 1903.....J D*	..	....	..	....	112	De 8, 98	111	112½
Do g. 3½s, 1997.....*J D	109¾	Jan 5	109½	Jan 6	109½	Jan 6	109	110½
Do do registered.....*J D	..	....	..	....	109½	De 4, 99	..	..
C. & Sp. 1st gtd. L.S.&M.S. 1901.*A O	..	....	..	....	108½	De 1, 97	..	..
Mahoning Coal R. 1st 5s, 1934.....J J*	..	....	..	....	122½	De 3, 98	..	..
Michigan Cen. 1st con. 7s, 1902.*M N	108¼	Jan 5	108¼	Jan 5	108¼	Jan 5	108	..
Do 1st con. 5s, 1902.....*M N	..	....	..	....	103	De 28, 99	102	..
Do 6s, 1909.....M S*	..	....	..	....	122	Fe 25, 98	118	..
Do 5s, 1931.....M S	..	....	..	....	129	No 20,99	..	..
Do do registered, March, 1931..Q M	..	....	..	....	127	De 2, 99	..	..
Do 4s, 1940.....*J J	105	Jan 4	105	Jan 4	105	Jan 4	..	..
N. Y. C. & St. L. 1st g. 4s, 1937..A O*	104½	Jan 3	104½	Jan 3	104½	Jan 5	104½	..
Do registered.....A O*	103½	Jan 3	103½	Jan 3	103½	Jan 3	..	..
N.Y.,N.H. & H. 1st reg. 4s, 1903.*J D	..	....	..	....	104½	Oct 7, 97	..	..
Do con. deb. certs., $1,000.....A O*	185¾	Jan 5	185¾	Jan 5	185¾	Jan 5	185	..
Do registered.....*	..	....	..	....	187	Nc 17,99	..	..
Do do small certs., $100.....*	..	....	..	....	185	Au 26,98	..	..
Housatonic R. con. g. 5s, 1937..M N*	..	....	..	....	128	De 27, 99	..	..
N. H. & Derby con. 5s, 1918.....*M N	..	....	..	....	125½	Fe 6, 97	..	..
N. Y. & N. E. 1st 7s, 1905.....J J*	114	Jan 5	114	Jan 5	114	Jan 5	114	..
Do 1st 6s, 1905.....J J	..	....	..	....	113	Jul 29,99	109¾	..
N.Y.,O. & W.ref.1st g.4s,June,1992..M S	103¼	Jan 5	103	Jan 2	103¼	Jan 5	102½	103½
Do do reg., $5,000 only.....M S	..	....	..	....	101¾	No 30,98	..	..
Nor. Pa. Ry. gen. l.g.1st g.6s,1921.*J J	..	....	..	....	119½	Ap 12, 99	..	..
Do registered.....*J J	..	....	..	....	112	Jul 20,99	..	..
St. Paul & N. F. gen. 6s, 1923..*F A	..	....	..	....	131¼	My 15,99	125	..
Do registered certificates.....Q F	..	....	..	....	132	Jul 28,99	..	..
N. P. Ry p.in.ry.&l.g.g.4s,Jan.1997.Q J	103½	Jan 2	102½	Jan 2	103¼	Jan 6	103	103¾
Do registered.....Q J	..	....	..	....	100	De 22, 99	..	..
Do gen. lien g. 3s, Jan., 2047...Q F	66	Jan 3	65¼	Jan 2	65½	Jan 6	65¼	65¾
Do do registered.....Q F	..	....	..	....	66	Sep 21,99	..	..
Wash. Cen. 1st g. 4s, Mch.,1948..Q M	..	....	..	....	95	My 11,99	..	..
Nor. Pac. Ter. Co. 1st g. 6s, 1933..J J*	118	Jan 5	118	Jan 5	118	Jan 5	..	..
Norfolk & South. 1st g. 5s, 1941..*M N	..	....	..	....	107¾	Jne 22,99	110	..
Nor. & W. R. gen. g. 6s, 1931....*M N	129	Jan 2	129	Jan 2	129	Jan 2	..	..
Do New Riv. 1st g. 6s, 1932..*A O	..	....	..	....	128	De 1, 99	..	..
Do imp. & ext. 6s, 1934.....*F A	..	....	..	....	117½	Au 30,98	..	..
Col., C. & T. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1922..*J J	..	....	..	....	101	Fe 23, 97	..	..
Scl. V. & N.E. 1st gtd.g.4s,1989|M N*	..	....	..	....	97	De 29, 99	..	..
Nor. & W.R. 1st con. g.4s,1996..A O*	92½	Jan 4	90¾	Jan 3	90⅞	Jan 5	..	..
Ohio Riv.R.R. 1st g. 5s, 1936..*J D	..	....	..	....	103	Oct 24,99	104½	..
Do gen. g. 5s, 1937.....*A O	..	....	..	....	85	De 8, 99	86¼	..
Omaha & St. L. 1st g. 4s, 1001....J J*	60	Jan 5	60	Jan 5	60	Jan 5	60	65
Pac. Coast Co. 1st g. 5s, 1946..*J D	105	Jan 2	104½	Jan 6	104½	Jan 6	70½	..
Panama sk. fd. sub. 6s, 1910...M N*	..	....	..	....	104⅝	No 21,99	105½	..
Penn. Co. gtd. 1st g. 4½s, 1921.....J J*	..	....	..	....	115	De 27, 99	..	..
Do registered, 1921.....J J*	..	....	..	....	115	No 29,99	..	..
Do gtd.3½s,col.tr.reg.cfs.,1937.M S*	..	....	..	....	102	No 11,98	..	..
Penn. R. R. Co. re. est. g.4s,1923.*M N	..	....	..	....	108	My 12,97	..	..
Un. N. J. R. R. & C.gen.4s,1944.*M S	..	....	..	....	115½	Fe 24, 98	..	..
Clev. & Marietta 1st gtd. 4½s, 1935..	..	....	..	....	110½	De 12, 99	106	108½
P., D. & E. Tr. Co. ef.1st 6s, 1920..*J J	..	....	..	....	98¾	De 12, 99	97	..
Do Evans. Div. 1st g. 6s, 1920.....	..	....	..	....	100	De 23, 97	..	..
Do E. Div.T.Co.cfs.1st 6s,1920.M S*	..	....	..	....	97¾	No 29,99	96	97
Do 2d g. 5s, 1926.....M N*	..	....	..	....	17	My 23,98	..	..
Do do Tr. Co. cfs., 1st inst. pd.....	..	....	..	....	20	De 20, 98	..	..
Peo. & F. Un. 1st g. 6s, Feb.,1921..Q F	..	....	..	....	123	Ap 28, 99	120	..
Do 2d 6s, Feb., 1921.....M N	..	....	..	....	98	De 3, 98	..	..
Pine Creek reg. gtd. 6s, 1932.....J D*	..	....	..	....	137	No 17,97	..	..
Pitts., Clev. & T. 1st g. 6s, 1922..A O*	..	....	..	....	107½	Oct 26,98	..	..
Pitts. Junc. 1st g. 6s, 1922.....J J	..	....	..	....	121	No 26,98	..	..
P.C. & St.L.cn.g.rt.4½s,A.1940.A O*	..	....	..	....	115	No 23,99	..	..
Do Series B, gtd., 1942.....*A O	..	....	..	....	112½	De 28, 99	..	..
Do Series C, gtd., 1942.....M N*	..	....	..	....	118	No 23,98	..	..
Do Series D, 4s, gtd., 1945....M N*	..	....	..	....	107	De 5, 99	..	..
P., C. & St. L. 1st 7s, 1900.....F A*	..	....	..	....	107	De 5, 99	..	..
Do registered, 1900.....F A*	..	....	..	....	109¾	Ap 23, 97	..	..
P., Ft. W. & C. 1st 7s, 1912.....J J*	..	....	..	....	140	No 16,99	..	..
Do 2d 7s, 1912.....J J*	..	....	..	....	138	No 16,98	..	..
Do 3d 7s, July, 1912.....A O	..	....	..	....	135	Jne 7, 99	..	..
C., St. L. & P. 1st con. 5s, 1932.A O*	..	....	..	....	119½	Oct 4, 99	..	..
C. & P. con. skg. fd. 7s, 1900....M N*	103	Jan 5	103	Jan 5	103	Jan 5	..	..
Do gen. gtd. g. 4½s, Ser.A.1942.*J J	..	....	..	....	121	Jul 8, 98	..	..
G. R. & I. ext. 1st gtd.g.4½s,1941.J J*	..	....	..	....	114	Oct 19,99	..	..
Alle. Val. gen. gtd. g. 4s, 1942...*M S	..	....	..	....	102	No 10,97	..	..
P. & L.E. 2d g.5s,Ser.A&B Ja.,1928.A O	..	....	..	....	114	Mar., 98	..	..
P. McK. & Y. 1st gtd. l. 6s, 1932..J J*	..	....	..	....	117	Mar., 98	..	..
P., P. & F. 1st g. 5s, 1916.....J J*	..	....	..	....	90	Jne 24,99	..	..
P., S. & L. E. 1st g. 5s, 1940.....A O*	..	....	..	....	116	Jul 29,99	..	..
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1943.....J J*	..	....	..	....	98	Jul 14,97	..	..
Pitts. & West. 1st g. 4s, 1917.....J J*	..	....	..	....	101	De 14, 99	98	..
Do J. F. M. & Co. certs.....	..	....	..	....	100	De 20, 99	..	..
Reading Co. gen. g. 4s, 1997.....*J J	85	Jan 2	83½	Jan 3	84	Jan 6	83¾	84
Do registered.....*J J	..	....	..	....	84¾	De 6, 99	..	..
Rio Grande West. 1st g. 4s, 1030..J J*	95	Jan 2	94¼	Jan 4	95	Jan 6	95	95¼
Utah Cent. 1st gtd. g. l. g.4s,1917.A O	..	....	..	....	88	Jne 27,99	..	..
Rio Gde. Junc. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1939..J D*	..	....	..	....	105	No 10,99	..	..
Rio Gde. South. 1st g. 3-4s, 1940...J J*	..	....	..	....	74½	De 15, 99	..	..
St. J. & G. I. 1st g. 2-3-4s, 1947..*J J	84	Jan 2	82	Jan 3	83¼	Jan 5	82½	85
St. L. & S. F. 2d g.6s,Cl.A,1906.M N*	..	....	..	....	110	No 15,99	110½	..
Do g. 6s, Class B, 1906.....M N*	..	....	..	....	112	De 5, 99	110½	..
Do g. 6s, Class C, 1906.....M N*	..	....	..	....	110	No 15,99	110½	..
Do 1st g. 6s, P. C. & O., 1919.F A*	..	....	..	....	111¼	July, 96	..	..
Do gen. g. 6s, 1931.....J J*	..	....	..	....	124	De 16, 99	..	..
Do gen. g. 5s, 1931.....J J*	107¼	Jan 3	103	Jan 4	107	Jan 6	..	..
Do 1st tr. g. 5s, 1937.....A O*	..	....	..	....	103½	Oct 3, 99	..	..
Ft. S. & V. B. B. 1st g. 6s, 1910.*A O	..	....	..	....	105	Oct 4, 97	..	..
St. L. & S. F. R. R. g. 4s, 1996..J J*	81	Jan 2	80¾	Jan 4	80¾	Jan 4	..	..
Do Southw. Div. g. 5s, 1947.....A O*	..	....	..	....	90¾	De 18, 99	..	..
Do Cent. Div. 1st g. 4s, 1929..*A O	..	....	..	....	92¾	De 13, 99	..	..
St. L. S. W. 1st g. 4s, bd.cts..1989 M N*	87¾	Jan 3	87	Jan 3	87¾	Jan 5	86½	87
Do 2d g. 4s, inc. bd.cts.,Nov.,1989.J J	54¾	Jan 2	54	Jan 3	54	Jan 6	54	55
St. P. C.ty By Co. cn. g.5s,1937..*J J15	..	....	..	....	112	No 28,99	111	112
St. Paul & Dul. 1st 5s, 1931.....F A*	..	....	..	....	120	Fe 8, 99	..	..
Do 2d 5s, 1917.....A O*	..	....	..	....	110½	De 8, 99	..	..
Do 1st con. g. 4s, 1968.....*J B	..	....	..	....	98½	De 27, 99	..	..
St. P., Min. & Man. 2d 6s, 1909...A O*	..	....	..	....	118½	No 28,99	110¾	..
Do Dak. ext. g. 6s, 1910.....M N*	119¾	Jan 6	119¾	Jan 6	119¾	Jan 6	110½	120½
Do 1st con. g. 6s, 1933.....J J*	137	Jan 3	137	Jan 3	137	Jan 3	135	140
Do do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	137½	Fe 28, 99	..	..
Do do reduced to 4½s.....J J*	112¼	Jan 2	112¼	Jan 2	112¼	Jan 2	112¼	..
Do do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	106¼	My 29,97	..	..
Do Wash. ext. 1st g. 4s, 1937.....*J D	102½	Jan 2	102¼	Jan 2	102½	Jan 2	..	..
Do do registered.....*J D	..	....	..	....	104	Ja 26, 99	..	..
Minn. Union 1st g. 6s, 1922.....J J*	..	....	..	....	122¾	Je 13, 98	..	..
Minn. Cent. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1937..J J*	..	....	..	....	93	Oct 26,99	..	..
Do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	113	Ap 29,97	..	..
Do do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	118	De 1, 99	115	..

	Range for Year 1900. Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.		Bid. As'd.
Mil. & Sioux F. 1st g. 5s, 1938...*J D	..	....	..	....	120	Ap 11, 99	..	..
Do registered.....*J D	..	....	..	....	115	Ap 24, 99	..	..
S. Fe, P. & P. R. 1st g. 5s, 1942...M S*	..	....	..	....	106¾	No 20,99	..	..
S. F. & N. P. 1st g. 5s, 1919.....*J J	..	....	..	....	112⅝	Oct 2, 99	..	..
Sa., Fla. & W. 1st con. g. 6s, 1934..A O	126	Jan 3	125½	Jan 3	126	Jan 3	124	126
Do 1st g. 5s, 1934.....*A O	..	....	..	....	112	Mr 17,99	..	..
Sea. & Roanoke 1st 5s, 1926.....J J*	..	....	..	....	104¾	Fe 5, 97	..	..
Southern Pacific Co.—
Do g. 4s, Cen. P. col.,Aug.,1949.J D	81½	Jan 2	80¾	Jan 4	81	Jan 6	80½	81
Do do registered.....J D	..	....	..	....	85	No 6, 99	..	..
Cen. P. 1st ref. gtd. g. 4s, 1949..F A*	99¼	Jan 2	98	Jan 5	98¼	Jan 6	98	98½
Do mtge. gtd. g. 3½s, Aug.,1929.J D	83	Jan 2	82	Jan 2	82	Jan 6	81½	82
Gal., Har. & S. A. 1st 6s, 1910...F A*	..	....	..	....	108	Oct 17,99	..	..
Do 2d g. 7s, 1905.....*J D	..	....	..	....	109½	No 4, 99	..	..
Do M. & P. Div. 1st 5s, 1931..* MN	101	Jan 4	101	Jan 4	101	Jan 6	101	..
Hous. & T. C. 1st W. & N.7s,1903.J J	..	....	..	....	102	Nov., 94	..	..
Do 1st g. 5s, int. gtd., 1937.....J J*	..	....	..	....	109¾	De 21, 99	110¼	..
Do con. g. 6s, int. gtd., 1912.....A O*	..	....	..	....	110½	De 26, 99	111	..
Do gen. g. 4s, int. gtd., 1921..*A O	85	Jan 3	84	Jan 2	84½	Jan 5	84	85
Mor. La. & T. 1st g. 6s, 1920.....J J*	..	....	..	....	114	No 17,97	123½	..
Do 1st 7s, 1918.....*A O	..	....	..	....	124	No 22,99	..	..
Ore. & Cal. 1st 5s, 1927.....J J	..	....	..	....	99	De 27, 99	..	..
San A. & A. P. 1st gtd.g.4s,1943..*J J	78½	Jan 2	77¼	Jan 3	77½	Jan 6	76	78
Texas & N. O. 1st 7s, 1905.....F A*	..	....	..	....	116	De 14, 98	..	..
Do Sabine Div. 1st g. 6s, 1912..M S*	..	....	..	....	100¾	No 17,97	..	..
Do con. g. 5s, 1943.....J J*	102	Jan 5	101	Jan 2	102	Jan 6	101	..
S.P.of Arl.gtd.1st g.6s Mch,1909-10..J J	110¾	Jan 4	110	Jan 2	110¾	Jan 6	110	..
S. P. of Cal. 1st g. 6s,Ser.A,1905.*A O	..	....	..	....	107	No 1, 99	107	..
Do 1st con. gtd. g. 5s, 1937.....M N*	..	....	..	....	104	No 24,99	..	..
Do do stamped, 1905-37.....M N	106	Jan 3	105½	Jan 2	106	Jan 5	104½	..
Aus. & N. W. 1st gtd. g. 5s,1941..J J*	95¾	Jan 5	95	Jan 4	95¾	Jan 6	95	..
So. Pac. of N. M. 1st g. 6s, 1911..*J J	..	....	..	....	113⅞	No 23,98	..	..
Gila V.,G. & N.1st gtd.g.5s,1924.M N*	..	....	..	....	103⅜	De 27, 99	100	..
Nor. R. of Cal. 1st 6s, gtd., 1907.*J J	..	....	..	....	108	Au 6, 97	..	..
Do 50-year g. 5s, 1938.....A O*	..	....	..	....	106	Au 23,99	..	..
Southern R. 1st con. g. 5s, 1994....J J*	107	Jan 2	103¾	Jan 2	106⅜	Jan 6	106½	107
Do registered.....J J	..	....	..	....	93	Oct 31,98	..	..
Do Mem. Div. 1st g.4-4½-5s,1996.J J	..	....	..	....	103¼	Au 14,99	104⅜	..
E. Tenn. reor. lien g. 4-5s, 1938.*M S	..	....	..	....	106	De 18, 99	..	..
Ala Central 1st g. 6s, 1918.....J J*	..	....	..	....	113¼	Au 17,97	..	..
Col. & Green. 1st g. 6s, 1916.....J J*	..	....	..	....	118¾	Jne 8, 99	..	..
E. T., Va., & Ga. 1st 7s, 1900.....J J*	..	....	..	....	103¾	De 1, 99	..	..
Do divisional g. 5s, 1930.....J J*	..	....	..	....	110½	De 13, 99	..	..
Do con. 1st 5s, 1956.....M N*	114½	Jan 2	114	Jan 2	114½	Jan 4	..	..
Georgia Pac. R. 1st g. 6s, 1922...*J J	121	Jan 4	120	Jan 5	120	Jan 5	..	..
Knox. & Ohio 1st g. 6s, 1925.....J J*	..	....	..	....	124	De 6, 99	..	..
Rich. & Dan. con. g. 6s, 1915...J J	118¼	Jan 2	115½	Jan 2	118¼	Jan 2	115½	120
Do equip. s. f. g. 5s, 1909.....M S*	..	....	..	....	101	Oct 9, 99	100	..
Do deb. 5s, stamped, 1927.....*A O	..	....	..	....	105	De 12, 99	103	..
Va. Midland gen. 5s, 1936.....*M N	..	....	..	....	109	De 15, 99	108	110
Do do gtd., stamped, 1936....*M N	108	Jan 4	108	Jan 4	108	Jan 4	108	110
Do serial, Series D.....A O*	..	....	..	....	102	Oct 13,99	..	..
Do serial, Series E.....*A O	..	....	..	....	109	Ja 12, 99	..	..
W., O. & W. 1st cur.gtd.4s,1924.*F A	..	....	..	....	90	Fe 23, 99	..	..
West. N. C. 1st con. g. 6s, 1914...J J*	..	....	..	....	117½	De 30, 99	..	..
So. Car. & Ga. 1st g. 5s, 1919..*M N	105	Jan 3	105	Jan 3	105	Jan 5	..	..
Atlantic & Dan. 1st g. 5s, 1950....J J	..	....	..	....	102	De 29, 99	..	..
Ter. Ass. of St. L. 1st 4½s,1939.A O*	..	....	..	....	113	Oct 2, 99	..	..
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1894-1944.....F A*	..	....	..	....	111⅜	No 3, 99	..	..
St. L. M. B. T. gtd. g. 5s, 1930..A O	..	....	..	....	103	Oct 27,97	..	..
Tex. & Pac. E. Div. 1st g. 6s,1905.*M S	..	....	..	....	107	No 2, 99	..	..
Do 1st g. 5s, 2000.....*J D	111¼	Jan 4	111	Jan 3	111¼	Jan 6	112	112¼
Do 2d inc. g. 5s, Dec. 1, 2000....Mar	..	....	..	....	50	Oct 27,99	..	..
Do do Trust certificates.....	..	....	..	....	51½	No 20,99	..	..
Third Avenue 1st g. 5s, 1937.....J J*	..	....	..	....	127½	De 29, 99	..	..
Tol. & Ohio Cen. 1st g. 5s, 1935.....J J*	..	....	..	....	107	De 29, 99	..	..
Do West. Div. 1st g. 5s, 1935..A O*	..	....	..	....	103½	De 5, 99	..	..
Kan. & Mich. 1st gtd. g. 4s,1990.*A O	85	Jan 2	84½	Jan 2	84½	Jan 3	82	..
Tol., Peo. & W. 1st g. 4s, 1917.....J J*	78	Jan 3	78	Jan 3	78	Jan 4	78	..
Tol., St.L. & K.C. 1st g.6s,1916,tr.*J D	112	Jan 5	110	Jan 2	112	Jan 5	109	115
Tor., Ham. & Buf. 1st g. 4s, 1946..J D	..	....	..	....	99	Au 14,99	..	..
Ulster & Del. 1st con.g.5s,1928..J D	104	Jan 3	103	Jan 3	103½	Jan 6	103	104
Union El. (Chi.) 1st g. 5s, 1945..A O	..	....	..	....	109½	De 14, 99	..	..
U. P. R. 1st & ld. gr. g. 4s, 1947....J J*	102¾	Jan 2	102	Jan 3	102½	Jan 6	102	102¼
Do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	103¾	Oct 9, 99	..	..
Ore. R. & N. 1st 6s, 1909.....J J*	..	....	..	....	108	No 8, 99	..	..
Ore. R. & N. con. g. 4s, 1946...*J D	101¾	Jan 2	101	Jan 4	101¾	Jan 6	..	..
Ore. Short Line R. 1st g.6s,1922.*F A	130	Jan 6	126¾	Jan 2	130	Jan 6	..	..
Utah & Northern 1st 7s, 1908....J J*	..	....	..	....	121	Jne 18,98	..	.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Continued from Page 2.

year verified the favorable predictions made by observers of the market at the close of the year just ended, and gave promise of substantial betterment in nearly every quarter of that market. Transactions were not on any very large scale, but business was fairly well distributed, and generally the market was strong. Following the sharp advances of the last week in December, the past week brought some reaction from those figures, but these were more than counterbalanced by important net gains in a number of issues, distributed through the various sections of the market. In each of the groups of stocks were some issues showing substantial gains, the result of good buying and a relatively small supply of stock. Selling pressure developed in only a few cases, and even where stock was urgently offered it was, for the most part, well taken.

Confidence in the market seemed to be general and the events of the week tended to increase it. Relative ease prevailed in the money market, always a favorable factor, and as no ground appeared for predicting any great stringency in money rates, no apprehensions in this connection were felt. Stock Exchange market conditions naturally had their effect on the smaller market, but even when weakness appeared in prices of listed stocks, curb issues maintained considerable firmness. Among special influences one of the most favorable was the new conditions in the local gas situation, which, it is felt, has of late been very much improved. During the week several dividends became due and served to draw attention to the factor which in the markets of the next six months will be one of prime importance. A period will very shortly be reached where earning power of companies formed in the past year will be put to the test, showing returns on common stocks. During the period of stock flotations predictions of the most hopeful kind were made, and at that time readily believed. The test of these hopes is to begin shortly, and where they are to any considerable degree verified by actual earnings demonstrated by dividends notable increases in market values are to be looked for. It is, however, to be feared that overcapitalization will be followed by its natural result, and that among the many industrial and other companies which have come into existence during the past twelve months will be some that will be unable to show the earnings predicted for them. Prudence dictates that last year's unreasoning speculation in all classes of stocks be not repeated at this time.

Particularly prominent in the past week's trading were several of the local gas stocks. Considerable net gains were recorded in both issues of New Amsterdam Gas, as well as in the stock of the Standard Gas Company. The merger of the Consolidated Gas Company and of the New York Gas and Electric Heat, Light and Power Company was looked upon as an indication that the gas war has at last reached an end, and the strength of the curb gas stocks served to add some confirmation to this belief. Observers of the gas situation say that only details remain to be arranged between the several interests represented in the local gas industry, and that final settlement of the struggle that has been so bitterly carried on since last May may be reached almost at any moment. Buying of the local gas stocks was said to be of the best and resulted in considerable net gains. New Amsterdam common sold up to 24½, and closed at 23½ bid, an advance of 1 point, and the preferred stock closed at 47 bid, a net gain of 4 points. Bids for Standard Gas common were advanced from 90 to 100, and large amounts of stock were wanted at this figure. A net gain of 5 points was recorded in Standard Gas preferred, which closed at 125 bid, with practically no stock offered near that figure. Bids of 300 were made for small lots of Mutual Gas.

Several of the industrial stocks found a good market and closed with net gains amounting in several cases to as much as 3 points. American Woolen Goods common went to 25½ and closed at 25 bid, against 22 bid at the close of the previous week. For the preferred stock, which sold ex dividend, the closing bid was 80, showing a net gain of 3¼ points. Rubber Goods common advanced a point, to 20, but receded later in the week, while the preferred stock closed at 79 bid, showing a net gain of 2 points. Royal Baking Powder preferred gained over 2 points, and similar advances were recorded in several other issues. Distilling of America was one of the most active of the industrial stocks, as well as the one that showed the most irregularity. It advanced sharply early in the week on active trading, gaining over 4 points in the preferred. Later nearly all of this gain was lost, and it closed at 37¾ bid, showing a net gain of half a point. The common stock was more steadily, selling between 6¾ and 8 at the close it was quoted at the former figure, showing a net loss of half a point. Insiders are quoted as stating that the affairs of the company are in promising condition. It is said that the net earnings of the Kentucky Wharehouse and Distilling Company alone will be sufficient to pay the entire amount of the dividend on the preferred stock of the Distilling Company of America. Favorable impression was made by the opportunity offered by the company to the committee recently appointed by some of the stockholders to investigate the company's condition. Satisfaction was felt at the fact that it was thus made possible to carry on the investigation easily and without bringing about opposition on the part of the interests controlling the Distilling Company.

General Carriage came into prominence late in the week and was actively traded in from 2 up to 8. Particular interest attached to the stock, owing to the very extraordinary course which it followed last month. When the stock, which was held in a pool up to the beginning of the year, was liberated the bids for it fell from 200 to 2, and every evidence was given of the manipulative character of the phenomenal prices recorded in the stock at the close of last year. A change of officers was made during the week and some reports had as to the plans of the company. These, however, were not very definite, and as yet not much more is known in regard to the company's affairs than was known when the stock was being advanced at the rate of 50 points a day.

Standard Oil was notably active and strong. Many hundred shares of the stock were traded in, and after selling as high as 493 it closed at 488 bid, a net gain of 18 points.

Following are the latest quotations for securities not listed or inactive on the Stock Exchange. These quotations are compiled from reports made to THE NEW YORK TIMES by many of the most active and reputable commission brokers. Information is solicited from all persons interested. Address Financial Editor, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Banks.

	Bid.	Asked.
America	425	..
American Exchange	185	..
Astor	490	..
Bowery	285	300
Broadway	240	..
Central	175	185
Chase	425	..
Chatham	300	310
Chemical	3900	..
Citizens'	150	..
City	1800	..
Colonial	280	..
Columbia	190	..
Commerce	250	..
Continental	128	..
Corn Exchange	325	375
East River	130	..
Fifth National	225	..
Fifth Avenue	2800	..
First	3250	..
Fourth	170	..
Fourteenth Street	145	165
Gallatin	490	..
Gansevoort	..	80
Garfield	1500	..
German-American	115	..
German Exchange	235	260
Germania	325	..
Hanover	700	..
Hide & Leather	120	..
Home	120	140
Importers & Traders'	510	550
Irving	170	..
Leather Mfrs'	225	..
Liberty	310	..
Lincoln	750	..
Manhattan	235	275
Market & Fulton	215	240
Mechanics'	200	210
Mercantile	190	..
Merchants'	167	175
Merchants' Exchange	116	..
Metropolis	425	450
Mount Morris	200	..
Nassau	155	..
New Amsterdam	580	..
New York	245	265
New York County	1500	..
Ninth	88	95
Nineteenth Ward	100	..
North America	200	210
Oriental	190	200
Pacific	170	..
Park	..	500
People's	225	..
Phenix	105	..
Plaza	500	..
Produce Exchange	120	130
Republic	195	205
Riverside	210	..
Seaboard	275	..
Second	550	..
Seventh	160	..
Shoe & Leather	100	106
State of New York	128	..
Twelfth Ward	120	135
Union Square	210	..
Western National	325	..
West Side	375	..
Yorkville	210	..

Trust Companies.

	Bid.	Asked.
Atlantic	190	..
Bankers'	200	204
Brooklyn	400	..
Central	2100	..
Central Realty Bond and Trust	250	..
Continental	375	..
Farmers' Loan & Trust	1350	..
Fifth Avenue	400	..
Franklin	300	..
Guaranty	650	..
Hamilton	270	..
International B. & T.	125	..
Kings County	350	..
Knickerbocker	375	..
Manhattan	350	400
Manufacturers'	325	..

DIVIDENDS.

STEAM RAILROAD STOCKS.

Company and Period.	Amt.	Payable.	Books Close.	Books Open.
Atch., T. & S. F. pf. (semi-annual)	2½	Feb. 1	Jan. 5	Jan. 1
Atlantic Coast Line of Virginia	1	Feb. 1	Jan. 20	Jan. 1
Canada Southern	1	Feb. 1	Jan. 15	.....
Chatta., Rome & Southern pf	1	Feb. 1	Jan. 5	Jan. 17
Chicago Great Western pf. A	2½	Feb. 1	.....	.....
Chicago Great Western deb	2	Feb. 1	Dec. 21	.....
Chicago, R. I. & Pacific (quarterly)	1¾	Feb. 1	Dec. 21	Jan. 2
Chi., St. P., M. & Omaha (quarterly)	1	Feb. 1	Jan. 15	Feb. 15
C., R. I. & P. R. R. & O. pf. (semi-annual)	2½	Feb. 1	Jan. 15	Feb. 15
C., C., C. & St. Louis pf. (quarterly)	1¼	Jan. 2	Dec. 20	Jan. 20
Delaware & Hudson (quarterly)	2½	Feb. 15	Feb. 28	Mch. 15
Del., Lack. & Western (quarterly)	1¾	Jan. 20	Jan. 1	Jan. 20
Den. & Rio Grande pf. (semi-annual)	2	Jan. 15	Jan. 4	Jan. 17
Det., Hillsdale & Southwestern	3	Jan. 2	.....	.....
Fitchburg pf.	2	Jan. 15	.....	.....
Great Northern pf.	1¾	Feb. 1	Holders of record Jan. 15
Hocking Valley pf.	1½	Jan. 15	Dec. 4	Dec. 13
Lake Shore & Michigan Southern	3½	Jan. 20	.....	.....
Little Schuylkill Nav. & Coal	$1.25	Jan. 12	.....	.....
Michigan Central	2	Jan. 20	.....	.....
Minn. & St. Louis 2d pf.	2½	Jan. 15	Dec. 30	Jan. 15
Mine Hill & Schuylkill Haven	2½	Jan. 15	.....	.....
New York Central (quarter)	1¼	Jan. 15	.....	.....
Norfolk & Southern (quarter)	1	Jan. 10	Dec. 30	Jan. 11
Northern Central	4	Jan. 15	.....	.....
Northern Pacific	1	Feb. 5	Jan. 11	Jan. 23
Northern Pacific (extra)	1	Feb. 5	Jan. 11	Jan. 23
Pennsylvania & Northwestern	2	Jan. 10	.....	.....
Portland & Rochester	3	Jan. 15	.....	.....
Rio Grande West. pf. (quarter)	1¼	Feb. 1	.....	.....
St. Jo. & Grand Island 1st pf.	2	Jan. 31	Jan. 15	Feb. 1

STREET RAILWAYS.

Chicago Union Trac. pf. (quarter)	1¼	Jan. 20	.....	.....
Consolidated Trac., N. J. (annual)	3	Jan. 15	Dec. 30	Jan. 15
Cleveland City Ry. (quarter)	1	Jan. 10	Dec. 30	Jan. 10
Market St., San Francisco, (quarter)	60c	Jan. 10	Dec. 28	Jan. 11
Met. Street Ry., N. Y., (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 15	Dec. 28	Jan. 16
New Orleans City pf.	2½	Jan. 10	Jan. 1	Jan. 11

BANK STOCK.

Twelfth Ward	8	Jan. 15	Jan. 2	Jan. 15

TRUST COMPANIES.

Continental (quarter)	1½	Jan. 10	Jan. 2	Jan. 11
Real Estate Trust (semi-annual)	4	Jan. 20	Dec. 22	Jan. 2

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Citizens'	4	On demand.
Empire City	8	On demand.
Hanover	5	On demand.

MISCELLANEOUS COMPANIES.

Am. Iron & Steel	50c	Jan. 25	.....	.....
Amalgamated Copper (quarter)	1½	Jan. 22	Dec. 28	Jan. 22
Amalgamated Copper (extra)	1½	Jan. 22	Dec. 28	Jan. 22
American Bell Telephone (quarter)	3	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
American Bell Telephone (extra)	1½	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
Am. Car & Foundry pf.	1¾	Feb. 1	Jan. 10	Feb. 3
American Cement	2	Jan. 15	Jan. 10	Jan. 16
American Cement (extra)	1	Jan. 15	Jan. 10	Jan. 16
American Ice pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 15	Jan. 2	Jan. 16
Am. Pneumatic Service pf. (quarter)	75c	Jan. 20	Jan. 6	Jan. 20
Am. Smelting & Ref. pf. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 9	Dec. 27	Jan. 10
American Tobacco (quarter)	1½	Feb. 1	Jan. 15	Feb. 2
American Tobacco pf. (quarter)	2	Feb. 1	Jan. 15	Feb. 2
American Woolen pf.	1¾	Jan. 15	Jan. 4	Jan. 16
Ariz. East. & M. Smelt. (monthly)	2	Jan. 10	Jan. 1	Jan. 10
Boston El. Light (quarter)	2	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
Cent. & So. Am. Telephone (quarter)	1½	Jan. 8	Dec. 30	Jan. 9
Cloverdale Zinc Min. pf. (quarter)	2	Jan. 10	Dec. 31	Jan. 10
Consol. Zinc & Lead pf. (quarter)	2	Jan. 15	Jan. 8	Jan. 16
Diamond State Steel	4	Jan. 22	Jan. 13	Jan. 23
Emp. S.-Idaho M. & D. (monthly)	3	Jan. 15	Dec. 30	Dec. 15
Erie Tel. & Tel. (quarter)	1¼	Jan. 8	Dec. 31	Jan. 8
Exploration Syndicate	$2.50	Jan. 10	Dec. 26	Jan. 10
Federal Steel pf.	3	Jan. 20	Dec. 20	Jan. 6
Finance Co., Penn., 2d pf. (quarter)	$1.	Feb. 1	Jan. 20	Feb. 1
General Electric (quarter)	1½	Jan. 15	.....	.....
General Electric pf.	$3.50	Jan. 31	Jan. 15	Jan. 31
Havana Commercial pf. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 15	Dec. 30	Jan. 15
International Paper pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 21	Dec. 15	Jan. 2
Inter. Buttonhole Sew. Machine	1	Jan. 15	.....	.....
Madison (Wis.) Gas & Elec.	2½	Jan. 20	Jan. 10	Jan. 21
Mexican Telegraph (quarter)	2½	Jan. 15	Dec. 30	Jan. 16
Michigan Telephone	1¼	Jan. 8	Dec. 30	Jan. 8
National Biscuit (quarter)	1	Jan. 15	Jan. 1	Jan. 6
National Carbon pf. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 15	Dec. 30	Jan. 16
Nat. Gram-o-phone (monthly)	1	Jan. 26	Jan. 5	Jan. 16
N. Y. Mutual Gas Light	1	Jan. 10	Dec. 30	Jan. 11
N. Y. & N. J. Telephone (quarter)	1½	Jan. 15	Jan. 5	Jan. 16
N. Y. & N. J. Telephone (extra)	1	Jan. 15	Jan. 5	Jan. 16
New Orleans Gas Light	2½	Jan. 15	.....	.....
New York Air Brake (quarter)	2	Jan. 15	Jan. 5	Jan. 16
Pacific Coast (quarter)	1	Feb. 1	Jan. 10	Feb. 1
Pacific Coast 1st pf. (quarter)	1¼	Feb. 1	Jan. 10	Feb. 1
Pacific Coast 2d pf. (quarter)	1	Feb. 1	Jan. 10	Feb. 1
Parrot Copper M. me	$1.50	Jan. 10	Jan. 5	Jan. 13
Pennsylvania Steel pf.	1¾	Jan. 15	.....	.....
Philadelphia Co. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 20	Jan. 10	Jan. 20
Pittsburg Coal pf.	1¾	Jan. 25	Jan. 15	Jan. 26
Pressed Steel Car pf. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 15	Dec. 14	Jan. 15
Procter & Gamble pf. (quarter)	2	Jan. 15	.....	.....
Reece Buttonhole Mach. (quarter)	3	Jan. 15	Jan. 4	Jan. 16
R. I. Perkins H. S. pf. (quarter)	1	Jan. 15	Jan. 1	Jan. 15
Standard Underground Cable	2	Jan. 10	Jan. 4	Jan. 11
Stetson, J. B., (annual)	12	Jan. 15	Jan. 9	Jan. 16
Stetson, J. B., pf. (semi-annual)	4	Jan. 15	Jan. 9	Jan. 16
Streets West Stable Car Line	50c	Jan. 25	.....	.....
Union Switch Signal pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 20	Dec. 31	Jan. 11
United Fruit (quarter)	2½	Jan. 15	.....	.....
United Gas Improvement (quarter)	2	Jan. 15	.....	.....
United Shoe Machinery	2	Jan. 15	Dec. 19	Jan. 2
United Shoe Machinery pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 15	Dec. 19	Jan. 2
United States Rubber	1	Jan. 31	Jan. 15	Feb. 1
United States Rubber pf. (quarter)	2	Jan. 31	Jan. 15	Feb. 1
Va-Carolina Chem. pf. (quarter)	2	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
Wells, Fargo & Co.	3	Jan. 15	Dec. 30	Jan. 16
Western Union Telegraph (quarter)	1¼	Jan. 15	Dec. 20	Jan. 2
Westinghouse A. B. (quarter)	2½	Jan. 10	.....	.....
Westinghouse A. B. (extra)	5	Jan. 10	.....	.....
Wisconsin Telephone	1¾	Jan. 8	.....	.....

MEETINGS.

	Books Close.	Books Open.	Date.	Nature.
American Sugar Ref.	.....	.....	Jan. 10	Annual
American Tin Plate Company	Dec. 15	Jan. 16	Jan. 16	Annual
Astoria Light, Heat & Power Co.	Dec. 23	Jan. 9	Jan. 8	Annual
Bank of New York, N. B. A.	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Bank of the State of New York	.....	.....	Jan. 8	Annual
Bowery Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Brooklyn City R. R.	Dec. 30	Jan. 9	Jan. 8	Annual
Brooklyn Rapid Transit	Jan. 16	Jan. 27	Jan. 28	Annual
Chatta., Rome & Southern	.....	.....	Jan. 16	Annual
Chemical National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf	.....	.....	Jan. 8	Annual
Columbia Bank	Jan. 2	Jan. 10	Jan. 9	Annual
Consolidated Gas	.....	.....	Jan. 22	Annual
Eagle Fire Co. (N. Y.)	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
East River National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Fifth Avenue Trust Co.	.....	.....	Jan. 17	Annual
Fourteenth Street Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Garfield National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Greenwich Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 8	Annual
Hanover National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Importers & Traders' Nat. Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Irving National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Laclede Gas Light Co., St. Louis	.....	.....	Jan. 15	Annual
Laclede Gas Co.	Dec. 24	Jan. 24	Jan. 22	Special
Leeds & Catlin Co.	.....	.....	Jan. 16	Special
Lincoln National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Mechanics' National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Merchants' National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
National Bank of the Republic	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
National Broadway Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
New York National Exchange Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Nineteenth Ward Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 10	Annual
Pacific Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Pressed Steel Car	Dec. 14	Jan. 15	Jan. 9	Annual
Tradesmen's National Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
West Side Bank	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Western National	.....	.....	Jan. 9	Annual
Western New York & Penn.	Dec. 30	Jan. 9	Jan. 8	Annual
Wm. A. Miles & Co.	Dec. 30	.....	Jan. 8	Annual Trust Companies—Continued.

	Bid.	Asked.
Mercantile	800	..
Metropolitan	425	450
Morton	400	425
Nassau	175	200
N. Y. Life Ins. & Trust	1350	..
N. Y. Security & Trust	650	..
North American	..	150
Real Estate	300	..
State	400	..
Title Guaranty & T.	300	..
Trust Co. of America	200	204
Union	1400	1450
U. S. Mortgage & Trust	500	..
United States	1575	..
Washington Trust	305	..
Williamsburg	200	210

Ferry Companies.

	Bid.	Asked.
Brooklyn Ferry	28	30
Brooklyn Ferry bonds	90	93
N. Y. & Hoboken F.	65	68
N. Y. & Hoboken F. con. 5s	93	94
Tenth & Twenty-third Street	80	90
Tenth & Twenty-third St. bds.	105½	106
Union Ferry	39	40
Union Ferry bonds	100½	101

Insurance Companies.

	Bid.	Asked.
Citizens'	110	120
Commonwealth	100	108
Continental	520	..
Eagle	230	240
Empire City	85	90

Insurance Companies—Continued.

	Bid.	Asked.
German-American	500	520
Germania	280	300
Globe and Rutgers	..	100
Greenwich	170	190
Hamilton	105	110
Hanover	150	170
Home	225	230
Kings County	150	..
Nassau, Brooklyn	150	..
New York	90	100
Niagara	105	..
North River	145	150
Pacific	140	150
Peter Cooper	110	120
Phenix, Brooklyn	..	185
Stuyvesant	80	..
United States	120	125
Westchester	320	..
Williamsburg City	430	..

Street Railways.

	Bid.	Asked.
Atlantic Avenue con. m. 5s	112	114
Atlantic Avenue gen. m. 5s	106	108
Atlantic Avenue imp. 5s	99	101
Bleecker St. & F. Ferry stock	35	40
Bleecker St. & F. Fy 1st 7s	100	100½
Broadway & Seventh Avenue	235	237
Broadway & Seventh Av. 1st	104	105
Broadway & Seventh Av. 2d	110	112
Broadway Surface 1st 5s	117	118
Broadway Surface 2d	104	105
Brooklyn, Bath & W. E. 5s	102	103
Brooklyn City R. R. 1st m. 5s	115½	117
Brooklyn City Railroad	237	238
Brooklyn City & New. 1st	115½	117
Brooklyn El. bonds	103	103½
B'klyn, Queens Co. & Sub. 5s	109	111
Buffalo Crosstown 5s	112	115
Central Crosstown	270	300
Central Crosstown 1st 6s	125	130
Central Park, N. & E. River	198	..
Central Park, N. & E. River 7s	106	108
Christopher & Tenth Street	165	175
Cleveland Electric con. 5s	104	106
Coney Island & Brook. stock	325	330
Coney Island & Brook. 1st 5s	101	102½
Consolidated Traction of N. J.	58	60
Con. Traction of N. J. 5s	106	108
Columbus Railway	20	24
Columbus Railway pf	83	86
D. D., E. B. & B. stock	125	150
D. D., E. B. & B. 5s	115	117
D. D., E. B. & B. 5 p. c. scrip	100	102
Eighth Avenue Railroad	400	410
Eighth Avenue 6 per cent. scrip	108	..
42d St. & Grand St.	300	..
42d St., Man. & St. N. Av.	65	70
42d St., Man. & St. N. Av. 1st	115	117
42d St., Man. & St. N. Av. 2d	91	93
Kings County El. 4s, (new)	84	86
Nassau Elec. 1st 5s, (B'klyn)	109	112
Nassau Electric 4s	90	94
New Orleans Tr. com., (new)	28	30
New Orleans Tr. pf., (new)	102	104
Ninth Avenue	205	206
North Jersey Street Ry.	30½	32
North Jersey Street Ry. 4s	88	90
North Shore Traction com.	15	16
North Shore Traction pf.	85	87
Orange & Passaic Val. bonds	103	104
Rochester Railway	15	17
Rochester Railway con. 5s	109	111
Second Avenue stock	200	201
Second Avenue 1st m. 5s	107½	108½
Second Avenue consol. 5s	115¼	117
Sixth Avenue stock	205	210
Southern Boulevard 5s, 1945	111	114
South Ferry 1st 5s	106	108
Steinway R. R. Co. 6 p. c. 1st	115	117
Syracuse Rapid Transit	12	18
Syracuse Rapid Transit pf.	25	35
Twenty-third Street	395	410
Twenty-third Street deb. 5s	106	108
28th & 29th St. 5s, 1996	113	115
Union Railway 1st 5s	115	117
United Traction, Providence	112	113
United Trac., Prov., bonds	114	116
Westchester Electric 5s, 1943	109	111
Worcester Traction common	30	32
Worcester Traction pf.	104	106

Industrial and Miscellaneous.

	Bid.	Asked.
Acker, Merrall & Condit	100	102
Amalgamated Copper	84½	85
Am. Agricultural Chem.	31	34
Am. Agricultural Chem. pf.	76	79
American Air Power	35	50
American Bank Note	47	50
American Bicycle	15	20
American Bicycle pf.	45	55
American Bicycle bonds	92½	93½
American Press Association	75	85
American Type Founders	51	53
American Woolen Goods	25	25½
American Woolen Goods pf.	80	80½
Arizona Lead	10	10½
Asphalt of America	12¾	13½
Barney & Smith Car	10	13½
Barney & Smith Car pf.	90	95
Barney & Smith Car bonds	103	106
British Columbia Copper	10½	11¼
Central & South American Tel.	110	112
Central Fireworks	12	15
Central Fireworks pf.	52	57
Chesebrough Mfg.	345	360
Chicago & Alton subscrips.	103	105
Chicago & Alton 3s (new)	98	98
Consolidated Fireworks	10	..
Consolidated Fireworks pf.	70	..
Consolidated Rubber Tire	7	..
Consolidated Rubber Tire pf.	30	35
Cramps' Ship & Engine Bldg.	80	83
Distilling Co. of America	8	8¼
Distilling Co. of America pf.	27½	28¼
Electric Axle, Light & Power	5	5½
Electric Boat	24	27
Electric Boat pf.	35	40
Electric Vehicle	65	70
Electric Vehicle pf.	95	98
Electro-Pneumatic	1¼	1⅞
Flemington Coal & C.	20	..
General Chemical	59	65
General Chemical pf.	97	100
Havana Commercial	17	19
Havana Commercial pf.	59¾	61
Hecker-Jones-Jewell 6s, 1922	75	85
Hudson River Telephone	116	119
Illinois Transportation	3¼	4
International Pump	15	17
International Pump pf.	62	65
Lorillard pf.	108	111
Marconi Copper	6	7
Margenthaler Linotype	200	205
National Gramophone	59	63
National Salt	47	49
National Salt pf.	..	90
National Tube	44	45
National Tube pf.	91	96
New England Transportation	6¾	7
New York Transportation	11¾	13
N. Y. & N. J. Telephone	135	150
Otis Elevator	32	34
Otis Elevator pf.	87	90
Pitts., Bess. & L. E.	20	22
Procter & Gamble	395	405
Procter & Gamble pf.	190	200
Royal Baking Powder pf.	124	126
Rubber Goods	32	33
Rubber Goods pf.	87	91

INACTIVE STOCKS—LAST TRANSACTIONS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

The following table gives the range of prices in 1899 for stocks in which there have been no dealings during the past week:

Closing. Jan. 6. Bid.	Asked.	STOCKS.	Amount Outstanding.	Last Dividend.		Range in 1899 Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale
195	..	Albany & Sus.	$3,500,000	Jan., 1900	3½	*210	Oct. 13	*206½	May 11	*210	Oct. 13, 1899
..	..	American Bank Note	.....	Sept. 29, 1898	$1	.....	.....	.....	.....	*43	Mar. 5, 1896
140	150	American Coal	1,500,000	Sept. 1, 1899	4	150	July 27	*130	Feb. 3	145	Dec. 27, 1899
2½	4	American Spirits Mfg.	27,864,300	.....	..	15¼	Mar. 13	3	Dec. 20	3	Dec. 20, 1899
..	..	American Spirits Mfg. pf.	3,984,900	.....	..	41¼	Mar. 13	29	June 1	*24	Oct. 10, 1899
135	140	American Tobacco pf.	14,000,000	Nov. 1, 1899	2	150	Mar. 6	132	Jan. 4	136	Dec. 28, 1899
16	19	Ann Arbor	3,250,000	.....	..	19¾	Oct. 26	14	Apr. 29	*17	Dec. 15, 1899
..	..	At. & Charlotte Air Line	1,700,000	Sept. 6, 1899	3	.....	.....	.....	.....	*121	Nov. 28, 1898
..	..	Beech Creek	5,665,000	Jan., 1900	1	.....	.....	.....	.....	100	Oct. 31, 1898
105	..	Boston & N. Y. Air Line pf.	1,426,000	Jan., 1900	2	106½	Nov. 14	106½	Nov. 14	106½	Nov. 14, 1899
..	..	B'lyn Wharf & W. pf., Series B.	5,000,000	.....	..	21	Feb. 15	21	Feb. 15	21	Feb. 15, 1899
44½	58	Buff., Roch. & Pitts.	6,000,000	.....	..	59	Nov. 29	30¼	Mar. 24	55	Dec. 22, 1899
90	98	Buff., Roch. & Pitts. pf.	6,000,000	Aug. 15, 1899	1	103	Dec. 29	69	May 19	103	Dec. 29, 1899
115	..	Bur., Cedar Rap. & Northern.	5,500,000	Aug. 1, 1899	4	110	Jan. 31	100	Jan. 17	*110	May 22, 1899
..	93½	Capital Traction	12,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900	¾	94	Nov. 29	85	Feb. 20	93	Dec. 8, 1899
..	..	Central Coal & Coke	1,500,000	.....	..	.....	.....	.....	.....	28¾	Oct. 13, 1898
..	..	Chicago & Alton	18,764,000	Dec. 27, 1899	3	175½	Mar. 25	168	Jan. 11	171	Apr. 5, 1899
..	..	Chicago & Alton pf.	3,479,500	Dec. 27, 1899	2½	*190	Feb. 10	*182	Jan. 30	*188½	Feb. 15, 1899
170	180	Chi., St. P., Minn. & O. pf.	12,046,800	Aug. 21, 1899	3½	185	Sept. 1	170	Jan. 16	175	Dec. 8, 1899
..	..	Chicago Stock Yards	6,500,000	Jan. 2, 1900	4	.....	.....	.....	.....	102½	May 22, 1897
..	..	Chicago Stock Yards pf.	6,500,000	Jan. 2, 1900	1½	.....	.....	.....	.....	120	June 4, 1898
14	15	Cleve., Lor. & Wheeling	8,000,000	.....	..	10¾	Jan. 26	9	July 5	11	Dec. 19, 1899
185	..	Cleveland & Pittsburg	11,243,700	Dec. 1, 1899	1¾	188¾	Oct. 30	184½	Mar. 6	*188¾	Dec. 25, 1899
1½	2	Colorado Coal & I. Dev.	5,500,000	.....	..	5¾	Apr. 21	1⅛	Jan. 17	1⅝	Dec. 16, 1899
..	..	Col. Coal & I. Dev. pf.	500,000	.....	..	8¾	Apr. 21	2	Apr. 14	2½	Dec. 2, 1899
..	..	Col. & Hock. Coal & Iron pf.	636,700	.....	..	30	June 9	*10	Feb. 25	30	June 9, 1899
190	205	Commercial Cable	10,000,000	Jan. 2, 1900	2¾	194½	Nov. 18	188	Jan. 26	193	Nov. 21, 1899
50	..	Consolidation Coal	10,250,000	Feb., 1899	2	56	Mar. 23	52	Mar. 7	*50	Dec. 11, 1899
95	..	Des Moines & Ft. D. pf.	763,000	Aug. 1, 1899	7	110	June 18	80	Jan. 3	110	June 20, 1899
..	..	Detroit City Gas	2,944,300	Nov. 15, 1899	2½	101	Aug. 18	63	Jan. 4	97½	Dec. 26, 1899
400	..	Eighth Avenue	1,000,000	Jan., 1900	3¾	.....	.....	.....	.....	*362½	Oct. 3, 1898
16	18	Erie 2d pf.	16,000,000	.....	..	22½	Jan. 30	15½	Dec. 22	16¾	Dec. 27, 1899
..	..	Ft. W. & Denver City	2,555,000	Mar. 15, 1898	2	25	Jan. 5	14	Aug. 9	*16	Nov. 16, 1899
..	..	Fort Worth & Rio Grande	3,108,100	.....	..	30	Mar. 28	14	Feb. 4	21½	Oct. 21, 1899
..	..	Gold & Stock Tel.	5,000,000	Jan., 1900	1½	.....	.....	.....	.....	*108½	Dec. 14, 1897
..	..	Green Bay & Western	2,500,000	Feb. 15, 1899	1½	*45	Nov. 3	*30	Mar. 23	*45	Nov. 3, 1899
..	..	H. B. Claflin 1st pf.	2,600,300	Nov. 1, 1899	1½	*101	June 6	*89½	Jan. 31	*101	June 6, 1899
..	..	H. B. Claflin 2d pf.	2,570,600	Nov. 1, 1899	1½	*100	Feb. 28	*100	Feb. 28	*100	Feb. 28, 1899
..	..	Harlem	8,638,650	Jan. 2, 1900	4	*390	Mar. 14	*380	Jan. 25	*390	Apr. 12, 1899
..	..	Hawaiian Sugar	10,000,000	.....	..	120½	May 2	57½	Jan. 3	*105	May 20, 1899
65	73	Homestake Mining	21,000,000	Dec. 26, '99 50c	M	75	Sept. 6	60½	Feb. 10	*74	Dec. 20, 1899
98	..	Illinois Central leased line	10,000,000	Jan., 1900	2	*104	Nov. 8	*99¾	June 12	*103½	Dec. 4, 1899
3	4	Keokuk & Des Moines	2,000,000	.....	..	5¼	Feb. 1	3	May 9	3¾	Dec. 22, 1899
16	19	Keokuk & Des Moines pf.	1,524,600	Apr. 15, 1899	½	22½	Aug. 26	16	May 2	17½	Dec. 8, 1899
..	..	Keokuk & Western	4,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900	1	*32	Jan. 25	*30½	Jan. 16	*32	Jan. 25, 1899
..	..	Kingston & Pembroke	2,500,000	.....	..	9	Aug. 17	7¼	Nov. 9	7½	Nov. 9, 1899
..	..	Knickerbocker Ice (Chi.) pf.	3,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900	3	84	Feb. 17	70	Nov. 14	*67½	Dec. 11, 1899
8	10	Manhattan Beach	5,000,000	.....	..	39	Apr. 25	5	Jan. 25	8	Dec. 19, 1899
70	75	Maryland Coal pf.	1,876,000	Jan. 1, 1900	2	70	Sept. 28	58	Apr. 24	70	Dec. 29, 1899
..	..	Mergenthaler Linotype	10,000,000	Dec. 30, 1899	5	.....	.....	.....	.....	*152	May 31, 1899
25	27	Met. West Side El., Chi.	7,000,000	.....	..	29½	Nov.	14	Apr. 25	25	Dec. 28, 1899
75	77	Met. West Side El., Chi., pf.	9,000,000	.....	..	83	Nov. 24	44½	May 5	75½	Dec. 27, 1899
54	58	Minn., St. P. & S. S. M. pf.	7,000,000	.....	..	72	May 18	39	Feb. 10	53	Dec. 23, 1899
183	186	Morris & Essex	15,000,000	Jan., 1900	3½	185½	Nov. 13	176	Jan. 3	*184	Dec. 8, 1899
..	..	Nash., Chat. & St. L.	10,000,000	Nov. 1, 1898	1	*62	Dec. 15	*62	Dec. 15	*62	Dec. 15, 1899
..	..	National Linseed Oil	1,000,000	.....	..	9½	Jan. 14	3½	June 9	3½	June 9, 1899
2½	3¼	National Linseed Oil certs.	.....	.....	..	8½	Jan. 7	2	July 13	*3	Dec. 15, 1899
5	..	National Starch Mfg.	5,000,000	.....	..	9	Nov. 2	4½	Mar. 17	8¼	Nov. 15, 1899
60	..	Nat. Starch Mfg. 1st pf.	3,000,000	May 1, 1898	2	70	Oct. 27	43	Apr. 26	65	Nov. 9, 1899
15	..	National Starch 2d pf.	2,500,000	Oct., 1896	6	25	Oct. 16	13	Mar. 17	25	Nov. 15, 1899
35	40	New Central Coal	1,000,000	Oct. 2, 1899	2	42	Jan. 25	36	Oct. 27	36	Oct. 27, 1899
..	..	New York Mutual Gas	3,500,000	Oct. 10, 1899	3	.....	.....	.....	.....	*350	Nov. 16, 1897
130	134	N. Y., Lack. & West	10,000,000	Jan., 1900	1¼	133	June 7	129½	Jan. 27	132½	Dec. 8, 1899
..	..	New Jersey & New York Tel.	5,000,000	Oct. 14, 1899	1½	.....	.....	.....	.....	*124	Jan. 28, 1897
..	..	Norfolk & Southern	2,000,000	Oct. 10, 1899	1	88⅞	Nov. 6	70	May 15	88⅞	Nov. 14, 1899
..	..	Omaha & St. Louis	621,900	.....	..	*7	Aug. 18	*5	May 26	*7	Nov. 6, 1899
..	..	Oregon R. R. & Navigation	17,763,700	July 2, 1898	..	52	Jan. 23	33	June 2	*45	Nov. 13, 1899
..	..	Oregon R. R. & Navigation pf.	2,489,800	Jan. 2, 1900	2	77¾	Sept. 22	68¾	June 16	75½	Oct. 7, 1899
..	..	Panama	7,000,000	Jan. 3, 1896	2	.....	.....	.....	.....	*95	Sept. 22, 1897
..	..	Park Steel Co. pf.	5,000,000	Dec. 1, 1898	1¾	*110	June 26	*110	June 26	*110	June 26, 1899
580	..	Pennsylvania Coal	5,000,000	Nov. 1, 1899	4	*375	June 17	*362	Feb. 10	*375	June 17, 1899
..	..	Philadelphia Company	7,500,000	Sept. 1, 1899	2½	102	Mar. 3	85	July 24	85	Aug. 7, 1899
..	..	P. Lorillard pf.	2,000,000	Jan. 2, 1900	2	121	Jan. 16	*117	May 16	*117	May 16, 1899
185	..	Pitts., Ft. Wayne & Chicago	19,714,200	Jan. 1, 1900	1¾	190	Aug. 25	180	Jan. 10	*184	Dec. 23, 1899
..	..	Pitts., McKeesport & Yough.	4,000,000	Jan., 1900	3	*137	Mar. 3	*137	Mar. 3	*137	Mar. 3, 1899
2	2½	Quicksilver	5,708,700	.....	..	4	Apr. 13	2	Aug. 9	2	Dec. 28, 1899
190	..	Rens. & Saratoga	10,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900	4	*200¼	Dec. 11	*187	Feb. 14	*200¼	Dec. 11, 1899
..	..	Rio Grande Western	10,000,000	Sept. 5, 1899	1	44	Nov. 27	25½	Jan. 4	43	Dec. 13, 1899
81	85	Rio Grande Western pf.	6,800,000	Nov. 1, 1899	1¼	90½	Nov. 27	66	Jan. 3	81	Dec. 29, 1899
130	..	Rome, Watertown & Ogdens.	10,000,000	Nov. 15, 1899	1¼	130½	Jan. 26	129¾	Mar. 1	*134	Dec. 5, 1899
15½	17	St. J. & Grand Island 2d pf.	3,500,000	.....	..	18	Oct. 26	9	June 1	15	Dec. 23, 1899
100	104	St. Paul & Duluth pf.	4,999,600	Sept., 1899	3½	106	Jan. 23	98½	Jan. 5	*104	Dec. 26, 1899
58½	59½	Silver Bullion certificates	.....	.....	..	65	Apr. 28	58⅝	Dec. 22	58⅝	Dec. 22, 1899
200	..	Sixth Avenue	2,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900	3½	*200	Mar. 2	*200	Mar. 2	*200	Mar. 10, 1899
..	..	Standard Gas	5,000,000	June 3, 1899	1	.....	.....	.....	.....	*147	Jan. 22, 1898
..	..	Standard Gas pf.	3,721,100	June 30, 1899	3	.....	.....	.....	.....	*144½	Jan. 24, 1898
..	..	Southern & Atlantic Tel.	559,525	Jan., 1900	2½	.....	.....	.....	.....	100	Feb. 17, 1898
..	..	Texas Central	2,649,400	.....	..	.....	.....	.....	.....	10	July 13, 1897
..	..	Texas Central pf.	1,324,500	Jan. 16, 1899	4	.....	.....	.....	.....	*40½	Feb. 5, 1897
..	..	Texas Pacific Land Trust	10,370,000	.....	..	15½	Jan. 7	11	Nov. 10	12½	Dec. 19, 1899
20	25	Tol. & Ohio Central	6,550,000	Nov. 15, 1893	1½	25	Jan. 25	20	Jan. 21	24	Nov. 20, 1899
40	50	Tol. & Ohio Central pf.	3,705,000	July 25, 1896	1½	45	Dec. 2	35	Jan. 25	45	Dec. 2, 1899
..	..	Tol., St. L. & Kansas City pf.	5,805,000	.....	..	5	Nov. 14	5	Nov. 14	5	Nov. 14, 1899
..	..	Union Ferry	3,000,000	Jan. 2, 1900	½	.....	.....	.....	.....	64	July 13, 1897
..	..	United N. J. R. R. & Canal	21,240,400	Oct. 10, 1899	2½	.....	.....	.....	.....	*215½	Mar. 15, 1897
..	20	U. S. Flour Milling	3,000,000	.....	..	58½	Sept. 15	12	Mar. 6	*12	Nov. 21, 1899
12	35	U. S. Flour Milling pf.	5,000,000	.....	..	78½	Sept. 15	12	Dec. 5	12	Dec. 20, 1899
160	..	Utica & Black River	2,223,000	Sept. 1, 1899	3½	.....	.....	.....	.....	165	Oct. 20, 1897
..	..	Warren Railroad	1,800,000	Jan., 1900	3½	.....	.....	.....	.....	*174	Nov. 11, 1898
120	130	Wells-Fargo Express	8,000,000	July 15, 1899	3	185½	Sept. 6	124	Dec. 16	124	Dec. 16, 1899
..	..	West Chicago Street	13,189,000	Nov. 15, 1899	1½	120	Aug. 8	120	Aug. 8	120	Aug. 8, 1899
..	..	Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg.	8,813,000	.....	..	.....	.....	.....	.....	*68	Sept. 23, 1898
..	..	Western Gas	4,000,000	July 20, 1899	3	98	Jan. 30	93½	Mar. 6	*98	Mar. 15, 1899

*Sales of less than 100 shares. †And $12.50 extra. All stocks in this table par $100 except Beech Creek, Cleveland and Pittsburg, Detroit City Gas, Harlem, Morris and Essex, Pittsburg, McKeesport & Youghiogheny, Pennsylvania Coal, Warren Railroad, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia Company, and Kingston & Pembroke, the par of each of which is $50. New Central Coal is $20 par, American Coal $25 par, and Southern & Atlantic Telegraph $25 par.

Industrial and Miscellaneous—Continued.

	Bid.	Asked.
Singer Manufacturing	690	700
Sloss-Sheffield	31	34
Sloss-Sheffield pf.	69	71
Standard Coupler	38	41
Standard Oil	488	493
Storage Power	14	14¼
Swift & Co.	100	101
Swift & Co. 1st 6s	106	108
Tennessee Copper	13¾	15
Texas Pacific Coal	70	..
Texas Pacific Coal 6s, 1908	107	..
Union Typewriter	24	26
Union Typewriter 1st pf.	110	13
Union Typewriter 2d pf.	120	122
United Shoe Machinery	32	33
United Shoe Machinery pf.	24	24½
U. S. Pneumatic Horse Collar	¼	½
Virginia Coal, Iron & C.	28	30
Virginia C., I. & C. 5s, 1949	63	67
Westinghouse Air Brake	390	410

Gas Companies.

	Bid.	Asked.
Bay State	1¼	1⅝
Buffalo City	5	8
Buffalo City 6s, 1947	73	76
Central Union 5s, 1927	103	105
Consumers' Gas (J. C.) bonds	104	106
Denver Gas	41	48
Denver Gas 5s, 1949	102	104
Fort Wayne	38	45
Fort Wayne bonds	90	95
Grand Rapids	98	100
Grand Rapids 1st 5s, 1915	103	105
Ind. Natural & Ill.	40	45
Ind. Natural & Ill. bonds	60	65
Indianapolis	100	105
Indianapolis 1st 6s, 1920	103	105
Lafayette	38	45
Lafayette bonds	60	65
Logansport & Wabash Val.	38	42
Logansport & Wab. Val. bonds	60	65
Madison (Wis.)	37	40
Madison (Wis.) 1st 6s, 1925	57	62

Gas Companies—Continued.

	Bid.	Asked.
Mutual	300	305
New Amsterdam	23½	24½
New Amsterdam pf.	47	50
New Amsterdam 5s, 1948	94¾	95¼
N. E. Gas & Coke	22	24
N. E. Gas & Coke 5s, 1937	74	75
N. Y. & E. R. 1st 5s, 1944	108	111
N. Y. & E. R. con. 5s, 1945	106	109
Ohio & Indiana	38	45
Ohio & Indiana bonds	60	65
St. Joseph (Mo.)	40	43
St. Joseph (Mo.) 1st 5s, 1937	94	96
St. Paul (Minn.)	52	56
Standard (New York)	100	105
Standard pf.	125	..
Standard 1st 5s, 1930	115	117
Syracuse	14	16
Syracuse 1st 5s, 1946	85	90
Western (Milwaukee)	102	105
Western col. tr. 1st 5s, 1933	102	105

ON THE LONDON EXCHANGE.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Prices on the Stock Exchange last week were very irregular. They opened well, but fell off on German selling. This was followed by an improvement, owing to easy money, and the closing figures were rather better than the worst, although somewhat weak on the renewal of Berlin selling, with consols ¼ lower.

Americans suffered most from Berlin selling. Among the declines were Louisville and Nashville, which fell 1¾ points; Baltimore and Ohio, 1¼; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé preferred, 1¼; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, 1¼; New York Central and Hudson River, 1; Norfolk and Western common, ⅝; Union Pacific, ⅝, and Southern Pacific, ¼. Other Americans suffered a decline of from ¼ to ⅝.

CLEARING HOUSE COMPARISONS.

The following table gives the aggregate of the exchanges and balances at the New York Clearing House every week for a year past:

	Exchanges.	Balances.
*Jan. 6	$1,146,168,226	$62,735,507
*Dec. 30	949,902,645	46,539 989
Dec. 23	1,424,303,943	58,302,736
Dec. 16	1,349,644,028	51,807,123
Dec. 9	1,114,066,433	45,117,036
*Dec. 2	1,089,136,980	46,097,791
Nov. 25	1,086,762,288	53,682,106
Nov. 18	1,263,834,833	55,840,585
*Nov. 11	1,091,754,707	57,124,088
Nov. 4	1,284,266,145	54,074,678
Oct. 28	1,089,020,146	54,075,280
Oct. 21	1,202,533,092	56,925,986
Oct. 14	1,166,902,485	53,281,186
Oct. 7	1,450,652,632	66,504,739
*Sept. 30	749,234,101	38,014,302
Sept. 23	1,330,038,268	58,354,915
Sept. 16	1,098,748,288	43,451,021
*Sept. 9	886,526,474	43,742,432
Sept. 2	933,538,272	53,235,983
Aug. 26	972,668,143	44,757,894
Aug. 19	965,519,783	49,330,721
Aug. 12	906,780,544	47,310,779
Aug. 5	1,029,869,475	54,447,146
July 29	875,946,085	57,845,059
July 22	980,471,913	53,532,502
July 15	1,196,836,402	63,685 319
*July 8	1,026,944,853	64,483,370
July 1	1,185,838,116	66,453,488
June 24	945,738,533	52,452,896
June 17	1,187,462,946	66,904,470
June 10	1,089,203,594	56,814,127
*June 3	934,342,888	56,274,907
May 27	1,231,015,611	60,939,059
May 20	1,245,202,059	69,891,513
May 13	1,384,833,511	77,221,284
May 6	1,639,472,963	72,052,491
April 29	1,201,119,390	67,762,955
April 22	1,362,910,810	77,762,583
April 15	1,424,346,265	82,334,464
April 8	1,353,060,641	77,379,938
April 1	1,268,379,167	90,915,094
March 25	1,247,937,065	74,448,286
March 18	1,246,322,730	67,781,545
March 11	1,201,679,387	76,573,356
March 4	1,392,090,360	74,090,201
*Feb. 25	1,173,231,495	50,387,272
*Feb. 18	905,777,052	50,387,322
Feb. 11	1,133,485,098	54,980,394
Feb. 4	1,328,431,206	70,245,718
Jan. 28	1,494,422,685	67,381,624
Jan. 21	1,409,245,946	69,177,497
Jan. 14	1,241,904,887	72,464,893
Jan. 7	1,192,815,643	78,440,536

*Three days. †Four days.

REDMOND, KERR & CO.,

BANKERS, 41 WALL STREET, N. Y.
MEMBERS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

Transact a general banking business. Receive deposits subject to draft. Dividends and interest collected and remitted. Act as Fiscal Agent for and negotiate and issue loans of railroads, mining, railways, gas companies, etc. Securities bought and sold on commission.

DEAL IN HIGH-GRADE INVESTMENT SECURITIES.

Lists of current offerings sent on application.
Philadelphia Correspondents, GRAHAM, KERR & CO.

The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company,

NEW YORK.
NOS. 16, 18, 20 & 22 WILLIAM STREET.
CHARTERED 1822.

Capital, $1,000,000.00 Surplus, $5,525,000.00

EDWIN S MARSTON, President.
THOS. J. BARNETT, 2d Vice-President.
SAMUEL SLOAN, Jr., Secretary.
AUGUSTUS V. HEELY, Asst. Secy.

Samuel Sloan,	James Stillman,	Moses Taylor Pyne,
William Waldorf Astor,	Edward R. Bell,	S. S. Palmer,
James Roosevelt,	Henry A. C. Taylor,	Edward R. Bacon,
D. O. Mills,	D. H. King, Jr.,	H. Van Rensselaer Kennedy,
Robert F. Ballantine,	Henry Hents,	Cleveland H. Dodge,
Franklin D. Locke,	Robert C. Boyd,	John L. Riker,
George F. Baker	E. R. Holden,	Daniel S. Lamont,
Charles A. Peabody, Jr.,	William Rowland,	A. G. Agnew,
Hugh D. Auchincloss,	Edwin S. Marston,	Archibald D. Russell.

BOODY, McLELLAN & CO.,

BANKERS.
MEMBERS OF THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.
INVESTMENT SECURITIES.
Cable Address, "Geskite." 57 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
ALLOW INTEREST ON DEPOSITS SUBJECT TO CHECK.

Tunstall & Co.,

Members of the New York Stock Exchange,
52 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Stocks and Bonds bought and sold for cash or carried on margin.
Market Letter on Application.
Telephones No. 1492 and No. 830 Broad.

36 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK.

Fisk & Robinson

BANKERS
Investment Securities

HARVEY EDWARD FISK,
GEORGE H. ROBINSON
Member New York Stock Exchange.

SEYMOUR, JOHNSON & CO.

Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
EMPIRE BUILDING,
NEW YORK.
Direct private wires to all principal cities.
Telephone 4160-4164 CORTLANDT.

A. A. HOUSMAN & CO.,

MEMBERS OF THE
NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE,
20 BROAD STREET,
Branch Office, No. 2 Astor Court,
NEW YORK.

Sutro Bros. & Co.,

BANKERS.
56 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Negotiate Security Issues of Railroad, Street Railway, Gas, Electric, and other Companies, and transact a General Banking Business.
Investment Securities.
Private wire connection to Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Atlantic City.
Members New York and Phila. Stock Exchanges.
H. F. Bachman & Co., Philadelphia.

Dominick & Dominick,

100 BROADWAY.
Members of the N. Y. Stock Exchange.
Brokers in Stocks, Grain, Investment Securities.

Boston.	Louisville.	Cincinnati.
Curtis & Motley	Halsey & Halsey,	Branch Office,
53 State St.	225 Fifth St.	334 Walnut St.

PRIVATE WIRES.

HAVEN & STOUT

Bankers and Brokers.
Nassau Street Cor. Wall St.
Members of
N. Y. Stock Exchange, N. Y. Cotton Exchange,
N. Y. Produce Exchange, Chicago Board of Trade.
Branch Offices:
309 Broadway, cor. Duane St., New York.
84 Broadway, cor. Berry St., Brooklyn.

A. M. Kidder & Co

BANKERS, 18 WALL ST., N. Y.
Dealers in Investment Securities.
Members of the New York Stock Exchange.

P. J. Goodhart & Co.,

Dealers in
Bank & Trust Co. Stocks.
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
35 WALL STREET.

JAMES P. GEDDES,

Unlisted Stocks and Bonds,
INVESTMENT SECURITIES.
MILLS BUILDING,
Telephone, 1875 Cortlandt. Broad Street, NEW YORK.

FOREIGN BANK HOLDINGS.

The following is a comparison of the average of bullion in the principal European banks last week and at the corresponding date last year. The figures are received weekly by cable by The Commercial and Financial Chronicle:

	Gold.	Silver.
BANK OF ENGLAND.
Jan. 4. 1900	£32,125,076	.....
Jan. 5. 1899	30,340,823	.....
BANK OF FRANCE.
Jan. 4. 1900	74,612,101	£45,882,853
Jan. 5. 1899	72,461,305	47,805,916
BANK OF GERMANY.
Jan. 4. 1900	23,130,000	11,915,000
Jan. 5. 1899	25,734,000	13,258,000
RUSSIA.
Jan. 4. 1900	86,969,000	5,399,000
Jan. 5. 1899	99,143,000	4,050,000
AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.
Jan. 4. 1900	39,301,000	10,608,000
Jan. 5. 1899	35,940,000	12,384,000
SPAIN.
Jan. 4. 1900	13,600,000	14,499,000
Jan. 5. 1899	11,092,000	7,833,000
ITALY.
Jan. 4. 1900	15,462,000	1,501,000
Jan. 5. 1899	14,926,000	2,342,000
NETHERLANDS.
Jan. 4. 1900	3,700,000	5,986,000
Jan. 5. 1899	4,315,000	6,787,000
BELGIUM.
Jan. 4. 1900	2,886,000	1,443,000
Jan. 5. 1899	3,095,000	1,548,000
Total for week	£291,799,167	£97,233,853
Total preceding week	289,992,558	98,510,853
Corresponding date last year	297,017,418	96,018,916

FOREIGN TRADE FIGURES.

Following are the returns of foreign commerce at the Port of New York for the week ended Friday last, as compared with the corresponding week last year. In the case of the exports of general merchandise the returns are for the week ended Tuesday:

Imports of Dry Goods and General Merchandise.
Week ended Jan. 5, 1900	$10,238,913
Week ended Jan. 6, 1899	9,869,259
Exports of General Merchandise.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$9,020,571
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	7,544,258
Imports of Gold.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$9,782
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	16,388
Exports of Gold.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$2,687,932
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	1,057,062
Net Exports of Gold.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$2,678,170
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	1,040,664
Imports of Silver.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$40,260
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	32,766
Exports of Silver.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$829,701
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	1,915,635
Net Exports of Silver.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$789,441
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	982,889
Total Imports of Specie.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$50,022
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	49,154
Total Exports of Specie.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$3,517,633
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	2,072,707
Total Net Exports of Specie.
Week ended Jan. 2, 1900	$3,467,611
Week ended Jan. 3, 1899	2,023,553

Government and Municipal Bonds

BOUGHT AND SOLD.
Also First Mortgage Bonds of Established Railways.

APPRAISEMENTS MADE OR QUOTATIONS FURNISHED FOR THE PURCHASE, SALE OR EXCHANGE OF ABOVE SECURITIES.

LISTS ON APPLICATION.

N. W. Harris & Co., Bankers,

NEW YORK, CHICAGO, BOSTON.
31 Nassau St., (Bank of Commerce Bldg.,) N. Y.

Spencer Trask & Co.,

BANKERS,
27 & 29 PINE ST., NEW YORK,
Transact a general banking business; act as fiscal agents for corporations, and negotiate security issues of railroads and other companies.
Execute commission orders and deal in
INVESTMENT SECURITIES.
Members of New York Stock Exchange.
BRANCH OFFICE: 67 STATE ST., ALBANY

VERMILYE & CO.,

BANKERS.
NASSAU AND PINE STREETS, NEW YORK CITY.
13 CONGRESS STREET, BOSTON.
Dealers in U. S. Government Bonds and other Investment Securities.
Deposits Received and Interest Allowed on Balances Subject to draft at sight.

CITY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK,

30 WALL STREET.

CAPITAL ..... $1,000,000.00 SURPLUS $1,000,000.00
(Entirely Invested in City of New York Bonds)
Statement December 30th, 1899.

RESOURCES:		LIABILITIES:
N. Y. City Bonds	$1,095,000.00	Capital	$1,000,000.00
Other Bonds and Securities	264,505.00	Surplus	1,000,000.00
Bonds and Mortgages	36,000.00	Undivided Profits	181,277.23
Loans on Collaterals	8,340,796.87	Deposits:
Bills Purchased	328,917.17	General $9,647,818.86
Cash in Vault and Banks	1,965,853.44	In Trust 227,150.72
Overdrafts	30.68		9,874,969.58
Furniture and Fixtures	14,086.86	Interest, Taxes, etc. Payable	67,474.24
Interest, Commissions, etc., Receivable	78,531.23
	$12,123,721.05		$12,123,721.05

Began Business March 1st, 1899.

The Company acts as Fiscal and Transfer Agent, Registrar of Stocks and Bonds, and Trustee for Mortgages of Corporations; also as Guardian, Executor, Administrator, Trustee, Committee, Receiver, Assignee, etc.

The Company is duly designated by the Superintendent of Banks of New York State as a Depositary for State funds and for lawful money reserve of the Banks of the State; by the City Authorities, as Depositary for funds belonging to the City of New York; and by order of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York, as a Deposit Bank and Depositary for any money paid into Court.

Regular accounts are opened, which may be drawn upon by check payable at sight or through the New York Clearing House, and interest is allowed upon the daily balances.

Certificates of Deposit bearing interest are issued for any amount desired, payable either on demand or at fixed dates, as agreed upon.

Loans made on Bond and Mortgage on improved real estate in the City of New York.

Travellers' Letters of Credit and Drafts on all parts of the world furnished.

OFFICERS:
JAS. ROSS CURRAN, President. GEORGE R. SHELDON, 2nd Vice President.
JOHN D. CRIMMINS, Vice President. ARTHUR TERRY, Secretary.
WALTER W. LEE, Ass't Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

John D. Crimmins,	Charles V. Fornes,	Edwin Warfield,	Edward Eyre,
George R. Sheldon,	Bernard M. Shanley,	William Halls, Jr.,	William R. Grace,
William H. Gelshenen,	Peter Doelger,	Charles W. Morse,	Frank R. Lawrence,
Edward N. Gibbs,	James Roosevelt,	Henry O. Havemeyer,	Elverton R. Chapman,
Frank H. Platt,	James D. Layng,	Eugene Kelly,	Hosmer B. Parsons,
	Jas. Rose Curran.

The Corn Exchange Bank,

William and Beaver Sts., New York.
WILLIAM A. NASH, President.

Capital and Surplus	$3,000,000.00
Deposits	20,000,000.00

BRANCHES:

Broadway Branch,	Astor Place Bank,
Broadway & Spring St.	Astor Place.
Hudson River Bank,	Queens County Bank,
72d St. & Columbus Ave.	Borough of Queens.

FOURTH STREET NATIONAL BANK OF PHILADELPHIA.

Capital . . $1,500,000
Surplus . . 1,500,000
Deposits . 28,000,000

Harlbutt, Hatch & Co.,

BANKERS.
MEMBERS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.
71 Broadway, N. Y. City.
STOCKS and BONDS bought and sold for cash or on margin.
Interest allowed on deposits subject to check.
Telephone No. 1239 Cortlandt.

DOUGLAS & JONES

Members New York Stock Exchange.
ESTABLISHED 1880.
24 Broad St., New York City.

STOCKS AND BONDS BOUGHT AND SOLD ON COMMISSION AT THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE AND CARRIED ON MARGIN.
Daily Market Letter on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.

State of Michigan 3s.
Cl., Sandusky & Hocking R. R.
Rochester Gas & Electric Co.
Syracuse Rap. Trans. R'way.
Columbus Railway.
Union Typewriter Co.
SAMUEL H. BARROWS, 38 Broad St.,
Dealer in Municipal, Railroad, Traction, and Gas Securities. Telephone, 2825 Broad.

HATCH & FOOTE,

BANKERS,
No. 3 Nassau and 15 Wall St., N.Y.
ESTABLISHED 1867.
MEMBERS N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE.

The Mercantile Trust Co.,

NO. 120 BROADWAY.

Capital and Surplus, $6,000,000

Interest allowed upon Deposits.

OFFICERS:
LOUIS FITZGERALD, President.
JOHN T. TERRY, }
HENRY C. DEMING, } Vice Presidents.
ALVIN W. KRECH, }
ERNEST R. ADEE, Secretary.
J. D. OSTRANDER, Assistant Secretary.
WM. C. POILLON, Assistant Treasurer.

DIRECTORS:

Louis Fitzgerald,	Chauncey M. Depew,
John Jacob Astor,	Clement A. Griscom,
Marcellus Hartley,	George J. Gould,
John T. Terry,	A. J. Cassatt,
Eugene Delano,	Thomas T. Eckert,
J. Roosevelt Roosevelt,	James McCreery,
Henry G. Marquand,	Rudulph Ellis,
C. C. Cuyler,	James H. Hyde,
George L. Rives,	Charles H. Godfrey,
John E. Searles,	John W. Hunter,
Edward D. Adams,	James Stokes,
J. Hampden Robb,	Sidney Dillon Ripley
James W. Alexander,	Henry C. Deming,
William H. Slocum,	L. C. Weir,
George Coppell,	Henry B. Ely,
John J. McCook,	James J. Hill,
Oliver Ames,	Alvin W. Krech.
	Henry C. Frick.

THE STATE TRUST CO.

100 BROADWAY.
Capital and Surplus, $1,800,000

WALTER S. JOHNSTON, President.
WILLIAM A. NASH, }
HENRY H. COOK, } Vice Presidents.
H. M. FRANCIS, Secretary & Treasurer.
H. B. BERRY, Trust Officer.

TRUSTEES.

Henry H. Cook,	George Foster Peabody,
Edward H. Clark,	Forrest H. Parker,
Joel B. Erhardt,	Willis S. Paine,
Joseph N. Hallock,	Thomas F. Ryan,
Walter S. Johnston,	Elihu Root,
Andrew Mills,	R. A. C. Smith,
Edwin A. McAlpin,	H. H. Vreeland,
Thomas A. McIntyre,	William C. Whitney,
Anson G. McCook,	William A. Wheelock,
William A. Nash,	F. A. B. Widener.

Jas. H. OLIPHANT & CO

Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
20 Broad Street, New York.
Investment Securities.

George Barclay Moffat. Alexander M. White, Jr.

Moffat & White,

BANKERS,
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange,
NO. 1 NASSAU STREET.

DAILY, ONE CENT. SUNDAY, THREE CENTS.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

The New York Times.

THE WEATHER.
Fair; high north to northwest winds, diminishing.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.

VOL. XLIX...NO. 15,601. NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1900.—FOURTEEN PAGES. ONE CENT In Greater New York and Jersey City. Elsewhere, TWO CENTS.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

Stocks irregular.
Cash wheat, No. 2 red, 75⅛c; cash corn, No. 2 mixed, 40½c; cash cotton, 7 9-16c.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Morgan of Alabama spoke in opposition to the Pritchard resolution concerning racial restrictions on Southern suffrage. The Pettigrew resolution concerning the origin of the war in the Philippines, after being amended by Senator Lodge, went over till Wednesday. Senator Jones of Arkansas announced that the Democrats would not seek to delay the Currency bill. A bill was introduced in the House asking for more clerks in the Census Department. A bill amending the Dependent Pension act was passed by the Senate. A caucus will be held by the Democratic members of the House tonight.—Page 8.

FOREIGN.—Gen. White reports that he has repulsed a Boer attack at Ladysmith, inflicting heavy loss, after one position had been taken and retaken three times. A rumor that Gen. Buller has crossed the Tugela River, driving the Boers before him, is not credited in London. The Kaiser, it is said, will make a speech tonight outlining his views on the seizure of German steamers. The answer to the representations made to Lord Salisbury by Ambassador Choate relative to the detention of American flour has not yet been received. A dispatch from Rome says that Great Britain has ordered a number of guns from Italy. The Paris Temps, in an editorial, says that the United States has abandoned the Monroe doctrine. George Sheldon McCook, a nephew of Gen. McCook, died in Paris yesterday. The French warship Cecilie has arrived at Santo Domingo. Colombian rebels have taken two towns. Brazil has fifty millions in paper money to burn. Another attempt to undock the steamer Paris at Milford Haven yesterday resulted in failure. The forms of a new general treaty between Spain and the United States have been drawn.—Pages 3 and 7.

Page 1.

Samuel D. Greene, General Manager of the lighting department of the General Electric Company, was, together with his wife, drowned in the Mohawk River yesterday.

The entire Manhattan agency of the New York Life Insurance Company resigned yesterday, and joined the forces of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

The tax books for 1900 were opened for inspection yesterday. The natural increase in real values is estimated at $38,864,179. The tax rate, it is estimated, will be from 15 to 20 cents lower on $100 than in 1899.

There was a riot in the San Francisco City Hall yesterday when Tax Collector-elect Scott attempted to take his office. The former Collector is contesting the legality of Scott's election. One man was shot in the affray and may die.

Important conferences relating to the plans for the development of the various Vanderbilt railway systems by the acquirement of control of roads naturally tributary were held at the Grand Central Station yesterday. One result of the conferences was the resumption of dividend payments on the common stock of "Big Four."

Page 2.

Gov. Roosevelt yesterday received the report of the special commission appointed by him to investigate the canal question.

The joint caucus of the Iowa Republican legislators yesterday named Senator Gear to suceed himself.

Page 4.

The suit brought by Congressman Fowler against the Rapid Transit Commission and the City Government may be discussed to-day at a meeting of the board.

The spectacle of a battalion of firemen with charged lines standing in front of a blazing building unable to put a drop of water on the fire was witnessed last night on Twenty-sixth Street, near Sixth Avenue.

The suit of Charles C. Dupont against his wife, formerly Catherine Hughes, for the annulment of his marriage on the ground it was secured under duress, was dismissed by Justice Smyth in the Supreme Court yesterday.

Page 6.

Gen. Corbin believes the Lawton fund will reach $85,000. Over $67,000 is now in hand of reported.

The prison investigation being carried on in Cuba by order of Governor General Wood reveals an even worse state of things than exepcted.

Page 7.

A memorial service for Dwight L. Moody was held in Carnegie Hall.

The jury in the suit of Mary E. Howe against Mrs. F. A. Skinner for $24,750 for compensation for services as companion yesterday awarded the plaintiff $5,000.

At the meeting yesterday of the New York Presbytery, Dr. Birch, the Stated Clerk, announced that he would prefer further charges against the Rev. Dr. McGiffert.

Page 8.

The liquidation of the Broadway National Bank of Boston, under receivership, is to be proceeded with as rapidly as possible.

At the annual meeting of the Marine Society the action of Capt. George L. Norton against the Sailors' Snug Harbor management was sustained.

The President has created a military department constituting the Territory of Alaska, and has assigned Col. G. M. Randall to command it.

Governor General Davis of Puerto Rico appeared before the House Committee on Insular Affairs at Washington yesterday and made an exhaustive statement of the affairs of the island.

Page 9.

The Yale-Harvard boat races are to be held at New London on June 28.

Mayor Van Wyck yesterday signed the resolutions providing for the construction of two new bridges over the East River.

The Boston and Maine Railroad has suggested an arrangement to the Fitchburg Railroad by which the former would guarantee 5 per cent. on the preferred stock of the latter.

Mayor Van Wyck yesterday signed the resolution of the Municipal Assembly granting franchises in suburban districts to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company and the Third Avenue Railroad Company.

The State Board of Railroad Commissioners yesterday ordered the Manhattan Railway Company to complete the construction of the road from One Hundred and Seventy-seventh Street to Bedford Park, and to build a branch to West Farms.

Page 11.

Gov. Nash of Ohio in his inaugural yesterday called attention to the need for a check to be placed on corporations doing business in the State.

Deputy State Bank Examiner Johnson, who has been looking into the affairs of the Union County Bank of Rahway, N. J., yesterday issued a statement showing the resources and liabilities of the institution.

Judge Brown yesterday handed down a decision declining to adjudge the New York and Westchester Water Company an involuntary bankrupt.

Page 14.

The annual meeting of the Church Temperance Society was held yesterday.

The session of the Molineux trial yesterday was almost entirely given over to expert handwriting testimony.

The steamer Georgian arrived with the crew of the German steamer Ella, which foundered in a gale last Saturday.

A Belt line horse car fell into a deep trench yesterday in First Avenue, between Forty-first and Forty-second Streets. Five passengers were hurt.

The New York University Council yesterday appointed a special committee to consider the advisability of establishing a School of Commerce, Finance, and Accounts.

The annual meeting of the General Society, United States Daughters of 1812, was marked by flag presentations and an address on America's second great struggle with England by President Randolph Guggenheimer.

Amusements.—Page 5.
Arrivals at Hotels and Out-of-Town Buyers.—Page 2.
Business Troubles.—Page 9.
Court Calendars.—Page 12.
Insurance Notes.—Page 10.
Legal Notes.—Page 8.
Losses by Fire.—Page 2.
Markets.—Page 9.
Marine Intelligence and Foreign Mails.—Page 3.
New Corporations.—Page 11.
Railroads.—Page 9.
Real Estate.—Page 12.
Society.—Page 7.
Weather Report.—Page 2.
Yesterday's Fires.—Page 2.

VANDERBILTS IN CONTROL

Developments in Connection with Acquirement of "Big Four."

ATTITUDE OF PENNSYLVANIA

Important Conferences with the Vanderbilts—Dividend Payments on "Big Four" Common Resumed.

At the Vanderbilt offices at the Grand Central Station yesterday several important meetings having relation to the various plans for developing the Vanderbilt systems were had. Only one of these—that of the Directors of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Company—was formal. The others were in the nature of conferences between the Messrs. Vanderbilt and those who are nearest to them in developing and consummating their vast trunk-line plans. These discussions lasted until late in the afternoon. One of the day's results was the resumption of dividend payments on the common stock of "Big Four," which have been suspended since 1893. After the meeting of the board of this company, its President, Melville E. Ingalls, announced that he was having prepared a declaration that corroborates all that has been said of the plans of the Vanderbilts in regard to "Big Four" and Chesapeake and Ohio. On authority of the highest class, it can be stated that the "Big Four" is wholly controlled by stockholding by Vanderbilt interests and that at the meeting of its Directors yesterday definite plans were adopted for [illegible] over by the Vanderbilts and the Pennsylvania Railroad of the Chesapeake and Ohio. The acquisition of Lake Erie and Western by Lake Shore was also discussed at the informal meetings, at one of which President W. H. Newman of Lake Shore was present. Official announcement of the deal is likely to be made to-morrow.

BIG FOUR DIVIDEND.

At the "Big Four" meeting the Directors present were W. K. and F. W. Vanderbilt, Chauncey M. Depew, Melville E. Ingalls, H. McK. Twombly, George T. Bliss, and J. Pierpont Morgan. President Ingalls acted as Secretary, and he was very careful in delivering the minutes to C. F. Cox as soon as the meeting adjourned. All that he announced for publication was that the board had declared a dividend for the six months ended Dec. 31 of 1½ per cent., and that this could not be regarded as a semi-annual dividend, which if the prosperity of the "Big Four" continued, the rate for the six months ending June 30 might be at the rate of 4 per cent per annum. He said:

"The earnings of the 'Three C's' for six months showed $1,120,000 net. The dividend on preferred, 5 per cent. per annum, will absorb $250,000, and that on common $420,000, so that the surplus will be $450,000. At the meeting the Directors discussed the prospects of the road with me. They asked me about the outlook and if I thought we were going to continue to prosper, and I said I thought we would. As the ownership of 'Big Four,' the Vanderbilts are in the majority; in fact, for the last ten years there has never been a question among those familiar with its affairs about its being a Vanderbilt road.

"Chesapeake and Ohio? Well, that has not developed. Nothing done. All the deals that are accomplished or accomplishing are going to be of advantage to stockholders. As to myself, I am planning to retire from railroad business. I have worked hard and have been fortunate and am at a time of life when a man should rest and enjoy himself. I shall not be in a hurry to withdraw from the Presidency of the 'Big Four' and Chesapeake and Ohio. This may come in the course of a few months. When I retire none of the interests I have watched over will suffer through my withdrawing suddenly. As to the general railroad situation, the outlook is bright and there never was a time when the railroads exhibited a better disposition to maintain rates in entire harmony."

THE VANDERBILTS SILENT.

Other Directors at the "Big Four" meeting declined to discuss the proceedings, and there appeared to have been a "pass it around" policy agreed upon. Thus, Senator Depew said: "I'm not the man; go to Callaway. I know nothing." When asked about the meeting and such live topics as the acquisition of Lake Erie and Western by Lake Shore and the position of Chesapeake and Ohio, "Go to some bigger man than I," was the reply of H. McK. Twombly. "I am sorry, but I have nothing to say just now on any of these subjects," was the excuse of W. K. Vanderbilt. F. W. Vanderbilt appeared to be in good humor when he replied: "Oh, well, I can't say anything. I don't know what there is to talk about, or, rather, if anything should be talked about. Mr. Depew appears to be the proper man to apply to. I can't say whether it's proper or not to talk about these subjects which have been ventilated in the newspapers." Treasurer E. V. W. Rossiter declined to see any newspaper men. Ex-Judge S. E. Williamson, general counsel for the Central, said that he declined to talk because he was not informed on any of the subjects presented.

President S. R. Callaway, who had been closeted for a long time with President W. H. Newman of Lake Shore, left his office shortly after noon, to be absent for several days. All that he would say was, "I cannot talk on any of this business." Mr. Callaway's destination was, by his strict injunction, kept a secret. President Newman declined to discuss the affairs of Lake Shore.

An official having intimate relations with several of the Vanderbilt systems said of the control of Lake Erie and Western by Lake Shore: "That deal was arranged weeks ago at the Grand Central Station at a snap meeting. An authorized public statement may be made from a meeting called together in just such a way. No Lake Shore meeting has been scheduled, so far as I know. I know the exact data of the financial transactions which made the contract possible, but it would not be proper to give the figures just now. As to ratification of the deal by Lake Shore stockholders, that does not follow. It is not essential. The Directors can attend to all that business.—President Newman will no doubt succeed the late Calvin S. Brice."

PENNSYLVANIA'S ATTITUDE.

Another official having relations with the "Big Four" said:

"What was announced as the outcome of the meeting of the board to-day is a very meagre report of the proceedings. It can be stated without fear of contradiction that very decisive action was taken in regard to Chesapeake and Ohio and its relations to 'Big Four' and Pennsylvania. In fact, at this meeting and the conferences every subject bearing on the plans and development of the Vanderbilt interests was considered, and the various schemes are moving on the lines indicated in THE NEW YORK TIMES. Failure to announce results should not be regarded as indicating a hitch in any plan. All that concerns 'Big Four' and Chesapeake and Ohio will be consummated, and in due time will be announced.

"As to the attitude of Pennsylvania to Vanderbilt interests, take the recent purchases of Chesapeake and Ohio stock in the interest of Pennsylvania and the Vanderbilts, and the purchase of a block of Baltimore and Ohio stock by Pennsylvania, and the general plan of division of Vanderbilt and Pennsylvania interests with a perfect understanding and comity is better understood. Developments in the near future will establish the territorial jurisdiction of each system. It may be accepted as part of the general plan that Chesapeake and Ohio's headquarters will be at Philadelphia while 'Big Four' will for a time at least be run independently.

"One Vanderbilt rumor appears to have been disposed of by President L. Tuttle of the Boston and Maine in denying that the Vanderbilts have no holdings of its stock. This sets at rest the idea that the Central is a party to the leasing of the Fitchburg by the Boston and Maine."

Frederick W. Whitridge, Chairman of the Board of Directors, and, since Senator Brice's death, Acting President of Lake Erie and Western, said officially yesterday: "An announcement in regard to Lake Shore and Lake Erie and Western may be made officially at this office on Wednesday." Mr. Whitridge would not in any way discuss the subject.

GEN. THOMAS'S STATEMENT.

Gen. Samuel Thomas, who is a Director of Lake Erie and Western, said:

"The control of Lake Erie and Western by Lake Shore is as good as officially announced. The Vanderbilt people hold the resignations of all the Lake Erie and Western officials who will go out and could fill up a board at once. As to running Lake Erie and Western by Lake Shore, why, Lake Erie and Western has been run as a branch of Lake Shore for years, and when the new element is in charge the country people won't know the difference until they're told. As to the stock holdings acquired in Lake Erie and Western by the Vanderbilts, nearly all of them were acquired last Winter. Mine were sold long ago. Senator Brice's stock was picked up just after his death, in December, 1898."

Wall Street gossip yesterday named as new Directors of the Lake Erie and Western J. Pierpont Morgan, W. K. and F. W. Vanderbilt, and H. McK. Twombly.

The following statements of earnings of "Big Four" and Chesapeake and Ohio have a bearing on the reappearance of the former's common stock as a dividend payer and the importance of the latter to the Pennsylvania-Vanderbilt interests:

BIG FOUR, GROSS.

	1899.	1898.	Inc. over
Fourth week December	$505,472	$389,349
Month	1,504,455	152,053
From July 1	8,075,335	892,086

CHESAPEAKE & OHIO, GROSS.

	1899.	1898.	Inc. over
Fourth week December	$378,040	$56,863
Month	1,208,515	77,528
From July 1	6,786,660	527,961

The common stock of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis amounts to nearly $28,000,000. The high and low quotations for it in 1899 were 64¾ and 42½, respectively, and during the year the net gain was 17¾ points. The preferred stock, whose dividend is 5 per cent. per annum, amounts to $10,000,000. The extreme quotations last year were 108 and 94, and the net advance was 7 points. "Big Four" common closed yesterday at 63½, a decline of ½, and preferred at 108, a decline of 1½.

SECRETARY GAGE'S REPLY.

Will Show that the Depositing of Money in National Banks Is an Old Custom.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Secretary Gage's response to the inquiries by Representative Sulzer and others touching the deposits in the National City and other banks has been prepared with satisfaction to those members of the Administration who have interested themselves in the matter. It will be a history of practices not new, but which the Sulzer resolution indicated must be new to many persons. It is assumed at the Treasury that if Mr. Sulzer had not supposed that the Secretary of the Treasury was indulging in an unlawful, unusual, and hazardous proceeding when he allowed a bank to take control, even for a day, of so much as four millions of dollars of money intended to be deposited in the Treasury of the United States, no inquiry would have been made.

It has been found that among the newspapers about the country some of them have accepted the teachings of metropolitan papers inculcating the idea that the employment of National banks as depositories was a new practice, not authorized by law or guarded by check upon the banks. Some of the Southern newspapers have insisted that the practice was so reckless as to afford the banks the easy chance to run off with the deposits, and the report will show, as Secretary Gage has repeatedly shown, that every dollar of deposits is protected by a dollar of bonds deposited to secure the strict performance of every obligation by the depository banks.

As the conditions and circumstances under which deposits have been made for many years have been substantially the same, the resolution intended to direct attention to the National City Bank was enlarged, but the history of the recent increase of deposits in that institution will be revealed. It is possible that the report will exasperate some editors in the country who have relied upon secret information upon those who could have informed themselves if they had desired to do so, and who will in a way be made ridiculous by the thorough exposure of the Treasury practice that is contemplate by the Secretary.

RIOT IN SAN FRANCISCO.

One Man Shot, Perhaps Fatally, in the City Hall, When the New Tax Collector Tried to Take His Office.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—There was a riot at the City Hall at noon to-day, when Tax Collector-elect Scott attempted to take his office. One man was shot and others bruised in the fight that ensued.

Scott's election is being contested in the courts by Collector Sheehan, whose term expires to-day, on the ground that Scott has not resided here for five years, as required by the new charter. Last night Sheehan barricaded his office in the City Hall, expecting to defend his alleged rights. At noon Scott, accompanied by deputies, approached the Tax Collector's office. Scott, after reading his certificate of election, called upon Sheehan to turn the office over to him. Sheehan refused, and it is alleged that Scott struck him. This started the fight in which gas pipe, clubs, chairs, and pistols were used. The office was partly wrecked, and the fight was in full swing when a squad of police entered. Two officers made liberal use of their clubs before a semblance of order was restored.

One shot was fired, wounding John O'Brien, one of Scott's men, in the neck. The wound may prove to be fatal. Benjamin Solomon, a son of ex-Gov. Solomon of Utah, was arrested charged with having fired a shot, but was subsequently released. Charles E. Broad, one of Sheehan's deputies, is under arrest for assaulting a man with an ink stand.

Scott is now in possession of the office. The police are searching every person who attempts to approach the office, and are seizing all weapons found.

MINISTER STRAUS'S SUCCESS.

Sultan Promises to Restore College Buildings—Sends a Present.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Friends of education in Turkey, under American auspices, are pleased to learn that Minister Straus has recently prevailed upon the Sultan to extend a new indication of his favor for the United States. For about ten months Mr. Straus has been urging upon the Porte the propriety and justice of restoring the school and college buildings, eight in number, of the Euphrates College and mission schools at Harpoot. These buildings were destroyed in November, 1895, during the Armenian massacres, and from time to time representations have been made with the view of obtaining the irade which was issued in December. The Sultan at first refused point blank to grant the request, but the persistency of the Minister prevailed.

This is regarded as a more important victory than the recovery of the indemnity asked because of injuries arising from the massacres. As for those indemnities, it is understood that Minister Straus is confident that the Sultan will keep his thrice-repeated promise to pay them, and that it is only a question of a few months' time and the possession of the money before the full amount will be paid.

The Department of State will soon receive from Constantinople a pair of vases presented by the Sultan, to be deposited in the National Museum here. The vases are of richly painted porcelain, made at the imperial pottery, in the palace grounds.

Minister Straus left Constantinople Dec. 20, on his way home for a short leave of absence. After a stay of four weeks in Rome and other points in Italy, he and Mrs. Straus will sail from Genoa on the Columbia Feb. 3, to reach New York Feb. 13.

MAN AND WIFE DROWNED

Mr. and Mrs. S. Dana Greene Lose Their Lives While Skating.

Mr. Greene Was a Manager of the General Electric Company and an Officer in the Naval Militia.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Samuel Dana Greene, General Manager of the lighting department of the General Electric Company, was, together with his wife, drowned in the Mohawk River while skating this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Greene were last seen at about 5:30 P. M., when several boys who passed them on the ice heard Mrs. Greene suggest to her husband that they go further down the river, toward Freeman's Bridge, where she said the ice was better. About 5:45 o'clock a number of men who were at work in Proper's ice houses near the bridge, where an immense cut some 300 feet deep and extending from shore to shore had been made, heard a series of piercing screams.

Young Proper, with an assistant, immediately put out in a small boat, and after a short time Mrs. Greene was found. She was still alive, although unconscious, and was taken to the shore, where every effort was made to revive her. She died, however, a few minutes later.

At this time it was not known whether Mr. Greene was with his wife at the time of the fatality, but it was ascertained half an hour later that such was the case, and several large searching parties at once began to look for him. They were not rewarded until nearly three hours later, when the body was found a short distance from the spot where Mrs. Greene was picked up.

Samuel Dana Greene was a son of the late Commander Samuel Dana Greene, who was second in command of the Monitor when she fought the Merrimac, and in full command during the greater part of the battle, owing to the disablement of Capt. Worden. Gen. Francis V. Greene, who won fame in the Philippines, is Samuel D. Greene's uncle.

Mr. Greene entered the Naval Academy at Annapolis in June, 1879, and was graduated No. 1 in his class in June, 1883. On July 1, 1885, he received his commission as Ensign. He resigned from the service in 1888 to enter the electrical field, and became associated with Thomas A. Edison in the various companies with which the inventor was connected and which were merged in the General Electric Company, for which Mr. Greene was general manager of the lighting department. Prior to assuming this position he was Chief Engineer for the Sprague Electric Railway and Motor Company.

In 1891 Mr. Greene joined the Naval Militia, and when the war with Spain broke out was Chief of Staff of the First Battalion. He volunteered, and was ordered to the Yankee, on which vessel he served as Lieutenant (junior grade) until the conclusion of hostilities, when he was honorably discharged. He was then appointed Lieutenant Commander and Chief of Staff to Capt. Jacob W. Miller, commanding officer of the New York Naval Militia. When Gov. Roosevelt assumed office, Lieut. Commander Greene was selected to represent the Naval Militia on his staff.

When Mr. Greene was an Ensign in the navy, he became acquainted with Miss Cornelia Chandler, daughter of Rear Admiral Chandler, while the latter was visiting the vessel on which young Greene served. An attachment sprung up between the two young persons, to the great distaste of the Admiral, who apparently did not relish the idea of Miss Chandler marrying an officer of inferior rank in the service. He argued with his daughter in vain, and finally, finding entreaty of no avail, he took Miss Chandler across the ocean.

She remained in Europe for several seasons, while Mr. Greene, a definite understanding having been reached between the couple, left the navy and cast about him for a field in which to engage his talents. He soon had worked himself up to a position of responsibility and emolument. There was then no obstacle to the match, and the wedding followed.

$100,000 FOR COLUMBIA.

Gift by John D. Rockefeller Announced at a Meeting of University Trustees—Officers Elected.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of Columbia University, which was postponed from Jan. 1, was held yesterday afternoon in the Trustees' room of the library building. W. C. Schermerhorn presided. After routine business had been transacted it was announced that John D. Rockefeller had presented $100,000 to the university for the endowment of a Chair of Psychology. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Rockefeller.

President Low announced the following gifts: Five hundred dollars from the Temple Emanu-El for the Department of Oriental Languages, $800 from E. B. Holden, E. R. Holden, and F. A. Heinz for the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

President Low also announced that the Southern Society of New York has placed the Garden Library in the University Library.

The resignation of John F. Plummer, Assistant Secretary, was accepted, and Frederick Keppel of the class of '95 was elected to fill the vacancy. The following appointments were announced: Henry M. Howe, Professor of Metallurgy; W. A. Bentley, Lecturer in Metallurgy; Dr. H. E. Hale, Assistant Demonstrator of Anatomy; Dr. Ellsworth Elliott, Clinical Lecturer in Surgery.

A resolution was adopted appointing a committee of three, consisting of President Low, W. B. Parsons, and George G. De Witt, to encourage the construction of dormitories in the neighborhood of the University, to draft rules for the government of the same, to give them official recognition, and to suggest officers to supervise them.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members of the board viewed a handsome oil portrait of Duke de Loubat, which was recently hung in the President's office. The Duke has donated large sums of money to the university, among them being $1,100,000 for the maintenance of the library.

The election of officers of the board resulted as follows: W. C. Schermerhorn, President; John B. Pine, Clerk, and John McLane Nash, Treasurer.

ASKS FOR A WARSHIP.

Upon Request of the American Minister the Machias Is Ordered to Return to Santo Domingo.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The Machias has been ordered from San Juan to Santo Domingo. She left that place a few days ago to secure coal at San Juan, and it is deemed well to have a naval vessel on hand to protect American interests in case any trouble follows the attempt of the French commander at Santo Domingo to enforce the settlement of the pending French claim of $60,000.

It is not believed that there is any chance of any conflict between the French and American naval officers in the execution of their instructions, but apparently the United States Minister at Santo Domingo believes that in the interest of peace there should be a larger naval force than one vessel there during this exciting time. The news that success has attended a popular subscription to raise the $60,000 to pay the claim is also regarded as tending to avert danger of the adoption of forcible measures by the French warship's commander.

French Warships at Santo Domingo.

SANTO DOMINGO, Jan. 8.—The French warship Cecilie has arrived here. The Government has suppressed a proposed public demonstration considered by the French Consul to be injurious to France. The situation continues tranquil.

LEAVE THE NEW YORK LIFE

Four Hundred of Its City Agents Go Over to the Equitable.

MAY MEAN AN AGENTS' WAR

First Result of Mr. McCall's Declaration of the Abrogation of Agreements with Other Companies.

The entire Manhattan agency of the New York Life Insurance Company, including 10 offices and 400 agents, under the management of R. J. Mix, resigned yesterday and joined the forces of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. This action, which was unanimous, was taken at separate meetings which were held yesterday morning in the different offices of the agency. The jurisdiction of the agency very nearly includes the entire City of New York.

These wholesale resignations, which may mark the beginning of an agents' war between the two companies throughout the United States, constitute the first development in the situation, resulting from the announcement of President John A. McCall of the New York Life on Dec. 28 that the agreement between that company and the various other companies would be considered abrogated after Jan. 1.

The trouble dates back to the ineffectiveness of the anti-rebate compact, which was formed in 1895, and of which ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed was referee. About thirty life companies were at one time members of this compact. The Germania Life Insurance Company resigned its membership in 1898, and its action was later followed by the resignation of the John Hancock Mutual Life and several other companies. In each case the reason given by the retiring company was essentially a criticism of the value of the compact in preventing agents from giving away a large part of the first year's premium to policyholders in order to increase the business of their companies more rapidly.

The Equitable also withdrew from the compact last Fall, as a result of a determination to compensate its agents by a different method. Since that time the remaining members of the compact have held several meetings to consider what should be done. The day following the resignation of the Equitable, Second Vice President Darwin P. Kingsley of the New York Life practically admitted that the usefulness of the anti-rebate compact was at an end.

President James W. Alexander of the Equitable, at the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the company, which was held at the Waldorf-Astoria July 24, 25, and 26 last, formally announced the decision to establish a new system of payments of commissions to agents.

"The Equitable," he said on that occasion, "has been trying to abate the evil of rebating, and has decided to change the manner of employing and compensating its agents, as fast as existing contracts will permit. The principal change is that agents will receive smaller compensation in connection with first year's premiums and larger for renewals, thus making it to their interest to solicit permanent insurance."

This announcement was unanimously approved by the adoption of resolutions to that effect by the agents present at the anniversary celebration, and the next event was the retirement of the Equitable from the anti-rebate compact about three months before the new arrangement of the Equitable was designed to go into effect. This action was criticised by some of the other life companies as tending to make agents think that they could rebate freely until Jan. 1. The management of the Equitable, however, strongly denied any intention to place a premium upon the practice of rebating during the last months of the year.

President McCall of the New York Life, in his notice to the Equitable during the last week of December abrogating the agreement to respect the agents of the other companies, intimated that the practical dissolution of the anti-rebate compact through the several resignations had impaired the value of the agreement in regard to agents.

President Alexander of the Equitable, in reply to an inquiry on Dec. 28 as to the significance of the notice given by President McCall, said:

"I know of no warfare between the Equitable and another large company. It is not a new thing that a compact between the companies throughout the country, entered into in 1895, had been dissolved. That occurred some time ago. The understanding was entered into with the hope of eradicating certain inequalities in the business, but when put in operation it failed to accomplish desired results, and produced fresh and serious difficulties. As a natural consequence, it went to pieces. The Equitable was not the first company to withdraw, and the sense of the majority of the large companies was against its continuance. The Equitable has started reforms on its own account, and without combination, far more effective.

"The allegation that the company to which you refer has terminated an understanding that it had with this company in reference to the employment of agents is in a measure correct, they having written us to that effect. It takes two, however, to make a quarrel, and the Equitable is not quarrelsome. I should as soon think of bank Presidents making war on one another, and for this reason we do not believe that anything will be done that will be detrimental to the best interests of the respective companies. We certainly shall at all times defend the interests of our policy holders and conduct our business in a way becoming its magnitude and importance."

President McCall could not be seen last night.

EQUITABLE READY FOR WAR.

President Alexander at the Metropolitan Agents' Dinner Talks of the New York Life's Action.

President Alexander of the Equitable Life Assurance Society made an announcement at the annual dinner of the metropolitan agents of the Equitable last evening, in regard to the action of the Manhattan agency of the New York Life in joining the Equitable.

The dinner was held in the new banquet room of the Lawyers' Club. The tables were arranged in the shape of a horseshoe, including a centre table. They were handsomely decorated with smilax and roses. About 300 agents of the company were present. Mr Alexander, who presided, said in his opening speech:

"Old friends and comrades in the Equitable, many of whom have stood shoulder to shoulder with me for years and with that Hercules of life insurance men, our late President, Henry B. Hyde, I want to announce to you, what all of you know, that the Equitable's reform in compensating agents went into effect on Jan. 1. It is now in effect, and is going to stay in effect.

"Another company in this city thought it was an opportune time to steal our agents, but they did not reckon with the calibre of the men represented in this company. We are not in this business to fight. We are in it to try and run it as such a sacred business should be conducted. But when another company forgets its dignity and business honor, it must want war, and it can have it.

"One of the executive officers of this society, at a loss of time and, I might almost say, dignity, went up to this company and asked it to keep in force a treaty which it had given notice of abrogating. This treaty, as you all know, was the treaty among the companies regarding the promise not to take each other's agents. It refused to withdraw its decision, as it thought that, on account of our reform in the compensation of agents, it would be easily able to seduce our agents from their loyalty to the Equitable, and that you would simply walk into its office.

"I do not wish to say anything on this subject, except that we are ready and able to hold up our own and to announce that, while they have not taken one of our old agents, this morning the whole Manhattan department of this company, consisting of 400 of their best agents, resigned and entered the service of the Equitable.

"I wish to say to you and to these new friends that we do not intend to descend to undignified methods, but we intend, not for a day but for all time, to carry on this business by doing what is right, and we shall do what is right for the agent and for the policy holder."

Vice President James H. Hyde was the next speaker. He said in part: "During my whole life I have lived in what may be called an equitable atmosphere, and my father, of whom it is unnecessary to speak here, instilled in my mind day in and day out from my infancy the principles which have made the Equitable what it is to-day. The management of this society is conservative, and is, as far as we know how, honest and straightforward. We propose to continue the policy which will most commend us to the good and thoughtful men of the community. Our managers are men who think and who will back up the company in its efforts to do absolutely what is right.

The speeches of Mr. Alexander and Mr. Hyde excited great enthusiasm, as did that of Third Vice President George T. Wilson, who made one of his characteristically humorous speeches. Among the other speakers were Secretary William Alexander, Dr. Lambert, John C. Eisele, John Bowes, W. H. S. Whitcomb, A. A. Maher, and R. J. Mix, who was the head of the Manhattan agency of the New York Life that went over to the Equitable yesterday.

Archibald C. Haynes then offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously approved:

Whereas, The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, at its fortieth anniversary convention on the 25th day of July, 1899, announced a reform in the interest of sound life assurance in general, and especially for the advantage and continued prosperity of the managers and agents of the society; and

Whereas, This movement was promptly and successfully inaugurated and has been working with smoothness and efficiency since the 1st day of January, 1900, throughout all the society's agencies in the United States and Canada; and

Whereas, The success of the movement has already been demonstrated; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the agents of the Equitable Society, here assembled, congratulate the officers upon the benefit already resulting from this advance step, and the inestimable advantage which it is destined to accomplish for the agents and policy holders of the society.

Resolved, That we here and now pledge to the officers our loyal and enthusiastic support in this great reform, which in our opinion is destined to be of incalculable benefit to the cause of life assurance throughout the length and breadth of the land.

The closing speech was delivered by Second Vice President Guge E. Tarbell, who won long applause by his comments upon the attitude of the Equitable toward its agents.

DRESS SLASHER CONFESSES.

Man Under Arrest in Washington Says His Crimes Are the Result of a Disease.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The mystery of the dress slashing which has been going on in different parts of the country for a long time has been cleared up by a confession made to-day by Max Krebs, the young German who is under arrest here. Krebs admits that he was the Washington slasher, the Philadelphia slasher, and the New York slasher, and it is believed that he operated in other cities. Krebs's confession, instead of clearing the way to his punishment, makes the task of the authorities more difficult. He declares that he cannot help committing these crimes, and that they are the result of a disease. Two physicians have examined him, and concur in his statement. Such cases, it is said, are uncommon, but not unknown.

The ordinary punishment would be a fine, but Krebs could easily pay it, and be free to go on with his crimes. There is some talk of confining him as an irresponsible person, but he is not insane. One way out of the dilemma that has been suggested is to communicate with Krebs's parents in Germany, and ask if they will assume care of him. If the reply is favorable, Krebs might be shipped back to Germany.

Krebs did not get much chance to operate in New York, being detected and arrested early in his career. He terrorized Philadelphia all last Summer, and was particularly active during the Grand Army Encampment, when the city was crowded with visitors. The police finally got so hot on his trail that he came to Washington and began operations on the night of Admiral Dewey's arrival. He used to buy theatre seats in the best part of the house and slash the skirts of his neighbors. He kept the women of Washington completely terrorized for three months.

A WASHINGTON SOMNAMBULIST.

Wysong Ran Through Streets Thinking an Assassin Was After Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Albert F. Wysong of 408 Massachusetts Avenue is a highly accomplished dreamer. Last night he dreamed that an assassin was pursuing him with a knife. He bounced out of bed, rushed to the window, and climbed out. He managed to get on the roof of a two-story building next door, and jumped from there to the ground. The assassin was still pursuing him, and Wysong ran for dear life through street after street. In Fifteenth Street he was sighted by a policeman, who saw the white figure flitting down the street, and at first took it for a ghost.

The policeman was going to make himself as scarce as possible, when Wysong made a desperate effort to recall the prayers of his childhood, when Wysong dashed past him, and the patter of his feet and his heavy breathing restored the bluecoat's courage. He gave chase, and though he was heavily incumbered by clothing and Wysong had no such handicap, he succeeded in overhauling the somnambulist at Pennsylvania Avenue, in front of the Treasury Department. He woke Wysong up and escorted him to the station house. Wysong's dream had been so realistic that it was some time before he could be convinced that the man with the knife had no existence. He was fitted out with an overcoat and a pair of boots and sent home.

A MAN WITHOUT A LANGUAGE.

Accident Caused Lawson to Forget Everything That Preceded It.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 8.—Andrew Lawson, a Norwegian cooper, who came to this country a few years ago, was struck on the head by a falling block while at work on one of the piers of the Atlantic Transport Company, New York City, on Sept. 5, 1898. He lay like one dead in St. Vincent's Hospital for two months. His life was despaired of, but finally he rallied and regained a part of his lost strength. He came to this city and is now engaged in light farming, a short distance from here.

Lawson is in a normal condition in every sense, with the exception that he has forgotten all about his former life and companions, and has no remembrance of his native tongue. Try as he will he cannot converse in the language that he learned in Norway. His wife is instructing him as she does their four-year old boy. Lawson speaks the English language only imperfectly.

The case has attracted the attention of scientists and specialists, and several have journeyed from New York and other cities to learn more of its details.

TROUBLE OVER A FENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Jan. 8.—Surrogate Cyrenus P. Dorland, who owns a handsome home on Montgomery Street, overlooking a square, is much annoyed by what is alleged to be a spite fence. It is eight feet high, and erected on a vacant lot adjoining the Surrogate's premises, cutting off part of his view. The fence is about twenty feet long, and has an angle at each end, so that it resembles the form of a snowplow with an exaggerated nose. It is a blotch on one of the choicest residence sections of the town, and people residing in the neighborhood are much exercised at it. Threats have been made to tear it down.

Henry Hawkey, the man who put up the fence, was arrested on the complaint of Surrogate Dorland some time ago for cutting the limbs off a tree belonging to the premises. The tree cutting was stopped, later because they overhung Hawkey's and the charge was not pressed.

REALTY VALUES FOR 1900

Tax Rate from 15 to 20

amount to be raised in that way would be far greater than it has been for years.

COMPARISON OF INCREASES.

The following tables show the assessed valuations in particular instances as compared with those of last year. In few cases are there evidences of large increases, except where there have been improvements. An effort has been made to present the figures showing the values placed on properties of all classes in all parts of the Borough of Manhattan.

OFFICE BUILDINGS.

	1899.	1900.
Kemble Building	475,000	475,000
Produce Exchange	2,000,000	2,000,000
Bowling Green Building, 5-11 Broadway	2,500,000	2,500,000
Washington Building, 1 Broadway	1,500,000	1,500,000
Pennsylvania R. R., Pier 1	325,000	325,000
Pennsylvania R. R., Pier 4	318,000	318,000
Pennsylvania R. R., Pier 5	325,000	325,000
Lehigh Valley R. R., Pier 2	210,000	210,000
E. Alexander & Co., Pier 3	230,000	230,000
New York and Baltimore Transfer Company, Pier 6	215,000	215,000
New Jersey Central R. R., Pier 14	265,000	265,000
American Express Company Building, 49 Broadway	225,000	225,000
Pinkerton Brothers, 57 Broadway	300,000	300,000
Adams Express Building, 59 Broadway	775,000	775,000
Empire Building	2,600,000	2,600,000
Wells Building, 18 Broadway	1,000,000	1,000,000
Standard Oil Building, 24-26 Broadway	2,400,000	2,400,000
Hudson Building, 32 Broadway	1,000,000	1,000,000
Exchange Place, 52 Broadway	2,500,000	2,500,000
Consolidated Exchange, 58-62 Broadway	1,200,000	1,200,000
Union Trust Company, 80 Broadway	1,400,000	1,400,000
Weeks Building, 15 Wall	950,000	950,000
Stock Exchange, 10-14 Wall	1,400,000	2,000,000
Commercial Cable Building, 20 Wall	1,300,000	1,200,000
Johnson Building, 32 Broad	1,500,000	1,500,000
Edison Building, 42 Broad	600,000	600,000
Morris Building, 66 Broad	500,000	600,000
Lords Court Building, 27 William	900,000	900,000
Corn Exchange Bank, 13 William	2,250,000	2,250,000
Mills Building	2,100,000	2,100,000
Drexel Building, 1-7 Broad	1,200,000	1,200,000
Eagle Fire Insurance Company, 73 Wall	280,000	280,000
Mechanics' Bank, 31 Wall	700,000	700,000
United States Trust Company, 45 Wall	775,000	775,000
National City Bank, (Custom House)	.....	2,400,000
Sampson Building, 68 Wall	700,000	670,000
Farmers' Loan and Trust Company	600,000	600,000
Cotton Exchange, 28 William	650,000	650,000
Seamen's Savings Bank, 74-76 Wall	425,000	400,000
Central Trust Company, 54 Wall	600,000	600,000
National City Bank	.....	475,000
Fred Phillipson, 50-54 William	450,000	450,000
Manhattan Company Bank, 40 Wall	1,750,000	1,750,000
Gallatin National Bank, 34 Wall	800,000	800,000
Gould-Hoyt Building, 24-32 Pine	450,000	450,000
Fourth National Bank, 14-20 Nassau	600,000	600,000
United Bank Building, 60 Broadway	1,250,000	1,400,000
American Surety Building, 100 Broadway	2,000,000	2,000,000
Schererhorn St. Building, 96 Broadway	550,000	1,175,000
Hanover National Bank, 9-11 Nassau	750,000	750,000
Astor, 10 Wall	1,800,000	1,600,000
A. L. Stevens, 14-18 Wall	1,200,000	1,200,000
American Exchange National Bank, 126 Broadway	700,000	700,000
National Bank of Commerce, Clearing House, 77-83 Cedar	1,700,000	1,700,000
Trinity Building, 111 Broadway	680,000	700,000
Borcel Building, 113-119 Broadway	750,000	850,000
Singer Building, 149 Broadway	1,300,000	1,450,000
Metropolitan Telephone and Telegraph Building, 13-17 Dey Street	750,000	1,350,000
Havemeyer Building, 24 Cortlandt Street	480,000	955,000
Guernsey Building, 160 Broadway	1,000,000	1,000,000
D. H. Haight estate, 156 and 158 Broadway	650,000	650,000
Parmley Building, 166 Broadway	600,000	600,000
Bryant Building, 53 Liberty	650,000	650,000
Real Estate Exchange, 59 Liberty Street	475,000	475,000
Gill, 9-13 Maiden Lane	475,000	475,000
Montauk Building, 62 Maiden Lane	600,000	600,000
Woodbridge Company, 98-106 William	.....	225,000
Fulton Building, 87-91 Nassau	800,000	775,000
Corbin Building, 192 Broadway	475,000	475,000
Post Building, 204-210 Broadway	600,000	580,000
Western Union Building, 195 Broadway	750,000	750,000
Mail and Express Building, 201 Broadway	1,500,000	1,500,000
National Park Bank	600,000	600,000
St. Paul, 218 Broadway	775,000	775,000
Bennett, 93-99 Nassau	1,300,000	1,300,000
Park Row Building, 11-19 Park Row	750,000	675,000
Nassau Chambers, 114 Nassau	2,250,000	2,250,000
Temple Court, 3-9 Beekman	700,000	700,000
Vanderbilt Building, 126 Nassau	875,000	1,100,000
Market and Fulton National Bank, 81 Fulton	550,000	1,000,000
Potter, 36 Park Row	400,000	400,000
New York Times, 40 Park Row	1,300,000	1,300,000
American Tract Society, 150 Nassau	975,000	975,000
Morse, 14-16 Beekman	1,000,000	1,000,000
Tribune, 154 Nassau	550,000	550,000
Sun, 170 Nassau	700,000	700,000
Harper & Brothers, 325-337 Pearl	235,000	235,000
Staats-Zeitung, 2 Tryon Row	334,500	334,500
Pulitzer Building, 61 Park Row	525,000	525,000
Postal Telegraph, 254 Broadway	1,500,000	1,500,000
Mutual Reserve Fund, 305-309 Broadway	1,450,000	1,350,000
Stewart Building, 280 Broadway	1,100,000	1,100,000
American New Company, 39 and 41 Chambers	2,000,000	2,000,000
Dun Building, 290 Broadway	360,000	360,000
Central Bank, 320 Broadway	900,000	950,000
James Whitney, 326-330 Broadway	1,200,000	1,200,000

INSURANCE COMPANY BUILDINGS.

	1899.	1900.
Manhattan Life, 66 Broadway	575,000	575,000
Eagle Fire	1,500,000	1,500,000
Royal, 50 Wall	280,000	280,000
Liverpool & London & Globe, 47 William	550,000	550,000
Hanover Fire, 34 Pine	525,000	475,000
Germania Life 22 Nassau	275,000	275,000
Queen, 57 Cedar	550,000	550,000
Mutual Life	460,000	460,000
Equitable Life	3,500,000	3,300,000
Washington Life, 141-147 Broadway	6,000,000	6,000,000
Lawyers' Title, 46 Maiden Lane	1,600,000	1,600,000
Home Life, 256 Broadway	400,000	400,000
New York Life, 346 Broadway	550,000	650,000
New York Life & Trust, 52 Wall	3,000,000	3,410,000
Williamsburg Fire, 150 Broadway	460,000	460,000
	475,000	475,000

HOTELS AND APARTMENT HOUSES.

	1899.	1900.
Astor House	2,000,000	2,000,000
Herald Square	150,000	325,000
Normandie	425,000	425,000
Audubon	400,000	400,000
Parker	180,000	180,000
Fifth Avenue	3,000,000	3,000,000
Victoria	1,250,000	1,250,000
Coleman	515,000	515,000
Waldorf-Astoria	4,950,000	4,950,000
Holland	800,000	800,000
Imperial	1,797,000	1,797,000
New Netherland	1,000,000	1,000,000
Vendome	400,000	400,000
Cadillac	350,000	350,000
Gerard	325,000	325,000
The Lisbon	400,000	400,000
The Madrid	450,000	450,000
The Barcelona	275,000	275,000
The Toledo	285,000	285,000
The Salamanca	275,000	275,000
The Miland	160,000	160,000
The Seville	225,000	225,000
The Hawthorne	225,000	225,000
The Granada	300,000	300,000
The Cordova	300,000	300,000
Hotel Lincoln	175,000	175,000
Hotel Beresford	550,000	550,000
Sherry's	1,100,000	1,100,000

CLUBS.

	1899.	1900.
Lotos	160,000	160,000
University	900,000	900,000
New York Athletic	450,000	450,000
Bar Association	300,000	300,000
Metropolitan	950,000	950,000
Progress	475,000	475,000
Union	425,000	425,000
Union League	625,000	625,000
Colonial	190,000	190,000
Manhattan Club	140,000	140,000

THEATRES.

	1899.	1900.
Koster & Bial's	265,000	265,000
Herald Square	750,500	780,000
Empire	300,000	300,000
Metropolitan Opera House	1,500,000	1,500,000
Chickering Hall	335,000	335,000
Fifth Avenue Theatre	575,000	575,000
Wallack's	595,000	575,000
Broadway Theatre	500,000	500,000
Olympia	750,000	750,000
Carnegie Music Hall	750,000	750,000

MISCELLANEOUS BUILDINGS.

	1899.	1900.
John Wanamaker	1,500,000	1,500,000
Broadway Improvement Company, 537-549 Broadway	900,000	850,000
Reed Bros., 502-504 Broadway	300,000	300,000
H. O. Havemeyer, 562-578 Broadway	1,375,000	1,325,000
Weil & Mayer, 580-590 Broadway	1,500,000	1,500,000
J. C. Lyon, 594 Broadway	575,000	575,000
L. Ettinger, 587 Broadway	475,000	550,000
Trinity Corporation, 308-326 Hudson St.	380,000	555,000
Trinity Corporation, 135-149 Varick St.	180,000	275,000
James Pyle, 534-540 Washington St.	127,500	160,000
James Pyle, 129-135 Charlton Street	85,000	120,000
F. M. Wilson, 585-591 Hudson Street	120,000	155,000
James Everard, 669-675 Washington Street	175,000	200,000
Beadleston & Woerz, 150-156 Charles St.	132,000	137,000
Beadleston & Woerz, 296-307 West Tenth Street	222,000	255,500
Western Electric Company, 445-452 West Street	455,000	950,000
American Biscuit Manufacturing Company, West St.	155,000	155,000
White & Ludlow, 90-98 Thirteenth Avenue	80,000	100,000
Delamater estate, 13th Av.	120,000	130,000
Henry Helde, 84-90 Vandam Street	105,000	150,000
W. C. Rhinelander, 189-191 Sixth Avenue	100,000	100,000
J. J. Astor, 560-566 B'way	685,000	650,000
C. B. Rouss, 549-555 Broadway	625,000	760,000
Mutual Real Estate Company, 612-618 Broadway	550,000	550,000
W. J. Demorest, 82 5th Av.	200,000	200,000
L. G Bloomingdale, 78 Fifth Avenue	120,000	120,000
New York Mutual Gas Light Company, Avenue D, Eleventh and Twelfth Streets	815,000	1,060,000

RESIDENCES.

Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt, 640 Fifth Avenue	1,210,000	1,300,000
E. T. Sloane, 642 5th Av.	750,000	650,000
E. T. Sloane, 644 5th Av.
W. K. Vanderbilt, 660 5th Av.	750,000	650,000
W. C. Whitney, 871 5th Av.	500,000	500,000
C. Vanderbilt, 2 W. 58th St.	1,350,000	1,350,000
J. J. Astor, 840 5th Av.	600,000	600,000
H. O. Armour, 856 5th Av.	195,000	195,000
George J. Gould, 857 5th Av.	225,000	225,000
Mrs. David Dows, 1 E. 69th St.	340,000	340,000
James A. Burden, 908 5th Av.	210,000	210,000

COMPLAINT IN BROOKLYN.

Taxpayers Say Equalization Has Not Been Successful—Largely Increased Valuations in Dry-Goods District.

The books of record of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, which were opened for public inspection yesterday, show some heavy increases in valuations in the Borough of Brooklyn. While the Brooklyn Assessors claim that equalization has been the prime object for which they have labored, there is complaint among taxpayers that the absolute equalization expected is not indicated by the figures as having been reached. These show that the increase in Manhattan is only $11,000,000 more than that in Brooklyn, which is regarded as not at all proportionate.

The total net increase of Brooklyn is $5,259,652. The district in which the assessment increases appear to be heaviest is the Fulton Street dry goods section, from Red Hook Lane to Flatbush Avenue. The total increase here is about $1,500,000, and it is confined to the south side of the street. The big department stores, notably those of Abraham & Straus, Frederick Loeser & Co., and A. D. Matthews & Son, have the burden of this increase. Abraham & Straus's figures have jumped from $585,000 to $750,000, and Loeser & Co.'s from $617,000 to $700,000. Matthews & Son's figures have ascended from $370,000 to $470,000. Neighboring properties show proportionately heavy increases.

Some localities in Brooklyn have naturally increased in valuation, notably the rapidly developing outlying wards, but almost in like proportion there has been a decrease in some of the thickly settled districts. In the Heights section, for example, it is said that as much as $20,000 has been taken off the valuation of a house.

SUSPECT FIRE TO COVER CRIME.

St. James (L. I.) Authorities Investigating Death of Prisoner's Friend.

ST. JAMES, L. I., Jan. 8.—A Swede known here as William De Boise is under arrest while the authorities investigate a fire in his house, on the Sound shore, early yesterday morning, in which a man was either burned to death or murdered and the fire set to cover the crime.

Prescott Hall Butler's large barn was burned last Thursday. The fire was suspicious. Foreman James McDermott on Friday discharged a Pole known as John. The latter was friendly with De Boise, and went to live with him.

Thomas Smith, who lives a short distance from the Swede's house, was called out of his sleep by the cries of De Boise at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, who shouted that his house was on fire and that his friend was inside. Mr. Smith, with the Swede's assistance, extinguished the flames but saw no signs of anybody in the house.

Melville Hubbs, who has charge of a Summer cottage near by, visited the house later and found the body of a man lying on the bed. He was fully dressed. Most of the clothing was burned, and both legs up to the knees were burned to a crisp.

Justice Charles P. Soper, who was called, made a close examination of the body and the interior of the house. A pool of blood was found underneath the body, and a rifle was lying under the head. Justice Soper then caused the arrest of De Boise, who refused to give any information about himself. He has the reputation of being a hardworking, honest man.

Author of "In His Steps" to Lecture.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 8.—The Rev. C. M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," will devote six months to lecturing in Europe and America, beginning in New York early in April.

GEAR NAMED FOR SENATOR.

Has No Opposition in Iowa's Joint Republican Caucus.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 8.—Senator John Henry Gear was renominated without opposition by the Republicans in joint caucus this evening. A. B. Cummins's name was not presented. The Senatorial election will take place on Tuesday next, when the houses will meet separately, and on the next day they will meet in joint convention and take a joint ballot.

The Democratic caucus named Fred E. White of Webster as Democratic candidate for Senator, and he will receive the compliment of his party's vote.

The inauguration of Gov. Shaw for a second term will take place at the Capitol Thursday afternoon.

WILLIAM P. DODGE DEAD.

Had Been Financial Clerk of the State Senate Since 1894.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 8.—William P. Dodge, aged fifty-six years, Financial Clerk of the Senate since 1894, died this afternoon at his home in Prospect, from pneumonia. He was taken ill at Albany on Thursday.

He had also held the positions of Financial Clerk of the Assembly and Postmaster of the Assembly, and was one of the first appointees to the force of State Game Protectors. He was long prominent in politics in Oneida County, holding for several years the position of Chairman of the Republican County Committeee.

CUSTOM HOUSE ASSESSED

Question of Ownership by National City Bank Raised.

NO DEED OF TRANSFER FOUND

Commissioners of Taxes Base Their Action on a Supposed Lease—Real Estate Experts' Opinions.

The Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments have assessed the National City Bank $2,400,000 for the Custom House building, at Wall and William Streets, for which property the bank's bid of $2,285,000 was accepted on July 3. The bid was made in the name of the bank's President, James Stillman, who furnished a check for $150,000 in part payment.

One of the members of the board, in speaking of the matter yesterday, said that when the sale of the property was reported the department attempted to discover the visible evidence of the transfer. They kept constant watch of the recorded deeds, but this particular deed was not recorded, and they were unable to find absolute proof of the sale until one of the members of the board recollected that the law authorizing the sale of the Custom House provided that the Government should have a lease of the building until the new one is ready for occupancy at a rental of 4 per cent. on the purchase price. Inasmuch as the Government remains in occupancy of the building and the sale was never disputed, the Tax Department took it for granted that a lease was in existence. The Commissioners decided that such a lease was evidence of ownership, and upon this evidence they based their right to assess the property. As to the amount of the assessment, it was said by a member of the board that it was by no means extraordinarily high.

When asked whether the assessment would stand, in case the National City Bank should determine to bring certiorari proceedings under the general tax laws, THE TIMES's informant said:

"The only question is as to the ownership or the property. We hold that the bank owns the property whether or not a deed has been filed, and we certainly believe that the fact that the Government is a tenant, paying rent, is a proof that the title lies in the bank. At any rate, we are willing to submit our case to the courts on these contentions."

James Stillman, President of the National City Bank, laughed at the action of the Tax Commissioners, and then said:

"In my opinion the assessment of the Custom House property is made for effect, with a political object. The property cannot be taxed, for the reason that we have not yet entered upon the title to it. We have contracted with the United States Government to acquire the property when the Government is through with it. No limit of time was set. Under the contract the Government can remain in possession of it as long as it likes. It may see fit to turn it over to us in two years, or it may decide to keep it for a hundred. The conditions of the contract are thus most disadvantageous to us, and none but a corporation could or would have entered upon it."

Real estate men, however, seem generally to think that the Deputy Commissioner was justified in the absence of evidence as to the deed, in placing the property on the tax list on the strength of the published announcement that the property had been sold.

"It is a very simple proposition," said Herbert A. Sherman. "The whole question hinges upon whether the purchase money has been fully paid, and the deed delivered to the National City Bank. If the deed has not been delivered the title to the property being still vested in the Government—and Government property being non-taxable—it is exempt from taxation. On the other hand, if the purchase money has been paid, and the consequent deed transferring the property has been delivered, the property is assessable. The fact that the building is occupied by the United States Government makes not a particle of difference.

"The act of Congress under which the sale of the Custom House was made authorized and directed the Secretary of the Treasury to sell the Custom House property at public auction or private sale to the highest bidder, after due advertisement, but for not less than $3,000,000, and to deposit the proceeds of the sale in the United States Treasury as miscellaneous receipts derived from the sale of Government property; and in case of such sale, it goes on, 'the Secretary of the Treasury shall lease said premises from the purchaser or purchasers thereof, at a rental which shall not exceed 4 per centum per annum on the purchase price, for use as a Custom House until the new Custom House shall be ready for occupancy, upon such terms as he may deem advantageous, and such sale shall be subject to such right of lease; and the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to accept the said purchase price in several payments, from time to time, as he may deem most advantageous.'"

George R. Read said: "The National City Bank cannot be assessed on property they do not own. They simply contracted to buy it when the Government gave it up. They paid over a certain sum as earnest money, but they do not own it any more than you or I do."

Samuel Goldsticker said that there is no compulsion in this city to put a deed of sale on record, and expressed the opinion that if the Commissioners had reason to believe from indirect notice through the newspapers that the sale of the property had been effected, they were perfectly justified in assessing it. "If," he concluded, "the transfer has been made, and the United States Government is merely occupying the premises as a tenant, the owner is liable to taxation. Otherwise the assessment cannot stand."

A well-known authority on matters of real estate, and of municipal taxation, but who did not wish to be quoted, observed:

"I do not see that any criticism can attach to the deputy who put the Custom House property on the tax list. The Tax Commissioners' duty is to tax. If the deputy had any reason whatever to suppose that the National City Bank was liable to be taxed for the property, or even if he entertained the slightest doubt as to whether the property was liable to taxation or not, it was his bounden duty as a city official, to assess it. He would have been a delinquent had he failed to do so, and I do not think he ought to be criticised as being over zealous. If the property is liable to taxation, the city will be the gainer. If it is not, neither side will be the loser. By listing the property, in the absence of evidence that it is not taxable, the official simply puts the burden of proof on the National City Bank, and if that institution is not liable, it will have no trouble in satisfying the Tax Commissioners."

STERLING SILVER

We direct attention to our new designs in Sterling Silver Table Spoons and Forks, which we are selling at $1.00 per oz.

Sugar Shells, Gravy and Soup Ladles, etc., at equally attractive prices.

A. Frankfield & Co.

Jewelers and Importers,
52 WEST 14TH ST.

BALLOT-BOX FRAUDS IN COURT.

Men Under Indictment in Philadelphia Forfeit Their Bail.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—All the defendants under indictment charged with impersonating election officers, making fraudulent returns, and stuffing the ballot box in the Thirteenth Division of the Seventh Ward at the election for State Treasurer last November failed to answer to-day, and their bail was declared forfeited. The Court issued bench warrants for the arrest of the men.

The men under indictment are Samuel Salter, Deputy Coroner of this city; Joseph G. Rogers, Lieutenant of the Capitol Police, Washington; Clarence Meeser, formerly employed in the Copyright Bureau of the Treasury Department, Washington; William Cook, Harry McCabe, and James T. Sheehan of Washington, and John Silberman, John Scullen, and John Hanna of this city.

The District Attorney announced his intention of immediately bringing suit against the bondsmen for the recovery of the amount of bail.

Georgia Republicans Will Nominate.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 8.—Chairman Walter Johnson of the Republican State Committee issued the formal call to-day for the State Convention, to be held here March 7. Besides electing delegates to the National Convention, candidates for Governor and other State offices will be nominated. This will be the first time a State Republican ticket has been placed in the field in Georgia in a number of years. Four delegates will go to the National Convention from the State at large.

THE WEATHER.

LOCAL FORECAST—Fair; high north to northwest winds, diminishing.

The storm central Sunday night in the St. Lawrence Valley has moved to the south of Newfoundland and has given northwesterly gales to the North Atlantic States. The high pressure area in the Upper Mississippi Valley has moved to Ontario, Bisset reporting a pressure of 30.66 inches and a temperature of 6 degrees below zero. A trough of low pressure extends from Texas to Manitoba. Showers have occurred in the central and southern portions of this trough, and also in the North Pacific States. Light rain has occurred in the North Atlantic States and lower lake region.

The temperature has fallen decidedly in the lower lake region and North Atlantic States, has risen slightly in the Red River of the North Valley, and has remained nearly stationary elsewhere. Abnormally high temperatures prevail from the Middle and Upper Mississippi Valleys to the Middle and Northern Rocky Mountain region, Bismarck reporting 35, Huron 32, Concordia, St. Paul, and Williston 29 degrees, and Rapid City 28 degrees above the normal.

Prospects are favorable for rain from the Middle and Lower Mississippi Valleys to the Southern Rocky Mountain region and in the upper lakes and Upper Mississippi Valley. There will be a sharp fall in temperature in North Dakota and Red River of the North Valley. The temperature will gradually rise in the lower lake region and to-morrow in the Middle and North Atlantic States.

Northwesterly gales, diminishing, will prevail on the North Atlantic Coast, fresh northeast to north winds on the Middle Atlantic and light northeast to east winds on the South Atlantic Coast.

The record of temperature for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from THE NEW YORK TIMES's thermometer and from the thermometer of the Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	—Weather Bureau.— 1899.	1900.	TIMES. 1900.
3 A. M.	24	40	40
6 A. M.	22	42	42
9 A. M.	22	41	44
12 M.	30	39	43
4 P. M.	32	36	40
6 P. M.	32	31	33
9 P. M.	32	28	29
12 P. M.	32	25	26

THE TIMES's thermometer is 6 feet above the street level; that of the Weather Bureau is 285 feet above the street level.

Average temperatures yesterday were as follows:

Printing House Square	37
Weather Bureau	34
Corresponding date 1899	28
Corresponding date for last twenty years	32

The maximum temperature yesterday was 43 degrees at 7 A. M. and the minimum 25 degrees at 10 P. M. The humidity at 8 A. M. was 91 per cent. and at 8 P. M. 47 per cent. The barometer at 8 A. M. read 30.08 and at 8 P. M. 30.42.

AT THE HOTELS.

WALDORF—Ex-Congressman F. G. Neldringhaus, St. Louis; Moses C. Wetmore, St. Louis; Paul Morton, Vice President of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad; ex-United States Senator Watson C. Squire of Seattle.

CAMBRIDGE—G. Hartman Kuhn, Philadelphia.

HOLLAND—W. H. Moore, Chicago; Tam E. Ye and Chin Quen Ye, Hongkong; E. T. Jeffery, President of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad; Russell Harding, Vice President of the St. Louis and Southwestern Railway.

GRAND—Watson Howe, A. F. Lippincott, Philadelphia.

FIFTH AVENUE—Dr. Grant S. Hicks, Tacoma; G. A. St. Carr, London; Israel L. Hunt, Adams, N. Y.; J. B. Calvo, Costa Rican Minister, Washington.

ASTOR—J. K. Champion, Havana; T. A. Moncure, Mexico.

NETHERLAND—E. P. Ripley, President of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway, Chicago.

SAVOY—H. M. Wharton, Philadelphia; Richard Heard, Boston.

BUCKINGHAM—H. S. Leake, Williamstown, Mass.; William J. Latta, Philadelphia.

MANHATTAN—George P. Hilton, Albany; J. H. Hammond, Chicago; R. B. Tillinghast, New Haven; G. Irving Rice, Bangor, Me.

STURTEVANT—H. A. Breckevey, Lafayette, Ind.; George B. Carey, Covington, Ky.

HOFFMAN—N. K. Fairbanks, Chicago.

ALBEMARLE—Engineer C. R. Roelker, United States Navy; Admiral Frank Rodgers, United States Navy; Capt. R. D. Evans, United States Navy.

IMPERIAL—A. Ploos von Amstel, Batavia, Java; A. B. Plough, President of the St. Paul and Duluth Railroad.

GILSEY—H. K. Wick, Youngstown, Ohio; George Tod, Youngstown, Ohio; C. E. Worthington, Boston.

EMPIRE—Dr. Immerheiser, Berlin; Paul Scott, Boston.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

B. Altman & Co.

WILL ACCEPT ORDERS (FOR A LIMITED PERIOD), IN THEIR DRESSMAKING AND TAILORING DEPARTMENT AT DECIDED CONCESSIONS FROM REGULAR SEASON'S PRICES.

BRYAN SPEAKS IN OMAHA

Addresses the Jacksonian Club on "Our Nation."

ATTACKS THE GOLD STANDARD

Touches on Imperialism and Trusts—Other Democrats Condemn the Administration's Policy.

OMAHA, Jan. 8.—Jackson Day was appropriately celebrated in Omaha to-day by the Jacksonian Club. Three separate functions were down on the programme, and each was a distinct and gratifying success. The first was an informal reception held at club headquarters this afternoon, at which W. J. Bryan, Congressman Carmack of Tennessee, Overmeyer of Kansas, Weaver of Iowa, and several other Democratic lights were the guests. Mr. Bryan was the chief centre of attraction, and during the two hours the reception lasted several hundred Democrats paid their respects. At 6 o'clock a dinner was tendered Mr. Bryan and a few other notables at the Omaha Club.

At 9 o'clock to-night occurred the annual banquet of the club in the parlors of the Paxton Hotel. Covers were laid for 300 and there were no vacant places. An elaborate menu was served, and it was near midnight before the speaking began.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, editor of The Omaha World-Herald and late candidate for United States Senator, officiated as toastmaster. On his right sat Mr. Bryan, the guest of honor of the evening. The speech of the evening was made by Mr. Bryan in response to the toast "Our Nation." As he arose to respond he was greeted with tumultuous applause, and when he resumed his seat another ovation was given him. He spoke in part as follows:

"Those who studied the money question in 1896 foresaw the danger threatened by the gold standard, and pointed out that its permanent establishment would involve us in every financial disturbance occurring in Europe, but the bankers were for the most part blind to the warning. What do we see now? Notwithstanding the increased production of gold, a few victories won by the Boers in South Africa have alarmed the same bankers and they are now fearing a panic unless England is immediately successful. Their financial interest in England's triumph is so great that many of them have silenced their sympathy for a struggling republic and are hoping for the extension of the authority of a Queen.

"If such agitation results from a war between England and a little republic, what must we expect if war ever breaks out between two gold standard countries of the first class? Without financial independence this Nation cannot be independent either in its foreign or its domestic policy, and yet the Republican Party is even now preparing to chain America like a captive to Europe's golden chariot.

"Those who studied the money question in 1896 also foresaw that the retirement of the greenbacks was a part of the gold-standard plan. Many Republicans scouted at the idea, and the President avoided any mention of the matter in his letter of acceptance. But now the scheme is being unfolded, and the financiers are to be empowered to expand or contract the currency at their own will and for their own pecuniary advantage.

"Those who studied the trust question of 1896 foresaw that an Administration placed in power by the aid of great monopolies could not be relied upon to destroy the trusts; but many who could not be convinced by argument are now being convinced by the rapid growth and increased audacity of private monopolies.

"Any one who has read history or understands human nature knows that one race cannot cross an ocean and dominate another without keeping an army ever present to hold the conquered race in subjection, and yet the Republican leaders thought, or pretended to think, that an imperial policy would be accepted by the Filipinos with delight.

"The decision of the Nation on the Philippine question will be an epoch-making decision. We stand at the parting of the ways and we choose between the doctrines of republics and the doctrines of empire. At this supreme crisis in our Nation's history we may well recall the words of Lowell:

Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide,
In the strife of Truth with Falsehood, for the good or evil side;
Some great cause, God's new Messiah, offering each the bloom or blight,
Parts the goats upon the left hand, and the sheep upon the right,
And the choice goes by forever 'twixt that darkness and that light.

Other speakers and responses were as follows: "History Repeats Itself," David Overmeyer of Kansas; "Democracy's New Year," A. J. Weaver, Falls City, Neb.; "Imperialism," Congressman Carmack; "The Press," Willis J. Abbott press agent of the National Democratic Committee; "The Jacksonian Club," W. O. Gilbert of Omaha.

Mr. Overmeyer in his address discussed the money question at length and reiterated his belief in the soundness of the Chicago platform. His remarks along this line received a warm greeting.

Congress Carmack took a decided stand against the policy of the Administration in the Philippines, and declared against any foreign policy that has in view the acquiring of territory outside the limits of the United States.

SULZER FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

New Yorker Is Termed "the Probable Candidate" with Bryan.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 8.—The Granite State Club of New Hampshire, a Democratic organization, held its fourteenth annual banquet to-night. The guest of the evening was Congressman William Sulzer of New York, who was introduced as the "probable Vice Presidential candidate with Bryan in the next National campaign."

TO MOVE HEADQUARTERS HERE?

Democratic National Committeemen Disgusted at Chicago Feud.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—The Post to-day says:

"The renewal of the Harrison-Altgeld feud in the local Democracy is likely to result in the party managers moving the Democratic National headquarters away from Chicago. The National Committeemen are exceedingly annoyed over the frequent recurrence of the local wrangle, and are considering the advisability of establishing the party tent in a more harmonious neighborhood.

"Norman H. Mack, a Democratic leader of Buffalo, who came here to attend the Bryan banquet, is hard at work to transfer the headquarters to New York City. Washington and St. Louis have also been mentioned as cities at which the headquarters may be established in case they are moved from Chicago."

ARRIVAL OF BUYERS.

Representatives of Out-of-Town Firms Now in the City.

Adam, J. & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.; C. D. Saunders, millinery; 57 White Street; Hotel Vendome.
Adam, Meldrum & Anderson, Buffalo, N. Y.; W. Page, cloaks and suits; 2 Walker Street; Westminster Hotel; Mrs. A. M. Richardson, ladies' and infants' wears, waists, &c.; New Amsterdam Hotel.
Allen & Co., Portland, Me.; W. C. Allen, clothing; Hotel Imperial.
Barr, William, Dry Goods Company, St. Louis, Mo.; I. Solomon, notions and jewelry; 621 Broadway; Hotel Cadillac; C. E. Wigginton, house furnishing goods; Holland House.
Brittain, John S., Dry Goods Company, St. Joseph, Mo.; R. W. Powell, cloaks, suits, millinery, ribbons, and furnishing goods; 338 Broadway.
Benedict Company, Milwaukee, Wis.; E. P. Benedict, woolens; 84 Leonard Street; Hotel Imperial.
Barnard, Sumner & Putnam, Worcester, Mass.; R. W. Sumner, dress goods; E. A. Sumner, notions; 52 Franklin Street; Park Avenue Hotel.
Biermeister Bros. & Co., Troy, N. Y.; F. Biermeister, Jr., linens; 589 Broadway; St. Denis Hotel.
Bloch & Newberger, Mobile, Ala.; A. Bloch, linens, laces, ladies' and infants' wear; millinery and furnishing goods; 880 Broadway; Hoffman House.
Connell & Co., Scranton, Penn.; R. Wersenfine, carpets; A. E. Connell, dry goods; Hotel Imperial.
Cincinnati Woolen Company, Cincinnati, Ohio; E. C. Grever, woolens; Hotel Imperial.
Carroll & Sherburne Company, Rochester, N. Y.; R. B. Sherburne, dry goods; Hotel Cadillac.
Clement, J. V., & Co., Toledo, Ohio; J. V. Clement, millinery; Hotel Marlborough.
Crocker, A. H., & Brothers, San Francisco, Cal.; A. H. Crocker, notions and fancy goods; 560 Broadway; Belvedere House.
Carter, Applewhaite & Co., Baltimore, Md.; W. A. Applewhaite, white goods and notions; Hoffman House.
Donaldson, William, & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.; F. Williams, upholstery goods; 2 Walker Street.
Denhoim & McKay Company, Worcester, Mass.; G. E. McFarlin, crockery; 2 Walker Street; Hotel Cadillac.
Dewald, George, & Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.; R. W. Dewald, notions; Hotel Cadillac.
Doeplitz, S

GEN. WHITE REPORTS A GREAT VICTORY

Repulses a Boer Attack, Inflicting Heavy Losses.

BAYONET CHARGE IN A STORM

One Position Was Taken and Retaken Three Times.

Transvaal Forces Said to Have Been in Great Strength and to Have Fought with Desperate Courage.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The following dispatch was received to-day from Gen. Buller:

"Frere Camp, Natal, Dec. 8.

"The following is from White, dated 2 P. M. yesterday:

"'An attack was commenced on my position, but was chiefly against Cæsar's Camp and Wagon Hill.

"'The enemy was in great strength and pushed the attack with the greatest courage and energy.

"'Some of our intrenchments on Wagon Hill were three times taken by the enemy and retaken by us. The attack continued until 7:30 P. M.

"'One point in our position was occupied by the enemy the whole day.

"'But at dusk, in a very heavy rainstorm, they were turned out of this position at the point of the bayonet, in a most gallant manner, by the Devons, led by Col. Park. Col. Ian Hamliton commanded on Wagon Hill and rendered valuable services.

"'The troops have had a very trying time and have behaved excellently. They are elated at the service they have rendered the Queen.

"'The enemy were repulsed everywhere with very heavy loss, greatly exceeding that on my side, which will be reported as soon as the lists are completed.'"

It is understood that the War Office has received some figures on the casualties, but not the list itself. These have not yet been made public.

Not since the day of Gen. Buller's reverse has such a crowd of inquirers visited the War Office. As the afternoon progressed a rumor obtained currency that Ladysmith had surrendered and the depression in the lobbies had become extreme, when an official appeared and, in a loud voice, shouted: "Good news," and posted the dispatch chronicling the victory at Ladysmith. Even the brief official announcement sent by Gen. White seems to entitle his success to the adjective "brilliant," so often misused during the present war.

Reading between the lines of Gen. White's dispatch, it is evident that there was a desperate fight, the British intrenchments being thrice taken and retaken, and, at dusk, the Devonshire Regiment, at the point of the bayonet, drove out the Boers from another position, which they had occupied all day long. The news spread with astonishing rapidity all over London and caused an instantaneous change in the aspect of the metropolis. Smiling faces were seen everywhere, and even at the sedate Foreign Office and other departments of the Government great elation was shown.

The newspapers were all jubilant. The conservative Standard in big headlines announced a "Glorious Victory at Ladysmith."

The Stock Exchange received the news with rousing cheers, and prices immediately ascended in all departments.

So far as known, Gen. Buller's demonstration against Colenso had little effect. In spite of the heavy artillery fire, the Boers did not reply, and the only effect of the shrapnel shell reported was that it caused a hundred Boers and their horses to stampede from the camp between Colenso and Grobler's Kloof.

In spite of the news of the victory and the fact that England has taken heart, the situation is not improved. The beleaguered force must have expended a large amount of ammunition, which cannot be replenished, and must have lost a number of officers and men, which is counterbalanced, so far as the garrison is concerned, by the greater loss of the Boers.

Gen. White still needs relief, and the difficulties confronting Gen. Buller are as great as before.

The former's unadorned sentences, as read and re-read, suggest eloquently the peril in which the town was for fourteen hours, and how barely able his 9,000 men were to keep from being overcome.

The chief concern for Gen. White is in respect of ammunition. Sixty-eight days ago, at the beginning of the siege, his small-arm ammunition was vaguely described as "plenty." His artillery then had 300 rounds per gun. Some of the batteries have been in action frequently since then, and all were probably engaged last Saturday. His stock of shells, consequently, must be low, and this will make it difficult for Gen. White to co-operate in a movement by Gen. Buller.

The intrenchments at Ladysmith, as described in a message that left a day or two before the fight, and has just come through, are fortified hills, covered with rifle pits and trenches, down which the infantry move in single file to the various posts in absolute safety. Full rations are still served.

Spenser Wilkinson, in The Morning Post, points out that there is one division only at Chieveley, another at Frere, and a third at Estcourt. As Chieveley is seven miles from Colenso, the Second Division would have had to march twelve miles to get into action and the Third Division twenty-two miles. Gen. Buller's 30,000 men and seventy guns were therefore almost inactive on Saturday, and when Gen. White heliographed Gen. Buller could really make no move but an ineffective demonstration.

England is preparing fresh armaments, and twenty-two transports will be on the way to South Africa during the present month. According to the programme, 25,000 additional troops and 72 guns will soon be afloat. The Government has ordered Vickers Sons & Maxim, Limited, to manufacture as many 4.7 inch and 6 inch quick-firers as can be turned out until otherwise notified.

VICTORY FOR BULLER RUMORED

LONDON, Jan. 8.—A rumor was current in the city to-day that Gen. Buller has crossed the Tugela River, captured twelve guns and was marching on Ladysmith.

Nothing, however, has been received corroborative of the rumor, so that it must be taken with all reserve.

BRITISH WAR OFFICE UPHELD.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, delivered his annual address to his Manchester constituents this evening. An immense audience gave him an enthusiastic reception.

Mr. Balfour contrasted the conditions of last year, when the Fashoda incident had been honorably closed, and the Peace Conference had begun at The Hague, with those of to-day, when, as he said, England had become involved in the "greatest war of the generation."

"It is true," he continued, "that the Government knew the situation contained elements of peril, but it is not true that they regarded the war as anything like inevitable. If it be asked why the Government, knowing the Transvaal was increasing its armaments, did not protest, the melancholy reason rests in the Jameson raid, which gave the Transvaal a chance to say it was arming, not for aggression, but for self-protection. Thus we are criticised for doing too little by those who a year ago attacked us for doing too much."

The speaker said he believed the events which prevented mobilization last August had done more good in uniting parties and all parts of the empire than if Great Britain, and not the Transvaal, had issued the ultimatum.

"Even the tactical misfortune at Ladysmith or the extent of the Boer invasion of British territory," said Mr. Balfour, "is not such as need by itself frighten even the most timid."

In defending the artillery equipment, he observed:

"Do not believe that your soldiers are sent to the field with a worse gun than France or Germany would use in similar circumstances. The guns supplied to Sir George White were intended for a mobile force, not for the defense of a beleaguered fortress. The course of the war has revealed the necessity for guns less mobile but of greater range, and these are being sent out abundantly."

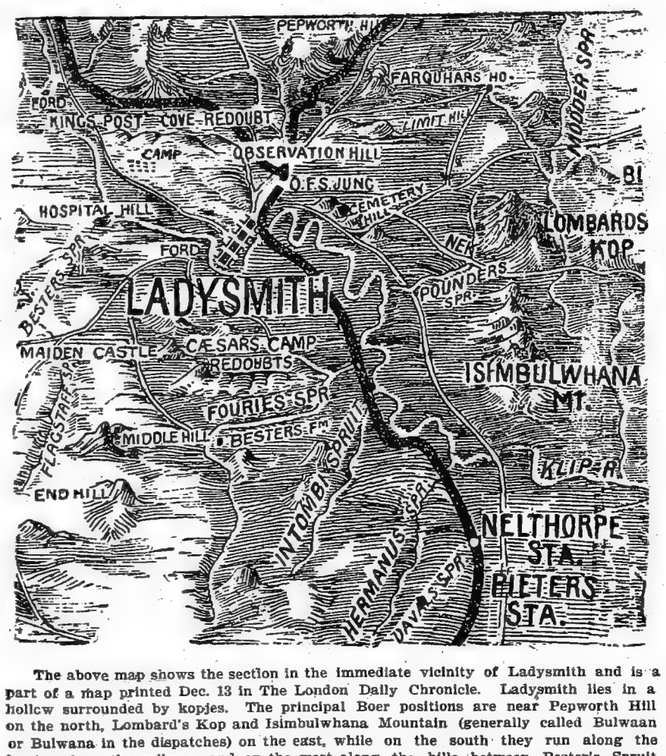
After extolling the sea transport and the ready response of the reserves, he declared that the Government had given the Generals an absolutely free hand; that the war was "one in defense of our African empire," and that, through good and evil fortune, they would pursue it unswervingly to the end, so that no such war should ever be waged in South Africa again.

In conclusion, Mr. Balfour ridiculed the foreign prophecies that the dissolution of the British Empire was about to begin.

Lord Dunraven in The Times this morning returns to his arraignment of the War Department for the inferiority of British artillery. He says:

"It is useless for the Government to contend that our artillery is equal to that of foreign nations, since the Boers have longer range mobile guns."

SCENE OF SATURDAY'S BATTLE NEAR LADYSMITH.



The above map shows the section in the immediate vicinity of Ladysmith and is a part of a map printed Dec. 13 in The London Daily Chronicle. Ladysmith lies in a hollow surrounded by kopjes. The principal Boer positions are near Pepworth Hill on the north, Lombard's Kop and Isimbulwhana Mountain (generally called Bulwaan or Bulwana in the dispatches) on the east, while on the south they run along the kopjes along the railway, and on the west along the hills between Bester's Spruit and the town. The "camp" marked northwest of Ladysmith is the old camp used as a kind of Natal Aldershot before the war.

KAISER WILL VENT HIS IRE.

Public Speech To-Night Will Touch Upon Seizures—Germany May Demand an Indemnity.

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—From an absolutely reliable source, it is learned that Emperor William will make an important and sensational speech to-morrow night at the Century festival of the Berlin Technical High School. His Majesty's remarks will be political, dealing especially with the naval question, and will touch upon the sensation of the hour, namely, the seizures of German vessels by British warships in South African waters.

In confirmation of the statement cabled the other day, that the Emperor has become thoroughly aroused over the continuance of British action in this respect, a correspondent is informed that he yesterday told Goheimrath Miessner, in tones of deepest indignation, what he had just heard on the subject from Count von Bülow, adding, "Welche schmach!"

Court circles here relate a number of details showing his Majesty's change of mind as to Great Britain's policy, and the reports that England has sent out new and more stringent instructions in reference to searching vessels going to South Africa are received everywhere with intense dissatisfaction.

The Foreign Office this evening authorized the following statement:

"Germany recognizes the right of search within certain specific limits. Among the points enumerated in the protest filed in London is one contending that England has exceeded those limits. No answer has yet been received to this protest."

On being asked whether it was correct that joint action on the part of the powers in the matter of the seizures was under way a high official of the Foreign Office replied that such action might have to be taken if the seizures did not cease. He admitted that Russia was asking such joint action in regard to the interruption of telegraph communication with South Africa, but he denied formally the report that Germany had sounded Washington about the feasibility of such joint action.

This dementi was subsequently corroborated upon inquiry at the United States Embassy.

The Foreign Office official ended the interview with this significant assertion:

"Germany will not be content with the mere liberation of the steamer General and the other vessels seized by British warships, but will demand indemnity in these and all similar cases."

The question of the seizures will come up in the Reichstag as soon as Count von Bülow has expressed a willingness to answer an interpellation, which the Conservatives will plan possibly for the opening day of the session. At any rate, before the end of the week, an extended reply will be elicited from the Foreign Secretary, who will review events from the outset until those of most recent occurrence. It is also expected that he will divulge the terms of the secret treaty with Great Britain.

The Deutsche Tagezeitung expects that a turn in Germany's foreign policy will date from the interpellation and reply.

The excitement about the seizures is intense throughout Germany. The Colonials, the Pan-Germans, and the anti-Semites are pushing a vigorous propaganda. Their representatives are stumping the country and preaching war against England.

The Berlin Neueste Nachrichten publishes a communication advocating the seizure of all British vessels in German ports as an act of revenge. Other papers talk about the "unbearable humiliation of the Foreign Office."

At the same time the official organs and a large section of the more influential papers mildly continue to preach moderation.

The Berliner Post says:

"It behooves us to keep our sentiments in check."

The Berlin correspondent of The Daily News, in a dispatch dealing at some length with the question of the seizures of German vessels by British warships, says:

"It cannot be denied that the idea of an anti-British coalition is very popular here. Hopes are now placed in Russia. Without being pessimistic, I must say that the present juncture is extremely critical. As matters stand, only the fact that no power wishes to take the initiative prevents such a coalition from being brought about."

REPLY TO MR. CHOATE DELAYED

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The United States Ambassador, Joseph H. Choate, did not receive an answer to-day from the British Government regarding the seizure of American flour by British cruisers in South African waters. Lord Salisbury has a note in preparation, but a few days may elapse before it is delivered.

There is good reason to believe that the flour will be released, and possibly a ruling will be made differentiating between foodstuffs for field and domestic purposes.

BOERS EVADE THE BLOCKADE.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Boer agents, according to the Cairo correspondent of The Daily Mail, are evading British vigilance respecting the importation of ammunition. The correspondent says:

"A large quantity of quick-firing ammunition goes to Ras Jibeutil, from which point it is conveyed by dhows along the coast or transshipped to vessels bound for Portuguese ports in East Africa. French steamers touching at Ras Jibeutil before reaching Aden, contrive to evade search by transshipping at Madagascar to steamers apparently not connected with European lines. In this way they escape suspicion."

GERMAN SHIPOWNER EXPLAINS.

HAMBURG, Jan. 8.—Herr Adolph Woermann, one of the owners of the German vessels seized by the British, was interviewed to-day. He said:

"The last one taken is the Herzog. She has on board the Dutch, Belgian, and German Ambulance Corps. All these were traveling bona fide under the Red Cross. It is certainly the first time such a corps has been detained by a hostile Government. Their services were offered to the British, but were refused. We cannot help considering the action of the British as chiefly intended to prevent the German East African Line from continuing its service on account of the competition we have made against the English lines. We consider the seizures entirely illegal and against everything that until now has been considered the law of nations. Their actions are simply those of brutal force, and what the consequences will be we cannot say. So far, in both the case of the Bundesrath and that of the General, the only representations made by Great Britain consist in the allegation that they are suspected of carrying contraband. The Directors of the line have not the least doubt that they have no contraband on board. Every precaution was taken, going so far as to even discharge at Port Said and Der-es-Salaam articles of war shipped on board our steamers previous to the outbreak of hostilities.

"Regarding the passengers, many of them are known to us as regular patrons of the line. It was known that others intended to go to the Transvaal, and, while there might be some adventurers anxious to profit by the prospects there, there was not, so far as the Directors could ascertain, one passenger traveling to the Transvaal to serve in its army."

Herr Woermann is not only a large shipowner, but one of the largest German investors in the East African possessions. He is a personal friend of Emperor William, and is generally understood to be carrying out imperial wishes in regard to African colonization and commerce.

GUNS ORDERED FROM ITALY.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail says:

"It is reported here on good authority that Great Britain has ordered a number of guns at the Terni foundry, and that Senator Broda, manager of the foundry, has promised to deliver them with the utmost expedition."

HOW GEN. BULLER MET DEFEAT

First Detailed Explanation of the Battle of Tugela River Is Received from the Front.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The first account giving any adequate explanation of Gen. Buller's defeat at the Tugela River comes by mail from Mr. Benet-Burleigh, The Daily Telegraph's correspondent. It appears that the battle orders, drawn up by Gen. Clery, provided for the effective support of the artillery by Gens. Hart's, Barton's, and Dundonald's brigades. These were never completed. Gen. Hart missed his way, Lord Dundonald failed to support, and Gen. Barton got part of his forces in an untenable position. Col. Long, with the artillery, outpaced the escort of the guns, and they were lost. Briefly, that seems to be the story of the Tugela River.

But, through graphic columns, there continually recurs the discovery of unexpected intrenchments and awful fusiliades from hidden Boers and gallantry such as has seldom marked British battlefields.

After describing how the British force began its advance at daylight and how the Boers left them absolutely unmolested, the correspondent says:

"At 6:25 there suddenly burst an awful crash of Boer musketry upon the batteries and advancing infantry. The rattle of the Mausers swelled, and was maintained as one continuous roar. From the buildings and lines of trenches south of the river and from the river bank itself the Boers fired at our gunners and footmen, and from the trenches on the northern side of the Tugela River and from Fort Wylie and elsewhere they sent out a hurricane of leaden hail, and the bullets venomously rained upon the ground in all directions, raising puffs of dust and tearing through the air with shrill sounds. Few have ever seen so heavy and so deadly a fusillade, but neither the British gunners nor the infantry hesitated or winced. Cannon were wheeled into position, although many of the horses and men were shot down ere the manoeuvre was completed, and our indomitable soldiers walked erect and straight onward. Not even Rome in her palmiest days ever possessed more devoted sons. As the gladiators marched proud and beaming to meet death, so the British soldiers doomed to die saluted and then with alacrity stepped forward to do their duty—glory or the grave! Anglo-Saxon soldiers always advance that way! I asked an American who had seen warfare at home, in Cuba, and Manila if his countrymen generally did this, and he answered:

"'Yes. It is marvelous, but wasteful.'

"Closer and closer walked the soldiers to the Boer trenches until within 400 yards of the nearest rifle pits. Then, lying down, they returned the fire, but there was little or nothing to aim at.

"By 7:15 the Irish brigade had driven the Boers to the north bank of the Tugela. They found that the enemy had planted the ground with barbed-wire entanglements. Even in the bed of the river barbed wire was laid down. Into the water went the Dublin Enniskillens, Borderers, and Connaughts, but it was found at the ford that the Boers had cunningly dammed the river, and there was ten feet of water where ordinarily it is but knee deep. They strove to find the crossings, and many a fine fellow, with his weight of ammunition and accoutrements, was drowned. It was a desperate and serious situation. The attack upon the right was making no progress, and the hearts of the men had reached an apparent impasse. But there were furious and angry Irishmen who had resolved to get across somehow. By dint of scrambling from rock to rock and swimming a number won the other side. Yet most of them found that they had but passed across a winding spruit. The Tugela still lay in front, and all the while the murderous fire of cannon and Mauser crashed and comrades fell weltering in their blood."

In the meanwhile Col. Long had lost his guns, and Gens. Buller and Cleary, with their staffs and escorts, had ridden to the scene.

"The spouting, hail of lead and iron snapped and spluttered and the dust puffed more than ever. Lord Roberts's son, with Capts. Schofield and Congreve, volunteered to ride out and endeavor to save the two field batteries in the open. Readily other volunteers were found. Corporals from the linesmen and drivers of the ammunition wagons, taking spare teams, galloped out, and men and horses again began falling on every side. Young Roberts's horse was blown up with a shell. Congreve was hit with a bullet and his clothes were cut by other missiles. Schofield alone escaped untouched. Across that valley of death quickly the surviving animals were rounded up and the guns were hooked and dragged away. Again and again that day attempts were made to haul off the remaining guns, but the Boer fire was incessant and withering. At 4 the battle was over. Gen. Buller abandoned the guns and retreated."

BLAMES METHUEN FOR DEFEAT.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Lord De La Warr, in a graphic description of the battle of Magersfontein, says:

"It is useless to disguise that a large percentage of the troops are losing heart for a campaign composed of a succession of frontal attacks on an invisible foe securely intrenched and unreachable. Our men fought admirably, but they were asked to perform miracles. Don't blame them, and don't blame the gallant General, who was the first victim of the terrible disaster which overcame the Highland Brigade. They marched in quarter column to their doom. Gen. Wauchope's last words, "For God's sake, men, do not blame me for this," will gladden the hearts of his numberless friends. There was no accord between Gen. Methuen and Gen. Wauchope in regard to the best method of attack. Gen. Methuen's plan prevailed, and the mistake cost 700 men."

BRITISH TROOPS RAN AWAY?

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Gen. French has now joined the other British commanders with the familiar formula, "I regret to report." Telegrams from Rensburg say seven officers and thirty men of the Suffolks were killed and that about fifty were captured.

Gen. French's announcement that the Essex Regiment has been sent to replace the Suffolks is more bitter to the latter's friends than the list of casualties, as the only inference deducible from this fact is that the Suffolks disgraced themselves and their flag by bolting and leaving a few of their more stanch comrades to fill the Pretoria jails.

The Suffolks have seen hardly any active service at all in the last two decades, and the regiment is now principally composed of raw recruits, who have never before faced fire. The last campaign in which the regiment was engaged in the Afghan war of 1878-80. It distinguished itself then, but in the time that has elapsed between that time and now nearly every man has been retired, and the recruits have not even had the opportunity of taking part in any of the numberless "little wars" which are almost continual on the frontiers of Hindustan. The regiment was formed in 1661, and from that time until [illegible] saw much service.

STEYN SEES VICTORY AHEAD.

Orange Free State President Issues an Address on the War.

LORENZO MARQUES, Jan. 5.—The Standard and Diggers' News publishes President Steyn's New Year address to the burghers of the Free State. The address concludes as follows:

"Next year the Afrikander nation will enjoy peace and rest; and that peace will be established on the basis that the enemy who has oppressed and persecuted us during the whole of the last century shall no longer be in a position to spill innocent blood. May God in His infinite mercy grant this!"

Guide Shot by Gen. Gatacre.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—A private of the Irish Rifles, who fought at Stormberg, in a letter to his home, says that when Gen. Gatacre saw the position the guide had led the troops into, he shot the guide dead with his own revolver.

SYMPATHY FOR THE TRANSVAAL.

Massachusetts Democratic State Committee Passes a Resolution.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—The Democratic State Central Committee at its annual meeting to-day adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the Democratic State Committee of Massachusetts congratulates the people of the South African republic on their successful defense of their country and their republican institutions against the forces of the British Empire. The spirit that animated the embattled farmers at Lexington and at Bunker Hill sustains the African burghers at Colenso and Magersfontein, sanctifies their course, and will lead them, under the Providence of God, to another Yorktown."

Senator Pettigrew Favors Mediation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Senator Pettigrew to-day offered a resolution authorizing the United States Government to offer mediation between Great Britain and South Africa. He announced that it was his purpose to make a speech on the subject.

Baronet Would Equip a Battery.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—A cablegram from London states that Sir Charles Ross, Bart., of Balnagown Castle, has made an offer to the Secretary of War to equip at his own expense a machine-gun battery, with four horses for each gun, for service in South Africa.

Appeal Sent to Mr. McKinley.

BERNE, Jan. 8.—The Executive Committee of the International Peace Society has sent a telegram to President McKinley asking him to intervene with a view of ending the war in South Africa.

One Firm Contributes £50,000.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Messrs. Wornher, Beit & Co., diamond merchants, have given £50,000 to the fund for the equipment of the Yeomanry.

Appeal for Families of Dead Boers.

The Netherlands Society of New York has issued circulars requesting contributions to a fund for the benefit of widows and orphans of Boer soldiers who have been killed in the present war in the Transvaal.

To Fight Chicago Bucket Shops.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—W. S. Warren, representing the "Reform ticket," was elected President of the Board of Trade to-day. This means that a bitter war will be waged against bucket shops.

Credit Men Preparing a Measure.

The Legislative Committee of the New York Credit Men's Association has prepared a bill for presentation to the Legislature at the present session, looking toward an improvement in the law with reference to the signed statements of debtors. The present law on the subject is deemed by the association inadequate to the needs of such cases. A. H. Watson has been elected to the Presidency of the association, to succeed T. H. Bartindale, who resigned, and Charles E. Meek has been elected Vice President. Mr. Bartindale will take Mr. Meek's place on the Executive Committee.

Established 1823.
WILSON WHISKEY.
That's All!
THE WILSON DISTILLING CO.
Baltimore, Md.

SAY MURDERESS WAS INSANE.

Chattanooga Doctors Testify in Behalf of Julia Morrison—Verdict May Be Reached To-morrow.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 8.—The trial of Julia Morrison James for the murder of Frank Leidenheimer was resumed to-day in the Circuit Court. The spacious room was crowded with spectators when the prisoner entered, accompanied by a lady. She announced to her attorneys that she felt reasonably well, although having spent the greater part of yesterday in bed recovering from the nervous strain of last week. The defense occupied the greater part of the forenoon reading depositions for the purpose of showing the illfeeling existing between the defendant and Leidenheimer previous to coming to Chattanooga and the threats of Leidenheimer to have her discharged from the "Mr. Plaster of Paris" company.

Boyd Browder of Knoxville testified to having heard Leidenheimer say in that city that if he could get anybody to play Mrs. James's part within fifty miles of Chattanooga he would do so. Leidenheimer's main objection there was to a dress Mrs. James wore in the play.

An important witness in the case was Joe M. Breeding, an employe of the Chattanooga Opera House, who was called in behalf of the defense. Breeding said that on the morning of the tragedy the defendant and Leidenheimer quarreled, each using abusive language. She struck him and he struck back. Leidenheimer told witness that he had not struck Mrs. James, but had thrown up his arm to ward off her blow.

Frank Shipp testified to the shooting on the stage. As Miss Morrison ascended the steps to the stage Leidenheimer turned partly toward her, raised a walking cane in his right hand, and she fired. Leidenheimer did not speak to her at the time.

Harry Cantrell, an eye witness to the shooting, testified that Mrs. James appeared like an insane woman when she appeared with her pistol.

Lizzie Russell, the colored maid who accompanied the defendant to the opera house the night of the tragedy, testified that on the way there the defendant complained of being very sick with severe pains in the head.

The defense introduced several prominent physicians of this city on the question of the mental responsibility of Mrs. James at the moment she shot Leidenheimer. Their opinion, based on the evidence of eye witnesses, tended to corroborate the theory of temporary insanity urged by the defense.

The State will offer considerable evidence in rebuttal, and it is expected the arguments will begin to-morrow afternoon, and a verdict may be reached Wednesday. The defense is relying on the pleas of justification and temporary insanity.

GOVERNOR HAS CANAL REPORT.

It Will Be Sent to the Legislature at an Early Date.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 8.—Gov. Roosevelt this morning received the report of the special commission appointed by him to investigate the canal question and recommend legislation regarding the matter. The Governor declined to make public the nature of the report, and would not say what amount of money the commission had decided would be necessary to finish the work. It has been unofficially stated that at least $50,000,000 would be required to complete needed improvements.

It is the Governor's intention to summon Gen. Francis V. Greene and other members of the commission to Albany for a final talk over the report which has just been made. The report will then be sent to the Legislature, accompanied probably by a message from the Governor. This will be done at an early day.

NOTED INDIAN SCOUT DEAD.

William Jackson, Served Under Miles, Crook, and Gibbon.

Special to The New York Times.

HELENA, Mon., Jan. 8.—Advices received here from the Blackfoot Indian Reservation in Northern Montana state that William Jackson is dead. He was one of the noted Indian scouts connected with the United States Army. He became a scout at the age of seventeen, it is believed, and for many years he rendered faithful and efficient service under Miles, Crook, Gibbon, and other Indian fighters. He was one of the first to reach civilization with the news of the Custer massacre, and his account was as accurate as the official report.

Jackson had an intimate acquaintance with the Indian tribes of Montana, their chiefs, and their habits, and his services were highly commended by every officer under whom he served. He was an intelligent, observant, and shrewd scout, never hesitating to undertake any mission and never failing to accomplish what was desired. For many years he had been living at the Blackfoot Agency and was highly esteemed by all acquaintances.

FUNERAL OF DR. McGLYNN.

Service to be Held To-morrow Morning in St. Mary's, Newburg.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Jan. 8.—The funeral service over the body of the Rev. Dr. McGlynn will be held on Wednesday forenoon in St. Mary's Church.

Solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated at 10:30 o'clock by the Rev. Thomas McLaughlin of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, New Rochelle. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. R. L. Burtsell of Rondout. This service will be preceded by the chant of the offices for the dead.

Among those present at the funeral will be Archbishop Corrigan, Bishop Farley, the Mayor and heads of departments of the City of Newburg, and most of the priests of the diocese. The body will be buried at Calvary Cemetery, where Dr. McGlynn's mother is buried, on Thursday.

Archbishop Corrigan called at St. Mary's rectory again this morning with the Rev. Father Salley. They, in company with Dr. McGlynn's nieces and nephews, viewed the body. The Archbishop expressed his sympathy for Dr. McGlynn's wards in the loss of their best friend.

Richard George took a plaster cast of Dr. McGlynn's face this morning.

Twelfth Ward Bank Election.

The annual election of officers and Directors of the Twelfth Ward Bank for the ensuing year was held last evening at the bank, One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and Lexington Avenue, and resulted as follows: Isaac A. Hopper, President; Richard Webber, First Vice President; Henry Dimse, Second Vice President; Thomas Crawford, notary; F. B. French, Cashier. Directors—H. H. Barnard, George B. Brown, George H. Burford, Thomas Crawford, Charles W. Dayton, Theodore Dieterlen, Henry Dimse, George Fennell, Isaac A. Hopper, Joseph B. Kaiser, James H. Parker, William T. Purdy, David Rutsky, and Richard Webber. Inspectors, 1901—George W. Thompson, George J. Fernschild, and Richard J. Dolan.

J. K. Macomber Dies of His Injuries.

John K. Macomber, a letter carrier, who was knocked down Jan. 4 by a mail wagon at Second Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, died from his injuries Sunday night at Bellevue Hospital. He was fifty-seven years old and had been a letter carrier since 1862. He married Miss Mary Ward in 1845, and, besides the widow, is survived by two sons and three daughters, all married. The late Sanford L. Macomber, who was an Assemblyman, was his brother. Another brother is the Rev. James Macomber. The funeral will be held Thursday morning from the Union Methodist Church.

Minister Hunter in New Orleans.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 8.—W. Godfrey Hunter, United States Minister to Guatemala and Honduras, arrived here tonight on the steamship Breakwater. He refused to discuss the matter of the accusations and charges made against him, saying that his return to this country was made necessary by the illness of his wife.

Big Land Sale in West Virginia.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, West Va., Jan. 8.—It took thirty pages of typewriting to record the deed from J. H. Dewing and wife of Kalamazoo, Mich., to John G. Luke of Brooklyn, N. Y., for a number of tracts of land lying in Randolph and Pocahontas Counties, in this State, which aggregate 63,660 acres. The consideration was $585,000. Mr. Luke is Vice President of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

New Atlantic City Special Express via Lakewood, Central R. R. of New Jersey Route.

New Schedule January 8th, train leaves foot Liberty Street at 3:30 P. M., South Ferry 3:25 P. M., Reaches Atlantic City at 6:45 P. M. Train from Atlantic City at 2:10 P. M. reaches New York at 5:25 P. M. This train stops at Lakewood.—Adv.

Irish Whisky.
W. Jameson & Co. "HARP" Brand.
Bottled by the Distillers in their OWN BONDED WAREHOUSES.
A Pure Product, made in Pot Stills only.
Of the best Hotels, Restaurants, Clubs and Wine Merchants.

SHIPPING AND FOREIGN MAILS.

Miniature Almanac—This Day.

A. M.	P. M.	P. M.
Sun rises...7:25	Sun sets...4:51	Moon rises...1:34

High Water This Day.

A. M.	A. M.	A. M.
S. Hook...1:52	Gov. Isl'd...2:28	H. Gate...4:24
P. M.	P. M.	P. M.
S. Hook...2:16	Gov. Isl'd...2:42	H. Gate...4:38

Outgoing Steamships.

TO-DAY, (TUESDAY,) JAN. 9.

	Mails Close.	Vessels Sail.
Algiers, New Orleans	.....	3:00 P. M.
Arranmoor, La Plata countries	12:00 M.	3:00 P. M.
Caribbee, St. Kitts	12:30 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
	*1:00 P. M.
Chateau Yquem, Naples	.....	.....
Columbia, Naples	9:00 A. M.	11:00 A. M.
Hispania, Haiti	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Iroquois, Charleston and Jacksonville	.....	3:00 P. M.
Tordenskjold, Progresso	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 10.

Athos, Colon	9:30 A. M.	.....
	*10:30 A. M.
Grenada, Trinidad	11:00 A. M.	.....
Hindoo, Hull	.....	.....
Matanzas, Tampico	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Miramar, La Plata countries	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Noordland, Antwerp	10:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
Seneca, Havana	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
St. Louis, Southampton	7:00 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
	*9:00 A. M.
Uller, St. Kitts	10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
U. S. transport, San Juan	10:30 A. M.	.....

THURSDAY, JAN. 11.

El Cid, New Orleans	.....	3:00 P. M.
La Champagne, Havre	7:00 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Santiago de Cuba, Santiago	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.

FRIDAY, JAN. 12.

Algonquin, Charleston and Jacksonville	.....	3:00 P. M.
Border, Azores	4:00 A. M.	.....
Erna, Jamaica	2:00 P. M.	.....
Hildur, Savanilla	10:30 A. M.	.....
Themis, Belize	1:00 P. M.	.....

SATURDAY, JAN. 13.

Alleghany, Kingston	10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
	*10:30 A. M.
Carunda, La Plata countries	12:00 M.	2:00 P. M.
Lampasas, Galveston	.....	3:00 P. M.
Lucania, Queenstown and Liverpool	10:30 A. M.	2:00 P. M.
	*12:00 M.
Pretoria, Bermuda	9:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
	*10:00 A. M.
Werkendam, Rotterdam	8:00 A. M.	.....

*SUPPLEMENTARY MAILS.—Additional supplementary mails are opened on the piers of the American, English, French, and German steamers and remain open until within ten minutes of the hour of sailing.

TRANSPACIFIC MAILS.

Mails for Hawaii, Japan, China and the Philippine Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 11, inclusive, for dispatch per steamship Hongkong Maru. Mails for Hawaii, via Seattle, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 14, inclusive, for dispatch per steamship Bloemfontein. Mails for Hawaii, China, Japan, and the Philippine Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 19, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer China. Mails for Australia, (except West Australia,) New Zealand, Hawaii, Fiji, and Samoan Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. after Dec. 30 and up to Jan. 20, inclusive, or on day of arrival of steamship Campania, due at New York Jan. 20, for dispatch per steamship Moana. Mails for China and Japan, via Vancouver, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 23, inclusive, for dispatch per steamship Empress of Japan, (registered mail must be directed "via Vancouver.") Mails for Society Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 26, inclusive, for dispatch by ship City of Papeiti.

§Registered mail closes at 6 P. M. previous day.

Incoming Steamships.

TO-DAY, (TUESDAY,) JAN. 9.

Arkansas, Copenhagen, Dec. 9.
Bellenden, St. Lucia, Jan. 2.
Clematis, Gibraltar, Dec. 27.
El Paso, New Orleans, Jan. 4.
Europa, Shields, Dec. 21.
Exeter City, Bristol, Dec. 17.
Hubert, Barbados, Dec. 16.
John Sanderson, Antwerp, Dec. 23.
Louisiana, New Orleans, Jan. 4.
Sedgwick, Nuevitas, Jan. 5.
Winifred, Hamburg, Dec. 21.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 10.

Algonquin, Jacksonville, Jan. 7.
Alps, Jamaica, Jan. 2.
Aragonia, Antwerp, Dec. 30.
Bovic, Liverpool, Dec. 31.
Hogarth, St. Lucia, Jan. 3.
Nueces, Galveston, Jan. 3.
Powhatan, Gibraltar, Dec. 27.
Willehad, Bremen, Dec. 8.

THURSDAY, JAN. 11.

Colorado, Hull, Dec. 30.
El Mar, New Orleans, Jan. 6.
Fernfield, Shields, Dec. 27.
Marquette, London, Jan. 1.
Strabo, St. Lucia, Jan. 4.
Trave, Bremen, Jan. 2.

FRIDAY, JAN. 12.

Panama, Pauillac, Dec. 29.
Pennsylvania, Hamburg, Jan. 1.

SATURDAY, JAN. 13.

Critic, Dundee, Dec. 30.
Etruria, Liverpool, Jan. 6.
Norge, Christiansand, Dec. 30.
St. Paul, Southampton, Jan. 6.

SUNDAY, JAN. 14.

Astoria, Glasgow, Jan. 3.
Bendo, Hamburg, Dec. 31.
Exeter City, Swansea, Dec. 31.
La Gascogne, Havre, Jan. 6.
Moyune, Gibraltar, Dec. 31.

Arrived.

SS Teutonia, (Ger.,) Kuhlewein, Stettin, &c., Dec. 21, with mdse. to Hamburg-American Line. Arrived at the Bar at 10 P. M.

SS Kansas City, Fisher, Savannah, with mdse. and passengers to the Ocean Steamship Co.

SS Teutonia, (Ger.,) Kuhlewein, Stettin Dec. 23. Passed in Sandy Hook at 10:50 P. M.

SS Erna, (Ger.,) Bruhn, Port Maria, &c., Dec. 29, with mdse. and passengers to Tweedie Trading Co. Arrived at the Bar at noon.

SS Thomas Turnbull, (Br.,) Page, Girgenti, &c., Nov. 27, with mdse. to Hirzel, Feltman & Co.—vessel to Simpson, Spence & Young. Arrived at the Bar at 9 A. M.

SS Alleghany, (Br.,) Low, Savanilla, &c., Dec.

WANAMAKER'S WANAMAKER'S WANAMAKER'S

The Store in White

WE'VE been so busy telling of the merchandise events of the month that we've failed to mention the decorative features. The Rotunda holds many meritorious pieces of plastic work, while the cotton bales and lifelike piccaninnies hitch the Southland to the store with a fine symbolism of the White Month at Wanamaker's.

Economy is the rule—economy that amounts to the saving of a fourth, a third or even a half from usual prices. Not everything in the store is reduced—but day by day we at least hint of the things that are—and you know the carefulness of our newspaper talk.

Newness here and there—really dainty organdie and Swiss muslin dresses. Foolish to show them so soon? Not a bit of it—we are selling them to women who enjoy getting first choice. And so with the really beautiful new cotton fabrics by the yard.

The "1900" Shirt Waists

New! Wholly new in every detail, which must be a relief to you after the resurrected stocks shown even in the good stores. We have no old ones to foist off. New styles in making; new effects in trimming; new patterns in all the usual materials. The prettiest patterns, too, that could be found at home and abroad—many of them are ours exclusively. Madrases, percales, lawns, dimities, ginghams and batistes, and numerous pure white fabrics. The advance showing is interesting. prices, 50c to $17.50.

Second floor.

Guaranteed Black Silks

This store does not ask to shine by reflected glory, but it shall be made to meet in every way the ideals of the old A. T. Stewart days—with the added brightness of greater stocks and the developing advantages that the Wanamaker system brings.

Black Silks—judge by these Peau de Soies, the weight for dresses. We guarantee these qualities to withstand six months' usual wear—$1, $1.25, $1.50 and $2 a yard. We guarantee all silks in a broad way that makes this the very safest of silk stores, but this specific time guarantee is given only on specific goods. Ask for the guaranteed Peau de Soie.

In the Rotunda.

Queen Mary Perfumes We have developed a new perfume in our laboratory — and named it "Sisi." Delicate but lasting and sure to be popular with discriminating women.

¾ oz. for 35c. 1½ oz. for 55c.

Queen of Violets is exquisite. Ounce for 45c.

A Cologne for use in the sick-room—rather more delicate than the usual. Very grateful. 75c for a pint bottle.

Phytalia will do all that any hair tonic can do—and it's pure and harmless. 45c and 85c.

Violet Water, 3 oz., 25c.

"Queen Mary" is our registered trade-mark. We'd as soon think of throwing away fifty thousand dollars as to permit an unworthy thing to be sold under this label.

Tenth street.

Embroidered Flannels Silk-embroidered polka-dotted flannels, 75c. yd.

The colorings are garnet, castor, brown, and cadet blue, each with black dots.

Cardinal, garnet, reseda, castor, cadet blue, brown, black and navy blue, each with white dots.

When Fashion fixes on a goods, we try our best to furnish it economically. Nobody thinks of selling these bright and scarce flannels at such a little price.

We haven't enough, but we have a splendid line of colorings, as you can see by the list. Will you come in time for whatever you need?

Fourth avenue and Tenth street, Main floor.

Women's Neckwear Every few weeks our Paris people send us new neck fixings—capes, ruffs and the like—charming things. Well, they are not to keep—hence, half price, for the straggling few.

Capes, $12 to $30 Just a few. Ruffs, $5 to $20

Broadway.

Muslin Underwear—January Prices

There's a snap and go to this January selling that is carrying off the big lots rapidly. Low prices—despite the fact that muslins are dearer. It's good fortune, surely. Careful women buy largely in January, both because of the economy and because new muslins are warmest. Wear the garments a while now and you'll find them all the more pleasant next summer.

Gowns

38c—Muslin; yoke of fine plaits and rows of embroidery insertion; neck and sleeves trimmed with lawn ruffle. Not more than 3 to a buyer.

50c—Fine muslin; Empire neck; large revers, neck and sleeves trimmed with ruffle; shield of embroidery.

75c—Muslin; yoke of fine plaits and embroidery insertion; neck and sleeves trimmed with fine embroidery; ribbon at neck.

$1—Muslin; pointed yoke of embroidery insertion and rows of hemstitching; embroidery ruffle on neck and sleeves.

Chemises

18c—Muslin; cambric ruffle on neck and sleeves. Not more than 3 to a buyer.

25c—Muslin; corded bands on neck and sleeves; open fronts.

35c—Muslin; square neck with wide insertion; neck and armholes trimmed with cambric ruffle.

65c—Cambric; square neck trimmed with wide torchon insertion; neck and sleeves trimmed with lace edging.

85c—Nainsook; round neck and armholes trimmed with embroidery, and baby ribbon.

Drawers

10c—Muslin; deep hem and fine plaits. Not more than 3 to a buyer.

15c—Muslin or cambric; deep hem and cluster of plaits. Three to a buyer.

25c—Muslin; ruffle of cambric with clusters of fine plaits.

35c—Muslin; ruffle of embroidery and fine plaits above.

50c—Cambric; deep ruffle of lawn, edged with torchon lace; plaits above.

Petticoats

35c—Muslin; narrow cambric ruffle; fine plaits above. Not more than 3 to a buyer.

50c—Muslin; deep flounce, with wide hem and plaits.

90c—Muslin; deep umbrella ruffle of lawn and ruffle of embroidery.

Short Petticoats

25c—Muslin; neat ruffle and plaits above. Not more than 3 to a buyer.

35c—Muslin; deep ruffle of cambric; wide hem and fine plaits.

50c—Muslin; deep ruffle of embroidery and fine plaits above.

75c—Muslin; deep umbrella ruffle of lawn and ruffle of embroidery; plaits above.

Housekeeping Linens===January Prices

We have studied linens with more care, probably, than has been given the subject by any other American house—we have experts continually on the watch; half the year among the loom-men of Europe.

The statement is justified that linen prices at Wanamaker's average 12 per cent. under the market right along.

Just now, distributing lots gathered for this special January selling, savings are greater than usual. And the fact is important, for linens are "the brown sugar of the dry-goods trade," and prices are not apt to vary a great deal in the average store.

TABLE CLOTHS — Flemish, double satin damask.

2x2½ yds.—$5.50 for the $7.50 kind.
2x3 yds.—$6.75 for the $9 kind.
2½x2½ yds.—$6.75 for the $9 kind.
2½x3 yds.—$8.75 for the $11 kind.

NAPKINS

26-in. napkins, to match table cloths above, at $6 doz. for the $8 kind.
22-in. grass bleached Bohemian, 85c doz. for the $1 kind.
22-in. bleached German, soft finish, $1.65 doz. for the $2.25 kind.
22-in. French bleached double damask at $3 doz. instead of $3.75.

Fourth avenue.

TABLE LINEN—By the yard.

Beautiful silky flax, woven into our special patterns, 72 in. wide, $1.25 yd. for the $1.75 kind.
Bleached Scotch damask, 72 in. wide, 75c yd. for the $1 kind.

LINEN SHEETS

72x90 in., $1.50 for the $1.75 kind.
90x96 in., $1.75 for the $2 kind.

TOWELS

Fancy weave, soft finish, hemstitched, 27x45 in., 50c each for the 75c kind.
Bleached damask, hemstitched or with knotted fringe, 19c for the 25c kind.
Hemmed German huckaback, 22x40 in., $2.50 doz. for the $3 kind.

More Raglan Overcoats Demand is running ahead of the supply—for style and dressiness characterize the Raglans we sell. If you were disappointed last week, come now. We've just received more from the tailors. Oxford-gray cheviot, you know, $38.

Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Hurt Books You've taken the hurt books at the rate of three to four thousand a day. There's exceptionally fine picking to-day, perhaps to-morrow and next day. But don't delay. Here are some items—

Encyclopedia Britannica, with American Supplement, 30 vols., $25.
Encyclopedia Britannica, Scribner Edition, half morocco, 25 vols., $75.
New National Cyclopedia, 4 vols., $2.50.
Bulwer Lytton's Complete Works, best American edition, 25 vols., $23.50.
Our Poets; their portraits and poems, 50c.
Common Sense in Household. Marion Harland; oilcloth cover, 30c.
Common Sense in Nursery. Marion Harland; 30c.
Over three thousand volumes John Ruskin at 15c and 18c per vol.
Some of the sets of books mentioned a few days ago still exist.
A large lot of Illustrated Editions and sets added to-day.

More of the hurt Music—sheet music. No matter how much it sells for regularly, we've marked these marred sheets at 5c.

Calendars—What we have left, at 5c to 50c apiece. The full prices were 10c to $3.50.

Book Store, Ninth street.

Women's Handkerchiefs Fine and Cheap Almost too fine for ordinary use. Almost too few to hold longer in stock. They are fine French Linen Handkerchiefs—woven by hand, threads drawn by hand, embroidered by hand. Priced regularly at $1, $1.25 and $1.50. They'll be in other hands in a hurry to-day, for they're to go at 50c for choice

Broadway.

Selling Fine Lamps Very Cheaply About $6.000 worth in this offering. Some that remain from the large holiday showing. Lamps lingering lots from manufacturers eager to close, and others—really elegant lamps—of which no more than one of a kind was ever made. Prices have been $6.50 to $125. Now, they're $4 to $62.50.

Basement.

A Sale of Onyx Tables and Cabinets A number of styles are to be closed out—good styles, desirable in every way. Brass has advanced considerably in price, but these were bought before the rise in value. All these were reasonably priced then and up until to-day. A third off some, a half off others—now they're bargains worth while—

TABLES

$7.50—10x10 in. onyx top; 6 in. shelf; was $12.
$8—14x14 in. onyx top; 4 in. shelf; was $13.50.
$10—14x14 in. onyx top; 8 in. shelf; was $15.
$18—14x14 in. onyx top; 14x14 in. onyx shelf; onyx columns; was $30.

CABINETS—Odd pieces.

$15 kind for $7.50 $30 kind for $15
$22 kind for $11.25 $35 kind for $17.50

Basement.

Pictures—Bargains New York waited long for a picture store that sold bits of beauty for little money—and never offended good taste—waited, or got along without it. But the Wanamaker picture store has been widely appreciated.

No matter what the artistic value of a picture is, there is a commercial side, and once in a while we get lots like these—

Well-framed Etchings—sizes 18x38 and 24x34 inches, and Artotypes, 20x24 inches, at $1.75 and $3—though regularly $3 to $4.50.

A catalogue of the store's art gallery has been prepared to add to your enjoyment of the paintings. Free, of course, at the picture store.

Fifth floor.

Seersucker Petticoats There's a fresh lot here this morning—the other collection didn't last long. Why? Well, we're selling them at 50c, though they were cheap at 85c.

Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Shoe News of Special Interest

We've one shoemaker among our suppliers whose great forte is making $5 Shoes. Recently he got a lot of skins a trifle too heavy, as he thought, and we have the shoes (made in usual good way) to sell at $3. Black kidskin, lace and button; kid or patent-leather tips. We really feel that the extra weight of leather is an advantage for winter wear.

Fourth avenue and Ninth street.

In the Fifth-floor Bargain Store—

Women's kidskin and calfskin Shoes at $1.60. Last of lots that were bargains at $1.85 and $2. Good styles.

Boys' Shoes at $1—sizes 9 to 13, with spring heels; sizes 12 to 2, with heels. Tan and black.

Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co., JOHN WANAMAKER Broadway, Fourth Ave., Ninth and Tenth Streets.

MR. HAY NAMES MOLINEUX

Handwriting Expert Sure He Addressed the Poison Package.

BANK TELLER ALSO TESTIFIES

Morris Herrmann Tells of Prisoner's Work in Color Factory—Mr. Osborne Asks About Zeller.

The session of the Molineux trial in the Court of General Sessions yesterday, which marked the opening of the ninth week of the trial, was for the most part given over to expert handwriting testimony, the witnesses being Edwin D. Hay of Washington, a professional expert, and Alfred H. Graham, the paying teller of the National Bank of North America, who admitted that this was his début as an expert in disputed handwriting. The only other witness of note was Morris Herrmann, of whose dry-color factory in Newark Molineux was Superintendent at the time of his arrest.

Mr. Herrmann testified merely that Molineux was in charge of the laboratory in Newark; that he conducted a number of chemical experiments there in the line of his business and for the firm by which he was employed, and that a certain Robert A. Zeller, the bookkeeper and shipping clerk of the firm, had not been in this city for some months.

Mr. Osborne has always made a point of Zeller's unwillingness to appear on the witness stand for the prosecution. He has intimated time and again to the jury that Zeller could tell a great many interesting things if he only would, and he has reiterated this statement every time he got some one on the stand who was connected with Morris Herrmann & Co. He made more of it than he has heretofore done when Mr. Herrmann was on the stand, and under the vigorous objection of Mr. Weeks, who said that the whole line of inquiry was immaterial.

The testimony of Mr. Hay was another feature of the proceedings. Mr. Weeks's first question put to test the witness's aspirations to it be. He admitted he was only "Mr." Hay, and that he had only been called "Colonel" through courtesy. In fact, he told Mr. Weeks that there was nothing martial in his make-up, and that he was contented to be known as Mr. Hay. Mr. Hay, who was on the stand four hours, is extremely slow and exact in speech, pronouncing the articles "a" and "the" with much clearness, and dividing his words into syllables, each of which he pronounces with great deliberation.

MR. HAY NAMES MOLINEUX.

Mr. Hay told the jury that not alone was he convinced that Molineux wrote the address on the poison package and the other writings in dispute, but he was also convinced that no other person in the world could have written them. He told Mr. Weeks that he might be wrong, but he did not believe that he was. In fact, he said that he had seldom been wrong.

Mr. Hay was also anxious to go into explanations upon his cross-examination, so much so that Mr. Weeks, calling the attention of the Recorder to the fact that Mr. Hay claimed to be a practicing lawyer of twenty-five years' experience, said the witness ought to know better than to volunteer testimony. At such times Mr. Hay turned calmly to the Recorder and said:

"If your Honor pleases, I withdraw the objectionable statement."

The court was crowded, as usual, and there were the usual lot of curious women present, who craned their necks into all sorts of poses to get a good look at the defendant. He paid no attention to them and seemed to be in excellent health and spirits. His extended exercise in the jail has relieved his pallor, and he was in good enough humor to seem mightily amused at Mr. Hay's testimony.

On taking the stand, at the opening of the session, Morris Herrmann said that for some time prior to his arrest Molineux had been in charge of the laboratory connected with the color works in Newark and that he had made up the colors from recipes made for and furnished to him.

"It was upon Mr. Molineux's knowledge of chemistry that the colors were made up?" asked Mr. Osborne.

"Partly," said Mr. Herrmann.

"And upon his knowledge of chemicals?"

"Partly."

"Who else had any knowledge of chemistry?"

"The foremen in the four departments."

"Molineux had a laboratory in your place and experimented there?"

"He did."

"Have you a bookkeeper in your employ named Robert A. Zeller?"

"We have."

"Where is he now?"

"In our Newark factory."

"Have you any objection, to his coming here as a witness?"

"None at all."

ZELLER KEEPING AWAY.

There was an argument between counsel on this line of testimony, and Mr. Osborne took occasion to remark that if Zeller did not appear he was keeping away for a purpose. Mr. Herrmann said that Zeller came to New York every Friday with the pay rolls.

"Do you know why he stopped coming to the city?"

"I do not."

"How long has it been since he came here?"

"Several months."

"For how many years had Zeller been coming to this city with the pay rolls?"

"For about three years."

On cross-examination, Mr. Herrmann told Mr. Weeks that to the best of his knowledge the laboratory was seldom locked, and that he rarely went into it. He told all about the dry colors made by the firm, but on an objection by Mr. Osborne he was not allowed to state the amount of Molineux's salary.

"Is this man Zeller in your employ now?" asked the Recorder.

"He is," said the witness.

"Did you give him any orders to discontinue his trips to this city?"

"I did not."

"Do you know whether any other person in your employ told him not to come to this city?"

"Not to my knowledge."

Luther S. White, a photographer, was called to the stand to identify a set of photographs that he had taken of the Herrmann factory and of Molineux's laboratory. In one of the latter there was also a photograph of Mr. Zeller. He said that when he took the photographs Detectives McCafferty and Carey were with him. After objection by Mr. Weeks, the photographs were put in evidence.

MR. HAY'S TESTIMONY.

Mr. Hay was next called to the stand. Mr. Osborne called him at various times "Colonel" and "Professor," and he answered to both titles with equal grace. He said he had been called into the case by Col. Gardiner, and that when he first came here and the writings were handed to him he was not told who the District Attorney suspected. Mr. Osborne handed the witness the various exhibits of handwritings in the case, the admitted letters, the disputed letters, and the poison wrapper address. He said he had studied them all thoroughly.

"And what is your opinion about the 'Cornish' and 'Barnet' letters?" asked Mr. Osborne.

"That they were written by the same hand that wrote the conceded letters."

"And have you formed an opinion about the poison address?"

"I have. I am of the opinion that the same hand that wrote the admitted and disputed writings also wrote this address."

Mr. Hay then went on to give at great length his reasons for believing that his conclusions were correct. He was seldom interrupted and talked on from a little after 11 until 1 o'clock, when recess was taken.

At one stage he talked of the triangular effect of the writing, that it ran from large-sized capitals down to the minutest small letters. A juror asked him if this was unusual, and the witness said it was not, but it was more marked in Molineux's writings than usual.

Mr. Hay referred to the "coerced" writings, and for a while no one knew what he meant until he mentioned the numbers. Mr. Weeks then told him that these were the "request" writings, written for Mr. Kinsley, and not coerced, as the witness had understood.

Mr. Hay's reasons for arriving at the conclusions that he did were in effect just the same as have already been given by the other experts. His attention was particularly called to the word "city" written by Molineux on an envelope addressed to a Mr. Hallett, and the same word on one of the "Barnet" envelopes. He said that it was impossible that more than one person could have written these two words unless one had traced them.

SORT OF A GEORGIA COLONEL.

"Mr. Osborne calls you Colonel," began Mr. Weeks, on cross-examination. "Is that your title?"

"Oh, merely complimentary," said the witness. "I have never done anything brave or military."

"Sort of a Georgia Colonel, eh?"

"Yes."

"What is your business?"

"I am a practicing attorney in Washington, D. C."

"Have you had any other business?"

"Yes. I was a lecturer on commercial law, bookkeeping, penmanship, and mathematics in a business college in Washington."

Mr. Weeks then drew out that Mr. Hay received what he called "the usual compensation" of $50 a day. He said he had first rendered an opinion to a newspaper in this city from some supposed Molineux writing and some newspaper fac similes of the poison address, and had received $200 for the service.

"Now, do you believe that two persons could have written the word 'city' on Exhibit J and the poison address?"

"They could have."

Mr. Weeks got Mr. Hay to go over most of his reasons again, and finally asked him about his previous experiences. He said he had been opposed to Mr. Ames in several cases, and had been both opposed to and associated with Mr. Carvalho.

"Then on the occasions that you and Mr. Ames were opposed to each other he was right and you were wrong, or you were right and he was wrong?"

"Naturally. But the jury sustained me."

"Have you ever been mistaken?"

"Not frequently. I have heard the claim made that I was once. I do not remember the other occurrences."

HIS PART IN THE WARE CASE.

"Do you remember the Ware case, in which the highest court of Virginia held 'the conclusions of the expert are clearly overthrown by the actual proven facts'?"

Mr. Hay did not answer, as an objection had been made by Mr. Osborne, but, as soon as the objection was sustained, the witness said: "The court afterward said I was right."

"Now this gentleman claims to be a lawyer," said Mr. Weeks, "and he knows that if a question is excluded he has no right to get on the record the explanation of it."

"Yes, if that stands the question and answer must stand," said the Court.

"I'll withdraw the observation, may it please your Honor," said the witness blandly, and a roar of laughter went round the courtroom.

On re-direct examination Mr. Hay reiterated his firm opinion that he was right in his premises and conclusions, and Mr. Graham was called to the stand. He first told Mr. Weeks he had never testified before in a case of disputed handwriting, and that his experience was confined to a knowledge of the signatures of depositors in his bank. He told Mr. Osborne that he had studied the writings in all about fifteen hours and that he was convinced that Molineux had written them all.

On cross-examination Mr. Weeks asked the witness to state all the reasons for his belief, and he started to give them in a halting, labored way. Mr. Weeks pushed him hard several times, and the witness became much confused. Finally the Recorder intervened and said the examination had gone far enough.

Mr. Weeks strenuously objected, and said he could not tell what was the value of the witness's opinion until he knew the reasons for it. The Recorder shut off further argument by stating that there were sufficient reasons given to enable the jury to form an opinion as to the value of the witness's evidence, and Mr. Graham left the stand with a sigh of relief.

The case goes on to-day.

FIREMEN SEE BUILDING BURN.

Could Not Play Water on Edison Plant's Testing Department Until Current Had Been Turned Off.

The spectacle of a whole battalion of firemen with charged lines standing in front of a blazing building unable to put a drop of water on the fire was witnessed last night on Twenty-sixth Street, near Sixth Avenue. The one-story structure 45 West Twenty-sixth Street, occupied by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company as a testing department and located next to the company's eight-story brick structure, was in flames.

When Engine Company No. 1, from West Twenty-ninth Street, dashed up in front of the building, Capt. O'Grady ordered his men to "stretch in," and Lieut. Conlon headed a part of the company and was about to batter in the front door of the building when he was met by two engineers from the dynamo room of the Edison building adjoining.

"For God's sake, don't go in there!" exclaimed the engineers.

"Why not?" responded Capt. O'Grady. "That place is afire. Stretch in there, boys, and start your water."

"There are large dynamos in that building," shouted the engineers. "It's charged with 6,000 volts of electricity, and if you turn on that stream you'll kill every man on that line."

The company hesitated. The line was charged, and the men stood awaiting orders less than two feet in front of the building now one mass of fire.

Capt. O'Grady said he was willing to "chance it" himself, but would not put the lives of the company needlessly in jeopardy. So he decided to await the arrival of a superior. Meantime other companies arrived, and the firemen were startled to see a company standing idly in the street while the flames menaced the surrounding property. The crowds that had gathered wondered and shouted.

Battalion Chief Gooderson arrived a minute later. He took in the situation, and ordered the companies to get their lines ready in front of the building, but under no condition to turn on the water. Soon three lines of hose were pointed at the blazing building and all the firemen stood behind them. Chief Gooderson sent word that the current must be shut off from the testing room.

It was three minutes before this could be done, and in this interval the fire burned furiously, and looked as if it would spread to the surrounding houses.

"All right now; get in on it," said Chief Gooderson when the engineers informed him that the electricity had been shut off.

The battalion of firemen made a rush for the building, and in fifteen minutes the fire was under control.

RAPID TRANSIT MEETING.

Suit of Mr. Fowler May Be Discussed To-day—Delegations to Appear.

Neither the Rapid Transit Commission nor the City Government seemed at all disconcerted yesterday over the action instituted against them by Congressman Charles N. Fowler of Elizabeth, N. J., who has filed a complaint in equity in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York based on the claim that they contemplate an infringement upon his patent for "island platforms" in the construction of the road. Mr. Fowler seeks a perpetual injunction restraining them from infringing upon the invention, and asks that in the event of the contracts being awarded he shall be permitted to make the contractors a party to his suit.

The matter may be discussed at a meeting of the Rapid Transit Commission to be held this afternoon, when arrangements will be made for the opening of bids for the construction of the road next Monday. Chief Engineer William Barclay Parsons of the commission said that no bids were expected to come in ahead of time or much before noon on the day set, because as each has to be accompanied with a certified check for $150,000, nobody is likely to forfeit the interest on so large a sum for any longer time than is absolutely necessary, and no checks can be certified before the opening of banking hours.

Controller Coler is expected to appear before the meeting to advocate his plan to continue the road to the Battery, and thence by tunnel to South Brooklyn and Bay Ridge, and from there by another tunnel to Staten Island. There will also appear delegations from various organizations of the upper west side, who will urge that work be commenced on the upper sections of the line at the same time as on the first section.

David Stewart, Secretary of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, said: "If they start all at once they will increase the taxation valuation of property in the upper part of the island and the Bronx enough to pay for the road. A great many lots north of One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Street are owned by people who do not want to sell them, but to build on them themselves, and, of course, as soon as they do so it will increase the valuation." This delegation will also wait upon Mayor Van Wyck in regard to the matter, and a joint meeting of all the organizations interested will be held to-night at the Young Men's Christian Association Hall in West One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Street to consider the subject.

Centenarian in City Hospital.

Mary Cowan, 100 years old, a homeless woman, was sent to the City Hospital yesterday from the City Lodging House, where she has been since Sunday morning. She says she has no friends.

DUPONTS' LOVE AFFAIRS

Husband's Efforts to Have His Marriage Annuled Fail.

Trouble Began in a Darkened Philadelphia Parlor When Both Were Students.

A love affair which began within the walls of the University of Pennsylvania was rehearsed before Justice Smyth, in the Supreme Court, yesterday. The principals in the trial were Charles C. and Catherine Hughes Dupont. Dupont sued for the annulment of his marriage on the ground that it was secured under threats and duress, but Justice Smyth, after hearing the evidence, dismissed the complaint on the ground the plaintiff had failed to make out his case.

Dupont was a dental student in the University of Pennsylvania in 1896 when he met Miss Catherine Hughes. She was a student in the Industrial Art School. He was then twenty-three and she was twenty-one. Dupont is an athletic-looking young man, and is good looking. He wears glasses and parts his hair in the middle. His wife is a pretty woman of the brunette type. She was stylishly attired in a gray costume.

Dupont was the first witness, and he lost no time in getting down to the facts in the case. He said he married Miss Hughes on Oct. 26, 1897, but that he had never lived with her. They both lived at the same boarding house, 129 South Thirty-sixth Street, Philadelphia, when they met. He then described a scene that occurred on All Hollow'en in the parlor of the boarding house.

"I was sitting on the sofa, and Miss Hughes came in," said Dupont. "She took a seat on the sofa beside me and put her arms around my neck and kissed me."

"How were the lights? Were they turned high or low?" Dupont was asked.

"They were turned low," replied the witness.

This was the beginning of the interesting love affair, according to Dupont. A few days later, testified Dupont, he was in his room practicing on his cornet. There was a knock on the door, and upon his summons for the person outside to come in, Miss Hughes entered. She remained in the room for some time.

Dupont said everything went along smoothly until the matter got to the ears of Dr. Kirke, the Dean of the university, and then his troubles began. Dupont said Dr. Kirke sent word that he wanted to see him on urgent business. The witness said that when he arrived in Dean Kirke's room the latter asked him: "Did you ever have any trouble with a girl in Reading, Penn.?"

"I answered that I never had, and Dr. Kirke replied, 'Here is somebody that may refresh your recollection.'

"At that Dr. Kirke summoned a Dr. Brown from another room. Dr. Brown had a note from Miss Hughes, which asked me to meet her at the Terminal Station immediately and avoid trouble. Dr. Brown said that Miss Hughes was a girl of whom nobody need be ashamed and that he had come to see me prepared to use every legal means to compel me to marry her.

"I accompanied Dr. Brown to the depot and there met Miss Hughes. She said her father would kill us both unless I married her. Dr. Brown began to talk in a loud voice. There were many people in the place. He declared I had to marry Miss Hughes, and said, 'Remember what your Dean said.'

"I thought the only way I could save myself from utter disgrace was to accede, but protested that I would look upon the marriage as forced and would bring legal proceedings as soon as I could to have the marriage annuled. Dr. Brown said Miss Hughes would never bother me if I married her; that she would never use my name, and that I would never see her again. I finally consented and we were married."

On cross-examination Dupont said he was over six feet tall and weighed 185 pounds. He thought he was able to take care of himself against one man. He admitted he had not complained to the minister who married him that he was under duress.

A deposition made by A. S. Pendleton was read. In it Pendleton states he boarded in the same house with the defendant at Philadelphia. He says Mrs. Dupont was an intimate friend of his before her marriage with Dupont.

Dr. E. Kirke's deposition was also made. In it he says that he did not know of the fact that Dupont and Miss Hughes were married until late in 1898. He admitted he had summoned Dupont to his office on the day of the marriage to question him as to the charges made by Dr. Brown.

Mrs. Dupont, who was then called, denied she had been an intimate friend of Pendleton. She admitted, however, she had lived in the same house with him.

The Rev. Dr. John H. Logie testified to having married Dupont and Miss Hughes. He said that the plaintiff had not protested at the time that he was under duress.

Dr. John W. Brown of Reading, Penn., told of his visit to Dr. Kirke regarding the case. He admitted that he had talked to Dupont about the matter, and asked him to go to the station to meet Miss Hughes, but denied that he had used any threats or mentioned Miss Hughes's father.

Mrs. James Hughes, the mother of the defendant, testified that Dupont had visited his wife at the Hughes home during the Christmas holidays in 1898. She said Dupont was very attentive to her daughter, and never spoke of suing for an annulment of the marriage.

Mrs. Dupont, who was then recalled, denied she had made any of the threats alleged. Mrs. Dupont also said that she had never received any summons or complaint in the case. This ended the trial.

PROGRESS CLUB TO MOVE.

Will Dispose of Its Present Home and Build a Larger One.

The Progress Club has decided to dispose of its present house at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Sixty-third Street, and will erect a new home on a site yet to be selected. A committee which will have these matters in charge has been appointed, and consists of the President of the club, Levi Samuels, Joseph Bloomingdale, Meyer Jonasson, H. Hahlo, Louis Korn, Simon Uhlman, and S. Frankel.

A member of this committee said yesterday that the reason for the club moving was simply that its present house is regarded by a majority of the members as inadequate. Nothing has been done as yet in the matter of selecting a new site. The committee has held only one meeting. No sites have been offered to the club, and none seriously considered by it. In any event, the present house will be sold before a new site is bought.

The Progress Club was organized in 1864, and the house at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-third Street was finished in 1890.

Whist Club's New Home.

Title to the four-story brick building 13 West Thirty-sixth Street will be made over to the Whist Club of New York on Jan. 16. The club is now located at 11 West Thirty-sixth Street. Plans were submitted to the Building Department yesterday for a two-story extension to No. 13, which will be fitted up for the club at an estimated cost of $10,000.

Religious Census of Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—A big enterprise was formally launched to-night, when representatives of all the Christian denominations and organizations in this city met and announced a religious census of the city, to be taken on Feb. 22. The census will be a complete one, covering the million and a quarter of people of Philadelphia, and the work will be all done in one day. An army of workers, representing all denominations, will be employed on Feb. 22 in gathering statistics. The entire city has been divided into districts and sub-districts. This is the first time a religious census has been undertaken in this city in which all the Christian denominations have joined in the movement.

Maurice B. Blumenthal to Marry.

When Assistant District Attorney Maurice B. Blumenthal went West on his vacation, a few weeks ago, none of his associates in the District Attorney's office had any idea that he would return engaged. While passing through Indiana he stopped over to visit his father's cousin, Morris Blumenthal, of Marion, Ind. He met Miss Minnie Blumenthal, and had his vacation extended long enough to become engaged to her. He returned to New York on Sunday, and the news of his engagement leaked out yesterday. The wedding will take place in June.

Trimble

"When you do drink, Drink Trimble."

Green Label.

The Green Label Bottling is 10 years old.

At all First-Class Dealers.

WHITE, HENTZ & CO., Phila. and N. Y. Sole Proprietors.

Established 1793

Whiskey

YOU SAY YOU ARE NOT "WELL."

Of course—how can you be well if you are not healthy?

ABBEY'S SALT cures and prevents Constipation, Headache, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Nervous Depression, Rheumatism.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt will invigorate your system and keep you in perfect health. It has done it for others—it will do it for you. Wherever Abbey's Effervescent Salt has been introduced it has received unbiased recommendation.

There are some people who never do anything until they have to. Don't be one of them. Take care of your health while you have it. Retain it by the daily use of Abbey's Effervescent Salt.

All Druggists. 25c., 50c. and $1 per bottle.

FREE Send two 2-ct. stamps, to pay postage and packing, and we will mail you one of the most dainty and beautiful colored calendar creations of the year.

The Abbey Effervescent Salt Co., Dept. E, 13 Murray St., New York.

VICHY CELESTINS

IS A Natural Mineral Water, known for centuries and imported

ONLY IN BOTTLES,

For Disordered Stomach and Indigestion.

Its value has been testified to by thousands.

So-called Vichy in Syphons is Not Vichy.

Get the Genuine.

Your Physician will recommend it.

General Agency 220 B'way, N. Y.

Kennedy

12 CORTLANDT ST.

COLORED SHIRTS AT HALF PRICE

$1.50 Shirts for 68c. each,

The stock of Clinton H. Smith, which we bought from the Assignee.

A Clean Up of Underwear.

At 50c. (Shirts only); were . . . 1.25
At 39c. " " " 75

"BUY CHINA & GLASS RIGHT"

HIGGINS & SEITER

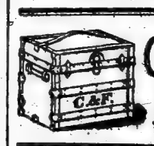
FINE CHINA · RICH CUT GLASS

ALL PRICES LESS THAN ELSEWHERE 50-54 West 22d St. WEDDING GIFTS A SPECIALTY

Wheatena

The Best HEALTH FOOD for BREAKFAST

Sold by ALL GROCERS.



CROUCH & FITZGERALD

161 BROADWAY.
688 BROADWAY.
723 SIXTH AVENUE.

MAGIC HAIR STAIN

for lightest brown or black; prepared by George Ormsby, wigmaker, 169 Tremont St., Boston; contains no lead or nerve poison; no smutting or rubbing off; use it once; nothing like it; price $1. Sold by C. N. Crittenton Co., 115 Fulton St., N. Y.; Walter S. Rockey, 8th Av. & 35th St., 42d St. & B'way.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL

David Belasco's First Experiment as a Writer of Comedy.

"DON PASQUALE" REVIVED

"Naughty Anthony," "Red Riding Hood," and a New Melodrama of Native Origin.

The originality and the piquantly captivating quality of the acting of Blanche Bates in "Naughty Anthony," the new farce by David Belasco, which was produced in a most elaborate fashion at the Herald Square Theatre last evening, ought to serve to make the performance much talked of and to give the piece vogue for some little while. Miss Bates has been seen here hitherto in deadly serious characters—two wicked women of melodrama and Mr. Zangwill's ill-fated Hannah. In all three of these rôles she achieved success. Now, in a part of vastly different import and quality, she proves equally successful.

The range of her talent of expression is perhaps not so remarkable as her artistic comprehension and adaptiveness. As the conscienceless and droll hussy of Mr. Belasco's play, she is obviously the same woman, in all her outward attributes, as the conscienceless and malignant vixen of Grundy's dramatization of Dumas. But the effect of her wiles now upon the spectator is delightfully amusing.

Audacious, alluring, hopelessly lacking in refinement and not even desiring to possess it, smitten by the rather grave charms of a humbug professor of moral culture but not averse to drinking champagne in the company of another man—such is the precious stocking model whom Miss Bates is now impersonating. The impersonation is pleasingly buoyant in every scene, and is as tasteful as, in the circumstances, it possibly could be. The much-heralded stocking scene in which the reprehensible model exhibits the fit of expensive stockings to three Salvation lasses, and is interrupted by an advocate of moral culture, may be found a trifle tame by the visitors from other cities who largely support such farces. A rainy-day episode earlier in the play is rather more suggestive and devilish. Both are carried gracefully, with a hint of latent irony, by the actress.

As to whether or not Miss Bates will injure her dignity in the public mind by appearing in a rôle so hopelessly banal there may be two opinions, but the experiment will prove to observers whose good opinion is worth having that her gifts are even more varied than was supposed.

All of Miss Bates's associates are competent, some of them much more than that. Mr. Worthing acts the perturbed young humbug who kissed the girl in the public pavilion and then accused another man of the dreadful deed, with admirable lightness and humor. To our thinking he has not appeared to better advantage, so far as the exhibition of his own powers is concerned. Mr. Le Moyne carries an old-fashioned low comedy rôle with all his old quaintness of expression, and Maude Harrison acts a dubious sort of young wife with her unfailing skill. Olive Redpath, Samuel Edwards, Mary Barker, tall Mr. Gillingworth, and little Mr. Wilks are all excellent in their various ways, and William Elton makes as much of his rôle as any one could.

The manner of the production, as has been said, is most elaborate. The scenery is all striking, especially the white headquarters of moral culture, with the electric lilies and the admonitory clock, and the pink-upholstered boudoir, which recalls memories of one of the scenes in "One of our Girls" at the Lyceum many years ago. The subordinate players have been laboriously drilled, and there is not a needed detail lacking in the costumes and properties. Mr. Le Moyne's carpet slippers are as useful in the general effect as Miss Bates's hats and hosiery, Miss Harrison's gowns, or Miss Redpath's short frocks.

In fact, if Mr. Belasco was more of an original humorist his play would have been received with tremendous acclaim. His zeal, his inventiveness, his adaptive faculty, his capacity for taking pains are everywhere apparent. But, as some wag remarked with not too much exaggeration for a "first night" of a new farce, the best fun of the night was in Mr. Belasco's own personal, comical, and extremely nervous little speech of thanks for the kindly applause after Act II.

The artifice of the play is too elaborate and entirely too strongly in evidence, and while it contains many mildly diverting passages and even a few bits of rather clever dialogue, it certainly does not encourage the idea that David Belasco is as much at home in the domain of farce as in that of "emotional drama" and "society plays."

Anthony Depew	Frank Worthing
Adam Budd	William J. Le Moyne
Zachary Chillington	William Elton
Jack Cheviot	Charles Wyngate
Hussted	Claude Gillingwater
Brigham	E. P. Wilks
Miss Rinkett	Fanny Young
Cowley	Albert Bruning
Knox	Samuel Edwards
Ed	Brandon Tynan
Dick	William Lamp
Mrs. Chillington	Maude Harrison
Rosy	Mary Barker
Winnie	Olive Redpath
Margaret	Frances Jolliffe
Mary	Ethel Norman
Martha	Katharine Black
Cora	Blanche Bates

DONIZETTI'S "DON PASQUALE."

An Old Opera Revived at the Metropolitan.

The anxiety of this public to hear new works has long been known to be a small and apparently diminishing quantity. On the other hand, there is a readiness to listen to the famous singers of Mr. Grau's company in new parts. When novelties are not produced, these are not easily supplied. Mr. Grau shows a good deal of ingenuity in moving the pieces on his operatic chessboard into new combinations, but even his resources will not last forever. Consequently it becomes necessary sometimes to bring forward old works which have not been heard in many years. One of these revivals took place last night, when Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" was produced for the opportunity it afforded Mme. Sembrich to appear in a part in which she had not been previously heard by this public.

To those acquainted with the history of opera this work brings up recollections of one of the greatest combinations of singers ever brought together, one which must make even those of Mr. Grau's company pale by comparison. "Don Pasquale" was written for the Théâtre des Italiens in Paris, and was produced there in 1843 with Grisi, Mario, Tamburini, and Lablache in the four rôles. It was produced in this city in English on March 9, 1846, and in Italian on Dec. 18, 1849. The soprano rôle was a favorite with Mme. Patti, and it was one of the battle horses of Ilma di Murska. The work was last performed on the operatic stage in this city, previous to last night, at the Academy of Music, under the management of Col. Mapleson, on April 13, 1880. The cast consisted of Marie Marimon as Norina, Signor Lazzarini as Ernesto, Signor Del Puente as Dr. Malatesta, and Signor Papini as Don Pasquale. A later performance of the opera, however, was at Chickering Hall on Jan. 19, 1884, when the cast was as follows: Norina, Mme. Lillian Nordica; Ernesto, Signor Brignoli; Dr. Malatesta, Signor Bellati; and Don Pasquale, Signor Caracciolo. Those who may be astonished at finding the Isolde and Brunhilde of to-day as the representative of the volatile Norina, sung last night by Mme. Sembrich, should remember that she began her career, like Lili Lehmann, as a coloratura singer, making her operatic début as Violetta in "La Traviata."

Those who recall the delightful talents of Mlle. Marimon will easily understand how any colorature soprano who possesses skill as a comedian will find a congenial rôle in Norina. When Mlle. Marimon first appeared as Norina under Mr. Gye's management in London The London Standard said of her: "Mlle. Marimon is one of the few operatic artists who can express humor in their tones as well as in their faces and gestures, and her version of the part last night was in all respects admirable. All the elaborate passages which Donizetti has written, and many which have been added to the score for the sake of the unusually gifted prima donna, were sung with unerring fluency, and Mlle. Marimon's diverting comedy met with a ready response of laughter." It is not difficult to gather from this and the similar comments made on Mlle. Marimon's performance here, that the part is one very favorable to such gifts as those of Mme. Sembrich. But before speaking of her work something should be said of the opera itself.

It has never been regarded as more than a brilliant trifle, but in this, as in "L'Elisir d'Amore," the facility of Donizetti in the composition of music for comic opera is admirably displayed. Indeed, these two works go far toward persuading one that in his attempts to write opera seria Donizetti deprived the world of much fascinating and valuable gayety. The grand note never really sounds from the pen of this writer, but for light and fluent melody of no great depth he had a fecund fancy. In "Don Pasquale" Donizetti was in his happiest mood. There are life, sparkle, and even character in his music, and the principal melodies are really charming. The book, too, is a good piece of farcical comedy of the old sort, and taken altogether the work is a most delightful specimen of Italian opera buffa.

Last night's performance was a genuine treat. It would be hard to imagine anything more delightful in the way of light opera. To begin with, the rôle of Norina fits Mme. Sembrich perfectly, while her glorious vocal art and consummate skill as an actress fill every measure of it with brilliant melody and buoyant humor. She was in superb voice and bubbling spirits last night. From beginning to end of the performance she sang with a crystalline sparkle and a breezy freedom that were fascinating, infectious, and triumphantly victorious. Her impersonation was in its histrionic aspects correct, complete, convincing, and exhilarating. Her delicious gayety and perfect artistic poise will long be remembered by those who were present last night, and it will be strange if "Don Pasquale" is not soon repeated for the sake of Mme. Sembrich's impersonation.

She had excellent associates in Messrs. Scotti as Malatesta, Pini-Corsi as Don Pasquale, and Salignac as Ernesto. Signor Pini-Corsi proved himself to be a buffo of capital comic ability and of intimate knowledge of the traditions of his own stage. Signor Scotti was a handsome and gallant Dr. Malatesta, and he sang his music excellently. But a real feature of last night's performance was the ensemble, the lightness with which the work was presented, and the perfect harmony with which the four principals, chorus, orchestra, and Signor Mancinelli worked together to give a faithful presentation of the composer's ideas. Such a complete performance of "Don Pasquale" is, indeed, a novelty, and Mr. Grau deserves both praise and thanks for it.

The audience last night had good measure for its money. "Don Pasquale" was followed by "Cavalleria Rusticana," in which the principals were Mme. Calvé as Santuzza, Mme. Mantelli as Lola, Mr. Dippel as Turiddu, and Signor Campanari as Alfio. It is not necessary at this late day to comment extensively on Mme. Calvé's intensely tragic interpretation of the betrayed Sicilian girl. It is one of the most thrilling operatic impersonations of our time, and last night, after the limpid and lilting comedy of Mme. Sembrich's work, it came with doubly pathetic power. The other members of the cast did their work well, and the performance as a whole was properly impressive. To-morrow night Meyerbeer's "Le Prophète" will be brought forward.

"LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD."

The New Extravaganza Produced at the Casino.

The first performance of an English extravaganza called "Little Red Riding Hood" was presented before a large audience at the Casino last night. If loud applause is any criterion of success, the ancient nursery tale, as brought up to date by Mr. Lederer's forces, is to be considered a success. The music is credited to Edward E. Rice. Charles Dennee, Fred J. Eustis, and others. The most catchy numbers were by Rice. Although at times reminiscent of "Evangeline," they pleased the audience. The lyrics and alterations in the original scene were made by Harrison Ward.

Most of the scenery was new, the "Wolf's Lair," by Operti, and the "Fringe of the Forest," "Fairy Glade," and "Fairy Bower," by Frank Rafter, were especially effective and picturesque. The mechanical effects at times were marred by lack of rehearsal, which defect was also noticeable in the work of the orchestra and chorus.

Of the principals Sager Midgely as Simple Simon easily carried off the honors. He was genuinely funny throughout the evening. Gerty Carlisle as Little Miss Muffet, who looked to be scarcely more than fourteen years of age, was an excellent foil for Mr. Midgely. Miss Madge Lessing was a "cerulean symphony" as Little Boy Blue, and Ethel Jackson kept her good company. Belle Thorne was a plump and pretty fairy queen.

The elaborate scenery, pretty girls in striking costumes and bright, catchy music, will go far to make "Little Red Riding Hood" popular. The duets, "Go Away, Naughty Man," "Art of Making Love," the sextet topical song, "Little Boy Blue, Come Blow Your Horn," and some of the choruses are bound to appeal to lovers of light music.

The burlesque disrobing act of Hallen Mostyn as "Granny" will evoke screams of laughter from all who recall "The Turtle" and the final ballet of toys and the wedding procession of Red Riding Hood and Little Boy Blue, after the death of the wicked wolf, will please the children.

Little Red Riding Hood	Ethel Jackson
The Fairy Queen	Belle Thorne
Little Miss Muffet	Gerty Carlisle
Mary, Mary	Clara Havel
Jack	Lila Blow
Margery Daw	Mayme Gehrue
Granny	Hallen Mostyn
Simple Simon	Sager Midgely
Johnny Green	Thomas O'Brien
Johnny Stout	Seitz Edwards
Baron Moxnixons	William Burress
Jack Horner	Kitty Mitchell
Tom, Tom	Blanche Sherwood
The Wolf	Joseph Reynolds
The Cat	Dave Abrahams
Little Boy Blue	Madge Lessing

MR. MANSFIELD'S ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. Mansfield began the last week of his engagement at the Garden Theatre last evening, presenting Bernard Shaw's very smart comedy called "Arms and the Man," in which his own impersonation of the adroit, frank, and amiable Swiss mercenary, Bluntschli, is one of his happiest impersonations in the lighter vein. Bluntschli gives voice to many of Shaw's ideas about warfare, heroism, and popular idols. He is represented as a sufficiently courageous and thoroughly practical fellow, without illusions, and his traits are shown in contrast with those of other folks who represent Shaw's ideas of the majority of his fellowmen and women with their traditions and illusions, their vanities and deceptions, and their lack of the sense of humor. It is not exactly to the point whether Shaw's strokes are fairly dealt; his meaning is perfectly clear to persons of reasonable intelligence, and the piece acts very well.

Fresh interest attached to the play because its recurrence for a single evening was coincident with the return to her professional work, after an absence from the stage of two years, of Mrs. Mansfield. (Beatrice Cameron.) whose portrayal of the sentimental yet not wholly impractical heroine, Raina, has been accounted one of her most graceful and most graphic impersonations. The house was full of Mrs. Mansfield's friends and she shared the honors with the star. It is not her intention, however, to remain in the public view, and this reappearance was merely a diversion.

To-night "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be the play.

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

A Large Audience Enthusiastically Welcomes "The Gunner's Mate."

"The Gunner's Mate," a melodrama of the melodramas, began a two weeks' run at the Grand Opera House last night, before a large, enthusiastic, and vociferous audience. It is a play in which pictorial effect, deeds of daring, high-sounding speeches, and deep-dyed villainy are rivals for the attention of the spectator, and the gallery gods looked at it earnestly last night and authoritatively declared that it was good. Their declaration was unmistakable, too, for a more vigorous tribute of applause, laughter, and hisses, each paid at the time most gratifying to the actors, a drama of this sort seldom receives. A few catcalls did mar the harmony of the occasion, but they were only uttered at moments of great provocation.

The plot is rather elaborate and gives room for the working in of witticisms, and situations intended to provoke mirth, as well as for heroics. It centres about a noble gunner's mate, who, though avowedly out of the pale of society, bears himself at times like the son of a hundred kings, and who loves an heiress who returns his passion, though this is a fact he seems to have some difficulty in recognizing. A villainous physician loves the heiress also, as villains will, and by a trick succeeds in making the lady believe her sailor swain untrue. He is also interested in the gentle project of murdering the heiress's cousin, a boy who, though he does not know it, is heir to a fortune which the doctor would chiefly get if he were out of the way. In the end the villain is, of course, thwarted, and the gunner's mate utilizes the same clergyman the physician had secured to marry him, in the last act, to the heiress.

The first act shows a rather thrilling scene, where the gunner's mate intervenes just in time to keep the villain and his accomplice from injecting a portion of a pint bottle of tuberculosis germs into the boy he desires to slay. The deck of the cruiser New York is shown in the second act, and the "jackies" in their white suits help to make it a pretty scene. Next the spectator is introduced to the forecastle and sees the jackies dancing, singing, and "crapshooting" in the most approved fashion, eventually enjoying a pretty lifelike boxing match. This is interrupted by the appearance of an officer who says a bolt has got out of order in the back connections of a boiler and some one is needed to reset it. Everybody volunteers, but the gunner's mate is fortunate enough to be chosen, and in the next scene enters a furnace, which has to be cooled for the purpose, and after being shut up by the villain and nearly roasted, is taken out by his mates on a board amid wild gallery cheers.

P. A. Yelvington earned eloquent hisses as the wicked doctor, and Juliet De Grignan was attractive as the boy, "Blizzard."

Clement Carroll	Neston Lennon
Herbert Quayley, M. D.	P. A. Yelvington
Philip Fainsworth	Lionel Clark
Robert A. Burns	Gray Towler
Ben Lukens	S. K. Chester
Arthur Gladden	Juliet De Grignan
Mildred Emerson	Helene MacGregor
Plum Duff	Marion Berg
Mrs. Lukens	Marion P. Clifton
Nora	Christie MacLean

A NEW OPERA PRODUCED.

The Castle Square Company Sings "A Basso Porto" in St. Louis.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 8.—"At the Lower Harbor," ("A Basso Porto,") an opera in three acts, by Niccola Spinelli and Eugene Checchi, was presented by the Castle Square Opera Company for the first time in America and for the first time in English on any stage at the Exposition Music Hall to-night. The interest of an audience, which tested the capacity of the auditorium, was awakened at the rise of the curtain.

Although the plot of the opera is simple in outline, its development is dramatic. Spinelli has chosen a theme supercharged with passion and intensity, and has constructed a picture of lowly Neapolitan life. The music is of national character, the principal numbers being a barcarole sung by Luigino, a duet between Maria and Sessella, Maria's prayer, and the intermezzo.

The principal rôles in the cast were sung by Selma Kronold as Maria, Mary Carrington as Sessella, Harry Davies as Luigino, and William Pruette as Ciccillo. The production will be taken in its entirety to the American Theatre, in New York, opening there Jan. 22.

Koster & Bial's Music Hall.

Vernona Jarbeau, after an absence of two years from the vaudeville stage, appeared last night at Koster & Bial's Music Hall, and was welcomed by a large audience, among which were evidently some old friends. She sang four songs, two in French and two in English. She was as brisk and as chic as ever, and her singing was well applauded. Many of the other numbers on the programme were new. The Holloway Trio, whose performance was cut short a fortnight ago by an accident, gave their difficult wire act to the entire satisfaction of the audience. Mlle. Amara, the chameleon lady, standing in white satin robes, had projected upon her various colored figures in light. Fox and Foxie, being a clown and his dog, performed very cleverly. Others on the bill were Vashti Earle and Lulu Sheperd, McMahon and King, Ward and Curran, Charles T. Aldrich, and Genaro and Bailey.

"The Wife" at Murray Hill Theatre.

The Donnelly stock company last night presented for this week's attraction at the Murray Hill Theatre Belasco and De Mille's play "The Wife" in a wonderfully smooth way and minus the breaks and halts of many first performances. The principal rôles were assumed by Ralph Stuart as John Rutherford, Hannah May Ingham as Helen Truman, Dorothy Donnelly as Lucile Ferrant, Thomas L. Coleman as Matthew Culver, William Redmund as Silas Truman, Grace Huntington as Mrs. S. Bellamy Ives, and Walter Allen as Mayor Putnam. The attraction for next week will be "An Enemy of the King."

Theatres and Music Halls.

EDEN MUSEE.—The cinematograph exhibition of Cinderella will remain an attraction during this week. New wax groups will be placed on view.

HURTIG & SEAMON'S MUSIC HALL.—The performance of "Round New York in 80 Minutes" was well received last evening by the patrons of this house, and every specialty met with applause.

PROCTOR'S PALACE.—A fine array of vaudeville features was presented yesterday, including the Rosso Midgets, the Three Markel Sisters, Edward Latell, Diana, Charlie Rossow Seymour and Dupree, W. C. Davies, and many others.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE.—A splendid company of vaudeville artists entertained the audiences at this house yesterday. The Four Cohans, the sisters Mouliere, Yorke and Adams, Miss Ethel Levey, Ramza and Arno, John E. Camp, Leavitt and Nevello, and the Kalatechnoscope.

HUBER'S MUSEUM.—There is the usual excellent bill, the chief offering being Mohmen and Leilla Ben Jamine, a Turkish couple, who are lacking the sensation of pain. A large number of freaks and curiosities are also to be found in the curio hall, and a good vaudeville bill is to be found in the theatre.

DEWEY THEATRE.—The Vanity Fair Extravaganza Company is the attraction and the entertainment offered by them is fully up to the standard of the management. "Robber Boy" and "Paris, 1900," were the two burlesques offered. In the olio were Harris & Fields, the three Rio Brothers, Katie Rooney, Morrissey and Rich, and many others.

KEITH'S UNION SQUARE THEATRE.—Kathryn Osterman made her first appearance in New York this season in a comedy entitled "The Editor." The sketch was an interesting one, and was favorably received. She was assisted by Frederick J. Power. The remaining part of the bill contained Beatrice Moreland, who also appeared in a new sketch called "Taming a Husband," Eva Williams and "Jack" Tucker, Frank Bush, Burton's dogs, and the Florenz troupe.

TO BUILD TWO NEW THEATRES.

Ever since Alfred E. Aarons severed his connection with the management of Koster & Bial's Music Hall he has been devoting much of his time to completing plans for the construction of a new theatre in this city. He has associated with him Albert Geiger of Boston and Louis H. Donnelly, who will finance the scheme, and it was announced yesterday that two music halls will be erected, one in Boston and the other in this city, which will be devoted exclusively to the production of musical comedies with a stock company alternating eight weeks in each city.

Negotiations for the construction of the first one of these theatres, which will be in Boston, were concluded yesterday, and the location will be on the Stevenson estate, at Tremont Street and Van Rensselaer Place. This property, estimated to be worth $300,000, is subleased by Mr. Aarons and his company, who propose building upon it a house costing about $225,000. It will be modeled closely upon the same plans as Hammerstein's Victoria for the exterior, and will be three stories high, with red stone and brick and a seating capacity of 1,200.

The policy of the house, as far as attractions are concerned, will be very much on the same plans as Weber & Fields's—a short olio, with several good specialties, preceding the performance, which will be, instead of a burlesque, a musical comedy. It is proposed to allow smoking, which is a new feature for Boston theatres, and to establish a rathskellar in the basement.

It was Mr. Aarons's original intention to first build a theatre on Broadway, but those financially interested were of the opinion that on account of the field in Boston being larger it would be better to start there and later build in New York. The Boston house will be ready for occupancy about Sept. 1.

"Three Little Lambs" to Stay Longer.

Manager Edwin Knowles has made an arrangement with Kirk La Shelle, manager of "Princess Chic," the new comic opera, whereby "Three Little Lambs" will be able to continue its engagement at the Fifth Avenue Theatre beyond the five weeks originally set apart. Miss Adele Ritchie was still too unwell to appear last night, and her rôle was again taken by Miss Gertrude Townsend.

New York Theatre to Reopen Monday.

The New York Theatre will remain closed this week for rehearsals of "Broadway to Tokio," the new extravaganza. The first performance has been definitely fixed for Monday next.

Sudden Death of an Actress.

BUFFALO, Jan. 8.—Tillie Phelps, a variety actress, known on the stage as Tillie Russel, was found dead in bed at her boarding house this morning. Apoplexy is said to have been the cause of her death.

MORRISON BEING WATCHED

Bigamist Who Killed One of His Wives May Soon Be Arrested.

READY TO ISSUE THE WARRANT

Judge Schatz Will Accept Complaint of Victim's Sister—Physician Contradicts the Professor.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Prof. Alfred d'Orthimand Morrison, linguist, somnambulist, and self-confessed bigamist, who shot and killed his second wife during the night of Dec. 28, in their room, at 235 South Tenth Avenue, while he was under what he alleges was an attack of somnambulism, was to-day placed under surveillance by the police. Slowly the machinery of public opinion regarding the case is gathering headway, and it is believed that it is now but a matter of a few hours when the man will be under arrest pending the investigation of a charge of murder.

Many prominent citizens of Mount Vernon have already openly expressed the conviction that the Coroner's investigation directly after the shooting was, in the light of subsequent developments, but the merest farce. It transpires that Coroner Banning, in his investigation, did not call as a witness either the first policeman or the first physician to arrive at the Morrison house after the shooting, and while the woman lay dying, and even in the examination of Morrison himself did not inquire into his past life or even ascertain the maiden name of the woman he had shot.

Morrison's story was that while lying in his bed he dreamed that a burglar was in his room, whereupon he drew his revolver from under his pillow and fired, the bullet striking his wife, who had arisen from another bed and was standing in the line of his fire between him and the door. The dying woman in her ante-mortem statement corroborated this version of the occurrence. Their nine-year-old adopted daughter, who had been sleeping in the room at the time the shot was fired, said her mother had been killed accidentally.

Dr. Shipman, who arrived in the house two hours after the shooting occurred, described the course of the bullet through the woman's body. On this evidence a verdict was given exonerating Morrison from all blame. The Coroner still insists that the shooting was accidental and that further proceedings are useless. Morrison loved his wife too much, the Coroner said, to kill her.

Mrs. Harry E. Ellenberger of Middletown, N. Y., a sister of the dead woman, who attended the funeral, began to suspect Morrison's sincerity, and said so later. A week later it developed that for twelve years Morrison had been leading a double life and that the dead woman had been the second of two wives, the first wife living in New York under the name of Mrs. Frederick Gordon. The latter had been married to Morrison in 1882. Morrison married the second wife in 1888, under the name of Frederic Wood. When confronted with these facts he freely admitted he was a bigamist.

The first wife came here last Saturday and went through the form of a reconciliation with her husband, but has since disappeared again. This sort of thing turned the tide of public sentiment away from Morrison, and a fuller investigation was demanded. Not until to-day, however, was any apparent official action taken.

Mrs. Ellenberger, the sister of the dead woman, insisted that Morrison, far from showing constant devotion to his wife, as he protested, had often abused and ill-treated her, as borne out by his letters to her sister. It was learned to-day that Chief of Police Foley knew as far back as last Friday that Morrison was a bigamist, and that day the Chief received the following letter, dated New York, Jan. 4:

Chief of Police of Mount Vernon:

Dear Sir: It may interest you to know that Alfred Morrison, who recently shot and killed his wife by accident, has, under the name of Fred Gordon, been married for eighteen years. His wife, Mrs. Gordon, is at her mother's, Mrs. Archer, 407 East Ninetieth Street, prostrated by the knowledge of his villainy. JUSTICE.

Chief Foley said that ever since the receipt of the letter he has been working on the case. He sent men to see Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Archer, and brought out the facts of Morrison's bigamy. The Chief met by appointment District Attorney Andrews of Westchester County at the Grand Union Hotel, New York, to-day, and gave him copies of the Coroner's verdict and other data in the case. The District Attorney, it is said, will take two days to consider the case before moving.

Meanwhile a policeman has been stationed at the house, 7 Rich Avenue, where Morrison is staying, with instructions to remain in the same room with Morrison, pending further instructions. Morrison, who is frantic with fear of arrest, spends most of the day and night smoking cigarettes and pacing the floor. Acting under instructions from his counsel, Judge George C. Appell, he refused to talk to any reporters to-day.

"You can be sure that this case will be sifted to the very bottom," said Chief Foley, "no matter who does it." The Chief practically admitted that he was in communication with Mrs. Ellenberger, the sister of the dead woman, who has determined to prosecute Morrison, and it is thought she will be here to-morrow, when she will swear out a warrant for her brother-in-law's arrest, basing her accusation on information and belief. City Judge Adam Schatz has announced his willingness to issue a warrant under such circumstances.

Dr. I. W. Ferris of 160 South Ninth Avenue, who was the first physician to arrive at the Morrison house after the shooting, said to-day that he reached the residence between 10:30 and 11 o'clock on the night of Dec. 28, which was about three-quarters of an hour after the shot had been fired. Dr. Shipman arrived at 12:30 o'clock, and Coroner Banning at 1 o'clock. Dr. Ferris in describing the situation to-day said that Morrison was raving around the room suffering apparently more from fear than grief.

"At times he was on his knees," said Dr. Ferris, "but his ravings were not about his wife's condition, but whether he would be arrested, who was the best attorney to secure, &c. I found that the bullet had entered the woman's right shoulder, passed through her arm, and came out underneath, after which it entered the breast, breaking the ribs, and passed into the abdominal cavity. If the woman was standing up at the time of the shooting, as both she and Morrison said she was, it would have been absolutely impossible for the ball to have taken this course, even if Morrison had been sitting up in bed.

"I understood at the time that Morrison's pistol was in a leather holster under his pillow, and that he was put to the task of removing it before doing the shooting, a difficult feat for a somnambulist. After remaining in the room for about an hour and asking numerous questions, Coroner Banning turned to Morison and said, 'I will exonerate you,' whereupon Morrison embraced the Coroner, thanking him and weeping violently."

It has been learned that Louis de Bebian, formerly New York agent of the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, an uncle by marriage of Morrison, and other wealthy relatives of the man have refused to assist him financially in his present trouble. Morrison's aunt, Mrs. Cohen, who has stuck to him, has written, however, to relatives in Belgium and France, and is confident that they will lend assistance.

MR. DALY'S DIVORCE SUIT.

Vice Chancellor to Recommend Decree—Jennie Joyce Daly Defendant.

The action for divorce of Philip Daly, Jr., against Jennie Joyce Daly was heard before Vice Chancellor Pitney, in Jersey City, in Chancery Chambers, yesterday. The Vice Chancellor, after hearing the testimony, said he would recommend to the Chancellor that a decree be granted.

Daly is the son of "Phil" Daly, the well-known sporting man, and is the proprietor of Elkwood Park. The defendant did not appear. She was represented by Mayor Benjamin Morris of Long Branch. She had made a general denial of her husband's charges. After the first interview her lawyers, Mr. Morris said, were unable to see her or get her address, and he had concluded to withdraw the defense.

Mr. Daly testified that he married Jennie Joyce Huss, the defendant, in Long Branch, July 13, 1894, and lived with her until the 30th of last July. On the 29th of July he told his wife he would be away all night. He returned, as he had really intended to, at 2 o'clock in the morning to his house, at 87 Second Avenue, and found all the doors locked. Then, he alleged, giving details, he found evidence against his wife. He ordered her to leave his house.

Mrs. Hartwell, who formerly kept a boarding house at 220 West Thirty-eighth Street, Manhattan, testified against Mrs. Daly and the co-respondent, Fred F. Wood.

WHALLEN ADMITS BRIBERY.

He Also Swears Out a Warrant for Senator Harrel's Arrest for Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 8.—The bribery charge of State Senator S. B. Harrel against John H. Whallen, the political boss of Louisville, took a sensational turn to-day. Whallen admits the bribery in an affidavit. He to-day swore out a warrant of arrest against Harrel on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, in which he admits all the allegations of the Senator.

Whallen alleges that Harrel approached him saying $1,000 had been offered to him by the Goebel side to vote with them; $500 had been paid in cash and the remainder was to be delivered ten days after the end of the session if he remained "bought." Whallen further avers that Harrel said Goebel had promised him the Superintendency of the Western Kentucky Asylum for the Insane at Hopkinsville, but learning that Goebel had promised the same office to others Harel wished to throw his forces against him. Whallen alleges that Harrel asked for $500 cash to pay back the Goebel men, and Whallen admits that he gave this, and also $4,500, which was placed in the vaults of the Louisville Trust Company, to become the property of Harrel if the contest against the Republican officials fell through.

Whallen says his reason for giving the bribe was that he was opposed to Goebel; that he had advised his friends to bet that Goebel would be defeated, and that he had a right to protect them. The warrant sworn out by him was not sent to Frankfort to be served upon Senator Harrel, as he will appear in Louisville in answer to it.

Senator Harrel denies that he was bribed by the Goebel Democrats, and repeats his statement that he pretended to enter into the negotiations with Whallen solely for the purpose of exposing him.

The House of Representatives to-day passed till to-morrow the resolution of the Senate for the trial of Whallen and Charles Ryan before the Senate for contempt in attempting to bribe a member. The case will be taken up at once. The Grand Jury at Frankfort has not yet finished its investigation of the bribery charges, and the prospects are that it will go deeper. Among the witnesses summoned to appear before it to-morrow was President Milton H. Smith of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, it being currently charged that this company is furnishing the money for the purpose of fighting Goebel. Several attorneys and other officers of the same corporation were also summoned, including Treasurer W. W. Thompson.

BRADLEY NAMED FOR SENATOR.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 8.—The Republican joint caucus to-night nominated ex-Gov. William O. Bradley as the Republican candidate for Senator by acclamation, Congressman Boreing, the only other aspirant who had sought this honor from the minority, having instructed his friends not to present his name.

Representative Slack of Owensborough, in placing Bradley's name in nomination, reviewed the political situation as it has progressed since the Legislature convened and declared his belief "that the Democratic majority has determined to rob the present occupants of the State offices to which they were fairly and honestly elected by the people in November in spite of the most gigantic frauds that ever disgraced the State and put in their places the gang of conspirators who dominate the party in the majority in the Legislature."

He closed by dramatically declaring that the people would not submit to the unseating of Gov. Taylor.

Ex-Gov. Bradley, in his speech accepting the nomination, said that the State had never in its history had before it such a state of affairs as now exists. He said the very air was full of conspiracies. All of these had failed up to date, however, he said, and, "as sure as God reigns, the men who have been placed in these offices by the sovereign people will stay there."

WOODRUFF LEAVES COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Republican General Committee of Kings County last night, the resignation of Lieut. Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff was received. It is understood that the action was taken by Mr. Woodruff because of inability to attend to the work of the committee, his time being taken up with his duties at Albany, and by work in connection with his Vice Presidential candidacy. Mr. Woodruff will retain his membership in the General Committee.

A meeting of the General Committee will be held to-night, at which it is expected that a resolution indorsing the Lieutenant Governor's Vice Presidential aspirations, similar to the one passed by the Executive Committee at a recent meeting, will be introduced.

THIRTY-FIRST PRIMARIES HELD.

The Republican and Democratic organizations of the Thirty-first Assembly District held primaries and conventions yesterday and placed in nomination candidates for Assembly in place of the late Edward C. Stone. The primary was an unofficial one, and was brought about by the death of Mr. Stone, the Democratic nominee, shortly after election.

The Republicans held their primary at 101 West One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Street, the polls being open from 3 to 7 P. M. At 8 o'clock the convention was called to order by Edward S. Clinch, and Albert G. Wilson nominated Samuel Scott Slater. A dozen members seconded the nomination, there being no opposition.

The Democrats held their convention at 107 and 109 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street. The polls were open from 3 to 7 P. M., and the voters turned out in full force. At 9 o'clock the convention was called to order by William P. Burr, who placed in nomination Leon W. Goldrich, who was originally nominated for the office, but was disqualified because he had been a teacher in the public schools and had not properly filed his resignation. No other names being presented, the Chair declared Mr. Goldrich nominated.

The question was raised as to whether or not a ballot should be taken on the nomination and also as to the legality of the primaries, as the law says that no convention shall be held until after the day of the primary. It was asserted that these points did not affect an unofficial primary. The election will be held on Jan. 23.

JUSTICE KELLOGG APPOINTED.

ALBANY, Jan. 8.—Gov. Roosevelt has designated Justice S. Alonzo Kellogg of Plattsburg as an Associate Justice of the Appellate Division of the Court of Appeals, Third Department, to fill the vacancy caused by the designation of Justice Landon as an Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals.

Gov. Roosevelt, in announcing the appointment, stated that he had made it at the unanimous request of the Judges of the Appellate Division bench in the Third Department. The Governor says that he will probably appoint Justice Pardon C. Williams to the Appellate Division bench in the Fourth Department.

NEW YORK BOTANICAL GARDEN.

The corporation of the New York Botanical Garden held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the American Geographical Society, 11 West Twenty-ninth Street. Annual reports were received from Dr. N. L. Britton, the Secretary and Director-in-Chief, and from the committee on membership of which James I. Kane is Chairman. The corporation discussed the sending of a vessel to Trinidad, Jamaica, to collect specimens from the botanical gardens there. All the officers were re-elected, as follows: D. O. Mills, President; Andrew Carnegie, Vice President; C. F. Cox, Treasurer; Dr. N. L. Britton, Secretary. Andrew Carnegie, John I. Kane, Dr. W. Gilman Thompson, and Samuel Thorne were elected managers to serve for three years. Mr. Thorne was chosen in the place of the late Judge Charles P. Daly. A successor to Cornelius Vanderbilt was not chosen. Resolutions in memory of Judge Daly and Cornelius Vanderbilt were read and adopted.

Dr. Britton in his annual report reviewed the work accomplished last year on the grounds and buildings of the garden tract in the Bronx, which includes 250 acres. The number of species and varieties under cultivation and those native to the grounds aggregate, collectively, more than 4,000.

A decided increase in the numerical strength of the corporation is shown in the report of the committee on membership. During the year 165 new annual members and 67 life members qualified. C. P. Huntington and David B. Ivison have become Fellows of the garden, with a contribution of $1,000 each, and Mrs. Antoinette Eno Wood qualified as a patron, with a contribution of $5,000.

In his report the Treasurer shows a balance on hand of $283,839.75, which includes the endowment fund of $264,700. For development and maintenance during the year, $89,571.24 was paid.

The Attractions of Our Stores Are Their Low Prices.

Macy's

R. H. Macy and Co.

Both sides of 14th St. (Running from 13th to 15th St.), Sixth Ave.

Notice: If a purchase made here should prove unsatisfactory we will cheerfully refund the money. That has been the Macy principle for nearly half a century.

Continuation of the Following Sales:

Undermuslins, Embroideries, Household Linens, Men's Shirts, | Clothing, China and Glass, Housefurnishings, Blankets.

Writing Paper 7c. Pound.

Fine grade, satin-finished, advertised elsewhere as a bargain at 10c.

100 Envelopes for 9c.

They match the paper, and are quoted elsewhere as a bargain at 15c.

The Stationery department is prolific with other values relatively as great. For instance:

Cabinets containing 3½ quires refined Paper, four delicate tints, 39c.
Cabinets containing 2 quires Paper, two pretty shades, 19c.
Harc

The New York Times.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

PUBLISHED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JAN. 9, 1900.

OFFICES:

NEW YORK:
Publication Office.....41 Park Row
All American District Telegraph Offices.
WASHINGTON.....515 Fourteenth St.
LONDON: Trafalgar Buildings, Trafalgar Sq., W.C.
SWITZERLAND, Geneva: P. Drehmann, Librairie Nouvelle, Rue du Mont Blanc.
GERMANY, Mains: Saarbach's News Agency, Agency for Germany and Austria.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

BY MAIL, POSTAGE PAID.

DAILY, per Month	$0.50
DAILY, per Year	6.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Year	7.50
SUNDAY, per Year	1.50
SATURDAY, with Review of Books and Art, per Year	1.00
MONDAY, with Financial Supplement, per Year	1.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Month	0.65

For postage to foreign countries add 80 cents per month.

FOURTEEN PAGES

THE SUPPRESSION OF THE INDIVIDUAL.

In his brief address to the Central Federated Union on Sunday President Low of Columbia referred to the disappearance of the individual capitalist in the trust and of the individual laborer in the union. He thought that the individual had increased in importance politically, but economically he is not holding his own.

He certainly will not hold his own if the teachers and preachers of the shallow Socialism of the day can prevent it. The attempt to destroy individuality, to put a stop to individual effort and initiative, and establish what the dreamers of dreams call associative equality is a part of one of the notable social tendencies of the end of the century. President Low appears to think that the movement is already well advanced. It is in the labor unions. The trusts are as yet too new to permit us to speak with confidence of their ultimate influence. They have not been long enough under observation.

Corporations have not tended to put a check upon the capacity of the individual. They have had just the opposite effect. They have stimulated the ambition and the talents of the individuals who control them by supplying them with the power to do things. Capital is power, and as managers of corporations they control more power than they ever would have controlled as private individuals. Trusts are only corporations in combination. Of course, there are fewer managers, fewer persons in active control, but they are all kept at the full stretch of their powers. There is no danger of the extinction of individuality among the men who manage the trusts. As for the officers and managers of the corporations that have been absorbed by trusts, we should say that so far as they loved a life of leisure they might succumb to the vice of idleness; but most of them, no doubt, find new fields for their abilities. However, if it shall prove that the trusts tend to smother the separate capacities of the individual, to that extent they will be an economic evil and do us harm.

Socialism, at bottom, is the antithesis of individualism. Manliness withers and self-reliance perishes under its blighting touch. An association in which the principle that the injury of one is the concern of all is rigidly applied must tend to make the individual less competent to look out for himself. He knows that the organization will look out for him and trusts to it more or less completely to protect him and his interests.

The Socialistic theory has come to be accepted as the guiding principle by many labor unions. It is not difficult to prove that labor unions are beneficial. They help a great many men to better places and higher wages than they would be able to secure for themselves in open competition. But that is not the point. The unions may accomplish the greatest good of the greatest number and yet do harm to the ambitious and capable few by compelling them to keep step with the slothful and incompetent. Many men are helped up, but some are pulled down. The average level is attained at the cost of the individuals who are held back.

The professed aim of the teachers of Socialism nowadays is to abolish inequality of condition. In reality they aim at the abolition of all difference in ability among men. The dead level of associative equality can be attained only when society adjusts itself to the capacities of its least capable members. The slowest man will set the pace. The reasoning of the Socialist writers on these matters may be judged by this example from ACHILLE LORIA'S "Economic Foundations of Society":

> As a matter of fact, the present disparity in the physical and moral powers of individuals is largely a by-product of the régime of capitalism itself, and it may reasonably be expected that the prevailing inequalities among producers will be to a large extent neutralized under non-capitalistic conditions.

This is, of course, altogether topsy-turvy. It is the inequalities among men that have produced the régime of capitalism, not capitalism that has produced the inequalities. If all men had been recreated equal and had remained equal, all men would now be living in pits or caves, and there would be no capital, no banks, no trusts, no money devil, and Mr. BRYAN would be making chipped flint arrowheads instead of speeches. No, not even the arrowheads, for that implies advancement and consequently inequality. The first early man who forsook the peaked stick for a flint arrowhead was a genius. In our day such men, if they are members of unions, are always striving to rise above the level of associative equality.

Municipal ownership and operation of "public utilities" is one of the modern recipes for suppressing individualism. It is the one that is most persistently pressed upon the attention of the public, and it captivates a great many minds that do not take the trouble to picture forth its consequences to the community and to the individual. All the nostrums of Socialism proceed from the eternal struggle of man to improve upon natural conditions. It is a laudable and necessary effort. The struggle for existence under the conditions established by nature is a pretty wolfish competition. There are great numbers of poor creatures who would go to the wall altogether if somebody did not extend a helping hand. A humane society cannot permit any of its members to go to the wall if that disaster can be averted. In all arrangements for the relief of the incapable and the unfortunate some measure of self-sacrifice on the part of the able and prosperous is implied, is necessary. But remedies that hamper the individual and narrow his range stand in the way of society's advancement and hinder progress. Because some men are incapable of earning two dollars a day modern Socialism insists that any man who has got together a million dollars in a lifetime has not earned it, but stolen it; and it proposes as a measure of relief for the two-dollar class the absolute prohibition of the million-dollar class.

THE MILITARY SITUATION.

The crop of rumors which arise spontaneously in London about the situation in South Africa, and which are promptly forwarded to New York seem unmistakably to denote two things. One is that there is no real news. The other is that public feeling is in a state of extreme tension. Darkness and heat constitute the most favorable environment for the development of rumors.

For what is going on in South Africa we have to trust to a general judgment of the situation, assuming that both the British and the Boer commanders are taking intelligent views of their own interests. It seems to be clear that the Boers are now beginning to increase the pressure upon the garrison at Ladysmith. Whether the advance which has been so brilliantly repulsed by Sir GEORGE WHITE can properly be called a serious attack on the place is not so certain. What seems to be certain is that the artillery fire which the Boers have been keeping up for weeks, and which the British have found progressively annoying, has now been supplemented by advances of the infantry, which may have the character of serious attacks or merely of reconnoissances in force. In the latter case, the main purpose they are meant to serve may be to keep the garrison continually on the alert, and to give them no chance for rest. Doubtless the point of exhaustion will be hastened by these means.

Immediately after Gen. BULLER'S disastrous repulse, it was very commonly expected that the Boers would take the occasion of their victory to attack Ladysmith at once. We gave then some of the considerations which to us made this seem unlikely. The repulse made it evident that Gen. BULLER could do nothing toward the relief of the beleaguered town before the arrival of heavy reinforcements. Meanwhile, the Boers, by strengthening their intrenchments, were enabling themselves to withstand, by means of a smaller force than had been necessary before, any attack that BULLER could make upon them. Now it seems that they have been assisted by a rise in the Tugela, which increases the difficulty of fording it. That being so, they could afford to wait. Time was with them and against the British. The longer they delayed their attack upon Ladysmith before the British reinforcements had actually arrived and become available, the less effective resistance they would be apt to encounter. Lord ROBERTS and Lord KITCHENER are expected to be in Cape Town to-day, but there are no troops with them. Instead of wondering why the Boers have delayed their attack so long, it seems that we should rather wonder why they should have made it so soon, if indeed this is the serious and definitive attack which is now reported to have been repulsed. Gen. WHITE had already reported that he was "very hard pressed." The longer the pressure is kept up, the harder it will be, and the less the loss of the assailants may be expected to be. The most favorable time for an assault would thus seem to be the latest moment before the British reinforcements became available.

It is rather curious that the British interest and apprehension seem to have been concentrated entirely upon Ladysmith, to the neglect of Kimberley. It is true that the garrison of Ladysmith is much the larger, comprising, apparently, some ten or twelve thousand men. But the Boers would doubtless forego the capture of half of their number to insure the seizure of CECIL RHODES. No arrival at Pretoria could bring anything like so much joy to the inhabitants and to the Government as that of this eminent promoter and empire-maker. And there seems to be every reason for supposing that British affairs on the Cape Colony side are in quite as desperate a case as on the side of Natal. Neither Gen. BULLER'S force nor Lord METHUEN'S is where it would be but for the beleaguering of these towns. The British force would probably have all gone in by way of Durban and Port Elizabeth. Lord METHUEN'S force is as distinctly as Gen. BULLER'S a "relief expedition," and one has failed as decisively as the other. Indeed, Kimberley seems to be much more at the mercy of the besiegers by reason of its smaller garrison. The capture of either of these places would be the greatest blow the British Empire has received for more than a century, or since the surrender of CORNWALLIS. The capture of both would be a heavy blow to civilization.

THE STATE PRISONS.

The most striking fact in the report of the State Prison Commission is that the number of inmates in all the prisons of the State has fallen in four years from 12,661 to 10,350, or by over 18 per cent. During this period the population of the State has increased, according to the most trustworthy estimate, from 6,500,000 to 7,100,000, so that the average of prisoners in the prisons has fallen from 1 in 513 to 1 in 686 of the total population. As there has certainly been no relaxation of the administration of the criminal law, this is very encouraging.

As a result of their study of the prisons for the past five years, the commission this year recommend some important changes in the administration of punishment. They all have a common object—the promotion of the possibility of returning the inmates of the prisons to society able and willing to lead honest lives. No one will dispute the enormous value of such work if it can be accomplished, and every measure looking to its accomplishment that does not tend to impair the safety of the community is worthy of a trial. The most important measure recommended by the commission is the adoption of the term of imprisonment pronounced by the court as the maximum term, which can be shortened conditionally by designated officials when evidence is given that the prisoner is fitted to make the experiment of honest employment of liberty. This involves release on parole only, and it requires that all shall be done that is practicable in the prisons to fit the prisoner to earn his living, and that employment shall be provided at the time of his release on parole. Meanwhile the commission recommend the abolition of all that tends to impair the self-respect of the prisoners and the adoption of all practicable means to stimulate it. It is a very worthy purpose.

THE WAIL OF THE FRENCH-CANADIAN PRIESTHOOD.

There has nothing more pathetic been published in connection with the present troubles of England than the article from the Clerical organ in Quebec of which we gave an abstract yesterday morning. It is the passionate complaint of the belated and outstripped against those who have passed ahead, the nervous and petulant cry for revenge by the weak, the slow, the narrow, against the strong and swift. It is as sincere as it is unavailing, and one feels those in whom their fate awakens this helpless rage have in their sentiments and ideals much that is fine and appealing.

The one fear that the author of the article feels most deeply is that the English-speaking peoples of Canada and the United States shall unite by the annexation of the former, and his one hope is that in the Transvaal shall begin that process of the destruction of the two English-speaking races in which alone lies the chance of rescue for his own people.

"Once annexed to the United States," he cries, "Canada would become rapidly and wholly English. Engulfed in the turbulent sea of American life, swallowed up in the mire of the National schools, immersed in the great swirl of Yankee business, could we long retain our French-Canadian traits and characteristics? What, indeed, would there be left of us at the end of fifty years or so? Would not ours be the fate which was that of our former compatriots of New Orleans? We believe that if Canada became a part of the United States another century would see us without a trace of the spirit, the language, or the customs of our fathers."

Against this calamity the writer sees but one protection.

> The people of the earth have at length awakened from their stupor and their torpor with regard to England and have solemnly branded her the great corruptress of the globe, the unjust dominatrix, the queen of evil and of misfortune; they are preparing now to cast her under the ban of the civilized world.
>
> All the accumulated wrath of three centuries may be suddenly and brusquely let loose in a terrible tempest which shall overwhelm and cast down this colossus. At the present moment England carries herself with a superb arrogance which seems to defy not only all the peoples of the earth, but to carry itself to heaven even. Who knows but very soon she may crave mercy of the nations she has so insolently treated and humbly ask that they may leave her some few fragments only of her ancient empire? And when the other peoples shall have burst their yokes, shall the French-Canadians continue to endure the oppression? The chances of the fight, so long favorable to the oppressors, are at last with us.
>
> More complete still will be our emancipation if the United States are enveloped in the same punishment with England, as they have shared with her the odium of the same system of oppression and domination of others. We have seen the opposition to the French-Canadian race which has shown itself in Americanism and which is indeed the basis and essence of it.
>
> If this insolent Republic be with England humiliated, and if the English race be stricken in Europe and in America by the justice of man and the justice of Heaven, it will be less insolent to the rest of the world and will leave to French-Canadians to freely develop their own country.

It is with entire respect for the Catholic Church that we remark that this is the utterance not of the French-Canadian as a representative of his race but of the priest who happens to be a French-Canadian. This is seen in the curious disregard of the facts as to the real condition of that race in Canada. It is absurd to speak of them as "oppressed" when the actual head of the Government of the Dominion is a French-Canadian, and when the liberties of the race as citizens of the Dominion include the free advocacy of the most unpatriotic and disloyal notions. The real complaint of the priestly writer is not that the people to which he belongs have not all the rights that other citizens have, but that the class to which he belongs have not special privileges inconsistent with the rights of others. This is as completely out of harmony with the principles and policy of enlightened Catholics as it is contrary to the spirit of the age and of the countries so bitterly condemned. In the United States and in Great Britain the Catholic Church has prospered in every way, has increased in numbers, in resources, in the energy and zeal of its members and its ministers as it has not done in any other lands of equal extent. And this because it has enjoyed the very liberty which the French-Canadian Clerical organ so fiercely denounces. With the passage of time and the steady progress of real civilization across the Northern border, the Catholics of the Province of Quebec will come to see the immense advantages they reap from the reign of equality and justice, and will be as happy in it as are their more enlightened brothers on this side.

A MEASURE OF PROSPERITY.

The iron market has long been considered the great barometer of business. Newspaper advertising is an equally infallible index of trade conditions.

If THE TIMES had no other measure of the prosperity of the country during the year 1899 than its own advertising business it would conclude that it was a year of very great commercial activity. This short comparative statement of the volume of THE TIMES'S advertising in 1898 and 1899 tells the story:

	Agate Lines.
1899	3,378,750
1898	2,433,193
Increase	945,557

Per cent. of increase, 38.8.

The large increase in the circulation of THE TIMES in 1899 warranted a material advance in the rates charged for advertising. This advance was made. Notwithstanding the higher cost, the volume of the business increased 38.8 per cent.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

—In a discussion of the sensational charges so often made against New York's ambulance system and ambulance surgeons, The Medical Record sets itself about midway between the accused and the accusers, and declares that there is need on the one side for juster recognition of much faithful and efficient work, and on the other for the immediate adoption of improved methods by which several real abuses of long standing could be remedied. The Record admits that ambulance surgeons do occasionally make grave mistakes in diagnosis, but infallibility is not to be expected, it says, from young men with only six months, if as many, of practical medical experience. They generally do their best, and that the best is far from bad is shown by the fact that though hundreds of ambulance calls are answered every day in this city, only seven errors of importance enough to attract the attention of a vigilant press have been noted in the last eighteen months. The fault lies, according to The Record, not in the young surgeons, but in the system under which they are assigned to work, in which they are forced to decide without assistance or advice on cases often complex or obscure. For dangers of this sort it is suggested that ambulance service should be the close instead of the beginning of a hospital career. The accusation that patients are transferred from one hospital to another, often to the peril, and sometimes to the loss, of their lives is admitted by The Record to be well founded, and it has no words of palliation for a wrong so gross and obvious. The explanation of these transfers, of course, is the desire of each hospital to keep down its own death rate. Properly attained, a low death rate is a legitimate source of pride, but when it results from the hasty removal of patients likely to die it is disgraceful and criminal. In conclusion The Record says: "There should be no such thing as questioning the fact whether or not a given patient is a suitable one for any particular hospital. Every institution having an ambulance should take any and every case presenting itself. In case of accident every victim is a suitable one for every hospital professing to care for emergency cases. If there is doubt as to the seriousness of the injury, the patient should be taken to the hospital for necessary diagnosis and treated there until he recovers or dies."

—At last the real reason why so many apparently sane people insist that this year is the beginning of a new century has been revealed. No more will we be obliged to go through complex arithmetical calculations based on the existence of an almost unimaginable and certainly non-existent year 0; no longer will it be necessary to repeat that a century is 100 years, and not 99. The secret is out, and the families and nations hitherto at deadly odds over this momentous question are now provided with an admirable excuse for living together in peace. The man to whose courage and frankness the possibility of calm is due is Sir COURTNEY BOYLE, an Englishman whom we are delighted to call eminent, though we confess that we never heard of him before. In a letter to The London Times the amiable Sir COURTNEY writes: "The question, When should the twentieth century be considered as beginning? may be safely dealt with from the point of view of expediency only. Inasmuch as those persons who desire to reach the twentieth century are probably more numerous than those who care nothing for any such record, it seems to me that they should be gratified at the earliest moment. There is no reason why essayists, preachers, and paragraphists should have to postpone their eloquence on the subject till 1901, and I therefore venture to think that we may in this country follow the example of Germany." That is what the world's people would call "good stuff." It is also in its way a good argument—the first one of any weight whatever that has been presented on that side of the controversy. What Sir COURTNEY in effect says is this: Life is uncertain. There will be many a funeral before Jan. 1, 1901, and unless, by an entirely innocent and harmless misstatement of an inconsequential fact, we pretend that the new century has already begun, thousands and thousands of nice folks in every country will be deprived of an inexpensive but appreciable joy. Who can long resist such an appeal as that? It is with the greatest difficulty that we refrain from abjuring the cruel truth at once.

—In the very notable article on British tactics, contributed to last Sunday's TIMES by Capt. LESLIE J. PERRY, the sorrowful mystery of England's present ill-success in South Africa was discussed with force and knowledge by a competent critic of military operations. But though Capt. PERRY explained clearly enough just what mistake it is that the three British leaders have committed, and showed that it is one into which British Generals have often fallen in the past, yet he did not cast any light at all upon the vastly more difficult question of how experienced and well-read officers could adopt methods the weakness of which is apparent to the veriest tyro. BULLER and METHUEN and their immediate subordinates certainly know both the utility and the necessity of flanking movements in attacks upon intrenched positions; as certainly they are at least theoretically familiar with the effects of the fire of modern rifles and cannon on troops in close formation. Yet they calmly duplicated plans that had failed miserably, and not for the first time, in our war of 1812! It is not enough to say that they misjudged the courage and efficiency of the Boers. South African history is no secret, and much as the British, for good reasons and bad, may dislike the inhabitants of the Transvaal, they were hardly likely to hold them in utter contempt as fighting men. Talk to any American officer, and he instantly points out the errors in the British campaign, but ask the American officers why the errors occur, and he is lost for an answer. Neither stupidity nor madness can be offered as a solution of the problem, for these men are sane and intelligent. It's the most aggravating of puzzles.

—A New Yorker recently returned from France, when questioned as to his opinion of that country as a place of residence, declared that on the whole he did not like it. When pressed for the reason of his dislike, he thought a while and finally said, "Well, France has lots of good points, but—you can't get any real imported cheese there." It was suggested that the country which made the best cheeses in the world had little need for importing them. The traveler admitted the force of the objection, but clung to his grievance nevertheless and insisted that he could not be content without imported cheese. In a way, of course, this is merely an absurdity, and therefore laughable, but isn't there, after all, something in the man's idea? Strictly speaking, the excellence of a cheese depends upon its ingredients and its method of manufacture, but in another sense the enjoyment it can bestow is indubitably increased by the knowledge that it comes from afar and is a more or less expensive rarity. It is just possible that American cheeses gain an added flavor from a journey across the sea.

—Here is a nut for etymologists to crack. Commenting on the escape of WINSTON CHURCHILL from Pretoria, The London News says: "CHURCHILL seems to bear a charmed life, and we sincerely hope no aprosopoleptic bullet will interrupt what promises to be a most brilliant and picturesque career." It is suggested that an aprosopoleptic bullet is one that doesn't hit you in front, but it isn't exactly easy to get that meaning out of the queer word.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S DENTIST.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After reading in THE TIMES of Dec. 31 the interesting account of the Washington funeral parade in this city, I happened to take up Longworth's City Directory for 1801, and found in it an allusion to one of the commonplace incidents in Washington's life in the advertisement of John Greenwood, who was Washington's dentist.

The advertisement or notice, which may possess interest at the present time, is worded as follows: "J. Greenwood, dentist to the late President George Washington, informs the Public, that he continues to perform every operation incident to the Teeth and Gums, from the fixing up of a single tooth to a complete set. The approbation which the late illustrious Washington was pleased to bestow on him, he flatters himself, is a sufficient recommendation of his abilities as a Dentist.

"Extract from General Washington's Letter:

"'January 6, 1799.—I shall always prefer your services to that of any other in the line of your present profession.'

"N. B. His prices are very moderate, as no person can excel him in facility and neatness of performance.

"J. Greenwood may be consulted at his house, No. 13 Park, which is the fourth door (towards St. Paul's Church) from the Theatre."

In this connection I may say that the late Col. Daniel Stinson, who was connected with the United States Army for more than sixty years and who died in 1891, aged about ninety-five, told me that Greenwood showed him at his office, which was then in the lower part of Greenwich street—at that time the court end of the town—one of Washington's teeth which he had extracted and preserved—perhaps this very tooth was the cause of Washington's letter of commendation, though had Washington and Greenwood lived until the present time, with the advance and improvement in the dental science, as in everything else, it is reasonable to suppose that Washington would not have presented the distorted expression of the mouth as seen in some of his portraits. MANDEVILLE MOWER.
New York, Jan. 3, 1900.

AN EARNEST CRITIC.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dear Mr. Times No one of your Readers needs to be prophet, to Declare you openly that if you Keep on by trowing us such a poor intelligent editorial articles; as the one headed in the Sunday Times of December 17 ("The Britisch Defeats,") and December 24, "The two Republics") is enough to See your finish all right, your editor, and your paper, will go to Devil in a very schort time, as for the former we would have no regret, but for the latter it will be regrettable, for not longer than Six months ago was the most intelligent and instructive respectable paper I shall almost say in the World. But when you confront such raisonnement as in the articles afore mentioned, With the short abrégér of general Washington and Lafayette in the Sundays Times December 17, Who for one hundred and some years ago Compelled the Britisch to leave new york and made them understand, that Oncle Sams, was able to Do his housecleaning very well himself. For if,," Waschington and—Lafayette said to them;? if you are as Dirthy im england as you treed to be in américa then housecleaning in england must be a terrible job.

Now Mr. Times as for you it is high time to remédie to these State of affaires, you are getting to much independent yourself, and you are paying big weges to your éditor, and I think he is housecleaning you for fair, if you Dont bounce him very soon; your Readers schall not be Surprised to see you and him Surrender to us, one fine morning with armes-et-baggages, and we'll Send you with your english Sentiments over to england Where you will have a fine occasion to go to Modder River to finisch your brilliante—Carrière. I feel sorry for my bad writing but I hope you will understand me all the same. FRANCOIS ANNESERE.
New-York January 1st 1900.

NUGGETS.

Justifiable Circumstances.

She—Don't you think it is better to marry for love than for money?

He—Certainly—if the contracting parties are both wealthy.—Chicago News.

Quite Bostonian.

He—To prove the sincerity of my intentions, I have brought this solitaire adornment for your engagement ring.

She—I must say, my friend, that your speech has the true ring.—Boston Courier.

An Easier Way Out.

Proprietor—If you don't stop eating so much candy I'll have to let you go.

Drug Clerk—Oh, say now, you know I'm a valuable clerk; suppose you just quit keeping candy.—Chicago Record.

Almost Too Much.

"You are my ideal," he said earnestly; "the only girl I ever loved, the only girl I ever could love. No other could possibly fill the void in my heart."

"And if you never had met me, George," she asked anxiously, "would you never have cared for any girl at all?"—Chicago Post.

A Woman of Influence.

"My wife is a wonderful woman." "Ever write a book?" "No." "Play, perhaps?" "No." "President of a woman's club?" "Wrong again." "Has political aspirations?" "Not one." "Then for goodness sakes what's wonderful about her?" "We live in a flat, and she succeeded in having our janitor discharged."—Philadelphia Record.

THE MASTER'S FRIEND.

Bertrand Shadwell in Chicago Record.

The master must to a distant land,
With a foreign foe to fight;
And the master's wife was glad of it,
But she hid her false delight,
And came to him with a tearful face
And begged of him to stay;
But the master's hound was sorry,
And it went and it hid away.

The master's ship, from the harbor's mouth,
Beat out to the stormy sea;
And his wife staid late at my lady's ball,
Rejoicing to be free.
They said she shone like a jewel there,
And she heard it with delight.
But she could not sleep for the master's hound,
For it howled through the livelong night.

The master died—he was shot to death
In that land beyond the sea—
And they brought his body home, to lie
In a grave by the cypress tree;
And the master's widow hid her face
And made believe she cried;
But the master's hound staid by his grave
Till it starved to death—and died.

BOYD CAPTURES A FILIPINO GENERAL

RIZAL IS NOW HIS PRISONER

Schwan Takes Some of Noriel's Artillery—Insurgents Have Lost 205 Men in Latest Fights.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Gen. Otis to-day cabled the War Department of the movements of troops during the past few days. On Saturday at Binan, on the shore of Laguna de Bay, the column advancing under Schwan encountered the insurgents 800 strong, commanded by Gen. Noriel. The Filipinos were driven west to Silong, leaving three of their six pieces of artillery in Schwan's hands.

At daylight this morning Boyd, with a part of the Thirty-seventh Infantry, surrounded the troops of Gen. Rizal, east of Las Banos, with the result that Rizal is now a prisoner. Gen. Otis reports:

"Bates pursuing enemy in south with vigor, Schwan's column moving along shore of Laguna de Bay struck 800 insurgents under Gen. Noriel at Binan 6th inst., and drove them westward on Silang; captured place, from which point cavalry pushed through to Indang. Schwan captured three of Noriel's six pieces of artillery and will take remainder, also his transportation, with records and large quantity of ammunition.

"Two battalions of Twenty-eighth, part of Wheaton's column, struck enemy near Imus yesterday, killing and wounding 140.

"Berkheimer, with battalion of Twenty-eighth, struck enemy intrenched west of Bacoor yesterday morning; enemy left on field 65 dead, 40 wounded, and 32 rifles. Our loss thus far: Lieut. Cheney, Fourth Infantry; 4 enlisted men killed, 24 enlisted men wounded. Expected that Schwan's troops will cut off retreat of enemy's Cavite army. Wheaton moving to-day on Das Marinas.

"Boyd, Thirty-seventh Infantry, moved east from Las Banos, surrounded troops of Gen. Rizal at daylight, capturing Rizal and considerable property. It is expected that Cavite and Batangus provinces will be cleared up soon. In the north, Leonhaeuser, with three companies of Twenty-fifth, attacked robber bands in Arayat Mountain, dispersed them, destroying their barracks and subsistence. Found there five of our prisoners, whom they had picked up on the railroad; three killed and two seriously wounded. These northern robber bands will be actively pursued."

MANILA, Jan. 8.—Gen. Schwan's column, advancing to the south, occupied Binang. One American was killed and three were wounded. Nine of the enemy's dead were found on the field after the fight. A number of rifles were captured and several prisoners were taken.

Johnson, a deserter from the Sixth United States Artillery, clothed in a Major's uniform, was found among the insurgent dead at Noveleta yesterday.

Gen. Wheaton is moving toward Perez das Marinas to-day.

A force of Filipinos charged twelve men of the Third Cavalry, who were scouting behind San Fernando de Laubon. One trooper and three horses and carbines were captured. The enemy then fled.

LONG THANKS HARE AND HOWZE.

The Secretary Also Congratulates the Rescued Prisoners.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Secretary Long has addressed the following cablegram to Admiral Watson:

"Washington, Jan. 8, 1900.

"Watson, Manila:

"Convey hearty thanks to Hare and Howze and congratulations to Gillmore and men."

The following cablegram has been received from Gen. Otis under date of Manila, Jan. 7:

"Admiral Watson has cabled the names of the navy rescued prisoners, one officer, eleven men. The remaining prisoners, fourteen in number, are as follows: Civilians—G. W. Langford, Manila; David Brown, St. Paul; J. W. O'Brien, London; Soldiers—George T. Hachett, H; Archie L. Gordon, K, Third Infantry; William Bruce, Elmer Honnyman, First Nevada Cavalry; Frank Stone, Leland S. Smith, Signal Corps; Albert O. Bishop, I, Third Artillery; Sergt. Frank McDonald, L, Twenty-first Infantry; Harry F. Huber, Hospital Corps; Martin Brennan, James P. Curran, Sixteenth Infantry."

PLAGUE CASES IN MANILA.

Disease So Far Has Been Confined to Native Classes—Americans Are in Little Danger.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The plague has broken out in Manila beyond a doubt, as appears from the following cablegram received by Surgeon General Sternberg:

Manila, Jan. 6.

Three bubonic natives. GREENLEAF.

The signer is Col. Greenleaf, Assistant Surgeon General and Chief Surgeon in the Philippines.

It was suspected last week that the disease had obtained a footing in Manila, but it was not until Col. Greenleaf's report that the fact was established. The first effect probably will be to have quarantine laid upon all shipping coming from Manila. The town will be placed under the most rigid sanitary regulations, and this work will be undertaken by Col. Greenleaf pending the arrival at Manila of the Marine Hospital Service officials now on the way. Gen. Sternberg says that Col. Greenleaf is exceptionally well fitted to cope with the present emergency, and he has no doubt that the disease will soon be stamped out.

It is noted that the cases of plague reported are confined to the native class, and it is said that that has been the case in most of the cities of Asia, where the disease has appeared. It is notably true of Hongkong, where it has existed for many months, without causing any considerable fatality among the European population. It was probably from Hongkong that the disease found its way to Manila. The medical officers at all times have been on the watch to prevent this, but owing to the short distance from Hongkong to Manila, and the large amount of traffic carried on in a small way by native junks and dhows, the ultimate introduction of the disease into Manila was inevitable.

MANILA, Jan. 8.—The bubonic plague is yet sporadic. There have been six cases and four deaths. Preparations are being made to establish hospitals for disinfecting and quarantine.

Great numbers of provincial natives are coming to Manila, with the result that the city is overcrowded, the increase in accommodations being inadequate, and the rice necessary for foodstuffs is more expensive than at any period during the last twelve years. The plague is dangerous to the overcrowded, under-fed, and unwashed natives and Chinamen. Americans avoiding direct contact with the disease are safe.

LIEUT. CHENEY DIES AT IMUS.

Succumbs to Wounds Received in a Skirmish with Filipinos.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Gen. Otis has cabled news of the death of First Lieut. Ward Cheney, Fourth Infantry, at Imus, at 11:45 o'clock yesterday morning, of wounds received in a skirmish there.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 8.—The news was received in this city to-day of the death yesterday at Imus of Lieut. Ward Cheney, Fourth Regiment, United States Army. Lieut. Cheney was graduated from Yale in 1896, and was one of the most prominent men of his class. He was the son of Col. Frank W. Cheney of South Manchester, Conn., and was twenty-five years old. He was one of ten of the family to graduate from Yale. At Yale he was one of the leaders of his class, and was elected to many class honors, notably the Junior Promenade Committee and the senior society of Skull and Bones. He was a high-stand man also, and was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa in junior year.

After graduation Lieut. Cheney went on the editorial force of The Hartford Courant, and remained there until the outbreak of the war, when he enlisted in Company G, First Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, and went into camp at Niantic. In June, 1898, he was appointed Second Lieutenant in the regular army by President McKinley and joined the Fourth Infantry at Fort McPherson. While in camp there Lieut. Cheney was taken ill with fever, and was obliged to return to his home for a time, after a short stay at Fort Sheridan. In the early part of 1899 he was ordered with his regiment to Manila, and arrived there in March last, going immediately into action. For gallantry in action last Summer he was recommended for a brevet by Major Bunt, commanding his battalion in the Fourth Regiment, and later on he acted as Captain of Company H when in active service.

RADICAL MEASURES IN HONOLULU.

Board of Health Burns All Plague Infected Buildings.

HONOLULU, Jan. 1.—Seven additional cases of plague have developed since last advices, making thirteen cases all told to date. The three cases were discovered on the night of the 28th ultimo, and four cases have been reported during the past forty-eight hours.

The Board of Health has decided to take radical steps to stamp out the scourge. A portion of the infected district was condemned and burned to the ground yesterday. Three buildings and a large warehouse were destroyed by fire. The future policy of the Health authorities will be to destroy all infected buildings.

There is still a feeling of doubt as to the nature of the disease. The majority of intelligent people do not consider it plague. But the fact remains that the victims are stricken and die very suddenly. If the trouble is not plague, it is something akin to it.

The presence of the disease in this city is commencing to worry the sugar men. They have an idea that Hawaiian sugar may be refused at United States ports if shipped from Honolulu. To get around this difficulty the new crop may be shipped from ports outside of Honolulu. Honolulu being the only infected port, it is believed that the Federal authorities will agree to this plan, and allow the marketing of the 1899 crop.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—A letter from Honolulu, dated Dec. 30, says:

"The curious spectacle is presented here of a revival of the shotgun quarantine around the plague infected district, while sanitary measures and disinfection have been practically abandoned. The Board of Health called out the National Guard three days after Christmas because of the discovery of five new cases of plague, two of which proved fatal. It is now paying $1,000 a day for this protection, and the result of this strict guard is demoralizing. Many poor Chinese and Japanese who worked in the American quarter are starving.

"There have been seventeen known cases of bubonic plague in Honolulu to date. There have been a number of other deaths, which were probably due to plague, but the Board of Health has not officially so declared them. Passenger traffic between the islands is practically at a standstill.

"The America Maru, which arrived here from San Francisco Dec. 27, discharged her passengers and freight by means of lighters. The transport Grant, with the Forty-eighth Infantry, arrived a few hours after the America Maru. Her commander refused to come in the harbor or have anything but the barest communication with the pilots and port officials, and started for Manila after a stop of not more than an hour."

Asks Money to Send Spaniards Home.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The Secretary of War has sent to Congress a request for an urgent deficiency appropriation of $750,000 to supplement the $1,500,000 heretofore appropriated for the repatriation of the Spanish prisoners and their families held by the insurgents in the Philippines, from those islands to Spain, in accordance with the treaty of Paris.

LAWTON FUND STILL GROWS.

Gen. Corbin Thinks There Is About $85,000 in Sight—Over $67,000 Is in Hand or Reported.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The Lawton home fund is attaining noble proportions, and Gen. Corbin is of the opinion that there is now about $85,000 in sight. The contributions turned in since noon Saturday, or reported, amount to $18,976.23, making the grand total at noon to-day $67,409.55.

Gen. Corbin says that in addition to this, it is reported to him that there is a fund of $10,000 in San Francisco and another of $6,000 in New York not yet turned in, and there is no doubt that other sums will be reported.

CUBAN PRISON INVESTIGATION.

Conditions Even Worse than Supposed —Men Confined for Years Waiting Trial for Slight Offenses.

HAVANA, Jan. 8.—The prison investigation being carried on by Judge Advocate Dudley and Major Runcie reveals a state of affairs even worse than had been expected, and Gen. Wood says that summary measures will be necessary to prevent further unnecessary hardship and suffering.

Many cases seem to have been absolutely forgotten. Men have been found who have been waiting for years to be tried. Some of these were not even discovered by Gen. Ludlow's commission of ten months ago. Some of the unfortunates have been in detention several years for offenses so slight that, had these been committed in the United States, the offenders would have been let off with a small fine or a few days' imprisonment.

The principal opponents of reform, Gen. Wood finds, are the Judges and Fiscals, who do not wish the fee system abolished, but would prefer the continuance of the old Spanish methods, under which they get all the money a man has, and then leave him to rot in jail, awaiting trial. Sixty names were presented to Gen. Wood to-day with recommendations of immediate pardon. Judge Advocate Dudley and Major Runcie have been working hard, and are astounded at the discoveries they are making.

BODIES OF WAR VICTIMS.

Those Buried at Santiago and Elsewhere in Cuba to be Brought Here.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Quartermaster General Ludington has made arrangements for the shipment to this country of the bodies of about 100 soldiers disinterred at Santiago last Spring and detained there until this time on account of the sanitary precautions against the introduction of contagious diseases.

The bodies will be taken to New York, where those identified and claimed will be transferred to relatives or friends for private burial. The remainder will be brought to Washington for reinterment in the Arlington National Cemetery by the side of other victims of the Spanish war.

Burial parties are now engaged in collecting the bodies of all other soldiers buried in Cuban soil, including those who have died since the termination of hostilities at the various military stations. These bodies will also be brought to this country, and all that are not claimed will be buried at the Arlington Cemetery.

Promotions in the Engineer Corps.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The appointment of Lieut. Col. William Ludlow of the engineers to be a Brigadier General in the regular army has caused the following promotions in the Corps of Engineers:

Major W. H. Heuer, stationed at San Francisco, to be Lieutenant Colonel; Capt. C. McD. Townsend, stationed at Rock Island, Ill., to be Major; First Lieut. Robert McGregor, stationed at Little Rock, Ark., to be Captain; Second Lieut. F. W. Alstaetter, stationed at Willets Point, N. Y., to be First Lieutenant; Additional Second Lieut. B. M. Markham, stationed at St. Augustine, Fla., to be Second Lieutenant.

Gen. Greely Progressing Well.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Brig. Gen. Greely, Chief Signal Officer, United States Army, who was attacked by a drunken man at his home last evening, is resting well, and, aside from the shock and the weakness attendant upon the loss of blood, experiences no serious hurt as a result of the encounter. The physicians believe that his skull has not been injured, and, though he will probably be confined

MRS. DREXEL'S BIG DANCE

Cotillion at Sherry's in Honor of Miss Ellen Drexel Paul.

Elaborate Decorations and Some of the Handsomest Gowns Seen This Season Were Worn.

Mrs. John R. Drexel, who was Miss Troth of Philadelphia, gave last evening at Sherry's large ballroom the first large and notable private dance of the season. The dance was in honor of Miss Ellen Drexel Paul of Philadelphia, a niece of Mr. Drexel's. Mr. and Mrs. Drexel are living this Winter in the house owned by Mr. James A. Burden, Jr., 8 East Sixty-ninth Street, but following the new fashion, adopted by many hostesses, particularly in London, she preferred to give the entertainment at Sherry's, thus avoiding the upsetting of her handsome house The whole third floor, with the ball and reception rooms and palm garden smoking room, was reserved by Mrs. Drexel for her guests, as well as all the reception rooms on the second floor, which were used as cloak rooms.

The guests entered by the second doorway, on Forty-fourth treet, the middle hall being entirely closed at either side from the restaurant and café entrances. They were transported by the lifts from the entrance hall to the cloak rooms, where, having laid aside their wraps, they ascended to the ballroom floor, and were received by Mrs. Drexel in the foyer, on the ballroom floor. In this foyer there were rose bushes bearing red and pink roses in full bloom, and also vases filled with American Beauty and bride roses.

The large ballroom presented a beautiful appearance, and was completely transformed from its ordinary aspect. The corners of the room were cut off and banked with immense palms and ferns. Rosebushes laden with "Jack" and small pink roses were ranged along the sides of the room, and at intervals among these were pots of flowering quince and bouganvilleas with orchids here and there.

Festooned along the front of the balcony were crescent-shaped clusters of pink and red carnations and large baskets of growing ferns were suspended here and there from the balcony. In the conservatory there was also a profusion of roses and cages filled with singing canaries—the same which were used at the dinner dance on Saturday night—were hung from the ceiling. The central chandelier in the grand ballroom was festooned with smilax and other greens, and its lights were wrapped with red and white translucent paper.

From it was suspended a large ball covered with electric lights, which at a signal from the leader opened in the last figure of the cotillion and showered rose leaves and confetti over the dancers. The same device was used at the ball given by Mr. James W. Paul for his daughter, Miss Ellen Drexel Paul, who was last night a guest of honor, in Philadelphia last week.

The dance was a very late one in beginning, as most of the guests came from the opera. It was 11:30 o'clock before the guests arrived in any number. Mrs. Drexel wore a most effective and becoming gown of white lace appliqued with pansies. Her jewels were her celebrated turquoises and diamonds. Miss Ellen Drexel Paul, who is stood by Mrs. Drexel, was in pale blue satin trimmed with tulle and daisies. By midnight the latest guests had arrived, some coming from Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's dinner and other smaller dinners, and the dance was on.

There was desultory dancing only before supper, which was served soon after midnight in the reception rooms off the foyer, at small tables. Covers were laid for about three hundred guests. The decoration of these tables was rare orchids. The menu was as follows:

Consomme Marie Stuart en tasse.
Mousse d'Ecrevisses Oriental.
Terrapin.
Chaudfroid a la Reserve.
Cailles Egyptienne. Salade Lakme.
Canvasback duck. Hominy Croquettes.
Glacé. Mousse au Champagne.
Gateaux. Bonbons. Mandarins Glacés.
Café a l'Indienne.
Moet and Chandon Imperial Brut.

Supper was not long, and the cotillion began about 1 o'clock. It started with about one hundred couples, but fifty men and women only danced the first two figures, leaving the rest of the cotillion for the younger and more energetic dancers. This cotillion was led from both ends of the room by Mr William Hude Neilson dancing with Miss Ellen Drexel Paul, and Mr. Elisha Dyer, Jr., dancing with the hostess, Mrs. Drexel. There were over a dozen figures danced.

The favors, which, with the exception of a few trifles, were brought from Paris, were vari-colored flowers on staffs, tinsel sashes and hoops with bells for the tinsel figure, brocaded pincushions, desk sets of scissors and envelope openers, portfolios "pour ecrire un mot," paper cutters, inkstands, feather dusters with brocade-covered handles, picture frames of brocade, fancy boxes, work boxes, silk parasols with heads of birds, stocks with bird heads, boxes and frames of white enamel, and French fans. The bursting of the electric light ball with its showers of confetti and rose leaves described above made a mild sensation.

Some of the handsomest gowns seen this season were worn. Among the most notable were the following.

Mrs. Astor, white satin embroidered in spangles, tiara and stomacher of diamonds.

Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, pale blue satin and white lace with an odd coiffure of pink and deep blood orange roses.

Miss Atherton-Blight, black lace and velvet, the corsage and sleeves being made of bands of black velvet.

Mrs. Frank Pendleton, black velvet and white lace, with blue plumes in her hair.

Miss Van Nest, white satin trimmed with turquois blue.

Mrs. Alexander Van Nest, white satin and diamonds.

Miss Pauncefote of Washington, green crêpe over silk, silver-spangled.

Miss Mabel Gerry, pink and white pompadour silk, with pink plumes.

Miss Gurnee, pink crêpe de chine.

Miss Clare Bryce, pink crêpe de chine.

Mrs. Frank Witherbee, lavender crêpe de chine over silk, lavender plumes.

Mrs. Post, black velvet; the bodice studded with diamond stars.

Miss Eleanor Thomas, gray and silver; corsage trimmed with pink and red roses.

Mrs. Willie Jay, gown of silver gray, profusely trimmed with silver; pearls and diamonds.

Mrs. Townsend Burden, white and pink brocade; sleeves fastened with great bunches of pink and red roses; necklace and crown of diamonds.

Miss Morton, blue crepe de chine.

Miss Barbey, white satin and white plumes.

Miss Eva Barbey, light-blue satin skirt edged with deep flounce of accordion-plaited mousseline de soie of same color.

Mrs. R. T. Wilson, pale-blue satin.

Miss Betty Metcalf, white crepe de chine.

Mrs. George B. de Forest, pale-blue satin and diamond tiara.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, white and black brocade.

Mrs. Starr Miller, white satin combined with black lace.

Mrs. Josephine Johnson, orange yellow satin, with corsage covered with diamonds, diamonds and plumes in hair.

Mrs. Louis C. Jones, heavy white satin trimmed with Honiton lace and diamond ornaments.

Among those present were Mrs. Astor, Mrs. Orme Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry, the Misses Gerry, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Miss Mary Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Burden, Miss Evelyn Burden, Miss Evelyn Sloane, Mr. John Sloane, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Tailer, Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Jr., Miss Greta Pomeroy, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. George B. De Forest, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Cutting, Miss Cutting, Mrs. R. Fulton Cutting, Miss Daisy Post, Miss Van Nest, Mrs. Alexander Van Nest, Miss Josephine Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. George Bird, Miss Betty Metcalf, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hilhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer of Philadelphia, Miss Minnie Drexel Fell, Mrs. Post, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Witherbee, Miss Clare Bryce, Miss Laura Swann, Miss Lily Oelrichs, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oelrichs.

Mr. and Mrs. Lanfear Norrie, the Misses Barbey, Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Miss Hall, Miss Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stickney, the Misses Gurnee, Mrs. Levi P. Morton, the Misses Morton, Mr. and Mrs. James Hude Beeckman, Miss Emily Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clews, Miss Elsie Clews, Mrs. Gouverneur Kortright, Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore, the Misses Wetmore, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rives, Miss Haven, Miss Babcock, Miss Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Winthrop, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. Pembroke Jones, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford White, Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard Ronalds, Mrs. Pierpont Morgan, the Misses Morgan, Miss Pauncefote of Washington, the Misses Hewitt, and the Messrs. Cutting, James W. Gerard, Harry Lehr, David Bishop, Jr., Worthington Whitehouse, Creighton Webb, J. Thomas, F. Cushing, Bull, Lorimer Worden, Van Nest, Gurnee, Reginald Brooks, Louis Webb, Gerry, Gallatin, Palmer, Max Muller, and Cassatt.

MOODY MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Carnegie Hall Filled by Friends and Co-workers of the Late Evangelist —Many Warm Tributes.

The service held in memory of Dwight L. Moody, in Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon, brought out an attendance that completely filled the hall and galleries. William E. Dodge presided and Ira D. Sankey led the singing, giving to the meeting the flavor of the old-time Moody and Sankey meetings. The platform was filled with clergymen and other religious workers, among others being the Rev. Dr. John Balcom Shaw, the Rev. Dr. David Gregg, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Pierson, J. H. Elliott, James Talcott, Robert Fulton Cutting, William Phillips Hall, Richard C. Morse, John R. Mott, Fanny J. Crosby, the Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith, the Rev. J. M. Buckley, the Rev. Dr. D. J. Burrell, the Rev. A. C. Dixon, and the Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Cuyler.

The Rev. Dr. Shaw said the opening prayer, and G. Warring Stebbins, organist of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, played for a prelude Guilmant's Funeral March and Seraph's Song and Chopin's Funeral March.

Mr. Dodge, speaking first, related many incidents of Mr. Moody's life, to illustrate his character and method of work. His greatest power he said, lay in his knowledge of men. While so much was heard of his speaking, those who knew him best knew that his greatest influence was felt in personal conversation.

Dr. Cuyler spoke of Mr. Moody as one who preached seven days in the week. He was a typical American, he said.

"The mighty voice which was heard so often in this hall," said Dr. Cuyler, "has joined the harmonies of heaven. The greatest preacher the modern world has known has gone to his reward. If I was called upon to point out the names of the two greatest Americans of the nineteenth century, two figures which every youth in this country should follow the example of, I would say without hesitation, Abraham Lincoln and Dwight L. Moody."

John Wanamaker, who was to have spoken was unable to be present. He wrote, asking that Mr. Sankey take his place. At Mr. Sankey's request, "Saved By Grace," one of the old-time favorite hymns, was sung by Miss Crosby. At the conclusion only the upper gallery sung the chorus, as it had been done in Mr. Moody's time. Mr. Sankey afterward told of his last visit to Northfield, to attend the burial of his brother-worker. He spoke with great emotion and made a plea that the work of Mr. Moody at Northfield should receive the support which it must have to be continued.

Dr. Buckley said: "Mr. Moody died when he was most desired. He was the nucleus of undenominational religious activity; he broke the chains of conventionality and brought the Christian world together."

Dr. Burrell, Robert Fulton Cutting, John R. Mott, and the Rev. A. C. Dixon gave personal reminiscences of Mr. Moody.

AMERICA AS A WORLD POWER.

Paris Temps Says the Monroe Doctrine Has Fallen, Through the "Open-Door" Negotiations.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The Temps this evening devotes its leading editorial to the American diplomatic victory in the contest for the "open door" in China. It says:

"Europe could not place difficulties in the way of Washington's proposal. Each power has always accompanied the little partitions of China which have taken place with the formal undertaking to maintain the conventional status quo. It seems, then, that Secretary Hay gave himself a superfluous task and gained an easy victory, since nobody disputed it. Nevertheless, the negotiations are a gave novelty. The United States is now acting as a great world power. It has emerged from its time-honored isolation. It means that the Monroe doctrine has fallen like a part of the Great Wall of China.

"President McKinley and his Secretary of State will have hastened this international revolution by their wars and diplomacy. They have assured themselves a place in history by taking the responsibility for the assumption of American rights and obligations as a great power."

Changes in Germany's Consulates.

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—A number of changes that have long been contemplated in Germany's Consulates in the United States are now announced. Herr K. Buenz, now in Chicago, will go as Consul General to New York, where Herr Geissler will become Consul. Dr. W. Wever, hitherto at Rio Janeiro, will succeed Herr Buenz. Herr Marheinecke, now at Philadelphia, will be transferred to Belgrade.

New Treaty with Spain Drafted.

MADRID, Jan. 8.—The basis of a general treaty to replace the treaties of 1795 and 1877 has been drawn up by Premier Silvela and the United States Minister, Bellamy Storer, and a copy has been sent to Washington for approval. The same thing will be done with the treaty of commerce, which is divided into three parts, governing Spain's trade with America, the Antilles, and the Philippines.

Colombian Rebels Take Two Towns.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 8.—Advices received here to-day say that the Colombian revolutionists have taken Pamplona and Bucaramanga without a fight. It is added that they intend to reach Bogota by way of Socorro.

Socorro is a town of Colombia, State of Boyaca, sixty-five miles south-southwest of Pamplona.

Young Loubet Fought No Duel.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—A story circulated to-day that a duel was fought yesterday between M. Loubet's son, Paul, and a friend, M. de Launay, arising from the conviction of M. Déroulède, appears to have been incorrect, though it is said they exchanged seconds. The matter, however, was arranged. M. Paul Loubet is shooting to-day with the President at Marly-le-Roi.

Dublin Will Thank Mr. McKinley.

DUBLIN, Jan. 8.—The Corporation has unanimously resolved to place on record their high appreciation of the honor conferred on Lord Mayor Tallon by the President of the United States on the occasion of his lordship's visit to Washington and the warm reception given him on that occasion.

Coppee to Try for Deroulede's Seat.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—François Coppée, the author and dramatist, in response to a telegram from M. Déroulède from Genoa, has accepted the candidature for M. Déroulède's seat in the Chamber of Deputies. The Nationalists will fight hard to secure a victory for M. Coppée, as a blow for the Government. M. Coppée is a fanatical Déroulédist.

Gen. McCook's Nephew Dies in Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—George Sheldon McCook, a son of Prof. McCook of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and a nephew of Gen. Anson G. McCook, died last night of pleuro-pneumonia, after a short illness. He had been studying architecture. His father is in midocean on his way to this city, and the remains will await his disposition.

French Miners' Strike Ended.

ST. ETIENNE, France, Jan. 8.—The miners' strike in this district is now practically at an end. This evening's figures show that virtually all the men descended into the pits to-day in accordance with the arrangement made by the arbitration committee last Saturday.

Attempt to Undock the Paris Fails.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Another effort which was made at Milford Haven to-day to float the American Line steamer Paris out of dock, in order to take her to Belfast for extensive repairs, after having been ashore off the Manacles, failed. The vessel commenced to fill as soon as water was let into the dock.

Will Lend on Venezuela's Salt Mines.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 8.—The foreign bankers here propose to advance the Government 16,000,000 bolivars if the salt mines are given as a guarantee of the payment of the loan.

New Government in Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 8.—Hugh John Macdonald at 11 o'clock to-day formally accepted the task of forming a Government in succession to the Greenway Administration, which resigned on Saturday.

Brazil Has Fifty Millions to Burn.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 8.—The Minister of Finance has been ordered to burn two millions of paper money every week until fifty millions are destroyed.

McGIFFERT CASE REVIVED.

Dr. Birch, the Stated Clerk of the New York Presbytery, to Prefer Additional Charges.

The seventy-eight members of the New York Presbytery, who voted last month to drop the charges of heresy against the Rev. Dr. McGiffert, were disagreeably surprised yesterday afternoon when, at the January meeting, Dr. Birch, the Stated Clerk, gave notice of his intention to prefer further charges against Union's professor. Dr. Birch's charges will be presented at a special meeting of the Presbytery next Monday at 2 P. M.

It had been supposed that the action last month disposed of the case, at least before the New York Presbytery, but there was even then an undercurrent of opinion that if not in the local body, the affair would eventually be carried by some one to the General Assembly.

The McGiffert committee's report at the December meeting was adopted by a vote of 78 to 27. It will be remembered that the recommendation was that the charges be dropped in the interests of peace. The presentation of Dr. Birch's notice yesterday, it is said, provoked warm comment in the Liberal wing of the Presbytery. What was said though, was carefully guarded from the outside world.

After the meeting was over, Dr. Birch said he was acting independently. He was quoted as saying to a brother minister that it was a "new deal" altogether, and that he alone was responsible for the bringing of the charges.

The pastoral relations of Dr. Van Dyke with the Brick Church were at his request dissolved, and he will be transferred to the Presbytery of New Brunswick in accordance with his new duties at Princeton. Dr. Van Dyke sent a letter to the Presbytery which provoked several congratulatory speeches tinged with regret over his severance of relations with this Presbytery. Dr. Birch spoke of his friendship for Dr. Van Dyke, adding: "I hardly ever agreed upon anything with Dr. Van Dyke, and his father, but they are among the best friends I ever had."

Among the routine matters disposed of was the granting of permission to the Fifth Avenue Church to extend a call to the Rev. Dr. Purves of Princeton.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Johanna Lynch Returned to Blazing Room to Rescue Baby and Lost Her Life.

Miss Johanna Lynch, twenty-eight years old, who lived with her brother-in-law, George Wilson, in an apartment on the third floor of 99 Madison Street, was burned to death early yesterday morning.

Wilson works in the Fulton fish market. His family consisted of his wife, their six-year-old son, and a girl baby, six days old, and his sister-in-law, Johanna. The baby was christened Johanna, after her aunt, Sunday night.

The members of the family were up late, and they left an oil lamp burning in the front room where they held the christening. Shortly before 6 o'clock, after Lynch had gone to work, the lamp exploded, setting the room on fire. To get to the hall from the rear rooms, where the women and the two children were sleeping, it was necessary to pass through the front room. Mrs. Wilson caught up the baby, and, rushing through the flames, made her way to the roof. Miss Lynch took the boy and also escaped with him to the roof. Before she reached the roof Mrs. Wilson had gone through the scuttle and down the stairs of the adjoining house. Miss Lynch left the boy on the roof and ran back to the blazing apartment, probably thinking that the younger child was there. She was found dead later on the floor of the kitchen. She had been badly burned.

The alarm was turned in by Policeman Thomas O'Connell of the Madison Street Station. Engine No. 9, in charge of Capt. Gaffney, responded. Ten families live in the house. The inmates were hurried out by the police.

The damage to the burned apartment was estimated at $500.

EAGER LOVER BROUGHT TO TIME.

Decides to Leave the Girl Alone Rather than Go to Prison.

Frederick Pavel, employed in a restaurant at 249 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street making "hot cakes," was a prisoner before Magistrate Mott, in the Yorkville Police Court, yesterday, charged with annoying Miss Celia Schroer, nineteen years old, who lives at 304 East Eleventh Street, by threatening to kill her and then commit suicide for her coolness toward him.

It was stated that the girl and Pavel met while the former was a passenger on a steamship four years ago and Pavel a sailor. Pavel fell in love with Miss Schroer, and, leaving the steamship, obtained work in this city so as to be near her. She at first received his attentions and an engagement followed. Then she reconsidered the matter and said she could not marry him. He has since annoyed her, she said.

"I am really afraid of my life, Judge," said Miss Schroer to the Magistrate, "and I want him sent to prison for his whole long life unless he promises to leave me alone."

"How can you expect me to leave you alone," said Pavel, addressing Miss Schroer, "when I love you dearer than life itself."

Miss Schroer's lawyer then said he must leave the girl alone or go to prison. "Then, send me to prison," said Pavel.

"Step down to the clerk and draw up the necessary affidavit," said Magistrate Mott to the lawyer.

He was about to do this when Pavel falteringly asked: "What must I do to keep out of prison?"

"Keep away from this girl, and never speak, look at, or write letters to her," said the lawyer.

Magistrate Mott nodded assent to this. "That's hard on me," said Pavel, "but I'll do it if she insists."

"Of course I insist," declared Miss Schroer, with a stamp of her foot.

Then Magistrate Mott, on the promise of Pavel to cease annoying the girl, dismissed the case.

One Year's Progress of Advertising in The New York Times

AGATE LINES.

1899 . . . *3,378,750

1898 . . . 2,433,193

Gain . . . 945,557

38.8% Increase.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

Daily, ONE Cent.

Sunday, THREE Cents.

*Representing a volume of high-grade advertising unequaled in space and value in any one year of the 48 years' existence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WHAT IS DOING IN SOCIETY.

The second week of the new year has opened with considerable gayety. Yesterday brought the first private ball—that given at Sherry's last evening by Mrs. John R. Drexel, a large dinner of twenty covers given by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, and a number of luncheons and theatre and opera parties. The opera, with many of the boxholders gowned for the Drexel dance, to which they afterward went, drew one of the most brilliant houses of the season. To-day will bring the first meeting of the fashionable sewing class organized by a number of well-known matrons interested in the Lying-In Hospital, at Mrs. Mortimer Brooks's, 1 East Forty-fifth Street; the third of the Tuesday evening subscription dances at Delmonico's, the third fortnightly dance at the Astoria, the second of Miss Callender and Miss De Forest's musicales, and a large dance in the Metropolitan Club Annex by Miss Gurnee for her nieces, the daughters of Mr. Walter S. Gurnee, Jr.

***

The music which Miss Callender and Miss De Forest's guests are to enjoy this evening will be rendered by Miss Marguerite Hall, Mr. David Bispham, Mr. Mackenzie Gordon, and Mrs. Seabury Ford of Cleveland, and Liza Lehman's exquisite "In a Persian Garden," which, although well known, cannot be heard too often, will be sung by Miss Hall, Mr. Bispham, Mr. Gordon, and Mrs. Ford, the original quartet which first made this beautiful composition famous here. Mr. Bispham and Miss Hall will sing duos, as will also Mr. Gordon and Mrs. Ford.

***

The Winter flight to the South of Europe and Egypt begins in earnest to-day, with the departure of the Columbia, which sails this morning for Alexandria, via Gibraltar, Genoa, and Naples, and which has booked, among other passengers, Frank W. Andrews, Mrs. George R. Blanchard, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. L. Bradford, Miss Alice Bradford, Mrs. T. M. Bacon and Miss Bacon, Mrs. R. Neilson Clark and children, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Phelps Dodge, who were married last week at Colorado Springs; N. K. Fairbank, Mrs. Henry Gribble, (Miss Wagstaff,) and who is on her way to join her husband in Shanghai, China; Dr. Oliver I. D. Hughes, American Consul at Coburg, Germany, and Mrs. Hughes; J. Neilson Howard of Newport, the fiancé of Miss Edith Rook; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hurlbert, Miss Caroline Hurlbert, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick James, Mrs. John I. Lawrance, Miss Lawrance, Mr. and Mrs. Clement C. Moore and son, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Moore, Charles G. Moore, Jr., Mr. Jesse Moore and Miss Elsie Moore, Mrs. George M. Pullman of Chicago, Mr. Stephen S. Palmer, Miss Mary E. Pratt, Dr. S. C. Powell and Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Thomas Huger Pratt, (Mrs. Wright,) Miss Harriette Wright, Count Mercati, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. F. Robinson, (Miss Lizzie Beach,) Miss Robinson, Miss Marian Richardson, Mrs. C. M. Robinson, Mrs. Sanger, Mrs. W. Stanton, Miss N. Stanton, the Right Rev. J. L. Spalding, Bishop of Peoria, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. George Whitney, and Miss Elinor Whitney.

***

Among those who will sail for England on the St. Louis to-morrow are Mr. H. R. Thaw of Pittsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Marian Story, Miss Hattie Gammell of Newport, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cass Canfield, and the Misses Canfield, The St. Paul, due here on Saturday, is bringing, among others, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Colgate, Mrs. Cooper Hewitt, Mrs. J. W. Wadsworth, H. H. Harjes, C. P. Waddington, and Capt. Chrichmas, who is coming. It is said, as a representative of the Danish Government to confer at Washington relative to the proposed sale of the Danish West India Islands to the United States. The Captain's coming, to accord with his merry name, would seemingly have been a little more timely a fortnight ago. Mrs. William F. Burden will sail for Europe on Jan. 24, and will be given several dinners before her departure.

***

The dance which Miss Delia Gurnee will give this evening at the Metropolitan Club Annex for her two nieces, will be a débutante dance, and will be attended almost entirely by members of the younger set in society. Mrs. Whitelaw Reid's cotillion on Thursday evening will be in honor of her niece, Miss Mary Crocker of San Francisco, who made her formal début at Mrs. Reid's reception on Saturday last. Mrs. Ogden Mills has finally settled on Jan. 22 for her cotillion.

***

The one hundred and first of the musical mornings arranged by Mr. A. M. Bagby took place in the Astoria ballroom yesterday. The programme was an unusually interesting one. The morning was the first of the second series of the musicales for this season. There was an excellent attendance. The Kaltenborn String Orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Franz Kaltenborn, played the prelude from Wagner's "Meistersinger," Gillet's "Dance Caresse," and substituted the ballet music from Massenet's "Le Cid" for Rubinstein's ballet music from "Feramors." The orchestra's rendering of the Gillet selection was particularly good. Mr. Carl Hugo Engel gave as a violin solo Bottesini's "Reverie." The vocal part of the programme was interpreted by Miss Susan Strong and Mr. Bertram, who married the well-remembered singer, Miss Moran-Olden. Miss Strong sang two songs by Brahms, and two by Bemberg, and gave as an encore "She Wandered Down the Mountain Side" and "The Red and White Rose." Mr. Bertram sang an air from Handel's "Deborah." Loewe's "Prinz Eugen," three German Lieder, which won him hearty applause, and, as a surprise to his hearers, Wotan's "Abschied" from "Die Walküre." Among the music lovers in the audience were Miss Callender, Miss De Forest, Miss Remsen, Miss Post, Mrs. James Speyer, Miss McAllister, Miss May Van Nest, Mrs. James Russell Soley, Mrs. Albert Hendricks, and Mrs. Jules Reynal. Signor Scotti will be the chief artist at the next morning on Monday, Jan. 15. Mention must be made of the accompanist, Mr. Isadore Luckstone, whose playing added much to the enjoyment of the morning.

***

There was much talk yesterday in Philadelphia of the reported engagement of Mr. George Lieb Harrison, Jr., and Miss Elsie Cassatt, a daughter of Mr. Alexander J. Cassatt and a sister of Mr. Robert Kelso Cassatt, who is to marry Miss Minnie Drexel Fell on Jan. 22 in the Quaker City. Mr. Harrison is the son of the present Provost Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania. Miss Cassatt is a noted amateur golf champion, and stood in the first five at the last National amateur women's golf championship tournament. The engagement will also be announced in Philadelphia, probably to-day, of Mr. A. Sidney Rambo, son of Mr. William B. Rambo and Miss Featherstone, a sister of Mrs. Edward Conner.

***

The Philadelphia widow who has been so mysteriously alluded to by the Philadelphia society writers for a week past as about to be engaged to a German nobleman, it now appears is Mrs. George Wood, and her fiancé is Count von —— of Germany. The Philadelphia Times naïvely remarking that "Mrs. Wood reserves to herself the right of saying when the name shall be announced." The Count is, however, said to be a representative of one of the oldest and most aristocratic families of the German Empire, and is to come to America within the month, when the engagement will be publicly announced and celebrated with several handsome functions for the purpose of introducing him to Philadelphia society. Mrs. Wood has a large and handsome house on North Broad Street, Philadelphia.

***

Mrs. John R. Drexel received much attention during her recent visit to Philadelphia. Mrs. Spencer Ervin, formerly Miss Gilpin, gave a dinner of twenty-four covers at the Bellevue in honor of Mrs. Drexel, and she was also the guest of honor at several receptions and received at two balls. There has been some quiet entertaining of late at Edgewater Park, New Jersey, Gen. Grubb's country place, where Mrs. Grubb is entertaining her sister, Miss Sopworth of England. Gen. Grubb must therefore have recovered from his recent serious illness.

***

The first large private ball of the Winter in Boston was given last week by Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer to introduce Miss Cornelia Thayer. The Thayer residence was beautifully decorated, and there was a cotillion. Mrs. Wadsworth gave a large and handsome dinner of twenty covers at her Commonwealth Avenue residence in Boston on Saturday night for Miss Virginia Gammell, the Providence heiress. The dinner was served by Sherry of this city, who sent his men over to Boston for the purpose. The second of the fashionable Trocadero dances in Providence will take place tomorrow night. Mrs. J. De Forest Danielson is one of the chief patronesses. The Twelfth Night revel of the St. Botolph Club in Boston, and which was also the twentieth anniversary of the club, was one of the most amusing affairs the club has ever held. Mr. William A. Hovey, as Lord Mayor, offered greeting, and Mr. Frederick Lowell, as a Lincolnshire minstrel, gave the ballad of St. Botolph. The monks of St. Botolph made the chorus, and there were a musical director, herald, and cup bearer.

***

Whenever there is a very large entertainment in New York, general society does not seem to be able to grasp much else. The cotillion given by Mrs. John Drexel at Sherry's last evening, an account of which is in another column, absorbed the entire attention of society. There was very little else going on. The Bagby musicale was well attended, and there was quite a gathering at the St. Nicholas Skating Rink, where the graceful pastime has again for a while come into favor. It was a brilliant evening at the opera, and many of those present went afterward to the Drexel cotillion, although a number of well-known personages were missing, who were dining with Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish previous to the dance.

***

Among the dinners of last evening was that given by Mrs. Ledyard Stevens of 53 East Seventy-eighth Street, for her niece, Miss Helen White Stevens, a daughter of Mrs. Berkeley Mostyn. The guests were the Misses Dorothy Edwards, Mollie C. Leffeets, Miss Hollins, and the Messrs. Reginald S. Willets, Jr., Goelet Schroeder, Oscar E. Stevens, and Louis de Koven.

***

There is much gossip anent the arrangements for the late Spring and early Summer. The situation in England, and, indeed, on the Continent as well, has made many people change their plans. Cairo and the Engadine seem to be the only points where one can really be removed from the war excitement. The feeling against Anglo-Saxons has been so pronounced in France that many of the plans formed for taking "hotels" during the Paris Exposition have been abandoned. Almost all the Vanderbilt family, however, will be on the Continent during the Paris Exposition. Dr. and Mrs. Seward Webb will sail in March, and Mrs. H. McK. Twombly will go abroad also at even an earlier date. Mrs. Astor goes abroad about the commencement of Lent, and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and the George Vanderbilts sail also by the beginning of Lent.

***

Mrs. Arthur Paget is very much alarmed concerning the condition of her husband, who is very ill with typhoid fever in South Africa. At last accounts he was at Modder River. The same authority states that Mrs. Henry White is far from well, and that she will pass the Winter at Bordighera. She was registered at Nice last week. Mrs. Cavendish-Bentinck is also not in the best of health. She, however, is still in London, and will go to the Continent later in the season.

***

Mrs. Arthur Paget, during her anxiety concerning her husband, is occupying her mind with the final touches of the tableaux and theatricals in aid of the Guards Fund. The Duchess of Marlborough, who is so upset by the resolution of the Duke to go to war, will not recite, and it is very doubtful also whether the Countess of Essex will appear. Lady Poo Stuart and Mrs. Hwfa Williams are to lend their aid, and, as royalty with a very big "R" will be present, there is no doubt whatever of a great success.

***

The Foxhall Keenes have made themselves very popular at the Quorn Hunt, and every mail brings some little bit of gossip about them, chiefly concerning the runs and their presence in the field. The frosts broke up, just before Christmas, and there was excellent hunting.

***

Mrs. Eric Barrington, whose husband is Secretary to the Marquis of Salisbury, left England about ten days ago on a visit to Miss Ada Rehan of this city. The Duke of Westminster died at the Barringtons house a few weeks ago.

***

In Paris the holiday weeks have been dull. Miss Fanny Reed gave her customary musicale, and Mrs. George Ingraham and Mrs. Griswold Gray entertained at dinner. The Countess de Trobriand, who was Miss Mary Jones of this city, and the mother of Mrs. Charles Post, gave an American Christmas dinner.

***

As yet Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger has not gone to Russia, but is living quietly in Florence, where she passed Christmas. Mrs. James P. Kernochan at last accounts was in Paris. Mrs. Cooper Hewitt was in Paris for a few days, having left her brother, George Work, at Davos. She is now on her way home. The Duke of Manchester has arrived in London, and had left for the Continent this past week, to be with his mother and sister at Davos. The entire Yznaga family, with the exception of Mrs. Yznaga, the mother of the Duchess of Manchester, who is in Louisiana, is at the bedside of Lady Alice Montagu. The Duchess of Devonshire has put off all entertainments on account of the serious illness of her granddaughter.

Newport Happenings.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Victor Sorchan, who was elected a member of the School Committee, arrived from New York to-day, and this evening was sworn into office and qualified according to law.

J. Neilson Howard, who is to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. L. Robinson on their foreign yachting trip, left for New York this evening.

The Newport Hospital received to-day $10,000 from the executors of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, the amount of the bequest in his will.

A DAY'S WEDDINGS.

Winterbotham—Reynolds.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 8.—Miss Anne Moulton Reynolds, daughter of Mrs. Joseph D. Harrison of East Orange, was married in Grace Episcopal Church, this city, to-night, to John H. Winterbotham of Chicago. The wedding was one of the largest and most fashionable of the year. The church decorations were elaborate, and over 1,000 guests witnessed the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Dr. Anthony Schuyler, rector of Grace Church, assisted by the Rev. Alexander Mann, Archdeacon of Newark. A reception at the family residence, 141 Harrison Street, at which 700 guests were present, followed the ceremony.

Miss Ruth Winterbotham of Chicago was the maid of honor, and the bride was also attended by seven bridesmaids—Miss Eleanor Hall of Morristown, Miss Genevieve Winterbotham of Chicago, Miss Josephine Kirtland of East Orange, Miss Agnes Van Nostrand of Watertown, N. Y.; Miss Marguerite Soleliache of Harrisburg, Miss Mabel Thompson of Detroit, and Miss Mary Clark of Chicago. Joseph W. Winterbotham of Chicago, the bridegroom's brother, was the best man, and the ushers were Theodore F. W. Reynolds a brother of the bride; Henry Lowe of Plainfield, Philip Van Ingen, William Darrach, and Chauncey Stillman of New York, Stephen Patterson and John Carpenter of Chicago, and Duke Smith of Andover, Mass.

Bamberger—Milius.

Mr. Oscar Bamberger was married to Miss Hilda Joyce Milius, daughter of Mr. Samuel Milius, at 6 o'clock last evening at the Hotel Majestic. The maid of honor was Miss Katheryn Milius, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Viola Hess and Daisy Milius. Mr. Oscar Diesel was Mr. Bamberger's best man. A large reception followed the ceremony.

Two Havana Newspapers Fined.

HAVANA, Jan. 8.—Gen. Ludlow has fined El Cubano $5 for publishing a story to the effect that he recently struck a man in his office in the presence of the Spanish Consul General, Señor Sagrario. The statement was pure fiction, and was promptly denied by Gen. Ludlow and Señor Sagrario. The former considers that some punishment ought to be inflicted upon the managers of the paper, and he has taken advantage of the old Spanish Penal Code, which gives him authority to impose fines for offenses of that nature. La Lucha will also be fined $5 for publishing two objectionable articles.

Steamer Ashore in Delaware River.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—The big British tramp steamer Glengoil, from Dantzic, is ashore on Cherry Island Flats, in the Delaware River, about twenty-four miles below this city. She lies hard and fast, with her bow many feet deep in the mud. Around her the ice is sweeping thick and fast, and there is great danger of her being stove in if she be not soon released. A city iceboat has been sent to her assistance. The Glengoil is commanded by Capt. Davidson.

$5,000 AWARDED MISS HOWE.

Her Counsel Says Verdict Is Against Evidence—The Court to Hear Fresh Arguments.

It was inevitable in the nature of things that one side or the other would be dissatisfied with the outcome of the suit brought by Miss Mary E. Howe against Mrs. Frances Augusta Skinner for $24,750 as compensation for services rendered as companion, but the sealed verdict rendered by the jury yesterday morning satisf

LIGHT ON THE PHILIPPINES

The President Disposed to Give Out All Information.

HOPES TO DISARM OPPOSITION

Question Is Taken Up in the Senate and the Pettigrew Resolution Goes Over After Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The Administration made known to-day through several of the Senators the disposition of the President and his advisers to gratify nearly every desire on the part of such opponents as Senator Pettigrew to have every particle of information concerning the course of the Administration in the Philippines.

The idea of meeting inquiry more than half way has been entertained for several days, and after the visit this morning of Senator Lodge to the White House it was understood that when opportunity offered he would render easy of passage through the Senate the resolutions of inquiry that had been offered by Senators. This course was carried out so far as one of the Pettigrew resolutions was concerned this afternoon, and is considered to be not only safe so far as the Administration is concerned, but likely to strengthen the Administration by showing everything in the way of effort to reduce the Philippine insurrection and preceding it. The impression among the friends of the Administration is that the minority hoped to be met with resistance to any of the inquiries couched as if they were to be made the ground for political attack all along the line.

According to a friend of the President, who agreed to this programme, there is nothing to be told that has not in one way or another been the subject of correspondence. The appetite of the opposition for information if not gratified might seek to satisfy itself with explanations that would need to be met later on when there would be less opportunity than there is now to promptly get the results of investigation before the public. This willingness to tell is to be shown in other directions than that of the Philippines, including the reported appointment of Mormons to office in Utah and the condition of affairs in Cuba and Puerto Rico.

In pursuance of this programme the Pettigrew resolution was called up in the Senate to-day. This resolution calls upon the Secretary of War for information as to an alleged interview between Gen. Torres of the Filipino Army and Gen. Otis.

Mr. Lodge (Rep., Mass.,) offered a substitute for the pending resolution, calling upon the President, if not incompatible with public interests, to furnish general information regarding the Philippine insurrection contained in official documents and dispatches. Mr. Lodge disclaimed any desire to suppress information regarding the insurrection, but thought it ought to be asked for in proper form. The resolution which he had offered as a substitute, he thought, covered every point desired by Mr. Pettigrew.

To this Mr. Pettigrew assented, saying he believed the resolution of Mr. Lodge could be put into satisfactory form. He thought Congress was entitled to all information regarding the action of our forces in the Philippines.

"If we have attacked an ally," said Mr. Pettigrew, "it is important that the representatives of the people in Congress should know the facts and at once. I believe we have attacked an ally. I believe we have been guilty of gross treachery. I believe we have gone further in dishonor toward an ally fighting with us than any other nation ever went."

Mr. Stewart (Silver, Nev.,) thought this was past the time for a discussion of how the insurrection began.

"It has begun," said he. "It is now my country's cause, and I do not propose to admit it is a wicked cause."

Mr. Lodge said he could not even by silence admit that the statements of Mr. Pettigrew were accurate.

"I do not believe we attacked an ally," said he. "I am sure we never recognized the Filipino government. They had no government except the government of a dictator set up by himself to impose his authority upon other tribes.

"The President has acted throughout in conformity to the laws, and the facts will uphold his course. These facts I am in favor of having placed in the hands of all Senators. They will strengthen the hands of the Administration."

At Mr. Pettigrew's request the resolution went over until Wednesday.

A resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Navy for Admiral Dewey's report in which he made the statement that he could take Manila at any time, offered by Mr. Pettigrew, was adopted.

DEFENSE OF SENATOR CLARK.

His Attorney Seeks to Trap One of the Montana Witnesses on Cross-Examination.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Ex-State Senator Whiteside of Montana continued his testimony in the Clark Senatorial case before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections to-day. He was cross-examined by ex-Senator Faulkner. The examination brought out the fact that Mr. Whiteside, as a member of a committee to investigate the State Capitol Commission, had made a minority report charging corruption. He was asked if this was the case in which he had suggested to J. P. McCabe that this minority report could be suppressed for $2,500, but denied that such was the case, saying that the money had been offered, and he had suggested that it be paid over so as to enable him to turn it in with his report.

He said that his sole purpose in undertaking the exposure of bribery in the Legislature that elected Mr. Clark was to protect the good name of the State.

"I desired," he said, "to have some one accept the money so as to expose the methods of Mr. Clark."

Mr. Whiteside said he did not see how any honest man could vote for Mr. Clark after the exposure of the Committee on Investigation, and added, under pressure, that the remark applied to the fifty-four members of the Legislature who cast their votes for that gentleman. He said in reply to a question that Marcus Daly was an acquaintance of his, not a friend, though he should be glad to have him for a friend.

Have you received $35,000 for this pretended exposure?" asked Mr. Faulkner.

"I have not received $35,000 or any other sum for that service," the witness replied.

The cross-examination further brought out that the witness had no personal knowledge of bribery in the case of three of the members of the Assembly who had been referred to.

One question brought out a new statement from Mr. Whiteside that his knowledge that bribery was going on was confirmed when a party to the transaction took from his pocket a roll of bills and said; "That's what we do the business with."

The cross-examination sought to bring out the circumstances of an alleged meeting between the witness and an election official who held the ballots in the election in which Whiteside had participated. The witness was asked if he had not offered $1,000 for the ballots. Mr. Whiteside denied that this had occurred, and asserted that he had proof to show that a party had been paid to make such a statement against him.

At one point Mr. Pettus of the committee objected to having the witness "badgered" by counsel. Ex-Senator Edmunds of counsel against Clark said many of the questions had been improper, but they were not objected to, as the widest latitude was desired in testing the witness.

Mr. Whiteside then went over the circumstances of his being authorized to offer $5,000 to each of two members, with $500 down on condition that their votes would be forthcoming if desired. He was questioned on all the details.

The cross-examination of Whiteside was still in progress when the committee adjourned until to-morrow.

NEGRO QUESTION IN DEBATE.

Senator Morgan Defends the Suppression of the Colored Race in the South.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The resolution heretofore offered by Senator Pritchard (Rep., N. C.,) concerning racial restrictions on suffrage was modified by him to-day so as to provide that any State enactment confining the right to vote to those descendant from certain persons or classes of persons is in violation of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution, and repugnant to republican institutions.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.,) spoke against the resolution. He referred to the far-reaching importance of the issue on suffrage as it related to the coming Presidential and Congressional elections, and said it was imperative that some course be adopted which would prevent a repetition of the Hayes-Tilden controversy.

Mr. Morgan, continuing, discussed the negro question in general, maintaining that there is a natural supremacy in the whites and a natural deficiency in the blacks, morally, socially, and intellectually. To force this lower stratum into a position of political equality with the higher is only to clog progress of all mankind in its march toward the highest planes of human aspirations. Mr. Morgan said that no great body of white people in the world could be expected to quietly accept a situation so distressing and demoralizing as is created by negro suffrage in the South. It is a thorn in the flesh, and will irritate and rankle in the body politic until it is removed from the body politic. He declared that negro suffrage in Louisiana and other Southern States had been an unbroken line of obstruction to progress.

Mr. Morgan declared that in many places in the South thousands of negro votes, in doubtful counties, with little concealment, were bought for $1 each.

"If Southern white men," said he, "have falsified election returns, they have the stronger, if not better, reason that they are acting upon the same law of self-defense that insulted and outraged human nature resorts to for the protection of homes and families from a race that sets at defiance all moral restraints upon its brutal desires."

This evil, he thought, would end only when the United States had provided a home for the negro race suited to its traits. He pointed out that some of the attempts to force the negro into political and social equality with the white man had failed.

"Nature is against it," he declared, "and the sentiments of white people are against it."

In conclusion Mr. Morgan said:

"The Democratic Party has always been a white man's party, and when the appeal of the people of Louisiana and North Carolina, supported by Democrats in all the Southern States, is made to them they and a vast body of white men all over the country who have not acted with them in the past will unite in a demand that these sovereign States shall not be destroyed for taking care of the lives and happiness of their people."

At the conclusion of Mr. Morgan's speech Mr. Pritchard gave notice that he would address the Senate on the resolution on Jan. 22.

NOT TO DELAY CURRENCY BILL.

Senator Jones of Arkansas Says the Democrats Will Not Seek to Obstruct It.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—When at 2 o'clock to-day the Financial bill became the regular order in the Senate, Mr. Aldrich said he hoped some general understanding could be reached as to the disposition of the bill.

Mr. Jones (Dem., Ark.,) replied that there was no disposition on the Democratic side to delay the bill.

"We recognize," said he, "that you have the majority, and can pass the bill."

Mr. Jones asked, however, that there be no pressing action, as Senators were not yet ready to speak. Mr. Aldrich thereupon asked that the bill go over for the day.

Mr. Stewart (Silver, Nev.,) gave notice that he would speak on Thursday on the bill.

Mr. McLaurin (Dem., S. C.,) gave notice of an amendment to the bill, repealing the tax on the circulation of State banks.

CALL FOR A DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.

Resolution to Bind Party Members Is Expected.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The announcement was made immediately after the adjournment of the House to-day that a Democratic caucus would be held to-morrow night for the purpose of perfecting the Democratic organization in the House.

It is probable that a committee of three will be appointed to look after pairs, &c., to take the place of the Democratic whip. Representative Underwood of Alabama has been voluntarily filling that position since Congress convened. It is likely that a resolution will be offered to bind all Democratic members to abide by caucus action upon all subjects.

TWO INVESTIGATIONS ORDERED.

Congress to Probe Idaho Labor Troubles and Utah Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In the House to-day Mr. Dalzell, (Rep., Penn.,) from the Committee on Rules, reported back the resolution introduced last week by Mr. Lentz (Dem., Ohio,) for an investigation by the committee appointed to investigate the case of Representative-elect Roberts, of the charges that John C. Graham, Postmaster of Provo, Utah, and Orson Smith, Postmaster at Logan, Utah, were guilty of polygamous practices, with the recommendation that it pass amended so as to provide that the investigation shall be made by the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads instead of by the special committee.

Mr. Wheeler, (Dem., Ky.,) remarked that in his opinion the resolution for the investigation was a pure piece of "political buncombe."

"The President has full power in the premises," he said, "and there is no necessity for a Congressional investigation."

The resolution was passed without division.

Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., Ohio,) reported back from the Committee on Rules another resolution introduced by Mr. Lentz for the investigation by a special committee of the action of Gen. Merriam and the military in the Wardner, Idaho, mining riots in the Spring of 1899, and their course in preventing the employment of union miners, with the recommendation that it be amended so as to provide that the investigation shall be made by the Military Committee of the House instead of by a special committee. The resolution, as amended, was adopted without division.

MORE CENSUS CLERKS ASKED FOR.

Additional Aid Needed to Collect Information on Various Subjects.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In the Senate to-day Senator Carter (Rep., Mon.,) reported from the Census Committee a bill conferring upon the Director of the Census power to employ a purchasing agent at a salary of $2,500, 2 chiefs of divisions at salaries of $2,000, 5 clerks of the fourth class, 6 of Class 3, and 8 of Class 2, and special agents not to exceed 75, to gather special information relating to agriculture. He asked immediate consideration for the bill, but it went to the calendar on objection.

Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.,) gave notice of an amendment to the proposed bill, providing that statistics be gathered by the census force relating to the water power of the country. He pointed out that manufacturers throughout the country were interested in this matter and were seeking reliable information upon it from every source.

Mr. Pettigrew (Silver, S. D.,) announced that he would offer an amendment providing for the gathering and tabulation of statistics in regard to the distribution of wealth. He regarded it as particularly important to ascertain "who reaps the benefit of the toil of the laborer."

Mr. Hale, (Rep., Me.,) a member of the Census Committee, said it had been the effort of the committee to provide for a quick census, as to enumeration, vital statistics, &c., and expressed the hope that the Senate would not load down the bill with extraneous subjects, pointing out that information relating to them could be gathered later on by special agents of the Census Bureau, which was now a continuing department.

PENSION ACT IS AMENDED.

Widows Having Resources from Which $250 a Year Is Derived Are Made Pensionable.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—A bill amending the dependent pension act of June 27, 1890, was called up to-day and explained by Senator Gallinger, (Rep., N. H.) The two amendments proposed by the bill were that widows who have an income of $250 in excess of daily wages should be pensionable under the act, and authorizing the Commissioner of Pensions to aggregate the disabilities of an applicant in fixing his pensionable status.

In the course of a protracted discussion of the general pension question, a discussion which took a wide range, Mr. Teller (Silver, Col.,) said he was not appalled by the fact that $140,000,000 annually was paid by the Government to pensioners. He was certain that more men were off the pension rolls who ought to be on than were on and ought to be off. No political party, he thought, could afford to hesitate to do ample justice to those who had fought for the country.

The bill was amended so as to provide that in case the widow should have "resources" instead of an "income" from which $250 a year is derived or derivable should be pensionable, and further that the bill does not apply to widows who have married former soldiers since June 27, 1890. The bill as amended was passed.

A bill was also passed providing that a widow's pension shall commence with the application and not at the date of the soldier's death, and construing a section of the Dependent Pension act.

MILITARY RULE FOR ALASKA.

The President Makes It a Department in View of the Heavy Immigration—Col. G. M. Randall to Command.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The President has created a military department consisting of the Territory of Alaska, and has assigned Col. George M. Randall, Eighth United States Infantry, to command it. Col. Randall is on duty with his regiment in Cuba, but will report here, en route to Alaska, on Jan. 15.

The matter of an Alaskan military department has been under consideration for a long time. There is no disposition to reflect in any way upon the officials of the Territorial Government, but the civil machinery, which is said to be totally inadequate, could not be strengthened and enlarged without considerable legislation and the loss of much valuable time. In addition to the heavy immigration into the Cape Nome district from the world at large, the whole Klondike appears to be emptying its population upon those shores, and naturally there is danger of an outbreak of lawlessness and disorder among the adventurous spirits attracted to the mines.

The War Department has not yet fixed upon the number of troops to be assigned to the new department. Col. Randall will be allowed to exercise his judgment in the matter. It is not believed, however, that a large force will be necessary, as the miners in Alaska have usually been quick to recognize the authority of the United States Government in the person of a soldier.

Col. Randall was born in Ohio, entered the service as a private in the Fourth Pennsylvania Infantry, April 20, 1861, and rose to be a Lieutenant Colonel of Volunteers June 1, 1865. He was appointed to the regular service Oct. 24, 1861, and rose by regular promotion to be Colonel on Aug. 8, 1898. He was brevetted three times—for gallant service in the battle of Antietam; for gallant service in front of Petersburg and in the attack on Fort Steadman, Va., and for gallant service against the Indians in Arizona. He has had a widely extended and distinguished service on the frontier.

At the outbreak of the war with Spain Col. Randall was in command of Fort St. Michael. He was appointed a Brigadier General of Volunteers, and returned from Alaska, but did not reach this country in time to participate in active service. He was assigned to the command of the Third Division of the Second Army Corps, and when the volunteers were mustered out he commanded his regiment in Cuba, where he is now on duty.

It was stated at the War Department that Col. Randall would receive another commission as Brigadier General of Volunteers, in order that he may have sufficient rank for the new post. The action of the department in this matter is tantamount to the establishment of a complete Military Government in Alaska, especially as to the northern portion.

PROTEST BY TEA MERCHANTS.

Say Board of Experts Discriminates Unjustly Against Cheap Teas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—W. J. Butterfield and a committee representing the Tea Association of New York had a conference to-day with Gen. Spaulding, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, regarding the personnel of the Government Board of Tea Experts to be appointed next month.

It was represented that the members of the present board did not fairly administer the law regulating the importation of tea into the United States, inasmuch as their rulings tended to exclude all low-priced teas, however pure and wholesome they might be. This was declared to be contrary to the spirit of the law, and resulted in giving a great and unfair advantage to the trade in high-priced teas. The committee asked that the members of the present board be not reappointed, but that experts be selected who would not discriminate against low grade teas if found to be pure and wholesome. Gen. Spaulding took the matter under advisement.

SUPREME COURT IS DIVIDED.

Two Opinions on the Right to Capture Coast Fishing Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The United States Supreme Court to-day decided two cases involving the question of the right to capture coast fishing vessels belonging to the enemy in time of war, and make prizes of them. These decisions involved two fishing smacks owned in Havana, which were taken by the blockading squadron, condemned, and sold as prizes. Justice Gray delivered the opinion of the court, holding that the seizure was contrary to well-established international law.

Chief Justice Fuller, Justices Harlan and McKenna dissented, and united in an opinion by the Chief Justice. He took the ground that there was no rule in such cases immutably fixed by international law, and that exemption from the rigors of war should be controlled entirely by the legislative department, and that, as the President had not interfered to prevent condemnation, that condemnation should be affirmed.

The two vessels involved in the decision were named the Lola and the Paqueta Habana.

Presidential Nominations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The President to-day sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Collector of Customs, District of Gloucester, Mass.—W. N. Jordan.

Navy—Pay Inspector H. T. Wright, to be a Pay Director; Paymaster S. R. Calhoun, to be a Pay Inspector; Passed Assistant Paymaster Joseph J. Cheatham, to be a Paymaster; Passed Assistant Paymaster M. M. Ramsay, to be a Paymaster; J. A. Murphy of Pennsylvania, to be an Assistant Surgeon; R. E. Sawyer of New York, to be a Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Army—Acting Assistant Surgeon Frank H. Titus of California, to be a Surgeon of Volunteers, with rank of Major.

Senator Gallinger Congratulated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Senator Gallinger (Rep., N. H.,) was the recipient to-day of many elaborate and beautiful floral offerings. When the Senate convened, his desk, chair, and the area surrounding them were filled with exquisite products of the florist's art, the display being accompanied by congratulations from friends upon the fact that the charge against him of violating the civil service law, after official investigation, had not been sustained.

Siam Offers a Present to America.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The United States Minister to Siam writes to the State Department that the Siamese Government has given another evidence of its friendliness to the United States by offering to present to this country a part or the whole of the temple grounds on which the United States Legation is situated, at Bangkok. The property is worth $57,000, and is valuable for its water frontage. The gift, if accepted, involves an outlay of about $2,000 for improving the premises. Secretary Hay has sent the correspondence to Congress for favorable action.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The following fourth-class Postmasters were appointed to-day for New York offices:

Clayburg, John Redmond; Hartwood, Willis Butler; Selden, Samuel Dare.

The Lucania's Heavy Mail.

THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday received a complaint from a business firm that the mails which arrived on Saturday by the steamer Lucania were not delivered as early as usual, and that the firm received its letters five and seven hours later than usual. The delay in the delivery of the mails on Saturday was caused by the enormous amount of mail that arrived by the Lucania, she carrying 2,530 sacks, a much larger quantity of mail than has ever been brought before by any steamer. As the British Government has taken several of the large liners for transport service, the postal authorities both here and abroad have been greatly hampered by the accumulation of mail matter which could not be sent with the usual regularity.

Col. Gardiner at Work Again.

District Attorney Gardiner was back in his office yesterday after an absence of two weeks. He has recovered entirely from the broken rib which he received by falling from a chair in his office.

MARINE SOCIETY ELECTION.

Capt. Norton's Action Against Sailors' Snug Harbor Management Sustained—Shipping Bill Indorsed.

The thirtieth annual meeting of the Marine Society of the City of New York was held yesterday afternoon at the Maritime Exchange. The election of officers resulted as follows: President—Capt. Gustavus D. S. Trask; First Vice President—Capt. Andrew J. Newbury; Second Vice President—Capt. Benjamin F. Marsh; Treasurer—Capt. James H. Chamberlain; Secretary—Capt. Thomas M. Nichols; Counsel—William Allen Butler.

The following resolutions were passed after a heated discussion:

"Resolved, That, upon the retirement from office at the present time of President Austin Jayne and Vice President George L. Norton, the Marine Society of New York expresses its appreciation of the valued services rendered by them in the discharge of the unusually arduous duties that have devolved upon them during the past five years.

"Resolved, That the Marine Society of New York reaffirm at this time the resolution relating to the Governorship of the Sailors' Snug Harbor unanimously adopted at its last annual meeting, and that the hearty commendation of the society be extended to Capt. George L. Norton, who offered that resolution, for his earnest efforts to accomplish its purposes, and that the society recognizes those sterling characteristics that impelled him as an exponent of the views and wishes of the New York and of the Boston Marine Societies manfully to battle for principle in the face of disparagement and personal sacrifice."

A petition to Congress offered by Capt. Norton in relation to the Shipping bill was adopted. It is in part as follows:

"The Marine Society of New York respectfully petitions your hearty support of the Shipping bill for the following reasons:

"That American shipping in the foreign carrying trade carries but 9 per cent. of the exports and imports of the country, as against its former highest position of 85 per cent. of the country's foreign trade.

"That $200,000,000 is annually paid by American citizens to foreign ship owners as freight and passage money.

"That this money goes out of the country in hard cash, the larger part of which should be retained for distribution to reward American labor.

"That it is essential that the country shall have shipbuilding plants, artisans, engineers, and sailors for its use, defense, and safety in the event of war.

"That this bill is best calculated to promote the development and distribution of the products of American labor by the extension of the merchant marine of the United States."

LEGAL NOTES.

ELEVATOR ACCIDENT.—Louis Catlin, while in the employ of Raphael Tuck & Sons, on the 4th of October, 1896, was injured while pushing a truck of goods on the elevator, on the third floor of 388 Broadway, occupied by his employers. In his suit against T. B. Peddie & Co., who occupied the ground floor of the premises, for damages, he testified that when the truck was half way on the elevator began to descend, having been set in motion by some one pulling the check rope; that the truck tipped forward in the elevator; that he called out to wait, and leaned out to catch the check rope, and while doing so the automatic gate descended, pinning him to the floor, breaking his ribs, and inflicting other injuries; that before the elevator moved he heard no noise or rattling of the chain, but on previous occasions he had heard the chain rattle, and the rattling could be heard all over the building. It appeared also that Henry Fahrbach, a driver for William Eitar, who was employed by defendants, delivered goods to them at the time of the accident, and that receiving no answer when he rattled the chain, he pulled the elevator down. The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court has affirmed judgment, dismissing plaintiff's complaint, on the trial, because Fahrbach was the employe of a separate and independent contractor. Justice O'Brien, giving the opinion, said the fact that Fahrbach was accustomed to do this work almost daily, and had been occupied with it for a long while, "does not alter the original relation between him and the defendant, which was not that of master and servant." "A driver or other person who is employed by a butcher, or an ice company, or a milkman, to bring articles daily to a house, and who may be engaged in that occupation for years, would not from that circumstance alone become the servant of one to whom he was delivering goods, so as to render that person liable for his acts of negligence. He would not be the servant of the one to whom the goods were delivered, but of the master who employed and paid him for the work."

***

EMPLOYER MUST FURNISH SAFE PLACE TO WORK.—Joseph W. Brown, a carpenter, was at work on the 19th of June, 1896, upon the fourth floor of a large building, which was then being erected for John R. Todd, in this city. He had just been set to work that morning by Mr. Todd, and was engaged in sawing boards in various lengths. It was to be part of his work to assist in putting up a ceiling, which was to be of boards jointed and grooved. The distance from the floor to the ceiling was about ten feet. A scaffolding consisting of five forms, called horses, on which planks were laid, was prepared by other employes of Mr. Todd, upon which the carpenters were to stand while working. Brown had no part whatever in the building of the scaffolding, or the selection of materials for it. He was instructed to go upon the scaffolding when it was completed and assist in putting in place some of the ceiling boards. One of the horses over which he stood broke under his weight, and he fell to the floor, sustaining very serious injuries. The cause of the breaking of the header of the horse over which he stood was that it was cross-grained and improper for the use to which it was applied. The material was that which Todd had directed Brown's fellow-servants to use in constructing the horses. The First Appellate Division, in an opinion by Justice Patterson, has affirmed judgment secured by Brown upon the verdict of a jury in his favor, in his suit against Todd for damages for the injuries he sustained. "Regardless of other conditions," Justice Patterson said, "the proof is clear that the header timber was defective, improper, and unsafe for use; that its use was so ordered by the defendant; that there was nothing else to be used for the purpose, and that the defects were not apparent to an ordinary observer. The plaintiff was entitled to rely under the circumstances upon his employer furnishing him with a safe place in which to work."

***

STAIRWAY ACCIDENT.—On the evening of the 3d of April, 1896, Eva Schroeck, three years and seven months old, residing with her parents at 274 East Third Street, was on the street in front of her residence, in company with her mother. The house, which was a tenement, was owned by Yetta Reiss. On the ground floor was a store, which, with the basement under it, had been rented by her to William Hartung for a bakery. A flight of steps descended to the basement from the sidewalk, and the steps extended 4 feet 6 inches out from the wall of the house, and were covered by a set of wooden doors. On each side of the doors there was an iron railing, but there was none in front of the steps. While Mrs. Schroeck stood and talked with a friend the child wandered away without her noticing it and fell down the flight of steps through one of the doors, which was standing open, and injured herself. A judgment dismissing an action brought on behalf of the child against Mrs. Reiss for damages has been sustained on appeal by the Appellate Division of the First Department. Presiding Justice Van Brunt, giving the opinion, holds that the case is entirely dissimilar from those where the landlord had been held liable for the condition of the halls and passageways which were used in common by the various tenants of the building. The claim that the steps were not constructed and protected in the manner provided by Section 342 of the revised ordinances was also held to be untenable. The court decides there was no negligence on the part of the defendant in maintaining the stairway and its covering, and if anybody was guilty of negligence through which the accident happened it was the occupant of the store, in leaving the cellar door open when the stairs did not seem to have been in actual use.

White Star Liners to Get In Earlier.

The English postal authorities have heretofore sent mails from London so as to reach Queenstown at 1 P. M. Thursdays. This has caused the White Star steamers to lose several hours waiting in the harbor. The time has now been changed, so that the mails are on board and the steamer ready to leave Queenstown at 6:15 A. M. On account of this early start, the time of arrival at New York will hereafter be early Wednesday morning instead of in the afternoon.

WHAT PUERTO RICO NEEDS

Gen. Davis Outlines the Conditions on the Islands.

AFFAIRS HAVE GROWN WORSE

More Money, Schools, and Free Trade with the United States Required by the New Possession.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Gen. Davis, Governor General of Puerto Rico, appeared before the Insular Affairs Committee of the House to-day and made a general statement regarding the situation of affairs in that island. The people of Puerto Rico, he said, were accustomed to arbitrary control, control of the King through Ministers or Secretaries in charge of several departments. He had believed when he came to the administration of the affairs of the island that things could be bettered by eliminating these intermediaries and getting closer to the people. He had made a step in that direction by substituting mixed boards for these Secretaries, and the result, Gen. Davis said, had been very satisfactory from his point of view.

The civil administration was now entirely in the hands of these boards; Boards of Health, Charities, Education, Public Works, &c., in all of which the natives had representation. The customs were collected by army officers, assisted by natives. Natives were everywhere the principal employes. One of the great problems which had confronted him was that of making the receipts and expenditures balance. This had been accomplished by readjustment of salaries and other economies.

The industrial situation on the island, Gen. Davis said, was not satisfactory. He sketched the discouragement which had resulted from the trade and tariff discriminations against the products of the island both in the United States and Cuba before the great hurricane devastated the island last August, when coffee plantations had been ruined and every banana plant on the island had been destroyed. For five years preceding 1898 the average exports had reached about 16,000,000 pesos. In 1898 they were cut in half, and this year Gen. Davis figured that they would hardly exceed 3,500,000. The people were discouraged. They lacked the Anglo-Saxon energy to face a gloomy outlook.

Gen. Davis justified the arbitrary action of Gen. Henry in extending for one year from Jan. 19, 1899, the time in which mortgages overdue could be foreclosed, but that year, he said, would expire shortly, and thousands of properties would change hands. This added another discouraging feature to the situation. He [Davis] did not believe he had authority to further extend the time under the treaty with Spain, but that property rights of individuals and corporations must remain in the status quo which obtained when the treaty was ratified.

Regarding the political situation, Gen. Davis described the fury with which the natives plundered and murdered the Spaniards after the war closed. They sought to even up old scores. This had been stopped by the military, and civil disorders had ceased. The elections in the towns shortly after the United States assumed military control, he said, were farces. No election was ordered until the result had been previously ascertained. Gen. Davis said that under his discretion suffrage had been limited to those who could read or write, or who had paid $1.50 in taxes in two years. Then new elections of Alcaldes and town Councils had been held.

Under these terms less than 5 per cent. of the inhabitants had been able to qualify. In half the towns elections had been held, and there had been but 30,000 voted out of about 500,000 people. The elections had been held under military supervision, and had given eminent satisfaction, so far as their fairness was concerned. Gen. Davis said he regarded the election as an education of the people. Regarding the future civil government of the island, Gen. Davis said he had given the subject much thought, without being able to formulate a satisfactory scheme. It would be a difficult undertaking, but he considered it essential that the people of Puerto Rico should be given an opportunity to demonstrate their capacity to enlarge their responsibilities. He thought they might be given representation in a legislative body, but that body, he said, should have in it a majority of persons appointed by the President in order to be sure that control should not pass into hands which would use it improperly.

Speaking of the need of many things in the island, Gen. Davis pointed out the fact that the island was without debt. Unless a loan could be made, he said, the present industrial paralysis must continue.

Reverting to the question of mortgage foreclosures, Gen. Davis said that there were mortgages to the amount of 30,000,000 pesos on real estate. The interest rates ran as high as 24 per cent. He would not commit himself as to the advisability of extending the period for foreclosing mortgages, but expressed the opinion that something must be done. The revenues of the islands were inadequate to meet its wants. For instance, 300,000 pesos had been allowed in the budget for education. That sum provided a very limited education for 30,000 children. There were, he said, 250,000 other children who had not the slightest chance of receiving an education. In his opinion, 1,000,000 pesos a year should be expended on the roads for twenty years.

Gen. Davis said he thought less than 1 per cent. of the inhabitants understood the responsibilities of government. In answer to a direct question from Representative Henry of Texas, Gen. Davis stated that he did not think the territorial form of government, such as was proposed for Hawaii, would be for the best interests of the island. But he distinctly thought the people of Puerto Rico were as much entitled to trade privileges as the people of Hawaii. If trade privileges were granted, he thought they would go far toward industrial regeneration, but in addition some responsible body in Puerto Rico, in his opinion, must have the power of borrowing money until the taxes became adequate. He thought 5,000,000 pesos should be raised by taxation for municipal, insular, and school purposes.

Mr. Cannon asked him if with free trade the people of Puerto Rico, considering the climate and resources of the island, would be able to work out their salvation.

"Quite able to support themselves," replied Gen. Davis. "and besides contribute much wealth to the United States whenever the island is put upon a sound basis."

Gen. Davis expressed the opinion that a body vested with the powers of government could borrow money for the island without the guarantee of the United States. He thought, however, power to borrow money should be limited to 10 per cent. of the assessed value of the realty of the island, which was about $100,000,000. In answer to a question, he said Spain collected about 50,000,000 pesos per annum.

The secured and floating debt of the island, he said, was about 3,000,000 pesos. The local currency, consisting of about 5,000,000 pesos, he thought should be retired and recoined, our money to take its place. The local Legislature could make the adjustments necessary.

"American sovereignty," said Gen. Davis, in answer to a question from Mr. Maddox, "has been a disaster to the average Puerto Rican."

"That is," suggested Mr. Cannon, "the old order has disappeared and the new has not come in?"

"That is it," replied Gen. Davis.

Continuing, he said that about 70 per cent. of the population of the island were Caucasians in the sense that the Spaniards were. There were 70,000 negroes and 250,000 mulattoes. The native Spaniards were in the best condition. They were faithful, industrious, and temperate. They were thrifty.

Every Puerto Rican was either actively or passively a Catholic. The Puerto Ricans were not a dying race. They had doubled in thirty years. A large portion of the population was of illegitimate birth. But illegitimacy did not involve crime. In many cases there were obstacles.

"The natives," said he, "are married, but not parsoned."

He thought any railroad built in Puerto Rico to pay would have to be subsidized by the State.

Gen. Davis believed that all the coffee that can be produced can be disposed of in New York City alone at prices equal to that paid for the best Java and Mocha.

MRS. HETTY GREEN SUES.

Says Income of Her Father's Estate Was Not Properly Accounted For.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—A suit has been brought in the United States Circuit Court by Mrs. Hetty Green against William V. Crapo and others, who represent the executors and trustees of the estate of the late Edward Mott Robinson, who was Mrs. Green's father. Mr. Robinson left an estate valued at about $3,000,000, and Mrs. Green alleges that the income of the estate was not properly accounted for. The suit is not against any of the defendants personally. The subpoena is returnable at the February term.

A Good Tale

bears telling twice.—We still have a large assortment of this season's broken lots of Men's Winter Suits, which were formerly $15, $16, $18, $20 and $25 and on which we have set the low price of $11.75

This is one of the rare opportunities which come seldom, and should be taken quick advantage of.

WM VOGEL & SON

Broadway and Houston Street.

REMEMBER THIS:

If you buy

KOTEDSILK

underwear now, you are furnished till summer comes. It is warm enough for zero weather and will not become oppressive when the thermometer goes up. It is pure silk knitted on a thin foundation of fine cotton, to give extra durability.

KOTEDSILK

All Leading Stores and

KOTEDSILK UNDERWEAR CO., MILLBURY, MASS.

SOLAR

"IT RISES EVERYWHERE."

AN ABSOLUTELY PURE CREAM OF TARTAR BAKING POWDER

... And because it is NOT made by a trust it is EIGHT CENTS A POUND CHEAPER than the Trust powders.

CUSHMAN BROS. CO., Selling Agents. New York, 78 Hudson st. Boston, 34 Central St. Philadelphia, 125 So. Front St. Washington, 421 Fourth St., N. W.

"Things growing are not ripe until their season."—Shak.

Maryland Club Pure Rye

is ripe because every barrel spends its proper "season" in our sealed warehouses. A green barrel could not go out for ten times its value. A good many green barrels of other whiskies do get on the market. You can tell them by the taste, just as you can tell a green apple from a ripe one. You can tell Maryland Club, too; it tastes ripe and old because it is old.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

CAHN, BELT & CO., Baltimore, Md.

CALL COURTS UNSANITARY.

Justices Say Complaints Are Ignored—Justice Smyth Denounces Conditions as a Public Disgrace.

The complaints recently made as to the sanitary condition of the County Court House are declared to have been without avail. Justice Leventritt, who has been sitting in Special Term, Part III., for the last week, was compelled yesterday to abandon that courtroom on account of the odor arising from withdrawing rooms on the upper floors. He is now holding court in Trial Term, Part XI., which is temporarily vacant. Justice Leventritt strongly condemned the inaction of the officials in charge of the Court House, who had, he said, ignored the complaints made some time ago as to the unsanitary state of the building. He added that it was a menace to the health of all having business in the Court House and said that the attention of the Board of Public Health should be called to the subject.

Justice Smyth, who is presiding in Special Term, Part IV., made repeated complaints as to the absence of a carpet in the courtroom, and said he was unable to hear the arguments made by the lawyers or the testimony given by witnesses on account of the great noise made by persons moving on the uncarpeted floor. He said that Justice Beach's courtroom, Trial Term, Part III., was in the same state, and that unless Commissioner Kearny speedily attended to the matter he would compel Sheriff Grell, under a provision in the Code of Civil Procedure, to have the unsatisfactory condition of affairs remedied. He characterized the way things were allowed to remain as a public disgrace.

The courtrooms presided over by Justices Smyth and Beach were repainted last Summer. The carpets were removed, and new ones have never since been laid. The noise is so great when persons walk across the floor that it is impossible for the Judges to hear counsel when addressing them.

INCENDIARISM TO HIDE THEFT.

Glens Falls Gas Company's Office May Have Been Fired by a Collector.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 8.—An attempt was made recently to burn the offices and books of the Glens Falls Gas and Electric Light Company, the incendiary saturating the desks, the papers on and in them, and the books in the safe with gasoline. An officer noticed that the shades of the offices were drawn, an unusual occurrence, and, breaking in the door, discovered the fire and put it out before much damage had been done. Had the fire gained headway serious damage and possible loss of life would have resulted. The building is located in the business portion of the town, among offices and stores with flats on the upper stories.

An incendiary having been at work here for some time, the fire was attributed to the same person who had started other fires. Later on, however, irregularities in the accounts of Claude Williams, a collector, were discovered, and suspicion was directed toward him. A warrant has been sworn out for his arrest, but the police are unable to find him. He is about nineteen years old.

Harrisburg Man Kills Himself.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Jan. 8.—James Calhoun, until Jan. 1 the resident manager of the Equitable Life Insurance Company, committed suicide, to-day at his home by shooting himself in the head. He was about forty-seven years of age. For several months he had been in poor health, and it is supposed he killed himself while in a fit of despondency.

Proved a "Mainstay"

Johann Hoff's Malt Extract

Dr. E. A. Bartlett, of Albany, N. Y., writes: "In my practice, the last winter, Johann Hoff's Malt Extract has been a "mainstay," on account of its valuable nutritive qualities. I have used it many years but never to more advantage than this year."

Makes Flesh and Blood

MANHATTAN MUST BUILD

State Commissioners Order Construction of Bronx Extensions.

ACT ON CITIZENS' COMPLAINT

Direct Completion of the Road to Bedford Park and a Branch Line to West Farms.

ALBANY, Jan. 8.—In the matter of the complaint of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Borough of the Bronx, New York City, against the Manhattan Railway, the State Board of Railroad Commissioners to-day made public its decision which recommends that the company, without delay, construct its railroad from One Hundred and Seventy-seventh Street to Bedford Park.

This complaint was filed with this board on June 9, 1899. It alleged that the Manhattan Railway Company was the successor company of the New York, Fordham and Bronx Railway Company and the Suburban Rapid Transit Company, both organized to construct elevated railroads in the territory now known as the Borough of the Bronx, New York City; that the said railway companies had not completed the construction of the lines authorized by their charters, nor had the Manhattan Railway done so; that the time for such construction had expired; that the failure to construct had resulted in grievous loss and injury to the public.

The petition prayed the board to take action to compel such construction, or compel forfeiture of the franchises. A copy of the complaint was sent to the company, which answered, denying that the time for construction had expired, and denying that the failure to construct had resulted in grievous loss and injury to the public. Several hearings in the matter were held in the City of New York, at which W. W. Niles, Jr., A. C. Hottenroth, J. A. Goulden, J. L. Wells, and others appeared for the complainants. Julien T. Davies and others appeared for the Manhattan Railway. The last of these hearings was on Dec. 9, 1899. An inspection of portions of the routes upon which the railroads have not been constructed was made by the board.

It appears affirmatively that the Manhattan Railway Company is the successor of the New York, Fordham and Bronx Railway Company and of the Suburban Rapid Transit Company, and the board's recommendations therefore are directed to the Manhattan Railway. It also appears that the railroads provided for in the charters of the New York, Fordham and Bronx Railway Company and the Suburban Rapid Transit Company have not been constructed on considerable portions of their routes of said companies, as alleged in the petition.

The board finds from the evidence and from its inspection of the locality that public convenience and necessity urgently require the construction and operation of the railroad of the Manhattan Railway on that portion of its route extending from One Hundred and Seventy-seventh Street, on the line of Third Avenue, northerly to Bedford Park, or Mosholu Parkway, and the board accordingly recommends:

That the Manhattan Railway Company proceed without delay to construct its railroad on that portion of the line, to wit, from One Hundred and Seventy-seventh Street to Bedford Park. The board further finds that the people on that portion of the west side of the Manhattan Railway lying easterly of the present elevated railway terminus at One Hundred and Seventy-seventh Street and Third Avenue, along the line of Tremont Avenue, to West Farms, are in need of the facilities which would be afforded by the construction of the railway on the route, and therefore recommends that the Manhattan Railway Company construct the line or branch to West Farms, within a reasonable time after the completion of the Bedford Park extension.

FEDERAL COURT WILL DECIDE.

Tax Case Passes Through Court of Appeals to Hasten Final Action.

ALBANY, Jan. 8.—The Court of Appeals to-day heard arguments and handed down a decision in a case so that it might be presented at once to the United States Supreme Court for decision by that tribunal. It involves the question of whether United States bonds can be taxed in New York State under the taxable transfer act. The question arose in the settling of the estate of the late Joseph Plummer of New York City, who left $40,000 in Government bonds to constitute a trust fund. A tax was imposed under the taxable transfer act by the State agent at the Surrogate's Court in New York County, from which the executor appealed. On Thursday last Surrogate Varnum affirmed the tax, holding that "the security is taxable because the tax is not on the bonds themselves, but upon their transfer."

In order to get the case before the United States Supreme Court as speedily as possible, the case was presented to the Appellate Division, First Department on Friday. That court affirmed the Surrogate's decision and the Court of Appeals to-day affirmed that of the Appellate Division.

White Plains After a Monument.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 8.—The Westchester County Board of Supervisors has approved the project to place a monument on the battlefield of White Plains. It has passed a resolution asking the citizens to co-operate with it in a petition to the Legislature for an appropriation of $10,000 for a suitable memorial, contingent upon a site being provided without expense to the State. The Committee on Legislation will go to Albany on Jan. 17 in the interest of the monument.

Ministers for Repeal of Horton Law.

At the Methodist preachers' meeting yesterday, at 150 Fifth Avenue, this committee was appointed to co-operate with the one appointed by the Presbyterians to urge upon the Legislature the repeal of the Horton law to regulate prize fights: The Revs. S. P. Cadman, W. H. Lawrence, J. M. Meeker, A. Ostrander, and C. S. Wing.

BECAME FOOD FOR SHARKS.

Forty-five Chinese of the Crew of a Sinking British Ship Were Lost at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—The story of the loss of the British steamer Hupeh, on her voyage from this city to Hongkong via Java, has been received in this city, and the details show that the loss of the vessel was accompanied by a far greater loss of life than the cabled reports told of, nearly fifty people being unaccounted for. The vessel sprang a leak on leaving Java with a cargo of sugar for Hongkong. The Chinese crew refused to work, and the ship's boats, with one exception, were destroyed during a storm. The crew built a number of rafts, launching them and setting them afloat, leaving the Captain and one passenger on board the sinking vessel.

The Europeans occupied one raft and the Chinese were divided on six or seven others. The rafts were soon surrounded by hundreds of ravenous sharks who, in their eagerness to get at the shipwrecked sailors, jumped far out of the water. Soon several of the Chinese rafts were overturned, and it was then that the Europeans decided to return to the vessel.

The only remaining boat was repaired and launched, the Captain taking command. The island of Luband, in the Philippine group, was finally made, and when the natives learned that the mariners were British subjects they made them comfortable and later sent them to Manila. Nothing was ever heard of the Chinese crew, numbering forty-five men, and they must have been drowned and devoured by the pursuing sharks.

Tennis Games at Tuxedo Park.

Special to The New York Times.

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., Jan. 8.—The Tuxedo tennis courts were engaged all day, and a number of good matches were played and witnessed by a good crowd. T. Suffern Tailer played a very good match with Teddy Johnson, the instructor of the club, ending in a score of three sets to two. In the doubles Morgan and Miles defeated Tailer and Johnson three to one. A very interesting match was played between Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer and Miss Louisa Potter on the squash courts. Mrs. Tailer lost the match, three to one.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS

BOSTON AND MAINE'S OFFER.

Would Make an Arrangement with the Fitchburg, Guaranteeing 5 Per Cent. on Preferred Stock.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston and Maine Railroad issued a statement to-day in which he says that he had suggested to the President of the Fitchburg Railroad that a mutually advantageous arrangement between the Boston and Maine and the Fitchburg Roads could be made if the Fitchburg people were willing to accept a guarantee of 5 per cent. upon their preferred stock, which, of course, carried a guarantee of 1 per cent. on the common stock, most of which is owned by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Fitchburg people, President Tuttle said, now have the matter under consideration.

The statement was called for by persistent reports concerning Boston and Maine affairs. Among the stories was one that the Vanderbilts have acquired control of the Boston and Maine Railroad, or that by controlling the American Express Company the Vanderbilts practically are in control of the road. President Tuttle says:

"I wish to say, and to say as emphatically as language can express it, that all the stories about the Vanderbilts directly or indirectly controlling the Boston and Maine stock or Boston and Maine management, or having large ownership in Boston and Maine, are absolutely without foundation. The American Express Company does not control the Boston and Maine, nor is the express company controlled by the Vanderbilts."

President Tuttle also said that the absorption of the Maine Central Railroad or of the Central Massachusetts Railroad by his road is not contemplated.

In connection with his statement concerning the Fitchburg offer, Mr. Tuttle said:

"We would not wish to control the Fitchburg in antagonism to the Vanderbilt interests. I think the New York Central offered the Fitchburg somewhere around 4 or 4½ per cent. on the preferred stock. When I learned that the Vanderbilt negotiations were ended I entered into negotiations with President Codman."

HAS TWO VICE PRESIDENTS.

Messrs. Merrill and Bishop Hold Similar Posts in the New Haven Road.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 8.—The discovery was made to-day of a remarkable situation existing in the board of officers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company. At the time of the election of Vice President Merrill the official announcement was made that Vice President W. D. Bishop, who succeeded Judge John M. Hall, when the latter became President, had resigned.

It is now found that Mr. Bishop did not resign and that he is still Vice President of the company. Inquiry at the offices of the company to-day revealed the fact that there are two Vice Presidents, Messrs. Bishop and Merrill acting co-ordinately. It is learned, furthermore, that the by-laws of the company were amended to fit the situation. There is, apparently, no numerical grade as to the Vice Presidencies, Mr. Bishop performing certain duties along the line of an executive Vice President, while Mr. Merrill is at the head of the operating department of the company. Mr. Merrill, the new Vice President, is not a member of the Board of Directors, while Mr. Bishop does occupy a seat in the directorate. It is also learned that the newly amended by-laws are so framed as to permit of additional Vice Presidents if the occasion demands.

It is officially stated that Mr. Bishop will soon retire and that other arrangements will be made.

TRUNK LINE PASSENGER MEETING.

Second-Class Rates from New England to Colorado Will Be Restored.

Contrary to expectation, an agreement was reached at the meeting of the Trunk Line Passenger Agents' Association, held yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria, by which the second-class rates from New England points to Colorado, which had been reduced arbitrarily, will be restored to the nominal tariff rates by Jan. 20. After the restoration of rates, all tourist cars between Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, and Cincinnati will become "Omnibus" cars, open to all lines over which they travel. They will, however, remain in the charge of the initial road in New England. The new tariffs will be published to-day.

The meeting yesterday was really an adjourned session of the New England Passenger Agents' Association, which met in Boston Saturday. The question of differentials was also discussed. It was claimed by the Eastern roads that the Boston and Albany and other New England roads had not been paying them equitable differentials.

After a stormy debate the question was held over for further efforts at agreement among the New England lines. An allowance of thirty days has been made for them to come to a settlement. In the event of failure to do so in this time, the matter will be submitted to arbitration.

ERIE ROAD STAFF REORGANIZED.

Changes Also Affect the Chicago and Erie Railroad's Special Staff.

A number of changes are announced in the official staff of the Erie Railroad Company due to Second Vice President Merrill's going to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Road. By the rearrangement of the official staff J. C. Moorhead becomes General Manager of the Ohio Division, with office at Cleveland, Ohio; C. R. Fitch, General Manager of the Erie Division, with office at 21 Cortlandt Street, this city; G. A. Coe, Superintendent of Transportation of the Ohio Division, with office at Cleveland, Ohio; A. M. Mozier, General Superintendent of the Ohio Division, with office at Cleveland, Ohio; George Van Keuren, General Superintendent of the Erie Division, with office at 21 Cortlandt Street, this city.

The changes also affect the official staff of the Chicago and Erie Railroad Company, as follows: J. C. Moorhead becomes General Manager of the company, with office at Cleveland, Ohio; A. M. Mozier, General Superintendent, with office at Cleveland, Ohio, and G. A. Coe is appointed Superintendent of Transportation, with office at Cleveland, Ohio.

The jurisdiction of C. C. Reynolds, Superintendent of the Lima Division, is extended over the Chicago Division. Mr. Reynolds's office will hereafter be at Chicago. James Corbett has been appointed Assistant Superintendent of the Chicago and Lima Divisions, with office at Huntington.

Railroad Land Title Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In an opinion handed down in the United States Supreme Court to-day by Justice Harlan, the title of the Oregon and California Railroad Company to large tracts of land in the State of Oregon was confirmed. The main controversy was between the Oregon and California Road and the Northern Pacific. The lands involved lie south of Portland and embrace about 420,000 acres, said to be worth now five or six million dollars.

New Freight Depot in Brooklyn.

The new freight depot of the West Shore Railroad, at North Fifth and Berry Streets, Brooklyn, was opened for business yesterday. Platforms for the reception of outward-bound freight now extend the length of the block on North Fifth Street from Wythe Avenue to Berry Street. This is considered one of the most important freight centres in Brooklyn. Several millions worth of freight is shipped during the year from this point.

Want Classification Revised.

A meeting of the Official Classification Committee will be held at 143 Liberty Street, on Jan. 22, for the purpose of hearing such representations as shippers may desire to present touching changes in Classification No. 20. With the committee, representatives of interested railway companies will also be present. The meeting will be held as the result of a letter transmitted to C. E. Gill, Chairman of the committee, by the Merchants' Association, saying shippers have complained that their business will be seriously affected by the action of the railroad companies in changing certain classifications in the official schedule.

$35,000 Fire in Brooklyn.

A fire which interrupted traffic on Fulton Street, Brooklyn, for nearly two hours and caused $35,000 damage occurred last evening in the Kelly Building, at 468 Fulton Street. The fire started in the cellar from some unknown cause. The building is owned by Thomas Kelly of 19 West Ninety-fifth Street, Manhattan.

PLAN TO PAY THE TEACHERS.

Controller Coler Says a Change in the Charter Will Make Surpluses Available.

Controller Coler believes that, if Section 1065 of the charter were repealed, all the teachers in the various boroughs of this city could and would be paid promptly their salaries in full to Jan. 1.

"The investigation of the accounts of the Board of Education," he said yesterday, "has progressed far enough to disclose the fact that the total amount appropriated by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment was sufficient to pay every known claim, both for salaries and supplies, including the salaries of those teachers in Richmond and Queens who have been for so long without pay. The difficulty has been, however, that under the provisions of the charter the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has not had the power to transfer surpluses in the Department of Education to other accounts in which deficiencies exist. This is the only department in the city government in regard to which the Board of Estimate and Apportionment is deprived of this power. Even if such a power of transfer existed, however, it would be practically useless so long as the scheme of apportionment, provided by Section 1065 of the charter, remained a law; for it would be necessary, to place $40,000 at the disposition of the School Board of the Borough of Richmond, to make a transfer to the general school fund of the enormous sum of $2,250,000, the balance of which would be payable principally to the Boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn, which would not require it. I intend to present these facts to the Legislature, and will endeavor to have a bill passed at once. Such a bill ought to be favored by every one, since it does not touch the educational problems concerning which there is at present so much difference of opinion. The members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, I am sure, will not delay an instant, after the passage of this act, to make the necessary transfer so that every teacher can receive the amount due under the schedule enforced in 1899. By this means the issue of bonds would not be necessary and the burden of taxation be made greater, as would be the result by the issuance of bonds. This bill will also take the place of the proposed emergency bills that have been suggested as a way out of the difficulty."

This same view, as to the advisability of repealing Section 1065, is held by a majority of the members of the Board of Education, so on this point the Controller and the Commissioners of Education agree. Experts of the Department of Accounts are hard at work on the salary schedules. It cannot yet be said when their task will be completed.

Senator McCarren announced yesterday that he intended to introduce a bill in the Legislature providing that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall promptly issue revenue bonds sufficient to make up the deficiency between the present salaries and the Harrigan schedule, adopted by the Brooklyn School Board July 5 last. His bill will continue the Harrigan bill in force, thus paying the Brooklyn teachers higher salaries than they are getting under the reduction schedule recently adopted to keep within the Board of Estimate's appropriation for 1900.

BRIDGE RESOLUTIONS SIGNED.

Mayor Van Wyck Formally Approves the Construction of the Proposed East River Structures.

Mayor Van Wyck yesterday signed the three resolutions affecting the two proposed bridges across the East River.

The first resolution authorizes the Commissioner of Bridges to construct a bridge across the East River between the Boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn, from Pike Street, Manhattan, to Washington Street, Brooklyn, and the second authorizes the issue of $1,000,000 to provide for work on this bridge.

The third resolution authorizes the issue of $1,000,000 for work on the second bridge across the East River at Blackwell's Island, from Sixtieth Street, Manhattan, to Charles Street, Long Island City, connecting the Boroughs of Manhattan and Queens.

The resolution authorizing the construction of the second bridge was not passed by the Municipal Assembly. The city has the right to use the money, but has not the authority to begin the bridge. Another resolution giving this authority will be introduced in the Municipal Assembly.

The estimated cost of the two bridges is $30,000,000

RAILWAY FRANCHISES SIGNED.

Action on Grants to Metropolitan and Third Avenue Systems.

Mayor Van Wyck yesterday signed the resolution of the Municipal Assembly granting two franchises to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company and the Third Avenue Railroad Company through King's Bridge Road and Eleventh Avenue, and across the Spuyten Duyvil Creek to the city line.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has fixed the rate of compensation to the city at 4 per cent. of the gross receipts for the first five years, 6 per cent. for the next five, 8 per cent. for the next five, and 10 per cent. thereafter. The franchises are for twenty-five years, with the privilege of another twenty-five years' renewal, subject, however, to a reappraisement by the city.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE EXTENSION.

Citizens Appeal Against Grade as Injury to Their Property.

Counsel for John L. Wall and Michael Kelly, the owners of property in the vicinity of West One Hundred and Fifty-second Street and the proposed extension of Riverside Drive, appeared before Justice Gildersleeve, in the Supreme Court, yesterday and asked for an injunction restraining the Corporation Counsel from appointing Commissioners of Assessment to value the property. The applicants for the injunction object to the grade established by the map which was prepared in pursuance of the law recently passed extending the drive to West One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Street and the Boulevard Lafayette, on the ground that the proposed grade will make a defile of sixteen feet through the hill at One Hundred and Fifty-second Street and leave the residents there that height above the new street.

Residents who are anxious to have the proposed improvement carried out were represented by counsel, who said the proposed grade would work no injury to any one, but would, on the contrary, be a great advantage to the property owners.

Justice Gildersleeve reserved decision on the application for the injunction, and directed an order to be submitted to him, instructing the Corporation Counsel to hand up the necessary papers in the matter in a week.

San Francisco Races.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—Tanforan results:

FIRST RACE.—Five furlongs; selling. Theory, 120 pounds, (Jenkins,) 8 to 5, won; Sweet William, 105, (Bullman,) 3½ to 1, second; Favorsham, 147, (Ruiz,) 6 to 1, third. Time—1:01⅘. Governor Sheehan, Credo, and Yaruba also ran.

SECOND RACE.—One mile; selling. Glengaber, 109 pounds, (Spencer,) 9 to 1, won; Stuttgart, 104, (Bullman,) 2 to 1, second; Storm King, 118, (Viltatoe,) 3½ to 1, third. Time—1:44. Tom Cromwell, Dr. Marks, Leng, O'Connor, and Kastaine also ran.

THIRD RACE.—Mile; selling. Wallenstein, 107 pounds, (Spencer,) 4 to 5, won; Allenna, 101, J. Martin,) 5 to 1, second; Mont Eagle, 105, (Jenkins,) 6 to 1, third. Time—1:44. Sunello, Sam Dannebaum, Thomas Carey, and Ziska also ran.

FOURTH RACE.—Mile and a sixteenth; handicap. Zoroaster, 114 pounds, (Spencer,) 4 to 1, won; Daisy F., 101, (Jenkins,) 4 to 5, second; Marcato, 114, (Thorpe,) 6 to 1, third. Time—1:49¼. Formero and San Venado also ran.

FIFTH RACE.—Six furlongs; selling. Afamada, 109 pounds, (Jenkins,) 8 to 5, won; Cyril, 107, (J. Walsh,) 7 to 1, second; Glissando, 92, (Bassinger,) 50 to 1, third. Time—1:14¾. St. Cuthbert and Mocorito also ran.

SIXTH RACE.—Seven furlongs; purse. Nance O'Neil, 92 pounds, (Phelan,) 2½ to 1, won; Sugden, 109, (Conley,) 6 to 1, second; Hattie Fox, 92, (Henry,) 40 to 1, third. Time—1:28½. Collins, Cypriano, Modwena, The Offering, Redwald, Heiro, Cæsar Young, Favorita, Forelight II. also ran. Duke of York won, but was disqualified for fouling.

Funds for National Regatta.

The money necessary for the holding of the National regatta of 1900 in the Harlem River was raised with little difficulty at the meeting of the Harlem Regatta Association at the Hotel Marlborough last night.

Three delegates from each of thirteen clubs forming the association were present, and they subscribed the whole amount of money necessary. The committee which will represent the Harlem Association at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Association of American Oarsmen on Jan. 20 was also chosen.

IN THE BOWLING ALLEYS.

The Washingtons, by winning two games in the Harlem League last night, secured first place in the tournament. The Orientals lost two games, and as a result lost the lead, and are now in sixth place. Scores:

FIRST GAME.

Morningside—Madden, 198; Hymer, 172; Duncan, 178; Doncourt, 202; Demmler, 154. Total, 904.

Oriental—Mitchell, 188; Vogel, 184; Schultz, 160; Stumpfel, 165, Starr, 137. Total, 834.

SECOND GAME.

Washington—Zenn, 158; Boehm, 191; A. Shiman, 153; Linden, 184; D. Shiman, 223. Total, 909.

Oriental—Mitchell, 157; Vogel, 137; Schultz, 216; Stumpfel, 180; Starr, 182. Total, 872.

THIRD GAME.

Washington—Zenn, 191; Boehm, 190; A. Shiman, 204; Linden, 184; D. Shiman, 169. Total, 945.

Morningside—Madden, 167; Duncan, 155; H. Doncourt, 138; L. Doncourt, 151; Demmler, 186. Total, 797.

The Empires improved their position in the National League last night by winning two games. The Berkeley team of Newark won and lost a game. Scores:

FIRST GAME.

Empire—Howell, 154; Stoff, 169; Williamson, 200; Wyman, 183; Diedrick, 165. Total, 871.

Riverdale—H. Ebling, 157; Gray, 157; Brodbeck, 171; Bollinger, 134; Schlusing, 125. Total, 824.

SECOND GAME.

Berkeley—Dennis, 187; McCoy, 154; Tracy, 187; Maines, 188; Weingarth, 187. Total, 903.

Riverdale—H. Ebling, 157; Gray, 162; Brodbeck, 153; Bollinger, 156; Schlusing, 165. Total, 793.

THIRD GAME.

Empire—Howell, 166; Stoff, 190; Williamson, 186; Wyman, 161; Diederick, 179. Total, 912.

Berkeley—Dennis, 204; McCoy, 136; Tracy, 161; Maines, 150; Weingarth, 166. Total, 817.

In the American National tourney at the Germania alleys last night the Glendales carried off the honors. The team defeated the Lotus and Orchard teams. Scores:

FIRST GAME.

Lotus—W. Gerdes, 202; Heath, 158; Rehm, 185; F. Ferdes, 182; Boemmermann, 170. Total, 897.

Orchard—Bullwinkel, 166; Buchols, 157; Steffens, 162; Schwacke, 163; Wilckens, 199. Total, 847.

SECOND GAME.

Rosedale—C. Sievers, 178; Mesloh, 153; Tadman, 192; Bellmer, 206; A. Sievers, 194. Total, 923.

Orchard—Bullwinkel, 164; Buchols, 188; Steffens, 188; Schwacke, 207; Wilckens, 170. Total, 917.

THIRD GAME.

Rosedale—C. Sievers, 173; Mesloh, 213; Tadman, 184; Bellmer, 187; A. Sievers, 171. Total, 889.

Lotus—W. Gerdes, 185; Heath, 165; Rehm, 157; F. Gerdes, 219; Boemmermann, 163. Total, 889.

Bedford Council won both its games easily last night in the Brooklyn Royal Arcanum sub-tournament on the Elephant Club alleys. De Witt Council won and lost. Scores:

FIRST GAME.

Bedford Council—Brooks, 175; D. Anderson, 163; W. Sheffield, 172; E. Sheffield, 161; T. Anderson, 168. Total, 839.

De Witt Council—Latimer, 110; Bloom, 146; Tuthill, 153; Ta ..; Engel, 178. Total, 699.

SECOND GAME.

De Witt Council—Latimer, 170; Bloom, 100; Tuthill, 147; Talbot, 136; Engel, 126. Total, 670.

Fulton Council—White, 146; D. Miller, 132; Wilson, 124; W. Wilson, 127; C. Silveira, 127. Total, 656.

THIRD GAME.

Bedford Council—Brooks, 144; D. Anderson, 145; W. Sheffield, 158; E. Sheffield, 191; T. Anderson, 171. Total, 809.

Fulton Council—White, 175; D. Miller, 127; Wilson, 136; W. Wilson, 126; C. Silveira, 125. Total, 684.

Long Island Council and Lefferts Council were the winners last night in the tourney of the Brooklyn Royal Arcanum League on Trainor's alleys. Scores:

FIRST GAME.

Long Island Council—Rhodes, 155; Thorn, 160; Baerenklau, 118; Henninger, 152; Hill, 145. Total, 730.

Welecme Council—H. Wyant, 172; F. Wyant, 186; Grosch, 185; Hummel, 123; Peters, 125. Total, 791.

SECOND GAME.

Long Island Council—Rhodes, 166; Thorn, 122; Baerenklau, 165; Henninger, 153; Hill, 143, Total, 749.

Lefferts Council—W. Smith, 103; Freed, 103; Brand, 180; C. Smith, 162; Sellers, 184. Total, 732.

The eighth series of games in the Brooklyn Interclub League was bowled last evening. High scores were made at all the alleys, the Carleton team rolling up a score of 1,000 at the Crescent alleys. Scores:

AT BROOKLYN BICYCLE CLUB.

Brooklyn B. C.			Knickerbocker.
Gehlhaus	145	191 180	Walton	156	196 166
Neff	134	186 141	Silleck	180	164 134
Gardiner	165	144 148	Fuckenthall	146	108 110
Matthews	171	178 214	Fishbeck	169	172 163
Watt	156	134 157	Holmes, Sr.	159	199 134
Total	771	833 829	Total	810	889 707

AT KNICKERBOCKER FIELD CLUB.

Knickerbocker.			Brooklyn B. C.
Blossfield	157	156 197	Lewis	167	141 173
Hain	159	158 189	Ackerson	157	176 211
Boll'ger, Jr.	140	119 116	Urquhart	132	162 189
Umstead	169	201 148	Josiln	148	149 156
Boocock	134	203 174	Worth	160	154 151
Total	750	837 824	Total	764	782 880

Grand totals—Brooklyn Bicycle Club, 4,850; Knickerbocker Field Club, 4,767.

AT AURORA GRATA CLUB.

Aurora Grata.			Lincoln.
Parker	140	152 161	Lovell	104	145 137
Tucker	143	155 165	Cole	102	136 113
Naylor	106	153 168	Higgins	158	143 145
Little	165	147	Pomeroy	124	152 146
Beard	184	157 129	Stoutenburg	159	152 146
Total	768	790 770	Total	647	718 685

AT LINCOLN CLUB.

Lincoln.			Aurora Grata.
Olmstead	135	177 181	Cook	136	169 205
Holdridge	190	156 158	McMullen	128	149 139
Rosser	190	185 181	Gooderson	149	193 172
Young	200	143 157	Page	158	167 136
Stubugler	147	157 190	McElroy	165	163 154
Total	832	818 863	Total	750	877 807

Grand totals—Aurora Grata Club, 4,762; Lincoln Club, 4,585.

AT CRESCENT ATHLETIC CLUB.

Crescent.			Carleton.
Bull	174	158 187	Storer	150	171 174
Meserole	148	188 158	Meyer	195	148 237
Doyle	172	170 202	Lincoln	141	174 176
Anderson	129	183 145	Ebbetts	141	189 224
Kelsey	172	168 193	Stebbins	146	165 168
Total	795	867 885	Total	803	841 1000

AT CARLETON CLUB.

Carleton.	1.	2.	3.	Crescent.	1.	2.	3.
Vodevin & Mason.	139	131	157	Iremonger	170	163	163
Weber	181	169	170	Maguire	174	156	200
Calder	156	169	167	Edwards	149	178	207
A.S. Prosky	198	179	147	Parkinson	199	177	164
Schwartje	195	173	165	Beard	148	167	142
Total	869	832	806	Total	840	839	870

Grand totals—Carleton Club, 5,151; Crescent A. C., 5,102.

AT COLUMBIAN CLUB.

Columbian.			Hanover.
Corcoran	182	130 204	Rose	121	161 138
Howard	179	150 135	Struse	198	155 174
Sullivan	158	188 158	Price	157	138 138
Langan	226	196 218	Kitching	156	159 135
Judge	129	164 168	Grosch	199	157 111
Total	874	828 883	Total	831	770 711

AT HANOVER CLUB.

Hanover Club.			Columbian Club.
Lee	170	.. ..	O'Connor	166	.. ..
Helmle	191	.. ..	Kelley	172	.. ..
Ferguson	171	.. ..	Bishop	154	.. ..
Tompkins	149	.. ..	Haggerty	212	.. ..
Tuttle	158	.. ..	Schaffer	164	.. ..
Total	839	902 888	Total	868	862 778

Grand total—Hanover Club, 4,942; Columbian Club, 5,093.

Tournament Games To-day.

Athletic Bowling League—North End Club at Knickerbocker A. C.

Arlington National—Alco, Gotham, Homestead.

Bank Clerks' League—Three games at Reid's Alleys.

Fire Insurance League—Niagara, Royal, Queen.

Harlem League—Morris Wheelmen, Corinthian, Lotus.

American National—Oriental, Empire, Arlington.

Columbia League—Diamond, Morningside, Oerel.

National—Metropolitan, Dcolittle, Corinthian.

Brooklyn Royal Arcanum League—Price, Gramercy, Iolanthe.

Associated Cycling Clubs of Long Island—Indian, Pioneer, Tamaqua.

Bowerman Brothers Buy Belsire.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 8.—Belsire, 2:21¼, a brown stallion ten years old, by Electioneer, dam Beautiful Bells, by The Moor, has been bought by Bowerman Brothers of this city, of Miller & Sibley, Franklin, Penn., for $5,000. He is a brother to Bow Bell, bought of May Overton by Marcus Daly for $10,000. He will be placed at the head of the Bowermans' new trotting stud.

Dibblee Will Again Coach Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 8.—At a meeting in the Harvard Gymnasium to-night of the candidates for next year's football team Capt. Daly announced that Benjamin H. Dibblee, Captain of the victorious '98 team, would again have charge of the eleven in the capacity of head coach. Dibble was also coach of the team during last season, and his appointment was received to-night with great satisfaction.

DIXON AND McGOVERN TO-NIGHT.

To Fight for the Featherweight Championship and $10,000.

Terry McGovern, the hard-hitting little bantamweight champion of the world, and George Dixon, the colored featherweight who has defended his title successfully for many years, will meet to-night in a twenty-five-round contest at the Broadway Athletic Club. They will battle for Dixon's title and a purse of $10,000. Sporting men from all parts of the country have come to New York to see the fight. As both men are known to be hard hitters, clever, and game, a battle even better than the recent heavyweight contests is expected.

The men have trained conscientiously for the fight—McGovern in Westchester and the colored champion at Lakewood, N. J.—and they will enter the ring trained to the hour. While the contest is scheduled to go twenty-five rounds, very few sporting men expect to see it last the limit, for both McGovern and Dixon have long lists of knockouts on their tablets, and both are terrific punchers. McGovern has the force of a middleweight behind his blows. He beat Pedlar Palmer, the champion of England, in a round at Tuckahoe recently, and his admirers believe it will not take him much longer than that to dispose of Dixon. The latter, however, is also a very hard hitter, and the pair will in all probability put up a hurricane battle while it lasts. Dixon is in the best shape he has been in for a number of years.

The betting on the fight is heavy, and McGovern is a 2 to 1 favorite.

YALE-HARVARD BOAT RACES.

To be Held at New London June 28—Same Plans as Last Year.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 8.—A three days' conference of the undergraduate officials of the Yale and Harvard Boat Clubs has just been concluded at Claverly Hall, Cambridge, as a result of which dates for the annual contests, officials, and the general plans for the annual regatta are announced.

The plans are similar to those of last year. The races will take place at New London on Thursday, June 28. Each college will send three crews—a 'Varsity eight, a 'Varsity four, and a freshman eight. The 'Varsity eight-oared race will be rowed first, down stream, at 11:30 A. M. Immediately following the big race, the fours will row down stream at 12:30, and the freshman race will follow after a short interval. The 'Varsity eight race will start from a point opposite Red Top, Harvard's quarters, finishing at the draw bridge; the fours will start at the 'Varsity starting point and row to the navy yard, two miles down; the freshmen will start at the navy yard and row to the bridge, two miles down the river.

A radical innovation will, it is hoped, be made this year in securing the passage of a Congressional measure which will successfully prevent the encroachment upon the course of excursion boats. The officials of the races will be practically those of last year, W. H. Melkleham of New York being the probable referee. The Chairman of the Regatta Committee will be Julian Curtiss of New York.

The report is current that, while there is little chance of Cornell's appearance on the Thames this year, both Yale and Harvard would welcome the coming of the Ithacans.

THE COMMERCIAL WORLD

CASH PRICES FOR STAPLES.

Wheat, No. 2 red	.75½
Corn, No. 2 mixed	.40½
Oats, No. 2 mixed	.29½
Flour, Minnesota patents	$3.95
Cotton, middling	.07 9-16
Coffee, No. 7 Rio	.07⅝
Sugar, granulated	5.00
Molasses, O. K. prime	.36
Beef, family	12.75
Beef, hams	22.75
Tallow, prime	.05½
Pork, mess	10.50
Hogs, dressed, 160 lb	.06¼
Lard, prime	6.22½
Iron, Northern, No. 1 foundry	23.00
Butter, Western creamery	.30

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Flour steady; No. 3 Spring wheat, 63⅝@63½c; No. 2 red, 66¾@67¼c; No. 2 corn, 30¾c; No. 2 yellow corn, 30¾@31c; No. 2 oats, 22¾@22½c; No. 2 white, 25¼@25½c; No. 3 white, 24½@25½c; No. 2 rye, 52½@53c; No. 2 barley, 38@43c; No. 1 flaxseed, $1.51; No. 1 Northwestern, $1.51; prime timothy seed, $2.35; mess pork, per bbl, $9.40@10.65; lard, per 100 lb, $5.65@5.85; short ribs sides, (loose,) $5.55@5.80; dry salted shoulders, (boxed,) 5½@5¾c; short clear sides, (boxed,) $5.75@5.85; whisky, distillers' finished goods, per gallon, basis of high wines, $1.23½; sugars, cut loaf, unchanged; clover, contract grade, $8.10.

COTTON.—Taking the day as a whole, the bears came out with flying colors. The short and long accounts were pretty nearly balanced, the latter being heavily augmented, and the latter materially cut down. In response to weak cables and general heaviness in speculative markets, the future list opened easy at a decline of 2 to 3 points, and continued to settle under enthusiastic hammering by the bear crowd, and by a scurry of holders to rid themselves of cotton, some of which was purchased on the late advance, but more of it at 6½c upward. Toward midday there was some hope of a rally, sellers evincing a desire to cover, and there was a few buying orders on the reactionary theory drifted in from outside points. Soon after midday, however, the market suffered another relapse under terrific selling by prominent Wall Street interests and a multitude of long stuff, under which prices crumbled away in an alarming fashion. The market closed steady, at a net loss of 10@17 points. Spot cotton in the local market ruled quiet, with prices ⅛c lower, on the basis of 7 9-16c for middling upland and 7 13-16c for middling Gulf. Sales were 1,433 bales. Southern spot markets; middling quoted, were officially reported as follows: Mobile, dull and nominal at 7 5-16c; Savannah, dull and easy at 7 5-16c; Charleston, firm at 7 5-16c; Wilmington, steady at 7¼c; Norfolk, quiet, 1-16c lower at 7 7-16c; Baltimore, nominal, 1-16c lower at 7 11-16c; Augusta, quiet and steady, 1-16c lower at 7⅜c; Memphis, steady at 7½c; St. Louis, dull at 7 7-16c.

Contract prices ranged as follows:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
January

FINANCIAL DIRECTORY.

Chemical National Bank
270 Broadway.

National Bank of Commerce
CAP. AND SUR. $5,500,000
31 Nassau St.

Hanover National Bank
Capital $1,000,000. Surplus and profits, $2,500,000.
9 and 11 Nassau St.

The Nassau Bank
Corner Beekman and Nassau Streets.

Central National Bank
320 Broadway.

Continental Trust Company
30 Broad St.

Colonial Trust Company
CAPITAL & SURPLUS, $3,500,000.
ST. PAUL B'LD'G.
222 B'way.

Washington Trust Company
Stewart Building, 280 Broadway.

PHILADELPHIA.
Fourth Street National Bank
Capital, $1,500,000. Surplus, $1,500,000.

BANKERS' CARDS.

G. Sidenberg & Kraus,
BANKERS,
20 BROAD ST., NEW YORK.
Members of N. Y. Stock Exchange.
Transact a general Banking Business.
Interest allowed on deposits.
Orders executed for cash or on margin.
Investment Securities
A SPECIALTY.
LIST SENT ON APPLICATION.

HENRY CLEWS & CO.,
BANKERS,
11, 13, 15, & 17 Broad St.
MEMBERS N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE.
Orders executed for investment or on margin. Interest allowed on deposits subject to check at sight. Railroads reorganized and trade combinations effected. Act as Financial Agents for Corporations and Investors.
U. S. Bonds, all issues, bought and sold.
Branch Offices: 202 FIFTH AV., cor. 25th St. 487 BROADWAY. Silk Ex'ge Bldg 66 WORTH ST. & 39 Thomas St. 87 HUDSON ST., Mercantile Ex. 16 COURT ST., Brooklyn.

N. Y. & N. J. TELEPHONE "RIGHTS"
BOUGHT AND SOLD.
Geo. H. PRENTISS & Co.
37 William St., New York. 298 Montague St., Brooklyn.

TUNSTALL & CO.,
MEMBERS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE
52 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Stocks and Bonds bought and sold for cash or carried on margin.
Market Letter on Application.
Telephones No. 1492 and No. 830 Broad.

Chester B. Lawrence, Jr.,
Member Consolidated Stock Exchange.
STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, COTTON.
Branch Offices:
1,300 BROADWAY, CORNER 34TH ST.
621 BROADWAY, CORNER HOUSTON ST.
MAIN OFFICES, 32 & 34 BROADWAY.

FINANCIAL.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company.
OFFICE OF THE TREASURER.
GENERAL OFFICE, PHILADELPHIA,
DECEMBER 13, 1899.

To the Stockholders of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co.

At a meeting of the board held this day the following resolution was, on motion, adopted:

"Resolved, That, for the purpose of providing a portion of the necessary capital for construction and equipment expenditures, during the year 1900, on the main and leased lines and branches, and for other corporate purposes, the privilege be given to stockholders of the Company to subscribe, at par, between December 27th, 1899, and January 20th, 1900, ON WHICH LATTER DATE THE PRIVILEGE WILL CEASE, for ten per cent. of their respective holdings as they stand registered at three o'clock P. M. on December 26, 1899. The privilege of subscribing may be sold by any stockholder. Payment in full for such stock may be made after January 14th, and must be made not later than January 20th, 1900. Receipts, which will also be negotiable, will be given bearing interest at the rate of five per cent. from January 20th to May 1st, 1900, (being 70 cents per share,) at which time said receipts will cease to bear interest.

"Certificates for the new Stock will be delivered on and after May 1st, 1900, on surrender of the receipts. Receipts covering fractions of shares will be converted into Stock when presented in multiples of Fifty dollars. All receipts must be presented for conversion before January 1st, 1901, on and after which date they will only be redeemed, at par, in cash."

Blank forms, giving the particulars of the payments as above recited, forms of subscription, and allotment of privilege, etc., can be obtained on application at this office after December 20, 1899.

Stockholders desiring their new Certificates for full shares by May 1st must deposit their receipts with the Transfer Department of the Company on or before March 15th, 1900. For all receipts for full shares deposited after that date, and for all fractional receipts, Certificates will be ready for delivery as soon after May 1st as practicable, of which notice will be given.

ROBT. W. SMITH, Treasurer.

The Colorado Coal and Iron Company,
6% MORTGAGE BONDS.

The Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, successor, by consolidation, to The Colorado Coal & Iron Company, proposes to extend above bonds at the rate of 6% per annum until February 1, 1902, the present security and lien to remain in full force, the principal and interest of the extended bonds to be payable in gold.

Arrangements have been made to purchase the bonds not extended by the holders, and to extend the same. Bondholders who wish to avail themselves of the privilege of extending the bonds may notify the Knickerbocker Trust Company at once of their intention so to do, and must present their bonds at the office of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, No. 66 Broadway, New York, between January 15th and January 27th, 1900, to have the contract of extension and new coupon sheets attached.

Bonds not extended by present holders should be presented to the Knickerbocker Trust Company on February 1, 1900, when par and the last coupon will be paid on the same.

JOHN L. JEROME, Treasurer.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.,
NO. 59 WALL ST.,
ISSUE COMMERCIAL AND TRAVELERS' CREDITS, AVAILABLE IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Outside Securities a Specialty.
DAVID PFEIFFER, 18 Wall St.

FINANCIAL.

LOUIS MESIER, Auctioneer,
REGULAR AUCTION SALE OF
STOCKS AND BONDS
BY ADRIAN H. MULLER & SON,
WEDNESDAY, JAN. 10TH, 1900,
At 12½ o'clock, at the N. Y. Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway.
BY ORDER OF EXECUTORS.
25 shs. Canada Southern R'way.
50 shs. Mechanics' Nat'l Bank.
25 shs. Manhattan Bank.
25 shs. Corn Exchange Bank.
38 shs. United States Life Ins. Co.
25 shs. Morris & Essex R. R.
16 shs. Mechanics' Nat'l Bank.
35 shs. Phenix Nat'l Bank.
13 shs. Nat'l Bank of Commerce.
50 shs. Bank of New York, N. B. A.
16 shs. Metropolitan Nat'l Bank, (in liq.)
98 shs. Morris & Essex R. R. Co.
7 shs. Chic., St. Paul, Minn. & Omaha Ry.
200 shs. Chic., Rock Island & Pacific Ry.
11 shs. New York Life Ins. & Trust Co.
25 shs. Union Trust Co.
$15,000 City of Defiance (Ohio) 1st Mtg. 6 p. c. Bds., 1918, July, 1897, Coups.
$2,000 The Rail Road Equipment Co. Special 6 p. c. Car Trust Bds., "Series B 74a," due 1900.
$5,000 The Rail Road Equipment Co. 6 p. c. Car Trust Bds., "Series Ae," October, 1899, Coups., (1st Nat'l Bank, N. Y., Receipt.)
5 shs. King Granite Co.
30 shs. Eureka Consolidated Mining Co.
45 shs. California Mining Co.
100 shs. Mineral Point Mining Co.
15 shs. Hamilton Bank of B'klyn.
25 shs. 3d National Bank of N. Y.
$2,000 Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern 1st income Mtge. 5 p. c. Bds., Series "B," 2043.
5 shs. German Alliance Ins. Co. of N. Y.
3 shs. Consolidated Gas Co.
FOR ACCT. OF WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.
80 shs. Pitts., Ft. Wayne & Chic. R. R. Guar.
50 shs. Del., Lack. & Western R. R. Co.
65 shs. Morris & Essex R. R. Co.
31 shs. Nat'l Bank of Commerce.
98 shs. Mechanics' Nat'l Bank.
32 shs. Bank of New York, N. B. A.
51 shs. Bank of America.
32 shs. Bank of Metropolis.
600 shs. Brooklyn City R. R. Co.
$1,000 Union Ferry Co. of N. Y. & B'klyn 1st 5 p. c. Bds., 1920.
$4,000 Union Pacific R. R. Co. 1st R. R. & L. G. 4 p. c. Bds., 1947.
19 shs. Importers' and Traders' Nat'l Bank.
25 shs. Bank of Manhattan Co.
31 shs. Market and Fulton Nat'l Bank.
13 shs. Nat'l City Bank (with rights.)
13 shs. American Exchange Nat'l Bank.
20 shs. Bank of New York, N. B. A.
65 shs. Bowery Bank.
275 shs. Central Foundry Co. common.
2 shs. Membership N. Y. Produce Exchange.
25 shs. Trust Co. of America.
60 shs. National Ship Copper Plating Co.
10 shs. Guaranty Trust Co.
74 shs. Mechanics' National Bank.
74 shs. Merchants' National Bank.
100 shs. National Broadway Bank.
50 shs. American Surety Co.
50 shs. H. R. Worthington Co. pfd.
25 shs. Trust Co. of America.
25 shs. German-American Insurance Co.
20 shs. Mechanics' Nat'l Bank.
50 shs. North American Trust Co.
50 shs. Central National Bank.
37 shs. Chatham Bank.
50 shs. Citizens' Natl. Bank.
20 shs. Corn Exchange Bank.
10 shs. N. Y. & New Jersey Telephone Co.
50 shs. Trust Co. of America.
10 shs. Corn Exchange Bank.
35 shs. Nat'l Bank of Commerce.
200 shs. Improved Acetylene Gas Co. common.
25 shs. Trust Co. of New York.
5 shs. Nat'l Bank of Commerce.
15 shs. 5th Avenue Bank.
20 shs. 4th National Bank.
4 shs. Gallatin Nat'l Bank.
16 shs. Importers' and Traders' Nat'l Bank.
25 shs. Lincoln Nat'l Bank.
40 shs. Phenix Ins. Co. of B'klyn.
200 shs. Indianapolis Gas Co.
17 shs. Mutual Bank.
31 shs. Nat'l Bank of Commerce.
11 shs. Nat'l Park Bank.
16 shs. Nat'l Shoe & Leather Bank.
21 shs. Western National Bank.
112 shs. New Jersey Zinc Co.
3 shs. National City Bank.
15 shs. Colonial Trust Co.
50 shs. Bankers' Trust Co.
10 shs. Guaranty Trust Co.
50 shs. Bond & Mtge. Guar. Co.
1 Membership N. Y. Produce Exchange.
2 shs. Pitts., Ft. Wayne & Chic. R. R.
10 shs. International Banking & Trust Co.

RICHARD V. HARNETT & CO.,
Auction Sale
STOCKS AND BONDS
TUESDAY, JAN. 9, 1900, at 12.30 P. M.
At the New York Real-Estate Salesroom, 111 Broadway.
(For account of whom it may concern.)
100 shs. American Grocery Co., 2d preferred, $100 each.
200 shs. Brown Segmental Wire-Gun Co., $10 ea[ch]. (Temporary Certificate.)
(By order of John W. Axford, Assignee of the [illegible]ttings Card and Paper Co.)
Certain Book Accounts, Judgments, and Promissory Notes, a list of which will be read at sale.
List at Auctioneers', 71 and 73 Liberty St.

THE TRUST CO. OF AMERICA,
149 BROADWAY,
(Northwest Corner Liberty St.)
CAPITAL . $2,500,000
SURPLUS . $2,500,000
Allows Interest on Daily Balances, subject to cheque through the New York Clearing House or payable at sight, and on Certificates of Deposit.
Acts as Trustee, Receiver, Committee, Executor, Guardian, Administrator, Assignee, Registrar and Transfer and Fiscal Agent.
Is a legal depository for Court and Trust Funds.
Loans Money on Bond and Mortgage.
Special attention given to the management of real estate and the collection and remittance of rents.
Carefully selected securities for investment always on hand.
Transacts a General Banking Business.

OFFICERS:
ASHBEL P. FITCH, President. WM. BARBOUR, Vice-President.
WM. H. LEUPP, Vice-President. H. S. MANNING, Vice-President.
LAWRENCE O. MURRAY, Trust Officer.
RAYMOND J. CHATRY, Secretary.
THOMAS C. CLARKE, Jr., Asst. Sec'y.
ALBERT L. BANISTER, Treasurer.
W. HUNT HALL, Asst. Treasurer.

DIRECTORS:

ASHBEL P. FITCH,	WILLIAM E. SPIER,
WILLIAM BARBOUR,	ANSON R. FLOWER,
HENRY S. MANNING,	HENRY S. REDMOND,
SAMUEL A. MAXWELL,	JOHN R. HEGEMAN,
MYRON T. HERRICK,	C. I. HUDSON,
CHAS. F. CUTLER,	S. C. T. DODD,
EMERSON McMILLIN,	WILLARD BROWN,
H. O. HAVEMEYER,	PHILIP LEHMAN,
JAMES M. DONALD,	EDWARD F. CRAGIN,
GEORGE CROCKER,	GEO. BLUMENTHAL,
J. WILLIAM CLARK,	EDWARD C. SCHAEFER,
JOEL F. FREEMAN.	FRANK JAY GOULD.

CITY TRUST CO
OF NEW YORK.
36 WALL STREET.
OFFICERS:
JAS. ROSS CURRAN, President.
JOHN D. CRIMMINS, Vice-President.
GEORGE R. SHELDON, 2d Vice-Pres't.
ARTHUR TERRY, Secretary.
WALTER W. LEE, Asst. Secretary.
STATEMENT DECEMBER 30TH, 1899.
RESOURCES.

N. Y. City Bonds	$1,095,000 00
Other Bonds and Securities	264,505 00
Bonds and Mortgages	36,000 00
Loans on Collaterals	8,340,796 87
Bills Purchased	328,917 17
Cash in Vault and Banks	1,965,853 44
Overdrafts	30 68
Furniture and Fixtures	14,086 66
Interest, Commissions, etc., Receivable	78,531 23
	$12,123,721 05

LIABILITIES.

Capital		$1,000,000 00
Surplus		1,000,000 00
Undivided Profits		181,277 23
Deposits:
General	$9,647,818 86
In Trust	227,150 72
		9,874,969 58
Interest, Taxes, etc., Payable		67,474 24
		$12,123,721 05

Began Business March 1, 1899.

MOFFAT & WHITE,
BANKERS.
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange,
NO. 1 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK.
Investment Securities.
N. Y. & N. J. TELEPHONE
STOCK AND RIGHTS
Bought and Sold.

FINANCIAL.

MANHATTAN TRVST COMPANY.
WALL STREET, Corner NASSAU, NEW YORK.
Capital & Surplus, - $1,500,000

OFFICERS.
JOHN I. WATERBURY, President.
JOHN KEAN, AMOS T. FRENCH, } Vice-Presidents.
CHARLES H. SMITH, Secretary.
W. NORTH DUANE, Treasurer.

SINKING FUND NOTICE.
DULUTH, MISSABE AND NORTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY
First Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, dated January 1st, 1893.
The CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY of New York gives notice that in accordance with Article V. of a certain Indenture made by the above Railway Company, dated January 1st, 1893, it will receive sealed proposals to sell the above-described bonds at a rate not to exceed 105 per cent. and accrued interest, the total offer not to consume more than the amount of Seventy-nine thousand two hundred and twenty-two 12-100 dollars ($79,222 12.) The sealed proposals will be opened at the office of the CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, in New York City, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 15th day of January, 1900.
CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE.
By G. Sherman, Vice President.

SAVINGS BANKS.

Metropolitan Savings Bank
1 and 3 THIRD AV., (opp. Cooper Institute.)
CHARTERED 1832.
93D DIVIDEND.
New York, Dec. 12, 1899.
INTEREST FOR THE HALF YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1899, at the rate of FOUR PER CENT. PER ANNUM
Will be credited to depositors entitled thereto under the by-laws of the bank on sums from $5 to $3,000. INTEREST PAYABLE JANUARY 17TH, 1900.
MONEY DEPOSITED on or before January 10 will draw interest from January 1st, 1900.
JONATHAN B. CURREY, President.
EDWARD SHERER, Secretary.

THE FRANKLIN SAVINGS BANK,
during construction of its new building on the corner of 8th Av. and 42d St., is located at 110 West 42d St., near 6th Av.
79TH SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.
On and after Jan. 15th, 1900, interest at the rate of THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. per annum will be paid to depositors entitled thereto on all sums of $5 to $3,000. Money deposited on or before the 10th of January will draw interest from the first. Bank open from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M., and from 6 to 8 P. M. on Mondays, holidays excepted. Closes at 12 M. on Saturdays.
Assets $9,308,414.61
Surplus 975,105.45
A. TURNER, Pres.
WM. G. CONKLIN, Sec'y.

CITIZENS' SAVINGS BANK,
56 and 58 BOWERY, COR. CANAL ST.
79TH SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.
The Trustees have ordered that interest at the rate of THREE AND ONE-HALF (3½) PER CENT. per annum be paid to depositors on and after January 15th on all sums of $5 and up to $3,000 which have remained on deposit for the three or six months ending December 31, 1899, in accordance with the by-laws and rules of the bank. Money deposited on or before January 10th will draw interest from January 1st. HENRY HASLER, President.
CHARLES W. HELD, Secretary.
HENRY SAYLER, Assistant Secretary.

Union Dime Savings Institution
BROADWAY, 32D ST. & SIXTH AVENUE, GREELEY SQUARE, NEW YORK.
Interest three and one-half per cent. from $5 to $3,000. Credited January 1st, payable January 18th, or any time later.
Money deposited before January 10th draws interest from the first.
CHARLES E. SPRAGUE, President.
GEORGE N. BIRDSALL, Treasurer.
FRANCIS M. LEAKE, Secretary.

DIVIDENDS.

OFFICE OF THE
Northern Pacific Railway Company
Mills Building, New York, Dec. 13, 1899.
At a meeting of the Board of Directors, held this day, there were declared from the net earnings of the company a dividend of ONE PER CENT. on the Common Stock of the Company, and an extra dividend of ONE PER CENT. on said common stock, both to be paid Feb. 5, 1900, to the stockholders of record at the closing of the transfer books on Jan. 11, 1900.
For the purpose of such dividends the transfer books of this company will be closed at 3 P. M on Jan. 11, 1900, and will be reopened at 10 A. M. on Jan. 23, 1900.
NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY,
By GEORGE H. EARL, Secretary.
23 Wall Street.
New York, Dec. 13, 1899.
The transfer books of the Voting Trustees for Common Stock Trust Certificates of the NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY will close in New York and Berlin at 3 P. M. on Jan. 11, 1900, and will reopen at 10 A. M. on Jan. 23, 1900.
On Feb. 5, 1900, the Voting Trustees will be prepared to distribute the above dividends, aggregating two per cent. on the Common Stock of the Company, when received by them, among the parties entitled thereto, as the same appear of record on their books when closed as above.
J. P. MORGAN & CO., New York,
DEUTSCHE BANK, Berlin,
Agents for Voting Trustees.

Commonwealth (Fire) Ins. Co. of New York.
68 William St., Jan. 3, 1900.
The Directors have declared the following DIVIDENDS: THREE PER CENT. upon the Capital Stock, payable on demand on or after Jan'y 6th, 1900;
FIVE PER CENT. Interest upon the outstanding Scrip, payable on demand on or after Feb'y 20th, 1900; and TEN PER CENT. in Scrip upon the Participating Policies expired in 1899, Certificates for which will be issued on demand on or after May 15th, 1900.
The Transfer Books will remain closed until the 10th inst. CHAS. S. BARTOW, President.

Consolidated Traction Company,
29 Exchange Place.
Jersey City, N. J., January 3, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day ordered paid on January 15th, 1900, out of the rental payment made by the North Jersey Street Railway Company to the Consolidated Traction Company, under the terms of the lease between said companies, dated May 25th, 1898, a dividend of Two Per Cent. (2%) on the capital stock of the Consolidated Traction Company.
The payment will be made to stockholders of record on the 30th day of December, A. D. 1899.
E. N. HILL, Treasurer.

Central Railroad Company of New Jersey,
143 Liberty Street,
New York, January 8, 1900.
A dividend of ONE AND ONE-QUARTER per cent. has this day been declared, payable February 1st, to stockholders of record at the close of business January 15th. The transfer books will be closed from three P. M. of Monday, January 15th, till the morning of Monday, January 22d.
J. W. WATSON, Treasurer.

Office of WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
63 Broadway,
New York, Dec. 20, 1899.
THE REGULAR SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND of THREE PER CENT. has been declared by the Directors of the company, payable Jany. 15, 1900, at our office, as above.
The transfer books will close Dec. 30, 1899, and reopen Janv. 16, 1900.
H. B. PARSONS, Assistant Secretary.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

The Importers' and Traders' National Bank of New York,
New York, December 22d, 1899.
The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at its banking rooms, corner of Broadway and Murray Street, Tuesday, January 9th, 1900. The poll will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. EDWARD TOWNSEND, Cashier.

The Merchants' National Bank of the City of New York,
December 7th, 1899.
The Annual Election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking room, No. 42 Wall Street, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, from 12 M. to 1 o'clock P. M.
JOSEPH W. HARRIMAN, Cashier.

Pacific Bank,
New York, Dec. 26, 1899.
The Annual Election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house, 470 Broadway, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900. The polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 o'clock P. M.
S. C. MERWIN, Cashier.

THE ANNUAL ELECTION FOR DIRECTORS of the International Banking & Trust Company, to supply the places of those whose terms expire, will be held at its offices, 149 Broadway, January 17th, at 11 A. M.
JOHN B. DUER, T. H. FROEHLICH, } Secretaries.

East River National Bank,
New York, Dec. 5th, 1899.
An Election for Directors of this Bank will be held at the banking house, No. 682 Broadway, New York, on Tuesday, January 9, 1900. Polls open from 2 to 3 o'clock P. M.
Z. E. NEWELL, Cashier.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of The Traders Fire Insurance Company of New York, for the election of Directors and Inspectors of Election, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting, will be held at the office of the company, Nos. 33 and 35 Liberty Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on WEDNESDAY, January 17th, 1900, at 2 o'clock P. M.
The polls will be open from 2 o'clock P. M. until 3 o'clock P. M.
The transfer books will be closed January 7th, 1900, and will be opened January 18th, 1900.
THEODORE SUTRO, Secretary.
January 2nd, 1900.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE MANAOS RAILWAY COMPANY.
Notice is hereby given that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Manaos Railway Company will be held at the office of the Company, in Room No. 747, No. 30 Broad Street, in the City of New York, on January 16th, 1900, at eleven o'clock A. M., for the purpose of electing nine Directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting. Polls will remain open from 11:30 A. M. to 12:30 P. M. Transfer books will be closed from January 7th to January 17th, 1900. W. D. WALKER, Secretary.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of The Forty-second Street, Manhattanville and St. Nicholas Avenue Railway Company for the election of thirteen Directors and three Inspectors of Election will be held at the office of the company, Nos. 118 and 120 East Forty-second Street, New York City, on Thursday, January 18th, 1900, at 12 o'clock noon. Polls open from 12 to 1 P. M.
Transfer books of this company will be closed from 3 P. M. January 3d, 1900, until 10 A. M. January 19th, 1900.
D. C. ANDREWS, Secretary.

Columbia Bank,
Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street,
New York, December 27th, 1899.
The annual meeting of the shareholders of this Bank for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, and for the election of three Inspectors of Election, to serve for the following annual election, will be held at the banking house on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
The transfer books will be closed from January 2d, 1900, until the morning of January 10th, 1900. W. S. GRIFFITH, Cashier.

NATIONAL-STANDARD INSURANCE COMPANY.—The Annual Meeting of Stockholders for the Election of Three Directors, Three Inspectors of Election, and such other business as may properly come before said meeting, will be held at the Company's offices, No. 45 William Street, New York City, on WEDNESDAY, 17th January, 1900, at 3:00 P. M.
Dated New York City, 27th day of December, 1899. R. BLEECKER RATHBONE, Secretary.

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA.—The Annual Meeting of Stockholders, for the Election of Five Directors, Three Inspectors of Election, and such other business as may properly come before said meeting, will be held at the Company's offices, No. 45 William Street, New York City, on TUESDAY, January 16th, 1900, at 3:00 P. M.
Dated New York City, 27th day of December, 1899. R. BLEECKER RATHBONE, Secretary.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the estate of N. Low, for the election of Directors and of Inspectors of Election for the ensuing year, and such other business as may properly come before the stockholders, will be held at the office of the Treasurer of the company, 45 Cedar Street, New York City, at 12 o'clock noon, Wednesday, January 24th, 1900.
S. V. R. TOWNSEND, Treasurer.
January 8, 1900.

Lincoln National Bank,
32-42 EAST 42D ST.,
New York, December 23d, 1899.
The Annual Meeting of the shareholders of this bank, for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, will be held at the banking house, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M. W. T. CORNELL, Cashier.

The Hanover National Bank of the City of New York,
NEW YORK, December 8th, 1899.
The Annual Election for Directors of this Bank will be held at the banking house, 9 and 11 Nassau Street, on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 o'clock M. and 1 o'clock P. M. WILLIAM HALLS, Jr., Cashier.

The Bowery Bank of New York.
New York, December 28, 1899.
The annual meeting of the shareholders of this Bank, for the election of DIRECTORS for the ensuing year will be held at the Banking House, Number 62 Bowery, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of three (3) and four (4) P. M. CHARLES ESSIG, Cashier.

The Second National Bank of the City of New York,
New York, Dec. 6, 1899.
The annual election of Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house, No. 190 5th Av., on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900. The polls will be opened from 10 to 11 A. M.
J. S. CASE, Cashier.

THE BANK OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.
New York, Dec 4, 1899.
The annual meeting of the Stockholders of this bank for the election of Directors and Inspectors of Election for the ensuing year will be held at the Banking House, 33 William Street, on Tuesday, January 9th, 1900, between the hours of 11 o'clock A. M. and noon.
R. L. EDWARDS, President.

THE NATIONAL BUTCHERS AND DROVERS' BANK,
New York, December 7th, 1899.
The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking room, No. 124 Bowery, on TUESDAY, Jan. 9th, 1900, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
WM. H. CHASE, Cashier.

Leather Manufacturers' National Bank
29 Wall St.
New York, December 4th, 1899.
The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of this bank for the election of Directors will be held at the banking rooms on TUESDAY, January 9th, 1900, from 12 M. to 1 P. M.
GATES W. McGARRAH, Cashier.

OFFICE OF THE EAGLE FIRE COMPANY,
New York, December 30, 1899.—The annual election for Directors of this company, and for Inspectors, will be held at the company's office, No. 71 Wall Street, on Tuesday, January 9, 1900, commencing at 12 o'clock M. and closing at 1 o'clock P. M. THOS. J. GAINES, Secretary.

Fourteenth Street Bank,
3 East 14th Street.
New York, Dec. 26, 1899.
The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house on Tuesday, January 9, 1900, between the hours of 9:30 and 10:30 A. M. IRVING C. GAYLORD, Cashier.

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST OR STOLEN,
BANK BOOK No. 365,761 of the EMIGRANT INDUSTRIAL SAVINGS BANK. Payment stopped. Please return book to Bank, No. 51 Chambers St.

NOTES OF INSURANCE INTERESTS.

The Potomac Insurance Company of Georgetown, D. C., has been admitted to Massachusetts.

N. J. Bennett has been appointed Chicago representative of the Aachen and Munich Insurance Company of Germany.

Chicago advices state that J. H. Chamberlain has been appointed sole Chicago agent of the Magdeburg Fire Insurance Company.

The Moscow Fire Insurance Company of Russia, which was recently admitted to this State, has applied for admission to Massachusetts.

C. A. Hjelm, Foreign Superintendent of the Svea Insurance Company of Gothenburg, Sweden, who has been inspecting the various departments of the American branch of the company, returned to this city from the Pacific Coast yesterday, and will sail for Europe soon.

The insurance on the property at 338 to 342 East Fifty-ninth Street, which was nearly destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, was distributed as follows: On S. Levy—Aetna, $7,500; Phoenix of London, $5,000; Niagara, $4,500; Atlas, $2,500; Transatlantic, $2,500; Greenwich, $2,500; Stuyvesant, $2,500; Palatine, $2,500; Law, Union and Crown, $2,500; Citizens' of St. Louis, $2,000. On F. M. Wise—National of Hartford, $2,500; Delaware, $1,250; Phoenix of Hartford, $1,250. On Bloomingdale—Royal, $600. On Building—Royal, $10,000; German-American, $10,000; Imperial, $10,000; Union of London, $5,000; Manchester, $5,000; Northern of London, $5,000.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Hanover Fire Insurance Company yesterday, the following Directors were elected: L. Remsen Lane, Paul Worth, Salem H. Wales, Isaac T. Smith, John L. Riker, Albert Mathews, David S. Eggleston, William D. Sloane, Charles K. Wallace, Joseph T. Low, Andrew F. Derr, John A. Tweedy, Louis F. Dommerich, James Clark, Howard P. Gray, Clarence D. Newell, William G. Fellows, Charles A. Shaw, Stuart G. Nelson, William Allen Butler, Jr., Frank P. Carpenter, A. D. Straus, Leon L. Beland, E. M. Kingsley, David B. Flint, Samuel J. Clarke, George W. Stickle, J. R. Harrison, A. S. Walcott, H. E. Pierrepont, Jr., Luther N. Curtis, Frederick Wesson, Benjamin Reynolds, H. A. Ferguson, B. F. Fabens, John B. Noyes, John F. Derr, J. C. Herman Trost, George Cromwell, and B. W. Arnold, Jr.

New York Dispensary Election.
The following new Trustees of the New York Dispensary were elected for three years at the annual meeting yesterday: David W. Bishop, John A. McKim, William Hall Wickham, James W. Beekman, Dr. George D. Wheelock, Frederic de Peyster Foster, and Dr. Beverly Robinson.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks irregular.

STOCK TRANSACTIONS.

	Shares.
Jan. 8	458,648
To date this year	3,280,451
Corresponding date last year	4,710,337

BOND TRANSACTIONS.

Jan. 8	$1,414,500
To date this year	$9,222,000
Corresponding date last year	$33,763,940

Money rate: Collateral loans on call, 4½ @6 per cent.; at three months, 5½@6 per cent.; at six months, 6 per cent. Commercial paper, sixty to ninety days, 5½X6 per cent.

***

Net changes in stocks of one-half of 1 per cent. or more were:

Stocks Advanced.

Am. Car. & Fdy. pf.	½	Evans. & T. H.	⅞
Am. Steel & Wire	⅝	N. Y. Air Brake	3
Am. Sugar Ref.	1	Peo. Dec. & Ev.	⅝
B'klyn Rapid Tr.	1⅞	P., C., C. & St. L. pf.	¾
Cleve., L. & W.	4

Stocks Declined.

Am. Car & Fdy.	⅛	Hocking Valley pf.	⅞
Am. Ice	⅜	Iowa Cent. pf.	½
Am. Cotton Oil pf.	2	Laclede Gas.	⅛
Am. Steel Hoop	1	Manhattan	⅛
Am. Tin Plate pf.	2	Mexican Central	⅜
Am. Tobacco	1	N. Y. Central	⅛
Canada South	⅛	Pacific Mail	⅜
Chi. G. W. pf. A.	½	Penn. R. R.	⅛
Chi. & N. W.	4	P., C., C. & St. L.	⅛
C., C., C. & St. L.	½	Pressed Steel Car	½
C., C., C. & St. L. pf.	1½	Pullman Car	½
Col. Fuel & Iron	⅜	Reading 2d pf.	½
Col. So. 1st pf.	2	Republic Steel	½
Col. & H. C. & I.	1	Rep. Steel pf.	1½
Consol. Gas	1	St. L. S. W. pf.	⅞
Delaware & Hudson	½	Southern Ry. pf.	⅜
Del., Lack. & West.	½	Third Avenue	3
Den. & R. G.	⅝	Un. B. & P. pf.	1¼
Den. & R. G. pf.	1½	Union Pacific pf.	½
Erie 1st pf.	⅝	U. S. Leather pf.	½
Erie 2d pf.	¾	U. S. Rubber	½
Federal Steel pf.	1⅛	Wabash pf.	½
Glucose Sugar	⅛	W. & L. E. 2d pf.	1⅛
Great North. pf.	2½	Wis. Central	⅜

***

Net changes in bonds of 1 per cent. or more were:

Bonds Advanced.

B'way & 7th Av. con.	1½	Evans. & T. H. gen.	1
Chi., M. & St. P.	1	St. L. S. W. 2d	1
So. Minn. 6s	1½	Wilkes. & East. 1st	1
C., C., C. & St. L., St. L. Div. 4s	1

Bonds Declined.

B. & O., S. W. Div. 3½s	1	N. Y., S. & W. ref. 5s	1½
D., M. & M. 1. g. 4½s	2	Ore. S. L. con. 5s	1½
Laclede Gas 1st	1	Peo. & East. inc.	1
Lake Erie & W. 1st	1½	St. L. & S. F. con. 4s	1½
Nash. C. & St. L. 7s	1

MARKET CONDITIONS.

The security market continues narrow. Fluctuations seem to reflect much more the forces of manipulation than natural influences. Stocks like Sugar Trust, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Tobacco Trust, and others whose records have been fruitful of sensationalism figure most conspicuously—out of a total of about 460,000 shares dealt in on the Stock Exchange yesterday the three stocks cited contributing over a third of all others put together.

In all of them is mystery, and the marking up or marking down of their quotations is apart from what outside observers can learn anything about. Significance is in this as to the character of elements now most of consequence in the market's course—elements that have to do chiefly with ultra speculation, putting aside investment considerations.

***

At the opening of yesterday's market weakness affected the whole list because London prices had declined on rumors of British disaster in South Africa, and later in the day rallies took place, having for their foundation London reports that it was the Boer army which had suffered reverse. An American stock market that can be made so much the mannikin of a foreign war is hardly one in which careful traders—whether for investment or speculation—will be likely to venture very largely. It is the gambler who is reckless that can find attraction in such a market.

***

Suggestion as to the extent to which the general public is interesting itself in the market at present showed yesterday in the reception given to the announcements of the absorption by the New York Central of the Lake Erie and Western Railroad and the taking over by New York Central and Pennsylvania interests of the Chesapeake and Ohio and Big Four properties, with the virtual certification of the fact that the Baltimore and Ohio may now be considered within the fold of the Pennsylvania-Vanderbilt combination. Not one of the stocks involved scored an advance. Lake Erie and Western was not traded in to the extent of a single share, either of its preferred or common stock. Surer testimony can hardly be given of the inclination shown by the public to accept the counsels of prudent interests which have been advising that, all things considered, January, 1900, is a good season for waiting and watching rather than for hurrying activity.

Announcement that the United States Supreme Court had handed down a decision legalizing railway tariffs which charge proportionately more for short than long hauls seemed to attract almost no attention. The market listl

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Trading was quiet in the market for outside securities yesterday, Amalgamated Copper, Electric Axle, and one or two other issues being the only stocks traded in to a greater extent than a few hundred shares. Early in the day there was some lack of buying orders, but stock offered was not pressed for sale and actual declines of importance showed in very few issues. In the afternoon, and especially during the last half hour of trading, much better demand appeared and some notable advances over the morning's best bids were recorded. In several prominent issues the closing was strong, and it was only here and there that the final figures showed material net losses. Substantial net gains were recorded in several issues, and the day, which began somewhat unpromisingly, ended with little reason for considering it a very unfavorable one, apart from the mere dullness of the market.

AMALGAMATED COPPER was prominent by reason of a sharp decline in the early trading, followed by an even more marked reaction, which advanced it 2 points and brought it to the end of the day with a net gain of half a point. It opened at 83¾, sold down to 83, and then up to 85, closing at 85 bid. Trading in the stock amounted probably to about 1,500 shares. The other copper stocks were not materially affected by the fluctuation in Amalgamated, and most of these issues closed at about Saturday's figures.

GENERAL CARRIAGE attracted considerable attention during the morning. It opened at 7¾, and between this figure and 7½ there was fairly active trading in the stock. Later in the day the demand lessened and sales were made as low as 7. It closed at 7 bid, showing a fractional net gain for the day. No further news was had in regard to the stock, and what the plans of the company are for the immediate future appear still to be much in doubt. Such an extraordinary course has been followed by this stock that the majority of persons seemed to feel it dangerous to trade in a stock which has presented so many uncertainties. Talk is heard suggesting developments in connection with the recent manipulation of the stock that may prove of a very unsatisfactory nature, but what the future course of the stock itself is likely to be is of course a question difficult to decide. Conservative brokers naturally dislike a stock which has followed a course such as that which marked the recent trading in General Carriage.

HAVANA COMMERCIAL ended the day with a substantial net gain in the common stock, which closed at 18 bid, against 17 bid on Saturday. Within the last few days good demand has developed for this issue, and buyers have found relatively little of the stock offered, resulting in the very substantial advance which the stock has enjoyed during the past ten days. No net change occurred in the preferred stock, which closed as on Saturday, at 59½ bid.

ELECTRIC AXLE was the most active of the electrical stocks, being traded in to the extent of something over 1,000 shares. A block of stock appeared in the market at the opening, and from the initial sale at 5¼ forced the price down to 4⅞, but it rallied again to 5¼, where the final sale was made. Selling of the stock was due apparently to the fact that the second installment on the stock becomes due next month, and that some holders find it inconvenient to pay. This sort of selling before the days of payment has showed in most stocks of this class and is looked for. Friends of the Electric Axle Company say that the demands of its business are so large that their present facilities are insufficient to meet them, and that hence the further payment soon to be made to the company will quickly find profitable employment. There has of late been some talk of a postponement of the second payment, due Feb. 15, but there seems to be no ground for these reports. As the company needs money to extend its business it is said to be very unlikely that collection of the second installment will be delayed.

RUBBER GOODS preferred advanced sharply at the close to 79¾, showing a net gain of three-quarters of a point. The common closed unchanged at 28 bid.

NEW AMSTERDAM GAS was not traded in, except in odd lots. Sales of about $30,000 of the bonds were made at 95.

Closing quotations were as follows:

ACTIVE SECURITIES.

Gas Companies.

	Bid.	Asked.
Bay State Gas	1¼	1½
New Amsterdam	22½	25
New Amsterdam pf	46	49
New Amsterdam 5s, with interest	95	95½

Industrials.

	Bid.	Asked.
American Agricultural Chemical	31	34
American Agricultural Chemical pf.	76	79
American Bicycle	15	20
American Bicycle pf	45	55
American Bicycle bonds	92½	93½
American Woolen Goods	23¾	24½
American Woolen Goods pf., ex. div.	78¼	79
American Writing Paper 5s	85	88
Distilling Company of America	7	7¼
Distilling Company of America pf.	26	27
Electric Axle Light & Power	5	5½
Electric Boat	24	27
Electric Boat pf	35	40
Havana Commercial	18
Havana Commercial pf., ex. div	59½	60½
International Pump	15	17
International Pump pf	63	65
National Gramophone, ex. div	59	63
National Salt	47	48
National Salt pf		80
National Tube	43½	45
National Tube pf	91	93
Otis Elevator	22	26
Otis Elevator pf	87	90
Royal Baking Powder pf		86
Rubber Goods Mfg	28	30
Rubber Goods Mfg. pf	79¾	80
Sloss-Sheffield	31	33
Sloss-Sheffield pf	69	72
Standard Oil of New Jersey	488	493
U. S. Pneumatic Horse Collar		¼

Miscellaneous.

	Bid.	Asked.
Amalgamated Copper, ex. div	85	85½
American Air Power	35	50
American Cotton	5	10
Arizona Lead	10	10½
Asphalt Company of America	12¾	13¼
British Columbia Copper	10¼	11¼
Chicago & Alton sub	103	105
Chicago & Alton 3s, (new)	83	96
Electric Vehicle	65
Electric Vehicle pf	85	95
*Electro-Pneumatic, assessment paid	1½	1¾
Flemington Coal & Coke	20
General Carriage	7	7¾
Illinois Transportation	2½	2¾
*Markeen—Copper	7
Mexican 5s	96	98
New York Transportation	11	11½
New England Transportation	6¾	7¼
Pittsburg, Bessemer & Lake Erie	20	22
St. Louis subs	127½	129
Retsof	24	27
Retsof bonds	79	84
Storage Power	13½	14½
Tennessee Copper	15	15¾
Trust Company of America	200	202
Virginia Coal, Iron & Coke	28	30
Whipsaw Copper	12¾	13½

*Selling dollars per share. Par value, $10.

LESS ACTIVE SECURITIES.

Street Railways.

	Bid.	Asked.
Broadway & Seventh Avenue	220	240
Broadway & Seventh Avenue 1st	104	105
Broadway & Seventh Avenue 2d	110	112
Broadway Surface 1st 5s	117	118
Broadway Surface 2d	104	105
Brooklyn City Railroad	235	237
Brooklyn, Bath & West End 5s	102	103
Central Park, N. & E. River	198
Central Park, N. & E. River 7s	106	108
Columbus Railway	20	24
Columbus Railway pf	80	86
Con. Traction of N. J	58	60
Con. Traction of N. J. 5s	106	108
Eighth Avenue Railroad	400	410
Kings County Elevated 4s, (new)	84	86
42d St., Man. & St. Nicholas Av	65	70
42d St., Man. & St. Nicholas Av. 1st	115	117
42d St., Man. & St. Nicholas Av. 2d	91	93
Nassau Electric 4s	90	94
Nassau Electric 5s	108	112
New Orleans Traction	29	30
New Orleans Traction pf	102	104
Ninth Avenue Railroad	190	205
North Jersey Street Railway	30¾	31
North Jersey Street Railway 4s	90	93
Orange & Passaic Valley bonds	103	104
Steinway Railway Co. 6 p. c. 1st	117	118
Second Avenue Railroad consols	115½	117
Sixth Avenue Railroad	205	210
Syracuse Rapid Transit	13	16
Syracuse Rapid Transit pf	25	35
Union Railway 1st 5s	115	117
Union Railway stock	190	200
United Traction, Providence	107	111
Worcester (Mass.) Traction	31
Worcester (Mass.) Traction pf	105	106½

Gas Companies.

	Bid.	Asked.
Buffalo (N. Y.) stock	6	8
Buffalo (N. Y.) 1st, with interest	72	75
Central Union 5s, guaranteed	103	109
Consolidated Gas of Newark		55
Consolidated Gas of Newark bonds		103
Consolidated Gas bonds of N. J	87½	89½
Consolidated Gas of N. J	21¾	23½
Consumers' Gas (Jersey City) bonds	102	105
Denver Gas	43	45
Denver Gas 5s	80	81
Essex & Hudson Gas	35	40
Fort Wayne Gas	38	45
Fort Wayne Gas 6s	60	64
Indianapolis Gas	100	105
Indianapolis Gas bonds	101	103
Lafayette Gas Co	40	45
Lafayette Gas Co. 1st 6s	60	65
Logansport & Wabash Valley Gas	38	43
Logansport & Wabash Valley Gas 6s	60	65
Mutual Gas of New York	300	305
Madison (Wis.) stock	81	83
New England Gas & Coke	22	24
New England Gas & Coke bonds	74½	75¼
N. Y. & E. R. Gas Co. 1st	108	112
N. Y. & E. R. Gas Co. con	106	109
N. Y. Suburban Gas Co. con	102½	103½
North Hudson L. H. & P. Co	55	56
North Hud. L. H. & P. Co. bonds	107	109
Ohio & Indiana	38	45
Ohio & Indiana 1st 6s	60	65

	Bid.	Asked.
St. Joseph, (Mo.)	40	46
St. Joseph (Mo.) 5s	96	98
St. Paul Gas stock	54	58
St. Paul Gas bonds	89	91
Standard Gas, New York	100	103
Standard Gas, New York, pf	125
Standard Gas rights	1⅛	1¾
Standard Gas 1st	115	117
Syracuse Gas stock	14	16
Syracuse Gas 1st 5 per cent. bonds	85	90
Western Gas	102	105
Western Gas 1st 6s, with interest	102	105

Ferry Companies.

	Bid.	Asked.
Brooklyn Ferry	28	30
Brooklyn Ferry 5s	90	93
Hoboken Ferry, (new)	65	68
Hoboken Ferry Con. 5s	93	94
Metropolitan Ferry 5s	108	110
Union Ferry	39	40
Union Ferry bonds	100½	101

Industrials.

	Bid.	Asked.
American Typefounders'	51	53
Anderson Tobacco Company	10	12
Barney & Smith	10	13½
Barney & Smith pf	90	95
Barney & Smith bonds	103	106
Consolidated Rubber Tire	7
Consolidated Rubber Tire pf	30	35
Cramps' Shipyard	80	83
General Chemical	59
General Chemical pf	97	100
Hudson River Telephone	116	119
Lorillard Company pf	100	112
Standard Coupler	40	43
Trenton Potteries	6	10
Trenton Potteries pf	45	55
Union Typewriter	24	28
Union Typewriter 1st pf	110	113
Union Typewriter 2d pf	120	122
Worthington Pump pf	103	106

Miscellaneous.

	Bid.	Asked.
American Bank Note	47	50
Central & South American Tel	110	112
Iron Steamboat		3
Iron Steamboat bonds	50	60
Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis	5	7
Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis pf	20	25

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—In to-day's stock market there was fairly heavy realizing in the Granger shares, and Sugar. The coppers also showed weakness, noticeably the Standard Oil group. A few Standard dividend shares like Quincy and Tamarack held their own fairly well. The market as a whole showed little that could be called strength, and became quite dull as the closing approached.

The sentiment in money circles continues to show improvement, and the tone of the market is manifestly much easier. Funds are in greater supply, and the banks are inclined to look for borrowers. Rates already are being shaded for special customers, with the chances good that there soon will be 5@6 covering all around. At the Clearing House 6 per cent. was still quoted on all loans, but the expectation is that this figure will be reduced before the end of the week. New York funds sold at 16 2-3 and 10 cents' discount.

Closing bid and asked:

Mining Stocks.

Adventure	6¼	7
Allouez	3	3½
Arcadian	19	19½
Arnold	6¼	7
Ash Bed		1
Atlantic	24	25
Baltic	18½	19
Bos. & Cr. Ck.	20
Bos. & Mont.	279	280
Butte & Bos.		51
Cal. & Hecla	750
Centennial	18	18½
Franklin	14½	15
Humboldt	2
Isle Royale	24½	25
Mohawk	16	16½
Old Colony	4½	5
Old Dominion	20	21
Osceola	72	74
Parrot	41½	42
Pioneer	2	2½
Quincy	143	148
Rhode Island	4½	5
Santa Fe	5½	6
Santa Ysabel	7½	8½
Shoe	30	30½
Tamarack	185	186
Utah Cons	37½	38¼
Washington	1¼	1½
White Knob	13	16
Winona	4½	5
Wolverine	40	40½

Railroad Stocks.

Bos. & Alb.	242	243
Bos. & Low.	241
Bos. & Me.	202	204
Bos. & Prov.		300
Bos. Elev.	96¾	98
Bos. Gas 5s.	80	84
Cent. Mass.		12½
Cent. Mass. pf.	60	85
Fitchburg pf.	121	122
N. Y. & N. E. 6s.	106¾	111
N. Y. & N. E. 7s.	114
West End	92½	93

Miscellaneous Stocks.

Am. Bell Tel.	334	340
Chi. Stk. Yds.	135½	136½
Dominion Coal	43	46
Dom. Coal pf.	115
Erie Tel.	106	106¼
Lamson Store		35
Mex. Tel.	3⅛	3½
N. Eng. Tel.	135
U. S. Oil		24½
West. Elec.	41	41¾
West. El. pf.	41	63

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Linseed preferred opened at 54, and, after dropping to 53⅛, advanced to 54⅜ at the close. Biscuit common sold up to 36, after opening at 35¼; the close was at 35¾. The preferred lost a point in closing at 90. Metropolitan opened at 74½, dropped the fraction, and closed at 75¼. Match's close at 119 represented the loss of a point for the day. South Side Elevated dropped from par at the start to 99, but regained the point at the wind-up.

	High.	Low.	Close.
200..American Linseed	13	12⅞	13
1,280..American Linseed pf	54¾	53½	54¾
30..American Radiator pf	105	104	105
50..American Strawboard	31	31	31
110..American Tin Plate	32½	31½	32½
81..Chicago Edison	157	157	157
96..Chicago Telephone	210	210	210
50..Chic. Union Trac. pf	76½	76½	76½
375..Diamond Match	120	119	119
115..Lake St. El	15½	15½	15½
25..Metropolitan Elevated	25	25	25
285..Metropolitan El. pf	75½	74	75¼
963..National Biscuit	36	35¼	35⅞
75..National Biscuit pf	91½	90	90
500..National Carbon	18	18	18
10..National Steel pf	92¾	92¾	92¾
191..South Side Elevated	100	99	100
66..West Chicago	110½	110	110

BONDS.

	High.	Low.	Close.
$21,000..Met. El. gold 4s	94	94	94

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—There was little in the stock market to-day that calls for special mention. Trading was quiet, with prices steady to firm. Changes in almost every case were small fractions, generally, however, in the way of improvement. United Gas was a weak feature, receding from 152 to 150. Electric Storage dropped from 70 to 77½; New York is believed to have taken all the stock offered. The declines in these stocks were exceptional, and resulted wholly from orders to sell at the market.

The close was firm at these bid and asked prices:

Am. Ry. Co.	5⅛	5⅜
Am. Asphalt	12¾	13
Cam. Steel	21½	22
Choctaw	34¾	35
Diamond	5⅝	5⅞
Dauv. Bess.	3⅛	3¼
El. Co. of A.	13	13½
Lehigh Val.	24¾	25
Marsden	11	11¼
Phila. Trac.	93¾	96
Phila. Elec.	5⅞	6
Union Trac.	39	39¼
United Gas	150	151
Welsbach Lt.	42	45
W. N.Y. & P.	5½	5¾

Gas and Power Companies.

The relations of the Consolidated Gas Company to the Astoria Light, Heat, and Power and the New York Gas and Electric Light, Heat and Power Company were made plain yesterday at elections for directors in the two companies last named. The board chosen for the Astoria consisted of Horace W. Fuller, Lewis B. Gawtry, Augustus R. Moen, Francis R. Foraker, and T. Wilbur Spear. The election was held in the office of Foot, Howard, Winthrop & Stinson in the Mutual Life Building.

The election for the Gas and Electric Power Company was held at 100 Broadway. The Directors are Anthony N. Brady, his son M. K. Brady, who represents Thomas F. Ryan; T. E. Murray, who represents W. C. Whitney; G. W. Dwight, H. E. Gawtry, W. G. Bogert, and R. G. Valentine. H. E. Gawtry is President and L. B. Gawtry Assistant Secretary of the Consolidated Gas Company.

To Print Additional Small Bills.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—United States Treasurer Roberts said to-day that the demand for small notes still continues beyond all precedent and has resulted in reducing the supply on hand to a point where an increase was absolutely necessary. To meet this increased demand the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, beginning to-day, will print $300,000 additional in new fives and tens, and this increase will be kept up as long as the needs of the country require it.

Bond Purchases Were $10,300,650.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—A statement prepared at the Treasury Department shows that the bonds purchased under the offer of the Secretary, of Nov. 15, 1899, amounted to $10,300,650, as follows: Four per cent. consols of 1907, coupons, $1,022,700; registered, $13,287,650. Five per cent. loan of 1904, coupons, $991,200; registered, $3,999,100. The interest anticipated amounted to $97,715, and the premium paid $2,373,502, making a total expenditure of $21,771,867.

FINANCIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Dividends are announced by the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey and the Pressed Steel Car Company.

The London copartnership hitherto existing under the name of Morton, Chaplin & Co. expired by limitation on Dec. 31 last, and business will be carried on at the same address, 6 Princes Street, E. C., London, by Chaplin, Milne, Grenfell & Co., Limited, with a registered capital of £350,000. The first managing Directors of the new company will be Ernest Chaplin and George Grinnell-Milne, the London partners of Morton, Chaplin & Co., and Arthur Morton Grenfell, son of the late Pascoe Dupre Grenfell.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

Complete Transactions in Stocks—Monday, Jan. 8, 1900.

	Closing Bid.	Closing Asked.	Sales.		First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Net Change.
	113	115	35	Adams Express	111	112	111	112
	13⅜	13¾	362	Am. Car & Found.	12½	13½	12½	13½	+ ½
	61	62½	445	Am. Car & Found. pf.	62½	62½	62½	62½	+ ½
	34½	35½	285	American Ice	35	35	35	35	- ½
	38⅜	34	525	American Cotton Oil	34	34	33¾	33¾	- ¼
	89		125	Am. Cotton Oil pf	90	90	90	90	-2
	12¾	13	820	American Linseed	13	13	13	13
	54½	54¾	1,076	Am. Linseed pf	54⅝	54⅝	53½	54⅝	- ⅛
	142	148	20	American Express	145	145	145	145
	7⅛	8	100	American Malting Co.	7⅝	7⅝	7¼	7¼
	36⅜	36⅝	1,425	Am. Smelt. & Ref.	36	36¼	35½	36¼	- ⅛
	87⅝	88½	937	Am. Smelt. & Ref. pf.	87½	87⅝	87	87⅛	- ⅛
	42	42½	300	American Steel Hoop	42½	42½	42	42	-1
	47⅞	48	6,200	American Steel & Wire	46½	48	45⅝	47¾	+ ⅝
	90¼	91¼	600	Am. Steel & Wire pf	90⅞	91	90¼	90¼	+ ¼
	131½	131⅝	69,885	Am. Sugar Ref. Co	129	131⅝	128½	131⅝	+1
	31½	31⅞	110	American Tin Plate		31½	31½	31½	- ⅝
	80	83	100	American Tin Plate pf	81	81	81	81	-2
	101⅜	101⅞	26,410	American Tobacco	100	101⅞	98⅜	101⅞	-1
	39¼	39½	885	Anaconda Copper	38	39¼	38	39¼	+ ¼
	18⅝	19⅛	2,212	At., T. & S. F.	18⅝	19	18⅝	19	- ⅛
	60	60½	22,528	At., T. & S. F. pf.	60	60½	60⅜	60⅜	- ⅛
	55⅛	56¼	4,180	Baltimore & Ohio	55⅛	56¼	55¼	56¼	+ ⅛
	73⅝	74¼	3,925	Baltimore & Ohio pf	73⅝	74¼	73½	74¼
	71	74	25,145	Brooklyn R. T., new	71	74	71	73⅝	+1⅝
			100	Brook. R. T., vot'g t.c.	71⅜	71⅜	71⅜	71⅜
			950	Brunswick City	11½	12⅛	11½	12⅛	- ⅛
			310	Canada Southern	48½	49	48¼	49	- ½
	30	30¼	12,350	Chesapeake & Ohio	30	30¼	29¾	30¼	- ⅛
	121⅜	121⅝	19,945	Chi., Bur. & Quincy	121¼	121⅝	120⅝	121⅜	- ⅛
	12⅜	12⅝	1,102	Chicago Great West	12¼	12⅝	12¼	12⅜	- ⅛
	72½	73½	200	Chi. Ind. & Louis. pf. A	73¼	74	73½	74	- ⅛
	15	15½	100	Chi., Ind. & Louis.	15	15	15	15	- ⅛
	117	117¼	13,235	Chi., Mil. & St. Paul	116⅜	117½	116½	117½	- ⅛
	161½	162½	200	Chicago & Northw.	162	162	160	160	-4
	106⅛	106¼	3,195	Chi., R. I. & Pac.	105¼	106¼	105¼	106⅜	- ⅛
	63½	63⅝	7,015	C., C., C. & St. L.	63	63⅞	62½	63¼	- ⅛
	109	110	310	C., C., C. & St. L. pf.	108	108	108	108	-1½
	14½	15	200	Cleve., Lor. & W.	15	15	15	15	+4
	1⅜	2	160	Col. Coal & Iron Dev.		1½	1½	1½	- ⅛
	41⅞	42	3,310	Colorado Fuel & Iron.	40½	42	40½	42	- ¾
	122	128	50	Col. Fuel Iron pf.	122	122	122	122
	5½	5⅝	625	Colorado Southern	5½	5½	5½	5⅝
	39	40	520	Col. Southern 1st pf	40	40	39	39	-2
	15½	16½	200	Col. & H. C. & I.	15	16	15	16	-1
	191	193½	387	Consolidated Gas	192¼	193	192½	193	-1
	33	33¾	5,045	Continental Tobacco	31½	33¼	31½	33¼
	85⅝	88	335	Continental Tobac. pf.	85½	85¾	85½	85¾	- ¼
	113	114	1,600	Delaware & Hudson	113	114	113	114	- ½
	175½	178	260	Del., Lack. & West.	176	176	176	176	- ½
	17¼	17¾	725	Denver & R. G.	17	17¼	17	17¼	- ⅛
	67	68	100	Denver & R. G. pf.	67½	67½	67½	67½	-1¼
	5½	6	20	Dul. S. & At.	6¼	6½	6¼	6¼
	32	32⅜	700	Erie 1st pf	31½	32¼	31¾	32¼	- ⅛
	15	17	100	Erie 2d pf	16	16	16	16	- ⅜
	106½		530	Erie Tel. & Tel.	106¾	107¼	106¾	107	- ⅜
	41	41¾	200	Evans. & T. H.	41	41	41	41	+ ⅛
	52⅛	52⅝	14,830	Federal Steel	51½	52¼	51	52	- ⅛
	72¾	73	2,134	Federal Steel pf.	73	73¼	72½	72¾	-1⅛
	122	122½	757	General Electric	121	122	120¾	122
	49¼	50	525	Glucose Sugar Ref.	49¼	49¾	49	49¾	-1⅛
	168	169	310	Great Northern pf.	169½	169¾	168½	168½	-2½
	30½	31¾	100	Hocking Valley	32	32	32	32	- ¼
	59½	60	605	Hocking Valley pf.	59⅝	58⅞	58	59	- ⅛
	111¼	111¾	740	Illinois Central	111½	111½	111½	111½	- ⅛
	23¾	24	785	International Paper	23⅝	24	23⅝	23⅞	+ ⅛
	67⅛	67½	125	International Paper pf.	67½	67¾	67⅜	67⅜	- ⅛
	49	50	210	Iowa Central pf.	50	50	50	50
	78¾	79	200	Laclede Gas	79	79	79	79	- ¾
	23	24	50	Lake Erie & Western.	22½	22½	22½	22½
	46	50	30	Long Island	50	50	50	50
	78¼	78⅝	8,797	Louisville & Nashville	77½	78⅜	77¼	78½	- ⅛
	94¼	94⅝	7,680	Manhattan Con	94	94½	93¼	94¼	- ⅝
	23	25½	100	Met. W. S. El. Chi.	24⅜	24¾	24¾	24¾	- ⅛
	174⅜	175¼	3,670	Met. Street Railway	173	175¼	172½	175¼	- ⅛
	108¾	111¾	950	Mexican Central	10¼	11½	10⅜	10⅝	- ⅞
	3¾	4¼	100	Mexican National ctfs.	3¾	3¾	3¾	3¾
	9½	10¼	100	Mo., Kan. & Texas.	10	10	10	10
	32	32½	500	Mo., Kan. & Texas pf.	32	32½	31¾	32½
	39½	40⅛	12,400	Missouri Pacific	39½	40⅛	39¼	40⅛	- ⅝
	103½	106	100	National Lead Co. pf.	104½	105	103⅝	105
	41	42	790	National Steel	41	42¼	41	41½
	92	92½	600	National Steel pf.	92½	92½	92½	92½	+ ¼
	125	130	110	New York Air Brake	127	127	127	127	+2
	135¼	136	17,862	New York Central	135	135½	134	135½	- ⅛
	21½	21½	2,600	N. Y., Ont. & West	21½	21¾	21¼	21½	- ⅛
	23½	23⅝	5,025	Norfolk & Western	23	23⅝	22¾	23⅛	- ⅛
	67⅞	68	2,220	Norfolk & West. pf.	67	68	67	67⅝	- ⅛
	14⅞	14⅝	110	North American	14⅞	14⅞	14⅞	14⅞	+ ⅛
	51½	52½	8,101	Northern Pacific	51½	52½	51⅜	52⅛	- ⅛
	72⅞	73	2,370	Northern Pacific pf.	73	73	72½	72⅝	- ¼
	50	53	10	Pac fic Coast	52	52	52	52
	63	66	22	Pacific Coast 2d pf.	65½	65½	65½	65½
	43⅞	44	3,570	Pacific Mail	43½	44¼	43½	44	- ⅛
	131	131¼	6,783	Pennsylvania R. R.	131	131¾	130¼	131	- ½
		2⅝	4,475	Penn. R. R., rights	2⅝	2⅝	2⅝	2⅝	- ¼
	103⅞	104	5,765	People's Gas, Chicago	103⅜	104	102⅝	103⅞	- ⅛
	2¾	3	1,820	Peo., Dec. & Evans.	2¾	3	2¾	2⅞	+ ⅛
	78¾	79	200	P., C., C. & St. L.	78⅜	78⅜	78⅜	78⅜	+ ⅛
	102	98	200	P., C., C. & St. L. pf.	94	94	93	93	+ ⅜
	14	16	150	Pitts. & West. pf. t. r.	14½	14½	14½	14½
	57	57½	710	Pressed Steel Car	57	57⅝	57	57½	- ½
	187	189	443	Pullman Pal. Car Co.	187⅜	187½	187½	187½	- ½
	17½	18	55	Reading	18¼	18¼	17½	17½	- ⅛
	51⅜	51¾	6,510	Reading 1st pf	50¾	51⅜	50¾	51⅜	- ⅛
	26½	27	1,200	Reading 2d pf	27	27	26½	27	- ½
	21½	22	1,270	Republic Iron & Steel	21	22	20½	21⅜	- ⅛
	65¼	67	390	Rep. Iron & Steel pf.	65¼	65¼	65¼	65¼	-1⅝
	68	72	20	St. L. & S. F. 1st pf.	70	70	70	70
	32	32½	200	St. L. & S. F. 2d pf.	32¼	32¼	32¼	32¼	- ⅛
	24	24½	150	St. L. Southw. pf.	24¼	24¼	24¼	24¼	- ¾
	36¾	36¾	29,860	Southern Pacific	36	36⅞	35½	36⅞
	11	11⅜	2,280	Southern Railway	11¼	11⅜	11	11⅜	- ⅛
	52¼	52½	4,630	Southern Railway pf.	52	52½	51¾	52½	- ⅛
	9	9½	200	Standard R. & T.	9¼	9¼	9¼	9¼	- ⅛
	84½	84⅝	2,800	Tenn. Coal & Iron	82¾	84½	82	84½	+ ¼
	14½	15	100	Texas Pacific	14⅝	14⅝	14⅝	14⅝
	130½	132	965	Third Avenue	132½	132½	131	131	-3
	23	24	480	Union Bag & Paper	23¾	23⅞	24	24	- ¾
	73¼	74	270	Union Bag & Paper pf.	73⅜	73⅜	73⅜	73⅜	-1½
	46	46⅛	24,170	Union Pacific	45⅝	46⅜	45⅝	46⅛	- ⅛
	73⅞	74	7,495	Union Pacific

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

East Eighty-third Street Dwellings Sold—Other Dealings—The Simpson Tract Transferred.

Maclay & Dayles have sold for the estate of Richard Arnold to Mrs. Edith Edgar McCagg the three four-story stone-front dwellings 23, 25, and 27 East Eighty-third Street, on a plot 56 by 69.2.

Joseph A. Farley has sold, for about $42,500, the five-story American basement dwelling 318 West One Hundred and Eighth Street, 22 by 60 by 100, completing the sale of a row of seven houses.

Greene & Taylor have sold the four-story brownstone-front dwelling 56 West Fifty-sixth Street, 16.8 by 100.

The Trustees of the Fourteenth Street Presbyterian Church have sold 126 and 128 Forsyth Street, 50.5 by 100.6.

The agreement between the Union Club and the Barney-Sheldon syndicate covers, besides the 150-foot front on Fifty-first Street, an easement for light and air in a strip 12 by 100.5 along the easterly line of the club's purchase.

What is known as the Simpson tract, at the southerly corner of Westchester Avenue and the Southern Boulevard, was transferred yesterday by William Simpson, Jr., and others, as executors, to the Real Estate Corporation of New York. The new owners of the property also recorded a five-year mortgage on it for $310,000.

Results at Auction.

Yesterday's offerings in the Trinity Building Salesroom resulted as follows:

By Bryan L. Kennelly & Co.

61 West Ninety-first Street, 20 by 100.8, three-story stone-front dwelling; foreclosure sale, to Edward Mehling $18,450

By McVicker & Co.

85 Broome Street and 13 and 19 Goerck Street, being the southwest corner of those streets, 25.2 by 100, five-story brick tenement, with stores; foreclosure sale, to the plaintiff, Charles Lanier, as trustee 39,000

By Herbert A. Sherman.

257 West End Avenue, 17x82.10, five-story brick dwelling; foreclosure sale, to the plaintiffs, Calvin A. Stevens and another, as executors 18,000

By Peter F. Meyer & Co.

384 Audubon Avenue, 18 by 60, two-story brick dwelling; foreclosure sale, to the plaintiff, Sarah Friedlander 5,500

Jennings Street, north side, the block front between Longfellow and Boone Avenues, being 200 feet on Jennings Street, 100.2 on Longfellow Avenue, and 162.5 on Boone Avenue, vacant; foreclosure sale, to the plaintiff, Charlotte Blumenthal.. 7,500

To-day's Auction Sales.

The following sales at auction are down for to-day at 111 Broadway:

By Philip A. Smyth, foreclosure sale, Sylvester L. H. Ward, referee, 619 West One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, north side, 270 feet west of the Boulevard, 15 by 99.11, three-story stone-front dwelling. Due on judgment, $9,200.

By Herbert A. Sherman, partition sale, William J. A. Mekim, referee, 832, 833, and 834 Washington Street and 32 and 34 Little West Twelfth Street, being the southeast corner of those streets, 69.2 on Washington Street by 81.10 on Little West Twelfth Street by 32.11 by 60.2, leasehold, two-story brick buildings.

By Richard V. Harnett & Co., foreclosure sale, Maurice Leyne, referee, 46 to 52 West One Hundred and Seventeenth Street, south side, 225 feet east of Lenox Avenue, 100 by 100.11, four five-story brick flats. Due on judgment, $4,136; subject to other mortgages for $67,500.

By Richard V. Harnett & Co., foreclosure sale, W. Usher Parsons, referee, 939 and 941 Kelly Street, north side, 260 feet east of Robbins Avenue, 50 by 143.7 by 58 by 115.1, two four-story brick flats. Due on judgment, $3,400; subject to other mortgages for $20,400.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Sidney J. Cowen, referee, 348 East Sixty-sixth Street, south side, 133.4 feet west of First Avenue, 16.8 by 100.5, three-story brick dwelling. Due on judgment, $6,010.

THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

The only plans filed yesterday were for the following alterations:

Spring Street, southeast corner of Wooster Street, to a six-story brick telephone exchange and factory; New York Telephone Company, owner; C. L. W. Eidlitz, architect; cost, $10,000.

No. 71 Broadway, to a twenty-one-story office building; C. B. Potter Trust, premises, owner; F. H. Kimball, architect; cost, $100.

No. 13 West Thirty-sixth Street, to a four-story brick clubhouse; Whist Club of New York, owner; Stein, Cohen & Roth, architects; cost, $10,000.

No. 44 Greenwich Street, to a four-story brick dwelling and store; Wilhelmina Lester, premises, owner; M. V. B. Ferdon, architect; cost, $1,000.

Recorded Real Estate Transfers.

Monday, Jan. 8.

AUDUBON AV, w s, 35.10 ft n of 184th St, 18x60; Delano C. Calvin, referee, to Sarah Friedlander $5,500
AVENUE A, 103 and 105, 45.4x100; Francis M. Samuels to Cecelia Bauman and others 1
AVENUE A, e s, 40 ft s of 11th St, 20x75.6; Frederick W. Kister to Philipp Lautenschlager 7,800
AVENUE A, e s, 83.9 ft n of 58th St, 16.8 x75x16.8x70; Max Schnitzer to Louis S. Schnitzer 1
BROADWAY, 3,682, e s, 16x78; Ward Wheeler to Walter C. Bellows 13,500
BROOME ST, 497, s s, 20.10x64.8; John Daly, executor, to Morris Franklin and another 9,550
BROOME ST, 497, s s, 20.10x64.8; John Daly, executor, to Morris Franklin and another 9,550
GRAND BOULEVARD, or Concourse, s e corner of Fordham, or High Bridge, Road, new line, runs s w 128.8 to St. James, or 100th, St, x n 88.5 to Crest Av, new line, x n e 150.7x s e 172.6, s w 21x s 150.2 to Boulevard x s w 257.3 to beginning; John B. Haskin to Mary L. Haskin 1
GREEN AV, s s, 125 ft w of Mapes Av, 50 x100; Seward Baker to Mary H. Gulvin.. 3,000
LEXINGTON AV, n w corner of 121st St, 17.5x61.9; Patrick J. Ryan to Adolph Jacobs 15,250
MACDOUGAL ST, 108, e s, 25x100; Margaret Brown to Angelo Murzanti and another 29,500
MANHATTAN AV, w s, 52.11 ft n of 121st St, 16x90; Mary A. Parmlee to Sarah C. Mitchell and another 1
MERCER ST, 93, w s; Ellen Cripen to Abraham Boehm and another 1
MOTT, e s, 75 ft n of 144th St, 25x100; James C. De La Mare, referee, to Ellen Bannister, (re-recorded) 2,500
NORWOOD AV, s s, 363.5 ft w of 205th St, 75x112.6; Charles Loeber to Mary E. Anderson 2,400
OGDEN AV, n e, 100 ft n of 164th St, 75x 132.8x75.2x127.2; Ogden Av, e s, 225 ft n of 164th St, 25x138.3x25x136.5; Emeline A. Kemp to Joseph H. Jones 100
OGDEN AV, e s, 175 ft n of 164th St, 50x 136.5x50.1x132.5; Emeline A. Kemp, trustee, to Joseph H. Jones. A. 6,067
PARK AV, w s, 74.10 ft n of 133d St. —x86 x25x86; Bernard Smyth to Ambrose M. Lock Av 18,000
PARK AV, n, 1,986, —x86x25x86; Addison Brown to Bernard Smyth, quit claim, (correction of deed) 1
PARK AV WEST, w s, 299.6 ft s of 182d St, 18x94.2x18x93.6; Charles A. Bernhardt to the Northern Improvement Company 1
PARK AV WEST, w s, 317.6 ft s of 182d St, 19x94.11x19x94; Charles A. Bernhardt to the Northern Improvement Company 1
PARK AV, w s, 63.5 ft s of 125th St, 18.9 x90; Mira A. Bowie to Clemens Henger.. 1
PEARL ST, n e corner of Elm St, 100x100; Maria Jones, trustee, to Maria B. Spellicy, 1-16 part 1
PEARL ST, n e corner of Elm St, 100x100; Maria Jones, trustee, to Anna J. H. Jobet, 1-16 part 1
PEARL ST, n e corner of Elm St, 100x100; Maria Jones, trustee; to Robert Jones, 1-16 part 1
PEARL ST, n e corner of Elm St, 100x100; Maria Jones, trustee, to Frederick M. Jones, 1-16 part 1
PEARL ST, n e corner of Elm St, 100x100; Maria Jones, trustee to Anna J. H. Jobet, 1-16 part 1
RIVINGTON ST, s s, 67.1 ft e of Eldridge St, 22.1x80; Louis Haims to Annie Chasis 20,000
SEDGWICK AV, w s, at w s of proposed Cedar Av, runs n e along Cedar Av, 25x w —x s —x—; Leah J. Fenno to Charles F. Kalle 1
WASHINGTON AV, 2,084, e s, 24.6x100.1 x22.5x100; Edwin A. Jones, referee, to Daniel E. Sickles, executor and trustee.. 5,000
WASHINGTON SQUARE SOUTH, 43, s s, 25x100; James Morrison and another to Charles S. Bloomfield 25,000
WEST BROADWAY, 456, 25x75; Francis C. Cantine, referee, to Amos F. Eno..... 6,800
WESTCHESTER AV, s corner of Southern Boulevard, runs s e 1,206.11x s w 1,358 to Intervale Av x n w 751.7 to Westchester Av x n e 938.5x s e 760.9x n e 283.7x n w 941.7 to Westchester Av x n e 286.10; Westchester Av, s corner of Intervale Av, runs s e 417.5x n w 353 to Westchester Av x n e 161.2, except 16 lots taken for schoolhouse; William Simpson, Jr., and others, executors, &c., to the Real Estate Corporation of New York City 100
2D AV, s e corner of 50th St, 21x80; Emanuel Glauber and another to Benjamin Loewenstein 33,000
3D AV, n e corner of 171st St, 25x100.1; Ernst-Marx-Nathan Company to John C. Rodgers 100
3D AV, n w corner of 81st St, 51.10x83.1x 51.10x83.5; Lorenz F. J. Weiher, Jr., to Emma Fish 1
3D AV, 1,343, e s, 18.8x75; 3d Av, 1,345 e s, 19.9x75; David McClure and another, trustees, to August J. Von Gauther 27,500
3D AV, 1,343, e s, 18.6x75; 3d Av, 1,345, e s, 19.9x75; August Von Gauther to Louis Harris 35,000
5TH AV, w s, 49.11 ft n of 133d St, 50x 110; Ward Cunningham to Thomas J. Jenkins 1
5TH AV, w s, 49.11 ft n of 141st St, 50x 100; Johanne F. Fontham to William Cuming, Jr. 100
5TH AV, s w corner of 143d St, 24.5x100; Thomas McManus to Robert Ferguson.. 23,250
8TH AV, s w corner of 142d St, 49.11x100; Charles Cashman to William Cumming, Jr 1
10TH ST, n s, 194 ft w of Avenue A, 20x 94.10; Minnie Brereton and others to John Tritsch and wife 80,000
11TH AV, w s, 50 ft n of 179th St, 25x 100; also 180 ft s s, 100 ft w of Wadsworth Av, 25x100; Frieda Hart to Marianne Rosenweig 1
11TH ST, 59 West, 24x103.3; Albert Kopp to Christiane Kopp 1
19TH ST, n s, 437.10 ft w of 6th Av, 20.5x 92; Jefferson M. Levy to Charles W. Fisher 1
22D ST, 248 East, 18x74.9; Gerardo Domi to Patrick Hopkins 1
32D ST, 29 West, 25x98.9; Charles A. Smith and another to American Realty Company 68,500
39TH ST, 239 East, 19.1x98.9; Equitable Life Assurance Society to Isabella Unger 1
78TH ST, s s, 250 ft w of 3d Av, 18.9x 102.2; Elias Kempner to Gustavus A. Robers 13,500
79TH ST, s s, 94 ft w of Avenue A, 50x 102.2; Adam Moran to Denis Mahoney.. 1
83D ST, s s, 104 ft w of Boulevard, 55.8x 102.2; Herbert Dongan and another to Herbert Dongan 1
87TH ST, 20 West, 20x100.8; Mary A. McNamee to Fannie Morgenthau 1
96TH ST, 110 and 112 West, 50x100.8; Mitchell A. C. Levy to American Realty Company 100
103D ST, 140 West, 27x105x27x105.1; 103d St, 144 West, 27x105.3x27x105.4; Warren E. Dennis to James G. Johnson 1
109TH ST, s s, 225 ft e of 2d Av, 32x100x irregular; Louisa Lomonte to Alfonso Lomonte 3,000
113TH ST, 273 West; John Acker to Nicholas J. Feigert and wife 100
114TH ST, n s, 495 ft w of 5th Av, 25x 100.11; Charlotte Lortscher and another to Edward H. Sanders 1
114TH ST, 174 and 176, s s, 36x100.11; David J. Wilkins and another, executors, to David J. Wilkins and others.... 12,000
122D ST, s s, 155 ft e of 3d Av, 33.4x100.11; George W. Bretell to Lilian E. Bates.. 100
123D ST, 429 East, 16.6x100.11; Helene Grabau to Christian Knoedler 1
126TH ST, s s, 351.8 ft e of Lenox Av, 16.8x99.11; David E. Arrowsmith, Jr., to Frank D. Croft 1
127TH ST, n s, 240 ft w of 7th Av, 14x 99.11; William H. Corbett, referee, to William D. Dubois 8,650
127TH ST, 136 West, 15.6x99.11; the Columbus Trust Company, trustee, to Charles E. Berrien, Jr. 10,250
131ST ST, s s, 175 ft e of 8th Av, 15x 99.11; Byron Traver, referee, to Florence M. Bagnell 10,000
146TH ST, s s, 125 ft e of Amsterdam Av, 50x99.11; William H. Barnes to John P. Leo 1
146TH ST, n s, 64.10 ft e of Convent Av, 28.7x99.11; John P. Leo to William H. Barnes 100
167TH ST, s s, 119.2 ft e of Stebbins Av, 25x146.11; Joseph Donovan to Emma L. Patterson 1

Recorded Leases.

CALLAHAN, John, to Henry P. Ghiold; 138 Park Row, 3 years $1,080
LORIDDEN, Henry, to Sophie Londen; 348 East 161st St, 5 years $600. 720
RYAN, Michael, to Jacob Hertz; 347 Bowery, corner of 3d St, 10 years 4,250
SHEPHERD, George, to John McDonald; 141 Lincoln Av, 5 years $600. 840
TEICHMAN, Edward B., and another to Henry Berg and another; Wooster St, s w corner of 3d St, 75x71, 2 years 2,000
WEISBECKER, Charles, to Frederick Bay; 149 East 125th St, 10 years $1,700 1,800

Recorded Mortgages.

ALDHOUS, Frederick, to John Batton; 77 East 104th St, demand $1,500
AXELROD, Rachel, to Silas A. Allen; 93d St, s s, 137.6 ft w of West End Av, ¼ year 5,800
BEKRIEN, Charles E., Jr., to Metropolitan Trust Company, trustee; 180 West 127th St, 3 years 5,500
BELLOWS, Walter C., to Ward Wheeler; 3,082 Broadway, 1 year 2,000
BIESER, Wendel, to the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank; 186 West 102d St, 1 year 5,000
BEISER, William, to Conrad Stein; 867 Amsterdam Av, saloon lease, demand.... 2,000
BIMBERG, Bernard, to the Armstrong & Bolton Company; 85th St, s s, 100 ft e of Park Av, secures contract 320
BOEHM, Abraham, and another to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; 93 Mercer St, 1 year 25,000
BOWMAN, Julius, to Mutual Life Insurance Company; 306 West 41st St, 5 years. 11,500
BREEN, Mary C. and Matthew P., to William A. Boland; Lots 23, 25, 41, 42, 43, and 44, map of Wardsville, West Farms, secures note 1,500
BRERETON, Joseph, to Minnie Brereton; 269 East 10th St, 10 years 22,000
CHASIS, Annie, to Louis Haims; Rivington St., s s, 67.1 ft e of Eldridge St, installments 6,000
CHENOWETH, Catherine R. and Alexander C., to Jonas V. Spero; 41 East 59th St, 1 year 4,000
CONWAY, Esther L., to Charles Caldwell; 321 East 15th St, ½ year 150
CORDLER, Anne, to Thomas R. A. and William H. Hall; Willis Av, w s, 50 ft n of 143d St, ½ year 20,000
CUMMING, William, Jr., to Charles Cashman; 8th Av, s w corner of 142d St, 2 years 30,000
CUMING, William, Jr., to Johanne F. Fontham; 8th Av, w s, 49.11 ft n of 141st St, 1 year 6,000
DAVIS, John, and wife to Noel Davis and another, executors, &c.; 28 and 42 West 91st St, demand 2,000
EICKWORT, Louis, to Jean V. Feuchere; Hughes Av, w s, 96.4 ft s of Oak Tree Place, 3 years 2,500
EICKWORT, Louis, to Smith Williamson; Hughes Av, w s, 129.7 ft s of Oak Tree Place, 3 years 2,500
EICKWORT, Louis, to August Krefft; Hughes Av, w s, 113 ft s of Oak Tree Place, 3 years 2,500
FEHN, Henry, to Henry Frey; 8 East 121st St, 5 years $600. 8,500
FISH, Emma, to Lorenz F. J. Weiher, Jr.; 3d Av, n w corner of 81st St, 1 year. 7,000
FRANKLIN, Morris, and another to Augustus F. Holly, trustee; 497 Broome St, 5 years 8,882
GAREISS, Augustus, Jr., to Harlem Savings Bank; Union Av, n e corner of Dawson St, 1 year 16,000
GAREISS, Augustus, Jr., to Augustus Gareiss, Sr.; Union Av, n e corner of Dawson St, 3 years 12,000
GULVIN, Mary H. and Martin H., to Seward Baker; Green Av, s s, 125 ft w of Mapes Av, installments 600
GULVIN, Mary H. and Martin H., to Seward Baker; Green Av, s s, 125 ft w of Mapes Av, 3 years 1,400
HAMBLEN, Joseph P., and wife to Richard Webber; 34th St, s s, 60 ft w of 7th Av, also out-of-town property, installments 30,000
HANKEN, Luder, to Joseph Stickney; Prospect Av, w s, 94 ft n of 175th St, 3 years 4,000
HANO, Philip, to Robert D. Winthrop and others, executors, &c.; Greenwich St, s s, 62.6 ft n of 12th St, 5 years.. 25,000
HARPER, Julia A., to Clarence W. Hillyer, executor, &c.; 84 Catharine St, 3 years 13,000
HASSINGER, John D., to John C. Handt; Brook Av, widened, w s, 49.11 ft s of 146th St, 1 year 2,500
HENGER, Clemens, to Title Guarantee and Trust Company; 1,810 Park Av, 3 years 6,000
HENRY, Nicolas, to Cornelius H. Van Ness; 60th St, s s, 100 ft e of 9th Av, 5 years 28,000
HENRY, Adrian L., to Cornelius H. Van Ness; 60th St, n s, 150 ft e of 9th Av, 5 years 25,000
HINRICHS, Frederic W., to Equitable Life Assurance Society; 134th St, n s, 315 ft w of Park Av, 5 years 8,500
HOEFLER, Hugo F., to Daniel E. Slattery; Amsterdam Av, s e corner of 118th St, 1 year 150,000
IMMEL, John, and wife to Harry S. Houpt; Washington Av, w s, 102.8 ft s of 160th St, demand 7,500
ISRAELSON, Jacob, to Harlem Savings Bank; 106 West 134th St, 1 year 18,000
ISRAELSON, Jacob, to Harlem Savings Bank; 108 West 134th St, 1 year 18,000
JONES, Joseph H., to Emeline A. Kemp, trustee; Ogden Av, e s, 175 ft n of 164th St; extends to Nelson Av, 3 years 6,583
JONES, Joseph H., to Emeline A. Kemp, individually; Ogden Av, e s, 100 ft n of 164th St, 75x132.9 to w s of Nelson Av; also Ogden Av, e s, 225 ft n of 164th St, extends to Nelson Av, 3 years 13,167
KAISER, Godfrey, and wife to Charlotte Plock; Lots 639 to 642, map of Laconia Park, 3 years 3,000
KNOEDLER, Christian, to Helene Grabau; 429 East 123d St, 2-3 years 450
KOPP, Christiane, to Albert Kopp; 59 West 11th St, 1 year 15,000
KRAKOWER, Gerson, to Herman Mandelbaum; 317 East 74th St, 5 years 14,000
LEO, John P., to the Germania Life Insurance Company; 146th St, s s, 125 ft e of Amsterdam Av, 5 years 60,000
LIEBESKIND, Henie, and Leon A., to Anne M. Stout and another, trustees, &c.; 118th St, n s, 200 ft e of 5th Av, 1 year 17,000
LIEBESKIND, Henie, & Leon A., to Agnes A. Brown; 118th St, n s, 285 ft e of 5th Av, 1 year 15,000
LIEBESKIND, Henie, & Leon A., to George F. Chamberlin; 118th St, n s, 310 ft e of 5th Av, 1 year 16,000
LYONS, Mary, to Oscar Kunath and others; 123d St, s s, 130 ft w of 2d Av, 1 year 2,000
McCARTHY, Patrick, to Ludwig D. Schuster; 1114 West 102d St, 5 years..... 15,000
McKAY, Mary, to the J. Christopher G. Hupfel Brewing Company; 8th Av, s e corner of 16th St, leasehold, 2 years.... 28,000
MERRILL, Maria L., to Ella M. Bedell; Lot 285, map of Wakefield, 3 years..... 1,000
OLSEN, Ole, to the Bowery Savings Bank; Union Av, e s, 217 ft s of 165th St, demand 0,000
REAL ESTATE CORPORATION OF NEW York City to William Simpson, Jr., and another; Westchester Av, s corner of Southern Boulevard, extends to Intervale Av; Westchester Av, s corner of Intervale Av, &c., 5 years..... $310,000
RODGERS, John C., to James M. Wentz; 3d Av, n e corner of 171st St, 1 year.... 15,000
ROTH, John, and Michael Wielandt to Jane J. Thayer, and others, executors, &c.; 25 Avenue D, 5 years..... 31,000
RUCK, or RICK, Henry, to Christian S. Beehler; Thirtieth Av, s e s, 75 ft n e of 146th St, demand 2,500
SCHELINSKY, Sarah, to Edward Brandon, executor, &c.; 101st St, 213 East, 5 years 10,000
SCHNELL, Edward, and others to Julia Brandt; 1,996 Madison Av, 6 years..... 17,000
SCHRANK, George, and another to Margaret A. Swift and another; 3d Av, w s, 125 ft n of 183d St, 3 years 12,000
SCHREIBER, Pauline, to Peter Otten; 1,603 1st Av, 3 years 3,000
STILLMAN, Thomas G., to James Dennison; 29 West 114th St, demand..... 2,500
STILWELL, Nelson D., to the City Mortgage Company; 163d St, s w corner of Melrose Av, demand 5,000
STOCK, Marie and Bernard, to Lena Maier; Morris Av, s e corner of 154th St, new lines, 1 year 2,000
SULLIVAN, Christopher J., to Jacob Ruppert; 1,351 and 1,358 Amsterdam Av, demand 4,200
THAIN, Mary T., and Alexander, to Mutual Life Insurance Company; 20 East 83d St, 1 year 20,000
THE AMERICAN REALTY COMPANY to Charles A. Smith and another; 29 West 32d St, 1 year 40,000
UNGER, Isabella, to Equitable Life Assurance Society; 239 East 39th St, 3 years 6,000
VON GUNTHER, August J., to New York Life Insurance and Trust Company; 1,343 and 1,345 3d Av, 3 years..... 25,000
WILKINS, David J., and others to the New York Society for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Medical Men; 174 and 176 East 124th St, 3 years..... 5,500
WINTERS, John, to Jacob Ruppert; 1,101 Park Av, saloon lease, demand... 2,000

Assignments of Mortgages.

AN ASSOCIATION FOR THE RELIEF of Respectable Aged Indigent Females to Mary Schuck $42,281
BEEKMAN, Henry R., trustee, to William L. Whittemore 13,000
BOYD, Mary E., to Eleanor B. Newborn. 9,038
BOYD, Mary E., to Eleanor B. Newborn. 1,506
CONDON, David P., to Julia E. Clark.... 11,000
DE NYSE, Helen L., to John M. Dempsey 5,000
DICKERSON, John S., and another, trustees, to United States Trust Company ..... Nominal
GERHARDS, Victor, to Charles A. Benkiser 500
HOLLY, Augustus F., to Harold M. Sill and another, trustees 21,000
LOWENFELD, Pincus, and another to Henrietta Kahn 2,650
ROSENTHAL, Charles, to State Bank. Nominal
SCHMEIDLER, Leopold, and another to Bowery Bank, assigns two mortgages. Nominal
WANDELL, Caroline, to Rosa Vesell.... 1,000

Mechanics' Liens.

BERGEN AV, n e corner of 148th St, 72.7x109.10x27.3x100; John N. Dyer & Son against Albert Rothermel, owner and contractor 65
COLUMBIA ST, 100; Louis Rubin against Betsie Wolkenberg, owner; Joseph Wolkenberg, contractor 75
GREENWICH ST, 134; Sedgwick Machine Works against Patrick Turley, owner and contractor 42
JACKSON AV, s e corner of 163d St, 75x 75; Tenney & Bunt against H. W. Steele and L. G. Leyrer, owners and contractors 280
LEXINGTON AV, 1,248 and 1,250, and 133 East 84th St; White, Van Glahn & Co. against John Volz, owner; John V. Schaefer Company, contractor 50
LEXINGTON AV, 1,248 and 1,250, and 133 East 84th St; William E. Lowe against John Volz, owner; John V. Schaefer Company, contractors $187
PARK ROW, 13 to 21; White, Van Glahn & Co. against Park Row Construction Company and R. M. Haan, owners; John V. Schaefer Company, contractors..... 559
PARK ROW, 13 to 21; Bernard Engesser against Rudolph M. Haan, owner; John V. Schaefer Company, contractor 850
SPRING ST, 130; John N. Dyer & Son against J. E. Jetter, owner; A. Rothermel, contractor 298
WEBSTER AV, e s, 50 ft s of 170th St, 56.6x90; Antonio Scerbo against James Anderson, owner and contractor..... 176
3D AV, 1,917 and 1,919; John N. Dyer & Son against Jacob Sommer, owner and contractor 52
3D AV, s s, 150 ft w of Avenue A, 50x 102.2; Charles A. Meyer & Son against Joseph Weiss, owner; Josephine Lavine, contractor 15
92D ST, 340 East; John N. Dyer & Son against J. E. Jetter, owner; A. Rothermel, contractor 80
113TH ST, n s, 75 ft e of Lexington Av, 75x100.11; Charles A. Meyer & Son against Peyser Bookstaver, owner and contractor 30
122D ST, s s, between 7th and 8th Avs, —x—; William Scroggy against Marcus Hoffberg, owner; James J. Fleming & Son, contractors 63
133D ST, s s, 150 ft w of Amsterdam Av, 125x99.11; Charles A. Meyer & Son against Rebecca Juster, owner and contractor 25
BUILDING LOAN CONTRACT, UNDER CHAPTER 418, LAWS OF 1897.
AMSTERDAM AV, s e corner of 118th St, 100.11x100; Daniel A. Slattery, with Hugo F. Hoefler, 17 payments $150,000
ORDER UNDER CHAPTER 418, LAWS OF 1897.
109TH ST, 10 East; Antonetta Altieri, on Solomon Jacobs, to Abraham Nelson..... $500

Lis Pendens.

BROOK AV, e s, 200 ft n of 171st St, 100x100.11; Ernst-Marx-Nathan Company and another against Peyser Bookstaver and others, (amended foreclosure of two mortgages;) attorney, W. H. Stockwell.
DECATUR AV, e s, 174.4 ft s of Suburban St, 50x120; Alexander Inglis and another against Edward D. Dwyer and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, J. C. Ryan.
EAGLE AV, w s, 25 ft n of 161st St, 75x100; Tony Altieri against Henry S. Dederick, Jr., (notice of attachment;) attorneys, Mooney & Shipman.
EAST BROADWAY, 39; Heyman Cohen against Robert Boyd, (action to recover amount due;) attorney, W. B. Marx.
GREENWICH ST, 118; Edward D. O'Brien against Lester C. Taylor and another, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, W. C. Arnold.
ST. MARK'S PLACE, 109; Louis Becker against Marie or Mary Rothemund, individually and as executrix, and others, (foreclosure of mortgage,) attorney, C. Brandt, Jr.
WEST FARMS ROAD, n w corner of Cross St. or Rodman Place, 25x100; Henry E. Hall against Sigismund Levy, (foreclosure of mechanic's lien;) attorney, C. P. Hallock.
1ST AV, 852; Bertha Tim against Henry P. Robinson and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, W. Bernard.
3D AV, 1,517 and 1,519; 57 East 4th St; 367 and 369 East 10th St, and Delancey St, n w corner of Columbia St, 25x100; Michael Mayer against Jacob Sommer, (notice of attachment;) attorney, R. J. Haire.
8TH AV, n w corner of 148th St, 99.11x100; William Rankin against George Brown and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorneys, Quackenbush & Wise.
26TH ST, n s, 527 ft w of 10th Av, 48x98.9; Eliza M. Dorsett against Eustach Sieber and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, R. C. Dorsett.
36TH ST, n s, 100 ft e of 10th Av, 25x98.9; Annie Spindler against Mary E. Gibson and others, (action to declare will invalid, &c.;) attorney, T. J. O'Neill.
56TH ST, s s, 150 ft w of 9th Av, 25x103.3x25.3x 106.2; Hannah Wallach against Marcus Nathan and another, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, A. Zimmermann.
118TH ST, n s, 150 ft w of 1st Av, 25x100.10; New York Life Insurance Company against Francis G. Lipman, individually and as executrix, and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, E. E. McCall.
123D ST, 429 East; Kate Rosenberg against Helene Grabau and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, E. D. Newman.
127TH ST, s s, 181 ft e of Park Av, 20.1x99.11; Magdalena Buhler against Sarah Spencer and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, W. H. Stockwell.

CALENDARS AND DECISIONS.

FEDERAL COURTS.

United States Supreme Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Supreme Court of the United States:

46—The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company et al., appellants, vs. Henry W. Behimer. Appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit.—Decree of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed, with costs, and cause remanded to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of South Carolina, with directions to modify its decree in conformity with the opinion of this court. This decree to be entered nunc pro tunc as of the date of the submission of the cause of this court. Opinion by Justice White.

54—W. H. Blackburn, plaintiff in error, vs. the Portland Gold Mining Company et al. In error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Colorado.—Judgment affirmed, with costs. Opinion by Justice Shiras. Dissenting, Justice McKenna. Justice Brown took no part in the decision of this case.

59—The United States, appellant, vs. John R. Gleason et al. Appeal from the Court of Claims.—Judgment reversed and cause remanded, with directions to enter judgment in conformity with the opinion of the court. Opinion by Justice Shiras. Dissenting: Justice Harlan, Justice Brown, and Justice White.

69—The Canada Sugar Refining Company, Limited, petitioner, vs. the Insurance Company of North America.—On writ of certiorari to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.—Decree of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed, with costs, and the decree of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York affirmed and cause remanded to said District Court. Opinion by Justice Shiras.

70—The Telluride Power Transmission Company et al., plaintiffs in error, vs. the Rio Grande Western Railway Company.—In error to the Supreme Court of the State of Utah.—Dismissed for the want of jurisdiction. Opinion by Justice Brown.

61—The Northern Pacific Railway Company, plaintiffs in error, vs. Maria Amacker et al.—In error to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.—Judgment affirmed, with costs, and cause remanded to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Montana. Opinion by Justice Brown.

235—The Spanish schooner Paquete Habana, Juan Paros, claimant, appellant, vs. The United States, and 236—The Spanish schooner Lola, Tomas Betancourt, claimant, appellant, vs. The United States.—Appeals from the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of Florida.—Decrees reversed and causes remanded, with directions to enter decrees that the proceeds of the sale of the vessels, together with the proceeds of any sale of the cargoes, be restored to the claimants, with damages and costs. Opinion by Justice Gray. Dissenting, Chief Justice Fuller, Justice Harlan, and Justice McKenna.

9—The United States, appellant, vs. The Oregon and California Railroad Company et al.—Appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.—Decree affirmed, and cause remanded to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Oregon. Opinion by Justice Harlan. Justice McKenna did not participate in the decision of this case.

28—John D. Wilcox, appellant, vs. The Eastern Oregon Land Company.—Appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.—Decree affirmed, with costs, and cause remanded to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Oregon. Opinion by Justice Harlan. Justice McKenna did not participate in the decision of this case.

24—E. I. Messenger, appellant, vs. The Eastern Oregon Land Company.—Appeal from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.—Decree affirmed, with costs, and cause remanded to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Oregon. Opinion by Justice Harlan. Justice McKenna did not participate in the decision of this case.

485—The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, petitioner, vs. W. H. Whitehead et al.—Petition for a writ of certiorari to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit submitted by Herbert B. Turner, E. O. Wolcott, and J. F. Vaile for the petitioner and by John F. Shafroth for the respondents.

305—Mary Louise Kenaday, executrix, &c., plaintiff in error and appellant, vs. Arabella D. Sinnott et al.—Motions to dismiss or affirm submitted by F. P. B. Sands and William A. Milliken in support of motions, and by William Henry Dennis in opposition thereto.

481—Turret Steamshipping Company, (Limited,) claimant and petitioner, vs. A. G. Hall et al.—Petition for writ of certiorari to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the First Circuit submitted by J. I. Parker Kerlin for the petitioner and by Charles Theodore Russell for the respondent.

440—Abner T. Bowen, petitioner, vs. the Needles National Bank et al.—Petition for a writ of certiorari to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit submitted by Charles E. Hughes and Walter S. Carter for the petitioner and by Henry C. Dillon for the respondent.

458—George T. Murdock, executor, &c., plaintiff in error, vs. John G. Ward, United States Collector, &c.

459—George D. Sherman, plaintiff in error, vs. The United States.—On motion of Frederick D. McKenney, in behalf of certain interested parties, leave granted to file brief herein within one week, and on motion of Solicitor General Richards leave granted him to file reply brief within two weeks thereafter.

106—Hiram W. Hubbell, appellant, vs. The United States.—Motion to restore case to the docket to be heard with No. 96 submitted by Frederick McKenney for the appellant.

29—La Abra Silver Mining Company, appellant, vs. The United States.—Mandate stayed for thirty days on motion of Crammond Kennedy for the appellant.

158—Henry L. Mitchell, Governor, &c., et al., appellants, vs. Charles M. Furman, as administrator, &c.—Motions to dismiss or affirm submitted by C. B. Rinehart, H. Bisbee, and F. P. Fleming in support of motions and by William W. Dewhurst in opposition thereto.

229—William C. Glass, plaintiff in error, vs. The Police Jury of the Parish of Concordia.—Submitted pursuant to the twentieth rule by J. D. Rouse and William Grant for the plaintiff in error and by E. H. Farrar, B. F. Jonas, and E. R. Kruttschnitt for the defendant in error.

437—The Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad Company, plaintiff in error, vs. the State of Indiana ex rel. William A. Ketcham, Attorney General.—In error to the Supreme Court of the State of Indiana. Dismissed per stipulation of counsel.

90—Helm Douglass, appellant, vs. Lewis H. Douglass et al.—Appeal from the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. Dismissed, with costs, per stipulation of counsel, on motion of B. F. Leighton for the appellant.

443—George Webster, appellant, vs. R. D. Speck, Sheriff, &c.—Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Washington. Dismissed, with costs, pursuant to the tenth rule.

97—Waters-Pierce Oil Company, plaintiff in error, vs. the State of Texas.—One hour additional time granted to plaintiff in error in the argument of this case on motion of George Clark, for plaintiff

EXCURSIONS.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
PERSONALLY CONDUCTED Tour THROUGH
OLD MEXICO and CALIFORNIA
14 days in Mexico. 19 days in California.
February 12 to March 29.
SPECIAL PULLMAN TRAIN
Parlor-Smoking, Dining, Sleeping, Compartment, and Observation Cars over entire route.
Rate, $550, covering all necessary expenses.
MEXICO ONLY
February 12 to March 6.
Rate, $300, covering all necessary expenses.
CALIFORNIA ONLY
February 27 to March 29.
Rate, $375, covering all necessary expenses.
Tours to FLORIDA, OLD PT. COMFORT, and WASHINGTON.
For detailed itineraries and full information, apply to Ticket Agents; Tourist Agent, 1,196 Broadway, New York; or address W. W. Boyd, Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agent, Philadelphia.
J. R. HUTCHINSON, General Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

DRY GOODS.

OUR PERFUMES ARE THE BEST THAT CAN be found, the best that can be made; also the cheapest. All our customers agree on this point. Are you using them? JAMMES, 4 West 37th St., near 5th Av.

SITUATIONS WANTED—FEMALES.

Chambermaids.

CHAMBERMAID and WAITRESS.—As chambermaid and waitress by young Swedish woman; best references. Jeanie, 753 6th Av., near 43d St.; store.

CHAMBERMAID, &c.—By young girl, lately landed, to do chamberwork and waiting in a small private family. 537 5th Av.

Cooks.

COOK.—By first-class cook; experience in all branches; German, French, and English; best references; $35 to $40. 439 East 52d St.

COOK.—By first-class Swedish cook; by day or week; best references. 308 East 26th St., rear.

COOK.—By first-class cook; city or country; best city reference. 431 West 31st St.

Lady's Maids.

LADY'S MAID.—By young woman as lady's maid; good dressmaker; cut and fit; hairdresser; excellent packer; understands care of gentlemen's clothes also; three years' city reference; personal reference last place. M. A., 1,242 Broadway.

LADY'S MAID.—By competent French maid, dressmaker, hairdresser; experienced seamstress; no objection to travel; best reference. B. B., Box 339, 1,269 Broadway.

LADY'S MAID.—As first-class lady's maid; English; good seamstress, hairdresser, and packer; no objection to travel; good references. M. A. L., 216 East 33d St.

MAID.—By competent maid; good packer, hairdresser, and dressmaker; best city references. Care of McCabe, 591 Park Av.

Laundresses.

LAUNDRESS.—By a respectable woman; family washing, shirts, collars, and cuffs; open air drying; can be highly recommended. Prosper Hand Laundry, 179 East 78th St.

LAUNDRESS.—As laundress in private family; has first-class personal city references. Byrnes, 200 East 73d St.

LAUNDRESS.—By young woman as laundress in private family; city references. 438 West 35th St.; Brennan's bell.

Nurses.

NURSE.—By a capable woman; can take care of baby from infancy, or grown children; best city reference. 263 West 19th St., McAba's bell.

Seamstresses.

SEAMSTRESS.—By thoroughly competent seamstress; does all kinds of family sewing; curtains, cushions, and also repairing dresses, finishing, and alterations. Seamstress, 773 Amsterdam Av.

Miscellaneous.

TELEGRAPHER, &c.—By a young woman as telegrapher, stenographer, and typewriter, Position, 270 West 23d St.

SITUATIONS WANTED—MALES.

Butlers.

BUTLER and VALET.—By single Swiss German; wages $35 to $40; good references. Butler, 150 West 37th St., present employer's.

Coachmen.

COACHMAN.—By thoroughly competent man; 11 years' city reference from late employer; disengaged on account of family residing in Europe. J., 125 West 17th St.

Miscellaneous.

FLORIST.—By German florist; age, thirty-seven; married; twenty-two years' experience. John Schackis, 1,024 40th St., Brooklyn.

THE TRADES.

MATTRESSES REMADE AT CUSTOMERS' residences in three hours a specialty; new tickings and hair supplied; sole users of own patented oscillating hair carding machines and collapsible benches. THE MATTRESS RENOVATORS, 248 9th Av., 55th and 56th Sts. Telephone 967 Columbus.

HELP WANTED—FEMALES.

WANTED—In small private family, waitress; satisfactory references required. Call Tuesday morning from 10 to 11 o'clock at 106 5th Av., near 16th St.

HELP WANTED—MALES.

WANTED—Boy in law office; some knowledge of stenography. Address, in own handwriting, stating references, A. C. S., Box 327, 1,269 Broadway.

WANTED—Bright boy in office; good hand and neat appearance; salary, $3. Address Gentile, Box 156 Times Office.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A SPECIAL TERM, PART I., OF THE Supreme Court, held at the Court House, in the Borough of Manhattan of the City of New York, on the 23d day of October, 1899.—Present: Hon. Henry M. Bookstaver, Justice.—In the matter of the application of the Directors of the Riverside Building and Loan Association for a voluntary dissolution.

On reading and filing the petition of Marshall W. Scriven, William M. Bridgeman, William M. Dodge, Eugene L. Lockwood, Frank T. Brown, John M. Sweeney, and John A. Anderson, as Directors of the Riverside Building and Loan Association, a corporation created under the laws of the State of New York, having its principal office located in the Borough of Manhattan, of the City of New York, and the schedules thereto annexed, verified by the petitioners on the 11th day of October, 1899, with due proof of service of a copy of said petition and schedules, and a copy of this order and notice of application thereof, on Honorable John C. Davies, Attorney General for the State of New York, and on motion of William Langdon, attorney for the petitioners, it is ORDERED, That all persons interested in the said corporation show cause before M. Delland Milnor, Esq., counsellor at law, who is hereby appointed referee for that purpose, at his office, No. 229 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan of the City of New York, on the 31st day of January, 1900, at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, why the said corporation should not be dissolved; and it is further ORDERED, That a copy of this order be published at least once in each of the three weeks immediately preceding the time hereinbefore fixed for showing cause in The New York Times, printed in the City of New York, and also in The New York Law Journal, published in the City and County of New York. Enter, H. W. B., J. S. C.

To the Creditors, Shareholders, and all other persons interested in the Riverside Building and Loan Association:

Take notice, that the foregoing is a copy of an order made in the above entitled proceeding, and duly entered and filed in the office of the Clerk of the City and County of New York, on October 23d, 1899. WILLIAM LANGDON, Attorney for Petitioners, 5 Beekman St., N. Y. City.

ja9-1aw4wTu

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In bankruptcy. In the matter of BERNARD P. DE GREGORI, bankrupt.—In bankruptcy.

To the creditors of Bernard P. De Gregori of the City and County of New York, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 3d day of January, A. D 1900, the said Bernard P. De Gregori was duly adjudicated bankrupt, and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of P. K. Pendleton, referee, No. 44 Broadway, in the City and County of New York, on the 22d day of January, A. D. 1900, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting. P. K. PENDLETON, Referee in Bankruptcy.

January 8th, 1900.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—(In Bankruptcy.)—In the matter of EDWARD L. FEARN, bankrupt.—No. 1,977.

To the creditors of Edward L. Fearn of the City and County of New York and district aforesaid, bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 2d day of January, A. D. 1900, the said Edward L. Fearn was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at my office, Number 71 Broadway, in the City of New York, on the 20th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

STANLEY W. DEXTER, Referee in Bankruptcy.

Dated January 8th, 1900.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of LOUIS GOLDBERG, Bankrupt.—In bankruptcy.

To the creditors of Louis Goldburg of the County of New York, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 28th day of December, A. D. 1899, the said Louis Goldburg was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of Nathaniel A. Prentiss, referee in bankruptcy, 120 Broadway, New York City, on the 24th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a Trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

NATHANIEL A. PRENTISS, Referee in Bankruptcy.

January 8th, 1900.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of JAMES C. HAYNES, bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of James C. Haynes of the City of New York in the County of New York and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 4th day of January, A. D. 1900, the said James C. Haynes was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at 52 Exchange Place, in the City of New York, on the 22d day of January, A. D. 1900, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

MORRIS S. WISE, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, January 8th, 1900.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—(In Bankruptcy.)—In the matter of DAVID HIRSCHBERG and ADOLPH HIRSCHBERG, individually and as members of the firm of D. Hirschberg & Bro., bankrupts.—No. 1,740.

To the creditors of David Hirschberg and Adolph Hirschberg, individually and as members of the firm of D. Hirschberg and Bro., of the City and County of New York and district aforesaid, bankrupts.

Notice is hereby given that on the 9th day of December, A. D. 1899, the said David Hirschberg and Adolph Hirschberg were duly adjudicated bankrupts; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at my office, Number 71 Broadway, in the City of New York, on the 19th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 12 o'clock noon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

STANLEY W. DEXTER, Referee in Bankruptcy.

Dated January 6th, 1900.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of PAUL KISTEL, Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of Paul Kistel of the County of New York, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt:

Notice is hereby given that on the 3d day of January, A. D., 1900, the said Paul Kistel was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of Nathaniel A. Prentiss, referee in bankruptcy, 120 Broadway, New York City, on the 24th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a Trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

NATHANIEL A. PRENTISS, Referee in Bankruptcy.

January 8th, 1900.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE Southern District of New York.—In the matter of WORTHINGTON D. ROMAINE, bankrupt.—No. 1,828.

Notice is hereby given that Worthington D. Romaine, bankrupt, has filed his petition, dated January 8th, 1900, praying for a discharge from all his debts in bankruptcy, and that all creditors and other persons are ordered to attend at the hearing upon said petition before the Hon. Addison Brown, United States District Judge, in the United States Court House and Post Office Building, in the City and County of New York, on Wednesday, January 24th, 1900, at 10:30 A. M., and then and there show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted, and also attend the examination of the bankrupt thereon.

STANLEY W. DEXTER, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, Jan. 8, 1900.

NO. 1,634.—IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of GEORGE SCHMITT, Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of George Schmitt of the City and County of New York, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt:

Notice is hereby given that on the 27th day of October, A. D. 1899, the said George Schmitt was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of Nathaniel S. Smith, No. 302 Broadway, in the City of New York, on the 24th day of January, A. D. 1900, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a Trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

NATHANIEL S. SMITH, Referee in Bankruptcy.

January 8th, 1900.

NO. 1,988.—IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of JACOB SCHREIBER, Bankrupt.

To the creditors of Jacob Schreiber, of the City and County of New York, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt:

Notice is hereby given that on the 4th day of January, A. D. 1900, the said Jacob Schreiber was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the office of Theodor Aub, referee, No. 149 Broadway, in the City and County of New York, on the 2d day of February, A. D. 1900, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

THEODOR AUB, Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, January 8, 1900.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE Southern District of New York.—DAVID FRY and LEOPOLD SCHIBEBER, trading as Fry & Schieber, Bankrupts.

Notice is hereby given that David Fry and Leopold Schieber, trading as Fry & Schieber, bankrupts, have filed their petition, dated January 2d, 1900, praying for a discharge from all their debts in bankruptcy, and that all creditors and other persons are ordered to attend at the hearing upon said petition before the Hon. Addison Brown, United States District Judge, in the United States Court House and Post Office Building, in the City and County of New York, on Wednesday, January 24th, 1900, at 10:30 A. M., and then and there show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioners should not be granted, and also attend the examination of the bankrupts thereon. MORRIS S. WISE, Referee in Bankruptcy.

January 8th, 1900.

SUMMONSES.

SUPREME COURT, CITY AND COUNTY OF New York.—HENRIETTA HOPPOCK, plaintiff, against JOSEPH D. JENNINGS, Thomas Hutton, Mary Hutton, his wife, (name Mary being fictitious, real name unknown;) John Mueder, tenant, (name John being fictitious, real name unknown;) John Roberts, tenant, (name John being fictitious, real name unknown;) John Gedoice, tenant, (name John being fictitious, real name unknown;) Thomas Hyde, tenant, (name Thomas being fictitious, real name unknown;) William Miller, tenant, (name William being fictitious, real name unknown;) George Gerhardt, tenant, (name George being fictitious, real name unknown;) Frank Frost, tenant, (name Frank being fictitious, real name unknown;) Henry Rain, tenant, (name Henry being fictitious, real name unknown;) Charles H. Pfluger, The R. E. Parsons Company, Taylor & Co., Virgil B. Gibney, William C. Rogers receiver of the Rogers & Sherwood Printing Company; the Bourbon County Distilling Company, defendants.—Summons.

To the above-named defendants: You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear, or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default, for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated Oct. 9, 1899.

MORRIS P. FERRIS, Plaintiff's Attorney, Office No. 71 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City. Post Office address same as office.

To the defendants, Thomas Hutton and Mary Hutton, his wife, (the name Mary being fictitious, real name unknown):

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Hon. Miles Beach, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated the 5th day of December, 1899, and filed with the complaint in the office of the County Clerk of the County of New York, at the County Court House of said county, on the 11th day of December, 1899. MORRIS P. FERRIS, Attorney for the plaintiff, Office and Post Office address, No. 71 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

d12-1aw6wTu

SURROGATE NOTICES.

YOUNG, WILLIAM H.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. James M. Varnum, a Surrogate of the City and County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against WILLIAM H. YOUNG, late of the City of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof to the subscriber, at her place of transacting business, No. 290 Broadway, in the City of New York, Borough of Manhattan, on or before the 14th day of November, 1899. MINNIE K. YOUNG, Executrix. RASTUS S. RANSOM, Attorney for Executrix, 290 Broadway, N. Y. City.

n14-1aw6m27TuTu

SURROGATE NOTICES.

AKIN, ETHAN.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against ETHAN AKIN, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber, at his place of transacting business, No. 31 East Main Street, Amsterdam, New York, on or before the first day of July next.

Dated New York, the 22d day of December, 1899.

SUSAN AKIN,
LOUIS AKIN,
HELENA A. MIX,
PAUL C. AKIN,
THERSON AKIN,
ETHAN AKIN, Jr.,
Administrators, &c.

W. BARLOW DUNLAP, Attorney for Administrators, 31 East Main St., Amsterdam, N. Y.

d26-1aw6mTu

FIGUEROA Y VELIS, JUSTO RAFAEL.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. James M. Varnum, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against JUSTO RAFAEL FIGUEROA Y VELIS, otherwise known as Rafael Figueroa, late of Cienfuegos, Island of Cuba, deceased, to present the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber at his place of transacting business, the office of Messrs. Coudert Brothers, No. 71 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before the 20th day of January next.—Dated New York, the 10th day of July, 1899. ANTONIO TOMAS, Ancillary Administrator, c. t. a. COUDERT BROTHERS, Attorneys for Ancillary Admr., 71 Broadway, New York City. jy11-1aw6mTu

SIEFKE, HENRY.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against HENRY SIEFKE, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof to the subscriber at his place of transacting business, at the office of Francis B. Chedsey, No. 302 Broadway, in the City of New York, on or before the sixth day of March next.—Dated New York, the 29th day of August, 1899. HENRY SIEFKE, Jr., Executor. FRANCIS B. CHEDSEY, Esq., Attorney for Executor, No. 302 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, N. Y. au29-1aw6mTu

SMITH, JAMES.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against JAMES SMITH, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber, at his place of transacting business, No. 15 Whitehall Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on or before the 24th day of May next.—Dated New York, the 20th day of November, 1899. SHERMAN HOYT, Executor. GERRIT SMITH, Attorney for Executor, 43 Wall Street. n21-1aw6mTu

REFEREES' NOTICES.

NOS. ..... EAST 160TH ST., BOROUGH OF the Bronx.—New York Supreme Court, County of New York.—HENRY W. GILBERT, plaintiff, against MARGARET REDICAN et al., defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, bearing date the 18th day of December, 1899, I, the undersigned, referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on Tuesday, the 16th day of January, 1900, at twelve o'clock noon on that day, by McVickar and Company, auctioneers, the premises described in said judgment as follows:

All those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, with the buildings thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of the Bronx, in the City of New York, bounded and described as follows, viz.:

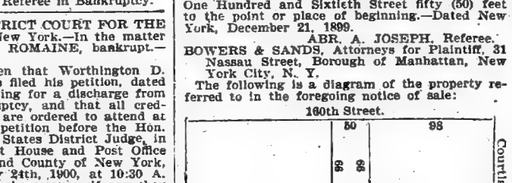
Beginning at a point on the southerly side of One Hundred and Sixtieth (160th) Street, distant ninety-eight (98) feet westerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the southerly side of said One Hundred and Sixtieth Street with the westerly side of Courtlandt Avenue; running thence southerly parallel with Courtlandt Avenue ninety-nine (99) feet; thence westerly parallel with One Hundred and Sixtieth Street fifty (50) feet; thence northerly again parallel with Courtlandt Avenue ninety-nine (99) feet to the southerly side of said One Hundred and Sixtieth Street; and thence easterly along said side of One Hundred and Sixtieth Street fifty (50) feet to the point or place of beginning.—Dated New York, December 21, 1899.

ABR. A. JOSEPH, Referee.

BOWERS & SANDS, Attorneys for Plaintiff, 31 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, N. Y.

The following is a diagram of the property referred to in the foregoing notice of sale:

160th Street.



The approximate aggregate amount of the plaintiff's lien upon the premises, with interest, costs, and disbursements, is $4,018.58, and of taxes, assessments, and water rates, $88.29. The approximate aggregate amount of prior liens upon the premises, with interest, is $19,934.83. The sale of the said premises is to be made free and clear.

ABR. A. JOSEPH, Referee.

BOWERS & SANDS, Plaintiff's Attorneys. d26-2aw3wTu&F&ja16

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK. —ELIZABETH MESSMANN, plaintiff, against ELIZABETH EGENBERGER and others, defendants.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 6th day of September, 1899, I, the undersigned, the referee in said interlocutory judgment named, will sell at public auction at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on Tuesday, the 16th day of January, 1900, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by John N. Golding, auctioneer, the lands and premises directed by said interlocutory judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows, to wit: All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situate, lying, and being in the Tenth Ward of the City of New York, in the County and State of New York, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Division Street, distant fifty (50) feet easterly from the northeasterly corner of Division and Forsyth Streets; running thence northerly parallel with Forsyth Street and partly through the centre of a party wall seventy-five (75) feet to the line of the land now, or late, belonging to the Methodist Episcopal Church; thence easterly along said line twenty-five (25) feet; thence southerly, parallel with Forsyth Street, seventy-five (75) feet to the northerly side of Division Street; and thence westerly along the northerly side of Division Street twenty-five (25) feet to the point or place of beginning, said premises being known as No. 74 Division Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City and County of New York.—Dated New York, December 22d, 1899.

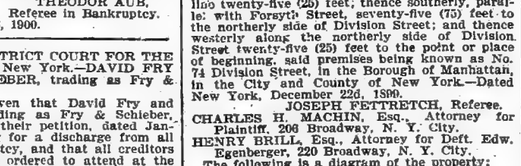
JOSEPH FETTRETCH, Referee.

CHARLES H. MACHIN, Esq., Attorney for Plaintiff, 206 Broadway, N. Y. City.

HENRY BRILL, Esq., Attorney for Deft. Edw. Egenberger, 220 Broadway, N. Y. City.

The following is a diagram of the property:

Line of land (now or late) of Meth. Epis. Church.



Division Street.

The approximate amount of taxes, water rates, assessments, or other liens upon the said premises is about eight thousand seven hundred dollars, ($8,700,) which will be allowed out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee.—Dated New York, December 22d, 1899.

JOSEPH FETTRETCH, Referee.

d26-2aw3wTu&F&ja17

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK. —E. CAROLINE KOPPER, plaintiff, against MARGARET G. KOPPER, Jr., and others, defendants.

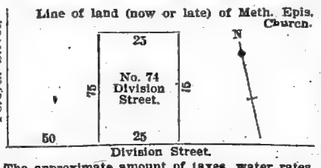
In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 22d day of December, 1899, I, the undersigned, the referee in said interlocutory judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 19th day of January, 1900, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by McVickar & Company, Auctioneers, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain piece or parcel of land, with the building and improvements thereon erected, situate in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, County of New York, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the westerly side of West End Ave., distant southerly thereon forty-four feet from the corner formed by the intersection of the southerly side of Nineteth with the westerly side of West End Avenue; running thence westerly parallel with Ninetieth Street, and part of the distance through a party wall, ninety feet; thence southerly and parallel with West End Avenue, twenty feet; thence easterly again parallel with said Ninetieth Street, and part of the distance through another party wall, ninety feet to the said westerly side of West End Avenue; and thence northerly along the same twenty feet to the point or place of beginning. Said premises being now known by the street number 615 West End Avenue.—Dated New York, December 26th, 1899.

THOMAS F. DONNELLY, Referee.

MORRIS PUTNAM STEVENS, Attorney for Plaintiff, 34 Pine Street, Borough of Manhattan, N. Y. C.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold: Its street number is 615 West End Avenue; 90th Street.



The property will be sold subject to a mortgage of $25,000.00, with interest at 5% due thereon from February 25th, 1899, which mortgage will be due February 25th, 1902. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is $538.23, and interest.—Dated New York, 26th day of December, 1899.

THOMAS F. DONNELLY, Referee.

d29-2aw3wF&Tu&ja19

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—PETER L. O'NEILL as administrator of the goods, chattels, and credits of Catherine O'Neill, deceased, plaintiff, against ELIZABETH B. McCLURE and others, defendants.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 7th day of December, 1899, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 24th day of January, 1900, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by William Kennelly, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

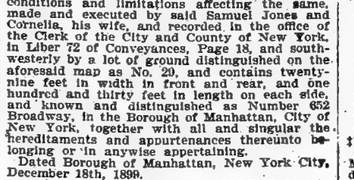
All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the building and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Twenty-second Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, and City of New York, and located in Section Four, on Block 1,214, on the land map of the City of New York, and bounded and described as follows, viz.: Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Eighty-third Street, distant three hundred and seventy-five feet westerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of Eighty-third Street with the westerly side of Columbus (formerly Ninth) Avenue; thence running northerly, and part of the way through a party wall and on a line parallel with Columbus Avenue, one hundred and two feet and two inches to the centre line of the block between Eighty-third and Eighty-fourth Streets; thence westerly along said centre line of the block, and on a line parallel with Eighty-third Street, twenty-five feet; thence southerly, and again on a line parallel with said Columbus Avenue and part of the way through another party wall, one hundred and two feet and two inches to the said northerly side of Eighty-third Street, and thence easterly, and along the said northerly side of Eighty-third Street, twenty-five feet to the point or place of beginning, being the same now known by the street number 135 West Eighty-third Street, in the said city, and being a part of the same premises conveyed to the said George Rauchfuss by Nellie F. Brennan and husband by deed dated November 19, 1891, and recorded in the Register's Office in Liber Eight, Page 241 of Section Four of Block Series of Conveyances, in the office of the Register of the City of New York, together with all the gas fixtures, carpets, window shades, and other personal property appertaining to the said premises and belonging to said defendant Ellen Byrnes, and also being the same premises conveyed to the said defendant, Ellen Byrnes, by the said plaintiff, George Rauchfuss, by deed bearing even date with said mortgage, and which mortgage was also given to secure part of the consideration money of said premises, and also, together with all the right, title, and interest of the said defendant Ellen Byrnes, of, in, and to a certain party wall agreement made between Thomas J. Brennan of the one part, and Mark P. Brennan of the other part, dated August 28, 1890, and recorded on the same day in Liber 2,308, Page 447 of Conveyances in said Register's office.—Dated New York, December 29, 1899.

GEORGE H. HART, Referee.

GEORGE A. McDERMOTT, Attorney for Plaintiff, 621 Broadway, New York City, New York.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold. Its street number is No. 135 West 83d Street, New York City.

54th Street.



83d Street.

The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is $8,355 56-100, with interest thereon from the 22d day of December, 1899, together with costs and allowances amounting to $422 81-100, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is $1,180 and interest. The premises will be sold subject to a first mortgage of $22,000.00, with accrued interest.—Dated New York, 29th day of December, 1899.

GEORGE H. HART, Referee.

ja2-2aw3wTu&F&ja24

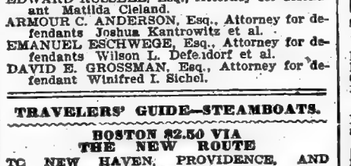
BROADWAY, No. 652.—Supreme Court, County of New York.—ALLEN D. M. DEFANDORF, plaintiff, against WINIFRED I. SICHEL and others, defendants.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action bearing date the 15th day of December, 1899, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 24th day of January, 1900, at 12 o'clock noon of that day, by Peter F. Meyer, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, situate, lying, and being in the Fifteenth (formerly Eighth) Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, known and distinguished on a map of the lands of Samuel Jones, Esq., lying between Broadway and Bowery, made from actual survey by Stephen Ludlam and E. W. Bridges, City Surveyors, and recorded in the office of the Register in and for the City and County of New York, in Liber 123 of Conveyances, &c., Page 587, as Lot Number Twenty-eight, (28,) which said lot, piece, or parcel of land is bounded northwesterly in front by Broadway, northeasterly by a lot of land distinguished on said map as Number Twenty-seven, (27,) southeasterly by road or way, by the name of Cross-lane, designated and properly described in and by a certain deed poll expressing and declaring the uses and purposes thereof, and the conditions and limitations affecting the same, made and executed by said Samuel Jones and Cornelia, his wife, and recorded in the office of the Clerk of the City and County of New York, in Liber 72 of Conveyances, Page 18, and southwesterly by a lot of ground distinguished on the aforesaid map as No. 29, and contains twenty-nine feet in width in front and rear, and one hundred and thirty feet in length on each side, and known and distinguished as Number 652 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

Dated Borough of Manhattan, New York City, December 18th, 1899.

EDWARD JACOBS, Referee.



Bleecker St.

All taxes and assessments and water rates which are liens or encumbrances on the premises above described at the time of the sale thereof will be paid by the referee or allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money.

The premises above described will be sold subject to a lease, dated October 22nd, 1894, made between Wilson L. Defendorf and others to Robert Lindheim. Such lease being for the term of ten years, commencing February 1st, 1895, at a rental of $10,000 per year, payable in equal monthly installments in advance, and Croton water rent. Tenant allowed $50 annually for roof repairs.

Dated Borough of Manhattan, New York City, December 18th, 1899.

EDWARD JACOBS, Referee.

MOSES ESBERG, Esq., Attorney for Plaintiff.

EDWARD RUSSELL, Esq., Attorney for defendant Matilda Cleland.

ARMOUR C. ANDERSON, Esq., Attorney for defendants Joshua Kantrowitz et al.

EMANUEL ESCHWEGE, Esq., Attorney for defendants Wilson L. Defendorf et al.

DAVID E. GROSSMAN, Esq., Attorney for defendant Winifred I. Sichel.

TRAVELERS' GUIDE—STEAMBOATS.

BOSTON $2.50 VIA
THE NEW ROUTE
TO NEW HAVEN, PROVIDENCE, AND BOSTON.
NEW HAVEN LINE
NARRAGANSETT BAY LINE.
Steamers daily, Sunday excepted, from Pier 25 East River, for New Haven, Providence, and Boston at 5 P. M.

TRAVELERS' GUIDE—SHIPPING.

WHITE STAR LINE.
NEW YORK—QUEENSTOWN—LIVERPOOL.
Oceanic...Jan. 24, 11 A.M. Oceanic..Feb. 21, 9:30 A.M.
Teutonic..Jan. 31, Noon Teutonic..Feb. 28, Noon
Germanic..Feb. 7, Noon Germanic, March 7, Noon
For passage, freight, and general information apply to WHITE STAR LINE, Pier 48 North River. Office, 9 Broadway, N. Y.

CUNARD LINE
TO LIVERPOOL VIA QUEENSTOWN.
From Piers 51 and 52 North River.
Lucania..Jan. 13, 2 P.M. Lucania...Feb. 10, 1 P.M.
Etruria..Jan. 20, 9 A.M. Etruria...Feb. 17, 8 A.M.
Campania..Jan. 27, Noon Campania..Feb. 24, Noon
VERNON H. BROWN & CO., Gen. Agents, 29 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Special Excursions To CUBA
MUNSON LINE
To Nuevitas, Saturday, Jan. 20th.
To Matanzas, Saturday, Jan. 27th.
To Matanzas, Saturday, Feb. 4th.
Latter personally conducted.
Special rates for above excursions.
MUNSON STEAMSHIP LINE, 27 William St., N. Y.
RAYMOND & WHITCOMB, 25 Union Square, N. Y.

JAPAN-CHINA
Hawaii and Philippine Islands
PACIFIC MAIL S. S. CO.
OCCIDENTAL AND ORIENTAL S. S. CO.
TOYOKISEN KAISHA.
Between San Francisco, Honolulu, Yokohama, Kobe, Nagasaki, Shanghai, Hong Kong.
Steamers leave San Francisco at 1 P. M.
H. K. MARU....Jan. 16 DORIC.....Feb. 1
CHINA.....Jan. 24 NIPPON MARU.....Feb. 10
For freight, passage, and general information apply at 349 Broadway, or 1 Battery Place, Wash. Bldg., and 287 Broadway, N. Y. City.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.
Intended steamship sailings from Vancouver.
JAPAN, CHINA, and PHILIPPINE ISLANDS
EMPRESS OF JAPAN.....Jan. 29, April 16
EMPRESS OF CHINA.....Feb. 26, May 7
EMPRESS OF INDIA.....March 26
HAWAIIAN ISLANDS and AUSTRALIA.
AORANGI.....Jan. 5 MIOWERA.....Feb. 9
For rates apply 353 Broadway and 65 Wall St.

TRAVELERS' GUIDE—SHIPPING.

NORTH GERMAN LLOYD
FAST EXPRESS SERVICE.
SOUTHAMPTON, BREMEN.
Sailing at 10 A. M.
Trave.....Jan. 16 Saale.....†Feb. 6
Lahn.....Jan. 23 Lahn.....Feb. 20
Aller.....Jan. 30 Saale.....March 6
OELRICHS & CO., NO. 5 BROADWAY.

GERMAN MEDITERRANEAN SERVICE.
*HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE To †NORTH GERMAN LLOYD
Naples and Genoa via Gibraltar by Express Steamers,
Sailing at 11 A. M.
†Ems.....Jan. 20 †F. Bismarck...Feb. 10
†Kaiser Wm. II..Jan. 27 †Columbia.....Feb. 15
†Werra.....Feb. 3 †Trave.....Feb. 17
Return tickets available for steamers of either line from Naples, Genoa, Gibraltar, Hamburg, Bremen, London, Southampton, Paris and Cherbourg.
Hamburg-American Line. North German Lloyd, Oelrichs & Co., Agents, 37

"CAMMEYER"
Stamped on a Shoe
MEANS STANDARD of MERIT

No House in the World Keeps the Immense Stock of Sporting Boots and Shoes for Every Sporting Use, Pleasure and Pastime that We Do.

EVERY form of athletics, gymnastic exercises, whether indoor or outdoor—basket ball, indoor running or walking, hockey, golf, bicycle, horseback riding, hunting, fishing, bowling, football, baseball, boxing, fencing, cricket, skating—each have their appropriate footwear.

Men's Russia Calf Hockey Shoes,
with buckle and lace strap,
$4.00 Per Pair.

Women's Black Box Calf, High Cut Hockey Shoes, per pair 5.00

We have all the various forms and materials—leathers, felts, canvas, moose hides, cowhides, calfskins, goat, kid, patent leathers, enameled leathers, rubber, all ready, in the shape of boots and shoes, to put at once upon your feet.

And at half the prices of others who deal in these goods!
Men's Washable Bath Slippers, 75c.

ALFRED J. CAMMEYER,
6th Ave., Corner 20th St.

TIMELY RESCUE AT SEA

German Steamer Ella Goes Down in a Gale.

All of the Thirty-six Persons Aboard Saved by the Atlantic Transport Liner Georgian.

The steamer Georgian of the Atlantic Transport Line, Capt. Parker, which came in yesterday from London, brought Capt. Stenge of the German steamer Ella, together with his wife, two children, a nurse, and the officers and crew of the Ella, thirty-six in all. They were rescued from the the Ella twenty minutes after the vessel went down last Saturday in latitude 41.35 and longitude 64.04.

The Ella sailed from Perth Amboy Dec. 30, with 1,600 tons of coal for Pickford & Black of Halifax. Rough weather was encountered at once, and on New Year's Day the steamer ran into a gale and heavy sea.

At 11 o'clock that night a wave threw the Ella on her beam ends on the starboard side, causing the cargo to shift, and she was unable to right herself. Shortly afterward the steamer shipped a heavy sea that tore away two of the lifeboats, and a large splinter from one of them struck Capt. Stenge in the face, injuring him severely.

As the seas swept over the steamer the water poured down the hatchways into the hold, and leaked in through the starboard ports that were submerged until she listed at an angle of 40 degrees.

The water in the hull extinguished the fires under the boilers, and for three days the Ella drifted about helplessly. The crew worked steadily at the pumps, but were unable to make any headway. Distress signals were displayed constantly, and on last Friday night the Captain of the Georgian saw them and responded by standing by.

It was impossible to rescue those on the Ella that night, but at daybreak Saturday a boat containing the first officer of the Georgian and a crew of six men was launched. It was impossible to make the boat fast to the Ella on account of the heavy sea. Those on board the Ella, however, managed to throw a rope to the boat. One person at a time was lowered into the water and then pulled to the boat and taken in. The children of the Captain were strapped to the backs of stalwart sailors, and the perilous journey was made in safety. With much difficulty the work of rescue was continued till every one from the Ella was placed aboard the Georgian. Three trips of the lifeboat between the two steamers were required.

Twenty minutes after every one was aboard the Georgian, the Ella went down.

Capt. Parker of the Georgian said that when he saw the Ella there was a high sea. Chief Officer Fields got a crew of six men, lowered a boat and pulled off. In two hours they returned with their boat leaking badly. Fields said a rescue was not possible just then, and it was decided to stand by until morning.

When the Georgian reached her dock there was an affecting parting between the officers and men of the Ella and the Georgian. As the German sailors left the vessel they gave three hearty cheers for their rescuers.

The Ella was a steel vessel built at Newcastle, England, and was formerly the Abydos. She registered 2,117 tons gross. Her hailing port was Apenrade, Germany, and she was owned by M. Jebson.

FOR A SCHOOL OF COMMERCE.

New York University to Consider the Establishment of One.

The New York University Council, at its regular meeting yesterday, received a communication signed by several citizens not associated with the university asking for the establishment in the Washington Square Building of a School of Commerce, Finance, and Accounts. The matter was referred to a special committee consisting of Chancellor MacCracken, Israel C. Pierson, and William M. Kingsley. In this connection it was said that if the necessary funds could be obtained the school would probably be established on the eighth floor of the Washington Square Building.

The Summer school, which for four years has been carried on at University Heights under the direction of a committee of the Faculty, was adopted yesterday as a university enterprise. Its work will commence on July 9, under the immediate direction of this committee of the Council: Chancellor MacCracken, Willis Fletcher Johnson, and John Reed. Twelve departments of instruction will be maintained this Summer. A new dining room accommodating 100 students and professors, and dormitory accommodations for 200 students, will be established.

The Council gave Prof. Bristol of the Biological Department permission to carry on a university extension course for teachers in the Washington Square Building. A financial report was read showing the current educational expenditure and income to be each about $250,000.

Committees for the coming year were announced, of which these are the Chairmen: Finance, William A. Wheelock; Law, William S. Opdyke; Library, David Banks; Graduate School, George Alexander; College of Arts, Israel C. Pierson; School of Applied Science, William F. Havemeyer; Medical College, Dr. John P. Munn; Washington Square Building, Charles R. Otis, and Summer School, Willis Fletcher Johnson.

Household Linens.

All linen Huck Towels,—hemmed,—size 21x40, $2.40 per dozen.

Bleached, Turkish Bath Towels,—fringed ends,—22x48, $2.00 per dozen.

Hemstitched, Huck Towels, 23x43, $5.00 per dozen. Value $6.00.

200 dozen bleached double Damask Napkins, $4.50 per dozen. Value $6.00.

Table Cloths,—fine double damask.
8x8, $3.50 each.
8x10, 4.50 "
8x12, 5.50 "

22 inch Napkins to match, $4.00 per dozen.

26 inch Napkins to match, $6.00 per dozen.

James McCreery & Co.,
Twenty-third St.

Upholstery Dep't.
4th Floor.

LACE CURTAINS.

800 pairs, French Renaissance and Point Arabe Lace Curtains,—lace border or insertion and edge,—size 3½ and 4 yards long. Sets of 4 to 8 pairs, $10.00, $15.00 and $20.00 per pair; Usual price $16.00 to $32.00

DRAPERIES.

10,000 yards Satin Damas, Brocatelle, Lambelle and Brocade. Designs in accordance with "period" decorations. Suitable for draperies hangings, or furniture and wall coverings, $1.65, $1.95 and $2.75 per yard.

PORTIERES.

Venetian Velour Portieres,—reversible,—finished with heavy rope edge, 3¼ yards long, 50 inches wide. Colors:—Empire green and red, burgundy, reseda, turquoise and terra-cotta, $7.50 per pair.

James McCreery & Co.,
Twenty-third St.

CAR FALLS INTO A TRENCH.

Flooring Gives Way Over an Excavation on First Avenue—Five Passengers Injured.

Belt Line Horse Car No. 122, bound down town, fell into a deep trench in First Avenue, between Forty-first and Forty-second Streets, at 6:15 o'clock yesterday morning. The car, which contained fourteen passengers, was in charge of Conductor John Dunn, twenty-seven years old, of 235 East Seventy-sixth Street, and Driver George Young, aged fifty-five, of 1,623 East End Avenue. On the block where the accident occurred a trench had been dug for the purpose of installing electric power on the Forty-second Street and Manhattanville line of the Third Avenue Railroad. The trench was covered with boards laid on beams, over which the Belt Line cars were running.

When Driver Young's car reached this spot he slowed up a little, and then drove upon the rails running over the boards. The car had proceeded only a few feet, when the flooring suddenly gave way, the beams supporting it at that point having become loosened. The car fell to the bottom of the trench, striking on its forward end, and throwing all the passengers in a heap against the front door. Several of them were hurt, and those who escaped injury were unable to help either themselves or the injured ones, as boards and beams had fallen against the doors, which made it impossible to open them from the inside.

The crash of the car going through the flooring, followed by the screams of the passengers, attracted the attention of factory employes on their way to work, and hundreds of men soon gathered about the scene of the accident. A score of workmen jumped into the trench, and, under the direction of policemen, tore away the broken boards and beams which half covered the car, and then assisted in removing the passengers, of whom the following were injured:

FREITAG, Miss LOUISE, aged seventeen, of 231 East Eighty-fourth Street; back sprained.
LONG, W. A., aged twenty-five, residence unknown; slight injuries.
NICHWITZ, NICHOLAS, aged fifty-five, of 421 East Eighty-second Street; slight injuries.
NUDOR, GEORGE, fifty-four years old, of 859 First Avenue; scalp wound.
SCHARFER, ALEXANDER, aged thirty-two, of 1,067 First Avenue; contusions of leg.

An ambulance soon arrived from Bellevue Hospital in charge of Dr. Rogers. Long was able to go home after the surgeon had attended to his injuries. The other injured passengers were taken to the hospital, and after their wounds had been dressed all were able to depart unassisted, with the exception of Miss Freitag, who remained at the institution.

When the car fell Driver Young was thrown from the platform and struck on his head at the bottom of the trench. It was at first thought that his skull was fractured, but his only injury proved to be a scalp wound, which was dressed at Bellevue. All the windows in the car were broken, but otherwise it was not badly damaged.

Annual January Sale.
Shoe Dep't,
Commencing
Tuesday, January 9th.

Broken lots and sizes to close.

Ladies' Kid, French Calf, Enamel and Winter Russets, Button and Lace Boots, (bench made), $5.00, formerly $7.00 to $8.00.

Kid, Button and Lace, Kid and Patent Leather, Cloth Top, Button Boots, $3.65, formerly $5.00 to $8.00.

Velour Calf and Kid Button and Lace Boots, $2.65, value $4.00 to $4.50.

Child's Box Calf and Kid Button Boots, $1.40, value $2.00 to $2.50.

Misses' Kid and Calf—Button and Lace Boots, $1.65, value $2.50 to $3.00.

Little Gents' Box Calf, Lace Spring Heel Boots, $1.65.

Lord & Taylor,
Broadway & 20th St.

Tuesday & Wednesday Jan. 9th & 10th.

Trimmed Hats, Toques, and Bonnets, including Mourning Millinery,
$6.00.

Children's Hats,
$3.00.

Lord & Taylor,
Broadway & 20th St.

THE DAUGHTERS OF 1812.

Flag Presentations at the General Society's Meeting—President Guggenheimer on America's Second War.

The annual meeting of the General Society, United States Daughters of 1812, held yesterday at Delmonico's, was marked by the presentation of three flags by Mrs. Louis Hall, President of the Pennsylvania Society. These included a United States flag of the style of to-day, a flag of 1812, and the standard of the society. The flags were of silk and the stars were embroidered by hand. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. William Garry Slade, President of the General Society.

Following the presentation addresses were made by Col. Ralph Prime, President of the Flag Association; Randolph Guggenheimer, President of the City Council, and others. Col. Prime told of the work of his society in attempting to prevent the desecration of the flag by advertisers and others. He cited the laws of several European countries requiring respect for the flag, and advocated the adoption of a similar statute by all the States in the Union.

In introducing the next speaker, Mr. Guggenheimer, Mrs. Slade said: "All of us remember the good time we had at the Dewey Day parade. We had a stand all to ourselves. This was due to the courtesy of Mr. Guggenheimer, whom I now introduce to you."

Mr. Guggenheimer said he had done nothing more than his duty on that occasion, and would be glad to do as much again. Turning to the subject of the war of 1812 he said:

"The war of 1812, waged against the Kingdom of England, depended for its inspiration and glory upon the exploits of the Revolutionary heroes whose genius and valor had created the American Republic.

"I am, however, full of the conviction that the story of the war which was glorified by the genius of Jackson and Decatur constitutes one of the noblest chapters in the annals of America. The superb struggle of the colonists against the political oppression of England has a first claim upon the imagination and loyalty of the American citizen, and has from childhood, through the teachings of our mothers and the public school, become an ineffaceable portion of our National life.

"Every boy and girl in America is thrilled by the story of George Washington and the thirteen Colonies against the tyranny of the Crown.

"But I believe I shall not exaggerate when I say that a very large portion of the people of the United States are not aware of the fact that the war of 1812 constituted the coping stone of the edifice of American independence.

"Many years after the treaty of Paris the English Government arrogated to itself the right of pressing into its service citizens of the United States, on the pretext that such citizens, although they had been naturalized under the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, were still subjects of Great Britain and Ireland. Against such an assumption of illegal power the American people rose up in revolt.

"They realized then, as they do to-day, that the paramount glory of American civilization consists in the fact that America is a refuge for all distressed nations upon the earth. They were resolved, even though obliged to appeal to the arbitrament of war, to throw round every naturalized citizen the protection of the American flag. That was the policy of the Federal Government, at that time presided over by one whose name to-day is a talisman.

"President Monroe, that sturdy and uncompromising American, who formulated a doctrine which is still an impregnable barrier against any European invasion of the rights of the Western Hemisphere, determined under such circumstances that the American Constitution guaranteed equal rights and equal immunities to all the citizens of the United States, whether native-born or naturalized

"The war of 1812 was brought to its glorious termination to vindicate that principle, and that principle alone. The society, therefore, which perpetuates the memory of that short but magnificent struggle confers a distinct benefit upon our National life. It not merely serves to mark a page of history and keep fresh and green our memories of the victory won by Gen. Jackson over the British at New Orleans, but possesses for all modern Americans a wider significance.

"Those of us who have lately been thrilled with pride at the annihilation of the Spanish fleet on the morning of May 1, 1898, in Manila Bay, and by the destruction of the ships of Cervera off Santiago on July 3 of the same year should bear in mind the fact that the supremacy of the American Navy was created by the war of 1812.

"It was then that the American people, as had been shown in the battle between the Serapis and Bonhomme Richard, made the finest sailors and gunners in the world. That was proved in the war of 1812 by the destruction of seventeen of the finest ships of the British Navy, and still to-day we honor the memory of those great sea Captains and Commodores—Decatur, Hull, Barron, Bainbridge, and John Paul Jones.

"These men represented the best traditions of Americanism, and I congratulate your society upon its perpetuation of an epoch in our history so full of patriotism and victory."

The society held its first meeting in the morning for the transaction of business. This was followed by an informal luncheon, at which the guests included Capt. F. E. Chadwick, United States Navy, and Mrs. B. H. McCalla, wife of Capt. McCalla. This morning the delegates and other members will be the guests of Rear Admiral Philip, who will take them on a Government tug up the North River to Grant's Tomb.

Killing of Sweetkorch Justifiable.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Michael Sweetkorch, the farmhand who was shot yesterday by John McCullough on the Read farm, near Armonk, died during the night. Coroner Birch held an inquest to-night, and found that the shooting was justifiable. He will order the discharge of McCullough to-morrow.

Answer to a Correspondent.

DAVID H. JACKSON.—You should consult a lawyer. On your statement it looks as though you are entitled to a part, at least, of the property.

SALE OF SILKS.
Tuesday, January 9th.

A very extensive transfer from the wholesale department with an exhibition of new Spring fabrics will be included in this sale.

5,000 yards, — Foulard, white or black, and white figures on navy, grey, tan, vieux rose, violet, gobelin and black grounds. 55 cents per yard. Value 80 cents.

20,000 yards,—Fancy silks,—stripes, checks, plaids and faconne weaves, 50c, 75c, $1.00 & $1.25. Usual prices 85c to $2.00 per yard.

1,500 yards,—figured velvets and changeable velours. 75 cents & 95 cents. Value $2.00 to $4.50.

Black Taffetas,—24 inches wide, fine, heavy quality. 75 cents per yard. Usual price 95 cents.

A varied stock, comprising numerous designs and colors of printed Foulard and satin Liberty,—imported and American productions,—exclusive designs. 85c, $1.00, $1.25 & $1.50 per yard.

JAMES McCREERY & CO., Broadway and 11th St.

Registered Trade Mark.

4,800 Pieces Hemstitched Bed Linen

Bolster Cases, Pillow Cases, and Sheets, all of absolutely pure linen, carefully made and ready for instant use. Especial attention is directed to the prices that prevail during the

ANNUAL SALE

PILLOW CASES.
22½x36-inch at $1.00, 1.25, 1.50, 1.75, 2.00, 2.50, 2.75 pair.
25x36-inch at $1.25, 1.50, 1.75, 2.00, 2.25, 2.75, 3.00 pair.
27x36-inch at $1.50, 1.75, 2.00, 2.25, 2.50, 3.00, 3.50 pair.

BOLSTER CASES.
21x60-inch at . . $1.10, 1.25, 1.60, 1.85 each
21x72-inch at . . $1.25, 1.50, 1.85, 2.25 each
22½x72-inch at . . . . . $2.50 each

SHEETS FOR SINGLE BEDS.
72x96-inch $3.75, 4.50, 5.00, 5.50, 6.00, 6.50 pr.
72x108-inch at . . . . . $5.00, 6.50, 7.50 pair

SHEETS FOR DOUBLE BEDS.
90x96-inch at $4.50, 5.00, 5.50, 7.00, 8.00 pair
90x108-inch at . . . . . $6.00, 9.00 pair

Exceptional values also in Table Cloths, Napkins, Towels and Blankets.

"THE LINEN STORE."

James McCutcheon & Co.
14 West 23d Street.

O'Neill's
Sale of Groceries!
4th Floor.

Begins this morning.

Every Thrifty Housekeeper in and about New York should take advantage of this special offering. These are all strictly High Class, Dependable Goods, not a "second" among them.—Read:

TEAS.
Finest English Breakfast, Japan, Oolong or Mixed, per half pound . . 38c
One pound 75c
Five pounds 3.50
Choice English Breakfast, Japan, Oolong or Mixed, per half pound . . 33c
One pound 65c
Five pounds 3.00
Other Grades at 35c and 45c pound.
Sample Teas, pound, 30c.

HOME-MADE PRESERVES
in one-pound Glass Jars.
Strawberry, Raspberry, Quince, Peach, Apricot, Damson, Green Gage and Pineapple, jar 15c
One dozen jars 1.75

PRUNES.
The thin skin kind, delicious flavor, large size, fifty-five to the pound, 25-lb. boxes 1.90
2-lb. cartons, each . . . 16c
Extra fine quality, 2-lb. cartons . 20c
25-pound boxes . . 2.20

NUTS.
Mixed Nuts, five kinds, lb. . . 15c
Paper Shell Almonds, lb. . . 20c
Grenoble Walnuts, lb. . . 16c
Jumbo Pecans . . . 15c
Sicily Filberts . . . 14c
Brazil Nuts . . . 9c

DATES AND FIGS.
Dates stuffed with Almonds, Walnuts or Pecans, in wooden boxes, box . 35c
Golden Dates, 1-lb. pkgs . . 9c
Bricks of Figs . . . 15c

RAISINS.
Cluster Raisins, 5¼-lb. boxes . 1.35
In one and two pound pkgs., lb. . 20c

FISH.
Fancy Bloater Mackerel, 10-lb. kits, 2.05
Extra Large Shore Mackerel, 10-lb. kits, 1.75
Extra Shore Mackerel, 10-lb. kits . 1.30

VEGETABLES.
Asparagus, Oyster Bay, finest quality, can 35c
Patterson's Asparagus, can . . 23c
Oyster Bay Tips, finest quality, can . 22c
Finest Maine Corn, can . . 9c
Tomatoes, Extra Fancy, can . . 12c
Solid Cold Packed Tomatoes, can . 10c

And a host of other Bargains too numerous to mention here.

We are the Sole Agents in New York State for the Celebrated Lincoln Lithia Water.
We do not sell Wines, Liquors, or Cigars.
All Cash Purchases of Groceries delivered free to any railroad station within 100 miles of New York City.

ORDERS BY MAIL WILL RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

Sixth Ave., 20th to 21st St.

FLINT'S FINE FURNITURE

DRAWING-ROOM SUITES REDUCED.

Here the Fine Arts meet, yet great reductions have been made.

3 pc. MAHOGANY, $105.00
(reduced from $182.00)
Covered with damask.

3 pc. MAHOGANY, $175.00
(reduced from $230.00)
Covered with silk tapestry and fringe.

3 pc. MAHOGANY, $275.00
(reduced from $345.00)
Covered with striped silk tapestry.

Many other examples—Sheraton, Colonial, Chippendale, Renaissance—every artistic period now marked far below factory prices.

"BUY OF THE MAKER"

GEO. C. FLINT CO.
43 45 AND 47 WEST 23RD ST
NEAR BROADWAY.
FACTORY 154 AND 156 WEST 19TH STREET

CHURCH TEMPERANCE SOCIETY

"Inebriates and How to Treat Them" Discussed at the Annual Meeting—Some Reforms Urged.

The annual meeting of the Church Temperance Society was held yesterday in the Board Room of the Church Missions House, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second Street. In the morning the session was devoted to business matters, Bishop Coleman of Delaware presiding.

In his opening address Bishop Coleman said that no better argument could be found for the work of the society than the incident, published in the morning newspapers, of one of the best-known men in this country being assaulted on his own doorstep by a victim of the drink habit. Some law should be passed which would make such occurrences impossible.

Robert Graham, the General Secretary of the society, read his annual report, and spoke about the proposed temperance hotel and coffee house in the Bowery. Mrs. W. H. Bradford had, he said, offered to the society the free use of a five-story building for the purpose, and $18,000 had already been collected out of the $30,000 needed to establish the hotel. The report also referred to the number of persons arrested in this city for drunkenness during 1899—46,170, including 10,589 women.

"These figures," remarked Mr. Graham, "do not by any means show the number of persons who were intoxicated. When the well-to-do become inebriated they order cabs to take them home. It is only the poor man or woman who gets arrested." The report advocated the use of a portion of the income derived from liquor licenses for the reform of habitual inebriates.

The election of officers resulted in most of the old officers being re-elected. Bishop Doane was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee, Bishop Coleman Vice Chairman, Irving Grinnell Treasurer, and Robert Graham General Secretary. Mrs. George S. Bowdoin was elected President of the Women's Auxiliary, Miss H. D. Fellowes Corresponding Secretary, Miss H. K. Graham Recording Secretary, and Mrs. Charles Townsend Treasurer.

In the afternoon a general conference was held on the subject of "Inebriates and How to Treat Them." Bishop Doane of Albany presided. The discussion took the form of a presentation of the principal points of and addresses on a proposed amendment of the Greater New York charter and a proposed bill for the establishment of a State reformatory for inebriates.

The amendment provides, among other things, that persons convicted of intoxication in public may be punished by commitment to workhouse, penitentiary, county jail, or reformatory for six months, or by a fine. The commitment of inebriates to a reformatory is to be for a period of not more than three years, and is to apply to persons who have been previously committed for inebriation five times or more within two years.

The State Reformatory bill provides for the appointment of a Governor and Board of Managers, who shall have authority to select a site for an institution, in a rural district of the State, and who shall prepare plans to be reported to the next Legislature. A resolution approving of the proposed measures was passed.

Great Sale of Furs! | Great Sale of Furs!

O'Neill's.

Another Big Sale of Furs at 50c. on the Dollar!

WE closed out another big Furrier's Stock last week equally as attractive as the last, and will place it on sale this morning at prices just as tempting.

The lot includes Jackets, Neckscarfs, Muffs and Collarettes in all the popular Furs. If you wish to take advantage of this opportunity you had better be here early, for at the prices we have made these furs will go like wildfire. Just a hint:

Electric Seal Collarettes, with yoke of Persian Lamb, High Storm Collar, Long Tabs finished with Tails, 18.00

Canada Seal Collarettes, with Astrachan Paw Yoke, Top Collar and Tab Front, 6.98

Genuine Alaska Sable Collarettes, with double Storm Collar, 9.98

Alaska Sable Neckscarfs, finished with Tails, 4.98

MUFFS AND JACKETS AT PRICES IN PROPORTION.

The Great Half-Price Sale of La Vida Corsets Still Continues!

Every pair is guaranteed perfect. Remember, please, these Corsets are strictly hand-made, French gored, bias cut and all Whalebone, and are superior in every way to the best imported Gored Corset sold in this country (with no exceptions.)

Remember the Curtain and Portiere Sale.

JUST A MENTION OF THE PRICES, THAT'S ALL.

Lace Curtains, ... 39c. Each.
Portieres, ... 1.49 Each.

Orders by Mail Will Receive Prompt Attention.

Sixth Avenue, 20th to 21st Street.

Bulfinches

Whistling many songs, including "Bridal Wreath," "America," "So Let the Wide World Wag," "Mousetraps, Who'll Buy?" "How Can I Leave Thee?" "Let's Be Merry, Comrades," "Prince of Wales," "Where the Blue Waters Sparkle." These are the most tame, affectionate, and beautiful birds. Prices, $40, $50, $75, $100, with 2 or 3 having extra-long songs at $150, $200.

The Campanini Holden Canary is the great song canary, very soft and varied trills, bells, and flute notes, $8, $10, $15, $20, $25. Hartz Canary, extra grade, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00; guaranteed to sing to suit. Breeding females, $1.00. Birds sent everywhere by express. Holden's new Book on Birds, all about mating, food, and care, by mail for 25 cts., stamps.

G. H. HOLDEN, 240 6th Ave., (15th St.)

Brain Workers.
Horsford's Acid Phosphate
Strengthens the exhausted and confused brain, relieves nervous headache and induces refreshing sleep.
Genuine bears name HORSFORD'S on wrapper.

AMUSEMENTS.

Charles Frohman's Criterion Theatre, B'way & 44th St., Ev'gs, 8:20.
BEGINNING TO-NIGHT AT 8:20.
Charles Frohman Presents
Maude Adams
In J. M. Barrie's Comedy,
The Little Minister.
FIRST MATINEE SATURDAY.

EMPIRE THEATRE. Broadway and 40th St. 3d Week—Matinées Wednesday and Saturday.
EMPIRE THEATRE COMPANY. MY LADY'S LORD
"Positive Success."—Sun.

GARRICK THEATRE. 35th St. & B'way. Evenings, 8 o'clock. Mats., 2:15. 3d Month—Matinée Saturday only.
Wm. Gillette in His New Play Sherlock Holmes.

MADISON SQ. THEATRE. 24th St., nr. B'way. EVGS., 8:30. MATINEES, 2:15. Matinées Wednesday and Saturday.
Greatest Hit This Season. WHEELS WITHIN WHEELS
"The cleverest play that has been produced in town this year; not only so, but we have never seen a comedy acted in a Broadway Theatre where the entire cast displayed such all-around excellence, far above the usual productions of modern comedy."—Evening Sun.

GARDEN THEATRE, 27th St. and Madison Av.
CHARLES FROHMAN.....Manager
Evenings, 8:30. Only Matinée Saturday.
FAREWELL PERFORMANCES OF MR. RICHARD
MANSFIELD
To-night at 7:45, Cyrano de Bergerac; Wednesday, Prince Karl; Thursday, A Parisian Romance; Friday, Beau Brummell; Saturday Matinee, The Devil's Disciple; Saturday Evening, (Farewell Night,) Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.
NEXT MONDAY EVENING
Engagement of
MRS. LANGTRY
In Sydney Grundy's Comedy,
THE DEGENERATES
Seats Ready Thursday, 9 A. M.
Mail orders must be accompanied by check.

PROCTOR'S 23d ST. Cont. Perf. 15, 25, 50c. FOUR COHANS. YORKE & ADAMS
Moulière Sisters, Ethel Levey, Moving Pic., 30 Others.

PALACE 58th St. & 3d Av. Cont. Perf. Rossow Midgets, Merkel Sisters, 15, 25, 50c. Ed. Latell, Seymour and Dupre, Diana, W.C. Davies, 30 Others.

Berkeley Lyceum, 19-21 W. 44th St.
Six beautifully illuminated lectures by GARRETT P. SERVISS.
Wed., Jan. 10, 11 A. M. First Lecture: "Old Holland and the Romance of the Dutch Republic."
Tickets: Course, Six Lectures, $5.00; Single Lecture, $1.00; seats reserved. (Balcony Seats, $3.00 and 50c.) For sale at Berkeley Lyceum.

MENDELSSOHN HALL.
THIS AFTERNOON, AT 3 O'CLOCK.
Second Lecture-Song Recital
by the renowned English Vocal Teacher,
Mr. William Shakespeare
Assisted by Mr. Henry Waller.
Third Recital Tuesday, January 16.
Res. Seats $1.50 and $1. On sale at Schuberth's.

Koster & Bial's
JARBEAU, CHAS. T. ALDRICH, GENARO & DAILEY, MLLE. AZARA, others.
50c.—MATINEE TO-MORROW.—50c.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN. Jan. 1 to Jan. 27. Open 10 A. M. to 6 P. M., and 8 P. M. to 10 P. M. Admission . . . . . 25c.
75TH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of OIL PAINTINGS at The Fine Arts Society, 215 West 57th St.

KNICKERBOCKER. B'WAY & 38TH ST.
N. C. Goodwin Maxine Elliott
Evs. 8:15. Mat. Sat. 2:15.
THE COWBOY AND THE LADY.

Hammerstein's 42d St., B'way & 7th Av. VICTORIA Evgs. 8:30. Sat. Mat. 2:15
Mat. Sat. Prices, 50, 75, $1.00
Jerome Sykes & Edna Wallace Hopper AND CHRIS AND THE WONDERFUL LAMP.

AMUSEMENTS.

METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE.
GRAND OPERA SEASON 1899-1900.
Under the direction of Mr. MAURICE GRAU.
To-morrow Ev'g., at 8, LE PROPHETE. Mmes. Schumann-Heink and Suzanne Adams; MM. Alvarez, Plancon, and Ed. de Reszke. Conductor, Sig. Mancinelli.
Fri. Ev'g., Jan. 12, at 8, TANNHAUSER. Mmes. Gadski, Olitzka, and Nordica; MM. Van Dyck, Van Rooy, and Plancon. Conductor, Emil Paur.
Sat. Mat., Jan. 13, at 2, CARMEN. Mmes. Calvé and Clementine De Vere; MM. Saleza and Campanari. Conductor, Sig. Mancinelli.
Sat. Ev'g., Jan. 13, at 8, at Popular Prices, ROMEO ET JULIETTE. Mmes. Suzanne Adams and Mantelli; MM. Alvarez (his only appearance at the popular Saturday night performances) and Plancon. Conductor, Sig. Bevignani.
Sun. Ev'g., Jan. 14, at 8:15, Grand Popular Concert. Soloists: Mme. Sembrich, Miss Broadfoot; MM. Dippel, Bertram, and Arthur Friedheim, Pianist, together with the Met. Opera House Orchestra. Conductor, Paur.
WEBER PIANOS USED.

HARLEM Opera House. NEXT WEEK JEFFERSON DE ANGELIS in SEATS NOW SELLING. THE JOLLY MUSKETEER. Ev. & Sat. Mat.
MR. RICHARD MANSFIELD.
Monday & Thursday, CYRANO DE BERGERAC; Tuesday Eve. & Sat. Mat., THE FIRST VIOLIN; Wednesday, A PARISIAN ROMANCE; Friday, Beau Brummel; Sat. Ev., Dr. Jekyll & Mr. Hyde.

DALY'S B'way & 30th.....at 8:20 Matinées Wednesday & Sat., 2. Daniel Frohman's Company
2D MONTH.
The Maneuvers of Jane
Comedy, 4 acts, by Henry Arthur Jones.

LYCEUM 4th Av. & 23d.....at 8:30 Daniel Frohman.....Manager Matinées Thurs. & Sat., 2.
150th Time Jan. 15. Handsome Souvenirs. Extra Matinée To-day. Last 2 weeks.
CHARLES FROHMAN PRESENTS
ANNIE RUSSELL in MISS HOBBS MISS HOBBS

AMERICAN 42d St. & EIGHTH AVE. CASTLE SQ. OPERA CO.
3d Year. 100 People. Box office open 8.
GILBERT and SULLIVAN'S BEST "IOLANTHE"
Evs. 8:15. 25c. to $1. Mats. Wed., Sat. 1, 100 seats, 25c.
Next Week—MARTHA (in English.)

BROADWAY Theatre, 41st St. & B'way. Evs. at 8. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2.
THE GREAT SUCCESS. BEN-HUR
SEATS ON SALE UP TO MARCH 1ST.

5th Ave THEATRE, B'way & 28th. Evs. 8:15. Matinées Wed. & Sat. The Latest Musical Comedy Success,
THREE LITTLE LAMBS

KEITH'S CONTINUOUS PERFORMANCE.
KATHRYN OSTERMAN in "The Editor."
Beatrice Moreland in "Taming a Husband."
Williams & Tucker in "Skinny's Finish."

CASINO! FIRST MATINEE TO-DAY!
Rice's London Fairy Extravaganza!
LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD!
Matinee Every Day! Same Every Night!

COMIQUE B'WAY & 29TH. MATINEE TODAY 25 & 50c. THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT.
& Vaudeville. CITY CLUB CO.
Tobascoscope, Sensational Moving Pictures.

MANHATTAN Theatre, 33d & B'way. Evs. 8:15. Sat. Mat.
ANNA HELD in PAPA'S WIFE.
EXTRA MATINEE TO-MORROW!

WALLACK'S Broadway & 30th St. Evs. 8:15. Mat. Sat., 2:15.
FRANK DANIELS in THE AMEER.

THE DEWEY East 14th St. MATINEE TO-DAY. VANITY FAIR BURLESQUERS "ROBBER ROY." "PARIS 1900."

WORLD IN WAX. CINEMATOGRAPH.
EDEN MUSEE
NEW GROUPS. CHARMING MUSIC

14th ST. THEATRE nr. 6th Av. Mats. Wed. & Sat. ONLY 2 MORE WEEKS of the best of all rural dramas,
THE VILLAGE POSTMASTER.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC. 14th St. & Irving Pl. 3d Month, WAY DOWN EAST.
Prices, 25, 50, 75, 1.00. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2. Eve. 8:10.

BIJOU. B'way & 30th St. Ev. 8:15. Mat. Sat. only. Phone 2224 Mad. Sq.
MAY IRWIN IN SISTER MARY
BEST ORCHESTRA SEATS ONLY $1.50.

Weber & Fields' MUSIC HALL. Matinees B'way & 30 St. Tues. & Sat.
Whirl-I-Gig & BARBARA FIDGETY

GRAND OPERA HOUSE. Greatest of all Naval Dramas, The GUNNER'S MATE

MURRAY HILL THEA. 42d St. & Lex. Av.
MATINEE EVERY DAY, 25c.
This Week: THE WIFE.

IRVING PLACE THEATRE. Mat. Sat.
TO-NIGHT, & Wed. last times, SCHWEIGHOFER
Greatest Hit, 'S NULLERL.

HERALD SQUARE THEATRE. DAVID BELASCO'S NAUGHTY ANTHONY.
Evs. 8:20. Mats. Wed. & Sat.

HUBER'S 14TH ST. MUSEUM. 10c. to All. Mohmed Ben Jamin. Wonderful Turk

DAILY, ONE CENT. SUNDAY, THREE CENTS.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

The New York Times.

THE WEATHER. Threatening and warmer; brisk southwesterly winds.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.

VOL. XLIX...NO. 15,602. NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1900.—FOURTEEN PAGES. ONE CENT In Greater New York and Jersey City. Elsewhere TWO CENTS.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

Stocks heavy.

Cash wheat, No. 2 red, 75¾c; cash corn, No. 2, mixed, 41c.; cash cotton, 7 9-16c.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Beveridge of Indiana made a speech in support of the policy of retaining the Philippines. He was replied to by Senator Hoar of Massachusetts. Senator Hoar introduced a resolution calling upon the President for information concerning a proclamation sent to Gen. Otis relative to the Philippines. New York business men appeared before a committee of the House to urge the building of the Pacific cable by private enterprise. Senator Foraker has made a number of changes in his bill for the government of Puerto Rico. The House Democrats caucused and considered plans for the unification of the various elements opposed to the Republican policy —Page 5.

FOREIGN.—Criticism of the conduct of the war in South Africa is again the uppermost topic in London. It is intimated that another British General will be superseded. A report is given out in London that the British Government has chartered the American liner St. Paul as a transport. The British reply to the German protest against the seizure of steamers has been sent to Berlin, but is not satisfactory, as it asserts the right of search on the high seas. A denial was made yesterday in Washington of the report from London that the United States and Germany were seeking a common ground upon which to unite in representations concerning the seizure of vessels. The new United States cruiser Albany, purchased from the Brazilian Government before the Spanish war, had her official trial at Newcastle yesterday. The French Chamber of Deputies and the Prussian Diet reconvened yesterday. Advices received in London say that cannibals of the Admiralty Islands killed and feasted on the crew of a British schooner. Louise Masset, who murdered her three-year-old child, was hanged at Newgate yesterday. A boy was born to Princess Henry of Prussia yesterday. The Kaiser spoke openly of Socialism for the first time in receiving the Technical High School delegation.—Pages 1 and 6.

Page 1.

A physician at Hampton, Iowa, became insane and killed a ten-months-old child while making an examination of it.

The Dreyfus case was injected into the Molineux trial yesterday, when Dr. Persifor Frazer of Philadelphia, a handwriting expert, was on the stand.

Page 2.

After a conference with the officers of the company, many of the agents of the New York Life Insurance Company decided not to change employers; others signed Equitable contracts.

"Terry" McGovern defeated George Dixon in their fight for the featherweight championship and a purse of $10,000.

Page 3.

Three men were killed in a pistol fight in a courtroom in a small town in Mississippi.

The case of ex-Capt. Oberlin M. Carter came up in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday.

The residence of Joseph Pulitzer was destroyed by fire. Two women were burned to death and a valuable art collection was ruined.

Capt. W. L. Hazen of Company B was declared elected Lieutenant Colonel of the Seventy-first Regiment last night and Capt. W. H. Linson of Company D Major.

Assemblyman Trainor will introduce in the Assembly to-day two bills to restrict the privileges of trust companies and place them on something of an equality with the banks.

Chairman Odell of the Republican State Committee has discovered among the papers of his predecessor, Charles W. Hackett, a statement giving credit to the delegates from the Eastern and Middle States, unde. the leadership of Senators Platt and Lodge, for the authorship of the financial plank in the Republican National platform.

Page 4.

It is reported that Senator Coffey will introduce a bill providing for seventy-five-cent gas in Brooklyn.

Representatives of fifty railroads, comprising more than half the mileage of the United States, agreed on action looking to the maintenance of rates.

The Massachusetts Commissioners for the Fitchburg Railroad charge that the agreement between the New York Central and the Boston and Albany is illegal.

The authorities of Mount Vernon are convinced now that the killing of Mrs. Morrison by her husband was either the act of a madman or deliberate murder.

The Court of Appeals yesterday reversed the Appellate Division in the Gerry society case, holding that the society was not subject to the supervision of the State Board of Charities.

Page 5.

The claim of Admiral Dewey and his officers and men for bounty arising out of the destruction of the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay was argued yesterday in the Court of Claims at Washington.

Page 7.

A collision on the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad resulted in the death of a tracklayer.

The Newark City Home, at Verona, N. J., was destroyed by fire last night. None of the 300 inmates was injured.

Sylvester L. Malone, a nephew of the late Father Malone, gave out a statement yesterday in regard to the trouble between the Malone family and Bishop McDonnell.

Page 8.

The New Jersey Legislature convened and received the message of Gov. Voorhees.

Page 9.

The Mayor sent his annual message to the Municipal Assembly yesterday.

F. J. H. Kracke, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, made his report on the sale of adulterated and spurious food products in this city.

The horse for the bronze equestrian statue of Washington by Daniel C. French, to be presented by the Daughters of the Revolution to the City of Paris, was cast successfully.

The will of Eugene G. Cruger, formerly of this city, who died in France, has been filed here for probate. A contest is likely, as the will ignores his three children, who reside here with their mother, Mrs. J. Frederic Tams.

Page 14.

At the meeting yesterday of the Rapid Transit Commissioners Controller Coler introduced a resolution providing for the extension of the underground road to Brooklyn. Citizens appeared before the board to urge the beginning of the work simultaneously on the upper and lower sections.

Amusements.—Page 7.
Arrivals at Hotels and Out-of-Town Buyers.—Page 2.
Business Troubles.—Page 9.
Court Calendars.—Page 12.
Insurance Notes.—Page 12.
Legal Notes.—Page 14.
Losses by Fire.—Page 2.
Markets.—Page 9.
Marine Intelligence and Foreign Mails.—Page 3.
New Corporations.—Page 11.
Railroads.—Page 4.
Real Estate.—Page 12.
Society.—Page 7.
Weather Report.—Page 2
Yesterday's Fires.—Page 2.

Roland Reed Somewhat Better.

Dr. Baker, Superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital, reported last night that Roland Reed was somewhat improved, and at a late hour was resting comfortably.

German Count a Cheater at Cards.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—Count Pueckler Limpurf, a Lieutenant in the Fifth Guards, has been dismissed from the army for cheating at cards.

The End of the Nineteenth Century witnesses the unprecedented success of G. H. Mumm's Extra Dry, imports in 1899 being 109,303 cases, or 72,495 cases more than any other brand. These facts speak, not misleading figures bid at auction sales.—Adv.

UNREST IN GREAT BRITAIN

Conduct of the War Brings Out Sharp Criticism.

MORE TROOPS ARE DEMANDED

The Liberal Party Is Preparing to Assail the Government When Parliament Reassembles.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The impatience of the public over the situation in South Africa pours itself into a discussion of the conduct of the war, and of what might have been done or ought now to be done.

The Morning Post demands that the forces afield, afloat, and in preparation shall be increased by 65,000 men. To this end it urges that all the trained men the country possesses, militia and volunteers, shall be called out, asserting incidentally that, although the attitude of other powers is correct in the diplomatic sense of the word, an invasion, if attempted, would be sudden, and that now is the time to apprehend contingencies.

The Daily News editorially defines the public opinion of the Continent as "in a state which should not be ignored." It calls for "greater vigilance than ever on the part of those responsible for the efficiency of the navy," and urges "cautious, circumspect, and businesslike diplomacy."

The Daily Mail says it understands that the supersession of another General commanding in South Africa will shortly be announced. This may have relation to Gen. Butler's hasty summons from Devonport. It is reported that he came by special train to London yesterday and held a long consultation with the Headquarters Staff. This seems to indicate that his advice, which only recently was in extreme disfavor, is about to be utilized.

The critics range up and down the entire field of war transactions, finding fault especially with the lack of transports for the troops who are ready to depart, and with the concealment of news, averring that the censorship in South Africa embraces the mails; that the reports of correspondents are being mutilated and entire letters suppressed.

The Government's defense as put forth by Mr. Balfour at Manchester has produced a disagreeable impression upon the country. The Standard, Times, and St. James's Gazette join in the almost unanimous metropolitan and provincial disapproval of the Government's explanations.

The various segments of the Liberal Party are being drawn together for united opposition in Parliament next month.

Great Britain's losses since the war began are fast approaching 8,000. A War Office compilation of casualties, issued last evening, shows a total of 7,213—1,027 killed, 3,675 wounded, and 2,511 missing. These do not include 140 who have succumbed to disease nor the casualties at Ladysmith last Saturday.

The Times, in an editorial based upon Mr. Balfour's declarations yesterday, severely criticises the Government, and says:

"It is fortunate for the Government that when Parliament meets it will only have to face the weak Opposition. If the shortcomings now revealed had been revealed in a war with a first-class European power the nation would not have been consoled by statements such as Mr. Balfour has been making.

"It is neither becoming nor prudent, after what has happened, for a Minister to declare, as Mr. Balfour did, that he does not feel that he need apologize on behalf of the Government. It would be better for the country and for Ministers themselves if the latter frankly owned that they had made a mistake, pleaded extenuating circumstances, and pledged themselves to a serious effort to reform all which has proved wanting."

MR. BALFOUR ON THE CRISIS.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, speaking this evening in East Manchester, said:

"I know of no war in which Great Britain has been engaged, except that resulting in the independence of the American colonies, which did not end triumphantly. Yet I do not know of one which has begun triumphantly. True, the war in South Africa is disappointing, but it is not a fact that Great Britain has suffered exceptional reverses or great disaster. On the other hand, the war has knit together every branch of the English-speaking race, making all feel that they have a great, common destiny, which it is their duty to accomplish.

"These are thoughts which ought to support us in far greater trials than any this war may produce. Remember that a nation which cannot bear defeat is a nation unworthy of empire, and, although defeat has not yet come, and, although we hope and believe it will not come in the course of the present war, yet, if matters should turn out otherwise, we should still rely upon the courage and patriotism of our countrymen." [Cheers.]

Addressing a second meeting, held at Ardwick, a suburb of Manchester, Mr. Balfour said:

"While I am loath to claim, in any proud and arrogant spirit, that we are in any special sense the leaders of a great humanitarian cause, I deny in the strongest manner that we are animated by ignoble motives. No more false or stupid calumny was ever invented than the accusation that Great Britain is animated by a petty desire to add wealthy regions to an already gigantic empire. No mere acquisition of territory could compensate for a war costing so much blood and treasure."

Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, addressing the London Chamber of Commerce to-day and dealing with questions of national defense, said that, now that war prevailed, more attention would be paid, perhaps, to those who had warned the country that it was laboring under a "rotten, false, and misleading system of administration" so far as the services were concerned.

"While I would deprecate the adoption of conscription," said Lord Charles, "I hope the country will insist upon overhauling and reforming the naval and military services. In connection with the war in South Africa I contend that our Generals should be held harmless, for they have been set to do an impossibility."

LINER ST. PAUL IS CHARTERED?

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Admiralty in seeking transports is reported to have chartered the American liner St. Paul, which was inspected previous to chartering. Three Liverpool steamers have also been chartered.

DENY RUMOR OF JOINT ACTION.

Washington Authorities Discredit London Report of Understanding Between America and Germany.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—There is some reason to believe that the United States and German Embassies are trying to find a common basis on which they can co-operate in pressing their respective demands against Great Britain for the Delagoa Bay seizures. A high official of the German Embassy had a long conference to-day at the American Embassy, and the diplomats are believed to have discussed the steps each country has already taken and the best future procedure.

At the same time, there is every indication that Great Britain is showing the most friendly consideration to the representations of both the Ambassadors, and that the present difficulties will be settled in the most amicable manner. As previously set forth in these dispatches, it is expected that the American flour will speedily be released, while the release of the German steamer General is believed to prelude the liberation of the Herzog. The status of the Bundesrath is not yet fully settled, but Germany's representatives believe Great Britain will give satisfaction for any delay occasioned to a legitimate cargo.

Both the United States and German Embassies are now anxious to obtain a British declaration in regard to the treatment of neutral ships hereafter, and it is believed they exchanged views on the subject.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—It is stated here on authority that the United States Government is not co-operating with Germany or any other Government in representations to the British Government respecting the seizure of goods destined for Portuguese East Africa. Moreover, our Government does not contemplate any such co-operation.

The difference between the cases of the seized German vessels and the seizures of American goods, the latter in British vessels, is so pronounced that the same principles would have no application. So it is the determination of the department to conduct its negotiations on this point single handed, and that is now being done.

Mr. Choate, American Ambassador at London, is in daily communication with the Foreign Office as well as with the Department of State on this subject. The negotiations are now in that phase where both sides are endeavoring to develop facts respecting the seizures, and the final answer of the British Government to our representations made last week is not expected for several days.

DUTCH WARSHIP FIRED ON?

LONDON, Jan. 9.—It is announced in a special dispatch from Amsterdam to-day that an uncredited rumor is current there that a British cruiser has fired upon the Dutch cruiser Friesland, near Delagoa Bay, and that a Dutch officer was killed.

MEDIATION IS REJECTED.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—King Leopold, according to the Brussels correspondent of The Daily Mail, recently inquired of Queen Victoria whether an opportune moment for mediation had arrived, but received a reply in the negative.

GERMANY'S CONTENTION DENIED

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Daily Graphic makes the following statement regarding the seizures of German vessels by British warships:

"Germany has addressed two notes to the British Foreign Office challenging Great Britain's right to detain any vessels traveling between two neutral ports. These notes have been duly answered.

"The Queen's Government find themselves wholly unable to acquiesce in Germany's contention. Germany cited a case in support of her contention, but on examination this so-called precedent proved to be quite inapplicable to the seizures under discussion.

"The correspondence between the two Governments rests there, pending a decision by the prize court."

The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Mail gives, under reserve, a report that 45,000 lyddite shells have been turned out by the Krupp works, which are not destined for England, but were ordered some time ago by Dr. Leyds.

BRITAIN REPLIES TO GERMANY.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—The seizures of German vessels by British warships are still uppermost in the public opinion of Germany. Emperor William confers daily, sometimes twice, with the Foreign Secretary, Count von Buelow, regarding the situation, which was described this afternoon by a well-informed official as "most serious." The first British official reply to Germany's request for an explanation arrived to-day from Lord Salisbury, but is deemed unsatisfactory, although the Foreign Office admits that the tone of the British answer is conciliatory, and that its argument is plausible from the British point of view. The main difference between the British and German conceptions regarding the justifiableness of the seizures is in the interpretation placed upon contraband and the right of search, and it seems impossible that an agreement will soon be reached between the two Governments.

The German Foreign Office is indignant that the British authorities in Cape Town stop letters and other official mail matter sent to German Consuls in Pretoria and Johannesburg.

All the members of the United States Embassy in Berlin attended a concert given this afternoon at the Hotel Vier Jahresjten for the benefit of the sick and wounded in South Africa.

KAISER SAYS NAVY IS NEEDED.

STUTTGART, Jan. 9.—Emperor William, telegraphing his thanks to the King of Würtemberg for assuming the patronage of the Würtemberg Committee of the Navy League, says:

"I hope the events of the last few days will have convinced the ever-widening circles that not only Germany's interests but Germany's honor must be protected on distant seas, and to this end Germany must be strong and powerful on the seas also."

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—The Government must feel confident of the passage of the Naval bill, because a commission from the Navy Department is now placing large orders for iron and steel, needed for the new ships, with the Silesian Works.

ONE GERMAN STEAMER RELEASED.

British Let the General Go, but Still Detain the Herzog.

ADEN, Jan. 9.—The Imperial German mail steamer General, detained here by the British authorities since Jan. 4, on suspicion of having contraband of war on board, has been released. After her cargo had been examined, it was found that she only had a few chemicals and axletrees on board. Nothing else was disclosed.

A quantity of Trieste flour, brought by a Lloyds steamer, supposed to be bound for the Transvaal, has been held pending the decision of a prize court.

DURBAN, Jan. 9.—The seized German steamer Herzog has been handed over to the prize court. The Portuguese Governor of Zambesia was among her passengers. The British naval authorities have offered him a ship to convey him to Delagoa Bay. The steamer Bundesrath is discharging.

MR. HAY WILL NOT PROTEST.

Transvaal Action in Refusing to Allow the American Consul to Act for the British Is Ignored.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Mail advices are just coming to hand from United States Consul Macrum, explaining in detail the situation at Pretoria at the outbreak of the war and his own conduct respecting the representation of British interests in the Transvaal.

It appears from these that Mr. Macrum, like his successor at Pretoria, Mr. Hollis, was placed under a technical limitation in the exercise of his functions by the Boer Government, and while he was permitted to disburse the funds sent him by the British Government for the comfort of the British prisoners in Pretoria, he did so under the distinct stipulation that he was acting unofficially. Possibly the motive of the Boer Government in refusing to allow the American Consul to act officially was a desire on its part to force the British Government into some official recognition of the status of the South African Republics.

If so, the effort failed, and Mr. Macrum and his successor, Mr. Hollis, have gone on in their work of mercy, without molestation from the Boer Government. This object being secured, and there being little else at present in the nature of business touching British interests in Pretoria that requires the attention of a representative of that Government, the State Department here is disposed to allow the situation to drift along without change or protest because the Boer Government has not seen fit to allow the American Consul to act in an official manner.

There is nothing in Mr. Macrum's report to throw the faintest light upon his inex-

Continued on Page 2.

INSANE DOCTOR KILLS A CHILD.

Crushes In Its Face While Making Examination, Then, Seizing a Leg, Swings the Body Over His Head.

HAMPTON, Iowa, Jan. 9.—Dr. G. W. Appleby, for several years the leading physician at Bristow, Butler County, last night, in a fit of insanity, killed a ten-months-old child of Henry Wearley of this place, while making an examination of it in Dr. Hobson's office of this city. The parents had brought the child to Dr. Hobson's office to be treated for some trifling ailment, and before he had time to attend to it the doctor was called out.

Dr. Appleby, who was visiting Dr. Hobson, was in the office, and the latter suggested that Dr. Appleby should make the necessary examination, which, as soon as Dr. Hobson left the office, he proceeded to do. He took the child in his arms and handled it so roughly that the parents protested, but to no avail. Suddenly he put his thumbs under its chin, and with his fingers on top of its head, crushed its face in so that blood gushed out of its nose and mouth. Then, jumping up, he seized the child by one foot and began swinging it around his head, resisting all efforts of the terror-stricken parents to stop him, and it was not until help was called in that the child was taken from him. It was quite dead. Appleby declared that God had taken the child.

The Insane Commission was immediately convened, and at midnight Appleby was on his way to the hospital for insane at Independence. Three or four hours after the occurrence he seemed comparatively rational, and said he knew what he was doing when he killed the child, but could not help it. The cause of his insanity is supposed to have been religious excitement.

WARNING TO POSTAL EMPLOYES.

Must Not Visit Washington to Influence Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—An order was issued to-day by the Post Office Department bearing the signature of William L. Wilson, Postmaster General. It is a republication by Postmaster General Smith of an order issued by Mr. Wilson on Dec. 6, 1895, emphatically warning Post Office employes in different parts of the country against coming to Washington to influence legislation.

This order, which Mr. Smith now makes his own, announces that any Postmaster, clerk, letter carrier, or other employe offending in this manner shall be liable to removal.

"Postmasters and other employes of the Postal Service," says the order, "are paid by the Government for attending to the respective duties assigned them, which do not include efforts to secure legislation. That duty is assigned to the Representatives of the people selected for that purpose. If bills are introduced in either branch of Congress affecting the Postal Service upon which any information or recommendation is desired I am ready at all times to submit such as lies in my power and province."

The employes in the Postal Service are just now much interested in legislation, and are anxious among other things to secure a change in the salary schedules. Bills in the interest of letter carriers and others will be acted upon at this session.

HIGHER CHICAGO BUILDINGS.

City Council to be Urged to Allow Twelve Stories.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Building Commissioner McAndrews favors an amendment to the building ordinance fixing the limit of the height of buildings to be constructed at twelve instead of ten stories. The Council's action on the matter of the Marshall Field building, at Adams and Clark Streets, brought out the necessity for an amendment. A week ago it passed an order fixing the limit at twelve stories in that building, and the structural work has been completed since then.

"There is $27,000,000 waiting for building operations until such an amendment is passed," said the Commissioner, "and I will ask that the amendment be adopted. There is no reason why the limit should not be as high as that."

BEQUEST TO DR. TALMAGE.

$6,000 Left to Him, in Trust, for Missionary Work—Other Gifts.

Special to The New York Times.

CLINTON, Iowa, Jan. 9.—The will of Thomas Calderwood, probated to-day, leaves $15,000 for charitable purposes, distributed as follows:

Lyons Methodist Episcopal Church, $2,000; the Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage, Washington, $6,000, to be used for missionary work in Armenia and India, the same to be held in trust by Mr. Talmage and disposed of as he deems proper; Christian Home Association, Council Bluffs, Iowa, $1,000; Lyons Library Association, $2,000; Agatha Hospital, Clinton, $1,000; needy poor of Lyons, $2,000. To the Rev. G. R. Manning of De Witt he left $1,000.

Mr. Calderwood was a bachelor, who died recently, leaving an estate valued at about $80,000.

THIRD RAIL LINE TO LENOX.

Reported that Consolidated Road Will Build from Pittsfield.

Special to The New York Times.

NORWALK, Conn., Jan. 9.—Summer residents of Lenox have interested the Consolidated Railroad in their struggle against the extension of the lines of the Pittsfield Electric Street Railway Company to Lenox, and it is understood that the Consolidated Road will construct and establish a third-rail system between Pittsfield on the north and Great Barrington on the south, passing through Lenox, Lee, and Stockbridge.

It is understood that the Adams Express Company, through some of its Directors who are Lenox cottagers, has also exerted a strong influence on the Directors of the Consolidated Company to establish the system, which it is expected will be in operation within six months.

BISHOP COADJUTOR ELECTED.

Dr. Charles P. Anderson Chosen for the Chicago Episcopal Diocese.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The Rev. Dr. Charles Palmerson Anderson, rector of Grace Church, Oak Park, Ill., was to-day elected Bishop Coadjutor of the Episcopal Diocese of Chicago at the special convention of that denomination held at SS. Peter and Paul Cathedral. He was chosen on the first ballot, although not the unanimous selection of the body.

The conservative element among the laymen, led by Edwin Walker, fought hard to have the balloting postponed until the annual convention, in May, but their efforts were in vain, as Dr. Anderson had the active support of Bishop McLaren and a large percentage of the clergy.

No date for the consecration of the new Bishop Coadjutor has been set. The standing committees of every diocese on the continent will have to approve the selection, and the Board of Bishops must add its sanction before the ceremony can be performed. The present plan is to have Dr. Anderson ordained before the beginning of Lent, and Feb. 25 may be selected as the date.

Killed by a Fall from a Roof.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 9.—Mrs. George Weeks, wife of the proprietor of the Woodbine Hotel, in Port Chester, fell from the roof of an extension to the building, two stories to the ground below, at 10 o'clock this morning, and was instantly killed. She had gone to the roof to hang out some clothes. She was standing near the edge of the roof, hanging clothes on the line, when it broke, and she plunged headforemost to the ground, eighteen feet below. Her head struck the frozen ground, and was crushed.

KENTUCKY TROOPS IN ARMS?

Rumored that They Are Being Quietly Ordered Out.

MAY DECLARE MARTIAL LAW

Ex-Gov. Bradley, However, Denies that Bloodshed Is Feared and Discredits Sensational Reports.

Special to The New York Times.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 9.—It is reported here that the Kentucky militia is being held in readiness for a clash between Republicans and Democrats here when it is proposed to declare the State under martial law and appeal to the Supreme Court for a solution of the difficulty. Under the provisions of the State Constitution Gov. Taylor cannot call out the militia until trouble has actually begun, but the Republicans desire to have the members of the State Guard on hand, and are therefore, it is asserted, preparing to assemble the men at Frankfort in citizens' clothes, forwarding their guns and uniforms by express.

Thirty men under Lieut. Ward, so the story goes, came here on a morning train and seventy more under Capt. Bryan were to follow this afternoon, but were ordered to wait till to-morrow before coming. They are to be boarded in various parts of the town for an indefinite time, and should the opportunity for declaring martial law not come they will be called out, should the Legislature seat Goebel and the Democratic State officers, to protect the Republicans who propose to hold on and seek to enjoin the Democrats in the Supreme Court.

Ex-Gov. W. O. Bradley, chief counsel for Gov. Taylor, when asked to-day regarding stories that troops had been brought here in citizens' clothes, denied all knowledge of the matter, and denied with vehemence that the Republican plans included arrangements to import here large bodies of men from over the State for the purpose of intimidating the Legislature. He said:

"We will summon about 2,000 witnesses here whose evidence is to be taken for use before the State contest board, and many of them, I suppose, will come, but there will be no effort at intimidation. I take no stock in the talk about bloodshed."

At the Adjutant General's office it was admitted that a guard is in charge of the State arsenal.

The Republicans refuse to confirm or deny another report which is in circulation to the effect that the Federal courts are to be called upon to settle the dispute over the control of the State offices, but it is believed Federal intervention will be asked in the contests if the Democrats are sustained.

This can only be done in one way, it is held. The Court of Appeals must first pass upon the validity of the appointment of the Election Commissioners, which will be soon done, an appeal having been made covering the whole case.

Then if the Democrats are seated the Republicans must refuse to give up their seats and defend them with the military arm of the State. The Democrats would then set up a dual government, and on the ground that a state of rebellion exists in the State Federal intervention could be had, the highest State court having previously passed on the contest.

This may be the programme, but aside from the presence of militia not in uniform there is nothing at present to justify such a conjecture other than the speeches by the Republicans at last night's caucus.

BLACKBURN NAMED FOR SENATOR.

Kentucky Legislature Declares for Him—Bradley May Contest.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 9.—The House to-day balloted for United States Senator, with the following result:

Blackburn, (Democrat,) 57; Bradley, (Republican,) 42. In the Senate the ballot for Senator stood: Blackburn, 22; Bradley, 12.

The joint assembly will ballot to-morrow, and on account of doubt as to whether the ballot should occur to-day or next Tuesday the proceedings of to-day and to-morrow will be duplicated on the corresponding days of next week.

There is ground for the belief that Mr. Bradley will contest the seat of Senator Blackburn before the United States Senate, on the ground that, owing to the fraud perpetrated under the Goebel law, Republicans who would have been chosen to the Legislature were defrauded of their offices. The Senate has refused to unseat in similar cases, but it is believed Senator Deboe, in his conferences with the President and other leaders, has been assured that such a contest is worth making.

Senator Goebel denies that his forces have in contemplation a bill to annul the charter of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company. His leaders declare that such a proceeding is an impossibility, and that the charter can only be revoked by the courts for violation of some of the laws, the Legislature having no power whatever to proceed against it.

SAVES A WOMAN FROM DEATH.

A Railroad Man Rescues Mrs. Bedford from Drowning Near Poughkeepsie.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Jan. 9.—George T. Deuple, a trackman on the Hudson River Railroad at Low Point, rescued a woman from drowning this afternoon. About 2 o'clock he saw the woman start to cross the river on the ice from Low Point. The steamer Tremper had just passed in the ice-crowded channel. The woman made straight for the channel, and while Deuple was watching her walked into the channel and sank.

The trackman hurried to the old Troy switch, where a locomotive stood attached to a south-bound train. He uncoupled the engine and started down the track to a place about a mile south, where he could get a row boat. Shoving the boat over the ice to the channel, he arrived in time to pull the woman on board. She said her name was Mrs. Anna Bedford, living in Ulster County, but refused to tell any more about herself.

COTTON MILLS IN THE SOUTH.

Gov. McSweeney Says South Carolina Will Soon Be Leading Producer.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 9.—In his annual message to the Legislature, Gov. McSweeney, says:

"In cotton manufacturing, South Carolina leads all of the Southern States, and is second only to Massachusetts in the number of spindles and second to none in equipment. If the progress of the past year augurs anything for the future, we shall soon lead all others in this important industry, and instead of furnishing any of our staple crop for export to other places for manufacture, we will be large importers of cotton from other States to supply the local demand.

"During the past year eleven new mills have been organized and are in progress of construction, representing a total capital of $3,275,000. Sixteen old mills have been enlarged, representing an increase of their capital stock of $2,420,000."

The fourth cotton mill to be organized in South Carolina this year is the Limestone at Gaffney, capital, $200,000.

Raw Silk for New York.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Two carloads of raw silk were transferred to the Lake Shore Road in Chicago to-day. The silk came in bond from the Orient, bound for New York. It came to the Lake Shore Road in baggage cars of a Western line that, on account of their size, could not be run over this line, and therefore the transfer became necessary.

No Excess Fare To Cleveland, St. Louis, or Cincinnati. Luxurious trains, fast time, superb service, via New York Central, Lake Shore, Big Four. Trains illuminated by Pintsch Light.—Adv.

THEATRE FILLED WITH SMOKE.

Audience at Hammerstein's Victoria Frightened and Some Chorus Girls Fainted.

The shutting off of the electric light, causing a delay of the performance of thirty-five minutes and the burning of the wire insulation of an electric converter in a vault under the sidewalk of Hammerstein's Victoria, filling the theatre with a dense smoke and causing an uneasiness among the audience, gave the management of the theatre considerable trouble last evening.

During the third and final act of the extravaganza "Chris and the Wonderful Lamp," while Jerome Sykes was singing his topical song, "He's the Best Man I Ever Worked For," the auditorium began to fill up with smoke, causing many persons in the audience to get up and make a hurried exit from the theatre.

The alarm became quite general and the stage manager interrupted Mr. Sykes in his song and had him announce that the smoke in the house was not from any fire in the theatre building proper, but in a vault under the sidewalk outside. After making this announcement Sykes sang five more verses of his song. The theatre, however, continued to fill with smoke, which became so dense that the stage and the players could barely be seen.

The performance was then hurried through, many of the selections in the last act being omitted, and the curtain was rung down. During all the commotion in the front of the house several of the girls in the chorus fainted and were carried across the street to the Metropole Hotel. Others hastened to the street, returning only when assured that there was no cause for alarm.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS IN CAUCUS.

Plan for the Unification of the Elements Opposed to the Republicans Is Discussed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A well-attended caucus of the Democratic members of the House of Representatives was held to-night. Mr. Newlands of Nevada of the Silver Party was present by invitation of Mr. Richardson, the Democratic floor leader, for the purpose of presenting a plan for united action by all the elements opposed to the Republican organization.

The actual business transacted by the caucus was confined to the adoption of a resolution for the appointment of the usual committee of one member from each State to look after Congressional elections, and the selection of Messrs. Underwod of Alabama and Epes of Virginia as "whips" for the arrangement of pairs.

Mr. Newlands spoke at considerable length concerning the unification of the elements opposed to the political party now in power. In particular he suggested an Advisory Committee of one member from each of the States, the choice to be made from Democrats, Populists, Silver Republicans, Silver independents, and in fact all the elements opposing the Republican Party. The purpose of this committee, it was explained, would be to formulate a policy on the more important public questions, and thus secure the advantage of united action. Mr. Newlands went to some extent into the important questions now before the public with a view of showing that differences should be harmonized so as to unify the opposition forces. He stated that his suggestion was merely tentative, and that after a full consideration of the subject action could be taken at some future time.

The chief interest of the evening centred in a resolution offered by Mr. Robertson of Louisiana, with a view to securing "a steering committee" which would have the power to formulate the Democratic policy on important questions of legislation. The resolution was as follows:

Resolved, That a committee consisting of Representatives Richardson, Bailey, Bankhead, and Deamond is hereby appointed and is authorized and empowered to select a committee of fifteen members of this caucus, of which the aforesaid members shall constitute a part, to be known as the Executive Committee of the Democratic caucus.

That this committee shall after full and free conference on all questions now pending in the House, or which may hereafter be considered therein, formulate a policy on each and all of them, and present the same to this caucus for definite action.

That should three-fourths of the members of the caucus agree on the matters submitted by the said Executive Committee, it shall be declared that the matters so agreed upon are the policies of the Democratic Party in the House of Representatives and shall be binding on all Democrats and so proclaimed in the press and on the floor of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Robertson's resolution met with considerable favor, but some of the influential members urged him not to press the matter for the present, and he consented to withdraw the resolution until later.

FALLING OFF IN YELLOW FEVER.

Decrease Shown in the Deaths in the United States and Cuba.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Surgeon General Wyman of the Marine Hospital Service shows in the reports from his office that the mortality statistics of yellow fever have been remarkable in the United States and Cuba during the season in which the fever usually thrives in Cuba and is most troublesome in the United States. In the United States there were 106 deaths from Sept. 1 to Dec. 9. Between April and Dec. 9 the number of deaths in all parts of Cuba, both in and outside of Havana, was 160.

This was far below the average number of deaths in Havana alone. There were 50 deaths in Santiago, which leaves the share of all the rest of Cuba less than 110. The deaths in Havana were 92 less than the number in the United States.

MR. BLISS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Ex-Secretary of the Interior Calls on the President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Among the visitors to Washington who have arrived in time to attend the reception to-morrow night at the White House, is ex-Secretary of the Interior Cornelius N. Bliss. This morning he called at the Interior Department and paid his respects to his successor, Secretary Hitchcock, and was waited upon by many employes who remembered his kindnesses to them when he held office, and was everywhere cordially congratulated upon his apparent good health.

After leaving the department, he went to the White House and called upon the President. His visit to the President was over just as the members of the Cabinet were assembling for the usual twice-a-week meeting. He was urged by his former associates to join them in the meeting.

While very cheerful, Mr. Bliss was not disposed to talk about politics. When the suggestions of the press with reference to his possible nomination for Vice President were mentioned, he smiled and characterized them as "mere newspaper stories." Although diffident about discussing his chances for a nomination, Mr. Bliss was unreserved in his approval of the Administration, and expressed entire confidence in the renomination and re-election of President McKinley.

THE CARNEGIE-FRICK FIGHT.

Control of the Coke Company May Have Passed to the Former.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 9.—Stockholders of the H. C. Frick Coke Company met at Scottdale to-day. The fact that every stockholder refused to talk led to a report that Andrew Carnegie had succeeded in supplanting H. C. Frick's Board of Directors with his own men.

President Thomas Lynch refused to deny or affirm the story, as did also George Lauder, F. T. F. Lovejoy, Thomas Harper, and others. The board was elected, but no names were given out. A meeting will be held here to-morrow to elect officers.

Travel, a Luxury. The "Royal Limited," Finest Day Train in the World, leaves New York, South Ferry and Foot of Liberty St., Daily, 3 P. M.; arrives Washington 8 P. M. Splendid Dining and Cafe Car Service.—Adv.

DREYFUS IN MOLINEUX CASE

French Trial Brought Up When Expert Frazer Was on the Stand.

WITNESS HAD NEW THEORIES

Discovered Serrations in the Writings, but They Prove Little—Another Amateur Testifies.

The Dreyfus case was injected into the Molineux trial yesterday, and although Recorder Goff would not allow the proceedings on that line to go very far, they went far enough to create an impression in the courtroom and also to have spread upon the minutes the opinion of a Judge of the Court of General Sessions upon that cause célèbre in which the unfortunate Captain of the French Army was the central figure.

This diversion happened when Dr. Persifor Frazer of Philadelphia, geologist, chemist, and expert in handwriting, was on the stand under cross-examination by Bartow S. Weeks, the senior counsel for the defense. Dr. Frazer, who occupied all of the day's session, with the exception of about twenty minutes from the close, had gone on at great length to state his reasons for believing Molineux had written the letters signed "Cornish" and "Barnet" addressed to the various medical firms, the address on the poison package, as well as the conceded writings to which his name is signed.

Dr. Frazer had placed upon the blackboard a paper containing an imposing array of figures, the result of microscopic examination, to show that there was a close similarity in the averages of the word "oblige" written in the "Barnet" and "Cornish" letters and in the admitted handwritings of the defendant. He had also measured the distance between the breaks of the letters "l" and "g" in both sets of exhibits, and had arrived, he said, at the conclusion that they were almost identical in the admitted and disputed writings.

Dr. Frazer laid great stress upon his microscopic examinations. He said they were more valuable than comparisons between words and letters, because they went deeper than the superficial manifestations of similarities which could be simulated. The similarities pointed out under the microscope, he said, were beyond the ken or control of the writer.

THE BERTILLON METHOD.

"Now, Professor," said Mr. Weeks, "is that not the Bertillon method that was used at the trial of Dreyfus?"

A wave of excitement swept over the court was a long one, and Mr. Osborne blurted out at one stage:

"Oh, draw a millimeter on the blackboard."

Dr. Frazer looked at the District Attorney in surprise. "When I tell you," he said, "that a meter is 39.37 inches and that a millimeter is one-thousandth part of that, you will understand that, even if I could draw it, you would not be able to see it from where you are sitting."

"Oh, well, if you can't do it, it can't be done," said Mr. Osborne, shortly.

"I do not maintain that at all," said the witness. "It can be done, even though I cannot do it."

At another time Mr. Osborne asked the witness if he had made a study of the microscope. "That science is what you call mi-cros-copy, is it not?" he said, accenting the second syllable.

"I am not an authority on pronunciation," returned the witness; "but if I was, I should say you were wrong. I call it microscopy," accenting the last syllable.

THE GAPS IN MILLIMETERS.

In referring to the word "oblige," Dr. Frazer put on the blackboard a mass of figures to show that the mean of the length of the word in the disputed writing was 17 millimeters and in the admitted writings 18 millimeters. In the gap between the "l" and "g" in the same word the distance in the admitted writings was 4.50 millimeters and in the disputed writings 4.30 millimeters. This average was made up as follows in the disputed writings: In Exhibit C the length of the gap was 3 millimeters, in E 1.50, in F 6, in G 4, and in E 5.

"Now, leaving out the writings F and H," said Mr. Weeks, if you should make an average from C, E, and G, it would only be 2.83 millimeters. That is a wide difference, is it not?"

Dr. Frazer did not make a direct reply to the question, and Mr. Weeks, noting the impression it had made, did not press it when the witness seemed inclined to explain rather than answer. Dr. Frazer finally said that he desired to show from the ratio of averages of the average of ratios that it was inconceivable they should be so close and be written by different hands.

When Dr. Frazer first took that stand he was asked if he had examined the address on the poison package, the disputed, and the conceded handwritings. He said he had, and had compared each set with the other.

"To what conclusion have you come about the poison address?" asked Mr. Osborne.

"That it was written by the author of the conceded letters."

"And the Barnet and Cornish letters?"

"That the same man wrote them all."

Dr. Frazer said that in coming to his conclusion he had entirely discarded the writings made by the defendant at the request of Mr. Kinsley. He said he would speak of them later, but he did not do so, nor did Mr. Weeks ask any questions concerning them. He said he had three reasons for his conclusions, the third having two subdivisions.

REASONS FOR HIS CONCLUSIONS.

"The first reason for my conclusion," said the witness, "is that there are twenty-one distinct characteristics in the poison address which are to be found in the conceded writings. The second reason is that the patterns of the letters in the poison address correspond with the patterns of the conceded letters.

"The third reason has two subordinate reasons. The microscopic structure of the ink lines in the conceded letters agrees with the microscopic structure of the ink lines in the poison address, first, in the swellings and tremors of the lines when greatly magnified, and, second, in the character of the tagging of the ink lines of serrations." Dr. Frazer then proceeded to go into details as given above, reading for the most part from notes that he had prepared.

The only other witness was Augustus F. R. Martin, Jr., the paying teller of the Essex County National Bank of Newark, where Molineux had an account from March, 1893, until Jan. 2, 1897. He said he was familiar with the signature of the defendant and that in his opinion Molineux had written the address on the poison package as well as the disputed writings. He was asked to give his reasons.

"I don't know that I can be satisfactory in that regard," said the witness. "I compared them and think they look alike. I am not at all familiar with this line of testimony and don't know much what to say. This is the first time I have testified."

"You know the gravity of this case?" said Mr. Osborne.

"Yes, and I want to say that I am a very unwilling witness. I would not have come except for repeated urgings."

On cross-examination Mr. Martin said he had appeared before the July Grand Jury and had given testimony.

"At that time, how long had you given to your examination of the writings?" asked Mr. Weeks.

"About two hours and a half."

"When did you see the originals of the letters in evidence?"

"The day I testified."

"Then you had made all your comparisons from photographs and had never seen the originals before you came into the witness-room?"

"That is right."

"Is J. Herbert Ballantine a prominent Director in your bank?"

"He is."

"That's all," said Mr. Weeks, and the session closed.

FIGHT FOR A WOMAN'S LIFE.

State Offers Evidence in Rebuttal in the Morrison Case at Chattanooga and Speeches Begin.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 9.—To-day's proceedings in the trial of Julia Morrison James for the murder of Frank Leidenheimer were characterized by considerable evidence of a sensational character, presented by the State in rebuttal. Witnesses were introduced for the purpose of showing that some of the witnesses for the defense could not have seen the shooting on the stage on account of the interference of curtains. A witness testified that when the shots were fired Leidenheimer had both his cane and silk hat in one hand, and was not making any demonstration.

Stage Manager Patterson testified, in rebuttal, that Leidenheimer was on the stage continuously about twenty minutes before the shooting, controverting the testimony of the defendant that Leidenheimer had abused her in the dressing room below a few minutes before she shot him. Several witnesses, in rebuttal, testified to the effect that in the quarrel on the stage the forenoon of the day of the tragedy Leidenheimer did not strike Mrs. James, but threw up his arm to avoid a blow from her.

Evidence in impeachment of Witness Joseph Breeding, for the defense, was introduced, showing that the witness was on the Leidenheimer Coroner's jury, having stated at the time that he knew nothing about the case.

The State closed its rebuttal evidence at 9:30 o'clock A. M., and the defense announced that its side was also closed. The Court allowed five hours for each side for argument. Eight speeches are to be made—four each for the State and the defense. Col. Garnett Andrews opened the arguments for the State.

Col. Andrews cited authorities claiming that the doctrine of emotional insanity is not recognized under the laws of Tennessee. In summing up the evidence he stated that he believed the prisoner had lain in wait for Leidenheimer intending to kill him before he went to the stage that night, but, lacking that opportunity, she followed him to the stage and killed him in cold blood.

Joseph V. Williams, United States Commissioner, opened the arguments for the defense, bitterly attacking the character of Leidenheimer and reviewing the evidence for the defense in detail. He stated that the three points of defense are first, self-defense; second, temporary insanity; third, justification of the act.

The Judge will charge the jury to-morrow and a verdict may be rendered to-morrow night.

GRIEF CAUSES FATAL ATTACK.

Woman Dies of Heart Disease at the Funeral of a Friend.

Mrs. Josephine Baldwin, fifty-nine years old, of 105 Charles Street, died last night in one of the parlors of the Jane Street Methodist Episcopal Church from heart disease. Mrs. Baldwin went to the church to attend the funeral of her friend, Mrs. Anna Wennerstrom. The pastor, the Rev. F. S. Bond, was in the middle of the ceremony when it was noticed that Mrs. Baldwin was greatly affected by his words. She sobbed convulsively, and friends in the same pew sought to comfort her.

Mrs. Baldwin made an effort to restrain her emotions, but just as a friend was reaching out to her she sank to the floor unconscious. The service was stopped and she was carried into the parlor. Dr. Banta of 304 West Twelfth Street was summoned, but Mrs. Baldwin died a few moments before his arrival.

Gets a Prize for a Scientific Work.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—Prof. Haeckel of the University of Jena has been awarded the Bremse prize of 10,000 marks per annum for life for the best scientific work published during the last four years.

M'GOVERN CONQUERS DIXON

Wins Featherweight Championship and a Purse of $10,000.

THE EIGHTH ROUND DECISIVE

To Save the Colored Fighter from a Knockout, "Tom" O'Rourke Throws Up the Sponge.

"Terry" McGovern, who up to last night held the bantamweight championship of the world, won a new pugilistic honor in the arena of the Broadway Athletic Club by wresting from George Dixon, who had been the colored marvel in the featherweight division for many years, the featherweight championship of the world. Incidentally he won a purse of $10,000.

The battle was pronounced one of the greatest ever fought by little men, for although it lasted only eight rounds, there was not a second from the beginning to the end when the contestants were not fighting their hardest. Only once during his career, and then through an accident, had Dixon been knocked out, and to avoid having this stain cast upon his escutcheon, his manager, "Tom" O'Rourke, waived his interest in a big wager that the colored boy would last ten rounds and threw up the sponge at the end of the eighth. The contest had been scheduled for twenty-five rounds.

It was only after the colored fighter had been so severely punished that recuperation was entirely out of the question that his manager gave up the battle, for Dixon was all but knocked out, although he struggled gamely against unconsciousness. The colored boy's experience during those eight rounds of fighting was something new to him. The punishment he received was well calculated to have beaten even a heavyweight. It was not a sharp, decisive blow on the point of the jaw, such as sends so many pugilists to defeat, that brought about Dixon's downfall, but a constant pounding with lightninglike rapidity in the region of the stomach. McGovern made the colored boy's ribs and stomach his objective points from the moment he stepped to the centre, and banged away at him until he had him so badly weakened in the eighth round that he could no longer with certainty maintain a good defense for his head and jaw.

Then, with all the viciousness that is characteristic of the prizefighter, with force behind his blows almost equal to that of a heavyweight, and striking those blows with the regularity of a piston rod, the Brooklyn boy smashed right and left at his opponent's jaw, and with the second of these jaw blows, sent him helpless to the floor. The referee began to count the seconds that would mark the call of time, but Dixon was on his feet again before the fatal ten was counted, and was doing his best to stave off defeat against tremendous odds.

Again and again he went to the floor, rising each time weaker than before, until he had gone down five times. He arose for the fifth time, staggered a trifle, but gamely as ever put up his hands and attempted to lead, when with a crashing left that seemed hard enough to drive a pile, the Brooklyn boy sent him to the floor again. Dixon rolled over like a log, and then started to rise again, only waiting as long as it was possible to avoid the count of ten. O'Rourke, whose long experience taught him that the boy who has fought for a fortune in the last ten or twelve years, was beaten beyond hope, cast the sponge symbolical of submission into the ring, and then followed it to carry his fallen champion to his corner. The crowd cheered vociferously for McGovern.

At least 5,000 people witnessed the fight. Men of all sorts and conditions were there, bankers rubbing elbows with saloon keepers, sporting men with politicians, and some men in evening dress were sandwiched in between colored admirers of the fallen Dixon. The battle was as great a drawing card as the recent Jeffries-Sharkey contest at Coney Island, and the men who witnessed it seemed to have no care as to how much money they spent in order to obtain a ringside seat. Seats originally were scheduled to be sold at $5, $8, $10, $15, and $20 each, but most of the tickets found their way into the hands of speculators, and some of these tickets brought as high as $75 each. One pair of $15 seats were sold on the sidewalk in front of the club for $120, while a speculator who had paid $60 for three seats in a box received for them $250.

The crowd seemed to be money mad. It took no thought of the money it spent or of the amount it wagered on the result of the contest. Bets of thousands were numerous at the ringside. McGovern was a strong favorite in the betting, his admirers laying as good as 2 to 1 that he would beat the colored boy. The went further, for they wagered even money that before the tenth round was over he would have won the fight.

Excitement was rife in the house before the boxers came into the ring. A preliminary bout of twelve rounds almost as savage as the principal event served to whet the appetites of the spectators. They were frenzied for fighting of the most vicious sort when Dixon entered the ring, and his partisans cheered him and howled to him to make short work of his opponent. McGovern's reception was very much the same, only it was more boisterous, and there were yells of "Knock his head off!"

Not much time was wasted once the men were in the ring. There was a preliminary shuffling of their resin-covered corners, and then the bell rang and brought them to the centre. Marquis of Queensberry rules were to govern the contest, and it was permissible for one of the boxers when held by his opponent to strike. This was exactly the style of fighting that suited both men, for although it is McGovern's favorite style, the colored boy is thoroughly at home at short-range fighting, while, in addition, he is remarkably clever at leading from the full reach.

The moment the bell rang McGovern sprang at his dusky opponent and closed with him. Dixon, to save his jaw, clinched and then "Terry" began to bang with right and left on the ribs and over the heart. The pair broke and then Dixon made a rush and swung the powerful left, that had knocked out many a fighter in the last twelve years, with telling effect on McGovern's jaw.

In the second round Dixon sent McGovern's head back with a left swing over the eye and a second later he sent the Brooklyn boy almost through the ropes in his own corner. But none of these blows seemed to worry McGovern. He took them as a matter of course and continually closed in order to bang away at Dixon's ribs. Dixon broke repeatedly from these terrible clinches and again and again sent the famous left, which won him his championship, crashing over to the Brooklyn boy's jaw.

The admirers of the latter began to hedge at this stage of the fight, for they saw that Dixon could reach their man on a vulnerable point and that the first two rounds were to the credit of the colored boxer. They did not reckon on the frightful punishment that McGovern's short-arm work was inflicting on Dixon, but they saw it in the next two or three rounds, for no matter how hard "Terry" was hit, he smilingly came back again at Dixon and kept banging away at the same old spots.

Three hard swings with right and left on the jaw somewhat embarrassed McGovern in the third round, and it looked for a moment as if he might be knocked out. He recovered quickly, however, and went back to his old tactics of banging at the body, and then, with a movement that was unlooked for by either Dixon or the spectators, he stepped back into position and swinging his left, landed it on Dixon's jaw and brought him almost to his knees.

In the fifth round Dixon's terrible left was seen at its best. It did execution enough to have taken all the fight out of a boxer less sturdy than McGovern, but the Brooklyn boy is an exception, and he stood it with the grit of a bulldog. During the next round the effects of the terrible punishment over the heart and about the ribs began to show on Dixon. He did not fight as fast as at the beginning, and his labored breathing showed that some of his best efforts were painful. He lagged in his work, but continued to fight back with all of his old-time grit. In the seventh round the story was the same, only that it was more apparent that he was growing weak.

McGovern realized this, for he went at him in the eighth with more vigor than ever, and after he had punished him further about the ribs and body, he went in to finish him with a knockout on the jaw. Dixon's old stable companion, "Joe" Welcott, was so incensed over the defeat of his friend that he broke through the line of police at the ringside and jumped into the ring. It required the efforts of several policemen to get him out again.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
The Kind You Have Always Bought

UNREST IN GREAT BRITAIN

Continued from Page 1.

blicable action in leaving his post in the middle of the war.

The State Department has heard indirectly from Webster Davis, Assistant Secretary of the Interior. Mr. Davis is now at Cape Town, and his appearance at that place gave rise to all sorts of rumors to the effect that he was charged with some weighty diplomatic mission, and especially with a purpose to mediate between the belligerents in South Africa. As a matter of fact, Mr. Davis went to South Africa solely for his health, seizing upon the opportunity to pay a visit to United States Consul General Stowe at Cape Town, who is his near relative. Unfortunately, the gentleman gave some foundation for the rumor referred to by projecting a journey to Pretoria in company with Mr. Stowe, but this trip was abandoned, as soon as it appeared that its purpose might be misconstrued.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Daily Mail says: "With characteristic bad manners, the Transvaal authorities have refused to allow Mr. Hollis, the American representative at Pretoria, to care for British interests. This is an act without precedent in modern diplomatic history."

QUIET AGAIN AT LADYSMITH.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—A dispatch to The Daily Chronicle, dated at Frere Camp Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, says:

"There has been no bombardment of Ladysmith to-day, nor any shelling at Chieveley by the British guns."

The Queen has telegraphed her congratulations and thanks to Gen. White and the troops of Ladysmith.

An official dispatch from Frere Camp late Sunday night said all was quiet there, thus dispelling the widespread hopes that Gen. Buller had followed up his demonstration before Colenso with an effective move elsewhere.

From the Boer headquarters it is reported that Gen. Buller is constructing a subsidiary railroad, from the main line to Colenso, westwardly, in the direction of Potgieter's Drift.

FRENCH REPORTS HIS LOSSES.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Little change is apparent in the position at Colesburg. Gen. French reported to the War Office Sunday morning, Jan. 7, that he had reconnoitred with a squadron of the Household Cavalry on the Boers' east flank, two miles from Achtertank, and drew a considerable force of the burghers, who, being anxious for their communications with Norval's Pont, withdrew.

The casualties of the Suffolks near Colesberg were:

Killed—Col. Watson and Lieuts. Wilkins, Carey, and White and twenty-three men.

Missing—Capts. Brett, Thomson, and Brown and Lieuts. Allen, Wood-Martin, and Butler and 107 men.

Wounded—Twenty-one men.

Gen. French further reports that the casualties of the other regiments to Jan. 4 were twelve men killed and forty-four wounded.

Vote of Sympathy for Boers.

The Jersey City Board of Aldermen last night adopted resolutions expressing its sympathy with the Boers and voicing the hope that they would ultimately succeed in their struggle for freedom.

Pro-Boer Mass Meeting Planned.

Members of the New York Committee to Aid the United Republics of South Africa met last evening at the Morton House and completed plans for a general mass meeting to be held for the aid of the Boers, the widows and orphans of those killed in battle, and for the succor of the wounded. It was decided that the meeting is to be held in the Grand Central Palace on Jan. 20, and preparations are being made for a number of prominent speakers to be present.

Mayor Approves Boer Resolutions.

Mayor Van Wyck yesterday approved the resolutions passed by the Municipal Assembly expressing sympathy with the Boers in the South African war. The resolutions condemn the "invasion" of Great Britain, which is referred to as "the same common enemy," and the war is characterized as a repetition of the struggle which our forefathers underwent at the dawn of the nineteenth century."

Major Gen. Prior Is Dead.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Major Gen. Prior, commanding the Fifteenth Brigade, under orders to proceed to South Africa, died on Monday.

FOUND SAWS IN A CAKE.

Latter Was Sent to Prisoners, but Cut by Jail Officials.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—Some food was delivered at the Maiden Lane Jail Monday for Archie Lageller and Hugh McCann, committed from Cohoes. Included in the food was a jelly layer cake.

The jail officials decided to cut the cake before delivering it, and found three small steel saws baked in the layers of the cake.

THE CORNELL STEAMBOAT TAXES

Court of Appeals Makes a Large Deduction in the Assessment.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—In the case of the Cornell Steamboat Company vs. Addison E. Dederick, Assessor of the City of Kingston, relative to the assessment made on the property of the company, the Court of Appeals decides that the assessment should be reduced from $250,000 to $95,251.77.

The assessment was made on the personal property of the company, which operates a line of tug and freight boats on the Hudson River between Albany and New York City.

FISHING TUGS FROZEN IN.

Crews Comprising Twenty-one Men in Danger Off Grand Haven, Mich.

DETROIT, Jan. 9.—It is reported from Grand Haven, Mich., that the fishing tugs Anna, Augur, and Bos are frozen into an ice field several miles out in the lake, and grave fears are entertained for the crews of seven men carried by each.

There is only a few hours' fuel aboard the tugs, and the only food the men have is the fish they may have taken. Late to-night the Anna was heard blowing distress signals, and it is feared she is sinking. Both the steamer Nyack and the ice-crushing tug Fields have tried in vain to get out to the tugs.

THE WEATHER.

LOCAL FORECAST—Threatening and warmer, brisk southwesterly winds.

The storm central Monday night in North Dakota has moved with great velocity to Ontario, increasing in intensity. A second storm has moved from Arizona to the East Gulf. A trough of low pressure extends between these storms, and rain has fallen in this trough. Rain has also fallen on the North Pacific Coast. A decided fall in temperature has occurred in the Middle Missouri and Red River of the North Valleys, Bismarck reporting a fall of 28 degrees in twenty-four hours, Huron 26, and Williston 24. It has grown warmer in the lower lake region and the Ohio Valley. The rain area will spread eastward and reach the Middle and North Atlantic Coast this afternoon or to-night. The weather will clear, with a decided fall in temperature in the upper lake region and the Middle Mississippi Valley. It will also clear in the Lower Mississippi Valley. It will grow warmer in the Middle and North Atlantic States and in North Dakota and Eastern Montana. The temperature will fall decidedly to-night in the lower lake region and the Ohio Valley, and this colder weather will reach the Atantic Coast to-morrow night. Brisk southwesterly winds, increasing, may be expected on the North Atlantic Coast, light easterly winds, increasing, on the Middle Atlantic, and light northeast to east winds on the South Atlantic Coast.

The record of temperature for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from THE NEW YORK TIMES thermometer and from the thermometer of the Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	—Weather Bureau.— 1899.	1900.	TIMES. 1900.
3 A. M.	33	20	22
6 A. M.	32	16	20
9 A. M.	33	21	23
12 M.	37	25	30
4 P. M.	39	29	31
6 P. M.	39	30	32
9 P. M.	36	32	32
12 P. M.	28	32	32

THE TIMES thermometer is 6 feet above the street level; that of the Weather Bureau is 285 feet above the street level.

Average temperatures yesterday were as follows:

Printing House Square	27⅞
Weather Bureau	25½
Corresponding date 1899	34⅝
Corresponding date for last twenty-five years	31

The maximum temperature yesterday was 32 degrees at 10 P. M. and the minimum 16 degrees at 6 A. M. The humidity at 8 A. M. was 75 per cent. and at 8 P. M. 84 per cent. The barometer at 8 A. M. read 30.55 and at 8 P. M. 30.34.

TRAFFIC ON FIFTH AVENUE

How Business Wagons Interfere with Pleasure Carriages.

Proportion of One to the Other Shown by Actual Count at Various Points.

Anent the agitation aroused by President Guggenheimer's proposed ordinance restricting heavy traffic on Fifth Avenue, the extent of the business traffic on the avenue from Madison Square to Central Park has been made the subject of some study.

As at present worded the ordinance would bar heavy traffic between the hours of 2 o'clock and 7 o'clock in the afternoon from that section of the avenue lying between Twenty-fifth and Fifty-ninth Streets, and would entirely bar heavy traffic from the section of the avenue skirting Central Park between Fifty-ninth and One Hundred and Tenth Streets. Residents of lower Fifth Avenue would like to have their section, below Twenty-fifth Street, included in the restrictions.

Observations were made yesterday by reporters of THE NEW YORK TIMES of the conditions of traffic on the avenue between Madison Square and Central Park for the purpose of determining its extent and the proportion of vehicles used respectively for merchandise and for passengers.

The observations were made between 3:15 P. M. and 5:15 P. M., and show the number of both classes of vehicles bound both north and south during fifteen-minute periods, at different points on the avenue, at different times. At Twenty-fifth Street 184 vehicles of all kinds passed in both directions between 3:30 P. M. and 3:45 P. M. Of these 78 were bound north and 106 south. There were 67 business wagons as compared with 117 carriages. Of the carriages, 41 were bound north and 76 south. Of the business wagons 37 were bound north and 30 south.

At Thirty-third Street, from 4:15 P. M. to 4:30 P. M., 374 vehicles passed in both directions, of which 327 were carriages and 47 were business wagons, trucks, &c. Two hundred of the carriages were bound north and 127 south. Twenty-seven of the wagons were bound north and 20 south.

General conditions in the section of the avenue between Madison Square and Thirty-fourth Street, as found, may be summed up as follows: The Dewey arch serves to break up the crowding at the juncture of the various thoroughfares meeting there, and to lessen confusion. The blocks immediately above Madison Square show less traffic than those further up the avenue, and with greater proportion of it of a business character.

Most of the business wagons were delivery wagons of retail houses. Above Thirtieth Street the proportion of business wagons falls off, and between 4 and 5 o'clock, below the Waldorf-Astoria, as many as ten carriages would pass to one business wagon. Traffic was somewhat retarded along the section near Thirtieth Street because of the number of cabs standing at the curbs.

Again at Thirty-fourth Street there was congestion because of cross-town traffic. The character of the passenger-carrying travel was more uniform here, also, private carriages being in a great majority; cabs coming next, while automobiles ranked low in the scale with trucks, and there was but an occasional truck.

A count of the traffic at Thirty-seventh Street between 3:15 P. M. and 3:30 P. M. showed 275 vehicles of all kinds bound both ways, of which 217 were carriages and 61 business wagons; of the 128 vehicles bound north 95 were carriages and 33 business wagons, and of 150 bound south 122 were carriages and 28 were business.

At Forty-first Street, between 5:15 P. M. and 5:30 P. M., 176 conveyances of all kinds passed, of which 130 were carriages and 46 business wagons or trucks. Of the 141 bound north 120 were carriages and 21 business vehicles, and of 135 bound south 110 were carriages and 25 business wagons, &c.

In a random fifteen minutes during the hour between 4 o'clock and 5 o'clock there were counted between Thirty-fourth Street and Forty-second Street 23 light wagons, 4 heavy wagons, 12 trucks, and 3 vans.

At Forty-second Street, where a number of changes are being made, the immense traffic on that street causes a slow down which extends for from two to three blocks on each side of the street. The traffic between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Streets was so great that a very slow trot was the best speed that could be maintained.

A large truck, laden with a number of lengthy beams, and a small wagon, with a number of large window frames, which extended three feet over its side made trouble as they went slowly down the avenue between 3 and 4 o'clock. A small colored boy in charge of a very dirty gray horse that was pulling a cart loaded with dirt, occasioned a great deal of amusement between Forty-second and Fortieth Streets by his efforts to keep out of the way of the pleasure and business vehicles. He gave up the job in disgust when he reached Fortieth Street, and turned down that street.

In the section between Forty-second and Fifty-ninth Streets figures were taken at three points. Here the carriage traffic is found at its height, the stream being fed from a larger part of the residential section. During the fifteen minutes before 5 o'clock, in a walk from Fifty-ninth Street south, it was noted that there were generally from eight to twelve moving vehicles on a block at one time, with one or two business vehicles among them. Pleasure traffic was little interfered with.

There were some exceptions to the averages of the numbers of moving vehicles on blocks. In one there were only six teams, with two business wagons in the number, while in another there were fifteen, and in still another, twenty with three and four business wagons in the throng respectively.

There were observed at this time within fifteen minutes two ice carts, two empty flour trucks, one kindling wood wagon, one feed truck, two moving vans, one piano van, two ash carts, several express wagons, one heaped-up load of empty flour barrels, and many small light delivery wagons, some of which were of the fancy variety affected by florists, confectioners, caterers, milliners, jewelers, and fancy goods stores, besides a good many retail dry goods delivery wagons.

There were counted at Forty-fifth Street during the time between 3:30 P. M. and 3:45 P. M., 469 vehicles of all kinds, moving both north and south. Of these 408 were carriages and 61 were business wagons, trucks, &c. The team bound south included 106 carriages and 30 wagons, and the southward tide was made up of 243 carriages and 31 wagons, &c.

A count was made at Fifty-ninth Street, between 3:50 and 4:05 P. M. Here there were 327 conveyances moving both ways in the time given. Of these 285 were carriages and 42 business wagons. Those bound north numbered 180, of which 147 were carriages and 33 business wagons, &c. Those bound south, numbering 147, included 118 carriages and 29 business vehicles.

Figures were taken at Fiftieth Street during the fifteen minutes following 5 o'clock. Here 311 teams passed, of which 249 were carriages and 62 wagons. Bound north, of this number there were 144, of which 121 were carriages and 23 wagons, and bound south there were 128 carriages and 39 wagons, &c.

An examination of the figures shows that near Madison Square the carriages compared with the business wagons were about as two to one, while further north, but south of Thirty-fourth Street, they were as seven to one, with a general average of about four to one. In the section between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Streets, the proportion was three to one, while above that, in the earliest count, at Forty-fifth Street, it was seven to one. At Fifty-ninth Street a little later, it was as four to one, and still later, at Fiftieth Street, as five to one, with a general average of five to one for that section.

Yet as shown in a walk of several blocks, it was observed that with from eight to twelve vehicles moving at one time on each block, there was at that particular time not more than one or two business wagons to ten carriages. Later in the afternoon, when, at between 5:15 and 5:30 P. M., side lamps had been lighted, there was a marked falling off in the number of vehicles moving. Between Forty-ninth and Fifty-ninth Streets not more than five was an average number to be found moving on one block at a time, and the proportion of business vehicles to carriages was one to five.

Fifth Avenue Traffic Restrictions.

The Council's Committee on Streets and Highways will give a public hearing at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon on President Guggenheimer's proposed ordinance restricting heavy traffic on Fifth Avenue. A letter was received by President Guggenheimer yesterday from residents of lower Fifth Avenue and cross streets urging that the restrictions be extended to cover also the section south of Madison Square. The signers include Josiah Strong, W. H. Tolman, G. L. Weitz, A. H. Brown, G. W. Talbot, G. B. Talbot, T. Frelinghuysen, P. W. Orvie, and Mrs. C. C. Worthington.

Favors Mr. Guggenheimer's Plan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Last week I noticed that Mr. Guggenheimer was trying to do something in regard to keeping heavy trucking off Fifth Avenue during the hours from 2 until 7 o'clock, and I think it would be a very good thing, and at the same time to have policemen stationed at the street crossings, especially at Forty-second Street, where it is particularly dangerous. I am very near Forty-second Street, and about 12 o'clock and at from 5 to 6:30 it is about as much as your life is worth to cross. At noon and there are never any policemen there, and the carriage and cab drivers try to see how near they can come to you without running over you.

J. A. JENKINS.

New York, Jan. 8, 1900.

JUDGE HOWLAND OF OHIO DEAD.

Succumbs to Pneumonia at Jefferson—His Political Career.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHTABULA, Ohio, Jan. 9.—W. P. Howland, Judge of the Common Pleas Court of the Third Sub-Division of the Ninth Judicial District, died to-day of pneumonia at Jefferson, this county. Judge Howland, who was born at Pierpont, Ohio, in 1832, was one of the influential men of Ohio, having three times been elected to the House of Representatives, and also to the Senate of the Sixty-third General Assembly.

When John Sherman received a renomination for the office of United States Senator, it was only after a close contest with Mr. Howland, who on the first ballot received more votes than any candidate in the field, and on the ballot which gave Sherman the majority Howland stood second. When Garfield became United States Senator, the Congressional chair of the Nineteenth District became vacant. Judge Howland was a candidate for the nomination to succeed him, and received hearty support. Twice he was elected Prosecuting Attorney of Ashtabula County.

He leaves four sons, one of whom is Capt. Charles Howland, now in the Philippine Islands with the United States Army.

LEAP FROM THE SIXTH STORY.

Fatal Jump of a Woman Patient in a Brooklyn Sanitarium.

Mrs. Frances Titsworth, wife of Arthur Titsworth, cashier of the Potter Printing Press Company, jumped from a sixth-story window of the private sanitarium of Dr. E. H. Muncie, at 119 Macon Street, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, and was instantly killed. Mrs. Titsworth had been taken to the sanitarium three weeks ago from her home in Plainfield, N. J., suffering from acute melancholia and neurasthenia. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Van Houten, and two nurses.

While the nurse who was attending the sick woman yesterday morning had her back turned, Mrs. Titsworth got out of bed, threw up the window, and leaped to the ground. Her husband was at once notified, and obtained Coroner Burger's consent to remove the remains to Plainfield. Mrs. Titsworth spent some time six months ago in a hospital for the treatment of nervous diseases at Dansville, N. Y.

Receiver Felton Files Final Report.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9.—S. M. Felton, former receiver of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company, filed his final report to-day in the United States Court, certified to by A. R. Hume, special master. It shows receipts under the receivership from Oct. 1, 1899, to Dec. 31, 1899, of $1,316,988.95; disbursements, $1,081,307.96; balance, $235,680.99. This is preliminary to his final discharge.

Articles in Silver Martelé from THE GORHAM COMPANY, Silversmiths, make the handsomest and most distinguished Wedding Presents.

Let it be remembered that each and every article of Silver Martelé is a distinct creation, of which there is no duplicate. While the great success of these articles of the silversmith's craft has led others to apply the term "MARTELÉ" to ordinary silverware, patrons should know that such productions are not correctly so termed.

Products in Silver Martelé of THE GORHAM COMPANY, designed and wrought by artists especially trained in their school, appeal to those who appreciate a high sense of beauty in articles of utility, each article representing original thought and artistic handicraft.

INSURANCE MEN'S MOVE

New York Life Agents Reconsider Proposed Change.

After a Conference with the Company's Officers Many Decide to Remain—Others Go to the Equitable.

The decision of the majority of the Manhattan agents of the New York Life Insurance Company to join the forces of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, reached on Monday at ten different meetings held at the various sub-offices, was followed yesterday morning by the presence of more than 600 agents of the New York Life, at that company's building, 346 Broadway. Second Vice President George W. Perkins of the New York Life had sent telegrams to all of the agents of the company in Greater New York, and all of the officers of the company, including President John A. McCall, were in their offices at an early hour yesterday. Three meetings were then held. They were addressed by Mr. Perkins and other officers of the company. Each of the meetings was marked by enthusiasm over the communications made by the officers. Many of the disaffected agents who had on Monday participated in the decision to change their company as planned on Sunday at a conference of Second Vice President G. E. Tarbell of the Equitable and eight or nine New York Life men were present, and many of them reconsidered their decision to leave the New York Life.

Others of the disaffected contingent went after the meetings to the office of the Equitable, where it was said at the close of business yesterday that 250 of the 400 men who voted on Monday to change their connections had signed contracts and were already actively engaged in the service of the Equitable.

In addition to the large number of New York Life agents there appeared at the company's offices yesterday a continuous stream of persons who desired to become agents of the company.

Mr. Perkins during the afternoon issued the following statement:

"Our annual statement for 1899, made public several days ago, shows that we did by far the largest business last year of any company in the world. This has naturally caused great jealousy in the executive staff of the Equitable. The Equitable officers seem to have made up their minds that nothing short of a wholesale raid (planned on Sunday and carried out in the night) could check the onward progress of the New York Life. The rumors, however, of yesterday and to-day as to the number of men gone from our company to the Equitable are so absurd as to hardly be worthy of attention. Four or five of our agency men in the city, with whom we have had differences of a natural kind, incident to changes that occur in every great business on the 1st of January, went over to the Equitable, but the agents working under them have not gone and will not go.

"The officers of the Equitable have been wining and dining our men right and left of late, and offering all sorts of inducements to them. We have not met these offers and we shall not. We presume a stock company like the Equitable can spend its money any way it chooses, but a mutual company like ours, operated for the policyholders' benefit, is of course, restricted.

"GEORGE W. PERKINS."

Some of the New York Life agents, who were present at the meetings in the company's offices, were disposed to talk over the differences which were apparently back of part of the trouble. One of them said: "The contention, which was over the method of paying agents, had not gone so far as to cause any disruption. They do not like the present arrangement by which commissions are paid in large lump sums, involving some delay. The present rate of compensation by the New York Life is 65 per cent. of the first year's premiums, while the Equitable now pays 50 per cent. of the first year's premiums, 25 per cent. of the second, and so on, for renewals."

The officers of the Equitable denied yesterday that they had resorted to unfair tactics, as charged by Mr. Perkins, saying, "It is the other side that failed to keep faith with their men."

THE GENERAL AGENT'S STATEMENT.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Ever since I have been a citizen, nay, a resident, of this country I have been a constant reader of your paper, a firm believer in your principles and in your "motto."

I am exceedingly grieved to see an article in this morning's edition headed "Leave the New York Life" and stating that the Manhattan department, with ten agencies, had resigned and gone over to the Equitable Life.

This article is misstating facts and is an injustice to those members of the Manhattan department, and there are not a few who have remained loyal to their company. I know of one agency, the Astor Place branch, that has remained faithful, and I am glad to say that I belong to the same, and I trust that when the clouds have rolled by it will be seen that most of the branches of the Manhattan department, once the proudest of the New York Life, have reconsidered their action and that the loss will be trifling.

ERNEST A. HENLE,
General Agent New York Life Insurance Company.

New York, Jan. 9, 1900.

Slater's Assailant Released.

Willis Rosser, the medical student who shot Frederick Slater of Rahway, N. J., in Madison Square Garden at the end of the last six-day bicycle race, Dec. 9, was discharged yesterday in the Jefferson Market Court, by Magistrate Pool. The hearing in the case was adjourned a number of times because of Slater's condition. He was not in court yesterday, and, as no word was received from him, Magistrate Pool released Rosser.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

CANTON, Ohio, Jan. 9.—The wholesale and retail shoe store of John D. Frank was burned last night. Loss, $50,000.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 9.—The plant of the Jamestown Gas Company was destroyed by fire to-day, the result of an explosion. The loss is $15,000.

NORWAY, Me., Jan. 9.—The business portion of North Waterford, a small village about twelve miles west of Norway, was destroyed by fire during the night. Loss, $20,000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The barns of the South Chicago Railway were destroyed by fire in Hammond, Ind., to-day. Thirty-two cars were also destroyed. The loss, fully covered by insurance, is put at $230,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—The three-story brick dye house of O. J. Meinhart's Sons, in the northeastern section of the city, was destroyed by fire to-day, entailing a loss of $15,000. An uninsulated electric light wire is supposed to have caused the blaze.

HUDSON, Mass., Jan. 9.—The grinding and cementing department of the Apsley rubber works was badly damaged by fire this morning. The fire started in a grinding machine. A large quantity of naphtha became ignited and carried the flames to all parts of the building. The loss will be several thousand dollars.

WILLIAMSPORT, Penn., Jan. 9.—Six hundred employes are thrown out of work temporarily as a result of a fire at the Lycoming Rubber Works to-day. The fire started in the cutting room, and before it was extinguished about $10,000 worth of partly prepared goods had been damaged. The damage to the building is est

PULITZER HOME DESTROYED

Narrow Escape of Family of the Proprietor of The World.

TWO WOMEN BURNED TO DEATH

Companion of Mrs. Pulitzer and the Governess the Victims—Valuable Art Collection Ruined.

The house of Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of The New York World, at 10 and 12 East Fifty-fifth Street, was badly damaged by a fire which started at about 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Mrs. S. S. Morgan Jellett, the companion of Mrs. Pulitzer, and Miss Elizabeth Montgomery, the governess, lost their lives. Mrs. Pulitzer and three children, the only members of the family at home at the time, and seventeen servants, escaped from the burning house with the narrowest sort of margin between them and death. Of the other members of the family, Mr. Pulitzer and his son Joseph, Jr., were at Lakewood, N. J., and Ralph, the eldest son, is at Harvard.

Mr. Pulitzer possessed a large number of valuable paintings and various objects of art, including a number of pieces of Gobelin tapestry of great value. In addition to these, the furniture and a large amount of silver and plate were completely destroyed. So rapid was the progress of the fire after its discovery that Mrs. Pulitzer and the servants had only time to escape, leaving behind them all their belongings. Mrs. Pulitzer got out in her night clothes, her only protection from the cold being a curtain which one of the footmen had hastily grabbed and thrown over her as she was making her way through stifling smoke with the flames directly behind, leading her children, carried by their nurses down the front stairs to the street.

The Pulitzer house has a frontage of fifty feet and is four stories high in front, with basement, and with an additional story and a conservatory in the rear. The basement and first story are of brownstone. The main entrance is reached by a broad flight of stone steps. The large hall, with its winding staircase made an excellent draft for the fire.

ESCAPE OF THE FAMILY.

The fire was discovered by workmen engaged on a new house directly in the rear of the Pulitzer residence, in Fifty-fourth Street. They saw smoke coming out of several of the rear windows. A watchman ran around to Fifty-fifth Street yelling "Fire!" and as soon as he reached Mr. Pulitzer's house pounded on the basement door and cried out at the top of his voice. James Kane, the houseman, was the first to hear the cry, but it was almost instantly taken up by three or four of the women servants, who were already up. Kane ran shouting up the basement stairs and set the electric alarm, which set the bells ringing throughout the house. But as an alarm this was scarcely needed, for as the houseman in his flight reached the main floor those on the upper floors were made aware of the progress of the flames.

Mrs. Pulitzer, who slept in the front room on the second story, awakened with a choking sensation. Smoke had then begun to fill the room. Not stopping to throw anything over her, Mrs. Pulitzer's first thought was for her children, who were sleeping on the third floor. One child was Edith, aged twelve years; another Constance, fourteen, and the baby, Herbert, three years old, who slept with his nurse, Jessie High. Bertha Coulon, maid to the older children, was in an adjoining room.

Mrs. Pulitzer ran to the next story and found the nurses and children up, the girls and their attendants nearly crazed with fear and one of the latter preparing to jump out of the window to the pavement. Mrs. Pulitzer cried to them to run, and led the way to the stairs. At this time the smoke was rolling in volumes through the halls and getting thicker every second. To make matters worse, tongues of flame were shooting down a narrow stairway on the east side of the house from the story above. There was not a second to lose.

Alternately leading and pushing her servants, Mrs. Pulitzer and the little group made their way to the stairs. Constance and Edith were in the arms of one of the maids, who staggered under her load, and they fainted before they reached the second story. All were nearly asphyxiated by the time they reached the street. Only the servants were even partly dressed. As they were passing through the lower hall Kane snatched a curtain from its pole and threw it over Mrs. Pulitzer's shoulders. She was in her bare feet. All quickly sought shelter in the house of Samuel Thorne, at No. 8, next door.

SERVANTS PANIC STRICKEN.

While the members of the household were effecting their escape, one of the workmen in Fifty-fourth Street had run to the fire signal box at Fifty-fourth Street and Madison Avenue and turned in an alarm. The first engine company arrived in about four minutes, and when Chief Binns of Battalion No. 9 put in an appearance he sent in two more alarms. Flames were then shooting through the front windows from the basement to the roof. The interior seemed like a furnace.

While Mrs. Pulitzer and her little party were getting out, eight or ten of the servants who slept on the upper floor were making frantic efforts to escape. Six of the women got out on a rear extension, and four were assisted to the ground by workmen. They had not time to save anything except what they wore. John Connors and Herbert Jacobs, footmen, occupied a room on the fourth floor. They attempted to get down the small stairway on the east side of the house, which led to the main stairway through a passageway and also to the rear of the house. When they opened the door it was only to confront a wall of flame, and so, with what few garments they could catch up, they made their way to the extension and over a similar extension to Mr. Thorne's house, and got to the ground through the rear windows of that residence. They took two of the fear-crazed women with them.

Conflicting stories are told as to just how Miss Montgomery, who was an English woman, and Mrs. Jellett lost their lives. Some of the servants think that they were suffocated in their rooms without having had a chance to get out, but Battalion Chief Binns says that they were seen dressed, on the extension, but went back in order to save some of their effects, not realizing their dangerous plight. Both were frightfully cremated after the fire was out. Miss Montgomery's face was scorched. The bodies were taken to the East Fifty-first Street Station and there were identified. Mrs. Jellett leaves a son and daughter in Toronto, the former being connected with the Dominion Bank and prominent in Canadian athletics.

The firemen fought the fire from front and rear and from the roofs of the adjoining houses, Mr. Thorne's on the west and Alexander Maitland's on the east. A line of hose was also run up through the front hall of Mr. Thorne's house. Neither house was damaged by fire, but the loss by water may amount to considerable.

Just how the fire started is not known. The servants think it began in the conservatory, but Chief Binns thinks it started in the hallway on the third floor and from there spread in all directions, and that it was caused by the crossing of electric light wires.

HOUSE A DANGEROUS ONE.

"This is the third fire in Mr. Pulitzer's house in a year and a half," said he. "The other fires were started from the chimneys, but didn't amount to much. I told Mr. Pulitzer that his house was a dangerous one for fires and that if ever a fire got headway his family would have to jump from the windows inside of fifteen minutes after it started should they then be inside and no other means of escape be at hand. His house was built over from two old ones and was really dangerous. He took my advice some months ago and put in a fine fire escape. That big foyer-like hall offered the best kind of an opportunity for a fire. The fire to-day was going up through the rear and out in front at the same time. It must have been eight minutes after it was discovered before the alarm was turned in. That gave it great headway. The fire was out in about 10:30."

A telegram was sent to Mr. Pulitzer at his Lakewood residence, where he had been since last Friday. He did not come up when he learned that his family was safe, as his health, according to his valet, was not good enough to stand the journey and the strain. He did not know up to a late hour yesterday afternoon that two of his household were dead. His son Joseph, however, had started for this city before he received news of the fire, and went directly to his father's office, where he learned for the first time that the house had been burned. Mr. Pulitzer sent his valet, Dunningham, up to the city as soon as he received the news.

After the fire was out it was discovered that a pet dog which had belonged to Mr. Pulitzer's daughter, now dead, had lost its life in one of the servants' rooms. It is thought that some of the contents of the house may be saved, as some articles on a hasty examination appeared to be only slightly damaged. The first, second, and third floors are not burned out except in the centre. The fire through the hall made a straight sweep from the first floor to the roof. The upper stories are completely destroyed. The total loss is estimated at $300,000.

Late in the afternoon Mrs. Pulitzer and her children went to the Hotel Netherland, and the servants were sent to a boarding house in East Sixtieth Street. Mrs. Pulitzer sent a friend to her servants in the afternoon with word that she would buy needed clothing for them immediately.

VALUABLE ART COLLECTION.

Mr. Pulitzer said yesterday afternoon at Lakewood that he was unable to estimate his loss in books and works of art, because he had bought promiscuously in all parts of the world and had kept no record of prices.

Mr. Pulitzer has always been a lover and collector of beautiful things, and has, as one of his friends said yesterday, "an instinctive sense of what is good work in all kinds of art production." His home was crammed with paintings, bronzes, porcelains, tapestries, and rugs.

Three splendid portraits of Mrs. Pulitzer were destroyed. They were by Carolus Duran, Munkacsy, and Leon Bonnat, respectively. The work by Munkacsy was one of the finest portraits ever executed by the great Hungarian artist, and was painted when he visited this country. A fine portrait of Mr. Pulitzer was by Heinrich von Angeli, the British Court painter.

Mr. Pulitzer is catholic in his appreciation of various schools of art, and his collection included works by old and modern masters. Among the former was a small but fine painting by Franz Hals, while the latter included two paintings by Jean Francois Millet and some sketches by Bouguereau, together with works of the Barbizon and modern French schools.

The collection of bronzes in the house was a particularly fine one. It consisted mostly of modern French works, including a number of splendid pieces by Barye. There was also a large and elaborate Japanese bronze, representing Buddha seated on a lion, which was brought to this country by James Creelman after the Chino-Japanese war.

Among the most valuable objects burned were four large antique Gobelin tapestries in the reception room. They were purchased by Mr. Pulitzer in Paris several years ago, and were, considering the ever increasing rarity of fine tapestries, almost priceless.

The house itself was beautifully decorated. The dining room was specially elaborate, and when it was finished was regarded as the finest in the city. It was paneled in dark oak, richly carved, nearly up to the ceiling, and above the paneling were some of the most valuable of the pictures in the house. Hung around the central hall were several beautiful antique Oriental rugs.

It is as yet uncertain whether Mrs. Pulitzer's jewels were destroyed. They were kept in a small safe within an escritoire, and may have escaped damage. If they were burned they will represent a loss of more than the whole amount for which the house and its contents were insured. They included a splendid diamond necklace, bought at the sale of the French Crown jewels, for which Mr. Pulitzer paid $120,000, and Mrs. Pulitzer's famous pearl necklace, valued at $150,000.

The insurance, so far as was learned yesterday, amounted to $130,000 on the building and $120,000 on the contents, including household furniture. It was further reported in the Insurance offices that there was a schedule of specific insurance, covering oil paintings and art objects. The insurance on the building was distributed as follows: Liverpool and London and Globe, $100,000; London Assurance, $30,000. On contents, Liverpool and London and Globe, $60,000; Greenwich, $20,000; Commercial Union, $20,000; Lancashire, $20,000.

Boy Burned to Death in a Flat.

Joseph Hoffman, the four-year-old stepson of Michael Donahue, was burned to death yesterday morning in a small fire in the family's flat, at 1,604 First Avenue. The lad was alone when the fire started, his father and mother both having been at work. The only other member of the family, Mrs. Donahue's father, had left the flat a few minutes before the fire was discovered. The boy was suffocated and afterward badly burned about the body and face. The cause of the fire is unknown.

A NEW ELECTRIC ROAD.

Company Incorporates to Build on Long Island.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—Articles of incorporation of the New York and Nassau County Railway Company were filed to-day with the Secretary of State. The company, which is capitalized at $150,000, will operate its road by electricity. Its length will be seven miles, starting at the intersection of Main and Front Streets, in the Village of Hempstead, Nassau County, and running to the intersection of the Jericho Turnpike and the road commonly known as the Hempstead and Jamaica Plank Road, in the Borough of Queens.

The Directors are Daniel Noble, Frederick Bowley, Daniel Callahan, Matthew J. Smith, and William L. Woodill, Long Island City; Patrick J. Mara, Flushing; Joseph Bermel, Middle Village; Joseph Meyerose, Evergreens, and Edward J. McKeever, Brooklyn. The principal office is to be at Long Island City.

71ST REGIMENT ELECTION.

Capt. Hazen Declared to be Lieutenant Colonel and Capt. Linson Major.

Capt. W. L. Hazen of Company B was declared elected Lieutenant Colonel of the Seventy-first Regiment and Capt. W. M. Linson of Company D Major last night at the meeting of the officers of the regiment. At the election held last Friday Capt. Hill put in a protest on the ground that he had not received legal notice, and Col. Bates decided to hold the protest under consideration and refrain from announcing the result until last night, when he said he had decided to overrule the protest and count the ballots. This announcement brought out some vigorous discussion, and Major Smith and Capt. Hill made an appeal from the Colonel's decision.

The result of the ballots for Lieutenant Colonel stood 14 for Hazen and 10 for Smith, and for Major the vote was 17 for Linson and 9 for Wills. The appeal made by Major Smith and Capt. Hill will be forwarded to the Governor through the regular channel.

The board of officers re-elected Major Smith Treasurer of the regiment after a determined effort had been made to defeat him, Surgeon E. T. T. Marsh being nominated by Capt. Bleecker. The vote was: Smith, 16; Marsh, 14.

CARTER CASE UP AGAIN.

Court of Appeals Asked to Reverse Circuit Court's Decision.

The case of ex-Captain Oberlin M. Carter, who is at present under detention at Castle Williams, Governors Island, awaiting execution of a court-martial sentence of five years' imprisonment, came up again yesterday in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the form of a writ of error to an appeal from an order of the Circuit Court dismissing a writ of habeas corpus.

Abram J. Rose, counsel for the prisoner, argued that the Circuit Court had power to review by habeas corpus the sentence of the court-martial, and that if the sentence imposed was in excess of the statutory powers conferred the Court should have discharged the prisoner. He made particular objection to the decision of Judge Lacombe that Carter was amenable to further punishment under the sentence imposed by the court-martial after he had been dismissed from the military service and the order of his dismissal personally served on him.

Mr. Rose urged that the Court should keep the military authorities within the express powers conferred by Congress, because a trial by court-martial not only deprives the accused of the right of trial by jury, but also because from the sentence imposed there is no appeal. He declared that the order of the Circuit Court should be reversed and the prisoner discharged.

District Attorney Burnett made the argument for the defense. Decision was reserved.

Brooklyn Economizing Its Water.

As a result of the continued decrease in the water supply of Brooklyn, Deputy Commissioner Moffett yesterday set Inspectors and plumbers at work cutting off the water from public fountains, water troughs, and other places where water is not actually needed. The storage supply at Ridgewood has reached the danger point, and it is proposed to limit the consumption so as to keep the reserve supply up to the present level. Mr. Moffett sent out a notice to householders yesterday informing them of the gravity of the situation, and requesting that economy be practiced in the use of water. Mr. Moffett announces that he will hereafter require steamboats to take water on the Manhattan side.

This Store Brings

you the world's best qualities, richest designs and most elegantly finished fabrics that are produced for gentlemen's tailoring. We send to every point of the compass for the new, the original and distinctive in cloths that we can mark at modest cost.

Burnham & Phillips

Custom Tailoring Only.

Temple Court Annex, 119 Nassau St.

WIFE ACCUSES HUSBAND.

Jamaica Plain Woman Declares Her Husband Stabbed Her—He Says Wounds Are Self-Inflicted.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Sarah E. Staples of Jamaica Plain was stabbed at her home last night, and her husband, Edward B. Staples, is under arrest charged with inflicting the injury. The trouble in the family occurred before midnight, but several hours elapsed before the police were notified. The woman's condition is critical.

Staples is a member of the firm of Staples & Glover, butchers. The couple, it appears, have been married about eleven years, and each person is about thirty-five years of age. The trouble is believed to have been due to jealousy. Mrs. Staples and her husband make contradictory statements. The woman declares that her husband stabbed her with a butcher knife. Mr. Staples, on the other hand, maintains that the wound wsa self-inflicted.

Mr. Staples says that when he came home at 9 o'clock last night he found his wife in ill-temper. A quarrel arose in the course of which Mrs. Staples threw kerosene on his coat, jumped upon his hat and tore it into bits, and finally threw the kitchen clock at him. The man caught hold of her, he says, to prevent her from doing more mischief. She fought furiously, and succeeded in breaking away. She then grabbed a butcher's knife and stabbed herself.

Mrs. Staples's story agrees with that of her husband concerning the incidents following his return home, but she claims that he grabbed the knife and thrust it into her breast.

The neighbors considered Mrs. Staples a woman possessed of a violent temper, and say that the couple appeared to be jealous of each other. On searching the apartments occupied by the family the police found in a cupboard five revolvers, four of which were loaded.

MURDERS A COLLECTOR.

A Missouri Farm Hand Kills to Prevent Mortgage Foreclosure.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 9.—Wood E. Mitchell, a collector for a furniture company, tried to foreclose a mortgage on some stock on the farm of C. D. French, near Grandview, south of the city, to-day, when Thomas Westlake, a hired hand, emptied the contents of a shotgun into Mitchell's breast, killing him instantly.

Westlake had ordered Mitchell to leave the farm, but the latter refused, when Westlake procured a gun and deliberately fired.

TOBACCO GROWERS' PROTEST.

New England Association Objects to Competition with Puerto Rico.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 9.—The New England Tobacco Growers' Association adopted resolutions protesting against the admission of Puerto Rico as an integral part of the United States as a dangerous precedent, the "sure forerunner of disaster and ruin to the leaf tobacco interests of the country."

It is urged that the island should remain under the military jurisdiction of the United States for at least five years.

BULLET RESTORES HER REASON.

Woman Places Rifle Under Her Chin and Pulls Trigger with Her Toe.

GREENLAWN, L. I., Jan. 9.—Mrs Teressa Nally of New York, wife of John Nally, a truckman, made an attempt at suicide yesterday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. De Mott, in this place. She is suffering from temporary insanity.

Mrs. Nally, who had made several attempts before, was brought here that she might be more carefully watched. She evaded her watchers, and obtained a rifle. This she placed under her chin and struck the trigger with her toe, causing the discharge.

The ball passed through her chin, plowed up through her tongue and through the roof of her mouth, where it appears to have lodged. Some time after the attempt Mrs. Nally became quite rational, and gave an account of the affair to the Coroner who came to take her ante-mortem statement. The shock seems to have restored her reason, but she is in a precarious condition.

DUCK HUNTER SHOOTS HIMSELF.

Brooklyn Man Will Lose an Arm as the Result of an Accident.

WESTHAMPTON, L. I., Jan. 9.—Joseph Platt of Brooklyn was badly injured this morning in a shooting accident and will lose one of his arms. Platt, in company with George Gordon, went duck shooting off the beach, and after lying together for some time they decided to separate, in order to have better luck.

Platt rowed Gordon a considerable distance to the west and returned with the boat. After landing he reached for his gun and drew it toward him by the muzzle. He slipped and the gun hammer caught on the seat of the boat, discharging the piece, and the full charge of heavy duck shot entered his left arm at the wrist, tearing the muscles and tendons up to the elbow.

Franklin Thompson of Sing Sing and a companion, who were nearby, hastened to him. Thompson made a tourniquet, bound up Platt's arm, and stopped the flow of blood. Platt was taken to Dr. Brundage's office in a wagon and later to St. Peter's Hospital, Brooklyn. Platt was at one time a member of the crew of the cruiser New York.

DEWEY GETS A LOVING CUP.

Senator Depew Presents the Token Made of Melted Dimes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The loving cup of silver made from the melted dimes contributed by over 70,000 persons, the majority of whom were children, was presented to Admiral Dewey this morning in the parlors of the Dewey residence. Senator Depew acted as spokesman. He said the cup represented the outpouring of the gratitude of the American people, the men and the women, and particularly the little children, and in this regard it occupied a unique and notable place in the category of tributes. Referring to the fact that the cup was made from metal procured by the melting of each individual dime, Senator Depew remarked that it was perhaps fortunate that Admiral Dewey was not in politics, as the possession of the cup would then be a dangerous thing for him, as it would give a basis for a claim that the Admiral was in favor of a contraction of the currency.

In accepting the tribute Admiral Dewey thanked Senator Depew for his gracious words and said that he was overpowered by this new proof of the gratitude of his countrymen. To him the most pleasant thing about it, and one that would make him cherish it all the more, was the fact that the children of the country were so largely represented in the giving. The gratitude of the little ones, he said, pleased him immensely, and he spoke feelingly of the way they surround him on the streets and lisp out their pretty little compliments.

At the conclusion of Admiral Dewey's remarks the health of those who gave and he who received were drunk.

Wants to Tunnel the East River.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday received a petition from the New York and Long Island Railway and Terminal Company for permission to tunnel the East River and certain streets in the lower part of Manhattan and in Brooklyn for the purpose of providing rapid transit between this borough and various points on Long Island. The board decided to give a hearing on the application on Jan. 29 at 2 P. M.

WAR ON TRUST COMPANIES

State and National Banks Want Their Privileges Restricted.

Assemblyman Trainor Will Introduce Two Measures, One Providing for a Lawful Money Reserve.

The State and National banks propose to make a vigorous fight against the trust companies. Assemblyman Trainor will introduce in the Assembly to-night two bills to restrict the privileges of the trust companies and place them on something of an equality with the State and National banks.

"The trust companies have many privileges," said Mr. Trainor yesterday, "that are denied others. Only recently we have seen what great damage the failure of such an organization as the Produce Exchange Trust Company can bring about. I shall introduce the measures and push them to passage."

The bills to be introduced are the result of work done by Lawyer Martin Vogel, who has long given attention to financial legislation. It is understood that he has the backing of some of the best bank people in the city.

The first bill to be introduced by Mr. Trainor is entitled "An act to amend Chapter 37, Article IV., of the General Laws, entiled the Banking law," providing that each trust company organized under the general banking laws of this State shall at all times have on hand in lawful money of the United States an amount equal to at least 15 per cent. of the aggregate amount of its deposits if its principal place of business is located in any city of the State having a population of 800,000 and over, and 10 per cent. in other points. The amounts thus to be kept shall be called its lawful money reserve, one-half of which may consist of moneys on deposit subject to call with a banker or trust company in this State having a capital of at least $200,000.

If the lawful money reserve of any trust company shall be less than the amount required, then such trust company shall not increase its liabilities by making any new loans or discount otherwise than by the discounting of bills of exchange payable on sight, or making any dividends or profits until the final amount of its lawful money reserve has been restored. The Superintendent of the Banking Department may notify any trust company where lawful money reserve shall be below the amount required to make such amount good, and if it fails to do so within thirty days such trust company shall be deemed insolvent, and may be proceeded against as an insolvent moneyed institution.

The second bill to be introduced by Mr. Trainor is simply an amendment to the general tax law, and provides for the addition of the words "trust company or companies" after State and National banks, where taxation of the latter is provided for.

F. D. Kilburn, Superintendent of the State Banking Department, when seen at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, said: "I am not surprised to learn that bills of the character you explain are to be introduced. I expected it. But at the same time I do not care to express any opinion until I have studied the text."

Referring to legislation of the character proposed, Superintendent Kilburn said in a recent report: "The equalization of tax burdens between the two classes of institutions—banks and trust companies—if any is required, and the question whether trust companies should be compelled to carry some legal cash reserve are matters which will eventually adjust themselves or be adjusted as the result of teachings which experience will supply, and it does not follow that a lack of success in this regard would involve their depositors in losses."

Mr. Trainor said he supposed the bills would encounter some opposition. Some of his friends and himself "had suffered from the loose legislation surrounding trust companies, and it was time defects were remedied."

President Leo Schlesinger of the Mechanics and Traders' Bank, (a State institution,) said yesterday in regard to the proposed measures: "I think it an excellent idea. It will put the trust companies on a par with the banks. At present the trust companies, not having to maintain a reserve, can lend out all the capital and deposits they care to, and this gives them such an advantage that they can afford to pay interest on all deposits, and so attract depositors who might go to the banks. If these companies had to hold reserves their depositors would have protection they do not now enjoy, and which the law compels us to give them, and banks and trust companies would then be on a par."

An officer of a prominent trust company said: "I dislike to criticise the bill without seeing it, but in regard to the proposition to make trust companies hold reserves, let me say that they have hitherto been treated differently from the banks because they do a different business. The bank mainly relies on discounting paper. We do not do that. The bank must hold itself in readiness to pay a depositor all that he has deposited within a moment's notice. We have a right to demand five days' notice. We therefore do not need the same reserve on hand that a bank does."

MINISTER'S ALLEGED CRUELTY.

Classis Hears Evidence Against the Rev. J. N. Trompen of Ramseys.

HACKENSACK, Jan. 9.—The Rev. J. N. Trompen of the Ramsey's Christian Reformed Church, did not appear at the special meeting of the Classis of the church held here this afternoon to take up the charges against him. This is the second time he has refused to appear before the Classis, and one of the counts against him was his previous failure.

With reference to the charge of abuse by the Rev. Mr. Trompen and his wife of the little girl, Frances Kridler, who was for a time under their care, sworn statements of the child's father, Charles Kridler, and her uncle, A. J. Kridler, asserting that she had been inhumanly treated, were introduced. The case was not concluded, as it was desired to give the minister another chance to put in a defense. The Classis will meet again at Paterson Jan. 30.

PISTOLS SETTLE A LAWSUIT.

Mississippians Fight in Court and Three Are Dead.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Jan. 9.—Oakridge, a little hamlet eighteen miles northeast of this city, was the scene this morning of a pistol fight, in which three of the best-known residents of the county were killed.

Only meagre details of the encounter are obtainable, but it transpires that Dr. James Austin, his son, Otho Austin, and his son-in-law, R. S. Stephenson, had been arrested on an affidavit, sworn to by A. D. Rolland, charging them with whipping one of Rolland's negro tenants.

The trial was set for this morning in Justice Griffin's court at Oakridge. The trial had hardly opened when the shooting began. When the smoke had cleared away Rolland, Stephenson, and Otho Austin were stretched on the floor dead, and Dr. James Austin and a young son of Rolland were seriously wounded.

ROLLAS BUBNESS FOUND GUILTY.

The Eighth Man Convicted of Murdering Joseph Ruskofsky.

POTTSVILLE, Penn., Jan. 9.—The jury to-night found Rollas Bubness guilty of murder in the first degree in the killing of Joseph Ruskofsky and acquitted his brother, Mathew Bubness. The crime was committed on Sunday night, Sept. 24 last, at William Penn, this county. It was testified that Rollas Bubness struck his victim on the head with a hatchet, inflicting a wound from which he died shortly afterward. Seven others were in November convicted of murder in the first degree for the same crime.

Evidence was presented to the effect that a secret organization, known as the "Propenokos," to which the defendants belonged, plotted to kill Joseph Ruskofsky, who had incurred the enmity of Rollas Bubness and his brother Mathew, two members of the society. Ruskofsky was coaxed from his house into the front yard at night and the crime was then committed. The men are all Lithuanians.

Date of Asa Bird Gardiner's Trial.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—Attorney General Davies has requested Mr. Wilcox of Buffalo to name a date when he will commence the taking of testimony in the matter of the charges against Col. Asa Bird Gardiner, District Attorney of New York County. Mr. Wilcox will probably go on with the case in New York on Jan. 30.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

PHILIPPINE CASUALTIES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Gen. Otis cabled the War Department this morning two casualty reports from Manila. The first embraces the losses incurred during the pursuit of Gen. Tino's command, which effected the release of Lieut. Gillmore and the other American prisoners. It is as follows:

Deaths—Drowned, Rio Agno, Nov. 15, Newton W. Reese, Albert E. Holter, I, Fourth Cavalry; Rio Grande, Nov. 7, Clarence W. Crites, D, Third Cavalry; Rio Pasig, accidentally, Jan. 2, Anton L. Bongo, I, Thirtieth Infantry; Rio Zapote, accidentally, Jan. 1, Eli Lorrimore, A, Thirty-eighth Infantry; Camiling, accidentally, Dec. 29, William C. Bryant, Corporal, G, Twelfth Infantry; typhoid, Dec. 27, George Lehfepd, C, Twenty-second Infantry; Dec. 26, August Gruelherl, M, Nineteenth Infantry; Jan. 3, George M. Dubley, F, Fourteenth Infantry; Jan. 6, Edward I. Derry, E, Sixth Artillery; Jan. 2, Charles Harrison, H, Twenty-sixth Infantry; Jan. 4, Jefferson M. Stirewalt, E, Eighteenth Infantry; Jan. 3, William Rundy, H, Twenty-sixth Infantry; dysentery, Dec. 26, Jack Whitney, Corporal, E, Sixth Infantry; Jan. 1, Arthur J. Edgerton, L, Thirty-second Infantry; Jan. 2, James Kelly, G, Third Artillery; Jan. 5, John W. McGee, Corporal, G, Fourteenth Infantry; pneumonia, Jan. 1, Theodore Gehring, C, Fourth Infantry; Thomas J. Lyons, D, Third Cavalry; Jan. 4, William Maloney, Corporal, L, Nineteenth Infantry; malaria, Dec. 29, Reuben Weathers, L, Twenty-fifth Infantry; Dec. 30, George Burchall, B, engineers; Jan. 5, Patrick Fallon, H, Twelfth Infantry; Jan. 4, William Snyder, E, Twenty-first Infantry; pernicious malarial fever, Nov. 25, William Dance, K, Twenty-fourth Infantry; chronic diarrhea, Jan. 3, Peter H. Kean, Sergeant, H, Fourth Cavalry; inflammation of bowels, Jan. 1, William Crabtree, D, Thirty-second Infantry; aortic stenosis of heart, Jan. 3, Edward Drown, musician, K, Sixth Infantry.

The second is a list of the casualties sustained in the campaign recently opened in the south, and is as follows:

Killed in Action, near Imus, Jan. 7—Fourth Infantry, Lieut. Ward Cheney; Twenty-eighth Infantry, L, Robert Shuman, Sergeant; Fourth Infantry, C, August Horsley, August Ericson. Near Bacoor, Jan. 2—Twenty-eighth Infantry, C, Michael E. Kane.

Wounded—Engagement near Imus, Jan. 7, Fourth Infantry, C, Stanley Millard, leg, slight; Twenty-eighth Infantry, C, John Corbit, hand, moderate; A, John Barry, arm, moderate; Henry J. Flood, Sergeant, arm, moderate; Eleventh Cavalry, C, Ridgway Griscom, neck, severe; Thirtieth Infantry, F, Charles Cawetzka, both thighs, severe; Fifth Artillery, F, Terrence Money, thigh, moderate; William Protz, chest, severe; action Cabanatuan, Nov. 5, Ernest B. Barjaron, civilian in Lowe's Scouts, chest, severe.

CABINET DISCUSSES HEMP.

Considers Letters on the Question of Opening Philippine Ports.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—At the Cabinet meeting to-day the subject of the alleged corner in hemp was discussed in connection with the numerous requests which have been received to open a number of ports in the Philippines for the exportation of hemp to the United States.

Secretary Wilson said he had received a large number of letters on the subject, some favoring and others protesting against opening the ports for the purpose stated. It seems to be the settled policy of the Government to open all of the Philippine ports as rapidly as troops can be spared to garrison them.

VIOLENT TALK BY CUBANS.

Gen. Castro Advises Preparations "to Renew the Struggle."

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Jan. 9.—Gens. Rabi, Miro, Lara, and Castro were received on their arrival yesterday from Havana with great enthusiasm. More than 5,000 persons met them at the wharf. To-day they attended receptions at the Cuban clubs, and this evening a large crowd gathered in the Plaza to hear speeches detailing the results of the conferences with Gen. Wood.

Gen. Miro criticized the Governor General, but said he had faith in President McKinley.

Gen. Castro, in an incendiary harangue, advised the Cubans to prepare, if necessary, to renew the struggle against a "new and stronger enemy."

Gen. Rabi, on the other hand, said he had confidence in the purpose of the intervening to establish an independent Cuban republic.

All four of the returning delegates, on being interviewed, said that with the appointment of Gen. Wood there was fresh ground for hoping that the independence of Cuba would soon be attained.

The local press to-day, particularly the Cubano Libre, is very violent, advocating a "stiff policy." The Cubano Libre says: "All Cubans are ready to shed the last drop of blood to expel the intruders."

CREDIT FOR THE GOLD PLANK.

Claimed to be Due to the Republican Delegates from the Eastern and Middle States.

Chairman Odell of the Republican State Committee recently discovered among the papers of his predecessor, Charles W. Hackett, a statement which throws considerable light on the controversy that has been going on for some time as to the authorship of the financial plank in the Republican National platform adopted at St. Louis in 1896. According to this statement, the credit for the adoption of the gold plank belongs to the delegates from the Eastern and Middle States, who, under the leadership of Senators Platt and Lodge, combated the "middle-ground theory" favored by Mr. McKinley and Mr. Hanna and insisted upon the inclusion of the word "gold" in the financial plank.

Mr. Hanna was told of the sentiments entertained by the Eastern and Middle States delegates, and he gave the impression that this concession could not be made, because he feared that it would turn away from the party many Southern and Western Republicans, to whom the use of the word "gold" would be offensive.

"Thereupon," says Mr. Hackett's statement, "Senator Platt called a conference of the sound-money States, at which representatives were present from New York, New England, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Washington, Tennessee, Minnesota, and Illinois, these delegates agreed on taking the fight to the floor of the convention if necessary, and adopted a brief plank embodying their views. This was on Sunday night. It became evident the next day that a majority of the convention would support this action, and it was known that those who were drawing up the platform would include the word 'gold' in the financial plank.

"Mr. Lauterbach, as New York's representative, insisted that the plank should also say distinctly that all obligations of the United States should be paid in gold, and this was also conceded, on the assurance of Senators Platt and Lodge that nothing less would be accepted."

ANTONIO FERRARO MUST DIE.

Court of Appeals Decides Against the Brooklyn Murderer.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—Antonio Ferraro, the Brooklyn barber who slashed and killed Luciano Musacchio, with a razor on Sept. 4, 1898, will have to suffer the extreme penalty of the law, the Court of Appeals to-day having affirmed the judgment of conviction. The deed was committed during a drinking brawl.

REV. ALOYSIUS SCHYNS DEAD.

Was the Head of the Alexian Brothers in the United States.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The Rev. Aloysius Schyns, aged fifty-eight years, head of the order of the Alexian Brothers in the United States, died this morning of heart disease. He was Provincial Rector of the order. Chicago is situated in what is known as the Third Province, which includes the houses at Oshkosh, Wis.; St. Louis, Mo., and Elizabeth, N. J. Brother Schyns had charge of these.

He was born in Emerich, Belgium. Soon after he became of age he applied for admission to the Order of the Alexian Brothers. In 1867 he was sent to Chicago. In 1892 he went to St. Louis to become local rector, which placed him in charge of the houses at that point, but soon became Provincial Rector, and held the position for six years. His term expired last Fall, but his successor was not nominated, and he was looking forward to being selected again.

You can buy CHEAPER baking powders than

SOLAR

but they are ALUM powders. It is an absolutely Pure Cream of Tartar powder; 8 Cents a Pound Cheaper than other tartar powders, because it is NOT made by a Trust.

SOLAR

"IT RISES EVERYWHERE."

"APENTA"

THE BEST NATURAL APERIENT WATER,

BOTTLED AT THE SPRINGS, BUDA PEST, HUNGARY.

Under the Scientific Supervision of PROF. von FODOR, Director of the Hygienic Institute, Royal University, Buda Pesth.

MILLIONAIRE LOSES SUIT.

Aged Plaintiff Sued for $500,000 for Breach of Promise.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—Elizabeth Gladstone, aged sixty-three years, was awarded a judgment in the Superior Court against Joseph Boardman, a millionaire, seventy-three years old, for breach of promise of marriage.

She sued for $500,000, but the amount of the judgment is not known.

Elect R. M. Gallaway Director.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—The Directors of the Lehigh Valley Railroad met to-day and elected Robert M. Gallaway, President of the Merchants' National Bank of New York, as Director to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Justus C. Strawbridge.

SHIPPING AND FOREIGN MAILS.

Miniature Almanac—This Day.

A. M.	P. M.	P. M.
Sun rises...7:25	Sun sets...4:52	Moon rises...2:41

High Water This Day.

A. M.	A. M.	A. M.
S. Hook....2:52	Gov. Isl'd...8:29	H. Gate....5:25
P. M.	P. M.	P. M.
S. Hook....3:20	Gov. Isl'd...3:50	H. Gate....5:46

Outgoing Steamships.

TO-DAY, (WEDNESDAY,) JAN. 10.

	Mails Close.	Vessels Sail.
Athos, Colon	9:30 A. M.	.....
	*10:30 A. M.
Grenada, Trinidad	11:00 A. M.	.....
Hindoo, Hull	.....	.....
Matanzas, Tampico	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Miramar, La Plata countries	1:00 P. M.	2:00 P. M.
Noordland, Antwerp	10:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
Seneca, Havana	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
St. Louis, Southampton	7:00 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
	*9:00 A. M.
Ulier, St. Kitts	10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
U. S. transport, San Juan	10:30 A. M.	.....

THURSDAY, JAN. 11.

El Cid, New Orleans	.....	3:00 P. M.
La Champagne, Havre	7:00 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Santiago de Cuba, Santiago	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Sarmatian, Glasgow	.....	.....

FRIDAY, JAN. 12.

Algonquin, Charleston and Jacksonville	.....	3:00 P. M.
Borderer, Azores	4:00 A. M.	.....
Erna, Jamaica

The Wanamaker Store

Some Stylish Long Wraps

THESE Newmarkets and Ulsters and Raglans reach up to the tip top of style. And they are popular—if you can call the favored elegant thing "popular." But it's time that the last one of them had a wearer, so while the finer ones were $90 to $100—and two-thirds of all we have were in this higher class—they are, to-day, all

Reduced to Fifty Dollars

Women's Imported Capes are also reduced—now $25, $30, $35 and $40, though the prices have run up to $60.

This January storekeeping may not be profitable to us—it isn't except as a help to better storekeeping, but it is immensely profitable to Our Public. Are you getting your share?

A Silk Bargain Crepe Meteor. Know it? Think of the brightest henrietta you ever saw—think then, how pretty it would be if made of silk; think of crepe de chine, and it with an added glint. That's Crepe Meteor.

We sold a thousand yards of the $2.25 grade at $1.25 last week—sold it in a jiffy. To-day a lot of the grade next to that at $1 a yard. Colors are—new blue, new pinks, lavender, gray, purple and the more staple shades, as well. 24 in. wide. Rotunda.

Taffeta Ribbons All next spring's colorings. Cheap, right in the teeth of such higher prices as were supposed to bite the life out of bargains. All-silk ribbons—we sell only that sort:

2¾ inches wide, 12c a yard.
3½ inches wide, 16c a yard.
4¾ inches wide, 18c a yard.

One expert says they are worth double these prices, but he's too liberal. Say half as much again as we ask. Tenth street.

Flannelette Wrappers In dots, stripes and figures—all new patterns. Some new schemes in the making and trimming, too, that will be appreciated. A dollar for the cheapest—it is cheap. A quarter more and a half more, up to $2.50.

Flannelette Room or Night Gowns Equally suitable for either purpose. Pretty enough for negligee wear, warm and comfortable as sleeping dresses. All of these are of flannelette, in fancy or neat light stripes. New styles in making and new touches of prettiness here and there in the trimming. $1, $1.50, $1.75, $2.25 and $2.75. Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Knit Petticoats Some that are all cotton—they're 18c each. Others, a mixture of cotton and wool—65c. Then there's a large variety of all wool kinds, mostly in solid colors, light and dark shades, with pretty contrasting borders. Those of pure wool yarn are $1, $1.25, $1.75 and so on. Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Metal Bedsteads The bedsteads that serve as samples repay us at least part of their cost. So, we let you look at them and choose. But we send you fresh ones, and every-once-in-a-while we clear out the samples and oddlings, at a loss.

Want one—a brass or enameled bedstead at our loss?

Thirty of the enameled iron ones: been $6.25 to $30, but reduced—now $4 to $20.

Sixteen Brass Bedsteads, been $25 to $62.50. Now $16.50 to $40.

Almost all the sizes are included—in one lot or the other. Fourth floor.

Dinner Sets We could make money by packing these lots away for three months—for prices at present rate will have climbed much higher by that time. But we are merchants, not speculators—hence—

100-piece English porcelain Dinner Sets, $6.
100-piece sets, in antique shape—$8.50. Soup tureen and 3 platters are included.
101-piece American porcelain sets, including all important pieces, at $10.
101-piece sets of Austrian china; gilt handles—$15.
100-piece French china sets; gilt handles, $20.
100-piece French china sets at $25.

Choice of several decorations in many of the lots—and all are attractive. Basement, Broadway.

The Sale of Housekeeping Linens The sort of linen selling we do regularly, throughout the year, necessitates buying in considerable quantities. 2,000 pieces of a single quality, for instance. That's a purchase we tell of to-day. It's a lot of Flemish linen—fine, soft, satiny Courtrai flax. All of it is in our own exclusive designs. It was priced moderately. Then came this sale, and with it reduced prices. Like these:

Table Cloths, 8 sizes, from 2 yards square to 2½ by 4 yards, at $2.75 to $7.75; formerly $3.75 to $9.50.
Table Linen, 72 in. wide, at $1.25 yard, instead of $1.75.
Napkins, 22 in., at $3 doz., instead of $4; 26 in. at $4.25 instead of $5.50.
And a lot of plain Flemish linen for underwear, yard wide, at 40c to $1.50 a yard. Fourth avenue.

Mattresses and Pillows There are being combinations proposed to advance the prices of mattresses. But what of it? We make our own—and just now offer these very special values—the mattresses are to weigh 40 pounds and will be made in one or two parts as you wish—

$20 Mattresses at $16.80; all gray horse hair.
$12.80 Mattresses at $10.40; all hair.
$9.80 Mattresses at $8; mixed hair.
$7.50 Mattresses at $5.60; of short hair.
Pillows, filled with live goose feathers, blue or fancy ticking—$1.25 each.
Bolsters, $2.50.
Woven-wire Springs, the $4 kind at $3—for single or double bedsteads. Fourth floor, Ninth street.

Household Needfuls Wonderfully Cheap In the list below are many needed-every-day articles. Cut it out. Note your wants—note the savings. Worthy of a special visit. A good investment to buy for future use.

Mascot Laundry Soap, box 100 cakes, $2.
Whisk Brooms, 9c.; worth double.
Fancy Feather Dusters, 20c.; were 35c, 45c.
Step Ladders, 5 ft. high; hard wood; with bucket rest, 50c.
Tea and Coffee Canisters, 10c; were 20c.
Ironing Boards, on stand, 5 ft. long, 65c.
Scrubbing Brushes, 5c and 10c.
Can Openers, 10c; were 20c.
Combination Tables, $3.25; with bin for flour, pastry board and drawer.
Toilet Paper Holders, 50c; were $1.
Floor Brooms, 38c, 45c, 63c; half prices.
Clothes Props, 5c
Egg Poachers, 10c
Graters, 10c; were 20c
Dust Brushes, 20c
Pastry Boards, 10c
Candle Sticks, 5c
Cake Cutters, 8c
Chamois Skins, 8c
Basement.

Women's Muslin Underwear
MORE SELLING SPACE

It has been the history of the business here—your appreciation runs even ahead of our preparations. Now the second floor store is too small to hold the special lots of undergarments and you who come for them.

More room to-day—for we divide these special lots and you can find any of them in the new big section on Fifth floor. All for you, none for stores—only 3 of some items allowed to a buyer.

Cambric Corset Covers at 8c.
Drawers at 10c, 15c and 18c.
Night Gowns at 38c, 50c and $1.
Petticoats at 35c, 50c, 75c and 90c.
Eiderdown Sacques, all seams felled, 50c.
Seersucker Petticoats at 50c.

Following is a word of the second floor lots—

Gowns

38c—Muslin; square neck; yoke of fine plaits and insertion; lawn ruffle on neck and sleeves. Not more than 3 to a buyer.
50c—Muslin; yoke of plaits and embroidery insertion; ruffle on neck and sleeves.
75c—Fine muslin; yoke of clusters of plaits and rows of embroidery insertion on neck and sleeves; ribbon at neck.
85c—Muslin; clusters of plaits at neck; large collar and sleeves trimmed with neat embroidery; ribbon at neck.
$1—Cambric; yoke of clusters of plaits and torchon insertion; ruffle around yoke, on neck and sleeves, also trimmed with lace.

Drawers

10c—Muslin; deep hem and 3 plaits. Not more than 3 to a buyer.
15c—Muslin or cambric; deep hem and cluster of plaits. Not more than 3 to a buyer.
25c—Muslin; deep ruffle of cambric; plaits above.
50c—Muslin; umbrella ruffle of cambric with one row of torchon insertion and neat edge.
65c—Muslin; double ruffle of lawn, hemstitched; wide hems.

Petticoats

35c—Muslin; small cambric ruffle; fine plaits above. Not more than 3 to a buyer.
50c—Muslin; deep ruffle; hem and fine plaits above.
65c—Muslin; deep ruffle of lawn edged with neat embroidery and plaits.
75c—Muslin; deep umbrella ruffle of cambric; hem and one row of hemstitching.
90c—Muslin; umbrella ruffle of lawn with deep ruffle of embroidery.
$1—Fine muslin; deep ruffle of lawn with wide hem and 3 plaits; hemstitched.

Chemises

18c—Muslin; round neck and armholes finished with cambric ruffles. 3 to a buyer.
25c—Muslin; neck and armholes corded; open front.
35c—Muslin; square neck with neat embroidery insertion and cambric ruffle.
50c—Muslin; yoke of fine plaits and embroidery insertion; neck and armholes trimmed with neat embroidery.
65c—Cambric; square neck trimmed with torchon insertion and lace edge.

JOHN WANAMAKER.

Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co., Broadway, 4th ave., 9th and 10th Sts., N.Y.

BELIEVE MORRISON INSANE

Mount Vernon Authorities Will Have Wife Slayer Examined.

Further Developments Show More Flaws in the Dream Story Built Up by the Man.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT VERNON, Jan. 9.—The dream story built up by Prof. Morrison to account for his shooting his second wife during the night of Dec. 28, at their home, 235 South Tenth Avenue, on the strength of which Coroner Banning exonerated him from all blame, has under two days of searching inquiry completely disintegrated. The development of the fact that Morrison had two wives, one of whom died by his hand, served to turn public opinion against him, and under the white light of publicity the story of somnambulism has resolved itself to-day, according to the District Attorney and Police Department, into either the act of a lunatic or deliberate murder.

The latest developments of the case tend to the establishment of the fact that Morrison is insane, and has been so for years. Chief of Police Foley, who has brought the whole force of his department to bear on the case for several days, said many incidents in Morrison's life would tend to show this. It has been learned that more than a year ago Morrison brought his pistol into use during one of his so-called dreams.

Elias Reymon, the eleven-year-old son of Seth Reymon, a jeweler of this city, was visiting the Morrisons at their home on that occasion, and slept in the house in a bed with Morrison. Young Reymon says he was awakened by a pistol shot. Morrison, who was out of bed flourishing a pistol, a bullet from which had buried itself in the ceiling, said he had been dreaming of burglars. The police have ascertained that at no time has the man ever had any actual experience with burglars, so that his extraordinary fear of them is put down to the hallucinations of a disordered brain.

A story came this morning from the Rich Avenue house, where Morrrison is stopping with relatives, closely guarded by police, that the man had another bad attack of somnambulism last night, during which he again fought off imaginary burglars. The police do not attach too much importance to this, however, as they say Morrison, if in his right mind, might easily simulate these attacks now for a purpose.

Investigation has disclosed more flaws in Morrison's original story of the shooting of his wife. He originally told the Coroner he was lying in bed when he had the so-called death dream, and that he fired a shot at imaginary burglars. His wife was standing in line of fire and received the bullet. Dr. I. W. Ferris has said, however, that it would have been a physical impossibility for the bullet to have taken the course it did in Mrs. Morrison's body had she been standing up and he lying down, as both Morrison and his wife said was the case.

It was learned to-day that at the time Mrs. Morrison told Dr. Ferris that her husband spoke the truth she thought she had been simply shot through the arm, not knowing that the bullet had after passing through the arm re-entered the body and inflicted a fatal wound.

Morrison, at the Coroner's inquest, further stated that on the night of the shooting the family had retired at 8 o'clock, about two hours before the shot was fired. Samuel Reymon, eighteen years old, a brother of Elias Reymon, before spoken of as Morrison's friend, said to-day he called on the Morrison family with his brother about 7 o'clock on the night of the shooting and staid until 8 o'clock. The family had not had supper when he and his brother left.

Morrison, furthermore, has declared his relations with his wife had been ideal, and that they never quarreled. It has been learned, however, that on the evening of the shooting the couple quarreled about two pet dogs belonging in the family.

District Attorney Andrews of Westchester County this afternoon finished his examination into the case, and a definite move, it is expected, will be made to-morrow morning. Chief Foley said Morrison will be examined as to his sanity in any event, and Mr. Andrews will probably apply to the Supreme Court for a writ. This will act virtually as an order of arrest. Two physicians will be ordered to examine him, and should they find him insane he will be sent to an asylum. Should he be declared sane, however, it is said Mrs. Ellenberger, sister of the dead woman, still stands ready to for a warrant for his arrest on a charge of murder.

Another Alleged Bigamy Case.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Another case of plural wives has come to light in this city by a suit brought by Mrs. Bessie D. Miller against Charles J. Miller and Adam J. Pfister. Her complaint is that in August, 1897, the defendant, Miller, intending to deprive her, who is one of his wives, of any interest in certain property in this city compelled her to execute a dead of conveyance of the property to the defendant, Pfister. She now repudicates the conveyance, and declares Adam J. Pfister is a fictitious person, and that the real name of the defendant, Charles J. Miller, is Charles J. Pfister.

ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY MEETING.

Board of Managers Elected and Annual Reports Read.

The annual meeting of the New York Zoological Society was held last evening in the banquet hall of the Waldorf-Astoria. Ex-Gov. Levi P. Morton presided. The report of the Executive Committee, which was read by Prof. Henry F. Osborn, stated that the society now consists of 19 founders, 7 associate founders, 37 patrons, 83 life members, and 500 annual members. It was announced that during last year the committee had succeeded in obtaining $49,760 for the new Zoological Park, making a total sum obtained of $160,770.61.

The report declared that the city, by cutting the society's appropriation for 1900, had not maintained its agreement. The appropriation was cut down to $40,000, which is only $10,000 more than was allowed for half of 1899.

The following were elected members of the Board of Managers of the class of 1903: Ex-Gov. Morton, Andrew Carnegie, Morris K. Jesup, John L. Cadwalader, Philip Schuyler, John S. Barnes, Madison Grant, William White Niles, Samuel Thorne, H. A. C. Taylor, William D. Sloane, and Hugh J. Chisholm.

CUSTOM HOUSE VALUATION.

To Stand Unless Government Ownership Is Proved, Mr. Feltner Says.

The assessed valuation of $2,400,000 placed by the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments upon the Custom House will stand, President Feltner said yesterday, unless it can be proved that the property belongs to the United States Government.

"It doesn't make any difference in whom the title is vested," Mr. Feltner said, "for we have ample evidence that there has been a sale. The mere fact that there is no deed of record is no proof that the property has not been sold. We construe the law authorizing the sale to be evidence, when taken in conjunction with the acceptance of the National City Bank's bid, that the property has passed from the hands of the Government. At any rate, the valuation will stand, and, unless the courts prevent, the property will pay the tax. I have heard that the title is in a title insurance company, and that it will remain there until such time as the bank is ready to assume it. We are not particularly anxious to force the National City Bank to pay the tax. We don't care from whom it comes, but it will be levied unless it is proved that the Government still owns the property. So far as Mr. Stillman's statement, that we were actuated to levy this assessment by political motives, is concerned, there is no foundation for such a remark. Of course, if the case is taken into court, we will resist all efforts to vacate the assessment."

Gerard House Changes Hands.

The Gerard House, on West Forty-fourth Street, changed hands last night, when Hamblen & Hamblen took possession. Mrs. Gerard, who has managed the house for years, will retire from business, except that she will give her attention to the Hotel Glenada, at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., during the Summer months. Joseph P. and Arthur J. Hamblen, the new proprietors of the Gerard, recently disposed of the Hotel Washington, in Jersey City, but still control the Hotel Devonshire, at Asbury Park. There will be few changes in the personnel of the Gerard House for the present.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS.

Representatives of Fifty Lines at a Meeting Agree on Action to Maintain Rates.

As a result of a conference under the auspices of the Inter-State Commerce Commission yesterday, held in the Equitable Building, representatives of fifty railroads of the country pledged themselves to live up to the Inter-State commerce law, to observe all legal measures in the conduct of their traffic, and to make no secret rate, but to adhere to the regular published tariffs. All told, there were some seventy-five executive officials of the fifty roads present at the meeting, and it was said that they represented all the roads west of Chicago, St. Paul, and St. Louis—more than half the railway mileage of the United States.

Among the officials present were Chairman Miller of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul; President Ripley and Vice President Morton of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé, and President Hughett of the Chicago and Northwestern. President Jeffrey of the Denver and Rio Grande presided at the meeting, and Martin A. Knapp, Chairman of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, was present, to aid in the work of establishing the business of the roads on a better and more harmonious basis.

Yesterday's meeting was one of a series of meetings which had been arranged for, the next of which is to be held on the first Wednesday in March, when it is hoped that matters will be further progressed toward a final and permanent settlement, so that rate cutting may be entirely abolished.

THE SEABOARD AIR LINE.

Mr. Ryan Makes Public His Letter Offering $300 Per Share for Seaboard and Roanoke Stock.

Mr. Ryan, when asked regarding the offer made by his attorney, Mr. Page, in Richmond, yesterday, referred to in The Morning Sun, of $300 per share for Seaboard and Roanoke stock, answered that the shortest cut was to give the original letter, which is as follows:

New York, Jan. 6, 1900.

W. H. Page, Jr., Esq., New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir: In answer to the offer of John Skelton Williams, Esq., President of the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad Company and the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company, contained in a letter addressed to me, dated at Baltimore, Jan. 3, 1900, of two hundred dollars ($200) per share for the Seaboard and Roanoke stock owned by me, I beg to say that you are authorized on my behalf to purchase at any time and place at three hundred dollars ($300) per share any amount of the Seaboard and Roanoke stock, either common or preferred, which, together with my present holdings, will secure to me the control of the Seaboard Air Line system; provided only that there shall be restored to the treasury of that company the securities stated to have been in the treasury of that company in the sworn statement to the Corporation Commissioners of North Carolina July 1, 1898, viz.:

$742,200 Raleigh and Gaston Railroad stock.
$5,001 Columbia, Newberry and Laurens Railroad Company.
$536,700 Georgia, Carolina and Northern Railway common stock.
$250,000 Georgia, Carolina and Northern Railway Company preferred stock.
$300 Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad Company stock.
$3,000 Carolina Southern Railway Company stock.
$24,975 Seaboard Air Line Belt Railroad stock.
$6,200 Southeastern and Atlantic Railroad Company stock.
$50,000 Seaboard Roanoke and Tar River Railroad Company stock.
$1,400 Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company dividend obligation.
$187,600 Old Dominion Steamship Company stock.
$152,500 Baltimore Steam Packet Company stock.
$390,000 Carolina Central Railroad bonds.
$1,400 Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad bonds.
$46,000 Carolina Central Railroad (Shelby Division) bonds.
$600,000 Seaboard Air Line Belt Railroad bonds.

—and that there shall be restored to the treasury of the Raleigh and Gaston Company the securities stated to have been in the treasury of that company in the sworn statement to the Corporation Commissioners of North Carolina July 1, 1898, viz.:

$182,800 Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company stock.
$772,200 Raleigh and Augusta Air Line Railroad Company stock.
$192,700 Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad Company stock.
$100 Louisberg Railroad stock.
$5,001 Cincinnati, Nashville and Louisville Railroad stock.
$537,900 Georgia, Carolina and Northern Railway common stock.
$250,000 Georgia, Carolina and Northern Railway preferred stock.
$50,000 Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railway stock.
$150,000 Durham and Northern Railway stock.
$3,000 Carolina Southern Railway stock.
$24,980 Seaboard Air Line Belt Railway stock.
$474,541.08 Carolina Central Railroad Company second mortgage bonds.
$100,000 first mortgage (Shelby Division) Carolina Central bonds.

This offer assumes, of course, that the financial condition of these companies as to assets and obligations has not been materially changed since these official reports were made to the Corporation Commissioners on July 1, 1898.

The securities of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company, Mr. Williams on the 26th day of October, 1899, personally informed me at my office, were still in the treasury of that company, except that from considerations of expediency Mr. Williams had placed them in the vaults of the Richmond Safe Deposit Company, in the City of Richmond, Va., of which I believe he is President, and that the Treasurer of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company had received the certificate of deposit of the trust company for these securities. I assume this to be the fact, although I observe from the sworn reports, a certified copy of which I have since received, made by the Vice President and Treasurer of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad to the Corporation Commissioners of North Carolina on the 12th of September, 1899, all of these securities had theretofore been sold. Very respectfully, THOMAS F. RYAN.

"Have you anything to add to this letter?" Mr. Ryan was asked.

"You will observe that the par value of the securities belonging to the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, enumerated in my letter, amounts to about $5,700,000. They are worth $7,500,000, and would bring that sum at auction to-morrow.

"I object as the owner of one-fifth of the Seaboard and Roanoke stock to the dissipation of the assets of these two corporations, no matter by whom, or to the dilution of them by tying to the Seaboard Air Line system the Florida Central and Peninsular and the Georgia and Alabama Railroad, of both of which Mr. Williams is President. I think I have a right to call to account the President of the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad Company as my trustee."

"Have you any interest in the Southern Railway Company, the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Atlantic Coast Line, the Central of Georgia, or any other railroad in the South?"

"The only interest that I have directly or indirectly in any railroad south of the Potomac River, other than the Seaboard Air Line, is less than $400,000 of the mortgage bonds of the Charleston and Western Carolina Railroad."

BOSTON AND ALBANY LEASE.

The Fitchburg Commissioners Charge that Agreement Made with the New York Central Is Illegal.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—The State Commissioners for the Fitchburg Railroad, stock of which aggregating $5,000,000 is held by the Commonwealth, filed their annual report at the State House to-day. The document assumes unusual importance, as it accuses the New York Central and Boston and Albany Railroads of entering into an agreement to divert traffic from the Fitchburg. It is intimated that the arrangement is illegal, and the Legislature is asked to take steps to protect the Fitchburg Road.

After reviewing the work of the road during the year, which was exceedingly large, and also the improvements made, showing that the road last year carried 67 per cent. of all the merchandise exported over the ocean from Boston, the report, continuing, says: "It has developed that for many years a contract or agreement has been in force between the New York Central Railroad and the Boston and Albany Railroad, the effect of which has been to divert the volume of passenger and merchandise traffic which ordinarily would follow the route of the Fitchburg Railroad to the Boston and Albany Railroad.

"The natural result of this arrangement, which is by competent authorities held to be illegal, and is certainly opposed to public policy, has been to depreciate the value of the investment of the State in the Fitchburg Road.

"During the session of the present General Court the Legislature will be called upon to act upon a proposal to lease the Boston and Albany Road to the New York Central for a long term. It is not to be supposed that such a lease will be given legislative sanction until the best interests of the State in the Fitchburg Road are protected in the most ample and extensive manner. We believe it to be our present duty to direct attention to this subject, as it will be in future to exert ourselves in the same direction in the discharge of the grave responsibilities imposed upon us as the representatives of the Commonwealth upon the Board of Directors of the Fitchburg Railroad.

"The settlement of this question will permanently affect the value of the Fitchburg Railroad, and will determine the extent to which the road may serve the purposes for which the original great expenditure by the State was made."

Erie Railroad Promotions.

Additional changes in the operating staff of the Erie Railroad Company, which are to be regarded as promotions, were announced yesterday as follows: W. H. Barrett, Superintendent of the Delaware Division, in place of C. A. Thompson; C. S. Goldsborough, Superintendent of the Rochester Division, in place of W. H. Barrett; G. A. Thompson, Superintendent of Transportation of the Erie Division, with office at Jersey City.

Susquehanna's General Manager.

An executive order of President E. B. Thomas appoints C. R. Fitch General Manager of the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad Company, with offices at 21 Cortlandt Street, this city.

FUNDS FOR HOSPITAL WORK.

Annual Meeting of the Saturday and Sunday Association.

The annual meeting of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association was held yesterday in the United Charities Building. The old Board of Trustees was re-elected, with the addition of James Speyer and Henry Maillard, Jr. J. A. Stursberg was added to the Auditing Committee. D. O. Mills, John Claflin, William E. Dodge, and D. Willis James were added by unanimous election to the membership at large of the association.

There being two vacancies on the Distributing Committee, one by the death of Cornelius Vanderbilt, and the other by the election of Morris K. Jesup to the Presidency of the Chamber of Commerce, by reason of which he changes from a regular member to one ex officio, D. O. Mills and John Claflin were chosen to these positions.

Much interest was manifested in the report of Mrs. James Speyer, the Treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary. This auxiliary has set its heart on raising $10,000 in contributions from women this year, and the prospect is that with the efforts the women of the auxiliary are determined to put forth, this mark will be achieved. Last year the Woman's Fund was a little over $6,000, and already nearly $8,000 has come to hand this year. Mr. F. F. Cook, the general agent of the association, reported upon the collection at large now in progress, and predicted confidently that it would be the largest in the history of the association.

Mrs. Speyer reports the following additional contributions to the Woman's Fund:

Mrs. Vanderbilt	$500	Mrs. William Bryce	20
Mrs. Anson W. Hard	50	Mrs. C. P. Hoffman	20
Mr. H. Whitehouse	50	Mrs. H. L. Thornell	15
Mrs. W. B. Dinsmore	50	Mrs. R. Waller, Jr.	15
Mrs. I. Wormser	25	Miss Fannie Dudley	15
Mrs. W. M. Kingsland	25	Miss Laura F. Dudley	10
Mrs. Emlen N. Lawrence	25	Mrs. E. C. Cowdin	10
Mrs. Charles T. Olmstead	25	Mrs. P. Lincoln	10
Mrs. E. Asiel	25	Mrs. Butler Duncan	10
Mrs. E. C. Gregory	25	Mrs. Charles Duggin	10
Mrs. Murry Guggenheim	25	Mrs. Arthur Bissell	10
Mrs. George Crocker	25	Mrs. Daniel D. Lord	10
Mrs. G. Winthrop	25	Mrs. C. F. Ryan	10
Mrs. F. Cromwell	25	Mrs. W. H. Harris	10
Mrs. W. R. Otis	25	Mrs. A. M. Dodge	10
Mrs. Matilda B. Seligman	25	Mrs. F. Delafield	10
Mrs. J. A. Geisenhainer	20	Mrs. Samuel A. Fisk	10
Mrs. Robert Olyphant	20	Mrs. E. Winslow	10
Mrs. H. Neustadter	20	Mrs. J. A. Moore	10
Mrs. Morris Leach	20	Mrs. S. M. Schafer	10
Mrs. G. P. Williams	20	Mrs. Isaac Stern	10
		Mrs. N. Chandler	10
		Mrs. Rebecca King	10
		Mrs. J. R. Kugelman	10
		Mrs. J. B. Bloomingdale	10

MAY SETTLE SCHOOL MUDDLE.

Controller Coler Has Sent a Bill to Albany to Clear Salary Tangle.

Controller Coler has prepared and sent to Albany a bill which he thinks will have the effect of settling the present salary muddle in the Department of Education. This bill has been accepted by Senator Grady, who will submit it as a substitute for the bill he introduced on the opening day of the legislative session. It will, if adopted, amend Section 1,065 of the charter, so as to give the Board of Estimate the right to make transfers of the unexpended balances in both the general and special school funds, which at present it has not power to do.

Mr. Coler will probably go to Albany to-day for the purpose of urging the passage of the bill. The accountants who are busy on the pay rolls of the Manhattan and Bronx School Board are working night and day, and the Controller is confident that he will be able to pay the teachers off on Monday or Tuesday of next week.

MAYOR VETOES RESOLUTIONS.

Brooklyn Not to Have a $125,000 Filtering Plant.

Mayor Van Wyck yesterday sent to the Municipal Assembly his veto of the resolution changing the name of Mall Street to Van Cott Place and of the resolution appropriating $125,000 for a filtering plant in Brooklyn.

The Mayor has signed the resolution authorizing a bond issue of $305,000 to pay for work done on the Speedway. It took the Assembly nearly two years to pass the resolution, and in the meantime the contractor, James D. Leary received nearly $25,000 in interest on the deferred payment.

Municipal Assembly Work.

Both branches of the Municipal Assembly held brief sessions yesterday, but in neither was much business accomplished. Alderman Vitton offered a resolution providing for the taxing of all slot machines exposed for public use at the rate of $5 a year for each machine. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Law. In the Council a resolution providing for the laying of a forty-eight-inch water main in Brooklyn was referred to the Committee on Water Supply.

BROOKLYN'S WATER SUPPLY.

Court Decision May Prevent the Use of Long Island Sources.

A decision which is viewed as meaning that Brooklyn may have to abandon its plan of extending its water supply system on Long Island and look elsewhere for the additional water that is needed was rendered yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Second Department. The decision affirms the judgment of the Special Term, awarding damages to Benjamin F. Forbell in his action against the City of New York for damages to his land near the Spring Creek pumping station on account of the draining off of the underground water supply by the pumps of the city's water works.

Justice W. M. Smith, before whom the case was tried, decided that the city had no right to take this water, and that Forbell, who is a farmer, was entitled to damages. An appeal will be taken from the decision by the Appellate Division affirming that of Justice Smith to the Court of Appeals.

The decision is of great importance, as there are many similar cases pending against the city, and already the amount of damages claimed mounts up into the millions.

Silk Manufacturer Killed by Fall.

Louis R. Gascou, seventy-six years old, a manufacturer of silk cloth used in flour mills, died in New York Hospital yesterday afternoon from a fracture of the base of the skull. Mr. Gascou lived since last Saturday at 322 West Seventeenth Street. Yesterday, while ascending the stairs leading to his apartment, he made a misstep and fell to the bottom. He died soon after being taken to the hospital.

Employes of Koch & Co. Dance.

The H. C. F. Koch & Co.'s Employes' Mutual Benefit Association held its eighth annual entertainment and reception at the Lexington Opera House last night. It was a success, both financially and socially. About 200 couples participated in the grand march.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE GERRY SOCIETY WINS

Court of Appeals Finds Against State Board of Charities.

THREE JUDGES DISSENT

The Prevailing Opinion Holds that the Society Is Not a Charitable Association.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—The Court of Appeals to-day decided that the Gerry Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children of New York City is not a charitable institution within the meaning of the Constitution, and that it does not come within the jurisdiction of the State Board of Charities. This is the end of a long controversy between Elbridge T. Gerry, the head of the society, and the State Board of Charities. The decision of the Court of Appeals was rendered by a vote of 4 to 3. Those who voted to sustain the society in its contention that it is not under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Charities were Chief Judge Barker and Judges Bartlett, Gray, and O'Brien, and those who believed that it should come under the jurisdiction of that board are Judges Morton, Varm, and Haight. Judge O'Brien wrote the prevailing opinion, and Judge Morton the dissenting opinion.

The line of argument on which Judge O'Brien based the prevailing opinion was that, while the society was to a certain extent engaged in a work of charity, such charity as it dispensed and such care and supervision as it exercised through its agents over the children coming under its control was purely and wholly in the nature of a private work, and the corporation was in no way supported or aided by State funds.

It was clear, said Judge O'Brien, that it was not intended that the State Board of Charities should have the power of control and supervision, because the society was one of those which the Legislature made subject to visitation by the Supreme Court under Chapter 368, Laws of 1890, and that this power had been exercised.

The dissenting opinion contends that, notwithstanding the arguments advanced by counsel for the society that it is neither charitable nor eleemosynary in character, the acts of the society in procuring legislation granting it special powers and the attempt to secure an exemption from taxation tended to fix in the minds of the people and legislators the fact that it must be either charitable or correctional and reformatory. The very fact, says the opinion, that the society was exempted from taxation under the provisions of Chapter 553 of the laws of 1890 makes it evident that the State Board should exercise the powers of supervision and visitation, because the society was then classified with other charitable or benevolent associations.

The decision of the Court is: "Orders of Appellate Division and of the Special Term reversed and the motion for a mandamus denied, with costs to the defendant in all courts."

The State Board of Charities sought jurisdiction over this society under the revised legislation, which says the Legislature shall provide for a State Board of Charities, which shall visit and inspect "all institutions, whether State, county, municipal, incorporated or not incorporated, which are of a charitable, eleemosynary, correctional, of reformatory character," under Section 10 of the Revised Charities act.

The Gerry society originally procured a mandamus restraining the Board of Charities from exercising its functions, but this decision of the lower court was reversed by the Appellate Division in a unanimous decision, the opinion being written by Justice Barrett.

The society contended that it is not "a charitable or eleemosynary institution" within the meaning of legislation or the charities law.

Commodore Gerry was informed of the decision of the Court of Appeals while attending the twenty-fifth annual meeting of his society. He was warmly congratulated upon the victory, but he refused to make any comment upon it, even to his brother Directors of the society, until he had seen the text of the decision, and immediately telegraphed to Albany to have a copy forwarded to him. He said afterward at his home that even when it came he thought it very unlikely that he would say anything about it, but would prefer to let it stand for itself. He said he hoped that those who had criticised him so harshly in regard to the controversy would find something in it to cause them a twinge of remorse.

William Rhinelander Stewart, President of the State Board of Charities, said that he was surprised at the decision, but would not say anything about it until he had read it to-day.

Superintendent E. Fellows Jenkins of the Gerry society said: "We are ready now, as we have always been, to extend the right hand of fellowship to the State Board of Charities and to help it all we can with information and in other ways. We have nothing laid up against it because we have won. The society turns its first quarter century to-day, and it is quite a send-off to its twenty-fifth anniversary to have it win its case in the Court of Appeals."

FOR CHEAP GAS IN BROOKLYN.

Report that Senator Coffey Will Introduce a Bill.

Democratic circles in Brooklyn were much interested yesterday in a report that Senator Michael J. Coffey, whose relations with Willoughby Street just now are badly strained, will act with Tammany in introducing a bill in the Legislature calling for a reduction of the price of gas in Brooklyn. The bill introduced by Senator Grady calling for municipal ownership and a price of 75 cents will, it is said, be followed by one calling for seventy-five-cent gas in Brooklyn. Senator Coffey, according to report, will introduce this measure in the Senate and Assemblyman Cain, his lieutenant in the Ninth District, will introduce it in the Assembly.

Heretofore all the bills calling for a reduction in the price of gas have skipped Brooklyn. It is claimed that the reason for this is that certain members of the Brooklyn Democratic organization are deeply interested in one of the local companies and have used their influence to prevent the introduction of gas bills affecting that borough.

None of the local Democratic leaders would discuss the report that Senator Coffey intended to introduce such a bill. A close friend of Mr. Coffey's said last night that he knew nothing of any such move on the part of the Senator.

YACHT CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

New Up-Town Home Assured for the Seawanhaka-Corinthian.

The annual meeting of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club was held at Sherry's last night. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Commodore—Percy Chubb, cutter Vigilant; Vice Commodore—Colgate Hoyt, steamer Tide; Rear Commodore—Henry C. Eno, schooner Latona; Secretary—Allen E. Whitman; Treasurer—Frank S. Hastings; Measurer—John Hyslop; Fleet Surgeon—H. Holbrook Curtis, M. D.; Fleet Chaplain—W. Montague Geer, D. D.; Race Committee—Walter C. Kerr, C. W. Wetmore, Charles A. Sherman, Clinton H. Crane, and Johnston De Forest; Committee on Lectures and Entertainments—Allen E. Whitman, Jacob Wendell, Jr., and Elijah Woodward; Committee on Lines and Models—John Hyslop, A. Cary Smith, and H. M. Crane; Law Committee—Wilmot T. Cox, Alfred Ely, and W. Kintzing Post; Trustees—Herbert L. Satterlee, Frank S. Hastings, Walter T. Owen, and W. Kintzing Post.

The club has been contemplating building a house in the up-town district, and a committee has been collecting subscriptions for that purpose for some time. Up to last night $75,000 had been subscribed, which makes the building a certainty.

THE CANAL INVESTIGATIONS.

Advisory Board and Commerce Commission to Report Together.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—Gov. Roosevelt stated to-day that he was desirous that the report of the Canal Advisory Board and the commission to investigate the causes in the decline of commerce in this State should be submitted to the Legislature simultaneously because they both treated in the main of analogous subjects.

He said that the investigation of these commissions would show that the State will have to adapt itself to changed commercial conditions. New York, he said, must not be content to exist by her own size, or she will find dangerous rivals who will cut in on her commercial supremacy.

FURS! FURS!

COATS, CAPES, MUFFS, SCARFS.

Sealskin, Persian Lamb, Mink, Otter, Russian and Hudson Bay Sable, Fox, Ermine, Chinchilla, etc.

Sealskin Caps and Gloves.

MEN'S FUR-LINED OVERCOATS.

Large assortment, all sizes and styles, at lowest possible prices for reliable goods.

Sleigh Robes.

Bear, Otter, Beaver, Mink and Sable.

Esquimau Dog, $25; Japan Goat, $30.

A good Black Goat, handsomely lined, $10 to $15.

COACHMEN'S OUTFITS. LARGEST ASSORTMENT.

C. C. SHAYNE,

Manufacturing Fur Merchant.
42

SENATOR BEVERIDGE ON THE PHILIPPINES

Impassioned Plea for the Retention of the Islands.

VALUE OF NEW POSSESSIONS

Anti-Imperialists Charged with Prolonging the War.

Character of the People and the Constitutional Right to Govern Them Discussed—Mr. Hoar Replies.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Mr. Beveridge, the junior Senator from Indiana, to-day spoke at length upon the Philippine resolution which he introduced last week. The announcement that he would deliver an address embodying his observations in the Philippines attracted an unusually large number of auditors to the galleries. On the floor of the Senate every member in the city was in his seat, and scores of Representatives came over from the House.

The occasion was inspiring, and Mr. Beveridge rose to it brilliantly. His oration—for properly it was an oration—was interesting. It was replete with striking sentences and well-arranged information. Spoken with all the earnestness, vigor, and eloquence of a fine orator, enthusiastic in his subject, who rose at times to his subject with the power of passionate dramatic utterance, the speech created a profound impression upon all who heard it.

Mr. Beveridge is scholarly and refined in appearance, with a striking face and figure. Throughout his speech he was easy and natural, and entirely free from mannerisms.

He spoke rapidly and with great earnestness. When he declared with solemnity to those whose voices in America have cheered those misguided natives on to shoot our soldiers down, that the blood of those dead and wounded boys of ours is on their hands, and the flood of years can never wash that stain away," there was a deep, although suppressed sensation among his auditors.

Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) replied briefly to Mr. Beveridge. Although he did not enter fully into the merits of the question under discussion, he did not feel that some of the Indiana Senator's statements ought to go to the country unchallenged. He declared that not the American opposition to the war but the President's proclamation to the Filipinos was responsible for the hostilities. He ridiculed Mr. Beveridge's statement that the Filipinos were incapable of self-government, and quoted Gen. Otis's reports to show that they were.

SPEECH OF SENATOR BEVERIDGE.

After discussing at some length the value of the islands from a commercial as well as a strategic standpoint, Mr. Beveridge said of the Filipinos and Aguinaldo:

"It will be hard for Americans who have not studied them to understand the people. They are a barbarous race, modified by three centuries of contact with a decadent race. The Filipino is the South Sea Malay, put through a process of 300 years of superstition in religion, dishonesty in dealing, disorder in habits of industry and cruelty, caprice and corruption in government. It is barely possible that 1,000 men in all the archipelago are capable of self-government in the Anglo-Saxon sense. My own belief is that there are not 100 men among them who comprehend what Anglo-Saxon self-government even means, and there are over 5,000,000 people to be governed.

"I know many clever and highly educated men among them, but there are only three commanding intellects and characters—Aglipano, Malini, and Aguinaldo. Arellani, the Chief Justice of our Supreme Court, is a profound lawyer and a brave and incorruptible man. Mabini is the highest type of subtlety, and the most constructive mind that race has yet produced.

"Aguinaldo is a clever popular leader—able, brave, resourceful, cunning, ambitious, unscrupulous, and masterful. He is full of decision, initiative, and authority, and had the confidence of the masses. He is a natural dictator. His ideas of government are absolute orders, implicit obedience, or immediate death. He understands the character of his countrymen. He is a Malay Sylla, not a Filipino Washington.

OPINIONS FROM INTERVIEWS.

"These conclusions were forced upon me by observing the people in all walks of life in the different islands, and by conversations with foreign merchants, priests, mestizos, pure Filipinos, and every variety of mind, character, and opinion from San Fernando, in Luzon, on down through the entire archipelago to the interior of Sulu. These conversations were had informally at dinner tables, on journeys, and the like, and always under conditions favorable to entire frankness and unreserve. Their chief value is that they are the real opinions of their authors, and not prepared and guarded statements. I will read to the Senate salient points from my notes of these conversations, reserving the names of the persons interviewed, except that of Pablo Mails of Cebu, who was assassinated a week after I met him, and whose fate I will not risk bringing down on others. Their names and residences are here in this book, and will be gladly given to any Senator or to the Senate in executive session."

After reading the interviews, which were devoted largely to statements of the value of the islands and the opportunities for trade, Mr. Beveridge continued:

"Here, then, Senators, is the situation. Two years ago there was no land in all the world which we could occupy for any purpose. Our commerce was daily turning toward the Orient, and geography and trade developments made necessary our commercial empire over the Pacific. And in that ocean we had no commercial, naval, or military base. To-day we have one of the three great ocean possessions of the globe, located at the most commanding commercial, naval, and military points in the Eastern seas, within hail of India, shoulder to shoulder with China, richer in its own resources than any equal body of land on the entire globe, and peopled by a race which civilization demands shall be improved.

"Shall we abandon it? That man little knows the common people of the Republic, little understands the instincts of our race, who thinks we will not hold it fast, and hold it forever. Administering just government by simplest methods. We may trick up devices to shift our burden and lessen our opportunity; they will avail us nothing but delay. We may tangle conditions by applying academic arrangements of self-government to a crude situation; their failure will drive us to our duty in the end."

THE MILITARY SITUATION.

Turning to the military situation in the islands, Senator Beveridge insisted that the campaign had been as perfect as possible with the force at hand. The trouble had been, in his opinion, that the task of pacifying the islands had been attempted with an insufficient number of men.

"This war," he added, "is like all other wars. It needs to be finished before it is stopped. I am prepared to vote either to make our work thorough or even now to abandon it. A lasting peace can be secured only by overwhelming forces in ceaseless action until universal and absolutely final defeat is inflicted on the enemy. To halt before every armed force, every guerrilla band opposing us is dispersed or exterminated, will prolong hostilities and leave alive the seeds of perpetual insurrection. Even then we should not treat. To treat at all is to admit that we are wrong. And any quiet so secured will be delusive and fleeting. And a false peace will betray us; a sham truce will curse us. It is not to serve the purposes of the hour; it is not to salve a present situation that peace should be established. It is for the tranquillity of the archipelago forever. It is for an orderly government for the Filipinos for all the future. It is to give this problem to posterity solved and settled, not vexed and involved. It is to establish the supremacy of the American Republic over the Pacific and throughout the East till the end of time.

"It has been charged that our conduct of the war has been cruel. Senators, it has been the reverse. I have been in our hospitals and seen the Filipino wounded as carefully, tenderly cared for as our own. Within our lines they may plow and sow and reap and go about the affairs of peace with absolute liberty. And yet all this kindness was misunderstood or rather not understood. Senators must remember that we are not dealing with Americans or Europeans. We are dealing with Orientals. We are dealing with Orientals who are Malays. We are dealing with Malays instructed in Spanish methods. They mistake kindness for weakness; forbearance for fear. It could not be otherwise unless you could erase hundreds of years of savagery, other hundreds of years of Orientalism, and still other hundreds of years of Spanish character and custom.

MISTAKEN KINDNESS.

"Our mistake has not been cruelty; it has been kindness. It has been the application to Spanish Malays of methods appropriate to New England. Every device of mercy, every method of conciliation, has been employed by the peace-loving President of the American Republic, to the amazement of nations experienced in Oriental revolt. Before the outbreak our Military Governor of the islands appointed a commission to make some arrangement with the natives mutually agreeable. I know the members of the commission well—Gen. Hughes, Col. Crowder, and Gen. Smith—moderate, kindly, tactful men of the world—an ideal body for such negotiation. It was treated with contempt. We smiled at intolerable insult and insolence until the lips of every native in Manila were curling in ridicule for the cowardly Americans. We refrained from all violence until their armed bravos crossed the lines in violation of agreement. Then our sentry shot the offender, and he should have been court-martialed had he failed to shoot. That shot was the most fortunate of the war. For Aguinaldo had planned the attack upon us for two nights later; our sentry's shot brought the attack prematurely on. He had arranged for an uprising in Manila to massacre all Americans, the plans for which, in Sandico's handwriting, are in our possession; this shot made that awful scheme impossible. We did not strike till they attacked us in force, without provocation; this left us no alternative but war or evacuation."

Here the Senator outlined the work of the Peace Commission appointed by the President and its failure to bring about an understanding with the Filipinos.

"The friendly methods of peace," he went on, "have been thoroughly tried only to make peace more difficult. The Oriental does not understand our attempt to conciliate. Every effort of the commission, which did its work at Manila so earnestly, and which, with Americans or Europeans, would have so brilliantly succeeded, only delayed the peace it attempted to hasten. There is not now, and never was, any possible course but ceaseless operations in the field and loyal support of the war at home. The news that 60,000 American soldiers have crossed the Pacific; that, if necessary, the American Congress will make it 100,000 or 200,000 men; that, at any cost, we will establish peace and govern the islands, will do more to end the war than the soldiers themselves. But the report that we even discuss the withdrawal of a single soldier at the present time, and that we even debate the possibility of not administering government throughout the archipelago ourselves, will be misunderstood and misrepresented, and will blow into a flame once more the fires our soldiers' blood has almost quenched.

AMERICAN OPPOSITION.

"Mr. President, reluctantly and only from a sense of duty, am I forced to say that American opposition to the war has been the chief factor in prolonging it. Had Aguinaldo not understood that in America, even in the American Congress, even here in the Senate, he and his cause were supported; had he not known that it was proclaimed on the stump and in the press of a faction in the United States, that every shot his misguided followers fired into the breasts of American soldiers was like the volleys fired by Washington's men against the soldiers of King George, his insurrection would have dissolved before it entirely crystallized.

"The utterances of American opponents of the war are read to the ignorant soldiers of Aguinaldo, and repeated in exaggerated form among the common people. Arms and ammunition were shipped from Asiatic ports to the Filipinos by wretches claiming American citizenship; and these acts of infamy were coupled by the Malays with American assaults on our Government at home.

"The Filipinos do not understand free speech, and therefore our tolerance of American assaults on the American President and the American Government, means to them that our President is in the minority or he would not permit what appears to them such treasonable criticism. It is believed and stated in Luzon, Panay, and Cebu that the Filipinos have only to fight, harass, retreat, break up into small parties, if necessary, as they are doing now, but by any means hold out until the next Presidential election, and our forces will be withdrawn. All this has aided the enemy more than climate, arms, and battle. Senators, I have heard these reports myself; I have talked with the people; I have seen our mangled boys in the hospital and field; I have stood on the firing line and beheld our dead soldiers, their faces turned to the pitiless Southern sky; and, in sorrow rather than anger, I say to those whose voices in America have cheered those misguided natives on to shoot our soldiers down, that the blood of those dead and wounded boys of ours is on their hands; and the flood of all the years can never wash that stain away. In sorrow rather than anger I say these words, for I earnestly believe that our brothers knew not what they did."

NATIVES ARE IGNORANT.

The great majority of the natives of the islands, he continued, were incapable of understanding even the simplest form of self-government. Decades would be necessary to instruct them in the rudiments of administration as it was understood in America. Neither were the people of the islands, in his opinion, capable at present of intelligent industry. As a rule they were indolent, and their methods of the most primitive nature. They must be dealt with as children, by a strong and simple government. A Philippine civil service would be necessary, with promotion for efficiency. The men sent to rule should be of the highest type of our civilization. They should serve as examples to the people they were sent to rule. He added:

"The Declaration of Independence does not forbid us to do our part in the regeneration of the world. If it did, the Declaration would be wrong, just as the Articles of Confederation, drafted by the very same men who signed the Declaration, was found to be wrong. The Declaration has no application to the present situation. It was written by self-governing men for self-governing men. It was written by men who for a century and a half had been experimenting in self-government on this continent and whose ancestors for hundreds of years before had been gradually developing toward that high and holy estate. The Declaration applies only to people capable of self-government. How dare any man prostitute this expression of the very elect of self-governing peoples to a race of Malay children of barbarism, schooled in Spanish methods and ideas? And you who say the Declaration applies to all men, how dare you deny its application to the American Indian? And if you deny it to the Indian at home, how dare you grant it to the Malay abroad?

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTIONS.

"Senators in opposition are estopped from denying our Constitutional power to govern the Philippines as circumstances may demand. For such power is admitted in the case of Florida, Louisiana, Alaska. How, then, is it denied in the Philippines? Is there a geographical interpretation to the Constitution? Do degrees of longitude fix Constitutional limitations? Do a thousand miles of ocean diminish Constitutional power more than a thousand miles of land? The ocean does not separate us from the field of our duty and endeavor—it joins us, an established highway needing no repair, and landing us at any point desired.

"No; the oceans are not limitations of the power which the Constitution expressly gives Congress to govern all territory the Nation may acquire. The Constitution declares that 'Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory belonging to the United States.' Not the Northwest territory only; not Louisiana or Florida only; not territory on this continent only, but any territory anywhere belonging to the Nation.

"The Nation's power to make rules and regulations for the government of its possessions is not confined to any given set of rules or regulations. It is not confined to any particular formula of laws or kind of government or type of administration. Where do Senators find Constitutional warrant for any special kind of government in territory belonging to the United States'? The language affirming our power to govern such territory is as broad as the requirements of all possible situations. And there is nothing in the Constitution to limit that comprehensive language.

MONEY AND DUTY.

"Do you tell me that it will cost us money? When did Americans ever measure duty by financial standards? Do you tell me of the tremendous toll required to overcome the vast difficulties of our task? What mighty work for the world, for humanity, even for ourselves, has ever been done with ease? Even our bread must we eat by the sweat of our faces. Why are we charged with power such as no people ever knew, if we are not to use it in a work such as no people ever wrought? Who will dispute the divine meaning of the fable of the talents? Do you remind me of the precious blood that must be shed, the lives that must be given, the broken hearts of loved ones for their slain? And this is, indeed, a heavier price than all combined. And yet, as a Nation, every historic duty we have done, every achievement we have accomplished, has been by the sacrifice of our noblest sons.

"We will renew our youth at the fountain of new and glorious deeds. We will exalt our reverence for the flag by carrying it to a noble future as well as by remembering its ineffable past. Its immortality will not pass, because everywhere and always we will acknowledge and discharge the solemn responsibilities our sacred flag, in its deepest meaning, puts upon us. And so, Senators, with reverent hearts, where dwells the fear of God, the American people move forward to the future of their hope and the doing of His work.

"Mr. President and Senators, adopt the resolution offered, that peace may quickly come and that we may begin our saving, regenerating, and uplifting work. Adopt it and this bloodshed will cease when these deluded children of our islands learn that this is the final action of the Representatives of the American people in Congress assembled. Reject it, and the world, history, and the American people will know where to forever fix the awful responsibility for the consequences that will surely follow such failure to do our manifest duty. How dare we delay when our soldiers' blood is flowing?"

It was 2:28 P. M. when Mr. Beveridge completed his address. As he resumed his seat a storm of applause swept through the galleries, which was prolonged to an unusual extent. President pro tem. Frye made a passive effort to repress the demonstration, and finally announced that applause was not permitted in the United States Senate. This was greeted by laughter, in which Mr. Frye himself indulgently joined.

Meantime, Mr. Beveridge was receiving the congratulations of his colleagues and many members of the House.

SENATOR HOAR REPLIES.

Mr. Hoar had risen and addressed the Chair. He had been a careful listener to the speech of Mr. Beveridge, and for some time had been getting his information together for a reply. As soon as he could make himself heard he said that he had been delighted with the eloquence of the Senator from Indiana.

"I am glad," said he, "to welcome to the public service his enthusiasm, his silver speech, and the earnestness with which he is disposed to discharge his duty."

Yet, he said, he had listened in vain for those words which the American people have taken on their lips in solemn crises. The words "right," "justice," "duty," and "freedom" were absent from the eloquent address. The beauty and eloquence of the speech had recalled that incident in which Satan had taken Christ up into an exceeding high mountain and showed Him all the kingdoms of the world and the glory thereof and promised that all should be His if He would but fall down and worship him, and He had replied, "Get thee behind Me, Satan."

Mr. Hoar declared that practically every statement of fact in the speech was refuted by Government reports received from Admiral Dewey, Gen. Otis, and from other official sources. Where did Spain get the right to sell her rights in the Philippines? Mr. Hoar asked. Where did the United States get the right to buy and sell people like sheep? He was certain that for all the wealth and commerce and glory which he had eloquently depicted the Senator from Indiana would not have a great injustice done.

Mr. Hoar declared the Filipinos had the Spaniards hemmed in Manila and the latter were obliged to surrender.

He thought it would be necessary to revise the Constitution before those Filipinos could be bought and sold. He did not believe Mr. Beveridge would advise the American people to do this thing or to do anything so base as to strike down the infant Filipino Republic.

QUOTES FROM THE REPORTS.

The Massachusetts Senator made frequent references to and quotations from the reports of Gen. Otis and Admiral Dewey and other officers in the Philippines. These showed, he said, that when Aguinaldo arrived in Luzon from Hongkong the insurgents had an army of 30,000; in the Island of Luzon the Filipinos maintained courts, schools, municipal governments, and churches, and that peace and order prevailed pretty generally. Spanish prisoners were kindly treated.

"This," declared Mr. Hoar, "is the condition of things which it is proposed to crush under our heels. And that you call glory."

Mr. Hoar referred to Mr. Beveridge's statement that the present condition of warfare was due to utterances in this country. This he denied, and pointed out that in December 1898, the President had sent a proclamation to Gen. Otis for publication to the Filipinos. Gen. Otis received the proclamation with the statement that after full consideration of the terms "sovereignty," "right of cession," &c., he was convinced they were calculated to cause an immediate outbreak of hostilities.

Gen. Otis amended the proclamation by making the statement: "I am convinced that it is the intention of the Government of the United States to seek the establishment of the most liberal government in the Philippines."

This appeared in the proclamation published to the Filipinos, but a copy of the actual proclamation of the President fell into the hands of the Filipino leaders and precipitated hostilities. Gen. Otis had promised. Mr. Hoar said, a government to the Filipinos in which they would be able to exercise a full measure of their individual rights.

"Did he utter this promise to a people incapable of self-government—to half savages and half Spaniards?" demanded Mr. Hoar.

He thought it bold to charge those men who had opposed this war from the beginning with the responsibility of all the blood being shed. He declared there had not been a time when, if Gen. Otis had been able to give assurances of independence to the Filipinos, the war would not have terminated.

After reading some passages from official reports Mr. Hoar concluded, promising to discuss the question fully in the near future.

MR. HOAR DEFENDS HIS IDEAS.

In a Letter to Boston Newspapers He Replies to an Attack Made by Mr. Quigg.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Senator Hoar of Massachusetts made public a long letter he had addressed to the editors of some Boston newspapers, in answer to a speech made by Representative Quigg at the Essex Club last December. In this speech Mr. Quigg referring to Senator Hoar's attitude on the Philippine question declared that the Senator "wants us to skulk from our duty." Senator Hoar takes the words quoted as his text, and says, in part:

"I wish to put against this statement my emphatic denial. What I want the American people to do is to do in the Philippines exactly what we have done, are doing, and expect to do in Cuba. Let me state what I would do to-day as I have stated what I desired to do before the war broke out. I would send Gen. Wood or Gen. Miles or Admiral Dewey to Luzon. I would have him gather about him a cabinet of the best men among the Filipinos who have the confidence of the people and desire nothing but their welfare. In all provinces and municipalities where civil government is now established possessing the confidence of the people I would consult with their rulers and representatives. I would lend the aid of the army of the United States only to keep order. I would permit the people to make laws and to administer laws, subject to some supervision or inspection till the disturbed times are over and peace has settled down again upon that country, insuring the security of the people against avarice, ambition, or peculation. So soon as it seems that government can maintain itself peacefully and in order, I would by degrees withdraw the authority of the United States, making a treaty with them that we would protect them against the cupidity of any other nation, and would lend our aid for a reasonable time to maintain order and law. I would not hesitate, if it were needful, although I have not the slightest belief that it would be needful, to vote to make them a loan of a moderate sum to replenish their wasted treasury."

Senator Hoar's letter then asserts that the dispatches of Admiral Dewey and Gen. Otis (some of the latter read by him, he says, having been withheld thus far from the public knowledge,) establish beyond reasonable doubt that Aguinaldo is an honest, patriotic, and brave man, and that he was the chosen leader of the people of the Philippine Islands. He contends, also that the people have from the beginning desired independence, and desire it now, and that this desire was communicated to the American commanders when they gave them arms, accepted their aid, and brought Aguinaldo from his exile, when he was put in command of 30,000 Filipino soldiers, who were already in arms and organized. Senator Hoar maintains also that the people of the Philippine Islands, before the Americans fired upon their troops, had delivered their land from Spain, with the single exception of the town of Manila, and that "we could not have captured the Spanish garrison, which was done by an arrangement beforehand upon a mere show of resistance, but for the fact that they were so hemmed in by Aguinaldo's forces and could not retreat beyond the range and fire of the guns of our fleet."

The Senator asserts further that "the outbreak of hostilities was not their fault, but ours. A patrol, not a hostile military force, approached a small village between the lines of the two armies, a village on the American side of the line of demarkation to which some of our soldiers had been moved in disregard of the rule applicable to all cases of truces. When this patrol approached this town it was challenged. How far the Filipinos understood our language, or how far our pickets understood the reply that they made in their own language, does not appear. But we fired upon them. The fire was returned from their lines. Thereupon it was returned again from us, and several Filipinos were killed. As soon as Aguinaldo heard of it, he sent a message to Gen. Otis saying that the firing was without his knowledge, and against his will; that he deplored it, and that he desired hostilities to cease, and would withdraw his troops to any distance Gen. Otis should desire. To which the American General replied that as the fighting had begun, it must go on."

Continuing, Senator Hoar asserts that "on the 28th of December, 1898, the two sides being at peace, President McKinley sent to Gen. Otis a proclamation which he commanded him to issue, but which Gen. Otis found it necessary to amend by striking out everything in it which contains a purpose to assume sovereignty or protection, and which was significant of future political domination. But unhappily Gen. Otis's proclamation was frustrated. In the meantime he had sent a copy of the President's proclamation to Gen. Miller, who was lying opposite Iloilo burning for a fight, and who, much to Gen. Otis's distress, as his dispatches show, published it."

MR. HOAR SEEKS INFORMATION.

Fathers a Resolution Asking the President for Documents Concerning the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Senator Hoar of Massachusetts to-day introduced the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the President be requested, if in his judgment, it is not incompatible with the public interest to communicate to the Senate all communications which have been received by him, or by any department or officer, civil or military, from Aguinaldo or any other person undertaking to represent the people in arms against the United States in the Philippine Islands, or any alleged Government or public authority of said people, and all replies to such communications. Also the proclamation sent by him to be issued to the people of the Philippine Islands, as actually directed by him to be issued, and the same as actually proclaimed by Gen. Otis, if in any respect it was altered or any part of it was omitted.

"Also, to inform the Senate whether any approval or disapproval was expressed by his authority, or that of the War Department, of such change, if any.

"Also, all constitutions, forms of government, proclamations issued by Aguinaldo or any Congress or legislative assembly or body claiming to be such, or convention of the people of the Philippine Islands, or any part thereof, or claiming to represent them or any part thereof, of which information may have come to him, or to any department of the Government.

"And that the President be further requested to communicate without delay so much of said information as is now in his possession or in that of any department at Washington, without waiting to obtain so much of said information as may require considerable delay or communication with the Philippine Islands, and to communicate the remainder of the information as soon thereafter as it can be obtained."

Mr. Hoar endeavored to secure immediate consideration for his resolution, but on objection it went over until to-morrow.

MR. RAWLINS HAS A RESOLUTION.

It Calls on the President for Information About the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Senator Rawlins (Dem., Utah) introduced a resolution to-day which was referred to the Philippine Committee, directing the committee to inquire into and report:

"1. What form of government, insurgent, revolutionary, or dictatorship, other than that of the Kingdom of Spain, existed in the Philippine Islands prior to Dec. 10, 1898, and to what extent Spain had actual control of the islands?

"2. Can sovereign power be justly and in accordance with international law be claimed in the absence of power to control?"

PACIFIC CABLE IS DISCUSSED.

New Yorkers Urge Congress to Favor Private Enterprise.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The House Committee on Commerce gave a hearing to-day to Messrs. Scrymser and Baylies, President and Vice President of the Pacific Cable Company of New York, relative to the laying of a transpacific cable. Mr. Baylies contrasted the opposing ideas of a Government cable and one under private control, maintaining that the private ownership would prove more advantageous to the Government. The plan of his cable as outlined was for a line to Honolulu, Midway Islands, Guam, and Luzon, with a branch line from Guam to Japan, a total of 8,285 miles.

Admiral John Irwin, retired, and Francis B. Thurber, President of the American Export Association, spoke in favor of private ownership of cable routes.

The committee fixed Jan. 23 for a hearing of Government officers relative to the cable, and also adopted resolutions asking the Secretaries of War and of the Navy for full information.

GOVERNMENT FOR PUERTO RICO.

Senator Foraker Makes a Number of Changes in His Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Senator Foraker has made a number of changes in his bill providing a government for the Island of Puerto Rico. One of the most important is a provision defining citizenship in the island.

This provision grants citizenship to all subjects of Spain who were residents of the island on the 11th of April, 1899, and have continued to be such, and who by the 11th of April next have not signified their desire to preserve their Spanish allegiance.

Opposition to Bynum's Confirmation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Senate Committee on Finance had the nomination of W. D. Bynum to be General Appraiser at New York under consideration to-day, but failed to act, owing to the opposition of the Democratic members. They based their objection on the ground that he was named as a Democrat, which they claimed was a false designation.

Congressional Notes.

The House was not in session yesterday.

In the Senate yesterday a bill was introduced by Mr. Fairbanks extending the immigration, contract, labor, and Chinese exclusion laws of the United States to the Hawaiian Islands.

Senator Penrose yesterday introduced a bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the construction of public roads in the United States, the money to be distributed among the several States in proportion to the mileage of their roads.

Senator Allen yesterday offered a resolution calling upon the Secretary of War for information as to the names of transports, the persons from whom they were acquired, the prices paid, and all other information relating to the transport service. The resolution was adopted.

The subject of legislation concerning trusts was discussed by the House Committee on Judiciary yesterday, but no action was taken. The proposed Constitutional amendments on trusts have been referred to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Overstreet, Littlefield, and Lanham, and the bills on trusts to Messrs. Jenkins, Kahn, and Terry.

The House Committee on Territories has decided to take up the Hawaiian bill next Monday, when Gen. Hartwell of Hawaii and Mr. Hitt of the Hawaiian Commission will be heard. Alaskan legislation will be the next considered, and after that dates will be fixed for hearing the claims of Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Arizona for admission to the Union.

The House Committee on Naval Affairs organized yesterday and selected Representative Foss of Illinois as Acting Chairman pending the absence of Mr. Boutelle. The various naval measures were referred to sub-committees, except those relating to Admirals Sampson and Schley, which were left to be dealt with by the full committee.

Anxiety About Gen. Greely.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The following statement regarding Gen. Greely's condition was given out to-day: "Gen. Greely's condition is still a cause for anxiety. The superficial wound is healing well, but the symptoms of shock and concussion of the brain have not disappeared.

If clothes could write their autobiographies those we make would tell of perfect satisfaction. If yours would write otherwise, money back! Our remnant sale gives you a rare opportunity. Suits formerly $16.00 to $30.00, now $14.00; trousers, $5.00 to $10.00, now $4.00; Raglan overcoat, gray cheviot, to order, $25.00; Prince Albert, Tuxedo or full dress coat and vest, silk lined throughout, $22.00.

ARNHEIM,

OUR ONLY STORE,

BROADWAY & 9TH STREET,

DEWEY'S CLAIM IS ARGUED

Question of Bounty for Destroying Montojo's Fleet.

RELATIVE STRENGTH IS SHOWN

Attorneys for the Admiral and His Men Assert that the Spanish Force Was Superior.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The claim of Admiral Dewey and the officers and men of his squadron for bounty arising out of the destruction of Montojo's fleet in Manila Bay was argued before the Court of Claims to-day. William B. King and Herbert & Micou appeared for the claimants and Louis A. Pradt, the Assistant Attorney General, for the Government. The question at issue was the total amount of the bounty to be paid under the statute providing for the payment by the Government of $100 each for every man aboard vessels destroyed in battle where the force of the enemy is inferior and $200 where the force of the enemy is superior. The contention of the claimants was that the force of the enemy was superior at Manila Bay.

Mr. King made the opening argument. He pointed out that the claim before the court only pertained to the vessels destroyed, and not to those captured. The claim for prize money was before another court. Of the twelve Spanish vessels, aside from the torpedo boats, in Manila Bay, one was not injured, but was captured. The others were all sunk, but the sinking resulted in the destruction of only eight ships, three having since been raised and restored to service. Mr. King explained how the amount of the bounty upon the eight destroyed vessels was calculated. He referred to some scattered evidence that the regular complement of these Spanish ships was exceeded, and then to the report of Admiral Montojo to show that when he went to Subig Bay, just prior to the battle, he had aboard five ships 1,875 men, whose regular complement was, by the official records, 939.

NUMBER OF SPANIARDS.

The explanation of the doubling of the complements was that it was for the purpose of providing prize crews for the American vessels when captured. As a result of his calculations, he figured that there were 1,914 men aboard the vessels destroyed. The bounty due Admiral Dewey and his men, therefore, would be $382,800, or $191,400, according to whether the force of the enemy was superior or inferior to Dewey's. There might be a contention in determining the strength of the enemy that the shore batteries and subterranean mines should be excluded, but Mr. King argued that the whole of the enemy's strength should be considered in determining this question.

In number of vessels alone the Spaniards were superior. In discussing the strength of the guns on each side, he contended that the guns ashore were superior in efficiency to those afloat because their platforms were fixed. Rear Admiral O'Neil of the Bureau of Ordnance estimated this superiority at 50 per cent.

Other witnesses increased the disparity. Admiral Dewey placed the superiority at 2 to 1. Capt. Mahan at 4 to 1, and a French authority estimated that a gun ashore was worth a vessel afloat.

